First EOP WAAC Here for Visit Sets Area Agog

Lt. Alice Pichon Describes Army Life for Girls

All EOP women left their typewriters AWOL to get a look at Lt. Alice Pichon of the U. S. Army, first employee to leave for the WAACS and the first to pay a return visit.

After giving Lt. Pichon's all-wool uniform and honest-to-goodness leather shoulder bag the once-over, every woman was filling out a mental application at the nearest recruiting station.

Alice cheerfully answered all questions puzzling civilian women about the WAACS. For example, the gold bar on her shoulder means that she is a third officer and is addressed as lieutenant. She is not on furlough, but ten-day officer's leave. All women enter the WAACS now as auxiliaries at $50 a month and officer material is selected from them. WAACS are not trained in the use of firearms.

Four months ago Alice was a girl in a white uniform supervising the private dining room at the Cafeteria. Today she is an army officer ready to supervise army mess halls, thereby releasing a man tied to the apron strings for active service.

Hours Are Long

Consider these facts before you throw your alarm clock out the window and acidly tell your husband that the Army will appreciate your cooking. When Alice finished her basic training she took a special officers' mess course which prepared her for future assignments. The outline of her typical day makes a 48 hour week look like a real pink tea party. This is the Army, Miss Jones. Up and at 'em at 4 o'clock (a. m., not p. m.), dress in the dark so the 5:30 risers aren't disturbed, make your bed and straighten your area (it's still dark). Then heigh-ho and off to work you go in the kitchen from 5 until 12:30 noon. That afternoon nap doesn't enter the life of a WAAC. There are daily classes from 1:30 to 4:30. Nothing to do after classes but cram for the inevitable four-hour exam and prepare a term paper.

But the spartan feat comes once a week when an extra eight-hour stint is required at the consolidated mess hall (the largest mess hall). Alice started in again at 10 at night and worked until 8 the next morning. And you don't have to have advanced calculus to figure that that rounds out 28 hours without hitting the hay. Frailty, thy name is not WAAC.

Of course, if the business of bakers and cooks sounds a little too tough for you, you might lend your talents to the two other major divisions of work done by the WAACs, motor transportation and administrative. If you're an officer you only have to worry and supervise the work done by auxiliaries. The bitter is mixed with the sweet. The officer gets a private room in the officers' quarters, has no hour restrictions when off duty and gets to date commissioned men.

The biggest difference between Army life and civilian life is Army courtesy and discipline. That salute, with the same requirements as the men's army, takes hours of practice before a mirror. The WAAC must salute whether she is in civilian clothes or uniform. Civilian clothes may be worn off the post if off duty. Contrary to rumors circulating about the men's Army, KP duty is not given as punishment.

Praises Women Workers

Officers are not subjected to formal inspection, but somebody has a word or two to say about an unpressed uniform. That razor edge press is not put there by a solicitous tailor, but by the WAACS' own work with a pressing cloth and iron. Make-up and nail polish must be inconspicuous and those glamour locks must clear the collar.

After EOP took a look at Alice, she took a look at EOP. She made her first visit to the lines. "Although the women here aren't an organized unit as we are, everyone is sincerely impressed by the fine work that they are doing. Pictures in The Bomb-Shell showing women doing men's jobs have won the admiration of all of us," said Lieutenant Pichon in tribute to EOP's women workers.

And do women like the Army? With the number of women that find their way to Fort DesMoines every day, drafting is not a thing of the immediate future.

LORRAYNE OSTREM
Correspondent

It was just learned that Lloyd Baughman of Group 2 has three sons in the service.

Bob Mobus left Group 2 to go to Group 1. There are girls working in Group 1.

According to the papers a few inspectors may come back from the Army. Clem Birch, among others, for being over 37.

Walter Houdlett's case of housemaid's knees is fully recovered. Walt and the doctor are feudin'.

Tom Todd says you're 1A if you can hear thunder or see lightning —or, so the draft board told him.

Ody Golden's winter complexion has more color than W. C. Field's nose.

Ira Pearson's new cap makes him resemble a woodpecker (with inspector's green pants). In that cap he'll never be shot for a moose.

It is reported that Bob Schmitz is going to recommend Bob Lehnig and Roger Lotz for Chemical Warfare School.

Betty Roge, former inspector in Group 8, is now employed by Lockheed in California making wings for airplanes.

Notice that big smile Lucille Dobak is wearing lately? That goes with a letter from the boy friend, and along that line, Julia Seelinger heard from her husband, too. He's somewhere in the Pacific.

A number of Ordnance Department inspectors were transferred to the S. & P. Inspection Department November 16. Among them are Lawrence Meyers, Inert Storage; Homer Peters, High Explosive Areas, and Jerry Shirtino, their assistant.

Flexible War Production Is Victory Need

Commanding Officer Explains Necessity For Quick Changes

"Since war is fluid, our war production must be flexible," said Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, commanding officer, in a statement to EOP employees.

Major Haber's statement follows:

"War, on the production line and the front line, is constantly changing.

"It would be grand if we could unroll a 100 per cent detailed plan of victory and tell ourselves; we will fit each man and woman into one special job and keep them there for the duration.

" 'We will fight this war exactly thus and so; we will handle war production exactly this way.'

"It just can't be done.

"After nearly a year's defensive fighting, we have begun a vigorous offensive against the Nazis and the Japs.

"Each day's offensive fighting brings with it new requirements for the weapons of war. These new requirements of the Using Arm place a changing demand upon us to be as flexible in our production as combat troops are in utilizing what we produce.

"Generally speaking, we must now emphasize the weapons of offense and ease off on the weapons of defense.

"The English have slackened production of anti-aircraft ammunition because 20 consecutive days recently passed without a single anti-aircraft gun being fired in the British Isles.

"Elwood is so close a part of the War Production Plan that its scheduling must reflect these changes as promptly as a thermometer reflects temperature change. It is sometimes confusing, but our contributions to the total plan will be in large measure determined by the willingness and understanding with which we adapt ourselves to these variable needs of the war as it progresses.

"We too are letting the course of war shape the use we make of our limited raw materials.

"Lately, the Army Air Forces have been getting the benefit of certain plant facilities which had been devoted to the Ordnance Department's mechanical time fuze program. It was wise and prudent to make this rearrangement. Elwood is one of these.

"Since war is fluid, our war production must be flexible.

"Some plants have surpassed our greatest expectations and their tremendous output has had to be balanced with the rest of production.

"We have avoided such things as turning out 100,000 steering wheels for 50,000 jeeps or 30,000 Bofors gun carriages for 20,000 Bofors guns. We have kept tank and gun production in line with the building of enough cargo ships to get them to the fighting fronts.

"All this means change, but it is not change based on confusion in the minds of our leaders. They have learned what we need to win our common victory. It is up to us to give them what they ask unselfishly that we may say honestly 'we too are combat troops.' "

Wishing You All a Victorious New Year!

NO, NOT A PICTURE of Scorchy at the age of six months, just a photograph of any youngster facing this puzzling year of 1943. It was selected from a large number of suggestions for the Page One spot of the January 1st issue of THE BOMB-SHELL because it seems to tell a story without words.

Names of Employees In Soldiers' Letters

If you're not reading the letters from former EOP men now in the armed forces on Page 3 of each issue of The Bomb-Shell, you're passing up a feature which has all the drama, humor and pathos of fiction . . . yet every word is true. The service men describe their daily life here and abroad, report their progress, reveal their hopes and aspirations, write poems, send greetings to specific individuals and ask for letters in return. You really can't afford to miss this regular feature. If your name is mentioned and you want the address of the writer, call The Bomb-Shell office . . . extension 4206 . . . and it will be furnished gladly.

A Resolution for the New Year:

We are determined that before the sun sets on this terrible struggle, our flag will be recognized throughout the World as a symbol of freedom on the one hand and of overwhelming power on the other.

Gen. G. C. Marshall

"T" Flag Awarded to EOP for Bond Buying

The bright blue flag flying just below Old Glory on the pole at the entrance to the Administration Building is called a "T" flag and was awarded to EOP because 10 per cent of their weekly earnings are being invested in War Bonds by the workers. The flag shows a minute man on a blue field.

Workers' Cars Now Carry Four Riders

The "Share the Ride" program at EOP is a success, with cars used for going to and from work carrying an average of almost four riders, it was announced by the Labor-Management Committee following a survey made December 15.

Average number of riders a car for each shift are: 11:30 p. m. to 7:30 a. m.—3.5; 7:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.—3.9; 3:30 p. m. to 11:30 p. m.—4.1, for an overall average of 3.8 riders a car.

The average for all shifts in a survey made November 17 was 3.6 riders and members of the committee are pleased with the increase. Surveys are to be made monthly.

Budget Fixing Is Important For '43 Taxes

Payroll Deductions For Victory Tax to Begin January 7

Taxes will take a bigger part of each person's income during the weeks of 1943 than ever before, it is revealed by a table prepared in the comptroller's office with a view of giving each EOP employee a vivid picture of what will happen to his earnings next year.

The table totals the amounts citizens will pay for the Victory Tax, the old age benefit deduction and income tax. The Victory Tax can be figured accurately, as it is a deduction of 5 per cent from what you earn more than $12 a week. This deduction will begin next Thursday, when the first tax will be collected by the management for the Government on earnings of this week. This deduction will be made weekly throughout the year.

The old age benefit tax, likewise, is a payroll deduction. You are paying it now and have done so for several years. It is 1 per cent of your total earnings.

The income tax, however, can be estimated only, because there are so many variations in the exemptions and deductions available to each individual. Three classifications are set up: single persons, married persons with no dependents and married persons with two dependents. There are numerous others, of course, but the three selected can be used as a guide or estimate for the remaining.

Earnings for 1942 will not be reported until March 15, when income taxes will be computed and their payment will be due. Unless changes in the law are made between now and then, income taxes will be handled in 1943 as heretofore . . . in other words, quarterly payments will be possible.

Income taxes were included in the table of costs because, although they are a tax on what was earned in 1942, they must be paid in 1943 and therefore represent a direct cost on what you make in 1943.

Many persons are setting up a budget based on the higher taxes of 1943 and scaling their expenditures for other purposes to fit the lower net figure.

Regardless of what may develop in Congress in the next few weeks, it will be an act of wisdom for anyone to consider his tax situation at once and set up a new budget accordingly.

A Few Words to Absentee Employees

Absenteeism is not unusual at Elwood Ordnance Plant. However, we believe the peak was reached on Saturday, December 26, 1942, when 2,877 employees preferred staying away from their jobs to doing their part in the efforts to meet this plant's obligation to the men who are on the fighting fronts.

The statement has been made that man for man and woman for woman, this section of the United States exceeds any other section of our country in intelligence and devotion to the principles for which this war is being fought. We wonder! Do you wonder?

The Bomb-Shell is received by most of the more than 2,000 men now in the armed services who formerly gave their energies to making this plant a success. It is being read by enemy agents who will be glad to report that 25 per cent of the people engaged in war work are more interested in their personal comfort than in victory of our armed forces. It will make pleasant reading to whom? Do you think the soldiers will like it? Do you think the Axis agents will like it? Take your choice.

It occurs to us too, that there is something radically wrong with your point of view. Is this not your war? Or is it the other fellow's war? Is it a sons' war and not a fathers' war? Is this country and its way of living being preserved for you and your children or for your neighbor and his children? Do you think you and your children will escape the results if we should be so unfortunate as to lose this war? Do you know that the only way we can win is to work together with all the energy we possess?

Just think this over you 2,877 absentees! Talk the subject over with your family and arrive at a considered opinion.

There are many fine men and women who are glad to make every sacrifice in order that this plant may discharge its obligation. If they are required to work harder in order to accomplish the desired ends because you prefer to "take it easy," have no fear, they will do it. But they have a right to know what is expected of them. Your supervisors have a right to know what they can expect of you in the way of strict attendance. Will you please think this over, too?

Congratulations, Neighbors!

Speaking in behalf of the commanding officer and his staff, the Sanderson & Porter organization and all the men and women soldiers of ordnance at Elwood Ordnance Plant, The Bomb-Shell extends cordial congratulations to neighboring Kankakee Ordnance Works on its possession of the highly-prized Army-Navy "E" award for war production. The flag flying above the plant and the individual "E" emblems worn by each employee are high honors and we are proud of our neighbors.

The Burning Pit

By Mrs. Scorchy

I know you will all be dreadfully sorry to learn that your dutiful scribe and my one and only husband is sick in bed and unable to pour forth what he thinks are his very uplifting remarks to you, his Public, in this issue of The Bomb-Shell.

Although I haven't consulted the family's prolific (to me terrific) paragraph builder, I am sure it is my duty to bring you at this time what would undoubtedly be his enlightening message-of-the-day, if he were but able to sit up, take nourishment and sputter forth with his usual mess of wordy wisdom.

And now for a few words about Scorchy himself. It goes back to the day before Christmas when he had an extremely busy day at the plant. I think it is a shame the way they work that poor man. He was scheduled to work until 3:30 p. m. on that Yuletide threshold, but, mercy me, he did not get home until 8 p. m. and with his health impaired.

It seems that during his heroic efforts to keep EOP at the front of the parade, one of those nasty shells rolled against his ankle and the poor dear had considerable difficulty making his way up the narrow path to our little Nifty Niche In the Dell. As though his injured ankle were not enough grief for the day before Christmas, he was also suffering from "the powder" which had a peculiar action on his throat. It sounded to me like hiccups, but with that innocent look in his eyes, he told me he had been peering into a mixing kettle that afternoon, and had breathed in some of the fumes. He was a bit drowsy, and even though the Christmas tree was yet to be trimmed, it seemed only a loving wife's duty to let the poor exhausted man have his 40 winks before thrusting him into his Christmas Eve chores.

His sleep was restless, punctuated with frequent elevations of a crooked right arm, and nasty references to a gentleman by the name of Finn. I think Mr. Finn's name was Michael or Nicky, probably Nicholas, but to tell the truth the pronunciation was not very clear. I am sure in my own mind that this despicable person, Mr. Finn, was one of those nasty men who tried to keep my darling Scorchy from setting another production record at EOP.

Further along, in this somnambulant soliloquy, other Elegant, Omniscient Personages (isn't that cute—E—, O—, P—) were mentioned. There was some difficulty in understanding them clearly, but it seems as though he was talking about such famous ones as Milton McShane and Bernard Treitel, for whom Scorchy seemed to have no time whatsoever.

The next victim of this partially audible indictment was a fiery demon whose name at first sounded like Clockwork, but maybe it was Lockwood, at any rate, there was a quick connection between this gentleman and Simon Legree, but you know how a man is when he is sick, to say nothing of being delirious.

Came the dawn, the Christmas tree was still untrimmed, but it was such a relief to learn that your and my Scorchy had that last evening been suffering only from a severe case of occupational indisposition. It is true he could partake of only a small bit of the Christmas goose which we had planned for those many weeks, but the realization that my idol was recovering from such an heroic struggle of the previous 24 hours made it a delightful pleasure to render unto him many doses of fizzing medicines (I don't know much about those funny drug store names) which he prescribed for himself with seemingly masterful confidence.

During those sunny days of convalescence, I learned much about EOP that I had never known before. There was never any doubt in my mind that Scorchy has gone unrecognized these many months and those bedside filibusters of his served only to prove it.

He and I are agreed that there is no good reason why he should not be appointed Assistant Superintendent of Feed-the-Corn-to-the-Pheasants under the joint supervision of Mr. Clockwork (Lockwood) and Mr. Manchester; failing in that important appointment, his literary talents could be used as Editor-in-Chief of "How-to-Write the Right Letter to Mr. Harrison Smith or Mr. W. E. Canniff"; his ten-year old subscription to "Commercial Law in Ten Easy Lessons" should make him an excellent candidate for the job of "Advisor on How to Get Your Check When Comptroller John J. Cole Has a Garnishee Notice Against It" (I'm told that's a neat trick, my friends).

As this paragraph leaps into print Scorchy is now asleep and from here on I am on my own. He is resting peacefully—and wasn't it a Merry Christmas!

I have written . . . a poem!

Personnel Data

Each morning 'bout 9 we begin with glee,
And open the doors of personality,
With excitement we wait for our first customer,
And discover he's in search of a mere transfer.

Next comes the man with blood
in his eyes,
Angry, disgusted and full of despise,
We question and examine his case three-fold
To determine which doctor shall cure his cold.

You no sooner be seated, the telephone rings, Numbers, names and groups are important things,
We serve and service all kinds of ills
From badges and tires to unpaid bills.
Courtesy is the watchword and motto for us;
Be pleasant and cheerful without too much fuss;
This department is the beginning and end
Of every man's desire to aid and defend.

A Mother's Prayer

You gave him to me, God,
A tiny baby boy,
A life to love and cherish,
To let nothing destroy.

He was my everything,
That little baby boy,
My hopes, my dreams—
And above all, my pride and joy

Today he marched away,
A gun across his back,
A smile upon his lips,
And, my heart within his pack.

He's brave and true—
He'll make me proud, I know.
Loyal and courageous—
Just waiting his chance to go.

And if it be your will, God,
To take him back with you,
I'll keep my memories here,
And wait till you call me too.

—Wanda Merritt
Group 1

One and Three

Took a little trip
To see what I could see,
Saw 'em large and small
Each group from 1 to 63.

Saw what they did in 64,
Saw what they did in 2,
But as for me, you should see
Those explosives of 1 and 3.

Went through the Inert Stores
Which is a sight to see,
But nothing there can compare
With the explosives of 1 and 3.

Receptionists and stenos
Sure look good to me,
But lady clerks really work
On explosives in 1 and 3.

Our work is essential
As you will see,
But for a bomb to give 'em hell
Hats off to Number 3.

Huns, Japs and the Wops,
Take this tip from me,
I'm not lying, we keep 'em dying
With shells for Victory.

—Harold "Tennessee" Sublett
Guard, Group 1

P-ride

Oh, they gathered their bombers together,
Then they blitzed Mr. Hitler in glee!
And there wasn't a dud in the whole d——d load . . .
For their labels read "E. O. P."!

Sure, they hammered the heck outa Rommel,
When they crumpled his tanks,
Glory Be!
And the babies that did all the damage, they say . . .
Were those pie-pans embossed
"E. O. P."!

From the Solomon Islands to China,
Or from Kiska to far off Bombay;
Fighting men, you can bet, are all
SURE when they get Ammunition that's stamped
"E. O. P."!

GROUP 3

NORBERT McLUCKIE
Correspondent

Henry Risk has his "B" gasoline ration book now. He said, "Between hitch-hiking and sprinting a mile or two, I will have enough gas to get to work."

Frank Cassidy is well satisfied with his landing in Group 3. Bill Maher works close to Frank and claims to know this is true.

Memories of Yesterday

Ducks, pheasants and quail are a thing of the past unless, of course, one of the gay nimrods sneaks out to his favorite brush patch when the game warden is gone. Speaking of "wardens," head machinist Vern Worden is putting on weight (maybe because he doesn't get enough exercise since the hunting season has ended).

"Seats on the 50-yard line and was I sitting pretty," quotes Frank Maher, about the Great Lakes and Notre Dame football game. "Just me and a spirit." He doesn't know who to thank for a good Thanksgiving dinner, or was it Christmas?

One of the Group 3 basketball fans finally got up enough nerve to post something for the publication.

He said Dougherty's Boys opened up their basketball season with a bang by taking the fast, clean, clever bunch of boys from the Chemistry Laboratory. Fread was the high point boy with five baskets. Elmer Emanuelson was right on his tail with three. Helmick, Struck and Capt. Gus Juricic all played a bang-up game. The score was 22 to 27.

In their next game they played the Fire Guards and won by a score of 23 to 17. Captain Juricic came through with four baskets to be the high scorer for this game.

Bob Hankes went in at center in the last half and he must have thought "Dutch" Ahrens was chasing him, for he made three baskets and really surprised the boys by being so fast.

The boys expect Group 3 to be a cinch for the plant championship, for they now have their flashy new blue and white uniforms.

Boys Send Holiday Greetings and Pleas to Keep Ammunition Rolling

One Writes a Poem; Another with Training Completed Says He's Ready to Obey Lockwood's "Give 'Em Hell"

Best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Victorious New Year for their friends and former associates at EOP marked the letters of former employees now in the armed forces received by The Bomb-Shell.

A V-mail Christmas card, bearing the greeting "Hauoli Makahini Hou," was received from Corp. R. L. Fitzgerald, who previously had sent in a snapshot of himself reading The Bomb-Shell somewhere in Hawaii. The picture was published in the September 11 issue of the paper.

From somewhere in New Guinea, Pvt. Joseph Badorski sent Christmas greetings to "all of you." He formerly worked in Building 10, Group 1, under Bob Bryant of Morris. "I received three of The Bomb-Shells already and I know all of them by heart," he wrote. "They bring back memories just to glance at them, and all the boys here look at them, too."

Protects His Country

"Noticed several articles from the boys overseas and that you were glad to hear from them," said Pvt. Louis Kirkham. "I am somewhere in the southwest Pacific on a tropical island. For some time we have had a bright full moon. The sky has been clear with the stars shining bright. I have composed a little poem. It may not be the best and there may be mistakes, but it is from a soldier who has left his home to protect his country and keep the enemy far enough away so those at home can make and do things to keep him supplied so he can protect himself."

Private Kirkham's poem, under the heading of "A Soldier's Prayer," follows:

"As the sun goes down and taps are played,
It signifies the end of another day.
As we go about and prepare our cots,
Where we are to rest and sleep and dream what not.
As we gaze into a clear blue sky
And see bright stars twinkling high,
As the moonbeams on our faces softly play,
And we close our eyes, our prayers to say,
Dear God, grant us peace and quiet in your own dear way,
So, to our loved ones at home we may go to stay."

Pvt. Donald Allison, of a bomb squadron, writing from overseas to say thanks for his paper, said, "It makes a person feel good to read about the different groups and some of the men you knew, who are still working there. The plant would seem a little strange to me now, with all the women working there. I hear they even have women truck drivers now.

Sees EOP Bombs

"I guess the place has expanded since I left last December. The larger they make it, the more they can produce to help finish this war. The plant is known away over here, as I have seen with my own eyes the EOP marking on those little tokens that we deliver to Hitler ever so often. By the way, they do just what they were made to do.

"I was happy to see my name along with many others on the Honor Roll. I hope to get back to the plant when this war is over. I hope the plant continues to do its great job without any let-downs."

From "down under," Pvt. Fred Raltund said, "tell the fellows in Building 13, Group 1, hello and keep 'em rolling for the boys . . . we appreciate mail and reading material down here."

Another letter from overseas, written by Pvt. John Bonos, said "please send my best wishes for the holidays to all the gang . . . the weather here has been very warm and sure wish you were all here to get this good sunshine."

Congratulates Victory Girl

"I am sure if we had the Sanderson & Porter organization back of this mess, we would all be back much sooner," wrote Marine Millard L. Neher, who is in a replacement battalion at Camp Bradford, Norfolk, Va. "I want to congratulate Betty Foster as EOP's Miss Victory.

Corp. Francis Galbraith, formerly employed in the High Explosives Department, is now stationed at the Army Air Base, Hunter Field, Savannah, Ga.

"When I left for the service, A. M. Lockwood shook hands with me and said, 'Son, give 'em hell.' I have had all my training and am ready to do same . . . wishing you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

"I was recently transferred from Keesler Field, Mississippi, to attend teletype school at Chanute Field, Illinois," reported Pvt. Jack L. Horn. "There must have been quite a turnover of personnel in Group 1, since I worked there in Building 13. The names of the old gang, or the remnants of it, appear rather infrequently. I'd certainly like to hear from Dan Phillips and Coy Bobbitt, if they are still there.

"I'm at present in the hospital, with a bad cold and sinus, hence the terrible writing (done in bed). The Bomb-Shell was doubly welcome today, as time hangs rather heavily in the hospital."

George W. Roecker, formerly of Ordnance Inspection Department here, said he had been promoted to petty officer and is serving as a weatherman of the Navy Air Force on the U. S. S. Essex.

Pvt. Elmer Grewenig, formerly of Building 6, Group 3, is serving somewhere in England with the 323rd Bombing Squadron.

Drives a Jeep

"Tell the gang at Group 9 hello for me," asked Pvt. Philip M. O'Neal, stationed at Lincoln Air Base, Lincoln, Neb. "I am in the air corps as a mechanic. I will probably leave here in about a week. Tell Bill Whaley and "Doc" and the rest of the boys to keep putting 'em out and the boys in the air corps will put them where they do the most good."

"Say hello to anybody in Buildings 11 or 13 of Group 1 who still remembers me," was the request of Pvt. Miles B. Farrell. "It has been ten months since I was there, so I doubt if anyone knows me. I am in a medium tank company, but I have a job driving a jeep.

"I think your paper is very interesting and you had some pictures not long ago of the very benches where I worked, although girls are doing that job now. We have some guns in our division which shoot the shells you make in Group 1. We are on desert maneuvers in the great Mojave Desert. I would especially like to hear from Supt. Ralph Emerson and Asst. Supt. Ivan Spinardi."

"Tell the boy and girl employees to keep 'em flying," wrote Pvt. Ivan C. Nelson, Army Air Force, Indianapolis, Ind., who said he was taking a specialist's course studying the Allison engine.

Expects Sea Duty

J. Philip Allison, former Government inspector in Group 1, wrote on December 14 that he expected to be graduated December 19 with a third class petty officer rating in aviation ordnance from a Navy school in Memphis, Tenn., and looked forward to sea duty soon thereafter.

"I believe a person enjoys The Bomb-Shell more when he is away from the plant than when there," Mr. Allison added. "The pictures are very good and interesting. John Mazer, former bay foreman in Building 13, Group 1, is here in aviation ordnance school and in the same barracks as I am. I enjoyed my visit to Group 1 while home back in September and am in hopes I can get a few days home after graduation, but doubt if we will even get the week-end off. I found ordnance work very interesting after my year's work at the plant.

From the Field Artillery at Camp Blanding, Florida, Pvt. Stephen J. Princko sent wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to "you all." "I used to be with you boys in Buildings 4 and 16, Group 2, and hope you will keep 'em rolling because I am one of the Army that will use your product, especially the —— shells."

Private Princko said he hoped the boys in Group 2 would write and expressed pleasure at seeing his name on the Honor Roll, but announced it was spelled Princko and not Prinko.

Letters and cards also were received from: Pvt. Harold J. Kapsch, Camp McCoy, Wisconsin; Lt. W. J. Durrenberger, Davenport, Ia.; Pvt. Sylvester Marchiniak, Fort Ord, California; Pvt. Hilbert Nelson, Austin, Tex.; Pvt. Joe Zaversnik, Camp Chaffee, Arkansas; Pvt. Ernest Kinzer, Camp Carson, Colorado; Mrs. Alfred Muzzarelli, South Wilmington, Ill., who wrote in behalf of Pvt. Alfred J. Muzzarelli, Fort Sam Houston, Texas; Mrs. J. Jackinowski, Joliet, Ill., who wrote in behalf of Pvt. Frank Jackinowski, Camp Crowder, Missouri; Mrs. Henry Hop, Bradley, Ill., who wrote in behalf of Pvt. Henry Hop, Cut Bank, Mont., and Inez Walker, Fairbury, Ill., who wrote in behalf of George W. Walker, Portsmouth, Va.

Koerner Selected to Attend Service School

James Edward Koerner, 31, formerly of 109 Schories Avenue, Joliet, Ill., has been graduated from recruit training as honor man of his company at the U. S. Naval Training Station here.

James E. Koerner

Employed for one and a half years as a bus driver in the Elwood Ordnance Plant, Joliet, Koerner left his job several weeks ago to enlist as fireman, first class. Through a series of aptitude tests given the 130 men of his company, he has been selected to attend one of the Navy's Service Schools.

Koerner left the training station to spend a leave in Joliet with his wife, Gertrude, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Koerner, of 228 Richard Street.

Timekeeping

NICHOLAS BELLUSO
Correspondent

1943 has arrived with all its hopes and renewed ambitions that a new year always brings. 1942 has become just a memory but what a memory. Do you remember?

January, 1942. Reluctantly going back to work after that gay New Year's Eve. Groups 27 and 3-A were being rushed to completion. Norman White was the first and only timekeeper to be hired during January. Edward Balkin, John Zanzola, John Bevis and William Fowler left for the Army. Chuck DiPeso was just learning how to cook and Milton Treitel was just starting to play handball.

February. The department was astounded to hear that Robert Reid was killed in an auto accident. George Barr, John Donahue and Robert Waddell first made their appearance on the payroll. Lawrence Voss, Lyman Bidwell, Donald Phillips and Franklin Houser left for the armed forces. Showers were being installed in order to recognize the men after plowing through all the mud. All construction was being rushed to completion.

March. Construction was continued for several weeks before being transferred to Operations. Thomas Delockery added his smiling face to the force while history was being made when Veronica McHugh became the first woman timekeeper at E.O.P. Calvin De Fevre, William Stimor, Victor Minarich and Kay Frandsen threw their hats in the ring. Spring was on the way with "General Mud" still in command.

April. Women, women, women. Emily Kexel, Bessie East and Catharine Marin followed Miss McHugh into the folds and the men wondered at this oddity. But women were taking their places. Eugene Schuck and Frank Skole joined the department while everyone began missing Freddie Semitekel who was flying for Uncle Sam. Easter was celebrated with solemnity in a war-torn world. James Hynds began his campaigning for sheriff.

May. The department was taken over by Angeline Gunnerson. It also became the month for an all time high in hiring employes. Production was increasing and so was the department when Norman Ahrens, Zona Bond, Elizabeth Daniels, Maria Darin, Val De Grush, Donald Glasgow, Treva Kane, Frank Kopic, Ethel Lawrence, Eva Lien, Irene Morris, Jennie Murdie, William Rathford, Aura Secor, Anna Thomas and Fred West crossed the threshhold. Charles Shiffer, Lawrence Ressler, Michael Bollero, Howard Bezold and William Norris were called to selective service.

June. Everyone eagerly looking forward to vacations. Splendid work of Joe Petroske in Group 2 explosion. Kenneth Mitchell and Ellis Roberts looking swell in khaki while Nicholas Choronzy, Roy Christiansen, Edith Cuno, Clifford Day, Geraldine Graham, Helen Kelly, Stella Saddoris and Eva Sweda became new members of the department.

July. Mr. Treitel, Timekeeping correspondent. Time Office being remodeled and redecorated. Mary Ryan, Carl Parker and Harold Johnson taking the fatal step. John Borello, Samuel Briones, Ken Bryant, John Clark, Margaret Fitzhugh, Clarence Peet, Carl Sala and Gladys Schofield being welcomed while goodbys were being said to Ray Shepley, Harmon Cornelius, Edward Hendry and Leroy Shulenberg.

August. Your correspondent put out his first column. Judy Smith taking wings. USO drive well over, timekeepers doing their part. Everyone wondering how they were going to get tires. Summer Carnival dance at Recreation Hall. Lt. Edward Mack commissioned as an officer. The fun filled picnic at Wilmington Park. John Olstrem returning to the University of Illinois. Bernard McShane celebrating his birthday. Vacation trip of Treitel, Sloan, Dames and Couch to New York. New Clockhouse at Group 1 completed. John Ahearn, Harry Allen, James Bean, Helen Buck, Harold Champley, Helen Otis, Alfred Perley, Agnes Rivard, Alma Salzman, Otmar Senn, Ruth Stites and Shirley Van Dyne discovering what time cards were. James Brooks, Jeremiah Walsh, Lawrence McCann, Earol Cheyne and Harold Johnson marching in step.

September. The wonderful party at Little Jack's in honor of timekeepers leaving for the armed forces. Ray Bryant passing out cigars. Timekeepers setting up fund for boys who leave for service. Round badges became taboo. Cele Harte returning to school. John O'Connell's vacation in New York. Joe Fitzgerald, Arthur Howard, Robert Renoldi, Edwin Bentson, Raymond Hastings, Kent Casstevens, Carl Swanson, Robert Walling, Bertel Norking, Donald Riordin, leaving for Army duty while Bernard Bellot, Stanly Chapin, Virginia Conrad, Marcella Corbett, Elmer Decker, Marjorie Downs, Charles Gaby, Franklin Guest, LaVern Hahn and Lawrence Prodehl replaced them.

October. Ben Sloan and Norman Ahrens became men of national prominence when their picture appeared in Firepower. Gas rationing in sight. Miss Victory contest begins. Hallowe'en dinner dance at Morris Country Club. LaVern Hahn's marriage. Frank Zupancic and Doris Tatro keeping time together. T. Albright, Louise Ardolino, William Beamen, Albert Berard, Mary Geiba, Raymond Levenger, Edith Lewis, Raymond Lunkusky, Geraldine Parthun and Robert Stalker punching their first cards while Robert Vollmer, Edward Bishop, Bill Spiers, Paul Palmer, Ken Windlow, Everett Quayle, Joe Petroske, Lloyd Baltz, Francis Buhl, Robert Hastings, marking time for Uncle Sam.

November. Celebrating Homer Smalt's birthday. Mary Keene

NOTHING TO IT, says pretty 20-year-old Rosemary Maass as she trundles a hand truck filled with bombs along the Group 3-A loading line. She was transferred recently from Group 6, where she had worked since last March.

Timekeeping

joining her husband in Texas. Berniece Hagen, Dee Johnson, Ann Kelly, John Mantzuk, James McGowan, Robert Pierson, Vera Timmis and Pauline Vismara additions to the department while subtractions were Norman White, Fred Stern, Harry Knarr, George Diment, Eugene Telleson and Samuel Holzman who are now in service.

December. Everyone dreaming of a white Christmas. First basketball team commences practice. Christmas party at the main office. Frances Cain, Irwin Ortman, Lois Parker, Eula Weaver and Wayne West contributing to the war effort on the home front while Jack Needles, Robert Gehrke, Samuel Eppstein, Russell Murphy and Carl Parker were on the front line of defense. Paul Donahue and Dale Aman became fathers. New Year's eve again.

A message to all timekeepers and clerks in the Timekeeping Department from Mr. O'Connell, Mr. Treitel and Mr. MacShane.

"Allow us to take this opportunity to extend a hearty thank-you to the members of the Timekeeping Department for the fine spirit of co-operation you gave us during 1942. We know that this spirit will continue and each of us will make a valiant effort to do our part in making EOP one of the finest and most efficient plants in the country.

"Up to date we have maintained a good record in our purchases of War Bonds through pay-roll savings. Let us resolve in the New Year to increase our War Bond purchases so that the boys out there will get the very best and finest of equipment and food. Happy New Year to all."

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lauer on the death of their infant son.

High Explosives

MARJORIE HOWERTON

Mildred "Mil" Connelly, Columbus, O., and John Edmon, Joliet, have joined the laboratory staff. Miss Connelly, a chemist, succeeds Mrs. Jess Kinser and Edmond, who came to work the first day in a modified zoot suit, succeeds Rayford Winters in the bottle washing and beaker cleaning department.

Also newcomers are Fluff, Boots and Blotto, three kittens who were found in one of the laboratory out buildings one recent sub-zero day by Ray Hybarger, assistant chief chemist. Two of the family of five baby cats had already died of exposure when the nest was found. The remaining three, brought to the warm of the lab furnace room, soon learned to lap milk and barring any untoward happenings, will develop into adult cathood.

Charles Clifford returned to work December 14, after nearly three weeks' absence.

Marcia Mitchell, secretary to Herb Hafele, chief chemist, until she was transferred to the laboratory, is back in the office again in the absence of Verneille Holder.

Nelson Tippett is recovering from an attack of "roup."

Palmer Overholt will attend the wedding of his sister, Stella, of Columbus, O., to Lt. William S. Lysle, also of Columbus, in the chapel at Camp Gruber, Oklahoma, Christmas Day. Mr. Overholt is scheduled to give the bride away.

Ford Teeter is enrolling in a correspondence course in auto mechanics in the hope that it will help him get his car under way these winter mornings.

John "Teddy" Snyder, Ronald Beck, Ellis "Squirrelly" Steinberg, Bobbie Bridwell, Abraham Agamy, Dave Hill and Alex Becker are desirous of contacting teams interested in forming an intra-plant centrifugal bumble-puppy league.

Group 63

In a recent conversation with Paul Hall, group supervisor, he said he's "just plain loco" from so much work. Therefore, he hasn't had time to dig up any news.

Group 64

A certain little "mail" girl has Harold "Heggie" Fraher going around in circles. The little man, Chris Manny, is sporting a new red cap—and at his age!

Bill Haak left for the Army December 9.

Robert Klopp is the proud father of an 8½-pound daughter, born December 6.

Group 66-A

George "Snuffy" Durham has proven to be quite the cartoonist.

Group 68

Just mention Davenport, Ia., and Elmer Zost, government inspector, grins from "irium to irium." Lucky girl!

Anyone interested in helping Frank Perino name his new dance hall, send your entries to him at Marseilles, Ill.

Matt Rotkivich is spending his time in the book stores. Just ask him the name of his latest purchase. Anthony Hoffman, checker, is buried deep in the book, "Army Tests and How to Become an Officer."

An Airedale dog has been adopted as mascot of Group 68.

Wilmington USO Center Now Open For War Workers

EOP Employees Are Urged by Director To Use Facilities

The United Service Organizations' new community center building located on Water Street near the Wilton Theatre is open for enjoyment and use by the community. Mrs. Anne Lindsay, director, says that almost all of the interior work of remodelling has been completed and some of the furniture has arrived. The ping pong tables have already been given a thorough work out and the building is open, now from 10 o'clock each morning until 10 o'clock each night except Sunday. On Sunday the hours are 2 P. M. until 10 P. M. All workers and their families are invited to use the showers, the circulating library—there are some fine new books, given to the club by the American Book Campaign, which are ready for use. All that you need to do is to select the books which you want to take out and sign up for them. There are no fees connected with the uses of the building. Towels and soap will be provided for those who wish them for the cost fee of 10c per shower. If you prefer to bring your own, the facility is free to use. There is a shower for men and one for women. This service has been especially planned for workers and families who are living under conditions where bathing facilities are overcrowded or limited.

There is a beautifully equipped kitchenette where groups may prepare lunches for club meetings, or individuals may pack their lunches, if they have no facilities in their rooms, or where "steak hungry" folks can "whip up" a fine dinner when lunch room food begins to "weary." Mrs. Lindsay declares that all that is necessary is to sign up for the kitchen at the time you may care to use it so that you will not "bump into some other people" who are also planning to cook.

There is a reading and writing room, with daily newspapers and current magazines and plenty of stationery for writing letters. No excuse, now, for not writing home or to that brother or son in the service.

A piano, radio and victrola, with new records, are there for your use and almost any time of day or evening, if you pass by, you can hear sounds of gaiety coming from the USO. Every Tuesday night, the women of the Federal Trailer Camp, are hostesses to a card party where every kind of card game imaginable is being played. All folks in Wilmington are invited to come in and join them. They plan refreshments at cost—last week they had a fine salad, crackers and coffee (believe it or not) all for the high cost of 10c per person. If you live in Wilmington or vicinity join up with these fine folks.

Wednesday night—7 to 10—is planned for the high school age group especially. Dancing and singing is to be part of that evening's entertainment. There is also a free period for young folks on Tuesday afternoon, from 3 to 6.

Mrs. Lindsay, Harry Mantle and Mrs. Martha Lannon are USO staff members in charge of the center and they welcome all to use the building. Many volunteer assistants are aiding in keeping the building open for use for twelve hours each day. Anyone who is interested in volunteering service in acting as hostess or host at the building, just stop in and see any worker in charge. All folks who have a skill or interest can be used.

You are urged to take advantage of this fine building and its facilities which the USO has made possible in crowded Wilmington.

The boys in Group 3-A wish to apply to the burning pit boys for permission to share their title "scorchy." It could be very appropriately attached to Howard Mau. For obvious reasons, too numerous to mention, the incident leading to the annexation of Howard's new title must be veiled in mystery.

Myron "Tyrone" Champoux has begun to object to working in out-of-the-way buildings since women were annexed to 3-A personnel. His assignment covers only male workers, but obviously wolves must be chained.

Franklin Pitt, perfection-plus inspector of 3-A, had to be bodily restrained to prevent him from committing an act of violence at the Hospital recently. It happened in a flash during the physical re-check, but just a slip in the course of the events of examination led to near disaster. The report ran as follows: tongue—clear, eyes—good, throat—normal, tonsils—out, ears—open, brains—negative. Well, who wouldn't get sore?

Bets were running pretty heavy at the Foremen's Quarters last Thursday. The gang was betting that Harold Rouff wouldn't get past the guards at Group 61 with his new striped plaid shirt.

Group 61 has welcomed the return of Edward Korevac. Watch their fine safety record continue.

Ray Hill, transfer from Group 2 and recently at Group 61, said the President called him personally. The army is getting a good man.

Joseph Sullivan received a new fountain pen for Christmas, but it doesn't seem to do any good.

Elmer Tolf wishes to make known that he will be available for any and all social engagements after Saturday night. He's changing shifts, girls.

Robert Karges has been declared the best dressed man at an all men's group. The change-house custodian left 10 pairs of overalls in his locker.

LaVerne Gomora has a nickname, "Poochie." Along with a White Christmas and Santa Claus, came "Orange Blossoms and Chapel Bells" Christmas Eve for Dorothy Maxine Ulbrich. She became the bride of Jack Sims to the strains of the wedding march from the Methodist Church organ in South Wilmington.

Recent arrivals in the Group 8 Inspection Department include: Beulah Dickson, Janet Bailey, Margie Priutt and Frances Thomas, all from Group 5.

Norma Castle, Group 8, has been receiving fan mail from former EOP workers, now working for Uncle Sam in the army. They saw her picture in The Bomb-Shell as a Victory Queen contestant. And, speaking of mail, all know when Julia Seelinger gets a letter from her soldier. She's plenty proud of her man.

The men of the Inspection Department at Group 62 North hope that everyone enjoyed the Holidays as much as they did.

Cyrille Grandame spent three days at Gillispie, Ill., during the Christmas season and had promised to return with a chicken.

It is hoped Leslie Cloyd will not have to walk back from Peoria on his next trip there.

The department is sorry to lose Harold Smith who has been here a short time. His Uncle Sam has a place for him in the service.

Andrew McCambridge is a newcomer in the Inspection Department, and has been impressed by the importance of finding lost lot numbers.

John Ney was a lonesome fellow last week when his wife was visting in Wisconsin. With time on his hands in her absence, John invented a new cold weather starter for his car . . . cardboard and dry cell batteries.

It is a rumor around Group 2 that Frank Malek is an ex-mayor of Braidwood.

Johnny Merrick's car, "the Cannonball," is a bit crowded since he has a new rider from Group 3-A.

Art Rickett's head is beginning to shine again because Uncle Sam won't give him the material to make his super duper hair grower.

Al Hintrager, the magician, will have to get some new tricks, because all the boys are getting wise.

Andrew "Do Do" Veronda should have been a chef instead of an inspector. He says he does a wonderful job on fried chicken.

Many wonder if "Les" Brooker really enjoys his own jokes, or does he tell them just to make the other boys happy.

Walter Britton is all "duked" up these days and especially on Saturdays when he goes into Chicago ostensibly to see his folks.

Everett Thompkins and his wife are seen frequently shopping in Joliet. Thompkins says he finds complete relaxation in it.

Since gas rationing has driven Bob Heuser to riding the Rock Island "rattler" between Joliet and Ottawa, his trips are less frequent.

Alex Stein has come to the conclusion that automobiles are like women. The upkeep is terrific.

There is no need for a Christmas tree at South Inert Office while I. A. Ramsey's red and green sweater is available.

Skaters Make Use Of Ice Rink

The early cold spell gave skaters an opportunity to get in shape on the new ice rink built on the baseball diamond just opposite the Mess Hall in the Administration Area. The Recreation Department wants to find out just who the figure skaters are who have been using the ice. As all other activities, this rink has been built for you, so use it.

Hospital

EVELYN RICHARDS
Correspondent

Ensign Louise Thompson wrote from the Naval Hospital in San Diego, Calif., that she enjoys her work immensely, and has taken care of some recognized heroes whose pictures have been published in the papers. She said, in her estimation, each one is a hero and their one objective is to get this war over with and go home. Those who are acquainted with Ensign Thompson know that she is happy and proud to be of service to the boys who have helped their country abroad.

Dr. A. W. Stassi, formerly here, wrote that he is stationed at Camp Pickett, Virginia, serving as a first lieutenant in the Medical Corps.

Closer home we have word from Lt. Sylvia Hamper, former nurse, Group 1, reported she is stationed at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Lillian Baer, student nurse at Proctor Hospital in Peoria, Ill., spent the week-end with her sister, Elsie Baer, x-ray technician here.

Dr. J. W. Spearing, medical director at Kansas City, Mo., ammunition plant, paid us a visit last week.

Congratulations have been given to Dr. L. N. Cohler, who recently became a grand-papa. He is the grinningest gramp who ever greeted a glorious grandson.

Clang: Clang: Oh, for a fire siren, Whoooooo—. Up the winding road drove a blue car in front of the Sidell home. R. R. Sidell came walking out to the car. The driver reeled her window down and called out "Your house, I mean your chimney is (pant) on fire." Turning around he saw large flames arise. "Oh (with a chuckle), that, I just cleaned out the flu." Miss Baer and her passenger, Gene Hurley, breathed a sigh of relief.

By the time you read this each will have had Christmas presents and pudding. Letters from the Hospital staff addressed to Old Saint Nick expressed the following desires:

Dr. H. L. Schultz: Football helmet to prevent head bumps when entering laboratory.

Dr. Bohdan Giel: A book on Esperanto (for telephone conversation).

Dr. George McClure: Van Dyke cigars, love and sympathy.

Mr. Sidell: Christmas shopper.

Ralph Sexton: Someone who can read signs and stay out of his parking space.

Miss Baer: 4F medicine man.

Lorene Motta: Victory for the nation.

Margaret Stalker: A trip to Texas. (She got it.)

Dorothy Busse: Her husband home from Africa.

Tom Moore: Another Year's cooperation from the ambulance drivers.

Elizabeth Russell: A goose (dead or alive).

Bertha Perush: A goose (dead or alive).

Frank Grosey: A teddy bear for his six-month-old son.

Maurice Bremmer: One second alone with Hitler.

Marie Ulrich: A lavender orchid.

Doris McCullom: Too satisfied to want anything (new bride).

Edward McKinney: 5' 2" blonde baby with eyes of blue.

Nellie Lazzio: Christmas tree to hang her presents on.

Mary Philbin: A white Christmas.

Bob Anderson: A female companion.

Ann Johnson: A week off.

Vance Cook: A set of safety engineering books.

Margo Hartong: A Merry Christmas and some cheer.

Pete Bucanelli: An automatic broom.

Miss Hurley: A major's visit.

Myrtle Burros: A new re-cap.

Evelyn Doran: A foot to step on.

Dr. McClure prescribes an ounce of super-pyro as an antifreeze for any superman's resistance against zero weather.

The Hospital staff extends to one and all A Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year.

Photographer Praised For Winter Scene

Compliments galore have been heaped upon Loren D. Ross, staff photographer of The Bomb-Shell, for the winter scene along Prairie Creek which adorned Page 1 of the last issue of the paper. It was used as a Christmas card by EOP executives for extending holiday wishes to members of the EOP family here and abroad. Mr. Ross also was responsible for the magnificent array of photos of the High Explosives Laboratory activities. In between times he directs two divisions of the Personnel Department.

Three Court Teams Tied for Lead

4,500 Rumors Are Traced to Source by OWI

Agency Finds They Feed on Anxiety, Hate and Curiosity

The Office of War Information has analyzed more than 4,500 rumors which have come to the attention of various Federal agencies during the past 11 months.

The rumors analyzed by OWI fall into five general classes:

By far the greatest number may be called "hate rumors"; they express prejudice, animosity, or hostility for groups other than the enemy.

The second group may be classified as "anxiety rumors." They reflect uneasiness or fear and commonly take the form of unfounded reports of Allied disaster or weakness, or of overwhelming enemy strength.

A third group, classifiable as "escape rumors" reflect, in the main, wishful thinking about the progress and duration of the war.

A few can be classified only as "supernatural rumors"; these contain fantastic prophecies of disaster or impending miracles.

Finally, there are a substantial number of "curiosity rumors," which contain amusing or novel tidbits or supposed "news."

Fifth Columnists at Work

A comparison of specific rumors with specific enemy propaganda appeals since Pearl Harbor has shown a relatively low relation between the two. But there can be little doubt that enemy sympathizers and enemy agents in the United States are engaged in planting and encouraging the circulation of rumors which aid the enemy's propaganda objectives. Of these, the most important are "hate rumors."

A list of the groups against which most current "hate-rumors" are directed are, in alphabetical order:

Army administration, business, Catholics, defense workers, draft boards, English, farmers, Jews, labor, Negroes, profiteers, rationing boards, Red Cross (blood-donor service), Russia and unions.

The false information carried by "hate-rumors" is less important than the hatred which the rumors convey. Factual denials appear to have had little effect in stopping "hate-rumors." As one "hate-rumor" is exposed it is replaced by another rumor conveying the same hatred. It seems clear that persons who feel certain hatreds will readily believe and repeat any rumor which gives expression to that hatred. "Hate-rumors" obviously must be attacked at the source—by curing the cause of the hatred. Adequate information can, however, serve to make the repetition and progress of "hate-rumors" more difficult.

The other types of rumors appear to grow out of the public tensions which exist during wartime; they spread because of the virtual impossibility of completely eliminating such tensions through information. Adequate and accurate information about the war—plus the confidence among the American people that they are receiving adequate and accurate information about the war—will tend to allay these tensions, and thus to reduce the volume of rumors.

Citizens Can Help

Some rumors spring up from situations in which certain facts, though known to many persons, cannot be published. OWI is in possession of ample evidence that the enemy, or his agents, often does not know what hundreds of Americans do know about a given war port or war plant; the repetition of facts or rumors, in such circumstances, often make it easier for the enemy to find out what he did not know, or simply suspected.

There are several simple rules which each American can observe:

1. Never repeat a rumor.
2. Do not repeat a rumor verbally even to deny it.
3. If you know the facts which can spike a rumor, cite the facts promptly.
4. If you do not know the facts which can stop a rumor, ask the rumor-teller where he got his facts.
5. Don't give a rumor the benefit of any doubt.

From all indications a good time was had at the War Department Christmas Party December 22. Now all everyone has to worry about is how to get started on the New Year. Brushing aside all the aches and pains of New Year's Eve. All can roll up their sleeves and pitch in to make 1943 the best year possible . . . a Victory Year is the best slogan.

Seymour Kurantman of the Administrative Section is now Captain Kurantman, Ordnance Department, AUS . . . congrats.

Speaking of the Army . . . all were sorry to see Capt. J. I. Bach, Lt. Dale Yeoman, Lt. Maynard Brandon and Lt. Carl Beilharz, Jr., . . . leave for other duties elsewhere.

Lt. R. T. Johnson of the area engineer's office and Capt. K. D. De Young of the same office are now settled in their new "home" in Indiana.

Lt. Robert Stephens, formerly of here, was a recent visitor and as handsome as usual.

Molly Baker, teletype queen, can't do so well when she isn't running the type . . . she tried to get a telegram to her soldier boy friend and darned if she could get it through. . . . That's the way isn't it?

Lois Dix is quite the dancing partner . . . seems she can do the rhumba in no mean manner. . . . Ray DuClos took a sight seeing tour the other morning . . . all fooling aside . . . he got his gang to work ahead of buses, etc. . . . even if it did take a round-about way. . . . W. J. Leeland sure got a workout on the day of the party . . . looked busier than a bee . . . did a good job though.

Catherine Stortz of Mail and Record got herself all het up with a cold the other day and had to remain in her home town for a few days . . . yep, folksies Streator is the name. . . . Saw Kay Lohman the other day and she sure keeps herself in the groove . . . looked pretty as a picture. . . . Helen Harmon got herself all dooded up with a new haircut . . . looks plenty all right? . . . Roy Eckberg was cutting a rug with Kay Rosenbaum at the Christmas Party. . . . Didja ever notice Clara Brennan's smile . . . it sure is a nice one . . . also the big eyes that go with that smile. . . . Guess the kids in the station wagon will have to put another star in the window now . . . another rider has ceased riding in it. . . . Claire Donoghue is the missing member.

Ed Reichert, the crooning Timekeeper, no longer goes in for the light opera touch . . . oh, no, . . . he's in the lullabye department now. . . . He practices on his new son.

From the Timekeepers

Now that Christmas has come and gone . . . and Santa Claus has distributed gifts of everyone's heart's desire, it is possible to sit back and look at the admiration in everyone's eyes . . . see Jay Folk parading his new toupee. . . . Anita Lambur flashing her new ring. . . . Betty Lou Page parading a new ankle bracelet. . . . Verne Parry showing off his new billfold. . . . John Kolb telling about his new automatic dishwasher. . . . Lonnie Richardson showing the family picture (7 little Richardsons) . . . and Louis Schuck showing his studded cuff links.

Advance Dope on Resolutions

Chester Tomes: To eat only one pound of peanuts a day.

George Stevens: To watch his calories and cut down his waistline.

Kenneth Chapman: To teach Betty Page the "things she should know."

Mary Kay Lohman: To watch her rings more closely . . . and not leave them in wrong places more than once a month.

Loretta Franke and Mary Biernat: To be with their soldier-husbands before the end of 1943.

Robert McEvoy: To learn to play a better game of ping pong.

Your Correspondent: To do the best she can to carry on until the job is finished.

Table Tennis Tourney Planned

A table tennis tournament will be one of the first things on the program for the new year. The many good players who are now using the equipment every day in the Recreation Hall are requested to tighten up and get ready for tournament play. There will be men's and women's singles, doubles and mixed doubles, and, of course, a trophy for the champions in all classes.

Badminton Players Developing Form

Badminton players are getting off to a good start. Some who are playing every week are Maj. K. M. Haber, commanding officer; Capt. G. A. Grant, executive officer, and a group from the Safety Department headed by Clement Eiden.

FEMININE HANDS now do the final topping-off in the loading of bombs in Group 3-A. Two of the first girls to handle a bucket of molten high explosives are pictured here doing their job, Natalie Riddle (right) and Alma Eklund.

Singer's Midgets are now known as Tom Singer's Yodelers and are in their 52nd week as headliners at the Friday night entertainments at the Joliet Moose Hall.

Frankie Nolan was spotted under the Christmas tree singing "I got the neck of the chicken."

Hopper Combs and William Day have finished a course in "How to Check Cheaters at Checkers." This course was evidently sponsored by Emily Post because the prelude to every move goes something like the old "You first, my dear Alphonse" comic strip.

Now that winter snow has covered the fairways and greens, there is reason to speculate upon the activities of such fine golfers as Ralph Johnson and George Loula.

"Tate" Ehman reported that all was quiet at the Central Fire Station—due to the absence of Bob Tures and Pat Rodgers.

All were happy to see the swell snap-shot of ex-fire inspector Gene Newton in the last issue of The Bomb-Shell.

Patrick Rodgers originally toted his own lunch to the Fire Station, but encountered so many difficulties (strained back, overloaded automobile, trouble with the Guards at the gate, and blocking the fire vehicles right-of-way) that he started eating with the Central Fire Station Dinner Group. All are now singing "Who's Sorry Now?" After Pat's initial repast of three steaks, four helpings of potatoes and two loaves of bread, the group was treated to the unusual spectacle of Fred Habing singing "I Surrender, Dear," followed by a swan dive.

Another recent dinner group recruit is Asst. Chief Bill Reichert. William's entry into the circle coincided with the same day Mrs. Reichert started to make home-made sausages.

Wayne Barber tendered his resignation from the diners, effective the day his bride finishes reading the new cook book found in her Christmas stocking.

Nothing can be said about Asst. Chief Walter Lueder's culinary problems except that he goes around whistling "Alice — Where Art Thou?"

After several weeks in the doghouse, Asst. Chief Charles Davis took his wife out to enjoy a peaceful evening when they ran into Chief R. W. Mortenson.

Chief Mortenson: "Hello, Charley, haven't seen you for two weeks."

Chief Davis: "Why, Chief—this is my night off!"

Chief Mortenson: "Night off!" (To Mrs. Davis) "That guy hasn't been working nights for two weeks."

Result—Charley's in the doghouse again.

Asst. Chief Clifford Weiss is seriously thinking of marketing his "Magic Cold Cure"—for persons under 23 years of age.

Engineer Kenny Brooke went swimming the other evening—in Stu Moloney's uniform.

Engineer George Philip is quite the sly-guy on a ladder. Many are anxiously awaiting his next demonstration of an arm-less fireman getting hot.

John Harbison is starting a taxicab service between Joliet and the plant. Says John, "I may as well buy a cab, I'm getting tired of keeping those drivers in silk shirts and such."

The "Dog-House Club" has a new member. His moniker is—Francis Ryan, alias "Foul Play Ryan."

Esther Heavens: "Did I see you sitting in the park with a gentleman?"

Lola Early: "You did, but he wasn't."

Ralph Rausch: "Whenever I'm in the dumps, I get myself a new hat."

George Rogina: "Oh—so that's where you get them."

Rollin Read: "Chief, were you ever bothered with athlete's foot?"

Chief Mortenson: "Just once—when the fullback caught me with his girl."

The Fire Department extends the season's greetings to all ex-firemen and fire inspectors now in the armed services.

The boys from the EOP Fire Department crave to see Chief William Bolton and his department in action.

If he passes his physical successfully Inspector Art Flahaven will be in the Army shortly. After a little while, Inspector Martin Knowles will follow in his footsteps.

At last Sgt. John Alar managed to find a home at Wilmington. Now he can spend all his free time beautifying the place.

It was Frank Scoma who, feeling very pugilistic one day, claimed he was the fighting champion of the department (although no official award was ever made). At the end of the day, he retired undefeated.

Everyone was encouraged to suggest ideas for more efficient operation. Fireman Scoma, after much deliberation, announced that he had a plan to make sure that no one would be late in the future.

"Fine," said the Chief. "How does your idea work?"

"Simple," explained Scoma. "The last man in blows the whistle."

Walter "Kid" Williamson is going around with a big smile since his son received a toy fire truck for Christmas.

Vern McKimson is taking an advanced course in first aid since his wife slipped on the ice.

For good American chop suey see Frank Rutkowski.

Some of the boys at Fire Station 2 are studying calisthenics. By the end of the week, Larry Bade and Frank Dupuis will be able to touch the floor with their noses.

Harry Newman has been doing Boy Scout duty with a snow shovel in the Trailer Camp.

With this issue, Supt. A. P. Balston extends his holiday greetings to each and every member of the Inert organization with a sincere wish for a happy New Year. To shake the hand of each and every man as he would like to do is almost a physical impossibility, so he has taken this means of extending his wish. Much credit is due the department for the fine spirit shown and coming through the past year with so few accidents . . . let's keep up the good work in 1943.

Santa must have received a copy of The Bomb-Shell, according to the boys who expressed their wants for the Christmas holiday in the last issue . . . no "C" books turned up, however.

Tommy the cat refused to stay at the North Inert office for the winter season . . . he had the best room in the house for a few nights and left on the back of a truck only to show up again at the clock house.

Finishing touches have been put on the clock houses with insulation and mudless walks. They are as warm as toast at lunch time.

Walter Mork of the checking staff spent the Christmas holiday with his daughter, Mrs. John McCarthy, and her family in Decatur, Ill.

Group 27 reports the basketball team in tip-top shape, having won their game with Group 70. The final score was Inert 43, with Group 70 tallying 11 points. Games are scheduled with the Bus Drivers and with the Timekeepers. New equipment has been ordered.

Visiting at Inert Storage to discuss world affairs was James J. Casey, Engineering Department.

Thomas Delockery, red-haired timekeeper, has been called to the colors and will be inducted December 30. Best wishes go with Thomas.

Lawrence Fox, former advertising specialist, has taken up war production and holds a position at Group 27 in the Inspection Department. Although his work is much different these days, he is willing to make the change to beat the Axis.

Inert Storage men speak through the question of the week. Question: Do you believe in New Year's Resolutions and, if so, what resolutions did you make?

Joseph Baudino: To see that all time records are accurate. Too, I resolve to be a better man morally, mentally and physically in the New Year.

John Wald: I believe in them, make them, and keep them. This year I will make them as I see need for them.

Winfield Arthur: I believe in them and am willing at all times to help the other fellow to keep the ones he made.

John Godfrey: Never to be late or tardy through the coming year.

Al Gierich: To carry on my work at Group 27 in an efficient manner all through the new year, taking extra care to avoid accidents.

Sigurd Hansen: I do not believe in them, but some find they help to keep on an even keel.

This should properly go to the want-ad department, but it is rather important to the party most concerned, so is used here. Hettie McMillan lost her purse at the group changehouse. It contained among other small items, including $18, her driver's license and social security card. Bettie knows full well that her purse was not taken maliciously or with felonious intent, but she would appreciate the kindness of someone who might possibly find and return the two valuable cards mentioned.

You can have this with a grain of salt or whatever else may seem appropriate, but the man in the ramp at Building 16 says that Pete M'Lott is the sheik of the loading line and that all the girls are simply cu-razy about him.

Giles Boren, known to one and all as Mr. Five-by-Five, has gone to the Army and it is hoped that this issue of The Bomb-Shell will catch up with him.

Joe Nicoletti, who studied premedic at college, has been accepted by the Army Medical Corps and has taken up his new duties at the general hospital at Camp Robinson, Arkansas.

Aalph Bridges was married to Dorothy Kay Thanksgiving Day, but feels as though the war will soon interrupt his honeymoon for he expects to be called into the service very shortly. . . . Wedding bells and Christmas jingles come together for Inspector C. A. Patton and Boots Sleezer, who were made one December 13. When questioned about the probability of the honeymoon they both declared that the pleasure will be deferred until after the cessation of international hostilities.

All in the group extend their heartfelt sympathy to their comrade, Al Dunne, and Mrs. Dunne whose 4-year-old son was accidentally drowned at Wilmington a short time ago.

It is said on good authority that Julia Kirby and Patsy Fitzgerald, operators of the fuze truck in Building 13, have donned their red flannels for the duration (of the winter, it's hoped).

Harry Kampf, who bears the title Boy Blizzard of the carpenter shop, is a man of distinction. At the tender age of 16 he joined the U. S. Army in World War 1 and served for nearly two years in the A. E. F. Today at 41 he is still a lad of parts. . . . Speaking of the carpenter shop, that Ken Chandler, foreman, and all of his men extend the season's greetings to one and all. . . . Charlie Anders, Government inspector, has been commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the field artillery and will go to Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, to attend the school of fire.

Mary Murphy is going to get married, but she steadfastly refuses to divulge when or to whom. . . . William Wilson wanted to go into the Army but he had a slight nasal defect which barred him from service. That was no hill for a mountain-climber in the opinion of Bill so he took steps. He submitted to an operation in which a piece of one of his ribs was grafted into his nose and now the Army has accepted him.

Rita Scamene was going to get married, but it can't be learned if she dood it or not. . . . It's rumored that Helen Webber and Helen Christiansen were recently married but no one seems to know to whom. . . . There were no ifs and ands in the case of Mary Danser, one of the Miss Victory contestants. She ups and married her soldier boy-friend and hied away with him to sunny California.

Albert Dauphin has a birthday coming up January 5. His age is a deep, dark secret, but he cannot possibly be the Dauphin Prince who so mysteriously disappeared in France about a hundred years ago. . . . Jack Connor, expeditor, missed a couple of days work but he's back on the job complete with smiles and boxes of cigars. Jack became the proud father of a bouncing boy, named John Patrick, December 15.

All the lads and lassies in Building 16 wish Tony Granich lots of good luck during his Army career which begins with the new year. . . . The girls in the building agree that milk is good for their health, but deplore the effect it has on the figure. . . . As for Frank Grey, he will settle any time for a half peck of eating tobacco.

Late flashes—Leonard Wolf Ireland and Martha Mings walked the marriage trail together November 19. John Pate is authority for the statement that Mary Murphy was a pioneer in the night life of Joliet but that now she is going to be married.

Housing Applicants Urged to Act Now

Employees who have made application to rent one of the dwelling units in the Federal Public Housing Authority project at Wilmington are urged by R. T. Bassett, assistant comptroller, to make arrangements immediately for a lease or to notify E. C. Fortmann, manager of the project, they are no longer interested.

Mr. Bassett said Mr. Fortmann had told him a number of EOP workers who had made application and could now be given a lease, since the houses are ready for occupancy, had not replied to his letters asking them to come to his office to make arrangements.

"There is a long waiting list seeking housing in the units," said Mr. Bassett, "and it is unfair to make them wait if those who filed application first fail to complete arrangements. If you are no longer interested in the Wilmington houses, or have found accommodations elsewhere, please notify Mr. Fortmann in writing at once.

Son Is Born to Mrs. Evelyn Richards

The staff of The Bomb-Shell extends congratulations and best wishes to fellow-member, Evelyn Richards, EOP Hospital's piquant correspondent, who became the mother of a seven-pound four-ounce son at Silver Cross Hospital, Joliet, December 17. The youngster has been named Gordon Del Mar for his father, Gordon Richards.

Ordnance Inspection

The Christmas Mixer held at the Recreation Hall December 22 proved to be a real success and this department is proud of William Van Houten who played the part of Santa beyond their expectations.

The Ordnance Inspection Department enjoyed a Christmas Party at the Woodruff Hotel in Joliet December 22. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock and a miniature Santa and his reindeer centered the table. Place cards were in keeping with the season. The orchestra dedicated several numbers to certain individuals; "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" for Capt. A. G. Resch, "Mr. Five by Five" for Stanley Eisler and "Stardust" for William F. Douville. After dinner gifts were exchanged. On the threshold of matrimony, Carl Anker received several appropriate gifts including a rolling pin. Games were then played prizes being awarded to Lois Martin, Helen Boula, Mr. Anker and Roy Scherer. Later in the evening dancing was enjoyed by the group. Others present were Clara Brennan, Delores Dagon, Ethel Dirker, Esther Noffke, Linnetta Parry, Betty Ross, Mr. Scherer, Bernice Schroba, Catherine Tomlianovich, Mr. Van Houten, Geraldine Ward, Clara Wehner, F. Warren Weithofer and Vieana Wheeler.

This department lost three of its officers, Lt. C. E. Beilharz, Lt. M. G. Brandon and Capt. J. I. Bach. Lieutenant Beilharz and Lieutenant Brandon were transferred to the Ordnance Officers' replacement pool at Aberdeen, Md., while Captain Bach was transferred to the Office of Chief of Ordnance in Washington, D. C.

Miss Wehner visited her home at Havannah, Ill., the week of December 12.

December 16 not only marked the wedding day of Kathleen Dugan but was also the 25th wedding anniversary of her father, Melvin Dugan, who gave his daughter in marriage. Mr. Dugan was a very solemn figure walking down the aisle, as he was thinking of his own marriage just 25 years earlier. Kathleen is making her home in Clarksville, Tenn.

The boys in Group 68 heard over the grape vine that Miss Dirker and Lois Martin, brunette and blonde beauties respectively, were substituting on the mail route for Miss Ross, who was absent December 21, because of illness. They immediately obtained some mistletoe and tacked it above the door of the office. Lois stayed at the wheel of the truck while Ethel proceeded to deliver the mail. After entering the office she discovered a group of boys barring the only exit, the door adorned with mistletoe. The boys then had Lois enter on the pretext of a telephone message from the Ordnance Inspection Office. Both girls were in doubt (so they say) as to what procedure to take and called their chief clerk. Miss Wehner said "The mail must go through, so let your conscience be your guide. If I were out there I surely wouldn't crawl out a window. Opportunity knocks but once and he who hesitates is lost." The girls were really amazed by Elmer Zost as they had the impression that he would blush if a girl looked in his direction. He proved to be a real Romeo.

T. "Sims" Kenner is confined to his home by illness . . . tut, tut, Mr. Kenner, with a nurse in your repertoire of friends.

In the roster of new-comers, the name of R. L. Bloome was omitted, but a hearty welcome has been given him. Max Krup, recently of Group 6, is also welcomed here.

Friedberg convinced the Navy that he would be a valuable man in one of its V classes. Mr. Friedberg awaits orders to be inaugurated into the intricacies of swabbing decks, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lotz spent a few days giving a hand to the family of Mr. Lotz's sister in Joliet recently.

A smile is again on the face of Garr J. Burt. It seems Mrs. Burt has taken over command of the pots and pans—especially their contents.

Letters from boys in the armed forces include those from Kenneth Palmer, Phillip Grove, Horace O'Kain and William R. Turndahl. Thanks for remembering the fellows here are extended and the best wishes of the season are sent to all the boys at the front.

Group 8

Inspectors in Group 8 miss Sigmund "Sig" Wysocki, who is now at Group 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Park Dickey Paxton, who were married November 28, are at home to their friends at 1260 Merchant St., Kankakee.

Many would like to have seen Helen Ballack's look of amazement when she entered Marshall Field's recently and pushed a button to stop an escalator.

Ferdie Biegus was transferred to Group 3.

A Happy and Prosperous New Year to all.

Our Badge

When I was born my folks did say,
Nice looking kid, be president some day,
Later on, I met my first gal.
She says, "Good Looks," please be my pal.
When I started work they said I was nice,
With ability and appearance that did suffice
To keep me happy till I met my wife,
Who said I was the best boy in her life.
Then I started work at the Elwood Plant
To do my job with a vengeful slant
Towards the hateful Axis savage crowd,
Hoping that all of them will wear a shroud.
Then my photo was taken, to look so swell.
But—when I got my badge I looked like H——l.

There'll Come a Day

The Dictators crush with despotic rule,
Their power grips as with a steel band;
But not one there is who can make things cool
When scorching heat covers all the land.

"I am the law" is their ceaseless cry
As their ego they flaunt as we'll see,
But no matter how long or hard they may try,
There's not one who will e'er make a tree.

They care not at all for the lives they take,
Or whether it's right or it's wrong,
But there's one thing certain they'll never make
The birds in the skies sing their song.

They stalk the land in all kinds of weather
As the earth for their plunder they scour,
But show me one who can put together
The colors and perfume in a flower.

The ghosts of their victims rise up and scoff
At their vanity, cruelty and pride:
They know the day is forever far off
When one ever will govern the tide.

The Dictators strike with blood-stained hands
As they rave and rule with iron rod;
They think they can crush the Truth as it stands,
But there'll come a day when they'll answer to God.

Time Office

"I caught two husbands with cherry pie. Now I'm a WOW and hafta eat it myself outa paper sacks!"

Ode to a Shell Loader

At the crack of dawn the thousands rise,
And scratch their ribs and rub their sides.
Then leap into their pants and coats,
While stuffing breakfast down their throats.

Then to their cars they make a rush,
And air horns shatter the morning hush.
Defying curves where danger lurks,
They speed down to the "Loading Works."

They roll into the parking lots,
And fight to get their favorite spots.
With speed like some avenging fate,
They fight their way thru the Time-Clock gate.

But once inside a change takes place,
A peaceful calm o'er spreads each face;
No more they move with hurried tread,
They use the low gear gate instead!

No need to hurry (not till lunch)
The time cards have that A. M. punch.
And now that time cards all are in,
The big important things begin.

The first thing in the day's parade,
Is to visit Nurses down at the First-Aid.
For good health everybody knows,
Depends on how your system goes.
A healthy man will turn out work,
At which a sickly man will shirk.

Besides it's quite a pleasant thought
That while you are conserving health,
You're also adding to your wealth!

The hours pass—Time Marches On.
Lunch time comes and soon is gone.
Then finally it's half past three!
Men you thought dead turn up alive;
Grab their coveralls and tear,
Like comets hurling thru the air.
Forgotten are the feet that hurt,
They're plenty good for this last spurt.

But tho their racing form is fine,
They soon will have to wait in line.
They gnash their teeth, till they punch out;
And gain their cars with a happy shout.
Off in a cloud of dust they go,
And curse the traffic, if it's slow.
With all this haste, just what they gain
Is something that they can't explain.
They eat, carouse, they sleep, and then,
Tomorrow they'll do it all over again!

Praise the Lord

Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition.
Praise the Lord and we'll soon be out of this condition.
Praise the Lord for using EOP's ammunition.
Praise their employees for their ambition.
We'll let the Japs know their up against real fighting competition.
After we give them plenty hell, we'll all lay off and go a-fishing.

Whitney Wins Tribune's War Workers Award

Group 4 Machinist Foreman Named for Crimping Invention

Nicholas E. Whitney, machinist foreman, Group 4, was presented the Chicago Tribune's War Workers Award for November in a radio program over Station WGN, Chicago, Tuesday night, December 22. The award, a gold pin studded with three diamonds, was given for the invention of a crimping machine used in making shell fuzes.

Also appearing on the radio program with Whitney was his wife, Mrs. Mary Whitney; T. M. Burns, general superintendent of the Fuze and Booster Area; John A. Lower, superintendent of Group 4; J. A. Cocker, EOP mechanical superintendent, and Capt. D. P. Tunstall, public relations officer. All spoke briefly.

Commenting on the award, The Tribune said in part:

"Whitney, who is 'Nick' to his fellow workers, is a graduate of Joliet High School. He never went to a technical school. He says a good engineer probably would find a lot of things wrong with his drawings. But his boss, Mr. Burns, said Whitney is a genius when it comes to thinking up things of a mechanical nature.

Invention of One Machine

"Although Whitney's 200 ideas have helped to smooth many operations at Elwood, his award was based on his invention of one machine used in making shell fuzes. The machine crimps the delay plunger on the fuze assembly. It sounds simple, but Whitney's device ended a lot of headaches caused by the redesign of a number of component parts in the fuze.

"The fuze is a highly important item. It ignites the tetryl—a high explosive—in a booster which in turn detonates the shell.

"Mr. Burns said Whitney's machine has accomplished the following:

"Simplified operation so much that 32 men have been replaced by women, releasing the men for use on other more technical jobs.

"Saved at least $6,000 a month for taxpayers. This saving will be increased as production mounts. Further saving is achieved through release of 16 drill presses and arbor presses for use in other departments.

Increase in Production

"Increased safety by eliminating 16 hazards in the old method.

"Increased production by 300 per cent.

"Other suggestions by Whitney have been applied to loading and assembling devices used at the ordnance plant.

"Whitney was born May 26, 1907, in Joliet, where he now lives at 918 Kelly Avenue with his wife and son, Nicholas Jr. Nick Jr., who is 12, attends Farragut school in Joliet. Whitney's hobby is tinkering with mechanical gadgets. He worked 11 years for a Rockford machinery company.

Fellow Workers Happy

"His job in the Elwood plant is machinist foreman, where he is responsible for keeping 100 machines working. Whitney said that the plant has had trouble getting certain types of machines so they have built their own.

"When he helps build a machine, Whitney explained, he first talks to the man who is going to make it and then to the man who will use it. Then he makes his drawing.

"Mr. Burns said Whitney's fellow workers are happy over his selection for The Tribune award. He said Whitney is ready to help at the plant any time he is called—day or night. And he always appears with a smile. Mr. Burns said the monthly bestowal of The Tribune award is helping build morale among war plant workers."

WINNER of the Chicago Tribune's War Worker Award for November is Nicholas E. Whitney, machinist foreman, Group 4.

Chemical Laboratory

Eddie Merrimann is now an apprentice seaman in pharmacy in the Naval Reserve.

The Chem. Lab. team did it again—won another basketball game. Monday night, December 21, they defeated the Group 70 team by a score of 42 to 8.

Group 4

Stewart Craft, assistant superintendent, is leaving for the Army January 5. He will be a commissioned officer in the Engineers Corps.

Group 4 is proud of its machinist foreman, Nick Whitney, who has won the Chicago Tribune's War Workers Award for his crimping machine, which is so well known and appreciated in the assembly building.

Supt. John A. Lower has returned from a trip down South. He reports that the "sunny South" wasn't so sunny when the plane was unable to land because of a bad snow storm.

Best "get well" wishes were sent to Geraldine Turner, who recently underwent an appendectomy.

Lorraine Papach was happily surprised when she returned home from work one day last week to find her soldier husband had arrived for a ten-day furlough.

Rose Stangle claims she quit bowling since she threw her arm out of joint.

Pvt. William Howen is now in Camp Polk, Louisiana. He sent wishes to everyone for the merriest of Christmases and a victorious New Year.

Marion Matrella spent the Christmas holidays in Ironwood, Mich.

Bernice Neal went to Abington, Ill., for a Yuletide visit with her parents. Mary Lou McHale visited Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, for the holidays.

It won't be long before Dorothy Johnson will be taking the final step with the "candy man," Warren Kirk, of Lockport.

Mrs. Howard Cordwell seems to have the "blues" these days. Reason—her husband, formerly a bus driver here, left for the Army.

Earl Frey, formely employed in the shipping room, is now in the Navy, stationed at Great Lakes.

Wanted: New chauffeur! One capable of driving on ice without going into the ditch twice. I give up! Too hard on my car! E. P. Burns.

Group 6

This is a happy Christmas season for Dorothy Linneman, whose son, Stanley Robert, is home on a furlough from Brooklyn, N. Y. Edith Krzich's brother, Frank M., will be home for the holidays, too.

Frances Meditz receives letters from her husband, Edward, stationed at the Solomon Islands, and Lois Simpson's letters from her son, Carl, come from somewhere in the Pacific.

Nell Reinert will visit her daughter in Little Rock, Ark., and Lorene Hoover is to spend the holidays with her folks in Maryland.

The foremen and foreladies of Group 6 attended a Christmas party which included a gift exchange and a lovely turkey dinner. It was held in the home of Mildred McKiernan.

Farewell was bid to Bernice Finley, inspector, who left December 26.

Group 7

All wish Savino Vercollotti the best luck in the world. He is leaving for the armed forces shortly.

Congratulations go to Earl Schmalz and Don Braghini. Earl's the proud father of a new son and Don can brag about a beautiful daughter.

Hero is Frank Ripsch, clean-up man, for catching the mouse that has been frightening the girls.

Peggy Wagner and Marie Lafine returned to work after a vacation. They are feeling fine and glad to be back.

Mary Binzen broke her record and missed a day of work last week. It was the first day since she started.

SMALL but effective is the crimping machine invented by Nicholas E. Whitney. It is shown here being operated by Dora Foreman, Group 4.

Delphine Vota spent Christmas in Standard City with relatives.

Bill Floroplus is finally bringing his lunch, but the boys would like to know where he gets his bread and why he has it cut in the opposite manner.

Surprise! Hyky Weathers is spending a week in Abington, Ill., with her husband, who will be leaving soon to go in Navy training.

Kenny Eimen is said to be using up his A gas rationing book to go get his B book.

Janet La Borence is leaving for Kansas City, Mo., to visit her husband, who is in training there.

Mrs. Truka, wife of Jim Truka, superintendent of Groups 6 and 7, has been wondering why her husband's left shirt sleeves have been torn and ruffled around the cuffs. When a shirt sleeve is pulled back 100 times a day to show the beautiful new watch he received as a Christmas gift from Mrs. Truka, that poor old left sleeve gets quite a lot of abuse.

Congratulations go to Mary Valerugo. It's good to have her back after her recent marriage in Oklahoma. Mary Jane Clasper is planning to go to Alaska to join her boy friend.

Mrs. Hilda Stokes is expecting her husband home soon from the Navy on a five-day furlough. He is stationed at Camp Bradford, Norfolk, Va.

The medal for perfect attendance this month goes to Forelady Gene Smith.

Group 8

Two girls of Group 8 have taken the vows: Ida Allen, who became Mrs. Bishop, has continued to work; and Rose Duback, who became the wife of Sgt. Ray Bailey, has gone to California with her husband.

Mike Molnar and George Elum "went to town" on those Italian "spags" Theresa Seno brought for them!

Sincere expressions of sympathy are extended to Angela Turk, whose young sister died.

Alice Goff's soldier is home on furlough.

Supt. John H. Walker returned from his southern trip appropriately on his birthday, and the handsome tribute of welcome tendered him by the personnel of Group 8 was such a surprise that he was at a loss for words to express his appreciation.

Gerald Fitzgerald is always ready to debate upon the subject "The 40-hour week." Fitz has really become so convincing in his arguments that some are grooming him for senatorial timber.

Robert Grady is the proud owner of a big black Buick auto. Bob is the chauffeur for ten lovely ladies.

John Markley is away on vacation. Pinch hitting for John is Harold Ellis, veteran material checker at the Hub, who seems to have everything under control.

Thomas Costello, former material checker in Group 70, has finally filled his one ambition. He is now with the Navy Air Corps, stationed at Houston, Tex. All hope to hear from Thomas in the near future and wish him nothing but the best.

Kenneth Pratt, material checker at the Hub, has quit smoking Marvel Cigarettes, now that he can pick up other people's Lucky Strikes lost outside of the groups.

Fred Nelson, the old magician, who used to open his car door and produce a billy goat, has added a new trick to his list. He opened a package in the warehouse the other day and out jumped a rabbit, a chicken hawk and a couple of pigeons.

When a co-employee is stranded along the road in his car, get out and help him. When J. C. Quade's car was stopped because of a minor fault, everyone passed him by, except a stranger who stayed until the passengers were provided for. Why don't folks realize that there is a war and all pull together, not only in this way but at work?

Ronnie "Andy" Anderson and Art Birsa, chauffeurs, left December 12 for employment in Joliet.

Pvt. Ray McGuire visited here December 21, in uniform.

Speaking of invisible files, Wanda Hudak apparently was the inventor. Her files are invisible—telephone numbers and information all stored in her brain. She took a two-day, well-earned vacation last week.

Letters of thanks for the gift boxes sent them have been received from the servicemen, Art Witty, Jim Koerner, Clyde Sheridan and Ray McGuire. Letters from the other ten are expected soon.

A word of praise is overdue for the matron, Bea Mileam, for good housekeeping and ready humor.

Anita Scott, Mr. Bassett's secretary, has eyed an unopened gift box of candy on his desk until she has almost decided to file it under "T" until he returns. "T" for Temptation.

Ray Shepley of Camp Roberts, California, was unable to take a furlough to come home but reports he has a three-day pass and will be thinking of EOP in San Francisco.

V. M. "Vic" Dagenais was home ill for a half-day December 12 and Room 41 had a resemblance to the Grand Central Station. No one has ever been able to take his place when it comes to settling problems of all kinds.

Ring out the bells and all sort of stuff to announce the swell time the Purchasing, Expediting and Stores Departments had at their second annual Christmas Party at the Hotel Louis Joliet in Joliet December 17. Everyone was so full after eating turkey and laughed so hard at the "Queenies" doing a strip tease act, that they hardly had enough energy left for dancing. Dancing was enjoyed later in the evening.

V. N. "Cuddles" Knudson did a mighty fine job as MC and as usual Stan Nyren gave his swell vocalizing, with the help of Bob Stewart from the Mailing Room, who did some grand playing for group singing as well as a solo selection. To top the evening off, "Santa Claus" Pierson was there with a gift for each and every good boy and girl and everyone had a merry old time. All concerned think congrats are due to the committees who worked so hard to make the party such a big success.

Henry Bale wearing dark glasses on a Monday morning arouses suspicion as to whether he is hiding from the law, or if he just needs a piece of beefsteak.

Something new has been added to "The House of Early" (Lois)—a brand new Scotty named Inkspot.

Gasoline Appeals Are Invited

Employees who have found from experience that the amount of gasoline originally allowed them under the rationing program have the right to appeal for more by appearing before the rationing boards in their respective communities at any time. The boards will welcome such pleas and, in fact, are holding hearings for that purpose several times each week.

Women's Work Spells Victory, Says Campbell

Chief of Ordnance Reports Views After Visit to Britain

War activities of women in all walks of life "spell success for the Allied cause and defeat for the Axis," is the belief of Maj. Gen. L. H. Campbell, Jr., Chief of Ordnance, as expressed in a letter to H. H. Hampton, executive assistant, Safety and Security Branch, War Department, describing his observations on a recent visit to Great Britain.

General Campbell's letter said in part:

"Let me say that every woman in Britain has a part in the war effort. No one is idle. Some work in factories rifling, boring and turning cannon; others operate the same types and often the same makes of machines which we see here in the United States. These include, among many others, milling machines, lathes, gear cutters, planers, drill presses, punch presses, etc. Of particular interest to me was the fact that many of these women do their own setup work and I was told by many of the foremen and those of management that the work performed by the women after a very short training period was of uniformly high character and quality.

"The women are also acting as engineers, draftsmen, physicists, chemists and work of that scientific nature. They work on jobs of the standard forty-seven hour week and have recently been raised to wages of $10 a week, on which, of course, they pay an income tax.

"Many of the women have gone into various semi-military organizations; as for example the Auxiliary Territorial Service. They are equipped with uniforms and live in barracks exactly as do soldiers. These women perform all manner of tasks. One unit which I inspected was used for ferrying large convoys of motor vehicles from the ports for delivery into the interior of the country. This, of course, is done night and day and in all sorts of weather. To see these women on the road swinging along in the invariable blackout, in the rain and cold, is indeed an inspiring sight.

"No one who has observed the various activities of the women in all walks of life can but help but be impressed with the fact that here is determination, a high order of ability, a cheerfulness and loyalty which spell success for the Allied powers and defeat for the Axis."

Your correspondents wish to express their best Christmas wishes and sincere hope for a prosperous and victorious New Year to all their fellow employees.

Flash

(Special to the Group 2 Correspondents — from the Middle Change House)—"Kelsey Brothers Establish Meat Packing Concern." Yes, this reliable item of news comes from a notice some of the fellows read in the Middle Change House. Apparently, rabbits will be the source of supply. This is all in fun, so don't take it seriously.

Harold Spier has returned to work following a week's illness.

Donald "Scoop" Bryant has been accepted by the Naval Air Corps and will report some time in March.

William "Billy the Kid" Stanley, who is stationed at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, wrote that the life of an Army para-trooper is no "life of Riley," but involves plenty of hard work and rigorous training.

Jim "Racketts" Brophy, they say, is a wanted man in Wilmington. Racketts says there is absolutely no truth to this rumor and it should be taken with a pinch of salt.

William "Wee Willie" Zauratsky is at home convalescing from injuries suffered two weeks ago. His smiling face is missed.

Asst. Supt. Gene Hunt reports that "Jersey" Klegman has replaced Charles Pierce and all wish "Jersey" the best of luck.

They say Bob "Pepsodent" Reid has the best set of "movie molars" this side of Hollywood. With the new choppers Bob expects to polish off a few steaks and chops.

An explanation was sent to "Bunny" Obrien, cute wife of Danny Obrien, who found a little note inside the thermos of his dinner pail signed "Babe." "Babe" is just another nickname for Leo Bell.

Just a week ago while driving out to work a few of Don Carlson's fellow workers spotted Don's car parked in a gas station. When Don was questioned about this he said he wanted to be the first in line when the place opened up. It must be hard to get out of bed at 6 on a Sunday morning just because someone told him that he did not have to use coupons on Sunday.

Grid Wheeler has been trying for two weeks to sell a house trailer to Archie La Borence. Archie has a nice home, and besides Grid is the one who always leaves his house key in his other pants so this house trailer would do him more good.

A charming young couple, not from this department, was overheard in a soda parlor one evening, trying to figure out a way for each to get his and her name in their respective papers. The fair damsel is Annemarie Kinney of EOP and the dashing young fellow is Jim Claypool of KNK. If there is anyone else who wants his name in the paper just contact your correspondents.

Joe Connors and John Johnson entered church one Sunday morning and as they did everyone looked to the ceiling to see if it was going to stay intact. It's tough for anyone who gets up so late he doesn't have time to eat his breakfast, but these two fellows were not without something to eat very long. John spied a box of animal cookies on the seat in front of them. The owner, a little miss, promptly removed the box from their view so it would not tempt them.

Two former Murphy's Boys, Mike Bruno and Bob McGuire, are serving in the armed forces and would welcome any correspondence from all the fellows. Their addresses may be obtained from The Bomb-Shell office.

Andy Feeney is expected back real soon. Andy has been released by the Marines.

Congratulations are in order for Larry McKeon, who is the proud father of a 10 pound, two ounce son.

After reading George Zobel's letter about the 62 men in his platoon getting their hair cut in 15 minutes, perhaps some of the barbers hereabouts aren't so bad after all.

Frictional Heat Can Cause Fires

Attention of workers in the loading lines is called to the fact that frictional heat or impact even from safety tools can cause a fire in explosives dust or material, the Safety Department announced.

"Don't try to find out if this is true," cautioned Rollin T. Read, safety supervisor. "Ordnance Department headquarters has proof that it is very true."

Personnel

DARA PREW

Correspondent

According to the latest reports the advertisement should still be "Watch the Fords Go By" at the corner of Henderson and Jackson Streets every morning. Helen Bardi never has any trouble in discovering which one Harry Dean is driving. He says that the car is just incorrigible and winks at every pretty girl it sees; anyhow, it had better take heed or get "Blinkitis."

All the little flakes of snow are her allies, and she loves all the little rabbits and creatures of the field. Yes, it's Rose LeBeau, the nature lover of the Personnel department. On one beautiful snowy noon she tramped in the snow down along the fence on the far side of the road. She attempted to bring back a snow laden branch to let the others share her joy, but that was a failure. Greatest of all was her account about the jamboree the rabbits had, she could tell by their tracks.

Francis E. Peck has been aptly dubbed "Mr. Five by Five." A small statue of snow was erected for him the other day right outside the side door with a marker with his name and everything. Good-natured "Chubby" just laughed and said he thought that the head could be improved upon, but that he'd have to admit that the figure wasn't bad.

After two years away in the Army, Bessie East's son suddenly walked in the door of the fingerprint room the other day and said that he was on a month's furlough. Mrs. East is the timekeeper who takes charge of the new employees every day. Everybody shared Mrs. East's joy in seeing her good-looking son, Bob, who is a staff sergeant in the Army Air Corps. Stationed presently at Douglas Field, Arizona, he saw action at Midway Island in the first Japanese attack and was stationed at Hawaii for 15 months before that. Mrs. East's other son, Bill, is in the Coast Guard and has been for six years. He, too, saw action in the attack at Pearl Harbor.

Helen McGinnis, Ordnance Department correspondent, as she was eating luncheon last Saturday afternoon. Evidently very friendly with a newsboy whom she calls John, she greeted him and he inquired if she was in the Army after inspecting her uniform. Thinking to avoid a long explanation, Helen agreed and then came a real flood of inquiry. If she didn't throw bombs like those on her lapels then she must be an officer and give the orders and what was her rank with two stripes on her sleeve. All of this was discussed so that the whole room could hear and Helen didn't flinch, but she didn't elaborate either.

The newest case of how to grow old quickly has just come to the attention of the department through the exasperation of pink-cheeked Jimmy Barrowman. They were new boots that Jimmy came to work in that morning and he was really proud of some of his other togs, too, but they didn't remain clean and shining for very long. He pranced out of the building on an errand and then the car just wouldn't start. He called for a mechanic and waited. When the repairman arrived they pushed it out of the mud and fussed and fidgeted with it. After Jimmy was thoroughly spattered, they finally took it up to the garage. It needed one very important part repaired. The gas tank was thirsty.

William Leeland splurged on a 20-cent cigar for the Christmas Party and was promptly informed that it didn't smell one bit better than the one he smoked every day. By the way, he had so much fun swirling about the floor that he had to remove his coat. The whole evening came to a successful climax with the singing of Christmas carols and two solos by Leona Hagen.

A collection for a gold medal of merit should be started for Joyce Enger in honor of her strict adherence to the truth. Asked just where she got her beautiful black eye, she didn't hedge by saying that someone left a door open and she hit it. Not Joyce, she just came right out and said that her husband, Bob, gave it to her. Seems that Bob is a very heavy sleeper and as she was trying to wake him, he turned over and hit her with his elbow. Now, he won't believe that he did it. Joyce spoiled the whole effectiveness of her veracity about the many-hued orb by declaring there was no use in telling any fibs because Personnel would find out sooner or later anyhow.

Capt. D. P. Tunstall and Mr. Leeland challenged George F. Bent and Floyd Schauland to a bowling match Saturday afternoon, December 19. It was not learned who won, but Mr. Bent turned in a fair game of 234. Previous high scorers of Personnel Department — Mr. Schauland, 225, and the mighty strike bowler, Howard Hauze, 251.

Quiet, even-tempered Vivian Jones of the reference room, who never raises her voice and goes quietly about her work without disturbing anyone, walked into the lounge one day and calmly announced that she wasn't worrying about Christmas—all she was worrying about was herself. It seemed someone had been very annoying that morning and "still waters run deep."

There's a discussion class every noon among the girls who eat lunch in room 13. Bernadine "Barney" Keenan can give a dissertation upon her Irish setter, Peggy, upon a second's notice, while Kathryn Smith's son, Jimmy-Boy, is another facet on the jewel of conversation. June Fors and Cora Adelman add that original touch of "dead-pan" comedy, while Lorraine Nichols describes her grandfather in his night shirt. Rita Cooney is versatile and can insert her Irish wit into most any of the subjects and manages to eat some little thing left from somebody else's lunch.

Well, as one man wrote in his application, your correspondent is anxious "to become a more important clog in the defense industry."

Group 3-A

F. G. TAMBLYN

Correspondent

The Bomb Loaders' Frolic, a party given by Group 3-A December 12 at Recreation Hall, was a grand success. Dancing, entertainment and music were enjoyed by all. Many went home carrying prizes won at the bingo table and chance booth. Among those lucky on the turkey raffle were Capt. D. P. Tunstall, John J. Cole, J. C. Schmeh, and James Grady. Hanz McGinnis held the lucky number for the door prize—which was a turkey — and from appearances was nearly paralyzed from the shock of hearing the announcer call the number he held as the winner. For a moment there was a question whether Mr. McGinnis won the turkey or the turkey won Mr. McGinnis.

Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick greeted the guests as they arrived and was pleased with the large crowd that attended this affair in spite of the zero weather and gasoline rationing. A good time was had by all and much credit is given to him and to the various committees that made this event one of the most outstanding of the season.

When Tom Wheeler was questioned about news for The Bomb-Shell, he replied he had none, but was willing to offer his picture if the paper ran a comic section.

The wife of Charles "Parlay" Zogus has presented him with a book entitled "How to Clean Up on the Horses." Anyone wishing free instructions on the art of sweeping can contact Charley at Building 10.

On December 11, at Silver Cross Hospital, Joliet, the population of Lockport was increased by one with the birth of a seven-pound son to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Simmons. "Pop," Building 12 foreman, has fully recovered.

A parody on a popular song—entitled "I've Got a Touch of Tetryl in My Hair" is credited to Harold Koehler.

Mr. Fitzpatrick's dog, Chin, is getting more than his ration of meat these days, but since rabbit is on the unrestricted list, his liberty is still safe.

Darrell Liles left the group for the armed forces.

Margaret Scardina, on a trip to visit her husband, has had her return trip delayed by lack of transportation facilities.

The boys in Building 12 wonder if Edna Alexander's husband knows that she is quite an acrobat with a mop.

A daughter, Kathryn Ray, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Paul of Pontiac December 3.

The boys in Building 4 miss Francis Joho, known to them as "King" Joho, who left for the Army December 14.

Many are wondering which building William Heylek really works in, Building 12 or Building 16-A.

Fred Rigoni, known as Glamour Boy, is said to have been put on the auction block recently by a Government inspector.

It has been asked how a man with a name like Lowell Hansen can come to work in a green shirt and red necktie.

Glen Mistead, "whip man" at Building 5, accompanied by some of his crew, had a little Christmas party at Wilmington. The boys had a swell time—so did several of the fairer Government inspectors.

Dominic Fassino gave Wilmington a demonstration of "How Not to Be a Tumbler". Dominic would like to know where he can buy a new gas can and also where there is a good osteopath.

Charles "Arkie" White, assistant foreman of Building 12, who recently came from the land of hills, scare holes and shot-gun dwellings, confides that he has now thoroughly adapted himself to northern civilization.

Hazel Byrum is proud to announce that she is the grandmother of a baby girl.

Guard Roy Gentry took leave of absence to make a trip to Kentucky for an Army examination.

Wilcox and Deylitz Shine on Alleys

On December 8 Team 2 defeated Team 1 of the executive group two games to one. High man on the winning team was C. J. Wilcox with 570, high game of 217.

The score:

Girls Plan Bowling League for Friday

Groups which want to use the bowling alleys are requested to call the Recreation Department in advance to reserve alleys. Since the leagues have been dispensed with in preference to the present plan, more individual bowlers have been provided for. Novice bowlers have an equal chance with the experts and they have been taking advantage of the plan.

The girls are planning a league for Ladies' Day—Friday—line up your bowlers and send your lists to the Recreation Department.

Do you sing? Would you like to be in a chorus? A mixed chorus is now being organized and will make its debut caroling around Christmas time. Further plans will be discussed at the rehearsals. Invitations have already been received for the appearance of a choral group from EOP. Many good voices in the groups have been waiting for this call, so mention your interest to your Employees Activity Committee representative or call the Recreation Department, Line 4109.

Guards

Service bars have been inaugurated in the Guard Department. For each six months of service a guard is awarded one service bar. The bars are worn on the left coat sleeve. Many of the boys in the office are thinking of wearing their coats, while on duty, so as to display their service stripes.

Two more guards left recently to assist Uncle Sam's armed forces. Leroy Hawk is in the Army and John Nicholson enlisted in the Navy.

Guards' Sports World

Members of the Guard Department have formed an "Early morning Keglers" session. The latest member to join was Lt. Emmett Bantner, and more are welcome to join by contacting any one of the keglers mentioned here. The latest results were: Lt. Harry Dowden, Lt. Emmett Bantner and Ennis Ryan defeated Sgt. Thomas Cerre and Albert Atwood and Fred Dutter. Dowden was high man with a four-game total of 777 and high single of 241.

Jim Stiglich, who bowls with the EOP Guard team in the Industrial league, hit a high single game of 265 and a 601 series.

The Guards would like to have a few match games with any team in the area, if arrangements can be made. Call Capt. Walter Bayer at Guard Headquarters.

The best match game so far this season involved Chief M. C. Baughman and Lt. Richard "Curly" Boylan. Bashful Boylan contends his game was hampered by the weight he was carrying (overhead) that is: the constant threats of his future. Post 13 came close to being reopened.

The Basketball League is now in full swing. The Guards' basketball team, managed by Lieutenant Dowden, is planning to give many surprises to opposing teams this season. The biggest surprise will be when they blossom out in new uniforms. The co-operation of all in the department aided the boys in looking their best. Now . . . to win a few games.

Quick results have been reported since the last publication. Walter Britz, with the assistance of this column, has disposed of his two goats to Gottlieb Plock. Guard Britz reports that Plock barbecued the kid and is milking the goat (one quart a day).

Recent rumors that Sgt. Claude Hogan is soon to become a proud daddy have been confirmed. A very nice Christmas present, says Claude.

Remember when: Everybody was knocked down trying to change clothes in the old Guardhouse (Forsythe Farm) . . . Distinguished Posts included "The Dynamite," "1¼ South RR," Post 13, Post 16 and Group 62 buildings. . . . The old country phone hung on the wall in the chief's office. . . . The theme song was "throw a couple of more shovels on the fire."

With the Ladies

Last minute Christmas shopping didn't prove so successful for Hermie Bidgood. Her purse was snatched as she was entering a city bus in Joliet last week. However, Mrs. Bidgood, an efficient policewoman, spotted the culprit and immediately had him arrested.

Villa Eggleston is soliciting orders for her new business, interior decorating, and if anyone doubts her ability, they are invited to visit Headquarters to see the charming Christmas decorations she arranged so artistically.

Marian Qualls fell last Monday and broke her ankle. All sympathize deeply with Mrs. Qualls and look forward to the time she will return.

New women added to the Police Division include Johanna Sullivan, Bessie Hunter, Elizabeth Bottomley, Grace Bourguignon, Mae Glade, Berneice Jiskra, Elizabeth Malek, Pearl Marshall, Alma Mattox, Ethel Million, Louise McDermott, Anna Mae Singer, Ida Ann Stocker and Geneive Turcotte.

Ellen Nugent, who selected Christmas for her wedding day, has the best wishes of the policewomen.

The EOP Guide Post

Classified ads will be published without charge for EOP employees and their families. If you can offer transportation, want transportation; want to trade, buy or sell something; have a house or apartment to rent; have lost or found something, you are invited to make use of this service. Deadline is Wednesday, ten days preceding publication.

Lost—Near Fuze and Booster gate or on bus, a light tan billfold containing driver's license and social security card. See Harriet Perschnick, Group 1, building 10.

For Rent—Large front room with twin beds. Well furnished. Will pack lunches and make breakfast if desired. Gentlemen preferred. See Mrs. Ida M. Green, 214 Bartleson street, Joliet. Telephone 3-1194.

For Sale—'36 Plymouth coach. Good condition. Heater. Good tires. Very reasonable. Call Joe Smajd, Line 4162.

For Rent — Furnished rooms at Braidwood with hot water and heat. See H. E. Barrett, Government inspector, Group 1.

ELWOOD ON PARADE

SPIRIT OF MERRY-MAKING was plentifully in evidence as the Purchasing Department, pictured here, held its annual Christmas party at the Joliet Hotel December 17.

SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS marked this dinner gathering of head assembly line workers from Building 11, Group 8, at the Woodruff Grill, December 17, with Mrs. Anita Burke as leader.

SPIRIT OF GROUP CO-OPERATION was visible at this meeting of Group 3-A workers as they were addressed by their superintendent, John J. Fitzpatrick. Similar meetings stressing safety are held from time to time for group shifts.

EOP GETS ARMY NAVY "E" FLAG

Buy $50 Bonds To Save Money For Uncle Sam

95% of Bonds Bought by EOP Are $25 Value

By U. S. America

Hey mister . . . and you, too, sister! This is your Uncle Sam and I need your help.

First, let me say thanks from the bottom of my heart for all the War Bonds you are buying. You've been swell, and all my nephews in North Africa, New Guinea, Alaska, Iceland and throughout the South Pacific join me in expressing appreciation to you.

Not only have you kept the bombs and shells rolling to the battle fronts, but you have sent your dollars to war, too. And, oh, how they are needed.

You know, my dear people, in this total war, every little thing counts. There is one little thing further you can do to help. It won't cost you a cent, but it will mean a lot to me.

You know, too, that I had my Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, send you a "T" flag because you have bought so many War Bonds. It flies proudly from the flagpole in front of your Administration Building and I am glad to see it there. Now, the officers of my Federal Reserve Bank tell me that if you buy $50 War

WAR DEPARTMENT
OFFICE OF THE UNDER SECRETARY
WASHINGTON, D. C.

January 9, 1943

To the Men and Women of the Elwood Ordnance Plant
Sanderson & Porter
Joliet, Illinois

This is to inform you that the Army and Navy are conferring upon you the Army-Navy Production Award for great accomplishment in the production of war equipment.

This award symbolizes your country's appreciation of the achievement of every man and woman in the Elwood Ordnance Plant. It consists of a flag to be flown above your plant, and a lapel pin which each civilian employee may wear as a sign of distinguished service to his country.

I am confident that your outstanding record will bring victory nearer by inspiring others to similar high achievement.

Sincerely yours,

Robert P. Patterson
Under Secretary of War

EOP'S SOLDIERS OF ORDNANCE take pride in this letter from Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, which pays tribute to their accomplishment in furnishing bombs, shells and anti-tank mines for the far flung armies of the United Nations.

General Harris to Represent U. S.; Pins Go to Employees

The men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant have been awarded the highly-prized Army and Navy "E" in recognition of their splendid accomplishments in war production.

Bestowal of the award was announced January 10 on receipt of a letter from Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, reproduced in an adjoining column.

Presentation of the award has been set for February 12, birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln.

Major General C. T. Harris, Jr., Commanding General of Aberdeen Proving Ground, Aberdeen, Md., has been designated by Major General L. H. Campbell, Jr., Chief of Ordnance, to present the "E" flag to EOP in behalf of the Army and Navy. General Harris was Chief of Industrial Service, Ordnance Department, during the time EOP was being built and placed in operation and is well acquainted with the plant and its personnel. Management and employees of EOP are gratified over General Campbell's selection.

Cut Out Absenteeism and Keep Your Bonds

The record of War Bond purchases by workers of Elwood Ordnance Plant has received the commendation of the Secretary of the Treasury, as evidenced by the "minute man flag" which flies immediately below our post flag. It will be harder for us to maintain this record with the added Victory Tax now in effect, but it can be done in one easy way, by doing away with absenteeism!

This plant is being operated on a 48-hour week basis. You would be surprised, however, at the number of employees who work only 40 hours a week, or five days. Work on the sixth day adds 12 hours to the 40 hours, and 30 per cent to the week's wages.

If absenteeism is done away with, workers can maintain their 10 per cent War Bond purchases, pay the Victory Tax, and can either increase War Bond purchases or save for income taxes.

Don't let anyone influence you to cash your War Bonds. You bought these bonds for two good reasons, to help win the war, and to create savings as insurance against adversity and for comfort in later years. These two good reasons are just as good now as they were when you made your subscription! Should you cash your bonds before the war is won, you will defeat the whole purpose of War Bond sales, and will destroy the good which you have already done; and, of course, your savings will quickly vanish.

This good old U.S.A. is still known as a free country. You can sell your War Bonds! But, let's keep it free by doing whatever may be necessary to support our Government, and enable it to buy the supplies needed by us and our allies to crush our enemies.

Stop and Think

Never before in the history of the entire world has a nation been faced with such a gigantic amount of trials, troubles and tribulations as our Nation is facing today. We are in the most bloody and gruesome war that history has ever known. Fighting an enemy who will resort to every and all methods to accomplish his selfish and brutal end.

The men in the Army, the Navy, the Marines, the Air Corps, the war plants, the women connected with our fighting forces, those in the munition plants, those in the homes, are all dependent on each other. Each and every American citizen has a special job to do.

Yet, after knowing most of these facts, some of us are not doing our part. The war isn't as bad as we read—"We'll win as soon as we open up," is the thought with which some of us go to work. I believe it is time we all "opened up," and come to the realization that we are fighting for our very lives; a fight in which our job plays an important part. Every day missed puts the enemy one day nearer his goal.

We must all sacrifice, think, work and act together. If we don't—we are a house divided and ruination is inevitable. Fellow workers, stop and think, think, think!

The Burning Pit
By Scorchy

Having polished off 1942 and packed it away for Posterity (that guy Posterity is going to be awfully surprised when he finds all the wornout stuff his friends have packed away for him), it is about time to take a deep breath and go to work on that kid '43 and really make a man out of him. "Scorchy rushes in where . . . fear to tread."

Recent changes in assignment have brought your learned correspondent into closer touch with the lunch rooms, change houses and other centers of higher thought at EOP. I have been listening. You may not believe it but there is a surprisingly large number of our fellow workers (that last word with some hesitation) who seem to have developed a mental impenetrability (there's a dandy—had to go to the book for that one) about what is going on in the world. The thought suddenly came to me that here is the opportunity to start a printed lecture course in these columns for their benefit, in the hope that maybe a few might be brought out of their self-indulging fog into the real daylight that surrounds us all. It is admitted that there are many who do not need the course so they will be promoted to 7A and allowed to eat those sour apples that the other palm-greasing students bring to teacher in lieu of their last evening's homework. I don't like apples anyway. So here goes.

All good correspondence courses need a Preface so I will preface my 20 easy lessons with the reminder that all efforts will be made to keep the ideas down to one-syllable words because seemingly the most eligible candidates have been unable to grasp the long Websterian tongue-tanglers that have up to now been used to tell the story.

Believe it or not, you won't believe the subject of this course. To most of you it will seem so unnecessary to talk about that you will question the sanity of your combination reporter, and what now? . . . yes, Professor. Here it is, brace yourself . . . we are AT WAR. There's the biggest one-syllable word of the course.

After listening to the bellyaching of so many of our shoulder-rubbers about the inequity of their having to give up this, do without that, or get along without some other what-not, the time is here to put them straight.

We hear them talk about some OPA restriction as being an infringement of their "rights." Phooey! There are a lot of better Americans out Pacific-way who would be glad to have their "rights" still connected to their elbows. As to our old friend "Absenteeism," that is being taken care of a few picas to the left, so we will assign that as collateral reading, with an essay to be written at the end of the term before you can pass the course.

Then there is the super-patriot who complains that his health is being ruined because he doesn't get enough sugar. Sit alongside of him in any lunch room and watch him shovel the stuff into a cup of coffee (about which he has also been short-changed). By the time he gets through his excavations in the sugar bowl, the erstwhile brown liquid has long since ceased to be a beverage and resembles more closely the stuff we see the cement-finisher applying with a trowel. Maybe our crying sufferer never thought of omitting one or two of those last four spoonfuls.

We also find the trophy-winners that approach their foremen with the World War II classic, "Gee, Boss, I have been at this job for an hour-and-a-half and haven't been promoted—what does a guy have to do around here to get some place?" You know him, don't you? And also the expert who can get his time card into the time clock every morning just as the type is moving from 7:30 to 7:31, which leaves the poor timekeeper with the problem as to whether it is 7:30¼ or 7:30½ or, to hell with it, make it 7:31, and chalk up another chiseler.

And as to "beefing," if it were possible to draw some relationship between it and the real sirloin that we are not going to eat so much of from now on, I tell you there would be enough of the stuff to feed the whole world, and bring Wimpy's prices down to about 3 cents a copy.

And if you have read this far, you know whether you are eligible to enroll in the course.

Absenteeism Editorial Is Praised

Mr. Harrison Smith, Manager
Sanderson & Porter
Elwood Ordnance Plant
Joliet, Illinois

Dear Mr. Smith:

A copy of the editorial, "A Few Words to Absentee Employees," which appeared in the January 1, 1943 issue of your publication, The Bomb-Shell, has just come to my attention.

You and the editorial writer should be congratulated for the plain, forceful language used in denouncing excess absenteeism in your plant. It happens that at the same time the editorial was referred to me a mimeographed copy of experiments tried for reducing absenteeism gleaned from various sources, also crossed my desk. I am attaching this material for your information and the possible application of some of the ideas to your situation, if they have not already been tried.

In return, I would appreciate receiving from you any plans you are now using which differ from those contained in the attached.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) Chester W. Hepler

The holidays have come and gone . . . and as Mothers all over the land are saying "I'm glad to have the kids home, but it sure seems good to have peace and quiet again."

The snows brought on usual woes . . . people missing rides and looking sadly at the crowded buses. . . . Saw Lois Ressler, Agnes Hatting, Evelyn Greenwood, Billie Nicholson, Betty Kane and Sadie Atkinson all stranded the other morning. But thanks to the Mail and the Plant Bus everyone arrived eventually.

Didja know that Hazel "Adjutant" Kossak calls her husband, Art, "My little boy." . . . Cute, don't you think?? . . . Guess the gang had a good time over to their house New Year's. Helen Harmon got a very nice Christmas present from (sh-sh—not a word), but it begins with a "B." . . . Bea Berge from Personnel returned from God's Country, Superior, Wis., after what was supposed to be a pleasant trip home to see "Ma" for Christmas and turned out to be an ornery trip to the dentist . . . spent practically all the time home in bed.

Jim George is what Tommy Haigh calls the model husband . . . doesn't he build model airplanes for his two sons??? . . . course no one can figure out whether Pa enjoys them as much as the kids or not, but recalls the story of the lady who went to a downtown store during the holidays and asked the clerk to suggest some toy for her child which the husband could play with.

Dara Prew, the perennial kid, was having the time of her life building a snow man outside the Personnel Building during the blizzard.

Many wonder what happened to Anne Kakara's diamond . . . it was among the missing the last time she was seen.

Erny Aeschbacker, formerly of Timekeeping, sent the gang a Christmas card from the Navy Signal Training School at the University of Illinois.

Art Koch is still on the unavailable list . . . many wonder why. Kay Rosenbaum of Auditing has been having a hard time getting over a cold, but who hasn't?

Evelyn Tecotsky, the rascal, has hidden her talents from everyone—she can draw and play the piano and is not an amateur in either. . . . Marjorie Glover, the teenie weenie, visited her boy friend lately. . . . Perhaps that accounts for the gleam in her eye.

Hazel Koller of Payroll had a nasty boil on her chin . . . and did she mind . . . and how . . . but 'tis better now and she is her jovial self again.

Kay Cusick hasn't forgotten her badge in a long time. Dick Dean of Payroll is in line for the well known call from our gray bearded uncle.

If you'd like to bowl a good game try a match with "Tommy" Tomlianovich of Inspection . . . she can sure show you a few things.

Mara Puett, the glamor gal from Auditing, had the "Number Kings" up to her house during the holidays . . . everyone had a marvelous time and unanimously agreed that she was a perfect hostess.

Donald "Handsome" Butts is another candidate for the armed forces . . . he is one nice boy . . . and nothing is too much trouble for him to do.

Pat Haley has returned to work after having her appendix removed . . . looks swell too . . . now Gerry Kestel can relax.

Bernie Jones sure has fun teasing her sister. . . . By the way, she and her gal friends are going up to see "The Merry Widow." Helen Boula, cute little gal from Lemont, has a new theme song . . . "Wonder When My Baby's Comin' Home."

Jo Kush from Mail and Record has a big secret . . . it has to do with something to wear . . . but to find out the details one must ask her. Bob Kennedy is in the armed forces and likes it . . . but Betty Wilhelmi doesn't. Many wonder what has happened to Charles Webster . . . he hasn't sent word to any of the kids since he went back home.

Home Morale Needs Spurt Says Soldier

Number of Letters Indicates Many EOP Men Across

Many former EOP employees now in the armed forces are overseas, it is evident from the number of letters received from North Africa, the Middle East, New Guinea and England. All former workers do not write directly to The Bomb-Shell, but from the number who do it is easy to judge there are many of them fighting on foreign fronts.

They all think of home, even those still stationed within the States. This is illustrated by a moving letter from Pvt. Harold E. Johnson at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, who advises that the homefolks should look after their own morale and not fret about the spirit of the fighting men.

"Maybe I'm off the beam," said Private Johnson, "but on a recent furlough back to the old homestead I learned that the morale is a lot worse than it is here. It's easy to understand, my Mother, sister and wife worried about their loved one (Harold) in this nasty war. Everybody is practically killing themselves worrying about their loved ones away at camp or overseas.

Works No Harder

"But here we are grabbing our training under the best of conditions, going to an occasional show, drinking malts every night, sleeping and eating like a king. You can't beat that life. Sure, I'm working, but no harder than I did for John O'Connell at EOP.

"Most of all, I'm learning to be a soldier—which is going to be the most precious thing in the world to me when I get on the battle front. Nope, as I see it, I think the morale of the soldiers is okeh. It's the morale back home that needs a lift.

"I would like for you to pass this on to the readers of The Bomb-Shell. If not, please say hello to all former boys who worked in the Timekeeping Department for me."

"Just a line to let you know I have received two editions of the plant paper," wrote Pvt. James F. Walsh. "The first was last month somewhere in England, and the second one of November 20, I received December 12 somewhere in Africa (and many thanks to you).

Censor Uses Scissors

"It seemed good to look at the pictures and read about so many people one knows. My best wishes to you and all my friends at the plant, Charles Herbig, Material Warehouse, and Ed LaRoque and Homer Peters at Group 63. Once again, many thanks. (Everything is OK.")

A letter censored with scissors was received from Sgt. Louis Dante, member of a bombing squadron, from somewhere in England. Sergeant Dante said, "When I was back in the good old U. S., I received my copy of The Bomb-Shell regularly. Now that I am overseas, I would appreciate it more than ever. I worked in the Guard Headquarters and I really looked forward to The Bomb-Shell to keep up with what goes on."

Two and a half lines were cut out of the letter, but it continued on the next line like this, "shells. Let me say that they really do the job. So you can convey this message to the people of the plant . . . You keep them coming off the assembly and we'll polish off the enemy. But don't forget my address."

From Camp Claiborne, Louisiana, Corp. Tech. Russell Thompson, wrote that "with the soldiers of the fighting line and those of the production line, victory shall be short coming. I wish to urge the soldiers of production to buy bonds and give generously to War Chests and relief."

Praises S & P Group

"I left Group 3 November 25 for the Army," penned Pvt. Charles J. Shipp from Camp Wolters, Texas. "I can say that I have missed the plant and the fellows I worked with. I worked in Building 16 as assistant foreman on Stanley Kroger's shift. I had worked in Building 16 for 11 months and it was hard to get along without the place. Give my regards to all the fellows in Group 3."

"I was employed by you March 14, 1941, and worked with you until I was drafted into the Army October 7, 1942," wrote Corp. Joseph T. Haley from Camp Adair, Oregon. "I never in my life worked for a company I liked better and would like to be with the rest of my life than Sanderson & Porter. I wish all of you a very happy and prosperous New Year."

Pvt. Donald F. Wendel, writing from Camp Livingston, Louisiana, asked that his regards be sent to "all the gang" at Group 8 with a request that they write to him as he enjoys "mail call" every day.

"Well, here I am in the Medical Division of the Army," said Pvt. Timothy J. O'Donnell, Camp Grant, Illinois. "One year ago today (January 7) I was working in Group 1 in the carpenter shop. How are all the boys in Group 1? I sure would like to see some of the boys as I will be here for just four more weeks. Then I will be sent away, as we will finish our school."

Mothers Also Write

Pvt. Harvey H. Senter, who is with a bomb squadron at the Army Airdrome at Cut Bank, Mont., wrote that he would like to hear a little more about the night shift at Building 10, Group 1, where he worked before joining the Army.

Mrs. James Shaw, Joliet, mother of Pvt. John J. Shaw, who is with the Bomber Command somewhere in Australia, said her son receives the paper about once a month. "I thank you again, for he is so thrilled about receiving the paper I just had to write and thank you for him," said Mrs. Shaw.

Letters and cards also were received from Pvt. Raymond V. Hansen, Big Springs, Tex.; Francis Aspel, Great Lakes, Ill.; Pvt. Leo Walters, Camp Elliot, California; Pvt. James H. Hudson, Camp Wallace, Texas; J. Philip Allison, Virginia Beach, Va.; Martin R. Engel, Camp Hill, Idaho; Pvt. Louis J. Peters, Camp Robinson, Arkansas; Pvt. G. E. Potter, Camp Roberts, California; Pvt. Wayne Bezold, Kearns, Utah; Pvt. Stephen V. Biro, Fort Knox, Kentucky; Pvt. Edward L. Kurth, San Benito, Tex.; Pvt. Harold F. O'Keefe, Springfield, Ill.; Joseph F. Ambrozich, South Truro, Mass.; Pvt. Tony Tamazaitas, Fort Bragg, North Carolina; Pvt. Charles J. Maly, Jr., Eagle Pass, Tex.; Pvt. Clarence L. Why Worry in '43?

You have only two things to worry about—

Either there'll be more rationing or there won't be more rationing. If there isn't more rationing, you haven't anything to worry about. And if there is more rationing, you still have only two things to worry about.

Either there'll be more taxes or there won't be more taxes. If there aren't more taxes, you haven't anything to worry about. And if there are more taxes, you still have only two things to worry about.

Either we're going to win this war or we're going to lose this war. If we're going to win this war, you haven't anything to worry about. And if we Americans plan on not losing this war we'll be kept so dog-gone busy this year we won't have time to worry. . . . So why worry?—Arlene Schloendorf.

Ann Lipsar of Operations and Transportation is sure a busy gal these days . . . sorta gets around though. . . . Ask Helen Benson of Transportation how many blank of what kind of blank she got for Christmas . . . also what she did with them.

EOP Shells Thrill Fighter in Africa

To the Editor:

Having received no word from our son, George E. Dohm, Jr., since October 18, we were considerably worried, especially since several of his buddies had informed their folks that three weeks ago they had safely landed at Casablanca, Africa. This information, along with the Government's release of the news about the sinking of five transports at this invasion point, cast a depressed feeling of doubt over us as to his safety.

However, on Christmas Eve two letters arrived from him and dissipated into thin air our fears and instead we were overjoyed with the grandest feeling of happiness we ever experienced.

This unexpected news was like a message from heaven and reads in part, as follows:

Dear Mother and Dad:—

A few lines to inform you that I am safe and well and am here in Casablanca, French Morocco, Africa.

We made a fighting landing from our voyage from the States and had a taste of real action. Our Chicago and Joliet bunch are still intact and talk always of home. I believe you can learn more from the papers of our doings than I can say or tell you. Please save all the clippings of this campaign for me to read later and talk over with you.

The greatest thrill of all was that most of our shells (size censored) were marked EOP from our home town and did excellent work. Maybe Jule Meyer and some of my other friends had their hands on a few of these.

Gosh, that sure made me feel good to see that name on those shells, and will ever remind me of the co-operation my pals back home are giving us boys here at the front. It links the civilian and the soldier and gives us the courage through the knowledge that we all are doing our part in our own way to win this war.

No matter what happens or what the future has in store for me, nothing, dear folks, can change or take your place in my heart. The best of luck and loads of love,

George.

Before entering the Army, George was employed by Sanderson & Porter in the construction of the plant. He was inducted June 24, 1941, and was stationed at various camps in California and finally Camp Pickett, Virginia, where he was stationed for six weeks before embarking for Africa to open the second front.

Yours very truly,
George A. Dohm, Sr.,
817 Clement St.
Joliet, Ill.

The Fire Department Dribblers tangled with the Chemical Lab Quintet 'tother evening and lost by the modest score of 32-16. Alibis have been flying thick and fast ever since. Larry Dailey said, "Perspiration got in me eyes." (He tossed the ball to an opponent waiting at the basket, a gift of two points.) In addition he kept feeding the ball to the wrong people during the game. Sgt. Ed. Stricklin claims that two of the Lab forwards were All-Americans, or some other such drivel . . . others say the referees were crooked . . . strangely enough, no one blamed the scorekeeper; after all, if he'd kept his mouth shut, all would have been well.

Leaders of the "Good Behavior Club," composed of foremen, voted unanimously to keep out of this column names and happenings on New Year's Eve. The chiefs claim that at least once a year employees should be allowed to go out and have a good time without having their names appear in print. The judgment of such men as Harvey Steffes, Allen Mayes and other prominent leaders is respected and New Year's Eve will not be mentioned any further on the scandal side.

Welcomed into the organization is Wilbur O. Wagner.

Pvt. Loren Horrie, in a letter to the boys at Building 2, writes that he is getting impatient pounding nails at carpenter work when he could be pounding Japs.

Carl Puswaskis had a birthday December 28 and it was not in The Bomb-Shell. Norman Johnston thinks that, due to rationing, the printers were scarce on s's for Carl's last name.

If you are troubled with your mathematics call J. Decker, mathematician of Group 61.

The new pipe fitter foreman is Norman Johnston.

Anyone not knowing would think that Scott Whalen and William Biggs are the worst enemies. The two are consistently arguing.

Building 1 employees made a New Year's resolution—"we will have no animosity toward anyone."

Lester Tammen made eight baskets to make him high point man against the Fire Guards, although the Group 5 lost. However, Robert Plese, Joseph Sarti, Robert Karges and Tammen let the Fire Preventers know that they had been in a game.

Pilfering Canteens May Bring End to Service

Unless pilfering of the canteens in the various group change houses is stopped, this candy and soft drink service for employees will be discontinued, according to Guard Chief M. C. Baughman.

A number of the dispensing machines have been looted of money and supplies and, in one instance, the canteen was practically demolished in breaking open the cash box, Chief Baughman said.

"This service was installed for the convenience of workers and it has been most popular," continued the chief. "All of us should look upon the machines as we would any other EOP property and treat them as such. We will be forced to discontinue the service if we fail to get the co-operation of all employees."

Personnel

DARA PREW

The movie, "Transport," is one all members of the Personnel Department will make a special effort to attend. Robert Hamlin, former interviewer and a marine somewhere in the southern Pacific at present, sends word that if a sharp watch is kept he might be seen.

Bob wasn't the only member of the armed forces to remember his old associates in the department, however, as William T. Bryant sent his greetings from Officer Candidate school. First word from Bernard Lipsey came from Oregon and genial John Koch sent his regards from his camp in Wisconsin. Larry McCann, former timekeeper, vows that he spent the quietest New Year's Eve in the hospital at Fort Lewis, Washington, where he was sent after he had pulled ligaments in one leg. Most unexpected was the letter from former interviewer, Sgt. Lindsey L. Gordon containing news of his recent marriage.

After Byron Mills' car stalled in the snow Jane Schnepper, Georgiana Flavin and Dorothy Kaldem hitch-hiked the rest of the way to work in a pick-up truck driven by one of the new women chauffeurs. Georgiana's coat was rather dirty and someone suggested that she might have slipped, but facts verify her tale that it was only the dirt in the back of the truck.

If you want to please June Morgan, just ask to see her prize letter that accompanied one of the return badges. Apologizing for keeping the badge so long, the former employee expressed regret for the necessity of parting with it as it was the only object he had which he was sure would frighten the "devil out of the neighborhood kids" at a moment's notice. He could absolutely guarantee its effectiveness.

Without any forewarning to his fellow-workers, Frank Yarbrough was married January 2 in Kankakee. His sweet young bride is the former Lorene Mayfield.

The volume of mail to the department has swelled considerably since little Rita "Rusty" Cushing decided to wear a diamond on the correct finger, and the man in question, Robert Gato, left for the Marine Corps Base in San Diego, Calif. She receives at least two letters a day and usually more.

Al Dearth used to sell Oldsmobiles and he let that fact become known in the building through his enthusiasm for the one he drives and any of the same make which he may sight. One morning he was stalled in his much lauded "Olds" and had to make a mercy plea for rescue to Clinton Matteson in his Mercury. Now the recommendation for Al is to buy a Mercury, a mule or a different kind of gasoline.

After a week's illness, June Fors has returned to the force with brand new vim and vigor. Recently she gave three blood transfusions to a dear friend who was very ill. Shortly afterwards the Red Cross wanted to know if she would be a donor to the blood bank.

From the latest report, Jimmy Barrowman will leave here on Wednesday, January 18, for his medical examination and induction into the Army. Typically, Jimmy doesn't say much about going, but bemoans the fact that they couldn't take him January 12 or 14. Organizer Jim promoted a sleigh ride in the new fallen snow and everyone had a rolling good time.

It was all the result of a misunderstanding, but to Guard Don Kane it was almost too much to bear. A former woman employee came into the building seeking to be rehired. While one of the interviewers was reviewing her work record with her, reading: "You were hired on this date and separated AWOL on that date, etc.," he glanced up and saw her crying. Inquiring if he could help in any way, he received this reply, "I've been married 14 years and my husband and I still love each other. We've never been separated." After a little explanation that what was meant was separation from her job, the woman left wreathed in smiles.

Kathryn Smith's new motto is get that for which you are striving and she follows it rigidly. Running wildly after the bus and fearing that it might somehow escape her, she made an extra spurt. Her flying tackle was beautiful if not graceful and she will inform you, if you give her the chance, that the only way the bus could have left her behind was to run right over her. Score at the end of the play remained—one bus ride, one torn stocking, one scratched knee and a terrific teasing in favor of an indignant "Katie." Retracing her steps to turn off a kitchen light was the cause of her downfall.

J. Thomas Haigh was wearing a red face during the Christmas season to contrast with William Leeland's new green sweater which was one of his presents under the tree. Seems that "Tom" has been bitten by the inquisitive bug. As he passed a glass door day after day unusual symptoms of the malady increased. Big black letters read "PRIVATE." At last his fever rose and in a fit of delirium he gave way to temptation, turned the knob and discovered the girls' rest room.

With the new year come helpful suggestions, but Carmen Oldani received one of the most pertinent. Several people inquired why she didn't buy a commuter's ticket to Alabama where husband Jim is stationed at Camp Rucker. Of course, it was all good natured teasing but Carmen was mighty thrilled to be able to spend Christmas in Montgomery, Ala., with him.

Between 65 and 70 members of the Personnel and Investigation Departments, including the Honorable Donald J. Kane, gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Bent on Wednesday evening, Dec. 30, 1942, for a Christmas party. The whole house was decorated in the Christmas spirit and between eating, singing, dancing and playing games the evening passed so quickly that no one could believe that it had come to an end.

Many were the resolutions floating around the building the Monday following New Year's Day, but only a few can be reproduced here. Notable among them are those from Helen Bardi—to write to boys in the armed services more frequently (she's written eight letters to them already); Gordon McQuiggin—resolved not to make any resolutions and stay out of the column; Francis Peck—never lose his temper; Marcella Burnham—not to complain and never talk about anybody behind his back (she suggests that it will be a quiet year); Jeanne Hershey—to be as mean(?) and contemptible(?) this year as she was sweet and agreeable last year.

EOP Paper Wins Award of Merit In 1942 Contest

Honor was bestowed upon The Bomb-Shell, published by and for the employees of Elwood Ordnance Plant, when it was awarded a certificate of merit by the Industrial Editors Association in its annual competition for 1942.

Competition is divided into several classes and The Bomb-Shell won the second award for newspaper-style publications published for employees. The Graphic News, a 10-year-old tabloid published for employees of Sears, Roebuck & Company, which won second award last year, was given the first award in this division in the 1942 contest.

Winners were announced in Chicago December 3 and awards were presented at a dinner meeting of the association January 7 at the Chicago Bar Association. Vernon C. Bailey, editor, and Capt. David P. Tunstall, public relations officer, were present to receive the award for EOP.

Out of 500 industrial publications in the contest, 85 were in the division in which The Bomb-Shell won second award It was the sixth such annual competition.

Officers of the Industrial Editors Association are Dean M. Clark, editor of Grain, president; Frank P. Spalding, Poole Bros., Inc., vice president; Stephen E. Korsen, the Borden Co., treasurer; Nadia Monberg, American Maize Products Co., secretary, and Garth A. Bentley, The Seng Co., director.

Recognition of a plant paper by the Industrial Editors Associations is one of the highest honors in industrial journalism.

Timekeeping

Now that the New Year has been formally introduced, empty aspirin boxes are lying about in ashcans, and New Year resolutions have been broken. Everyone has, with the exception of perhaps a few who are still celebrating, slipped back into the old routine of normal meals and regular sleeping hours, all of which tend to make all wide-awake and healthy and which in turn helps in efforts to do the very best in this great struggle for freedom.

Catherine Martin's ship came in when she visited her sister in Washington. Together they took a group of sailors on a tour of Washington. They showed the fellows a fine time, including dinner and a show.

Thomas Delockery and Frank Kopic have been inducted into the Army. This makes a total of 87 former employees who are now serving in the armed forces. The department at full-force employes a total of 170, so that more than half the department has been replaced by new employees, many of whom are girls.

Ben Sloan, the time department's "Mr. Five by Five," has asked Andy Vail, Salvage Yard correspondent, how he enjoyed that assumed trip to Florida.

Homer Smalt, small time egg and sausage dealer, has offered to treat all the key timekeepers to one of those rare sausage and egg breakfasts. The question is now before the fellows.

Donald Glasgow emerged from the fog long enough to tell the one about a midget who went into a funeral parlor on New Year's Eve and ordered a short bier.

Do you have a hog that you would like butchered or perhaps an old gray mare? If so, call 4125 and ask for Paul Donahue. Paul and his father can skin and butcher a hog faster than you can wink your eye. This is really a job of skill and ranks high in proficiency.

A new theory has been conceived by a good friend of Joseph Smajd. The theory resulted from an experiment on New Year's Eve and is supposed to work wonderfully. It begins when you first are introduced to a girl, instead of saying hello, you kiss her and, if it is responded to, then you will want to know her but if it is not responded to, then you won't want to know her. All of which boils down to this. If you want to get a red face, don't go to all the trouble of going out into the cold but merely practice this new theory.

Can you imagine . . . Bert Rydman engaged in a heated debate . . . Bernard Smago not being interested in women . . . John O'Connell not consenting to giving a speech because of a lack of choice words . . . Ray Bryant or Lennie Bottomly refusing to help each other with their work . . . Chuck DiPeso going to a restaurant for a home cooked meal . . . Milton Treitel okaying all the overtime anyone wanted . . . Dwight Reitz not laughing at a funny joke . . . T. V. Brennan not enjoying a good game of poker . . . Arch LaBorence getting lost in a blackout?

Inert Storage boys enjoyed the holidays and are now back in the saddle again. The problem now is to keep their New Year resolutions. The most puzzled over the holidays was Noel Cox. Gilbert Gould has had a variety of nick names in his squad at Group 27. Among them are "Jitter Bug," "Slacks," "Chicken," "Goiter Tail," "Bob Cat," "Buffalo Bill," "Lightning," "Sweet Man" and "Slim." William "Big Stoop" Hufford would sooner stay home by the fire with his kitten than go out in the cold.

Robert "Lefty" McGraw paid $80 for new uppers and asked Walt "Pete" Peterson how much he paid for his. Lefty didn't know that Pete's were grown that way.

Santa Claus may have fooled some this year, but the basketball team is not fooling. They won four games and lost none. Their victims were Group 70, Inspectors, Timekeepers, and Bus Drivers. Next on the list is the Army and then the Fire Guards.

Slower than molasses in January is a good way to say what happened to those tid-bits of news that should have rolled in this past week. It appears that the holidays were the center of interest, but possibly by next issue some spicy events will come to light. Many new scarfs and gloves are being sported around, but Sidney Bennett says he will swap the best pair of gloves for some of that good old summer time.

Speeding production is no longer a problem . . . one gallon of turpentine went to South Inert.

Nice fresh snow can be had for the hauling at the North Inert clock house . . . bring carts, wagons, or bags. They will gladly exchange it for snow shoes or a cutter.

The Sewing Girls of 14

Thread a needle, and sew
A disk on a powder bag,
Eight hours steady we go;
A good worker doesn't lag.

Our fingers may grow stiff,
Our wrists get very sore—
Still brasses we must lift—
And then sew on some more.

This is work which must be done
To make a shell for the soldiers,
True it's not thrilling fun—
And it causes aching shoulders.

Though our muscles ache and pain —
Onward still we go;
More our victory help to gain
With each little stitch we sew.

And deep down in our hearts
We're glad that we can do it;
In this war we have a part
And we're going to help win it.

Group 7

Congratulations go to Elaine Cartrecht and Orville Burch who were married December 22.

The girls of Group 7 received a card from Judy Wilkinson, formerly of this group and now in the WAVES. She is stationed at Cedar Falls, Ia., and states: "Navy life is hard but interesting."

Amy Banks left January 8 for Cheyenne, Wyo., to visit her boy friend in khaki.

Frank Zupancic, timekeeper, is building a new home.

Eleanor Fisher and Ann Northcutt, who went to South Dakota and southern Illinois, respectively, because of illness in their families, are certainly missed. All hands miss Dot Lehman from 8-8 stockroom.

Group 8 employees celebrated the New Year, but they were back at work Monday morning, all of them.

Mary Vint and her soldier fiance, Pvt. Eddie Majcina, cover the distance between here and Oregon easily, by long-distance telephone.

Marge Sperling writes that she is enjoying life, traveling with her husband, who is in the Army.

Ed Evans and his wife celebrated their 20th wedding anniversary last week.

Hazel Boyd had the pleasure of talking with her daughter in Florida by long-distance telephone. The weather is so nice and warm in Florida, Hazel reported.

Group 9

Some will never forget when John Neely talked Dan Bryan into letting John take Dorothy Murphy out on New Year's Eve. John not only got the girl, but Dan's car as well.

John Clark ushered in the New Year with a few of his Group 9 friends, at a party at his home.

The New Year brought Pamela Marcotte back. Her friends are glad to see her well again.

"Bunny" Partridge and Lanadele Menozzi of Wilmington will be married January 23.

Wilma Lewis, blonde beauty of 6-B, spent Christmas with relatives in Newton, Ill.

Dolores Bambula spent the week-end in Chicago.

Augie Pubintz visited her brother in camp at Kansas City, Mo., over the Holidays.

Eva Espy and Mary McKarg went home for Christmas.

Marion Richards and Pvt. Alden Schreffler will be married January 16.

The Mahalick twins, Evelyn and Florence, will be attendants at a wedding this month.

Wedding bells rang New Year's Eve along with the bells for 1943. . . . Larry Peterson took for better or worse that sweet little girl, Verla Reiter of Joliet. They spent a short honeymoon in Milwaukee. Verla was once employed in Group 6 at the Plant. Uncle Sam took Larry in his arms January 6 and decided that he wanted him for his Army so Larry left for service January 13.

O. K. Madson proved up as an expert chef, preparing, according to a Danish recipe, roast turkey with all accessories (not trimmings). Max Wolfson and family were guests and they still talk about the splendid service.

Mrs. Harry Mellinger, Auditing Department, was called to Kansas City, Mo., when her father-in-law died. She was absent for a week. Sympathy of her associates went with her.

Larry Layton was welcomed to the Engineering Department.

Veranice Quade of Purchasing answered the home call and went to Spring Valley, Minn., for a visit with her folks. When Veranice is absent at any time . . . gee, but she is missed.

Fred Poplausky was a "howling" success as a Hula dancer New Year's Eve at the Jewish Federation. Anyone who knows anyone that knows anybody in Hollywood . . . can get numerous recommendations for him.

There is a mystery in the Administration Building. Anyone who can take the place of Sherlock Holmes should discover why Dorothy Maxwell of Production Planning wears a 10 cent piece fastened in her hair with a paper clip. It's been there for nine months.

Leo Gaffey, Purchasing Department, went to Mankato, Minn. (his home), for a vacation over the holidays.

Lucille Ambrose went to St. Louis for a vacation. She gets a half score because it is about half way to a winter vacation in Florida.

Emily Voegtle, bit 'o honey in the Purchasing Department, is writing to friend hubby, Al, because he was accepted for Army duty. He worked in Group 6.

Annamarie Kinney is reported so interested in Kankakee Ordnance. The answer: Jim Claypool

General Offices put out the welcome mat for Joe Bebej and Otto Wehr, two new chauffeurs.

Corp. Kenneth Somers of Aberdeen Proving Grounds, a former EOP employee, was home for the holidays, according to an interested party, Dolores Kane.

Richard Russell is engaged to Juanita Harter, secretary to Gen. Supt. T. E. Burns, Fuze and Booster Area.

FEEDING her dolly, Lynne Hack, 16-months-old daughter of M. Durell Hack, safety engineer at Group 2, is shown here busily engaged.

Margie Zarley observed her birthday January 14 and her co-workers staged a surprise party for her and for Mary O'Connor, Production Planning, another celebrant. Cake, pot luck dinner and gifts helped them to know it was one year younger for them.

The gentleman strutting up and down the halls around the holidays showing off his son was none other than Frank M. Smith letting you know that the handsome boy by his side was Staff Sgt. Frank M. Smith, Jr., of Luke Field Arizona.

Marion Shelley of Purchasing Department is going to miss teasing her brother, Frank Richard, because he is Army bound. To those on the know, he will always be "Zeke."

Howard Vox and Le Roy Anderson left for the Army on January 13. Howard has announced his engagement to Maxine McBride, former secretary to E. K. Cortright.

George Karas, one of the promising lunch hour ping pong players, let a heavy back swing bring up the uproar of the crowd. A seamstress repaired the damage. Since then he is bowling . . . believes it is safer.

Tex Jackson has six stars on a service flag for the boys in his office who are fighting for victory.

Foreman's Son Gets Commission and Wings

Aviation Cadet Philip J. Sweeney, son of Russell H. Sweeney, Electrical Shop foreman, Group 70, has been commissioned a second lieutenant, Army Air Force, and awarded the wings of an aerial bombardier. He is reported to be the youngest man ever commissioned at Kirtland Field, Albuquerque, N. M.

The fact is, Slim happens to be a respectable, home-grown, aged-in-the-wood, dyed-in-the-wool hillbilly from Fredrickstown, Mo., and is known as one of Missouri's best mule-skinners.

Apologies to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reardon for missing the announcement of their ten-pound son in the last issue. Congratulations are extended to the parents and all are glad mother and baby are doing well.

Felix Mikaitis left January 9 for the armed forces.

It was evident that there was a holiday last week as Sidney Reeve was sporting his Saturday shave on Thursday.

Edward Beasley, famous promoter in Building 13, would like to match his muscle man, Joy Fabijanski, with the battling bachelor, Joe Haley.

Congratulations are extended in advance to a young lady from Kankakee who will soon march down the aisle with Orville "Casanova" Naese.

Catherine Rastello's birthday was celebrated during the lunch period with a "hanky" shower. Birthday cake and ice-cream were served.

Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. William Heylek, proud parents of a new son.

The boys of Building 16-B hope to see the happy day when Gladys Pierce, also known as "Tug-boat Annie," the Mercury driver, will go through the building without stopping to say "Any Bonds."

Ordnance Inspection

Correspondent

Events During 1942

Capt. A. G. Resch was promoted from first lieutenant to captain.

William F. Douville, chief inspector, visited the Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D. C., several times.

Lt. Sol J. Jacobs, divisional inspector of operations, Division II, was commissioned as a first lieutenant, U. S. A., and assigned to EOP.

J. Thomas Haigh, group inspector, Group 1, and James G. George, chief clerk of Ordnance Inspection, were transferred to Capt. D. P. Tunstall's office.

Clara I. Wehner, secretary to A.I.O., was promoted to chief clerk of Ordnance Inspection.

Robert M. Harbison, group inspector, Group 7, Paul R. Smith, William H. Peterson and Melvin M. Dugan, divisional inspectors, were promoted to assistant chief inspectors. Kermitt L. Long, group inspector, Group 3, was promoted to assistant to Paul R. Smith, Division I, Group 3-A.

Stanley L. Eisler, chief, Technical Division, completed training course in quality control at the Chicago Ordnance District Office.

Departure of following officers from EOP: Lt. D. E. Hornbeck, Maj. A. C. Johnston, Capt. P. C. Irvine, Lt. C. P. Bohannon, Lt. D. A. Yeoman, Lt. F. J. Weis, Capt. J. I. Bach, Lt. C. E. Beilharz, Jr., and Lt. M. G. Brandon.

Forty-six male and two female employees of Ordnance Inspection entered the armed forces.

Betty Ross was employed as the first girl chauffeur to handle collection and distribution of mail in the EOP Area, replacing Ralph C. Weiss, who joined the Navy, and is now at Camp Farragut, Athol, Ida.

Eloise O'Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. O'Quinn, Lufkin, Texas, became the bride of Carl L. Anker, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Anker, Cambridge, Ohio, Sunday evening, December 27, in the University Chapel on the Northwestern University Campus, Evanston, Ill. The Rev. Lowell McCoy, a friend of Mr. Anker, officiated. The couple was attended by Stanton Anker, brother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Clifford Lott, both of Evanston. Mr. Anker attended Muskingum College at New Concord, Ohio, and did post-graduate work at Ohio State University, where he received his Ph.D. degree. He has been employed as Chief in the Statistical Section of the Ordnance Inspection Department since April 1942. The bride is a graduate of Texas State College for Women, and until recently was educational director for the Pulaski County Tuberculosis Association at Little Rock, Ark. They are residing in Joliet, Ill.

Bernard A. Kapsch has been very faithful in corresponding with his former co-workers in the Ordnance Inspection Department. He completed his training at Great Lakes, Ill., and is now stationed at Navy Hospital Corps School, San Diego, Calif.

J. Leo "Wiggles" Waldvogel did not go hungry Christmas Day. Leo, a former inspector in Group 1, now stationed at the Marine Barracks, Hawthorne, Nev., sent his father, Max Waldvogel, an EOP employee, a Christmas menu which included turkey and all the trimmings.

New Year's Resolutions

Helen Boula—to continue to receive orchids . . . Clara Brennan—to keep smiling . . . Delores Dagon—to be true to the one and only soldier boy . . . Ethel Dirker—to increase correspondence to Alabama and send less to Scott Field . . . Esther Noffke—to keep 'em flying . . . Linnetta Parry—to partake of more vitamins to bring up body temperature . . . Bernice Shroba—to look for bigger and better farms and farmer boys . . . Catherine Tomlianovich — more bowling and less candy . . . William A. Van Houten—to spend more time at home with his wife . . . F. Warren Weithofer—to reduce budget where meals are concerned . . . Lois P. Martin—less trips to Aurora and more correspondence to Panama . . . Geraldine M. Ward—to wear uniform more often.

Group 2

In the welcome roster are Alexander Becker, formerly at Fuze and Booster Laboratory; Harry Abel, recently at KNK, and John B. Conlin.

Louis Shuler has returned from a pleasant vacation in Pekin—a suburb of Peoria.

The story is told that Uncle Sam is hot on the trail of our T. Simms "Dogpatch" Kenner. If the comics prove their point, the Army may gain a sharpshooter from "them thar' hills."

Stanley Drigot has sought, to no avail, a vice-admiral's commission, but one thing is lacking in the man—or are pedal extremities part of man?

Tommy Shanks wonders why the Government inspection office of Group 2 doesn't have a two party phone, instead of two phones which occasionally get on the wrong rest.

Think of the predicament Roger Lotz was in on Shift 1 Christmas Saturday with G. L. D. Barclay as the only man to see to production.

A thing to behold is Lester Kammerer putting the contents of a letter to grandma into an ordinary envelope. Parcel post would be cheaper.

Andrew Plym wants a list of easy-to-keep New Year's resolutions.

Group 4

Instead of sending an invitation to a party to Anna Mae Harvey, Lillian Gunderson mailed a cross word puzzle.

John Habes refers to two girls as gold bricks. They may be Catherine Kemp and Anne Chorak.

Edward Kluza and the girls from Group 5 are welcomed.

Tillie DelRose and Vera Peck were transferred to Group 9 and then back again.

Jean Gunderson is in the height of her glory when working on rejects . . . and fuzes are not meant.

Something new has been added. The fortunes and vagaries of wartime have at length brought this reporter to the midnight or graveyard shift. Much has been said and there has been great speculation about what happens on a shell loading line in the wee small hours. Are they elves, pixies or gnomes, those folks who forego the downy pillows for these nights of toil? Can their eyes pierce the darkness like those of an owl or are they blind like moles and do they burrow around in strange subterranean passages?

First-hand knowledge proves that none of these speculations falls fair of the mark. Now it may be said that the grave-yard shift is made up of men of brawn; industrious to a fault, as well as women of rare beauty and accomplishment. From Robert E. Kelly, assistant superintendent in charge of the shift, through the entire line there is no let-down in the determination to keep-em-rolling and through the efforts of Kelly's gang, life is made a bed of roses for the shifts which follow after.

One would think that such strenuous exertions would wear these persons out and that they would be exhausted after completing each nightly stint. However, as may be seen, they have plenty of pep left for extra-curricular affairs.

Take Peter Patecek for instance. Known far and wide as "Huck," Pete goes round and about trying to sell a two-bottom plow. . . . Henry Weppler of Wilmington comes to work each night in a car of 1929 vintage. Wags hung a sign on the car to-wit, "Don't junk me, I can still run," but Henry gets there just the same.

Lt. Claude Hogan of the guards, who gets around on all three shifts in this group, became the proud father of a nine-pound son December 29, and vows that he will never mete out corporal punishment to the boy. . . . Inspector Edward O'Neill is also a recent father and on January 5 he left for the wars. He went to Nashville, Tenn., to take up his duties as an aviation cadet. . . . Former Inspector Bob Wittson is also a cadet. From his present station at Iowa City he sends greetings to his friends in the group. . . . Government Inspector Harvey Barrett finds that he was born on the same day, month, and year as was Robert Blaine, genial pick-up driver.

William Henry, assistant foreman in one of the magazine buildings, takes a chance of smashing his thumb 10,000 times a night, but never yet has dood it. . . . Marion Murphy, who guides the activities of the girls in one of the melt units, remains jolly in the midst of all her responsibilities and rumor hath it that soon she will wed.

George Mulligan and Glenn Wright, of the Virginia Wrights, keep the boosters moving and both the lads have many boosters on the line. . . . Robert R. Stevens (he of the checked shirt), just as though it were the only one in the place, doesn't care to be called "Tennessee" but shows a preference for Springfield. . . . 'Tis said that Robert Doyle, night impressario of Building 3, is a fresh-air fiend the like of whom has not been seen for lo these many winters. Bob rolls his window down at the outer gate to show his badge to the guard and even though the temperature be zero or less, his passengers consider themselves fortunate indeed if the window is closed before they get to town.

Eddie Knezevic conducts the affairs of the office through all the hours of the night. Eddie knows just what the score is at any stage of the game and knows the answers to any little questions which may come up. . . . Dominic Pastori, a line foreman, has been on the night-watch for more than nine months and says he kinda likes it.

Just about 70 per cent of the entire shift are veterans of the watch. . . . Speaking of regulars, there are three sisters, who will remind you of the song, Dixie O'Malley, Joan Murphy, and Yvonne Hartman. All have husbands in the armed forces, the Navy, the Air Corps, and the Army, respectively. More than that, their only father is now in the Navy and was a test pilot in World War 1.

It is rumored here and there that wedding bells will soon be ringing for Jimmie Belton and Alberta Gregory. Who was it that said wedding bells were lemon peals? . . . Comes now Gaylord Eugene Mullins 2nd, son of a stalwart guard, who was ushered into this prosaic world December 13. . . . Sgt. Kenneth Jenkins at Camp Croft, South Carolina, sends greetings to his friends on the night shift . . . Pvt. Alfred E. Brandt, brother of Eloise Brandt of Building 16, was killed in an Army plane crash near Columbia, S. C., November 25.

Isabel Reaves has a husband in the Army in Africa and Margy Anderson's husband, Arnold, is serving our country in Australia.

Pop Swisher, known to one and all as the grandpa of the shift, enjoys the unique reputation of never being found in the change house. . . . Chuck Connors has just celebrated his first wedding anniversay and sems to be bearing up bravely.

Art Salvatore, foreman, says he hated to lose Cricket Varvel and Paul Arseneau from his building but is sure the other fellow got a couple of good men. . . . Bernie Brockett and Edward St. Clair Farrel do the night honors as component expeditors. Eddie was due to go to the Army January 15. . . . Bob Wiley says he hasn't had his name in The Bomb-Shell yet, and so here it is.

For hospitality there are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Farrand of Simmerton, and it is hospitality.

So there, folks, you have the grave-yard shift and they are fine persons one and all.

Incidentally after listening to the phenomenal stories of hunting prowess with never a wing on which to sharpen teeth, your reporter finally cashed in in a big way. He had some of Mrs. Robert Kelly's homemade chili and soup with real meat in it and made as only Mrs. Kelly knows how.

It is hoped a return engagement on the dog-watch can be played some other time.

Material Warehouse

FRANK McCORMACK
Correspondent

Malcolm Stenstrom, a Group 70 stores keeper, has been on a diet for the last few months. He stepped on the scales the other day and was surprised. He weighs two pounds less than his last summer's straw hat. His clothes are so large and loose that his wife asked him the other morning if he dressed himself with a pitchfork.

Edward Delaney, material checker at the Clock House, Group 70, is back on the job again after a vacation spent in New York City. Eddie said the lights in old New York are not quite as bright as they used to be. He found out on his arrival there that he had just missed a blackout.

Dyer Vaillancourt and Harley Harsha, warehouse laborers, were four hours late getting home Monday evening, January 4. It seems the car that Dyer drives will not run on water. He never thought of trying gasoline, and to make matters worse, while they were sitting in that old car on the roadway waiting for it to start, some dizzy kid opened the car door and told Dyer his Daddy had a car just like that one and it never would start until the old man gave it a couple of drinks of 17-year-old Black Gold.

Material Checker Louis Kalina's friends and fellow employees all wish a speedy recovery for his wife who fell down stairs just before Christmas, suffering two broken ribs. Louis was home over the week end and reports that his wife is getting along nicely.

The Hub material checkers welcome John Markley back on the job after an enjoyable vacation over the holidays.

Warning has been given to John Baldon, Ronald M. Bennett, Clinton H. Jones and Perry Bruno that Herman Guard is on a rampage, looking for a set of teeth which can be adjusted to fit any one needing them.

If Herman waits to receive that kind of a set he will be drinking soup the rest of his life.

Chief Praises Most, Chides Some Drivers

Drivers of Government cars and trucks about the EOP area and workers who drive to and from work are to be congratulated on the care they have exercised while roads have been covered with snow and ice for the last several weeks, according to Guard Chief M. C. Baughman.

"Very few accidents were reported despite the hazardous condition of the highways," said Chief Baughman. "However, some drivers are taking big chances in driving too close to the car ahead of them. This is a dangerous practice, because brakes just won't work quickly on ice such as we have had.

"Another dangerous practice is that of passing cars in the same lane of traffic under the conditions we have had recently. Those few drivers who do this are guilty not only of endangering themselves and their passengers, but show an entire lack of consideration for their fellow-workers. An entire lane of traffic can be slowed down by just one driver following this practice.

"The name or license number of such drivers should be reported to the Guard Headquarters. We will report them to the Tire and Gasoline Rationing Committee, the members of which have assured me they will take such reports into consideration in future applications for gasoline and tires."

SAME work is being done today by E. J. Walsh, general superintendent of EOP loading lines, as when this picture of him was taken 25 years ago. During World War I, Mr. Walsh was general operating superintendent for the Atlantic Loading Company at Amatol, N. J., largest shell loading plant operating in 1918. This photo was reproduced from a book written by Victor F. Hammell, chief engineer for Atlantic.

HOLIDAY FESTIVITIES for the Ordnance Inspection Department were climaxed with a dinner party at the Hotel Louis Joliet.

Joke of the Week

Janitor William Thompson: "I bet I can tell you how old you are, Morgan."

Janitor Norman Morgan: "How old?"

Janitor Thompson: "You are 48 years old."

Janitor Morgan: "How did you figger that out."

Janitor Thompson: "Well, I have a nephew, 24 years old, and he is only half-nuts."

With the New Year at hand, the following resolutions were made: Chief M. C. Baughman—to bowl a perfect game; Capt. Thomas Murphy—to re-arrange shifts for goodfellowship meetings; Capt. Joseph Killian—not to take advantage of foolish gamblers; Capt. William Maskel—to have every guard qualify on the range; Lt. William Bantner—bigger poker parties; Lt. Harry Dowden—to win a few basketball games; Lt. Joseph Trecker—to originate 1943's best joke; Lt. John Sullivan—to continue on malted milk diet, and Lt. Owen McCarthy—to win more War Bonds.

Lt. William McClellan — to punch clock card—in and out; Lt. Eylar Brunskill—to refrain from being noisy; Lt. Clarence White—bigger and better fowl; Lt. Edwin Selle—to be Minooka's idol citizen; Lt. Clarence Baker—to streamline his old Ford; Lt. Frank Pate—not to miss a goodfellowship meeting; Lt. Frank Harrelson—to forget to 10-08 when leaving Guardhouse; Lt. Richard Boylan—to market his new hair tonic; Lt. William Krueger—more match games in bowling; Lt. Robert Bodley—to economize by saving orange peels, and Lt. Leo Boyle—to enjoy the coming year.

Lt. Herman Walter—in(crease)d spending money and carfull of cash customers; Lt. Joseph Noel—to be where the free cigars are passed out; Lt. Don Hoffman—a good man who never makes any or breaks any; Dispatcher John Welch—to entertain the boys at an endless poker game; Dispatcher Carl Kornmeyer—continue his friendly "How do you do"; Dispatcher Casimir Klafta—play no jokes, make no bets (except sure ones), and Dispatcher John Smith — celebrate next New Year's on the 4th of July.

Dispatchers Jack Farber, Paul Stacel, Ed Ritchie, David Baker made the same Resolution—when dispatching, to sound like Fred Allen.

The Hospital greeted the New Year with a new Red Cross flag.

First visitors of the New Year were Dr. Donald J. Birmingham and Dr. O. F. Hedley from the United States Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

Dorothy Busse, Nell Lazio, Marge Hartong, Elsie Baer, Lorene Motta and Marion Lee Schoop attended the Ice Follies at the Stadium in Chicago. They left Joliet by bus and had dinner at the Stadium Grill. To tell the truth, from their conversation, there doesn't seem to be anyone who could compete with Sonja Henie. The only flaw in the successful evening was that Mrs. Busse's car key refused to unlock the car door.

Flash! Flash! Girls, what is your bowling average? Believe it or not, but it is the truth. Dottie Schoop bowled 194.

Patriotism is ever present. Pete Bucanelli has a large ball of string saved from the laundry packages. Saving means defense.

Margaret Gergovich has returned from a trip to Texas.

It's good to see Earl McKinney on the job again after having had a slight case of pneumonia.

Nurse Elizabeth Spears was on the sick list for a short time.

Myrtle Burrus was a victim of sinus and virus for four consecutive days. Cold as it was, she had a temperature of 102 degrees. Imagine, when others have been closely associated with zero weather.

Imagine Sophie Makovich getting lost in Group 4.

Everyone thinks Eddy Burns of Group 5 is doing his job well at Group 4.

Don Leonard, former general foreman of Group 5, is now general foreman of Group 4.

TENTING is part of the life of a soldier as shown by this picture of himself sent in by Pvt. Raymond D. Gaddo, former employee, from Camp Butner, North Carolina.

Kathleen Poutre and Liberty Roberts are powder girls in Group 4.

Between cigarette smokers, match carriers and prize fighters, Al Bailey, shift inspector, has his ups and downs on the midnight shift at Group 3-A.

Myron Champoux would like to know if one of the assistant superintendents wears an overcoat or an Indian blanket dyed black.

The Inspectors' bowling team has entered the Merchants Major League in Joliet. They bowl every Thursday night at 9 o'clock. The team is composed of Tony Lutkus, Harold Troupe, Lloyd Changnon, Wilfred Spiers, Colby Erickson and Bob Walsh.

If Ray "Moe" Brennan lives up to the reputation he has at Group 3-A, the Inspector's Basket Ball team's sleeper play should be a sure thing.

All the girls at Group 3-A call Leroy "Tarzan" Parsons "Pretty Boy."

If you want to see something cute, let Albina Zndarsic show you the toy panda she received from her boy friend who is in the Army at Camp Sam Huston, Texas.

It is wondered if "Bud" Nesius would know just how expensive a perfect diamond is.

ROMPERED Jackie Proffitt is the 11-months-old son of John Proffitt, inspector in Group 1.

SISTERS three of the two brothers shown here are employed here where the two boys worked before they joined the armed forces. The war family of Vilt consists of Joseph J. Vilt (left), formerly of Group 1; John A. Vilt (right) former Administration Building maintenance man; Barbara J. Vilt, Group 4; Mrs. Josephine Kaiser, Group 4, and Veronica Vilt, Group 8.

Famous Names for EOP Family Members

Famous names represented in the EOP family includes Pvt. Winston J. Churchill, who left here last September for the Marine Corps. He is in a machine gun battalion at Camp Oceanside, Calif., and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Churchill. Another EOP worker bearing a famous name is Abraham Lincoln.

I have written . . . a poem!

Blast the Japs

When a Det is made
It is put in a box
With a little sawdust
To ease the hard knocks.

And loaded in a buggy
By two pretty girls
Wearing blue coveralls
And windblown curls.

And taken to the rumbler
To be polished and shined
Until the blemishes
You scarcely can find.

They are sent on to Inspection,
To be looked over with care
And if there is any bad ones
They will sure find them there.

They are inspected and counted
And packed in a can,
Then placed in a Bomb
To blow up Japan.

Now, girls, be very careful,
Remember, no taps,
For we need those Dets
To blast out the Japs.

Buy $50 Bonds To Save Money

Bonds instead of $25 ones, you will be saving just as much money without having it cost you any more and you will be saving money for me, too. Remember, if you should have to do so, you can cash in part of a bond as well as all of it.

You see, it takes 11 different operations to get your War Bonds to you after you've paid for them. And it costs about 17½ cents to mail each one to you. Most of you are buying $25 War Bonds by saving so much each week out of your wages. In fact, EOP's comptroller, John J. Cole, tells me that 95 per cent of the bonds you all are buying are $25 ones.

Well, here's my idea. How about agreeing to buy a $50 bond instead. Save just the same out of each week's wages as you are now doing. Of course, it will take twice as long before your bond is delivered to you, but that won't make any difference to you. It will make a big difference to me. The cost of the labor necessary to get the bonds to you and the postage required to mail them to you will be cut in half. In your own case, it's true, it won't amount to a great deal, but multiply your case by thousands, by millions of other cases and you can see it will amount to a great deal. In fact, I will be able to buy several Flying Fortresses, maybe build another battleship with the saving alone . . . and it won't cost you one cent more.

I've talked with the management of EOP and they have agreed to help me to help you to save money. Within a few days, you will be handed a slip by your foreman . . . a slip like the one shown below. When he does, please sign it for me. When you help me, you know you are really helping yourself.

How about it, my nieces and nephews? How about devoting the same amount of money you are now saving each week to buying a $50 instead of a $25 War Bond? Thanks a lot . . . I know I can depend on you . . . as always.

Our Duty

Our duty is:
To hush our lips,
To keep afloat our gallant ships,
To squash a rumor
Before it causes a tumor.

Our duty is:
To keep on the jobs,
To help our soldiers, marines and gobs,
To give a hearty hand
To help whip a dirty band.

Our duty is:
To rid the world of rats
Like Hitler and his brats,
To make all countries free
To sail the seven seas.

Our duty is:
To hope and pray
For an everlasting peaceful day.
So let's all take up our duty now
And keep our faithful vow.

That's our duty.

The Unseen Aid

An operator's work is really fine,
We try to be courteous all the time,
We're always happy and we have our fun,
But only after our work is done.

We're the unseen aids behind the boys,
Who will bring us victory, freedom and joys.
To each of these pals, we'll be loyal and true,
And help them keep safe our red, white and blue.

Operators will be on their job alright;
Whether it's morning, noon or at night.
They're always willing to do what they can
To help every woman, child or man.

When this war is over and we know we've won,
And God has sent home every Mother's son,
The colors in Old Glory will never fade,
We'll know we did our best being an Unseen Aid.

"Out of the Night"

I see the lights of the area
Beam out of the fog and mist,
I'll make a shell to slap a Jap,
He'll be lovingly EOP kissed.

A feeling of sorrow comes o'er me
Like the stab of a dagger of pain,
And I breathe a prayer for all of our boys,
Who fight in the wind and rain.

The day is done; the light has waned;
Through the velvet blackness of night
I hear the hum of an Army plane
As the pilot continues his flight.

We are fighting a mighty battle
From the skies; on the land; o'er the sea,
And I'm thrilled from the start that I, too, have a part
In this struggle to keep us free.

WAR BOND DEPARTMENT:

Please change the maturity value on my War Bond Subscription from $25.00 to $50.00 (cost to me to be changed from $18.75 to $37.50).

It is understood that these instructions do not change the amount to be deducted from my weekly wage check.

From a Marine

And if our lines should form and break,
Because of things you failed to make;
The extra tank, or ship, or plane,
For which we waited, all in vain,
And the supplies that never came . . .
Will you then come and take the blame?
For we, not you, will pay the cost
Of battles you, not we, have lost.

—An American Marine

Submitted by Lorin Cain, safety engineer, Group 1.

We're Proud of You, Sam!

You have left us, December the first,
But we cannot take it for the worse.

It was very hard to see you go,
But your country needs you, that we know.

We'll really miss your friendly smile,
The kind for which we'd walk a mile.

Hold up your chin and keep that grin,
Now that you're in, we're bound to win.

Loads of luck and hurry back.

SELECTED to attend a Navy Service School, Howard Earl Feldman, former explosives operator in Group 61, was honor man in his recruit training class at Great Lakes, Illinois. He enlisted November 5 after six months service here. (Official U. S. Navy Photograph)

Bonds and Cash

Kaiser Bill claimed he could win
Any war under the sun
Provided he had enough money,
The dough, to load every gun.

But Hitler, with all his thunder,
Just doesn't seem to know
That sabotage, murder and plunder
Are poor substitutes for dough.

Then let's use the lash, to cook Hitler's hash
He'll go overboard with a splash
If we light every pass with bonds and cash
We'll choke Hitler's game, by gash.

To Group One

Group One is the place to work,
We must do our part and never shirk;
We have brothers and husbands who are across,
So let's do our part so they won't be lost.
We all know we've a war to win,
Just work hard, you women and men,
And do your best in every way,
For we are working for the U.S.A.
We'll make the shells to fire the guns,
And keep up their spirits till the war is won;
Now is the time for us to be brave,
And our Stars and Stripes will forever wave.

—Emma Clements, Fay Hasseman, Mary Roe

CLOSE INSPECTION of booster cavities in bombs is the task of Herman Steinman (left) and James Musso, shown here at work in Group 3-A.

"He'll Always Be My Brother"

The Navy's got my brother,
They've had him for two years,
He may be a first class seaman,
But he's still my brother dear.

He may glory to Bermuda,
Or in Rio gaze at the "sights,"
He may have beans for breakfast,
Or thrill to Hawaiian nights.

The ocean wide may separate us,
The ship may be anchored at shore,
Breakers may roll against the ship.
Or come to his very door.

He may sing out "Chow" to dinner,
And "stow it down the hatch,"
He may call spaghetti "worms,"
Or supper may be "sling the hash."
He may have pet names for coffee,
Like "Java," "mud," or "jo";
Spinach may be "Popeye,"
Or his letters end in "Aloho."

Downtown may be "gone ashore,"
Or "punk" may be Mother's bread;
Pepper may be "fly specks,"
Or catsup may be "red lead."

Salt may be "sea dust,"
Sugar is just "sand,"
But still he is my brother,
Whom I'll always understand.

I may be kid sister to him,
His nickname may be "Spook,"
But he'll always be my brother,
I know, for it's down in the Book.

God has given him six years
In the Navy of Uncle Sam,
But he'll always be my brother
Even though he's a Navy man.

A Touch of Tetryl

I've got a touch of tetryl in my blood,
I've got too much of tetryl in my blood.
Oh, this place will be my ruin
If these guys don't quit their fooling,
Take me back to W. T. Grant.

I've got a touch of tetryl in my hair,
I've got too much of tetryl in my hair.
Oh, the mud at EOP
Is too much for me,
Take me back to W. T. Grant.

For I've seen every part of Every part of what Group Seven is deep in the heart of.
I've got a touch of tetryl in my talk,
I've got too much of tetryl in my talk.
If it wasn't for this war
I'd be slaving in that store,
Take me back to W. T. Grant.

The Inquiring Line

Q. Is mail to servicemen in foreign countries censored?

A. In war zones and outlying bases, mail is censored both ways. Mail sent or received from servicemen in the continental U. S. is not censored, but it is within the authority of the local defense commanders to censor it, if they think it necessary to the safety and defense of the Nation.

Q. I've heard that the lowest officer rank in the WAAC is third officer. What's the equivalent rank in the regular Army?

A. WAAC third officer is equivalent to second lieutenant in the Army. WAAC second officer is equivalent to first lieutenant.

Q. What is the origin of the word "khaki"?

A. Khaki comes from the Hindustani and Persian word "khak," meaning dust or earth. British soldiers in India during the Sikhs wars of 1845-59 dipped their white uniforms in muddy water for camouflage—the result, in the Sikh language, being khaki.

Q. Here's a new one on me! I saw a soldier wearing an insignia consisting of a gold eagle, a Tommy gun and an anchor on a royal blue background. What outfit is it?

A. It's the insignia of the Army's newest combat force—the Engineer Amphibian Command. The eagle, gun and anchor represent the Air Forces, Ground Forces, and Navy Forces respectively.

Presentation Planned For February 12

partment and employees, will be named by Major Kenneth M. Haber, commanding officer; W. E. Canniff, manager of operations and engineering, and Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, and the workers. Plans for enabling as many employees as possible to attend the ceremonies, which will be held in front of the Administration Building, if the weather permits, will be made.

The award is a tribute to the gigantic accomplishments of EOP's soldiers of ordnance in producing and delivering bombs, shells and anti-tank mines to the battle fronts of the world. In addition to the "E" flag, to be flown from EOP's flagpole, already bearing Old Glory and the "T" flag of the Treasury Department for War Bond purchases, each employee will be given an "E" pin in recognition of his or her own individual efforts.

Complete details of the program for the colorful ceremony, which probably will be broadcast for the convenience of families of workers, will be carried in the January 29 issue of The Bomb-Shell.

Group 3 Holds Lead as Court Tilts Resumed

Group 62 Likewise Undefeated With 2 Less Games Played

Basketball came back strong after the holiday layoff. Group 3 continued to hold its lead in the EOP League.

The Fire Guards won from Group 61. Group 3 swamped the Timekeepers. The Guards won from both the Bus Drivers and Group 3-A. Group 3 won from Inspectors and Group 1 took Group 61 into camp.

WILBUR GALBRAITH

Correspondents

Now that the holidays are over, every one is settling down to make this year one of record production and to help in speeding the realization of the phrase "victorious new year."

Don McMillan, safety engineer, said the other day that he had to move to "bridge" street and invited every one to drop in any time. Some of the fellows are wondering if they should take this literally and just what would happen if they did.

The latest on Bob Burke, as told by Ass't. Supt. John Kelahan, is that Bob's current hobby is the taxicab business. It seems Mr. and Mrs. Kelahan experienced a never to be forgotten ride New Year's morning.

From the swell letter George Zobel wrote, this sparkling bit of humor is taken: "After the barber had finished cutting the hair of our entire platoon, 62 men, I discovered there wasn't enough left on my head to make a vest for a canary." It looked as if some one had thrown a hot axe that just grazed my head." George said the barber cut 62 heads of hair in about 15 minutes, which should set some kind of record.

Service Men Write

The group thanks Bob McGuire for his post card and expression of best wishes to Superintendent James J. Murphy and the personnel of Group 2;

George Harms for his splendid letter which was received just before the Holidays;

Pete Dillon, who reported Army life as an Air Corps mechanic is unequalled.

Steve Princko, who wrote about the wonderful weather and delicious oranges, and

Bill Stanley, who said skiing is the most exciting thing he has ever done.

Although Frank Marlette has been here for a month, little has been said about this quiet, unassuming fellow. Just about as efficient a man as there is to be found, he is welcomed and all wish him continued success under Bill Galbraith, component foreman.

William "Jersey" Klegman reports Willie Zauratsky is coming along nicely with a broken arm and should be back soon.

James "Racketts" Brophy promised Terry McGovern that he would vote for him in case some one decided to promote a contest to determine the best Irish jigger. Reports circulating about Wilmington have Terry already nominated for the walkathon in Chicago, with "Racketts" as alternate.

Ass't. Supt. Gene Hunt is becoming a read-a-book-in-bed addict and some of the literature is very stimulating, he said.

For two bosom pals who are on the very efficient Guard Force, there are Irving "Dew" Pohlman and Cecil "Pepper" Godbey, better known as "Alabama Mammy." Rumor has it that Dew is one of the finest bellhop captains in the business.

Bert "Curly" Folk, Government timekeeper, is bemoaning the fact that butter is now being rationed. Bert always liked a small portion of bread with his butter.

Archie Le Borence, key timekeeper, says he doesn't know what he will do if the Government decides to ration aspirins. Archie thinks there is nothing quite like an aspirin to get back in the swing of things.

SMILING Gerald Heavens, Jr., is the 14-months-old son of Gerald Heavens, pipefitter in Group 70.

Belatedly but sincerely, the personnel of Group 2 thank and congratulate Sergeants Foster Jarvis, Leo Keigher and John Alberts as well as all the guards under them for their fine work in handling the guard duties here.

Robert "Purdue" Case is again wearing that big happy smile. It seems his mother-in-law has returned to her home.

It's reported Bob Bright, time keeper was picked up the other night for parking overtime in "Lovers Lane," but didn't have to appear in court. Perhaps Bob has influence with the local constable.

Charles Gaby is welcomed to this group as a time keeper.

Angelo Pagnusat, former timekeeper, will leave shortly for the Army and all the fellows wish "Angie" the best of luck.

For a real tall story contact George Williams at Building 12. They say the air hoist is cramping George's style.

Recreation

E. L. WALKUP
Director

High bowling scores are still held by William Colby, fire guards, with 265 for the men and by Kay Johnson, Administration Building, with 226 for the women.

Attention table tennis players: Register at once for the first annual tournament. You can register for singles, doubles or mixed doubles. Play will start the latter part of the month. Schedules will be arranged so that those from the groups will be able to meet their opponents. Many of the regular players admit this will be their first tournament play, so some really exciting games should make this an interesting activity. Suitable trophies will be presented to the champions.

Ladies' Day Friday

Girls! It is hoped that your list of New Year's resolutions included: — Resolved — to spend a part of each day participating in some form of recreational activity. The Recreation Department is equipped to help you "follow through" with those resolutions. Doors swing open each morning at 8:45 and remain open until 11 P. M. for all who care to participate in the varied activities. One of the special features sponsored by the department is Ladies' Day, in which the recreational staff sincerely hopes all women employees will participate. Friday is the day! The entire hall is given over to the ladies from 1 p. m. until 8 p. m A. bus for Joliet is scheduled to leave the Recreation Building at 8 p. m. Make a standing date for each Friday. Once you get started bowling, playing ping pong, shuffleboard, badminton, volleyball, or any of the other activities you won't want to stay away.

Bowling Match

An inter-department bowling match was held during the Christmas holidays by the teams representing Elwood Ordnance Plant in the Wednesday and Friday nights Industrial Leagues at Jahnke Alleys. The Administration Team was victorious, with individual honors going to Bill Leeland of perpetual cigar fame.

Scores were:

Bowling Notes

Ray Carlson of Group 61 is making plans for the men in that group who want to bowl, by engaging the alleys every Monday. If they are working the first shift they use all four alleys from 4 to 6 p. m.; on second shift they bowl from 12:30 to 3 p. m., and when they work the midnight shift they bowl from 7:30 to 10. It is not always the same men, so Group 61 is building up a Fellowship Club of its own, by meeting at the bowling alleys.

Only two teams met in the Administration Bowling League last week. The Payroll Department took three games from the Government Auditing Department. Bob Connor of the Payrollers had high game with 195. The scores were:

Payroll
Mooney	164	149	154
Lamon	155	174	134
Prince	119	137	158
Breitfuss	120	105	124

Members of the Flint Dairy bowling team were guests of the Goodfellowship Club at its regular meeting January 7. This is one of the outstanding teams from Joliet and it gave an interesting demonstration by beating a picked team of EOP bowlers three straight games. Frank Murphy, father of Eddie Murphy, Recreation Department, bowled high score with a 244. In their first game the visitors bowled 1039 pins. The scores were:

Emergency Calls

To report a fire....Dial 17
To call police.....Dial 2229
To call ambulance (emergency only).Dial 4262

Report the nature of the emergency. Be prepared to answer all questions a doctor may ask. He has good reasons for asking these—in order that he may come prepared with the necessary equipment.

NORBERT McLUCKIE
Correspondent

The boys in Building 16 say that Ray Buell gets more coffee now than he did before rationing. They say that after adding water to the pot for three meals he uses the grounds for sandwiches.

Art Vercellio tells about James Scrine's thriftiness. Jimmy smokes the trusty old briar all the way to work, then dumps the ashes back into his tobacco pouch and uses it for chewing. What a man!

Pvt. Ray Rivard, former clerk in Supt. H. D. Dougherty's office, stationed at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, has written to say hello to the gang.

Bill Testa is back to work after a brief illness.

Tom Sprague, genial foreman of Building 3, had trouble staying on his feet in recent snows. He said he didn't think the ground could be so hard.

Marty Gross of Building 4 says his car is so hard to start that he puts it out on the road so any passing car can give it a push.

George Weber finally found his pretty brown hat. Of course, it was full of snow and ice, but that didn't bother George, for he just put it on his head and soon all the moisture was gone. George Pilcher said something about wood absorbing moisture, but Weber didn't hear him.

Ernie Hill, truck driver, says he gets a headache every time there is a bad snow storm. He claims the wheels go around, but the truck doesn't move.

Eddie Doyle and Ervin Rovenhagen, Building 4, have always been pretty good weather forecasters, but they admit they are baffled by this January weather.

Wrestling Matches Planned

Walter Shaughnessy, Group 1, who holds the professional promoter's license for Will County, announced that he will inaugurate a winter season of wrestling matches in Joliet January 19. Catholic High School Gymnasium in Joliet will be the scene of the matches said Mr. Shaughnessy, who has promoted boxing and wrestling for ten years. Ed "Strangler" Lewis will be featured in the opening bout.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

Joan Schwartz, supervisor of the progress clerks at Groups 4-9, has been rather bewildered without a purse to carry about for a week or longer.

Greetings are extended to newcomers, Eleanor Goss — formerly of Engineering Blue Printing, Dorothy Monahan and Rita Lipotitch. It is hoped they are accustomed to stadium activities as they will be required to enter into a few of them as one initiation requirement.

Prior to the Holiday excitement, the department was honored with a visit from two former associates, Tommy Burns and Ray Van Hook of the Navy. Tommy expects to be sailing for sunny Cuba soon, after having been in California and Florida.

Supervisor J. C. Schmeh seems to have had difficulty in tracing the mysterious person who delivered a gift to his apartment Christmas Eve. Perhaps the famous "Mr. Keene" would be able to assist him.

A wonderful discovery has been made, Connie Sternberg has learned that she too can fly—after a visit through the clouds to see her husband who is one of Uncle Sam's men in the Air Corps in Oklahoma.

Fellow-workers certainly miss the friendly one, W. D. Dronsfield, who left to take a much needed rest.

Pvt. Dick Ebben sent his thanks for the Christmas remembrance and says that he is to be located at Truax Field, Wisconsin.

Don Nelson, formerly Group 4, has joined his little outfit with "Jerk," better known as E. Jurjevicz.

Deepest sympathy is extended to Mary Serdar, whose mother died recently.

Holiday Greetings were reeived from former employees of the department, Agnes Frechauf, Leo Thompson and Gertrude Finnegan.

A few of the most important events of the past year were: Nina Horrie's engagement, Wallace Bensen's new eyes, Lucille Brown's shiny bracelet from someone at Group 1, Genevieve Carr's ability to walk on eggs, Fred Mastin's remarkable recuperative powers, Harriet Jensen's agility at Jiu Jitsu, Frances Mores' graduation in giggles, Harry Brown's sudden change to a solemn and worried attitude, Mary O'Connor's latest romance, Ray Banker's uncovered desk and, last, but not least, the latest development of sportsmanship in the department.

Congratulations go to the new supervisor of clerks at Group 3-A, Frances O'Keefe, who has taken over the duties of Roland Oertel, inducted into the armed forces.

Naoma Jett, Group 3-A, wants a few suggestions on how to keep warm at the end of Building 3, when bombs are being rolled in from the warehouses. Says the little Southern belle, "I wonder if our table could be moved to Building 10 where there is a little more heat?"

ELWOOD ON PARADE

CREWS of snow shovelers were required to clear walks about EOP last week. Here John Perkins (left), John Barry (center) and Thomas Gavican are at work at the Administration Building.

STEPS leading to the Recreation Building required almost constant attention of Harry Roberts to keep them passable. He is shown here shoveling hard before a well-attended basketball game.

LONESOME indeed appears this guard station shrouded by snow-covered pines. Regardless of the weather, however, all guard stations were manned as usual and vigilance was at high pitch.

EMPLOYEES' CARS were covered with snow not only one day but several during the blustery weather of the last several weeks. Many motors wouldn't start, but co-workers lent helping hands.

BLANKET OF SNOW covered the entire EOP area for several days during the last three weeks. This distant shot, taken from the weather observation station atop the Administration Building, shows the coverage.

TWELVE MONTHS WITHOUT ACCIDENTS resulting in lost time is the enviable record of Group 61, Ammonium Nitrate Plant. This is a record of which the Safety Department is deservedly proud and the staff has sent congratulations to all Group 61 employees. Here Supt. P. L. Deylitz (extreme right) is telling his men of the accomplishment and urging them to continue their efforts.

Deep Snow and 22 Below Slow EOP Operation

Normal Work Is Resumed After Day of Blizzard

High snow drifts along all roads leading to Elwood Ordnance Plant reduced operations to a minimum January 19 as only one out of every seven employees was able to reach the plant some time during the day.

Workers on the 11:30 to 7:30 shift, unable to leave the plant for their homes, stayed on the job valiantly and took care of all necessary operations.

Volunteer crews prepared and distributed food and hot drinks as the thermometer fell to 22 degrees below zero. Others worked ceaselessly to clear roads within the area and to nearby communities.

Approximately 6,500 workers were normally expected to be on the job at 7:30 and 8:45 that morning. However, only about 1,000 were able to get through and the majority of these did not reach the plant until mid-afternoon. Some few hardy souls got through from Joliet, but most of those who reported came from Wilmington and other points to the south.

The long string of cars and buses which is a familiar sight along Route 66-A as workers head toward their jobs between 6:30 and 7 of a morning was broken abruptly about four miles south of Joliet, where the first of the six and eight feet high drifts were encountered. The traffic snarl there could not be untangled and in the meantime a strong wind was piling the drifts ever higher. Even a snow plow was unable to get through.

Respond 100 Per Cent

With so many unable to get to work, those still within the area were called upon for extraordinary efforts. All responded 100 per cent as the seriousness of the emergency became apparent. Explosives operators, assemblers, bomb and shell loaders and others in the loading lines and in the Fuze and Booster Area remained at their tasks without complaint and did everything they could with the materials at hand.

Railroad and maintenance crews, truck drivers, guards and firemen likewise remained at their posts until relieved. Office workers were few and far between, but those who did get through responded to a call for volunteers at the Cafeteria, where extra help was needed to prepare food for those unable to get home. Firemen built fires instead of putting them out. Stenographers stewed over

Group 61 to Receive Safety Merit Award

A certificate of merit for twelve months of operation without a lost-time accident is being prepared by the Safety Department for presentation to Group 61. It will be hung in the office of Supt. P. L. Deylitz as tribute to the employees of the Ammonium Nitrate Plant, who completed a year's perfect safety record in December.

Will Present "E" Flag to EOP Men and Women

Major General Charles T. Harris, Jr.

Commanding General, Aberdeen Proving Ground

V-Mail Letters Urged For Overseas Points

Persons who write to members of the armed forces overseas are urged by the War Department to make more use of V-mail letters as the result of heavy increases in foreign mail. Overseas mail last November took up the cargo space equivalent to three 11,000 ton Liberty ships, or eight times per man the amount sent to the AEF in November, 1918. V-mail is faster, safer and just as private as ordinary mail. No one sees it but the censor, and he sees all mail.

Route 66-A Residents Praised for Hospitality

Several score EOP employees are singing the praises of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Vance, who live on Route 66-A between the plant and Joliet, as the result of the hospitality they received January 19 when snow drifts prevented them from advancing farther on their way to work. While the traffic snarl was being untangled, Mrs. Vance invited the marooned war workers into her home and served piping hot coffee to combat the bitter cold. There were 50 in her home at one time, according to Martha Herrity, chief operator of the EOP telephone exchange, the only girl among the workers.

All Not Included in December 26 Absentees

Employees who had worked six days during the week prior to Saturday, December 26, were not included in the 2,877 workers listed as absentees the day after Christmas and mentioned in an editorial in the January 1 issue of The Bomb-Shell. Numerous employees, proud of their attendance records, wrote in to protest against being termed absentees and this announcement is made to reassure them and all others who consider regular work here as a prime requisite for ultimate victory.

Groups Develop Plans for "E" Award Program

3 Employees Elected to Receive Symbolic Pins from Officer

Plans for the ceremonies to be held February 12, when the Army-Navy "E" flag will be presented to the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant as a symbol of the award bestowed upon them for excellence in war production, are taking shape under the guidance of the Employees Activity Committee and a general arrangement committee.

The ceremonies will be held promptly at 3:30 o'clock that Friday afternoon, with arrangements being made for employees on all three shifts to attend. A platform for the speakers will be erected in front of the Administration Building, where the affair will be staged if the weather permits. In the event of inclement weather, the activities will be transferred to the Recreation Building.

Maj. Gen. Charles T. Harris, Jr., commanding general of Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, will present the flag, which probably will be received on behalf of the employees by Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter.

A high ranking Navy official will present "E" pins to three employees as a symbol of the pins to be given to all employees, who were on the payroll January 9, when the award was made, as rapidly as distribution can be accomplished in the ensuing days.

F. W. Woodruff, president, First National Bank, Joliet, and chairman, Will County Chapter, Red Cross, will be toastmaster.

Music will be furnished by the Joliet High School band and a color guard, commanded by Chief M. C. Baughman and Capt. J. A. Hardy, will raise the "E" flag on the pole in front of the Administration Building.

Employees Are Elected

The three employees designated to receive the symbolic "E" pins are Alice Taskey, Group 45, Fuze and Booster Area; Richard G. Richards, Utilities Department, and Vincent Farrell, Group 2.

Mrs. Taskey was selected from six employees elected by individual groups in the Fuze and Booster Area. The others, who will serve as honorary ushers, are Catherine A. Higgins, Group 4; Frances Meditz, Group 6; Mary Wilhemi, Group 7; Theresa Seno, Group 8, and Lois Peterson, Group 9. Mrs. Taskey is married to Jerome Taskey, a war worker in East Chicago, and is the mother of a five and half-year old daughter.

Mr. Richards was selected as the representative of miscellaneous groups. Others elected by these groups, who will serve as honorary ushers, are Russell R. Kuntz, Inert

Housing Units Still Available at Wilmington

Several vacancies still exist among the residential units of the Federal Housing Project at Wilmington, according to R. T. Bassett, assistant comptroller. There are still some rooms available in the dormitories also, and prospective tenants are advised to apply at the rental office at the site.

Well Done, Thou Good and Faithful Servants

"Speaking for the thousands of men and women, who began production of ammunition in the first loading plant to be completed under the War Program and who have never failed to fulfill a loading schedule assigned them, we pledge preservation of the record which justified the fine recognition which we have received."

Thus wrote Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, to Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, in acknowledging the award of the Army and Navy "E" to the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant for excellence in war production.

Thus did he echo the sentiment of every man and woman here, each justifiably proud that splendid work had been recognized and thrillingly inspired to even greater efforts.

Thus did he express in his words utterances like these: "It's the most wonderful thing that's ever happened to us . . . we have achieved a worth-while ambition and are spurred on to further efforts to speed the day of victory" . . . Vincent Farrell. . . . It was really something to work for and I'll be so proud to wear my pin I know I'll have to brag just a little" . . . Alice Taskey. . . . "The workers certainly deserve the honor. . . . I've seen a lot of hard work done around here and I'm proud to be a part of it. . . . Richard G. Richards.

"Well done, thou good and faithful servants," say the protectors of Old Glory.

Axis "Pays" Absentees

Employees of Columbian Steel Tank Company, Kansas City, Mo., were startled when they got two checks in their pay envelopes—one for days worked and the other for time absent from their jobs making war materials. The check for not working was drawn on the "Bank of the Axis" and signed by "Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini." Across its face in red letters it read: "Negotiable in Human Lives." The company reported a 27 per cent reduction in absenteeism immediately after the "checks" were issued.

"Before working here, I always thought a booster was an enthusiastic member of a chamber of commerce!"

The Burning Pit
By Scorchy

Folks, here goes for a memory test.

At the approach of my second anniversary as a member of the EOP family, it seems a good time to reminisce a bit about some of the events that 'way back in 1941 looked like first rate crises, and to recount the deeds of those unsung heroes who really made the place what it is today. There is no need to go into great detail or to rate one accomplishment above the other but many of the newcomers around here might bear in mind that the plant didn't just spring up out of the ground because some magic-minded Aladdin rubbed his lamp and said, "a darn good shell-loading plant, please."

To those of us who were here then, it might pull a few happy tears to bring up that nice mud hole that is now known as Group 2. The road isn't there any more, but in those days, if you were headed for Group 2, you got as far as the Hub and looked eastward. Then came the great decision as to whether you would strip to the waist and try to swim to the temporary carpenter shop, or borrow a pair of hip boots and some water wings and try and make it afoot, or just quit the job altogether. If, perchance you were sent for a shovel or a sledge hammer, you had to call on one Charles Herbig at Richards Farm who held forth in the converted pig pen. When you got there you would be tempted to tell the presiding storekeeper that he ought to take a bath, but before you could say it, you would detect him sniffing a bit in your direction, and then with the usual playful smile, you would be reminded that the odor really belonged to the erstwhile porcine residents of the alleged warehouse.

It was back in those days that good old 66-A was filled with trucks full of crushed stone and gravel, and then came the mighty monsters of U. S. Transit-Mix to tear up the roads a bit more with their much-needed loads of concrete. And how that concrete had to be nursed. It was bundled up in canvas robes and heated to a delicate brown with more fondness than a flock of incubator chicks. Pearl Harbor was then just a spot in the Pacific, and, believe it or not, the Japs were still a nation in good standing with the rest of the world—but the EOP job went forward at a killing pace.

It is appropriate to indulge in a few honorable mentions to guard against our humanly fleeting memories; remember Malone, Lockwood, Kemery, Joseph, Utley, McAloon, James, Sayre, Taylor, Hixon, Evans, Mowitt, Salmon, Walker, Stazel, Dale, Ryan, Lamphier, Woodard, Walsh and many others. They worked hard and long with their men and the results were forthcoming. It wasn't long before the parade of sub-contractors hove into view led by the jovial "Scotty" of the concrete plant, Mike Goske of steel fame and those other "constructionists" (there's one for the book) as Reger, Kaiser, Alvey-Ferguson, Adler of Ruberoid, Midwest Construction, Patton Tractor with their "manse" at the Hub, and many others with their respective specialties.

Most of the trials and tribulations of those days have been wrapped up in what is now known as EOP and many of us are inclined to take the whole package as a matter of course without too much appreciation of the accomplishment. Maybe I am too sentimental but, on the other hand, it seems as though the struggles of the earlier 'soldiers' might be some inspiration to those who are following on in production.

An Army-Navy "E" award is yours for Production, but let's never forget that it could not have been possible if it had not been for those fellows who really went to it just a little over two years ago when Group 3 was some stakes in the ground, Group 1 a blueprint, and Group 3-A just a piece of conversation. Do as good a job yourself and then you can rest on your oars.

Drive Against Loose Talk Is Bearing Fruit

Chicago Daily News Columnist Describes His Own Experiences

The following editorial page column was written by Robert M. Yoder and published in The Chicago Daily News January 22:

The campaign against loose talk is bearing fruit, if one man's experience is any gauge. A general tightening up has come about in only the last few months.

Three months ago, I was forever picking up secrets which, if they had reached Hitler, would have impeded his war effort by a good six months, such was the nice mixture of tardiness and misinformation. I was being told things, in a lowered voice, what the Encyclopaedia Britannica had rejected five months before as being old stuff. In fact, some of the secrets that were going around at that time are part of the regular training in the 8th grade.

But that has changed. Since then, most of the people you meet have gone into war work of some sort or another, and are so discreet it is embarrassing to pass the time of day with them.

I just talked to a friend of mine who is building a war plant. He admitted freely that he was feeling pretty good and his health was all right. Adroit questioning won the admission that his wife and children were all right, too.

"Well, how are you getting along with your work?" I asked, but while he said he was getting along fine, he said so with obvious reluctance. There was a long pause while I tried to get the conversation back on safe ground. According to half-page pictures in the newspapers, the job is proceeding night and day. That seemed innocuous enough. "Guess you're working night and day," I remarked. Do you think he would step into a trap like that? Not on your life! "Well, we're working pretty hard," he said, guardedly.

It was growing painfully clear that whatever I asked about his job would be construed as an improper question, in spite of the fact that there are 10 or 20,000 men who know about the plant in question, and it could be kept secret about as easily as you could camouflage the Grand Canyon, my friend was being a model of reticence. He was not merely concealing what he himself knows; he was concealing what everybody knows. If that spirit pervades his whole organization, then I'll bet the carpenters won't tell each other where the nails are.

The next time we meet, I am going to ask my clamlike friend a test question. "Joe," I will say, "is it true there is a lot of wood in lumber?" It is five to one he will give me a polite but evasive answer.

One of my favorite relatives, a girl, has something to do with a war plant, and it is marvelous to watch her skate over any references to what they do there. She couldn't be more discreet about it if they manufactured a death-ray, or were headquarters for the Buck Rogers disintegrator. I couldn't know less about her work if she were smuggling opium. If I ever do find out, it won't be from her; it will be from the page ads in Fortune.

You meet examples of this admirable caution on every hand. Friends of mine have friends of theirs who were white-collar workers, but lured by the twin appeals of patriotism and more pleasant work, have gone into a factory. One night, interested only in seeing how a couple of conservative executives like being factory hands, I asked, "How does Henry like it?" The host and hostess exchanged a glance, as if to say, "How well do we know this fellow?" and it was some little time before anyone said anything. Then, in a tone as guarded as if Ribbentrop himself were in the room, the hostess gave me an answer I have no hesitation whatsoever in repeating publicly. "Fine, I guess," she said slowly. "Of course, we don't know where he works, or what he's doing."

To summarize, citizens are now refusing to answer questions you haven't even asked. While this is no time to relax, the campaign against talking out of turn appears to be coming along fine.

Storage; Albion Delander, Payroll Department; Walter D. Neher, Group 61, and Arthur L. Slahaven, Fire Department. Mr. Richards was the owner of the land on which Richards Farm units of EOP are now located.

Mr. Farrell is the representative of the loading line groups. Others, who will serve as ushers also, named by the group employees are John A. Burnett, Group 1; Bernard Boos, Group 3, and Fred Cox, Group 3-A.

Invitations have been sent to a large list of dignitaries in the Army, Navy, production and administration fields. The families of employees are given a cordial invitation to attend and for those who cannot reach the plant a special broadcast of the ceremonies over Radio Station WCLS, Joliet, has been arranged.

hot ranges. Secretaries made biscuits. Safety engineers fried eggs and bacon and draughtsmen brewed coffee. Trucks, station wagons, carry-alls and cars were commandeered for delivering food to the groups.

Telephone lines hummed with activity and the switchboard saw 34,380 calls completed that day. This record traffic was handled by a short handed staff as day operators were unable to get through.

Those who braved the elements to get through said they were well rewarded with the fun and enjoyment they had in doing a job that had to be done. Everyone worked hard, all were on an even footing and no one froze or went hungry.

By the following day, the roads had been cleared and normal operations were resumed.

Visiting Marine Puts Girls in Dither

Girl shell loaders in Group 1 were agog January 21 when tall and handsome Pvt. Charles E. Cotter of the U. S. Marines returned to pay the scene of his former activities a visit. One ingenious miss finally drew his attention away from the other girls, who were coming back from lunch, to herself by depositing a truck load of empty shell cases at his feet.

Although Private Cotter had been with the Marines for but six months, having enlisted with the Joliet detachment last summer, he had an aura of romance about him. He is assigned to the U.S.S. San Francisco, the destroyer which wreaked such havoc on the Jap fleet in the Pacific. An admiral and a captain lost their lives as Jap planes attempted to halt the San Francisco's devastating attack on Jap ships.

Private Cotter, who is a member of a gun crew aboard the ship, said he was very much impressed with the way EOP men and women are carrying on for the fighters at the front. He said he was as proud of the Army-Navy "E" awarded to these men and women as he was of the honors bestowed upon the San Francisco. He was employed here during construction, as a chauffeur for Gen. Supt. E. J. Walsh and as a truck driver in Group 1.

EOP Bombs Help Fighters In Middle East

Soldier Is Proud He Once Aided in Loading Missiles

"I see a lot of your bombs out here and I understand they are putting them to very good uses," said Corp. Glenn E. Gordon, who formerly worked in Group 1, in a censor-passed letter from the U. S. Army Air Force somewhere in the Middle East.

"I am going to write you a few lines to let you know I am receiving The Bomb-Shell out here and I enjoy it very much," said Corporal Gordon in beginning his letter. "It is very interesting as I had so many friends there and it was also close to my home town. I see a lot of your bombs out here and I understand they are putting them to some very good uses. It really makes me feel good to see that stamp on them and know that was where they came from. To hear of the stories of the destruction and help they are giving us really makes me feel proud to think that I was there at one time helping to build them.

"I would like to ask you to send me some of the addresses of boys from Group 1 who are now in the Middle East, if it is permissible to do so. I would appreciate it very much. Also tell the boys and girls in Group 1 to write. I would really like to hear from them. Letters are really welcome out here in the desert.

"Tell Supt. J. E. Salmon and the rest of the Group hello for me. I will try to help 'keep 'em flying' and tell the boys to 'keep 'em coming.' "

Sees EOP Ammunition

"Looking around here, I found a few articles stamped EOP . . . pretty close to home, isn't it?" commented Pvt. Virgil J. Guimond, a former construction worker here, in a letter from North Africa to his wife, Mrs. Virgil J. Guimond, Manteno, Ill., which was sent to The Bomb-Shell office by Sgt. George E. Wells, Group 60.

"I never thought I would ever use my native tongue," said Private Guimond, "but it comes in quite handy here. I am teaching a couple of my pals. One is from Streator and the other is from Toledo, O."

W. J. Slattery, Kinsman, Ill., wrote to give the address of his son, Pvt. William P. Slattery, who is with the Army forces in South America. Slattery entered service January 22, 1942, after working as a carpenter's helper in the Fuze and Booster Area.

"Today I again received one of your recent editions of The Bomb-Shell, wrote Pvt. H. H. Nelson, Del Valle Army Air Base, Austin, Tex., "and once more it has brought me many moments of interesting reading for which I thank you immensely.

Shocked by Absentees

"I have always enjoyed the interesting and entertaining editorials, but in the January 1 issue I was shocked and disagreeably surprised to read that 2,877 employees preferred staying away from their jobs on December 26. I do fully realize and believe that not one of this huge amount laid off with the idea of putting a cramp in the war effort or to please the sympathizers of unfriendly nations. I firmly believe it was a case of just not thinking when their alarm clocks sounded that morning.

"We boys in the service missed our homes and friends during the holiday season, but we know that whatever sacrifice this ugly war asks of us personally, it is for a step toward returning to our own familiar Christian life and under a free rule.

"In answer to your question in your third paragraph, I might say I don't think this fact will please the majority of the boys in the service, especially those serving in the actual theatres of combat, which is where I expect to be very shortly.

"I hope no one takes offense at the contents of this letter, as it is not meant for that. Several times I've made the same error as was enacted by these 2,877 employees of the Elwood Ordnance Plant. In fact, many a week my time card wasn't filled, just because I didn't think what I was doing as I turned my alarm off and went back to sleep. Yes, this happened several times. Ask John Schmeh or John O'Connell, in whose departments I worked. Since joining Uncle Sam's forces, I look at things a little differently now, and hope and know that all employees of EOP will also."

Four Bicks in Service

A letter from Edward Bick, Group 70, tells about three Bick brothers and their nephew, all former EOP employees, who are with the armed forces and asks that their names be placed on the EOP Honor Roll. Mr. Bick said the first brother to go was LaVerne Bick, who is a Commando in Tunisia, but formerly was a construction worker here. The second brother, Joseph J. Bick, now a corporal in Australia, where he has been for almost a year, was formerly a timekeeper here. The third brother, James Charles Bick, a former EOP railroad switchman, is stationed at New Orleans. The nephew, Glenn Edward Bick, a former bench mechanic in the Machine Shop, was inducted into the Army December 28, 1942.

A post card revealed that Lt. Martha Alice Pichon, former Cafeteria worker here and the first EOP girl accepted by the WAACs, has been transferred to Ft. Oglethorpe, Georgia.

Francis Aspel, apprentice seaman at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, in a V-mail letter, said he had seen letters from other service men in the paper and felt he wanted to write, too. He formerly worked in Group 2 and Group 4. He said: "just about every fellow in the company" reads his copy of The Bomb-Shell.

Sgt. Joseph F. Zauratsky wrote that he had been transferred from Arizona to an Army Air Base at Salina, Kan., where he is in charge of the whole ordnance area, including bombs and ammunition. "My past experience working at EOP sure was a great help," he said. "I worked in Groups 66 and 68. I like the paper because often I would like to know how the rest of the fellows are getting along, including the wonderful work of the plant itself. I am sending my best regards to Group 68 (Frank Perino, sub-foreman and the gang)."

Helped Make Shells

From Fort Lewis, Washington, Pvt. Dennis McCumsey wrote that it soon will be a year since he left his work in Building 13, Group 1, to enter the Army. "We have a fine Army," he said, "and you folks behind the guns are doing a great thing. Just keep the shells rolling our way. The old 123rd Field Artillery will land a few of them in Hitler's lap one of these days.

"I helped make a good many . . . millimeter howitzer shells. I am now in a . . . millimeter howitzer battery, so keep the . . . coming our way. Elwood Ordnance is doing a wonderful job."

Raymond J. Bartels reported he had been classified as an aviation cadet at Maxwell Field, Alabama, and is attending pre-flight school there. Pvt. Harold Graves said he had done considerable moving since he's been in the Army. He had nine weeks of basic training at Fort Knox, Kentucky; then was sent to Camp Polk, Louisiana, for six weeks. From there he was moved to the Mojave Desert in California for six weeks and has been at Camp Pickett, Virginia, for the last eight weeks. He is with the fighting engineers.

Pvt. Charles Suydam, who is with an Army truck outfit at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, said he would like to hear from some of the members of the road gang, including "Porky," the truck driver.

Written Requests for The Bomb-Shell Asked

All employees, men and women, who leave for the armed forces are asked to indicate in writing if they wish The Bomb-Shell sent to them where ever they may be stationed in this country or abroad. The volume of mail to fighters overseas has increased so much that a regulation prohibiting the mailing of newspapers and magazines to them by any one except the publishers of the publications, and then only if the addressee is a subscriber. In the case of employee publications like The Bomb-Shell, the reader must request them in writing. So, if you want The Bomb-Shell to follow you, ask your timekeeper or the Personnel Department for a request slip and fill it in.

Soldier May Return

Writing from Camp White, Oregon. Pvt. James Recchione sent best wishes to Group 3, where he formerly worked in Building 3, and said he might be back to work soon because of his age.

"When I read the last few issues," said Pvt. Harold Balaz, who is stationed at Hawthorne, Calif., "if I am not mistaken, I failed to find any article about my leaving the employ of EOP. I really think there was a slip-up on the part of someone. Upon checking my time of employment I believe you will find that I was what I recall as one of the oldest, or that is, one with almost the longest time of service of any employee. I worked at the plant for 22 months, which is quite a long time. It may be added that every minute of this time was enjoyed—I found it a very nice organization to work for. I was employed in the Electrical Department, assigned to Group 9.

"I was inducted into the Army while still working at the plant and arrived at the reception center, Camp Grant, Ill., November 21, 1942. After about 11 or 12 days at Camp Grant, I left for Camp McCoy, Wisconsin. On January 1, 1943, I left Camp McCoy and arrived at Hawthorne, January 5, 1943. I am in an anti-aircraft battery and think this location will be quite permanent. Our camp is right in the town of Hawthorne and is only about 20 miles from Los Angeles."

Daily Life Described

Daily life of an inland sailor was described by Robert J. Wysock, stationed at Memphis, Tenn., in a letter to his former associates at Group 68.

"I'm taking time during a study period in school to write you a few lines," wrote Seaman Wysock. "I have now completed nine weeks and have eleven more to go. The past weeks have been devoted to fabrication, hydraulics, airplane rigging, airplane structure and aircraft machine guns. The next weeks will be devoted to engineering and operations which is right in my line. Yesterday we took an engine all apart and put it back together. To say the least, it's a lot of fun. We are also getting a lot of motion pictures on airplane identification.

"This place was a regular mud hole when I came, but now they have gradually gotten roads and sidewalks in and it isn't so bad. The temperature stays around freezing and sometimes it's like spring. Today was one of those days.

"Most of us find people in Memphis very friendly. We all have loads of fun. With more shows than are necessary, two swell roller skating rinks, and dances every week-end—You can see things are pretty lively, especially with us sailors around. Although we have pretty good chow here, most boys, as soon as they hit town, order the biggest steaks available, ice cream runs a close second.

"One of the fellows in my barrack got himself a barber outfit and is doing a pretty good job of cutting hair. If he keeps it up, he will gradually work up quite a trade.

"Today a couple of my pals felt a little devilish and probably a little hungry for pie. While going through the chow line, they managed to swipe a couple of pies. Being served in cafeteria style, the boys happened to set their trays down on the pies that were waiting to be served out. As they picked up their trays, they also picked up the pies. They were lucky for they got away with it.

"With a bunch of screw balls like this together, we have a circus of a time every day. Just about time for lights out so I'll close."

Others Write Cards

Letters and cards also were received from Pvt. Donald Sutton, Camp Roberts, California; Pvt. Ken Solma, Lincoln, Neb.; Pvt. G. W. Schmitz, San Francisco, Cal.; Sgt. William L. Powell, Camp Blanding, Florida; Pvt. William O'Howen, Camp Polk, Louisiana; Sgt. Theodore Dasen, Seymour, Ind.; Pvt. P. L. Benoit, Camp Hood, Texas; Pvt. Tony Sraj, Camp White, Oregon; David H. Albrecht, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Pvt. Floyd Zebell, Fort Bragg, North Carolina; Pvt. Newton Hauswirth, New Orleans, La.; Leonard O. Johnson, Pensacola, Fla.; Pvt. Frank Cholewa, Camp Livingston, Louisiana; Pvt. Marco M. Bastai, Fort Jackson, South Carolina; Mrs. Eugene Marvin, Wilmington, Ill., who wrote in behalf of Pvt. Russell H. Butts, Fort Bragg, North Carolina and Mrs. Lillian C. Hufker, Seneca, Ill., who wrote in behalf of her son, Charles E. Christensen, New York, N. Y.

Deputy Collectors Aid EOP Employees

Deputies from the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue were provided with an office in the Administration Building the week of January 25 and assisted EOP workers in filling out their 1942 income tax returns. This service, from 9:30 to 5 o'clock daily, was provided without charge and many workers took advantage of the expert help.

PROUDLY WAVING from the flag pole in front of the Administration Building will soon be the Army-Navy "E" flag, shown here, awarded to the men and women of EOP for excellence in production. The flag will be unfurled after it is presented February 12 and will fly thereafter just under Old Glory.

Telephone Tid-Bits
By Elaine Christman

Hats Off! To Marguerite Weaver, Alfred Emiley and Arthur Green, who, after working all night, stayed on duty so willingly until other operators were able to get through the snow drifts January 19.

Velma Whitmore was confined to her home for several days, having lost her voice and unable to speak above a whisper.

Best of luck to Mrs. Robert White, the former Helen Louise Sime, and hope she will enjoy Bloomington, Ind., as her home.

Thanks a lot to Leta Williams who so generously gave her assistance the morning of the storm.

The day of the storm, December 19, the telephone system handled 34,380 calls. Assuming the telephone system had nothing to do, Chief M. C. Baughman called Supt. W. A. Buck and suggested he take time out to clean the highways.

Pipe Shop News

Interest in valves and fittings reached a new high recently. Could be inventory, and could be the new and very attractive employee of the stockroom, Ruth Sanderson.

Anyone interested in a meal cooked and served the "Duncan Hines" way please contact the firm of Burkhardt & Ashline in care of Ye Olde Pipe Shoppe!

Gene Sexton has joined the pipefitters and says it won't be long before he will be giving his brother, Bill Sexton, who is also a pipefitter, some real competition.

Service Garage Spares
By James W. "Bill" Hartshorne

On a recent hunting trip headed by C. I. Wilson, a group of Garage employees saw plenty of action, but no rabbits. Highlight of the day was when Glen "Sparky" Bitterman started "chasing" rabbits. But as was said before, there were no rabbits.

William "Wolf" Booker seems quite interested in a new "jockey" at the Motor Pool. The young lady was looking for the air hose, but modest Bill took care of tire checking himself.

"Before work" trips to the Laundry by Ralph Nickleski have taken a bad turn. Some say it's love!

Three new faces are welcomed to the Garage force. They are worn by Robert E. Cleghorn, Richard H. Miller and Ernest H. Steinbach.

Motor Pool Memos
By Frank Kern

A card was received from Frank Zembruski, former employee, from Camp Robinson, Arkansas.

Joseph Elledge left January 25 to join Uncle Sam's fighting forces. Next in line is Edward Silc who seems to eat, talk and sleep the Marines.

The Motor Pool get-together January 9 in Rockdale was obviously enjoyed by all. "Boxing" was the main feature.

Transportation Tales
By George O'Reilly

The recent snow storm certainly played havoc with the railroad. "Hats off" to all train crews who were out there bucking that winter weather.

His associates hope that Frank Sweet finds his mother to be in good health when he arrives in California, to where he was called to be with her during her illness.

The blizzard caused many employees a great deal of hardship, but not for Howard Stockum and Art Rhinehart, capable dispatchers. It seems Clyde "Big Brother" Wade, assistant superintendent, treated the boys to room and board in his home.

Mrs. Charles Mann was elated over being in charge of the transportation office January 19. Margaret was the only one able to get through the storm.

Robert Peterson is going around telling everyone that his alma mater is setting records in basketball which will never be equaled. His alma mater by the way is the University of Chicago.

Carpenter and Locksmith Shops
By Arnoldine Ballard

Staff Sgt. Stanley L. Enger, brother of Robert Enger in the Carpenter Shop, is visiting at his home in Morris on a 20-day furlough. He has spent the last three years in Panama and is now being transferred to Camp Stewart, Georgia.

C. C. Hassel, superintendent of carpenters, had the opportunity to show his ability as a carpenter by promptly donning his overalls and going to work loading bombs at Group 2 on that hectic day of January 19. With but three carpenters and three foremen able to reach their destination, Jake used his energy to good advantage.

John Campbell, Carpenter Shop, and Edward Delaney, Material Department, say "Thanks a Million" to the girls who did the job of burying them in the snow and thawing them out.

What's the story many have been hearing about Kenneth Oester and the match situation? There's no priority rating necessary for that item as yet.

Ribbons to Tim Thompson, Scotty Morris and Harry Hissong who rescued five women from a snow bank and carried the near-frozen victims to a farm house nearby.

Paint Shop
By Glen Lamb

Wimpy Dancey would like to know if something could possibly be done about the starving game on the reservation since the recent snow storms. He is willing to take the lead if he can have the cooperation of the many sports-minded persons working here. Any suggestions will be greatly appreciated.

Laundry Letters
By Violet St. Aubin

A few "braves" who arrived at work in spite of the excess snow were Alta Davis, Elda Greenwood, Billie and Dickie Lieb, Gus Ulfers and Russell Webber. The 11:30 to 7:30 shift worked 16 hours.

Sandy, the mascot cat, is now permitted to enter in and out of all gates since wearing a badge manufactured by George Kinard.

As a result of the cold weather and shortage of help, Russell Webber, extractor, and George Slaughter, truck driver, helped press uniforms. No complaints, please.

Here and There

Harold H. Vaupell, who entered service here way back in November, 1940, has severed connections with this plant for a new field. Hal served as assistant to S. G. Joseph, superintendent of concrete, during construction days and did a very creditable job.

All join in wishing him success in his new position.

Joe Stark has cut down on his chief sport — bowling — and is spending his time at home with figures—figures which must have a correct total by March 15. Joe says he will take on all interested after that date.

Eddie Powers, formerly connected with the Groundkeeping Division, writes from Camp Livingston, Louisiana, that Army life is fine.

PROUD indeed was Alice Taskey, Group 45, when she was told she had been elected as the EOP woman employee to receive in person an Army-Navy "E" pin on the day of the award ceremonies, February 12. She was named from six girls elected by the votes of employees in Groups 4, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 45.

Congratulations to Robert McCormack who reecived the Gold Cross from the United States War Department December 22, 1942, for gallantry in action at St. June, France, October 14, 1918. At present, Mr. McCormack is employed at the Round House as an electrician, first class.

With the unusually heavy snows of this winter, J. L. James, with his organization, has done a wonderful job in keeping open both roads and railroads within the plant area. In addition, he has also kept open boundary roads and roads leading into the plant. At no time has traffic been blocked, even under the terrible conditions of January 19. This is upholding the EOP tradition of loyalty and determination to keep ammunition continually rolling to the boys who are doing the fighting.

Tom Gavigan feared he had broken the camera while being photographed by The Bomb-Shell photographer not too long ago. Evidently the publicity was too much for Tom as he is home sick for a few days.

Charles Collins, to the ladies—"Here Comes Charlie," writes he is in love with California where the Army has him in charge.

Pvt. Charles Cotter, U. S. Marines, a former employee, spent January 22 at E.O.P. as the guest of Gen. Supt. E. J. Walsh. Pvt. Cotter saw action on the San Francisco at Guadalcanal.

EMPLOYEES who were on the EOP payroll January 9 will receive a silver Army-Navy "E" pin like the one shown here within a few days after the "E" award ceremonies in their honor are held February 12.

Personnel

DARA PREW
Correspondent

It was only after the judge had called him back for the third time that Francis E. Peck received a tongue-lashing. The call was for duty on the grand jury in Chicago and each time he gave his reason for asking to be excused from the session, the head of the court would just pass him. Finally the third time, the judge turned to EOP's "Mr. Five by Five" and really listened to his answer. His sentiments were expressed briefly thus: "Why didn't you tell me sooner that you were engaged in a vital war industry? Why did you come up here and waste time and money? A card with the facts upon it would have done just as much good and saved both of us a lot of trouble."

Maybe it isn't fashionable for ladies to count their birthdays, but there shouldn't be any rule against observing them yearly. There were three birthdays January 18 in the Personnel Building and very few knew about them. One year older and proud of it are Joyce Enger, Georgiana Flavin and Frank Yarbrough.

Audrey Deiss discovered that slacks do not protect against cockleburrs hidden in straw. As members of the Personnel Department jogged along on an old-fashioned sleigh ride, her exclamations could be heard as she made sudden darts after the offending weed. Meanwhile, Delores Courtney proved again that a knee is harder than her head. Piling back into the straw after helping push, she received a little extra impetus from behind. A headache the entire next day was evidence that a companion's knee blocked her path.

Since Oct. 31, 1942, June Fors has been Mrs. Lou Radd and no one else in the building knew. No one would be positive now if they hadn't decided to go on a honeymoon and announced the nuptials in that fashion about a week ago. The plans were originally made to announce the ceremony immediately, but circumstances prevented.

Former interviewer, William Johnson, is now in the Army and wrote that all letters would be appreciated at his new address. He is stationed at Camp J. T. Robinson, Arkansas.

It was a big red fox which tempted Guard Robert Wallace the other night. The animal just walked right up to the building in the bright moonlight about 11:30. That fox pelt would have made a nice present for his wife. Maybe there would be a bounty offered, besides the sport. All of these ideas ran through Bob's head, and although he is one of the best shots on the guard force, he was still cautious. He called the lieutenant on duty and asked permission to shoot. Since the reply was in the negative, he called to Franklin Sidell to come and take a picture so that he would have some evidence, but lights from an approaching car frightened the fox and he scampered away.

Rose LeBeau had an interesting tale about her boy friend who wanted snow for Christmas so badly that he bought himself a snow flurry. Of course, the snow was false and confined to the inside of a glass globe, but it was better than the rain he saw outside. If it weren't that he was home on furlough from Panama and missed snow, some might have thought that he was a little off. By the way, while he was here he suffered an attack of malaria. He is still in the hospital at Great Lakes.

Margaret "Peg" Collins is claiming honors as the forgotten woman. She always races to the time clock against the others with whom she rides, but she's at rather a disadvantage as she's not only short, but the last one to get out of the car. Unwittingly her plans were foiled effectively the other morning. Leisurely getting out of the automobile, William Pohlman pushed the lock and carefully closed the door. On the other side of the car, a conscientious rider was duplicating his action. Neat Peg had stopped to fold up the blanket and then turned around to start her daily contest. It's a difficult feat for anyone to get out of the back seat of a sport coupe when both doors are closed and locked, but for tiny Peg it was almost an impossibility. She was panting, but still smiling, when someone finally glanced back.

Emergency Tests
Initiative

It takes a real emergency to test a person's initiative and ability and the snow this week demonstrated that EOP workers have "what it takes." One of the few cars to plow through the drifts from Joliet was driven by Henry Schelling who brought Bernice "Barney" and Irene Keenan and Mary Edwards with him. When they reached the plant they were caught in the draft started by Comptroller John J. Cole for workers in the Cafeteria. Mary made more than 500 biscuits, without a recipe, and they were very good. Loren Ross thinks he has earned the title of champion "sandwich-maker-quicker." Henry contends that he can cut more bologna on the meat slicer faster than any other amateur. While the subject of records is at the front of the stage, Lola Early and Barney made rapid strides at rolling and cutting biscuits and then Barney began peeling mountains of hard boiled eggs and Irene tackled a tub full of onions. Mr. Cole can qualify as a professional butter spreader and food forager. Everyone did his share of work to get food to workers who were doing their jobs. The Investigation Department established some sort of an attendance record with these additional members of their force joining the throng: Rita Washburn, Betty Barkelew, Marian Alexander, Thomas Walsh, William Mathews and W. C. Weatherford. On one of the forages someone picked up Miss Enger and Miss Courtney in Wilmington and three or four girls from the War Department joined the ranks. Mr. Cole and Rollin T. Read, safety supervisor, were the first on the job. As the day progressed, more and more people congregated until there was a full kitchen crew helping the two commissary employees who had been on duty since 9 o'clock the night before.

Tyrone Power
Helped

Rita Cushing came to work with smiles wreathing her face one gloomy Monday morning. That may be a trite expression but if you could have seen her, you, too, would realize that no other words could so aptly describe her job. Robert Gato had called her Saturday night from his base in San Diego, Calif. Asked how in the world he managed to get the connection, she answered, "Oh, Tyrone Power got it through for him." Then she continued her tale of what was said. Finally the questioners gleaned the information that she had talked to Tyrone but that hadn't impressed her one iota.

For her birthday, Mary Turner was entertained at lunch by her co-workers, Jean Hershey, Rose LeBeau and Carmen Oldani. Then they tried to bury her in a snow drift on the way to the Cafeteria and succeeded in washing her face in another drift on their way back.

After experiencing the heaviest snowfall of the winter season here at Group 2 there is still plenty of shoveling and clearing away to be done. Incidentally, some of the drifts reached a height of six feet and this sets a record it is believed will stand for some time.

Joe Furlan says the bread you get in the grocery store isn't baked enough to suit his taste and thus his reason for bringing toasted sandwiches for lunch each day.

William "Jersey" Klegman is really concerned about a certain package scheduled to arrive by mail shortly. Upon questioning him, Jersey replied, "Oh, it's nothing, just a cook book." It has been rumored he has developed a yen for culinary art all of a sudden.

Things are pretty quiet around Building 12 since Fred Hansen has been transferred to become a "wood butcher." In fact, the wonderful little duet he and Melvin Nelson organized will now be disbanded. Their barber shop rendition of "My Gal Sal" was just about the finest this side of the Mississippi river.

The well known Kelsey brothers, Bill and Oscar, have filed a bankruptcy claim and their profitable rabbit business has hit the skids. It seems the little rabbit friends have been educated since the last snowfall and are wise to all the tricks.

Another item that will call for some explanation is the bump on Bob Sohan's head. Bob said he was going down stairs to the cellar when he came into contact with a wooden beam.

Many would like to know how Safety Engineer Don McMillan keeps his trousers up? It could be his special western style belt or an abnormal development both rear and front.

By the time this issue is in the hands of every one, two of the Group's finest fellows will be with Uncle Sam's fighting Marines. Bill Malone and Pete Kelder by name, their brilliant record since coming to this group will long be remembered. Supt. James J. Murphy and Ass't. Supt. John Johnson, Jr., join in wishing them both good luck and a speedy return when victory has been achieved.

Ed "The Goose" Wren has submitted bids on protective equipment to be used by him when janitor-servicing the superintendent's office.

From far off Camp McClain, Mississippi, comes word from former timekeeper Angelo "Muraro" Pagnusat of this Group telling about his experiences and sending hello to all the lads.

Now that Bert "Curly" Folk rarely visits the Group his sparkling humorous wit and poetry are sadly missed. However, Bert has promised he will write a soliloquy to be used exclusively by Arch Le Borence, key timekeeper here. Bert thinks this little method will eliminate Arch's craving for aspirin.

You can get almost any kind of odds on just how much Owen "Ode" Golden's waistline will increase by the time summer rolls around. Ode, they say, is in the market for an elastic zipper and pants belt. No explanation is given for the increase.

Shift Government Inspector Louis Shuler left to join the Army as a meteorologist. Lou was given a farewell party recently by some of his friends.

Whenever any one calls Building 6, Tom Frew answers, "Hello, next to the coldest pace on earth." Ditto the same for Bob Conroy answering the phone at Building 7. "Long underwear, long underwear, some one get the long underwear" replies the fellows working in these buildings. Well, the weather man predicts rising temperatures so the boys can keep their chins up.

SURPRISED and elated, Vincent Farrell, Group 2 explosives operator, proved it with the broad smile he wore when photographed soon after his election as one of the two men employees to receive "E" pins in person at the award ceremonies February 12.

Back to the good old days. "Shorty" Kirkland, the short of all shorts, was standing on the corner in Wilmington all huddled up to protect himself from the cold wind and waiting for the bus to take him to work. Along came the bus, but it was not the plant bus, it was the school bus, and the driver took "Shorty" for one of his fourth grade riders.

It is rumored hereabouts that wedding bells can be heard ringing in the ears of Mel Roach, timekeeper. He and Mildred Lawerence are making big plans for the fatal step.

Vern Fogarty of Building 12 took steps to make one woman miserable, by the words "I do," January 16 at his home town of Odell, Ill. The gang sends congratulations.

Boys of Building 12 may be interested to know that Bill Carlson has designed a new explosive. Well, at any rate, in the bay where Bill works there was an addition made to the load limit sign, and it stated very plainly just how many "Busters" were allowed in the bay. All want to wish Bill success with his discovery and would like to know just what a "Buster" is.

If you haven't heard the tale of a man trying to battle his way to work (through a crowd of people) during the recent snow storm, just ask Joey Gruenstad how he got out to work and how many times the driver stopped so Joey could get warm.

"Where's Moe Goodspeed" cried a voice from under the table. "Has anyone seen Moe the Vitamin Kid" cried this voice from under the table again. When the table cloth was taken away there was Grid Wheeler and he claimed he was making a field check of the boys at the Speed Boys' Club. This probably is a lot of hokum and Grid was just practicing up on his paging duties for he is going to take over the night shift and the Louis Joliet Hotel as bell boy.

Don Carlson had a few of the boys a little worried the morning of January 18 when they got to work. He had worked Sunday and in the line of his work loaded a car and sealed the doors. He then went to the office and typed a note that read something like this: "In EOP No. .... there are 25 Boxes of Rages weighing ...." and went on to list the other items in the car. Not knowing how to handle 25 Boxes of Rages, the car was left sealed until Don came to work. Don bellowed at one of the boys "Can't you read? That says 25 Boxes of Rags." It wouldn't have been nice to disturb anyone in a rage.

Ask Leo Bell how it feels to shovel snow for four or five hours, only to finish the job and have the snow plow come through.

General Offices

ARLENE SCHLOENDORF

Correspondent

Winter, with all its snow, wind, red noses (running for no office), and cold feet, came down like a well aimed bomb January 19. With very few persons able to get through the work, many problems, including getting food to workers here arose. A good time was reported by all fortunate enough to punch in in Group 60.

Comptroller John J. Cole managed the Cafeteria for King-Heiser. Working behind the counter, he did not wear the customary white uniform and cap worn by cooks, but did a commendable job on the meat cutting machine. When last seen he was wearing rubber boots while dishing out soup. It is rumored that he makes wonderful soda biscuits.

Fred Leslie, when asked about his haircut, said he had been out in the wind too long. It might be called a wind-blown bob.

Cupid has been working overtime in the Payroll Department. Mary Rozich is engaged to Pvt. John Trippon, stationed at Fort Lawton, Washington. . . . Marjorie Drauden accepted a ring from Pvt. Al Nolan of Camp McCoy, Wisconsin. . . . Lucille Jasinski has a diamond from Pvt. Tom Smith, of Virginia.

Herman John Ross resigned from the office of George B. Pumphrey, assistant comptroller. He left January 15 to become associated with Ernst & Ernst, public accountants, Chicago.

FARMER once, but war worker now, Richard G. Richards, elected as one of the two men employees to receive "E" pins in person February 12, was the owner of the land which is now the location of the Richards Farm units of EOP. He has been employed in the Utilities Department since November, 1940.

Word has been received that boys recently inducted are located as follows: Howard Cox at Fort Riley, (The Engineering Department, hopes it is M P. and not K. P. that he wrote). . . . Wayne Sebby at Camp McCain, Mississippi. . . . Duane Swinford, Naperville, Ill., . . . and LeRoy Anderson, Air Corps, Jefferson Barracks, Missouri.

Joe Elledge left last week end, because the bugle started blowing January 26.

E. G. McAloon sent a large white two-layer cake, all covered with honest-to-goodness whipped cream and a large bowl of strawberries, for E. "Calendar" Carlson's birthday, January 21. No one thought of diets, but dug in.

Bob Holmes, Engineering Department, is missing. He sent out an SOS for a snow plow to Channahon.

J. C. Quade, R. W. Turner, Herbert Burch and O. K. Madsen, four mighty fine fellows, left the Engineering Department January 22.

Two carloads of Payroll employees came to work the night of January 19 to get the payroll out.

Pvt. Joe Early, a former guard, is home from Texas to see his sister, Lola Early of Plant Protection. He visited the plant January 21.

E. V. "Sug" Sperling went home with a new Homberg. Quite a Bum Bummel.

Barbers at the Woodruff Hotel are complaining about "Clipper" Jack Egan barbering without a license.

Chuck Morey, pin boy at the Recreation Building, was really taken down the alley when his finger stuck in the bowling ball and went down the line plus Chuck.

According to Vincent Canterella, Audrey Mossman is teaching the Rhumba in Kankakee.

Lucille Ambrose of the assistant comptroller's office, has been accepted by the SPARS, women's auxiliary of the Coast Guard, and is awaiting call. This little lady will be missed.

Howard McCray has been told he will be drafted in the near future. The New York and local draft boards haven't agreed yet.

Pop Poplausky found his sock cap stapled, his coat sleeves sewed, and his knee-high buckled boots bulging junk the night of January 18 when he was ready to go home.

I. E. "Tex" Jackson's country estate has all the discomforts of no home, he reports. Water runs through the light fixtures, or it might be a nightmare. He plans to move anyway.

George Karis seems always to make a one-point landing when he runs to catch the bus on slippery mornings.

Mike McDonald does a speedy and efficient job of checking badges of outgoing Administration Area busses taking workers home.

Victor Dagenais is certain to get to work on time (weather permitting) if Jo Dagenais has anything to do with it. Mrs. Dagenais got the office manager out of bed and half fed before they found out that the clock read 11:30 p. m. midnight instead of five to six a. m. Both enjoyed a good laugh, and then went back to bed.

Timekeeping

After patiently waiting for several months, Vearl Heinis finally received his call and has now joined the Sea-Bees. Angelo Muraro and Tom Delockery received greetings from the President and have left to be the guests of Uncle Sam for the duration.

Mel Roach wears such beautiful and colorful sweaters that all the girls are calling him "Sweater Boy."

Now that Dwight Reitz has installed a telephone in his home, he can't take his time in getting home after work anymore. "Whitey" says that his wife can check up on him now.

Christmas has come and gone, but Edith Cuno has a birthday coming soon and would somebody please give her a pair of suspenders as a present before she takes a pair away from a man who needs them. She wants them for her slacks.

During the recent cold wave, some new styles in women's clothes could be seen about the main Time Office. Angeline Gunnerson was huddled within a colorful Indian blanket all day long while Maria Darin was wearing a pair of gaudy, knee-high wool stockings, both trying to keep warm.

When Homer Smalt walked into a barber shop for a long needed haircut, he was also in a hurry to get to the local basketball game. However, the shop was full and when he finally got a chair, it was close to game time. So he told the barber to merely clip the hair out of his ears so he could hear the referee's whistle and he would be back the next week for the rest of the haircut. P. S. He paid for the haircut.

In a game that was star-studded and vigorously contested, with each man giving his all, making beautiful backhand stabs and remarkable rebounds, thrilled with savage drives and bullet-like killers, R. T. Bassett defeated Milton Treitel in a game of handball, 21 to 0.

A new craze is sweeping the Time Department much like the old game of "Knock, Knock, who's there?" The new craze is stories that have to do with a moron who is always taking a bale of hay to bed with him to feed his nightmare, or a bottle of whiskey to see how tight he slept or the one who shot his mother and father so he could go to the orphans' picnic and the one who cut off both his arms so he could wear sleeveless sweaters, etc. Catch on?

After hesitating for many months, Tommy Ashton finally took that certain step and was married to Dorthea Casy of Kankakee, recently.

Q. Who may be designated by a serviceman as beneficiaries of his national service life insurance?

A. He may designate his wife, child, parent, brother or sister. The insured has the right to change his beneficiary, but only within the foregoing class.

Q. What is the highest medal awarded by the Government?

A. The Congressional Medal of Honor. It is given to an officer or enlisted man "who in action involving actual conflict with an enemy distinguished himself conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life and beyond the call of duty." It is worn at the neck, the ribbon on the inside of the collar of the coat and of sufficient length that the medal hangs at the point of opening of the coat. All other decorations are worn on the left breast, arranged in accordance with their rank.

LONELY VIGIL was kept by EOP railroad men as snow, ice and gales required maximum vigilance to prevent accidents and maintain operations.

A hearty welcome is extended to two new nurses, Kay Lindblad from Groups 8 and 9 and Veronica Rossi from Group 3.

Ralph Sexton, guard escort for Group employees to and from the hospital, has become an assistant pipe fitter in the Pipe Shop at Group 70. The staff wishes him luck on the new job. Jim Stiglich is welcomed as the new guard escort.

As the result of too much ice, a few of Elsie Baer's passengers were compelled to push her car over an icy stretch. Oh! but it took more than the mere strength of a few girls to succeed—in fact, it took several grains of sand.

Not one of the hospital personnel had a birthday in January, but one of the patients did January 14. She is Hazel Gauger from Group 9, Building 14. However, she was unfortunate enough to have slipped on the ice, fracturing her right ankle. She is getting along very nicely.

You've heard of mirages in the desert, and disillusions in everyday life, but have you ever heard of vital black spots? Miss Baer hasn't, because she took the black spot to be a post or a farm landmark. She arrived at the hospital and later in the day discovered that the so-called black spot had been R. R. Sidell, who was waiting for her. As a result, Mr. Sidell was late. This was due either to his being small and inconspicuous or her having myopic vision.

It seems that everyone has been having a drifting good time lately. In fact, two Scandinavians, Myrtle Burrus and Ann Johnson, drifted in carefully and two nurses, Elizabeth Russell and Bertha Perush, drifted in dangerously. The two nurses suffered from climatic exposure.

Fred Cox was selected to represent Group 3-A in the "E" award ceremonies. His name was picked by Ralph Blundy from three representing the different shifts. This trio included Joseph Kupitz and James De Frees.

Patsy Jo Hawkins is welcomed to the staff of Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick's office. Patsy Jo hails from Oklahoma and was somewhat overwhelmed by the welcome accorded by the big show.

Roscoe "Flash" Gordon and Mrs. Gordon recently moved to Gardner. "Flash" invited all his friends to the house-warming.

Group 3-A wishes to extend sympathy to Theresa Licht, whose mother died recently.

Members of the Group are sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. Ethel Dodson and hope she will soon be well and back on the job.

Andy Ferrarro objects to being called "Porky," a nickname some of his fellow-workers have given him. He says "Porky means a beeg fat peeg." Maybe he's right!

The boys from Building 10 won't have to worry anymore should they get hurt since George "Doc" Hausser is taking first aid lessons.

Harold "Carp" Carpenter tries very hard to keep a new broom in his possession, but somehow it just seems to wander off. Of course, "Carp" always has his suspicions as to the whereabouts of the broom.

Congratulations are sent to John M. Henshall. An announcement of his application for a marriage license was seen in a local paper recently. At long last he leaves the role of bachelor.

William Fulton has left Group 3-A for the armed forces.

Amy Losby of the superintendent's office force complains of an odd feeling and says she isn't sure whether it's spring fever coming on or caused by eating too many carrots and vitamin tablets.

Inspection

Due to the recent marriage of Elmer Zoist, group inspector at Group 68, to the little "one and only" of Davenport, Ia., the employees both of AEI and Inspection Department are wondering where Ethel Dirker and Lois Martin are going to find an eligible young man to stand under the mistletoe with.

Word was received last week from Pvt. Frank J. Walsh, of Joliet, and former EOP employee, of his transfer from England to North Africa.

Cigars were in order last week when Anthony Lutkus returned from Chicago where he became the proud papa of an 8-pound son. The new addition will be known as Anthony III. Congratulations are in order from the Inspection Department to Mr. and Mrs. Lutkus.

Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Franklin Lewis, senior inspector of Group I, who left January 12 to enter the Army.

It is reported Bill Hartman left his shoes here at the plant January 16 and went down to Southern Indiana for the week-end where he could enjoy himself and be comfortable once more.

Many wonder what Glen Spark's dad wore to work the other day when Glen wore his hat here.

Lawrence Myers and Homer Peters are running a close race to see how far the human skin will stretch before it will burst.

Lillian Fumagalli, Group 8, is sleepy this week. The "fleet" must be in!

The new additions to Group 8 are Inspectors Mary McGuire and Stella Witten, Group 9, and Mabel Dean, Group 61.

Shirley Magosky, Group 8, will do a vocal at the Joliet Township High School Musical, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. It's been rumored that along with opera, Shirley does a little torch singing, too.

It is alleged that Wald Goebel is thinking about moving to Wilmington to avoid the perilous task of winter driving. They say he's deathly afraid of the ice.

Ruth Cook, Group 8, did a little overtime work at her sister's home the other night when she saved the day as well as the house, by pulling a flaming curtain from the window and smothering the flames.

Material Warehouse

Edward Deane Erickson, material checker, formerly stationed at the clock house in Group 70, is now in service as a Naval aviation cadet. He left January 16 for Iowa State University at Iowa City to begin his initial training and his many friends and fellow workers here wish him the best of luck and hope to hear from him often.

Now that the heavy snows of the last few weeks have closed up city streets and highways, and all will have to conserve tires and gasoline by an act of Providence instead of a Government order, the question of transportation to and from work arose the other day in Group 62-1. Material Checker Jean Vreuls advised all within hearing distance to get a pair of skis as skiing is a very easy and economical way to travel. John Nugent asked him what he knew about ski jumping and was he surprised when Jean told him that back in 1906 in Switzerland he started down a long slide and when his brakes froze he jumped clear over a Swiss village and became the international champion.

Between Cyril Lazier, Kenneth Wehling and John Baldon, they have finally figured out an income tax law that should receive the approval of all citizens who pay taxes, and although this new law does not apply to the year 1942, it is really a honey for 1943. All you have to do to beat the rap is to marry two or three more women this year. In other words, if the personal exemption for a married man is $1200 this year and your income was $2400 all you need is two wives, allowing you a total personal exemption of $2400 thereby paying no tax. Lazier is giving this a lot of serious consideration.

Edward Delaney, Harvey Ingersoll and the boys who ride with them to and from work are mighty glad they didn't freeze to death Tuesday morning, January 19. After battling the elements all the way out to the plant, Harvey's car went into the ditch on the South road, and by the time they reached the shake down house in the Fuze and Booster Area their hands, feet, and faces were in bad shape, but the girls at the house took good care of them and they all reported to work o. k.

"E" Award Dance Set for Feb. 13

Award of the Army-Navy "E" flag to the men and women of EOP will be celebrated further Saturday night, February 13, with a dance in the Recreation Building under the sponsorship of the Employees Activity Committee. The committees are planning on making this an outstanding affair. Many special features are being planned so that every one, dancers or not, may enjoy themselves at this outstanding affair.

Those in charge of the committees include: Decorations, George Barford, Personnel Department; Harvey Steffes, Group 61, and Dara Prew, Personnel Department; tickets, Myrna Faris, Recreation Department, and Charles Harris, Bus Transportation; advertising, Colby Erikson, Group 3-A, Lt. J. A. Dowden and Lucia Jane Pearson, Guards, and Arlene Schloendorf, Administration; entertainment, E. L. Walkup, director of recreation, and Helen Shimek, Utilities.

Tickets will be on sale in the groups by members of the Employees Activity Committee and at the Recreation Building at the popular price of 55 cents a person.

Music will be furnished by the EOP orchestra and dancing will be from 9 to 1. Plan to attend and watch your bulletin boards for further details. Yes! you can bring your friends and family, as long as you have one employee with a badge in the car to vouch for the others.

On the day of the big storm, a certain restaurant on Chicago Street became the gathering spot for many Plant Protection luminaries. The Guards were represented by many snow-bound stalactites, one of whom gave out with a soul-stirring speech entitled "Sabatage in the Snow—or Why I'll Never Vote Again!"

When your correspondent was only 43 years old his dear father draped the following pearls of wisdom around his scrawny neck by counseling him thusly: "My boy (I guess) it looks as tho' you'll never learn to write but if you do —never sign any names to anything a woman might read."

Following papa's preaching the Guards' names at this gathering are omitted but a report on some other branches of Plant Protection is given. First of all, Rosemary Hebert was there. Rosie took the part of the salami and the rest of the sandwich was portrayed by Chief Roy W. Mortenson and Frankie Nolan.

An inspection of Miss Hebert's purse for fire hazards disclosed three mouse traps, three dozen fish-hooks, and a big roll of bills—protected by mucilage. Rosie said she wouldn't have to put up with such indignities when she joined the WAVES, but was promptly thrown for a loss when informed by Chief Mortenson that she might find it difficult to cause even a ripple, much less make a real WAVE.

Esther Heavens and others may like to know the proper way to find out who's who among the Fire Inspectors is to grab him firmly by the nose and copy his badge number. From there on events move swiftly.

The boys at Station 2 have at last attended a real, true, honest-to-goodness fire. Hot dog, oh you kiddos!

The Tall Tales Teepee of the Prevaricators' Personality Lodge has a new chief. Tom Billadeau was elected after telling the following story: "This snow-storm ain't nuttin'—I've seen it when the snow was deep enough to come up to the second story of our house. We had to put a dishpan over the keyhole to keep the snow from entering there, and every 10 minutes we had to empty this pan from a hole cut in the roof."

Mrs. Walter Lueder spent a busy day at Sears-Roebuck, shopping for necessities pertaining to her visit to her soldier son on the coast. She soon realized the seriousness of the shortage in home appliances when she was forced to purchase a ball and chain instead of a straight-jacket.

Virg Hidlebaugh: "You're driving me out of my mind."

Golfer Frank George: "That's no drive—just a short putt!"

They tell this one on Pat O'Donnell: One hot summer day Pat was out driving and came upon a poor tired looking mud-turtle. Said Pat, "I know how it feels to be burned up," and placed the turtle in the shade made by his car. Then Pat got in and drove away.

Fire Inspector Donald Trimmer is wearing a brand new name. His mail is now being addressed "Lambie Pie" Trimmer.

Frank Scoma has taken up astrology to try and figure out a way to pay his income tax. He says Hitler has been successful to a certain point with astrologists, but then of course, Frankie may be a bit behind in his reading.

Tom Downey's ambition is to become a police woman. He was recently rejected by the WAACS (three of em).

Joe Catalani says, "Anytime you can make figure 8's on Route 66, burst a front wheel, live to tell your son about it and make Mama believe you never stopped at the 'Bob-O-Lin" you've done a good day's work!"

Wayne Barber can still remember when he was a baby. Once upon a time Baby Wayne cried and woke up Papa Barber. After the battle, Baby Wayne learned to stand alone before he was six months old.

Stu Moloney has just received his first aid certificate. Now he is going in for nurses aid in Chicago Heights.

Charles Davis is looking forward to doing plenty of fishing when Old Sol takes away the ice and snow. He lovingly put away Betsy (his elephant-killer) with plenty of sighs and a couple of laughs—(when he recalled the last duck hunting trip—with the chicken catch).

Inspector Catalani has the greatest confidence in himself and the team as regards basketball. He even bet a small sum on them the last game and won, too!

The basketball players, the EOP Fire Department "Dribblers," as they are known to the world, have amazed everybody with their skill; so far they have won four games and lost two, which is nothing to sneeze at. Keep 'em dribbling!

Inspector George Zelke, Petty's only rival, still continues to produce his masterpieces; George has plenty of business if he wants to sell his works, but he's afraid it won't give him much time for anything else. So George just draws when the artistic urge strikes him.

New members welcomed into the Fire Inspection Department are "Scotty" Rodgers, Walter Hilgert, Ermand Marco and James Livengood.

Inspector Charles Tyler, "senator" from Leafy Grove, still gets on a soap box when he has time to give the fellows a harangue on the local political situation. This enables the "senator" to keep up his speaking skill while the boys catch up on their sleep.

All regretted that Johnny Alar resigned his position as fire inspector sergeant; he was a "pal" to everyone, courteous and friendly. Johnny is moving out of town and all the fellows in the Department promise to see to it that he gets plenty of mail while he is adjusting himself to his new environment.

Inspector John Connelly said during one of his lighter moments: "When a bull throws a congressman, that's news."

It was Inspector Marty Knowles who argued that: "A man who agrees with his wife can have his own way."

So far, Inspector Clerk Frank Skoff has managed to win all his chess challenges. It has gone to his head for the other day he was heard bragging that he could beat anyone on the reservation—civilian or military—at the game of chess.

Art Flahaven: "Now suppose you are walking your post on a dark night. Suddenly a person comes from behind and wraps two arms around you. What will you say then?"

Rookie Ermand Marco: "Let's go, honey."

Len Anderson sends in this one: For two hours he had been the pest of the party. His imitations were terrible, ranging from George Arliss to a hummingbird. In the far corner had been sitting the man with the screwed-up face.

"What would you like to see me imitate now?" asked the bore.

The man moved and spoke: "How about a ground hog that's seen its shadow?"

Q. How many kinds of decorations are authorized for soldiers now?

A. At present the War Department has authorized nine decorations. They are the Medal of Honor, Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Service Medal, Silver Star, Purple Heart, Soldier's Medal, Oak Leaf Cluster, Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal.

General Harris Long a Leader With Ordnance

Officer Who Presents "E" Flag Is Expert On Shell Loading

Maj. Gen. Charles T. Harris, Jr., who will present the Army-Navy "E" flag to the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant for excellence in war production at colorful ceremonies here February 12, has been intimately connected with ordnance throughout his long military career. He is at present commanding general of Aberdeen Proving Ground, Aberdeen, Md., and from 1938 until 1942 was Assistant Chief of Ordnance.

General Harris was born in Mexia, Texas, March 31, 1884. Upon his graduation from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1907, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Coast Artillery Corps. He became a colonel during World War I, a brigadier general in 1938 and a major general August 4, 1941.

In 1907, General Harris was assigned to Fort Moultrie, S. C., and was transferred to Fort Andrews, Massachusetts, in 1908, remaining there until 1910. He was graduated from the Ordnance School of Technology, Watertown Arsenal, Massachusetts, in 1911, and then served at Augusta Arsenal, Georgia, to May 1, 1913, and at Benicia Arsenal, California, to June 18, 1914. He served at Fort Winfield Scott and Fort Baker, both in California, and then sailed for Hawaii February 4, 1915.

General Harris served at Fort DeRussy to July 5, 1915, and upon his return to the United States was on duty at Sandy Hook Proving Grounds, New Jersey, to June 19, 1916, during which time he was graduated from the Ordnance School of Application. He served at Picatinny Arsenal, New Jersey, until November 8, 1917, when he was ordered to Washington to serve in the Explosive and Loading Division and Ammunition Division, Office of the Chief of Ordnance, until October 3, 1922. During this period, as chief of the American Mission of Powder and Explosive Manufacture, he made an observation tour through England, studying English methods of loading shells with high explosives and manufacture of high explosives and propellents.

General Harris was Ordnance Officer, Eighth Corps Area, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, and commanding officer, San Antonio Arsenal, from October 18, 1922, to July 10, 1923. He attended the Army War College, Washington, to July 1, 1924, and after graduation served as Executive Assistant to the Chief of Ordnance, Washington, to June 29, 1928, during which time he attended and was graduated from the Army Industrial College. He then served as Ordnance Officer, Second Corps Area, Governors Island, New York, to June 22, 1931.

General Harris then sailed for Panama, where he commanded the Ordnance Section and was Ordnance Supply Officer, Panama Pacific General Depot, Corozal, to April 28, 1933. When he returned to the United States, he was assigned to duty in and later Director of Planning Branch, Office of the Assistant Secretary of War, Washington. On May 1, 1937, he took command of Watertown Arsenal, and returned to Washington August 1, 1937, to resume his duties as Director of Planning Branch. He assumed the duties of Assistant Chief of Ordnance September 1, 1938, which position he held until September 1, 1942. During this time he was assigned to the position of Chief, Industrial Service. It was during this time he became intimately acquainted with details of the building and operation of EOP. He was assigned to be commanding general at Aberdeen July 1, 1942.

SNOW PLOWS were common, but welcome sights about the EOP Area during and after the blizzard of January 19.

The men of Group 3 are being taught to cope with almost any situation. Their latest type of training is first aid. They have a large enrollment in all of their classes. The next time Robert Bolte's knee goes out of joint, probably Sam Gomora and a half dozen other first aiders will jump to the rescue.

"Snows may come and snows may go, but oh, was that a blizzard," says Joe Zelinko of Building 3.

Wilbur Brown of Building 3 has a birthday right about this time every year. No one seems to know the exact date, but all his friends wish him a happy birthday anyhow.

The loyalty and endurance shown by the men of Group 3 January 19th helps prove the true spirit of the Elwood Ordnance Plant. A spirit which no doubt helped attain the Army-Navy "E" Award.

If any one wants to know how much snow there was in the recent blizzard just ask Donald "Tiny" Mancini, assistant superintendent. He knows all about the road from Joliet to Group 3.

The employees of the EOP cafeteria should be complimented on the swell job they did in preparing sandwiches for the hundreds of employees who were snowed in. They did a swell job despite their handicaps. Group 3 extends thanks.

Willard Reed, assistant superintendent, has been under the influence of a bad cold lately, but claims the little woman is fixing a good tonic.

Pvt. Bill Lamping, a former employee of Group 3 and now a member of the United States Marine Corps, recently spent an enjoyable furlough with his parents and friends. His father is a genial guard assigned to the group here.

Bud McKune really gave the bunnies the works on the closing day of the hunting season.

Harry Hilgert gets those rosy cheeks from drinking plenty of milk each day, says Ernest Smith.

Some of the boys beefed so Ed Copp, being an obliging chap, shaved off the little cookie duster.

Everett "Boots" Martin says he doesn't like to follow those slow poke drivers. A driver provoked him by driving so slow on the icy road that he stopped him and drove the fellow to work.

Marion "Butch" Bertolet says he feels sorry for all his old friends on account of the meat shortage. Butch, as you know, was once a butcher.

Pete Tintinger, the pride of Aurora, sure dishes out the sour grapes.

The very busy Elmer Emanuelson also traps minks whenever basketball allows. He is one of the stars of the Group 3 quintet.

The gang salutes Everett Denoyer, who was made a corporal in the State Militia.

Ed Doyle has shelved the old musket for the rest of the season.

One of the nicest lunches your correspondent ever tasted is that of Dick Owens, newlywed.

All are glad to have Paul Higgins back again.

Harry Mosley is a little too enthusiastic about artificial respiration, according to Sammy Morgan.

Leo Wagner would like to hear from Joe Garavalia, who joined the Marines some time ago. He is an alumnus of Building 4 and the boys are proud of him.

By the time you read this, Harry Mosley will have left the Bachelor Club.

Group 3 got a letter from Dan "Duke" Rodakovich, who is down at Camp McCain, Mississippi. Duke says Army life is great.

Dan Mahoney is making great headway in the Navy.

If you haven't heard the story about the two Indians, you better see genial assistant superintendent Steve Colfer.

Bob Roberts is trying to convince the boys in Building 16 that Gerald Duffy is married, but until Duffy brings the cigars they say he is still single.

Group 3 extends a warm welcome to the newest addition to the staff of nurses. She is Lucille Nahas.

The cold weather doesn't bother Jimmy Scerine for he and a friend of his on the guard force were seen chasing a rabbit up one of the ramps out here.

Robert Hankes, capable basketball player, likes to have the hospital personnel watch the team defeat its worthy opponents.

Speaking of opponents the team had a very busy schedule January 20. The players defeated the Army team by a score of 29 to 13 and then motored to Wilmington to play a game for a very worthy cause, that of a benefit game for the USO. They defeated a very strong Wilmington team 34 to 23.

This is to inform the personnel of Group 3 that learned fire guard, "Gov." Len Small, is a proponent of the quiz programs. One of his recent $64 questions, "What are the names of Santa Claus' reindeer"? went the rounds of the line.

Many Buy $50 Bonds to Save U. S. Money

Several hundred employees have specified $50 instead of $25 denomination when their War Bonds are delivered to them on the payroll savings plan, following publication of the request of the U. S. Treasury Department for such action in the last issue of The Bomb-Shell.

In specifying $50 instead of $25 War Bonds, workers are not required to increase their weekly payroll savings. It takes just twice as long before the higher value bond is delivered, but great savings can be effected for the Government without cost to the employees.

If you wish $50 bonds instead of $25 ones, ask your foreman for a mimeographed slip. Fill it in with your name and clock number and send it to the War Bond Department, Administration Bldg.

SNOW BLANKETED, EOP's Administration Building as shown here gives evidence that Old Man Winter is making himself at home.

Now that the ear muffs have been brought into popular demand by the sub zero weather, reckon the news will be short as none will be able to leak out and the hep cats won't be able to hear it and thus the columnist's dream of a "scoop" is off the beam . . . but through the imaginative powers of a typewriter . . . what happens remains to be seen.

An almost tragedy was averted the other day . . . yep, that good gal Helen Harmon done did it. . . . It looked for awhile there that Payday was going to be just a myth . . . but thanks to Harmon's Helpers the dough was on time. . . . The rest of the gang is Marion Yeager, who by the way, hates to be called "Little Marion" . . . and Bernie Jones, the Streator Streamliner. . . . Guess good old faithful Johnnie Welch should be included. His guiding light showed the way.

The day of the big snow will go down in history for a lot of the guys and gals. . . . There were sure a lot of high salaried kitchen help running around that day. . . . Guess the debbies found out that playing house for keeps ain't too much fun.

Remember Esther Johnson, the cutie blonde, from Operations and Transportation? . . . Well . . . as you know, she joined the WAACS . . . and is now stationed in Daytona, Fla., for basic training. . . . Lucky hound . . . imagine basking in that good old Florida sunshine.

Monica Limacher has the darndest luck . . . believe it or not . . . she up and fell down again . . . and what's worse . . . ruined another pair of them thar "gold" hose. . . . Like to toss an orchid to her and her colleague Josephine Vilt for their helping hands in the Mess Hall the day the gang was snowbound. . . . It's gals like this that make your pride in America and its people stick out all over. . . . Hat's off to all of 'em.

Guess the item about Jo Kush's mysterious wearing apparel has caused quite a furor around the Mail and Record Section. . . . She hasn't told all, but whispers of "Red Flannels" are frequently heard.

Didja hear about the kids from Payroll going on a sleigh ride and getting marooned in some farmer's house for a couple of days. . . . They had a darn good time . . . what with Vera Gussman and Kenny Holz, Pat Haley and Gerry Kestel along to keep romance alive and Anamarie Schroeder, Hazel Koller and the rest of the help along for chaperones. . . . Why can't things like that happen to your correspondent?

Saw by the papers that Bob Rogers, Lt. Col. Don M. Hoffman's former chauffeur, got his silver wings and is now a lieutenant in the air corps.

Wonder how long it takes Ann Gubbins to get dressed in the mornings? . . . have you ever seen anyone that looks so darn spic and span all the time.

Think the funniest sight ever seen was Capt. George Grant, executive officer, smoking a big, fat cigar . . . anyway, it was a good will gift from Carl Anker . . . the brand new groom . . . guess in that case the captain could hardly refuse to smoke the thing.

Flossie Babecke suffered frozen legs the other mornin' and had to use the good old fashioned way of putting snow on them to thaw them out.

Edna Eaton's hubby, Bob, called her the other day and told her he was in the ditch . . . she could see a truck overturned on the road outside the Administration Area fence and of course thought that her spouse was in it . . . come to find out it was just a gag, but it won't happen again soon.

Wasn't it thrilling that our The Bomb-Shell won an award for being a darn good "rag" . . . sure makes it nice to be a part of such an organization.

Phil Hahn is an expert on Transportation . . . just ask him how to get to the plant. . . . Poor guy sure had a heck of a time. . . . Jim Pavel was a big help keeping up the morale while waiting for the bus . . . that kind of a guy sure helps you over the tough spots.

Ann Melovic almost got snow bound, but didn't . . . wonder why???? . . . Weren't you glad to hear that Lt. C. R. Crandell is now a first lieutenant? He is sure a grand fellow and deserves everyone's best wishes. . . . In closing, just remember the guy what said "Give 'em the works fella." We're pitchin' here to help.

The Time Inspection Department sends their best wishes to Pvt. and Mrs. Lyle Ingraham who were married January 19 in Joliet. Pvt. Ingraham was formerly a member of the department. Mrs. Ingraham was the former Betty Peebles, daughter of William Peebles.

Chester Tomes is having difficulties since tin has been rationed, and Frank Bravato says it's nothing to do with canned goods either.

Hugo "Grandpappy" Green is refurnishing his home — and is seeking advice on beds, twin beds, canopy beds and other items.

The Timekeepers welcome back Dorothy Johnsen, who worked here several months ago.

Loretto Franke's husband, Corp. William Franke, from Ft. MacArthur, San Pedro, Calif., recently spent a furlough here.

JACK BARRY

Fred Hall, fireman, has been wondering why he hasn't been written up in The Bomb-Shell. It must have been because he had never bitten a dog, so from now on the dogs had better look a little out.

Walt Wilcox, expeditor, caused much excitement recently by wandering around the area during the early evening with a flashlight. All and sundry thought he was looking for night crawlers. However, he had lost only his badge in the grass and was looking for it.

Herman Beringer, popular safety engineer, has won himself a place in the sun with a real man-bites-dog-story. Before credible witnesses he declared that he had a nephew in a convent at Chicago.

Franklin Lewis, who has been a capable group inspector for many moons, is off to the wars. The other inspectors presented him with a farewell gift and wished him happy landings. Incidentally and just to make the data complete, Mid Slack has taken over where Frank left off, which pleases everyone.

Speaking of soldiers, there is Charlie Filkins, who is a veteran of World War I. . . . The better half of "Pop" Kent took umbrage because she opined that he was not old enough to merit the diminutive. On second glance he does look young and spry since he was promoted to assistant building foreman.

Bob Wiley's name was found in the old note-book. It can't be remembered what it was there for, but it must have been something desperate.

Just because poor Herman went away Inspector Harold Kennedy has been requested to go on the chautauqua circuit and preach against the demon rum. Unaccustomed as he is to public speaking, Harold turned the offer over to his friend Clarence J. Canaday . . . or vice virtue.

Your reporter went to Chicago with his friend, George Panos. After all better known Irish places were seen, he led the way to a couple of the Greek salons (no mis-print). Soon George was dancing and so gracefully did he perform that all the good folks stopped to watch and to applaud him and his fair partner. Soon they began to send glasses of coca cola over to the table so that he would dance some more. Not bad, not bad!

Al Ehrenger, one of the better known Government inspectors, bought some guinea hens for his Christmas dinner. He checked them at the guard gate when he went to work but by the time he was ready to go home the birds had flown. Al suspects fowl play.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald D. Heggie have hit the jackpot just to prove that Group 1 always excels. The stork brought them twin boys, Bobby and Billy, January 6.

The component expeditor's office has been all cluttered up with beautiful girls here of late; all busily engaged in reclassification work. These included Ruth Burdette, Betty Jensen, Irene Giles, Gertrude Olson, Jeanette Salzman, Parmillia Champoux, Helen Jubera, Eleanor Munn, Helen Maher and Beulah Smith, all under the personal supervision of Beverley Garing.

The Group 1 basketball team triumphed over Group 61 by the score of 24 to 16. Now that the players are equipped with new uniforms they are prepared for a successful season.

Helen Botka and Betty Murphy will draw straws to see who wins the heart and hand of Frank Paul, according to Betty Ford who has just blossomed out with another new and original hair-do.

Army highlights. . . . Robert Doyle, Jr., son of fresh-air Bob Doyle, is now a master sergeant at Camp McClellan, Alabama. John Corcoran went to the Army January 13, and Joe Shepley went along to keep him company. There was considerable celebrating in connection with Joe's departure which seems strange since he was popular throughout the group. . . . Plans are in the making for another party for the veterans of World War I and it is expected to be even better than the one held last November. Tentative plans call for a Saturday night at the Woodruff Hotel in Joliet, but arrangements are not definite.

If any one had the 'druthers, he'd 'druther be as lucky as Esther Anderson, charming first aid nurse. Whenever she has to go to the juzgado to explain a traffic accident she finds one of the group guards waiting to vouch for her high character so that she may go happily on her way.

Capt. A. G. Resch, Army inspector of ordnance, and William F. Douville, chief of ordnance inspection, visited the Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D. C., in connection with official business January 15. They had the opportunity to talk with Capt. J. I. Bach, a recent transfer from EOP, who is residing in Arlington, Va.

Carl L. Anker, chief in the Statistical Section, spent January 5 and 6 at the Arkansas Ordnance Plant, Jacksonville, Ark., pertaining to business in connection with his department.

William H. Peterson, assistant chief inspector, spent January 18 at the Jefferson Proving Ground, Madison, Ind., on official business in connection with manufacture. He said he was very happy to get back to his home in Wilmington, as "Old Sol" failed to make its appearance during the entire trip and he was kept busy making train connections.

Maj. Frank Short, Ammunition Branch, Ordnance Department, Washington, D. C., visited the Ordnance Inspection Department January 18.

Betty Ross, chauffeur, has returned to duty after several days absence due to illness.

Helen Wissert, Government Inspector, was transferred from Group 9 to the Administrative Section of Ordnance Inspection, to replace Lois Martin who has been transferred to the Technical Division of the Ordnance Inspection Department.

Linnetta Parry and Ethel Dirker had a pleasant experience during the inclement weather of January 19. They reside in Wilmington and Coal City respectively, and were the only two employees of the office personnel of Ordnance Inspection who succeeded in getting to the plant that day. They were immediately detailed to the cafeteria where they assisted in preparing sandwiches for the many employees remaining on duty because the day shift was unable to get to work. They claim they actually enjoyed the variation and were happy to be of service during the emergency.

Twenty-nine girls (Fuze and Booster Government inspectors) are being instructed by Kermitt L. Long, assistant chief inspector, in inspection of shells and bombs. They will be assigned to Groups 1 and 3-A.

Roberta Harte of Davenport, Ia., became the bride of Elmer G. Zost January 9 at St. Louis. The bride was formerly connected with the office personnel of the Bettendorf Tank Company at Bettendorf, Ia., and Mr. Zost is an inspector in Group 68. They are now living in Joliet.

Kathryn A. Oaks, Fuze and Booster Chemical Laboratory, is noted for her Rhumba dancing and she also did modeling before being employed here.

Ann Radakovich, Fuze and Booster Government inspector, now attending class at the Recreational Building, wants it known that she is a former show girl. Her hobby is bowling.

It has been noted (during class of course) that Gloria Annunzi's favorite pastime is chewing gum.

January 20 proved to be Edward J. Nemanich's unlucky day. His first mishap was a flat tire on his Packard which can be replaced for $20. The second was the loss of his badge. He has been Government Inspector in Group 9 and employed at the Plant for the last 17 months and this is the first time, so he claims, that he has been unfortunate.

Many have heard of fish stories but few if any have heard of egg stories. James G. George, public relations office, tell this one: Mr. George bought a dozen eggs and placed them on a radiator in the Personnel Building shortly before he planned to leave for the day. His wife intended to have them for dinner that evening. However, he forgot them and when he returned to the office the following morning he was greeted by 12 baby chicks. Ordinarily it takes 21 days for hatching, but things are progressing rapidly in these modern times. Mr. George is very busy evenings constructing a coop for his chicks and he says with eggs at 50 cents a dozen it should be profitable to raise chickens. He claims the purchase of these eggs proved to be the best buy of the season.

Group 2

It was with regret and envy "Till we meet again" was said to genial Louis Shuler, recently annexed as an active nephew of Uncle Sam.

Alexander Becker has left the department to become an inventory clerk.

The glad hand is extended to recent arrivals in the person of Paul Barhoover, Harvey Barrett, Chalmers Wooley, Ronald Beck, Earl J. Smith, Guy B. Gimbel and Eugene F. Balachowsky.

A sight of feverish activity during his relief periods and all the odd moments to be found is Philip N. Lipson, pursuing differential and calculus with brain, brawn, pencil and paper. Asked why such a voluntary strain on the intellect, a smiling answer is given that it will come in handy.

No more chemical formulas are being compounded in the office or in Building 12. This lack of ponderous expression is occasioned by the absence of Albert Grossi, out of service on a leave of absence.

It is reported that Robert L. Bloome contemplates a job on one of Uncle Sam's battle wagons.

Girls' Brother Named Ace

Bess Moore, chief of personnel, Ordnance Department, has received word that her brother, Lt. Joseph F. Moravec, Marine Corps aviator, has been given a rating as a flying ace after downing five Jap planes. Lt. Moravec, when last heard from, was stationed at Pago Pago, Samoa. He has been a Marine flyer for six years.

NOPE, 'tain't Clark Gable, but Harvey "Skipper" Steffes as he appeared before he was given a razor that would shave under his nose. He works in Group 61.

Groups 4-9

Fuze-Booster-Primer and Detonator Lines

JUANITA HARTER
Correspondent

Booster Group 6

Farewells were said to Dorothy Palenskee and Mildred Clasper, press operators in Tetryl Pelleting, who left to join the WAACs. Dorothy, 22 years old, lives with her family in Kankakee, and Mildred, 31, lives with her mother and sister in Pontiac. Both girls are entering either the Ordnance, Mobilized, or Foreign Service Unit at Fort Des Moines, Ia.

Congratulations are sent to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Starr who are the proud parents of a seven-pound daughter born January 22. She has been named Karen Lorraine. "Hank" is a foreman in 6-6.

Robert Otte, Joe Basinger and Waldo Baldon are welcomed into the Group.

Co-workers extend deepest sympathy to Brunette Nelson, whose father died January 18.

Gertrude Freeman, forelady in 6-6, is back after an illness.

Jean Mowery is the new office girl in 6-6.

Booster Group 7

Ruth Starkman, formerly of Group 6 office, is now in Group 7 office.

Lucille Ayers and Bernice Parker have returned to work after recovering from illness. Dorothy LaGess is home ill.

Leona Brault says she has the only, in fact the one and only, ideal husband—wanna fight?

The most called for girls here are Joan Schauland and Eleanor Stokes—you know how it is, Joan calling Eleanor, and Eleanor calling Joan.

Velma O'Brien of 7-9 is leaving to join her husband in Aberdeen, Md., where he is in Officers Training School.

Rowena Jack was married to Pvt. Robert Sutchen January 17 at Fort Riley, Kansas. They plan to live in Junction City, not far from Fort Riley.

Warbler Al Nehas, formerly of Group 7, who is leaving for the Army soon, has been singing, "I'll be glad when you're dead, you rascals, you."

Ivan Olson doesn't mind Bill Saffell wearing his boots, but is a little perturbed about Bill wearing the tread off the way he goes sliding around in them.

January 19, what a day, remember?—well, the Group is grateful to the few who battled the blizzard and got here. That shows they're tryin' to keep Hitler fryin'.

Artillery Primer Group 8

Walter Goebel, inspector, has a brand new daughter, who arrived January 16. She has been named Mary Frances.

Betty Johnston had a terrible disappointment when her sailor friend didn't get his long-awaited furlough.

Elvada Lincoln's son, Billy Laurence, spent five days with home folks. He is stationed on the U.S.S. Bogue.

WAAC bound is pretty Dorothy Palenskee, who resigned as a tetryl pellet press operator in Group 6 to join the armed forces.

Theresa Seno (remember her as the star softball pitcher) was the choice of Group 8 for the "E" award ceremonies.

Group 8 wishes three fellows all the luck in the world in their new jobs. Robert Otte and Joseph Basinger, who were transferred to Group 6, and George Elum, who was transferred to Group 9.

Lean, lanky Ernest Evans, after breaking his back for three weeks standing at his desk, finally got smart and got a stool. Now he is known as "Stoop Evans."

Group 8 misses Gene Schuck, the bashful timekeeper, who has been transferred to Group 63.

Ed Foley had a little trouble during the cold spell. The coldest morning on record, his car caught on fire, and he threw enough snow balls to put it out.

Thomas Flaherty, Bill Strobel and Joker Merrick got all the snow melted off their trailers the morning of the dormitory fire in Wilmington.

Detonator Group 9

Lois Peterson, cute tetryl twin, is representing this Group at the Army and Navy "E" award ceremonies.

With the blizzard of January 19 quite a few things happened: Only a handful of kids arrived. Pamela Marcotte froze her legs, while helping to push Al Hoppe's car. The food sent over from the Cafeteria was very good, so all send thanks to everyone at the Cafeteria, and everyone in the Area, who contributed something to help. Supt. W. D. Whaley, Jr., celebrated his birthday.

Louise Dillon's son, who is with the Marines stationed at San Diego, was surprised to find himself on guard duty with Tyrone Power.

It won't be long now before John J. Neely, assistant superintendent, will be coming to work on a Shetland pony.

C. Hickok, E. Riley and W. Baldon, assistant superintendents, have left, and they are all missed. G. Elum, C. Kaplan and A. Jensen are welcomed here.

Joan Burke and Norman Wierson exchanged "I do's" January 7.

Fuze Group 4

Helen Kammermann, secretary to Supt. John A. Lower, has returned to work after recovering from injuries suffered in an auto accident in December.

Lorraine Tenn has returned to work after a three-week vacation in Florida.

Catherine A. Higgins was selected by vote to represent Group 4 at the Army-Navy "E" presentation from a field of six candidates. She feels quite honored to be able to take part in this affair.

Johnny Woods, of 4-9, is home, ill.

Betty Foster has been absent the last few days taking her exams preparatory to joining the WAACS.

Mary Nepote and Helen Bevering have been transferred to Group 1.

Charles Kaplan, Joseph Alves and Milton Stein are missed in Group 4, since they have been transferred to other groups and all wish them good luck.

Chemical Laboratory

Interesting cards and letters have been received from boys in the service. Joe Ralston is at the Naval Reserve Midshipman's School, New York. Eddie Merriman and George Woodworth are at Great Lakes Training Station. Dick Bayci is at Monmouth College where he is in training for Navy aviation. Norman Crocker has been graduated from the Army Air Corps meteorology course at the University of Chicago.

Howard Johnson is taking the electronics course for the Army Signal Corps.

The Fulminate Basketball team from the Lab is still going strong, having won four straight games since losing the first one played.

Inert Storage

Some thought Victory was won and that it was all over when your correspondents braved the wintry blast the morning of January 19, but it's just another illustration of absenteeism. Who was at fault? It could have been the State Highway Department on whom most rely to keep the highways open. Thanks are deserved by the Utilities Department and those courageous Americans who kept the EOP roads open.

At exactly 3 o'clock the afternoon of that day Ed Zarley called in and wanted to know if he should come out to work.

Among the visitors who braved the weather to visit the North Inert office was Mrs. Charles Mann from the Traffic Department. She knows how to sit in the boss's chair.

Larry Holmes, who formerly worked at South Inert, spent Christmas in a hospital at the Marine Corps Base in San Diego, Calif. He suffered a fractured leg. His old pals at Inert Storage wish him a speedy recovery and success in the service.

Food stuffs are on the rise, but Freedom is cheap . . . only 5 per cent of a wage check with Victory in the future and a possible refund . . . where on earth can you equal that?

Group 27 now has a night shift . . . for how long you may ask? Well, when will the War end is another question? It is hoped the boys of South who made the transfer enjoy their associations at Group 27 until . . .!

Owen J. "Buck" Ralston is the pilot of the Morning Star leaving the barracks in Wilmington at 7 a. m. on the dot.

Ray "Weasel" Morris is the proud father of a 9½ pound son.

Edward Sheridan of Group 27 was unhappy with his recent draft board mail. . . . Ed will be here for sometime yet.

Many hobbies have been found among the men here, but Jack Turner of the Inspection staff has one a little different . . . it's dogs. Jack captured the first prize in a recent show at Skokie Valley. He will be more than happy to solve your dog problem or show you pictures of his pets.

of the Inert Storage checking staff, has been promoted to a private first class and is taking a

Donald J. McCauley, formerly specialized course at Louisiana State University. Don enjoyed his stay at Drew Field, Florida, and his travel since being in the service. His friends at Inert Storage are hoping for his continued success and are proud of him.

John Nye has experienced the hour of death. Last week John went to his bathroom and drank from a water glass and found the bottom of the glass contained something of a deep blue color. Running to the kitchen he asked his wife if this was his last payday. In all the excitement she could not understand what was wrong. Then "Junior" John Nye, their son, spoke up and said he had been using his water colors to paint daddy's dreams. The picture did look something like Dante's Inferno.

Neither Charles Wardell nor his cat has been seen for days.

Inert Storage Men speak through the question of the week—

Question: Are you glad to know you will receive the Army-Navy "E"?

Joseph Birsa: Yes, I am glad. It means a great deal to me to wear the "E" pin.

Benedict B. Suca: As a new member of the EOP family, I am proud of it and will try to uphold the tradition for which it stands.

John Murray: To know that our plant has received this honor makes me very happy. I shall always look to my pin and know we have stood behind the boys on the fighting fronts 100 per cent.

Turk Argyle: To serve on the home front and receive this pin is a fine thing, but I wish there was some way I could do more to keep our Freedom.

James Whitley: It's great to know we have this honor. Every man should be proud of it.

Stanley Wienceck: I am glad to know this and I believe the men in the service will be glad to know we are all behind their efforts.

The Safety Department reports that the Inert Storage Department retained its place in the "No Lost Time Accident Club" for December, the fourth consecutive month.

Due to travel difficulty and winter complications the basketball team is marking time.

Production Planning

LORETTA RYAN
Correspondent

My appreciation is extended to those who were so kind in preparing the article this week for the paper. Due to my failure in pleading with those in charge of snow plows, I was unable to get out from under the drift which had enveloped me during the past week. Although I had been hoping I would have an opportunity just like this, little did I think it could amount to so much.—Your Correspondent.

Greetings are sent new members, June Kuglich, Edna Remaks, Mary Matesi, Helen Hausser and Geraldine Weir.

Adieus were extended at the same time to Nora Keliher of Industrial Service and to Helen Cutler of Production Planning.

Wallace Benson has transferred to the Accounting Department and all hope he will like the new surroundings very much.

Evidences of a day spent trying to get to work in order to keep the department planning were the frozen ears displayed by Harry Brown and Fred Mastin the day after. Shirley Wessels and Connie Sternberg put their talents of dishwashing and food preparing to work, in assisting during the storm, at the Cafeteria, and are thinking seriously of tackling such positions permanently. Leata Williams, Argyle Dalziel and Mary Glade were among the helpful ones at the food counter. Genevieve Carr reports that a day spent in the little town of Wilmington is quite an experience.

William Dronsfield, who left the department, has forwarded his thanks and appreciation to all for the remembrance, and said he will always remember the swell bunch of people with whom he worked.

Frances Mores certainly has her own original method of making telephone calls. The first step consists of a thorough clearing of the throat; secondly, she gets into an erect sitting position; and then, last but not least, she decides to take the fatal step and dial her number (understand, this is a blow by blow description).

Mary McGovern, Ray Banker and Lucille Brown were overheard to exclaim the day of the storm, when no one was able to appear for duties, "isn't this quiet simply divine." Fortunately for them, they were the few who were able to weather their way through the snow.

Hot Off the Press!

The newest talent discovery in the Production Planning Department is Mr. Mastin's "voice." It may be said that his next great performance will consist of a "tear jerking" solo at a friend's wedding. He will be happy to render any further information necessary.

Congratulations to Joanne Schwartz, who is replacing Don Nelson. She is soon to be doing some main aisle walking. It is said that she has requested one of her co-workers to do the vocalizing at her wedding of the tune "Who's Sorry Now."

Joseph Filips is awaiting the presentation of a shopping bag for the packages he is requested daily to carry. Perhaps some of the office workers will be so kind as to grant him this favor.

It has been suggested to Bernadine Klausing that she refrain from any more bids to sleigh-ride parties after her experiences last week.

Did any one happen to notice Dorothy Nemanich and Elva Thomas getting blown about by the Chicago winds a few weeks ago? They said it was a shopping tour they were on but from what was heard, it couldn't have been. Isn't it strange that two young ladies, who have boy-friends from the same university, should disappear for the same days in the same week?

Irene Blatnik is reported to be kept very busy these days with her daily correspondence with her young officer husband in Chicago.

A donation has been suggested for new rollers to be placed on Simon Legris chair, just in case.

Group 2 reports that Ray Nelson left for the armed forces and has been replaced by Orville Rasmussen. They have also donated a few titles for their co-workers which have become popular about the group, such as the "Colonel," who is none other than Johnny Williamson, and the "Senator," who is none other than Ralph Hatch, who reported the situation, and the only one who has a governing hand in the matter seems to be the "Reverend"—Paul Somerville. The "Major" is better known as Mr. Rasmussen.

Wayne Munyon of Group 3 is rather shy in submitting news for the paper. Perhaps it could be that he is withholding the spiciest item of all. One of the older members of this group, Donald Starr, has returned to the fold. He seems to be right at home and his associates welcome his return.

Q. When is the term "skipper" used in the Army?

A. The term is used in referring to any officer of the grade of captain, and sometimes even to lieutenants who happen to command companies. Generally used by officers of lesser rank in referring to their captains.

E. L. WALKUP
Director

Some men always go hunting on the first day of the season. Some men always go fishing for trout on the first day, in the spring. A war worker, with no week-days off—working eight hours a day, six days a week—tried to kill himself because he was refused leave to go deer hunting. The man had gone stale, was not himself, did not see clearly. Life has to be systemized in war, and yet as the Detroit Free Press, commenting on this incident, points out: "Opportunities for recreation must be made available, and should be used, despite the war pressure America is under."

Gwen Denny of the Government Inspection class being trained in the Recreation Building is really a ping pong "shark." It was good to see Ruth Starkman of Group 6 knocking down the pins last week. Charlotte Wolcott and Sophie Morse, Personnel Department, are regular Friday evening bowlers.

Add to the list of ping pong stars: Jo Donna, Ordnance Department. But definitely!

Dottie Schoop, Mary Philbin and Margaret Gergovich, Hospital employees, believe in keeping fit by bowling several lines each day. And mighty neat bowlers they are, too!

You've missed a lot if you have not been attending Ladies' Day regularly. Remember, it's held every Friday from 1 p. m. to 8 p. m. The bus leaves for Joliet from the Recreation Building at 8 p. m. Ladies living in the Area have organized a calisthenics class which meets three days a week. And you should see these same ladies bowling each Friday night. They are stiff competition in anybody's league.

Bowling

Eddie Murphy, Recreation Department, and George Becker, War Bond Department, have completed arrangements for the first open individual bowling sweepstakes to be held Monday and Wednesday, February 1 and 3.

Entries closed January 27. The entry fee was $1. Many prizes are offered. Each man will bowl three games and there will be prize money for high score and high series, so every one will have an opportunity to be in the money.

Teams playing in the Joliet Industrial League held a handicap sweepstakes January 14. Al Hesley. Safety Department, won first money with Vance Cook, ambulance driver, second; W. Peterson, third, and Bill Oldani, fourth.

In match games played by the Guards and Inspectors, Atwood of the Guards had high series with 519. Spiers of the Inspectors won high series with 513. The score:

Basketball

Group 3's basketball team will represent EOP by playing a benefit game for the new USO Building in Wilmington. They will play a strong team representing the city of Wilmington, as the final game of the evening.

The outstanding game of the week was the double overtime played by the Guards and the Army team January 14.

Group 3 and Group 62 are still tied for first place with the Guards and Fuse and Booster Chemical Laboratory close behind. Scores of games played recently were:

Guards

GENE RYAN
Correspondent

Yeoman J. Harold McLaughlin spent a day visiting here recently. He is stationed at Omaha, Nebraska, and was home on a 10 day furlough.

Pvt. E. J. Early, former guard, now stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, is home on furlough and visited here January 21.

The recent snowstorm caused considerable confusion at the Guardhouse. Many of the boys couldn't get to work and others had to work double-shifts. Knowing that plant protection was a 24-hour a day job, some of the boys blazed the trail until they reached the Plant. As fast as they straggled in, they hurriedly replaced some of the boys who were doing double duty. All in all, the spirit was high and the boys have now settled back to normal routine.

Congratulations are in order for John Lowry who is the proud father of a new son, and also to Kenneth Tinges who is equally proud of a new daughter. Both men work at Group 64.

Group 63 is now known to Capt. Joseph Killian's shift as "Little Manteno." Reason is the three custodians there are Guards Joseph Ruyle, Clarence Scott and Walter Emmerson—all Manteno Boys.

All the boys are anxiously awaiting Elmer Boulware to announce the date of his house-warming. He has moved from Odell into one of the new homes in Wilmington.

The boys who ride with Walter Hathaway have presented him with a new calendar—so he will know Friday has to come before Saturday.

Lt. Robert Bodley is convinced that the January 19 snow drifts made it possible to determine which guards are men and which are boys. The men, he said, reported for work.

Group Lieutenant Joseph Noel came out second best in his recent hard but futile tussle with old man winter while enroute to work.

Clarence Dyon, amiable and hard working man who holds forth in those cold ramps in Group 3, was seen with an extra heavy lunch. He is taking no chances in the event of another snowstorm.

Jasper O'Bryan was declared the winner in the recent sandwich eating contest. It happened during the recent snowstorm, when the men were snow-bound, and sandwiches were brought in.

Olin Walston is preparing to move into Wilmington. The idea he has is to be a "barker" for selling trailers.

Walter Corn's favorite pastime is eating grapes, while Charles Cogswell's weakness is potato chips.

Many of the boys are wondering why Herbert Buss is losing so much weight. The fact is mentioned that he could be driving too many miles in his air-conditioned Chrysler.

Dispatcher Casimir Klafta is quite elated over his new home in Wilmington. He has received a new lounge chair as a gift, and when he gets stocked up with Odell corn cobs, he will be all set for the winter.

On a recent journey homeward, some of the guards had an opportunity to be fire-fighters at a small fire in Wilmington. In the report received here, Earl Short won most praise. He was throwing bucket after bucket of water on the fire, while a woman carried the water to him. When questioned as to why she carried all the water, he drolled, "Well, she knew where to get it."

Paul Riordan, who is doing his bit for Uncle Sam as a guard at Group 3, was called to the home of his sister, who is seriously ill in Indiana.

Robert Jennings, who is a stalwart guard at Group 3, returned recently from a 200 mile trip to the southern part of the state. He reports the trip was very pleasant as well as profitable in the way of fresh pork, which is fast becoming an illusive article nowadays.

Other nice trips homeward were reported by Everett Hart to Danville, and Charles Patterson to Bloomington, Illinois.

For the past month Lt. Joseph Noel has been in charge of Groups 2 and 3, and has been getting well acquainted with all the boys.

Glendon Lade was called home from duty the night of January 18th by word of an accident to his 4-year-old daughter, who fell from a second story window of their home in Wilmington. Lade took her to Silver Cross Hospital in Joliet where her condition was reported satisfactory.

It is reliably reported that J. I. Pohlman is an accredited expert in shoveling tower foot paths.

Leo Osborn is proud possessor of an Illinois State Drivers license, and after a few more easy lessons will learn how to shift gears on the "Meat Wagon."

"Whole Hog or None" is the motto of Edwin Sir. He had to take a day off to can his half of a 350 lb. Porker.

And speaking of Hogs, Owen Reiley (The retired Old Salt) is curious to know the Express rate on Hams.

John Pearce, Wilmington, is leading (and only) Lawyer and an expert on Income Taxes is servicing all the boys in his Group, If, As, and when Uncle Sam will supply any blank forms.

Two more rural members of the force have moved with their families into the Government Homes at Wilmington. They are Lt. Frank Harrelson and James Whitson.

Sgt. Threll Childers and Sgt. Everett Brammer, both from Fuze and Booster area, are under the impression that a good policeman does not need an overcoat.

It has been reported by reliable sources that a handsome moustache cup will be presented to Charles Griffin, guard at the Pass Desk, any day now for the wonderful crop he has patiently raised all through the long winter months. It is to be presented by his co-worker, Rosemary Hebert.

That lovely blonde, Mary Edwards, who is employed in the Personnel Building, was doing a very nice job of escorting a tall, handsome soldier around the plant January 20. When questioned as to his identity, she calmly stated, "Why that's my Uncle."

With the Women

Capt. Gladys Armstrong wants the Guards to know she appreciates the fact that they so graciously helped last Tuesday, when her staff was in such dire need of assistance.

It is admitted that 5:30 a. m. is not the best time for a get-together but the Women Guards living in Joliet certainly had a meeting in spite of the bitter cold and the drifting snows. It wasn't a pleasure, but the fact that each girl was willing to help the other, proved that they certainly can take it.

The Guards at Gate 6, Group 3-A, had quite a laugh recently when they saw three persons pushing a station wagon. They planned among themselves just how they would kid their brother officers. Can you imagine their surprise when it was discovered they were three Women Guards proudly wearing the new slacks, which arrived simultaneously with the cold weather.

Josephine Finch was in an automobile accident January 17, but wasn't seriously hurt.

Marion Qualls is definitely on the road to recovery and all hope she'll be back soon.

PROUD of her soldier husband, Mrs. Roland Torkelson sent this photograph of Pvt. Roland "Rusty" Torkelson to The Bomb-Shell. Private Torkelson is stationed at Camp Wheeler, Georgia.

BUSY little bee is Junerae Hubert, 9-year-old daughter of Philip Hubert, formerly of Group 6, but now a machinist in Group 70. In addition to her school routine, Junerae takes tap dancing lessons, is learning how to twirl a baton, is studying voice and sings at numerous functions.

Nursery School In Kankakee Plan of P.T.A.

Mothers Working At EOP Asked to Indicate Interest

Plans are under way for the establishment of day and nursery schools in Kankakee for the care of school and pre-school children of mothers who are engaged in war work, according to Mrs. Ethel Cooper, president of the Kankakee County Parent-Teacher Association Council.

Mrs. Cooper has asked The Bomb-Shell to help determine the need and desire for such schools among mothers who are employed at Elwood Ordnance Plant. Establishment of the schools will depend upon those needs and desires.

"These schools would, at the beginning," said Mrs. Cooper, "have to be for the day only, eliminating mothers working on night shifts, as we would have neither the means, helpers nor facilities for a 24-hour school. These schools, of course, in order to meet the licensing laws of the State of Illinois and the requirements of the Lanham Act, would have to meet very rigid standards. The organization which I represent would not consider any other type of nursery."

Development of facilities for the schools would be under the direction of the Child Protection Committee of the Kankakee Office of Civilian Defense.

Mothers working at EOP and living in Kankakee, who may be interested in making use of such schools, are requested to communicate with Mrs. Cooper immediately. Her address is 241 West Oak Street, Kankakee.

Former Girl Worker Qualifies for WAACs

Dorothy H. Bates, who formerly worked in Group 9, has qualified for the WAACs at Dallas, Tex., according to word received here. Miss Bates received the Veterans of Foreign Wars medal for citizenship in 1940 after having been voted the most popular and best all-around girl by fellow students at the high school she attended in McKinney, Texas. "My ambition is to do all that's possible to help win the war," said the former munitions worker.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

28 Former Valentine Babies Work Here

Twenty-eight workers at EOP have the distinction of observing their birthday anniversaries on Valentine Day, February 14. The names of one-time Valentine babies are listed in the adjoining birthday column. Receiving Valentines, both comic and sentimental, probably is an old story to them, but no one can be blamed if the story is repeated again this year.

February 12 Birthday Celebrants Number 29

The 29 members of the EOP family, including Capt. A. G. Resch, Army inspector of ordnance, who observe their birthday anniversaries February 12 will have an additional reason to remember their 1943 anniversary. Previously they have been proud that the date marked the anniversary of Abraham Lincoln, and now that date has been selected for presentation of the Army-Navy "E" award to them and all other men and women of EOP. Schools usually declare a holiday on February 12, but it is reported by an unimpeachable authority that Captain Resch has always told his son he got a holiday from school because it was his dad's birthday.

Salvage

ANDY VAIL
Correspondent

Elva Thomas says: "You are never fully dressed until you wear a smile."

Michael Doyle, historian, reports that except for the Capitol in Washington, the only place in the United States over which the American flag is allowed by law to fly each night in times of peace is the grave of Francis Scott Key in Maryland. The purpose is to make true always the line in his song, The Star Spangled Banner: "Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there."

Alvin Smerker said he and Scott "Scotty" Soper went to an auction sale in Joliet. Just as they entered, the auctioneer was announcing that a certain gentleman had the misfortune to lose his wallet containing $1,000. A reward of $250 was offered to anyone returning it. After a short silence Alvin claims he heard Scotty murmur, "Two hundred fifty-five."

Guard James Kolar paid 25 cents for a book giving instructions on how to make out his income tax return. It confused him so that he had to hire an attorney and paid him $10 to interpret it for him.

Roy Picaman has been sporting a pair of rubbers lately.

Some one accused Don Doyle of being listless. To prove they were wrong he produced lists of blondes, brunettes, and redheads.

The department has been called upon time after time to furnish various articles which once were discarded but are now much in demand. But the staff was laid low when truck driver Roy Anderson demanded he be supplied with milk every day.

Food rationing should be no hardship, in fact it perhaps would be a pleasure, according to the following item, Swen Sandahl says he read: The average highball is equal to three hard-boiled eggs. A cocktail is equal to three slices of bread and butter, and a bottle of beer is equivalent to a plate of ham and eggs.

Walter Moore, Oak Ordnance plant, and Thomas Fennel, Nebraska Ordnance plant, visited the Salvage yard recently.

Recipe May Help On Meatless Days

With the many meatless days ahead, the following recipe for salmon puffs submitted by comely cook, Geraldine Ward, Ordnance Inspection Department, may be helpful.

1 Lb. Can Salmon
¾ Cup Bread Crumbs
½ Cup Milk
1 Tablespoon Butter
¾ Teaspoon Salt
¼ Teaspoon Pepper
2 Eggs

Flake the salmon with a silver fork and add the seasoning. Soak bread crumbs in the milk. Add the flaked salmon and melted butter. Separate eggs, beat the yolks until thick and the whites until stiff. Add yolks to the salmon mixture and mix well, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and put mixture into buttered muffin pans.

Bake in a 350° oven for about 20 minutes (serves six).

Serve with the following Parsley Sauce:

2 Level Tablespoons Butter
2 Level Tablespoons Flour
1 Cup Milk
1 Teaspoon Lemon Juice
Salt and Pepper to taste
1 Tablespoon Chopped Parsley

Place the butter and flour in a sauce pan and blend thoroughly. Add milk, little at a time, stirring constantly, until the sauce boils. Cook five minutes, add seasoning and lemon juice. Just before serving add parsley.

ELWOOD ON PARADE

WHAT'S COOKIN' was the question of the day at the EOP Cafeteria January 19 when the snow fell and the wind blew to marooned workers who had to be fed.

AMATEURS PITCHED in to help prepare the food required by the operating forces and knives flashed, pans rattled and spoons danced in rhythmic unison.

KITCHEN POLICE duty wasn't minded at all. In fact, there were as many volunteers for the dish washing task as for the more glamorous culinary duties.

BAKING BISCUITS seemed to offer keenest fun and there was extreme rivalry between mixers, cutters and bakers, relieved of drab secretarial duties.

Employes Long Will Recall "E" Award Day

Evidence of Pride, Determination Seen As Flag Is Raised

It was a memorable Lincoln's birthday anniversary . . . that February 12 of 1943 . . . when the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant received the flag symbolic of the Army-Navy "E" Award for Excellence in Production . . . memorable to the more than 5,000 workers and their families who watched the inspiring ceremonies in front of EOP's Administration Building . . . and memorable to the additional thousands who heard the presentation and acceptance by radio.

There was all of the color and atmosphere of a Big Ten football-afternoon . . . and the sprinkle of snow unaccompanied by wind did not interfere with the half-hour program. There was more . . . a seriousness which uplifted . . . a hanging-on to every word that inspired . . . and when Sgt. Clare Cosgrove slowly raised the pennant to its berth just below Old Glory the faces of those who followed its progress up the pole disclosed the light and pride, spirit and determination which is America . . . which is EOP.

There was music . . . by the famed Joliet Township High School Band. There were words . . . words of praise, of encouragement, of pride . . . and there was applause as the distinguished speakers struck chords of response in their listeners. Yes, from the time the band played "America" until the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" were heard, it was a brilliant ceremony.

The program was launched by Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, Commanding Officer of EOP, who welcomed workers and guests and then presented F. W. Woodruff, chairman, Will County Chapter, American Red Cross, as master of ceremonies for the afternoon. The invocation was by Chaplain John B. Dalton, U. S. Army.

Greetings and felicitations were expressed by EOP's former Commanding Officer, Lt. Col. Don M. Hoffman, now Chief, Loading Plants Group. EOP's contribution to the war effort was outlined by another former Commanding Officer, Col. T. C. Gerber, now Field Director, Ammunition Plants.

Called to Washington at the last moment, Col. F. H. Miles, Jr., Chief, Safety and Security Branch, Ordnance Department, who was scheduled to tell about safety in ordnance, sent Col. D. C. Hall, Deputy Director of Safety, to represent him.

Mr. Woodruff then introduced Maj. Gen. Charles T. Harris, Jr., Commanding General, Aberdeen Proving Ground, who praised the splendid record of the men and women of Elwdood Ordnance Plant. General Harris presented the "E" flag to Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, who accepted it in behalf of the employees.

Following his appropriate remarks, Mr. Smith turned the flag over to Richard G. Richards, Alice Taskey and Vincent Farrell, elected to represent all of their fellow employees. The trio gave the flag to the color guard and it was raised on the flag pole.

Comdr. J. A. Flint, Inspector of Ordnance, Naval Ordnance Dept., presented "E" pins to the employee representatives and Mr. Richards responded with words of appreciation and a pledge that excellence in production would be maintained. The entire program was broadcast over Station WCLS, Joliet.

Distribution of the pins to all employees was started immediately after the ceremony and continued during subsequent days until completed.

2,382 Workers Sign For $50 War Bonds

Agreements to buy $50 War Bonds instead of $25 ones, retaining the same weekly payroll savings payments, have been signed by 2,382 employees, according to G. A. Becker of the EOP War Bond Department. A campaign to step-up the denomination of War Bonds was launched as a means of saving money for Uncle Sam at no cost to the purchasers. The same percentage of weekly savings is maintained, but it takes twice as many weeks to buy a $50 bond instead of a $25 one. Signed slips are required to authorize the change and foremen can obtain these slips by calling Mr. Becker, line 4195.

The Big Moment Is at Hand!

WITH CAREFUL TREAD Sgt. Clare Cosgrove, flanked by the other members of the EOP color guard and bearing the Army-Navy "E" flag presented to the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant, advances to the pole for the big moment of the day.

Fellowship Meeting Features Bowling

Old fashioned chicken and dumplings were promised to all who attend the regular EOP Fellowship Meeting at the Mess Hall and Recreation Building Thursday evening, February 18. The promise was made by F. Smith, steward, who said he had obtained the chickens himself.

Another feature promised was a bowling match between a picked EOP team of male bowlers and the Budweiser women's team of Chicago, champion match team for 1942.

The committee in charge is composed of Capt. D. P. Tunstall, chairman; J. W. Stark, vice chairman; Mr. Smith; I. E. Jackson, assistant steward; C. Kaplan, Capt. William Maskell, W. J. Reed, Karl Ulrich and E. L. Walkup.

Report Lack of "E" Pin at Once

Elwood Ordnance Plant employees are proudly wearing their Army-Navy "E" pins. Distribution of the attractive emblems was completed as rapidly as possible after the ceremonies of February 12, but if any employee who was working here January 9 has not received his pin, he is asked to report his name and clock number to his timekeeper and it will be traced. Such oversights, if any, are regretted by the management and will be corrected quickly.

New Officers Named By Employees' Group

New officers were named February 9 by the Employees' Activity Committee to serve for three months. C. O. Finnegan, who retired as chairman after serving three months, was voted a letter of thanks for his untiring efforts.

The officers are Colby Eriksen, Group 3-A, chairman; Robert Wilhemi, Inspection, re-elected vice chairman; Lucia Jane Pearson, Guards, re-elected secretary, and Dorothy Lehman, Group 8, treasurer. New members chosen by their respective groups were welcomed. They are Mary Ragoni, Group 3-A; Leona Hagen, Utilities; Harvey Ingersoll, Bus Transportation, and E. T. Bennington, Administration.

Kankakee Courses Begin Feb. 23

Registration for the University of Illinois courses at the Kankakee High School, starting February 23, can be made as late as that night at the school. The courses are open to both men and women employees of EOP and detailed information may be obtained from Rollin T. Read, EOP safety supervisor.

Karl Ulrich, assistant safety supervisor, will teach the course in safety engineering. Other courses include foundation of engineering (A) Mathematics—Physics, and electrical circuits (AC-DC circuits, pertaining to electrical industry).

Says "E" Flag Is Salute of Fighting Men

General Harris Presents Award To EOP Workers

Major General Charles T. Harris, Jr., commanding general of Aberdeen Proving Ground, termed the "E" flag he presented to the men and women of EOP February 12 a salute from the soldiers, sailors and marines fighting on fronts throughout the world, but added that the salute is accompanied by a plea for ever increasing production.

"Men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant," said General Harris, "your Government has taken note of the splendid work you are doing here by awarding you the Army-Navy 'E' for excellence in production. I come here today as a representative of the Undersecretary of War, the Undersecretary of Navy, and at the direction of the Chief of Ordnance, General Levin H. Campbell, Jr., to present this award to you with their congratulations.

"My past duties in the Ordnance Department have brought me in close touch with explosives and loading; even during World War I, I was intimately connected with explosives and loading. I have had a close contact with the Elwood Ordnance Plant and with the operators, Sanderson & Porter; in fact, I helped to select the site upon which this plant was built and helped to secure the necessary approval in Washington for its construction and for its operation. So you may realize my pleasure and pride in your sterling performance, as it is one of the first plants built in the munitions production program.

"This is my first visit to your plant, but it is not the first time I have tried to come here. In February, 1941, I was scheduled to visit this plant and left Memphis, Tenn., one night by the Illinois Central railroad to visit Elwood the next day. We ran into a train wreck and were turned back and instead of arriving at the Elwood plant early in the morning, my train was 12 hours late and we passed through the following evening. It was my loss, as I was not at that time able to see the great construction job that was then being accomplished under the

Six Finish Course In Safety Engineering

Six EOP employees have completed a course in safety engineering conducted by the University of Illinois through its Extension Division, it was announced by Rollin T. Read, EOP safety supervisor. Mr. Read said the workers deserved praise for taking the 96-hour course and for the excellent grades they made. The six are Clifford Day, Accounting; Vernice Quade, Purchasing; Natalie Riddle and Benjamin Paresky, Group 3-A; Paul Embick, Safety, and William Harrison, Army Inspection.

"E" Award Is Challenge

"We men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant are proud of the new flag that soon is to fly over our plant. We're grateful for this recognition of our war efforts. We regard the Army-Navy Production Award not as a reward for past deeds alone, but also as a challenge to even greater efforts in the future. But proud as we are of our "E" Award and the individual emblems we will wear, even greater pride and satisfaction come from the knowledge that the ammunition we are producing is helping our fighting men on the world's battlefronts to hasten the day of complete and decisive victory. It is our sincere pledge that our energy and our efforts will be devoted ever increasingly to this cause."

This pledge was published with signatures of employees in a full-page advertisement in the Joliet Herald-News of February 11.

Keep Up the Good Work

"The award of the Army-Navy 'E' to the two munition plants in this community will spur all of the employees of those plants to new production heights," said Jack Thorne in his daily Page One column in the Joliet Herald-News following the ceremonies at EOP.

"The fact that Will County men on the firing line in many parts of the world are using powder and shells made here has put a tremendous responsibility upon the workers on the home front to produce these munitions with efficiency and dispatch . . . the thousands of workers in these plants will put forth new efforts to meet the demands for the arms of war so that victory may be achieved . . . to all of the munition workers we join with the community in saying keep up the good work and give the boys all the shells and powder they need so that the axis can be blown off the map."

Thanks Are Given

Thanks are due to a great many persons who made "E" Award Day at EOP such a successful occasion. In behalf of employees, management and Ordnance, The Bomb-Shell extends appreciation to the distinguished speakers and guests, to the committee which worked so hard to make every detail count, to the employee representatives, to those employees who labored at reception, entertainment and transportation tasks, to the Joliet Township High School Band, to Radio Station WCLS, to the Joliet Herald-News and all other newspapers which publicized the event.

The Burning Pit

By Scorchy

This time, it's the weather. After wearing down the assembled rags, bones and hanks of hair with a complete selection of Arctic Antics these many months, I got thinking about it all and decided to go off on a little research expedition about Spring—you know, that mystic harbinger of running sap (nothing personal, my friend) budding trees, a young man's fancy, Easter bonnets, and all that kind of rummage that signalizes man's release from those patented "fried oyster" earmuffs, itchy underwear, sore throats, and various and sundry other wintry weariers.

Having always nursed a secret desire to be a statistician, I decided the only way to settle the issue of Spring was to gallop through one of the famous Scorchy polls. You know, where you run up to a guy who isn't looking, ask him a dumb question, get an answer, and then draw a conclusion before he has a chance to copyright what he has told you. I asked a lot of questions, but forsooth, your scribe has to admit that he didn't get very far.

The first unsuspecting victim of this all-inclusive search for Truth (read a certain Chicago newspaper) was J. D. Stark of the Water Department. In my most ingratiating manner, I asked Mr. Stark what he thought about Spring. "I am sorry, Scorchy, but we get all our water from wells and there are no springs around here that haven't got a lot of algae (that's the word that keeps the mystery in the Water Department) in them. Now just look at that bottle of water, isn't it a honey? It's the best we have ever drawn." I must confess the water looked very much the same as any other water I ever looked at, but inasmuch as I wasn't getting far with Mr. Stark I decided to skip it, and proceed to more productive sources.

I dropped in on Stanley Kukulski of the Service Garage, more familiarly known as "Kelly," and asked him when he thought Spring would arrive.

"I don't know, Scorchy. You know we are having a lot of trouble getting parts these days, and particularly springs. We have had a right rear semi-elliptical spring on order for ME 12345678 since 1941, and if we don't get it soon, the car will have to be retired because of old age."

I didn't want to hurt his feelings by further questioning but you can see how thoroughly devoted he is to material things—just like the farmer—nothing lofty about him except his hay.

Next I called on the Honorable William A. Buck, the Ned Wayburn of the "hello" girls and seriously put to him the proposition of Spring.

"Spring—I know it well," said the venerable master of the mouthpiece with the glossy top dressing. Amongst my vast library (of telephone books) is a weighty volume for New York City and in it is a reference that if you call Spring 3100, you will get the Police Department. I trust sir, that is the information you are seeking."

I politely informed the Demon of the Dial that Spring 3100 was very interesting but Spring 1943 was much more to the point, whereupon the interview ended abruptly as the door to the Salon of Speech was closed, and I was on the cold side of it.

Somebody tipped me off that V. L. Knudson of Supplies fame might have the real lowdown on this apparently ethereal Spring, so up I went and put the question in my usual excruciatingly precise manner.

Turning to his assistant, Frank Smith, he shouted "Spring!" Smitty retaliated with a bunch of inventory cards reading something along these lines—"Spring—Helical 3 tempered"; "Spring, Valve, 1914 Chevrolet"; "Spring, Main, Ingersoll Watch," and so on to a most unsatisfactory answer to the question of the day. These few excerpts from the massive working papers of this marvel of fact-finding will readily demonstrate to the most doubting of doubtful readers that our conclusions regarding the arrival of Spring are really indisputable, and we ask you to brace yourself for the impact of these prognostications.

Acceptance of Award Renews All-Out Pledge

Smith Congratulates Workers on Effort To Hasten Victory

The text of the address of Harrison Smith, resident partner of Sanderson & Porter, who accepted the "E" Award in behalf of EOP men and women, follows:

"This is a very proud day for you men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant, many of you having given your best efforts for over two years in order that this plant might be the best of Uncle Sam's loading plants. Through your application to duty, I think, we have succeeded. You have every right to take pride in your accomplishments, and that pride is shared by myself and my partners, many of whom are here today.

"Our speakers have been kind to us, and have given us much credit. Perhaps this is appropriate, since we are receiving the award. I must remind you, though, that this is not a single-handed accomplishment of civilians. Whatever has been accomplished here has been the result of team work, and I should like to say a few words about the other half of the team. We (both Contractor and Army civilians) have been aided more than you know by two offices of the War Department—that of the Quartermaster General, succeeded by the Chief of Engineers, and that of the Chief of Ordnance. To enumerate our friends among the personnel of these two services, and to describe their activities and contributions to our success, would require more time than is available. I shall just tell you that there has not been one man among them all who has not performed his duty gloriously and with honor to himself and the service which he represents.

"You are complimented in having as your guests today Major General Charles T. Harris, Jr., who represents our great Chief of Ordnance, Major General L. H. Campbell, Jr.; Colonel D. C. Hall, Deputy Director of Safety, who represents Colonel F. H. Miles, Jr., suddenly called to Washington; and Colonel T. C. Gerber, Lt. Colonel Charles F. Schneider, Lt. Colonel D. M. Hoffman, Major Kenneth M. Haber, and many others, all of whom have worked with us and have proven themselves not only capable officers, but possessing great capacity for leadership. Among our guests are three of this plant's former junior officers, now commanding plants of their own. I refer to Major P. S. Irvine of Pantex Ordnance Plant, Major Charles G. Tolson of Green River Ordnance Plant, and Major G. R. Griswold of Coosa River Ordnance Plant.

"We likewise owe much to our friends in the Office of Services of Supply and Chief of Engineers, Lt. General Brehon Somervell and Brigadier Generals W. H. Harrison and Leslie R. Groves, all of whom gave us undivided support in the construction of this plant. They were to have been represented here today by Colonel C. Keller, District Engineer, Chicago, and by Captain K. D. DeYoung, our Area Engineer, and others. At almost the last moment Colonel Keller was unavoidably detained.

"I know of no higher honor that these gentlemen from the two branches of the service could pay us than by coming here to share our just pride in the accomplishments of this great plant. Verily, I may say, we have been blessed with capable and understanding friends!

"Ladies and gentlemen, you are to be envied today in receiving this signal award. But it is an occasion which should serve to remind you in the days to come that by accepting it, you are renewing your pledge, and again assuming an obligation to those men who have given and will give their lives for the preservation of life and liberty for you and your children, and your children's children.

"I wish, in your behalf, to express appreciation to our speakers and to our guests. All of the latter, in many ways, have contributed to the success of this plant and we thank them and are honored by their presence.

"This flag, symbolic of the 'E' Award for your outstanding accomplishment in production, so graciously presented by General Harris, I now hand to your chosen representatives, who will in turn hand it to the color bearers, who will raise it to its rightful place under Old Glory.

"My hearty congratulations!"

Timekeeping

Lawrence Ressler, former timekeeper and now an aviation cadet in Texas, visited the Time Office recently while home on furlough. Buddy, as he is known to his many friends, related many interesting details of an aviation cadet's life and expressed surprise in the physical change of the plant since he left.

Carl Cornelius, the golden haired boy, finally got his priority ticket to Tokyo and is now on his way. Dee Johnson, newer member of the department, got his call, too, and is now in the service.

When Herbie Drummond, reliable and very conscientious timekeeper at Group 64, was swarmed by women workers from Group 1, he was asked if he needed help and promptly replied in typical Drummond fashion, "No, thanks, I can handle them myself."

Word has been received from Pvt. Joseph Petrosko, former timekeeper at Group 2, now stationed out in the California desert, where the temperature is 90 to 95 degrees in the daytime. Joe likes the Army fine and would like to say hello to all his friends here.

Did you know that . . . Roy Christiansen is the son of a minister . . . that when the nurse at Group 1 left her station for a first aid call, she asked Joe Smajd to take care of the place, so all the boys are now calling him "Nursie, Nursie" . . . that not much has been said about the night men. John Carmichael, Bert Rydman, Cloid Carlson, Dale Aman, Alfred Perley and Bob Brimm . . . that Jimmy Bean is definitely interested in Gerry Parthuns, who was ill for several days . . . that little Ken Bryant is a squirt who drips all over the place . . . that Shirley Van Duyne writes to her girl friends in college all the moron stories she hears so that they practically travel all over the country . . . that Larry Holz is leading a very, very quiet life at Group 61 . . . that Eva Sweda is the Bob Hope of the Time Department . . . that George Zobel has a very cute sister named Marion . . . that Jim Murphy is back at the Section House after a long illness . . . that Grant Stitt is the idol of Group 4 . . . that Paul Zamkovitz has meaningless jargon, according to John O'Connell . . . that Don Glasgow is quite a basketball player . . . that Peggy Warren is very romantic . . . that Clifford Day is really a poet . . . that Bob Bright dates the daughter of the sheriff of Grundy County?

Haber Praises Spirit of EOP At Ceremonies

Says Employees, Executives, Ordnance All Work Together

The text of the address of Major Kenneth M. Haber, EOP's commanding officer, who introduced the master of ceremonies, F. W. Woodruff of Joliet, follows:

"Distinguished guests and, most of all, employees of Elwood—it is my privilege to welcome you and share this ceremony with you.

"Plants, like individuals, have definite personalities and Elwood's personality and spirit, it seems to me, are best exemplified in several lines from Rudyard Kipling. I cannot remember the poem of which they are a part, but these few lines deserve remembrance:

"'It ain't the individual,
Nor the Army as a whole,
But the close cooperation
Of every bloomin' soul.'

"That is the spirit of Elwood—employees, management and ordnance working together with unity of purpose to accomplish a common end—Victory.

"You men and women have earned the honor this day brings to Elwood and I am proud to be associated with you. I congratulate you and your fine leaders—Harrison Smith and William E. Canniff."

Everyone sure can be proud of that "E" pin that they wear on their lapel these days. . . . But now that "we got it . . . we got to live up to it . . . so back in harness we go at double time. . . . Remember there is no letting up at the front."

Room 10 at the Personnel Building is the scene of some kind of a feud these days. . . . Cokes are not plentiful and when one makes its appearance on the window sill anything can happen. . . . For further details consult the George and Haigh Collection Service. . . . Services recommended by Evelyn Melby.

If you want to hear a funny story ask Gerry Ward, fellow scribe, about the tale (and tale is meant) of the "pink" pajamas . . . seems as if Capt. Alois G. Resch can give additional info on it.

Bernice Shroba is looking rather mysterious these days . . . it may be something to do with the third finger left hand.

The extra gleam in the eyes of Mary Scahill is due to her becoming the blushing bride of one of Uncle Sam's pride and joy . . . yep, fran's, she answers to Mrs. now.

Didja know that Bernece Carlson's Pa is running for supervisor in the big city of Galesburg?

Kay Rosenbaum used the old glamor act of getting out on the road and waving a car down to help push her car up the slippery hill the other mornin' . . . course she wouldn't have any trouble getting someone to do this.

Bea Berge is getting quite adept at rolling bandages at the Red Cross . . . the gals from EOP sure made a good showing at the meeting of this organization that ain't afraid of workin' . . . no siree.

Marie Maren is still haunting the mails . . . she can't wait to hear the latest from soldier boy Jimmy Veatch, former EOP employee.

Sure thing Bill Poole looked good in his uniform when he was here . . . guess good ole grey beard knows what's good for his boys.

Heard from Dottie and John Olson the other day . . . they are living in Maine, practically on the ocean or in it . . . the picture looked like the tide rolled right into the living room . . . no foolin', it sure is a beautiful spot.

Gerry Kestel of Personnel is now getting ready to tote a gun for the U. S. . . . yessir, he is now 1-A, but as the saying goes . . . is still A-1 in Pat Haley's life. . . .Ann Melovic appeared in Mail and Record the other afternoon in a keen pair of navy blue slacks . . . she is now teletype operator since Ralph Clutts left for the Army.

Bea Peterson was having quite a time of it the other mornin' . . . she dropped a can of soap and as usual it rolled under a chair.

Wonder what Mara Puett and a fellow from Cyanimid were talking about the other evening . . . well, don't continue worrying . . . she and him had an unprecedented meeting with their cars.

Betty Kovach sure likes Bob Hope . . . she had everyone around her laughing the last time they appeared at the local cinema. . . . It's too bad everyone can't have a sense of humor like that . . . this ole tired out world would be a better place in which to live.

Dorothy Herbst is the new cutie pie in Mail and Record. . . . Think Jo Kush missed her calling . . . she should be a producer of girl shows . . . she has taken over Mr. Olson's title of "Best Picker of Female Employees." . . . By the way, no more info has dribbled out about that wearing apparel of Joe's . . . although a rumor did start about something that goes with shoes.

Jeanne Baskerville's handsome hubby is in officer's training in North Carolina.

Via the T. G. ("Town Gossip" to you). . . . Claire Donoghue of Capt. K. D. De Young's office is now getting that rice throwing look about her . . . seems that Lt. Dale Yeoman, now in Maryland, is keeping the wires hot with "When are you coming"? See they painted the flagpole . . . that's one job that takes calm nerves . . . looks swell though, so 'twas worth the effort.

If you see Bess Moore and she doesn't see you . . . don't blame her . . . she's got stars in her eyes . . . her flying Marine brother, "Smoky," is now an "Ace" and, by gosh, that's sumpthin.

Charlotte Matheny must have shown Mavis Emerson too good a time in Champaign . . . she's hasn't been able to come to work since. . . . Or could it be the three-day measles that got Ray Sayers down.

Well . . . still batting 100 per cent. . . . Monica Limacher ruined another pair of hose since the last issue . . . don't know whether it is an epidemic or what? . . . Anyway, Monica says she is going to get two burlap sacks and wrap them around her legs. . . . Can't you just picture neat little Monica doing something like that?

Machine Shop Messages
By Marie Studer

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nevin are the proud parents of a son born January 27.

The Machine Shop employees received their first letter from Hank Schelling, Jr., since he enlisted in the Navy. He writes glowingly of life in the Navy and is very happy.

Judson Fish, tool room clerk, has been in the hospital for several days.

The singing and whistling one hears upon entering the Machine Shop is done by our small, uninvited, but welcome, guests, the birds. They have adopted the shop as their winter home and add a certain note of cheerfulness.

Early, Steady Production at EOP Is Lauded

Former Commanding Officer Cites Feat Of Fast Building

The text of the address of Colonel T. C. Gerber here February 12 follows:

"Having been associated with the Elwood Ordnance Plant from January, 1941, to March, 1942, as Commanding Officer and since August, 1942, as Field Director of Ammunition Plants, my return today is in the nature of an enjoyable homecoming. While the success of the Elwood Ordnance Plant has been entirely due to the untiring efforts of you men and women, I feel exceedingly proud to have been a member of your team.

"I have been asked to speak on the subject of Elwood's contribution to the war effort. While it is not possible in these times to use production figures in describing the Elwood effort, we can look back over the short, but successful, history of this plant and see how, through the vigorous activities of Sanderson & Porter and all those associated with them, you started and maintained production within eight months after the beginning of construction.

"Additional lines came into production shortly thereafter. Your productivity has been limited, not at all by what you could do, but by what you were permitted to do due to changing troop needs brought about by the fluidity of war. It has been necessary for you to share critical materials with other activities engaged in the war effort in order that the articles needed by our troops would be supplied them in the proper order in accordance with our shifting demands.

"When you started operating in July, 1941, you were the first establishment of its kind to initiate operations. This being the case, numerous key personnel from other plants, building and projected, converged upon Elwood to learn how this unique establishment was built and operated.

"Those were trying days for many of you because you were building, operating and instructing both your own personnel and visitors. You were very patient, despite the extreme pressure of those days. We know that the products of the Elwood Ordnance Plant have found their way to the far corners of the world wherever our troops are engaged. We know that they are high quality products. They are the best that American workmanship and American ingenuity can produce.

"So I would say that the contribution of the Elwood Ordnance Plant to the war effort consisted of early and sustained production of high quality ordnance and the use of this establishment as a training point in design, construction and operation.

"Sanderson & Porter and all of you associated with them have done a splendid job and I desire to add my congratulations."

Occasionally relatives and friends of people whose names appear in this column become puzzled or confused (or sometimes even excited) as to the incidents described. This is not the right reaction, although it is flattering that the words should move them so. However, the purpose is to entertain, to amuse. If the truth happens to come into what is said, it is purely accidental, coincidental, unique and will occur in spite of efforts to ignore it (for the occasional failure of those efforts, apologies are humbly offered). The writers cannot be responsible for unwarranted inferences of imaginative readers.

The reason why Fire Inspector Rudy Getson of the demon dribblers is always alert and full of energy after a game is easy to understand. He is the slinking sleeper of the team, and spends most of the game lurking under the enemy basket waiting for his fellow players to throw him the ball. Whatever system the boys are using, it certainly is paying dividends: So far, seven wins and two losses!

Inspector Walter Panian, the great analyst of what is going on in the world, has been losing quite a few of his arguments of late because history never occurred just as he imagined. But he still gets fun out of arguing about things that never happened the way he imagines.

Inspector Willard "Captain" Essington was positive he could bowl about 600 for three games; he even went so far as to bet on himself. So far his confidence in his bowling ability has not paid dividends. However, Inspectors Cyrillius Ochs and William Dust are quite satisfied. Now "Captain" is plotting revenge.

Last week Thomas Billadeau became the Chief of the Tall Tales Teepee of the Prevaricators Personality Lodge. This term lasts about as long as that of an old-time Mexican president or about the lifetime of an ersatz girdle. "Chief" Billadeau is now holding eleventh place in this week's Prevaricators Parade, due to efforts like these.

Dayle Pratt: "It gets so hot down where I come from that when a rabbit crosses a clear patch of ground he has to carry a canteen to keep from dying of thirst."

Orville Milton: "I used to work in a lumber camp so large that it took 200 cooks to cook for the cooks."

John Harbison: "And two teams of horses were needed just to haul the salt and pepper shakers around."

Ralph Blake: "It gets so hot in my part of the country that the trees chase after the dogs."

Frank Skoff is one of the ace students here, but 'twas not ever thus—at one time, when called upon to paraphrase the sentence "He was bent on seeing her," Frankie rolled 'em in the aisles with "The sight of her doubled him up."

The boys at Station 3 traced John Watkin's ancestry back to Rip Van Winkle—without the aid of Ralph Rausch, engineer.

The boys on the Refuse Detail put their heads together and selected nicknames for each other. From now on they refuse to answer to any other name except the monickers here listed (this of course makes for a rather complicated roll call):

A famous combination here is Hayes to Hayes to Hayes. (Willie, Frankie and Pappy.)

Joe Vacarro and Rudy Getson are buddies—eat together, go out together and sprout bushy mustaches together. They also probably will be called into Chief R. W. Mortenson's office together.

Now that O. K. Olson has left Station 3 for a stay at Station 2, he's all smiles, because at last he is a boss again.

Recently there has been a pronounced change in the appearance of timekeeper Joe Baudino. What at first seemed to be a sloping chest gradually assumes the appearance of a land-sliding landscape.

Tony Schnelton spent a day in Chicago attending the Homemakers Cooking Class. Tony gave a lecture on "My coffee and what it does for your ulcers" or "For an extra dinner guest just add another cup of water to the soup."

Some of the boys pitched a shindig for Asst. Chief Clifford Weiss the other night in Wilmington. "Cliffy" made an ideal guest of honor.

William Day of the bay window days is now firmly entrenched in the dog house. Willie says he just moved in to keep Asst. Chief Charlie Davis warm, but if asked to leave he can always go to live with "Tate" Ehmen.

Archie James recently started on a strict vegetarian diet, consisting mainly of carrots. These carrots must be of a certain size before Arch will nibble on them.

"No, Mrs. Dillree, Jimmie did not have to pay for that new sergeant's badge he is sporting."

George Zelke's sketches have won him considerable acclaim among the fire inspectors. Nick Cleary wants Georgie to paint his portrait over again, but the artist is now very busy working on a bust of Frankie Nolan. This is a tremendous undertaking and should keep Mr. Zelke busy for the duration.

Engineer Mike Olson recently let slip as to how he wished the guards at Gate 8 a Merry Christmas. He found that remote control stuff is O.K.

A few summers ago, while vacationing at a dude ranch, Clyde Townsend was asked by a cowboy which type saddle he would prefer for his forthcoming ride—with or without a horn. Clyde chose the saddle without a horn, arguing, "There doesn't seem to be a lot of traffic on these prairies."

Britannia is in for some hot competition in ruling of the WAVES —Roy Wright has enlisted in the Naval Reserve.

A lot of people think their Income Tax will put them in rags. When you stop to think, rags makes paper, paper makes money, money makes banks, banks make loans, loans make poverty, poverty makes rags, rags make . . . see, you are right back where you started, so pay with a smile.

It was surprising how many persons had business in Comptroller John J. Cole's office within a few minutes after a beautiful cake arrived from E. G. McAloon (whipped cream and strawberries, too). The occasion was Mr. Cole's birthday, February 1.

It looks like John H. Connors of the High Explosive Safety Engineers was frightened by a bowling ball belonging to Johnny Gott of the Tabulation Department. Any way, 'tis said he backed out of a bet.

Bob "Wimpy" Forst went to the opera in Chicago to see "Faust." In the third act the character, the devil, laughed at a victory for winning another soul and the curtain was supposed to fall. Second laugh, no curtain fall. Third laugh, no curtain fall. Finally running out of laughs, he whistled and the curtain came down with a bang that had the devil saying (to himself) "the devil with it."

Virginia Krause, secretary to G. B. Pumphrey, walked down the aisle February 5 with John Philip Ray of Chicago. She will be back to work after her honeymoon. All wish them rays of sunshine in the days ahead.

Evelyn Greenwood suffered an injured hand when she got out to help push Harvey Walker's car.

B. F. Nell, II, was bursting with pride February 1 when he introduced Ensign Benno F. Nell, III, of the U. S. Navy, assigned to Pacific merchant marine duty.

Those who know Roy Sutton, formerly of the Engineering Department, now of Pine Bluff, Ark., will enjoy hearing that the news he received last summer about his son being missing in action proved false. He has received word that his Merchant Marine son had been wounded and is now in a hospital at Archangel, Russia.

Audy Allison and Edward Washburn argue constantly in E. V. Sperling's car so they have been dubbed the FOOLosophers.

Winnie O'Connor got back to work in time to help make the first mailing of Firepower. George Karas is on the sick list.

"Come on, fellows, Mr. Carlson is here," says the sassy little bird on the tree outside. E. C. Carlson, purchasing agent, has lots of feathered friends that must say that every morning. There must be a bird password that they chatter before he throws crumbs to them.

Billie Roeder, Tabulating Department, underwent a tonsillectomy and is recovering splendidly.

Walter Krohn left the Accounting Department January 30.

Charlotte Hammond, Ditto Department, celebrated her birthday February 8. Her many friends remembered her with a luncheon and a gift.

Lorraine Guenette and Bea McInerney, Women Guards, are popular escorts because they are courteous and friendly.

Ben Pierson, Purchasing Department, left February 6. The entire department chipped in on a gift for this likable fellow.

Jackie Dailey, Accounting, heard the good news that Jack Hastert, her boy friend, has received a rating of corporal at Camp Clairborne, Louisiana.

Bertha Sexton and Helen Donahue have left the Payroll Department. Helen will teach the three "R's" to little roughnecks.

Larry Peterson, who was inducted into service recently, wrote to Vic M. Dagenais that he is basking in California sunshine.

The Payroll Department reported that Beverly Drury of Joliet underwent an appendix operation.

Ann Baird considered it a good joke on herself when her feet left the ground and she landed on the parking lot. She isn't the only one that slid to work February 3.

William "Ted" Willard, head of the night janitors, is really a pal. No favor asked by late workers is ever turned down. The whole night crew, in fact, is worth knowing.

WINNING NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS is a habit with the Joliet Township High School Band, shown here as they played for the "E" award ceremonies, where they scored another big hit. A. R. McAllister is the conductor.

Best wishes for a happy birthday were extended to Capt. A. G. Resch. It isn't every individual who has the distinction of entering the universe on February 12, the birthday of Abraham Lincoln.

A delightful surprise party honoring Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anker, recent newlyweds, was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Brennan, 525 N. Williams St., Joliet, January 28. Members of office personnel, including the following, were present: Captain Resch, William F. Douville, William A. Van Houten, F. Warren Weithofer, Esther Noffke, Helen Boula, Ethel Dirker, Lois Martin, Clara Wehner, Linnetta Parry, Catherine Tomlianovich, Betty Ross and Geraldine Ward, also Vieana Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley L. Eisler, the guests of honor, the host and hostess and their son, Billy Brennan. Gin rummy was the diversion of the evening, prizes for high score going to Miss Dirker and Mr. Van Houten. Consolation prizes were given to Miss Wehner and Mr. Anker. Refreshments were served buffet style and a gift from the group was presented to the honored couple. The feature of the evening was a skit entitled "My Little Red Pajamas," enacted by Captain Resch. Not to be surpassed by the Captain's performance, Mr. Douville gave several vocal solos: "Sweet Adeline," "I've Been Working on the Railroad," and the Swedish conception of "A Pretty Spot in Ireland." Dancing was enjoyed later.

A class of 27 Fuze and Booster Government inspectors, instructed by Kermitt L. Long, assistant chief inspector, completed their training course in inspection of shells and bombs January 30 and have been assigned to Groups 1 and 3-A. They expressed appreciation for the courtesy extended them by E. L. Walkup, recreation director, and Myrna Farris, of his staff, while attending the classes conducted in the Recreation Building.

That job Uncle Sam's Navy had for Arthur Friedburg is at present being filled and it will be capably handled.

Laverne "Eskimo" Conroy is now occupied in Group 64 with a Government inspector's duties. Long underwear may be in order.

Pvt. Phillip A. Grove, formerly here, is now stationed at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He claims he is well taken care of body and soul. In the line of diversion, he does gunnery practice and a bit of pearl diving.

Group 3

If any of the boys here would like to get a hat lined with rabbit fur just take a look at Donald "Manchuko" Mancini's new one. He wears it only in Chicago Heights, because the mystery of "Who stole the rabbit" has not been solved. Super-sleuth Stephen "Sherlock Holmes" Colfer is still on the trail.

Group 3-A

"Direct Hits During the Snow Storm": Line Inspector Roy Hallihan's mouth watered at thoughts of a mouse between bread. A wild rabbit's life was saved when Ted Rhode was going to fry it but there was no frying pan. Ethel Cooley, better known as "Buttercup," will always remember the corner here. Irving Slutsky and Harold Stark shoveled their way home after an attempt to get to work.

Kathryn Sweedler has been on the sick list for several weeks.

Beatrice Rodgers has her arm out of a cast.

Evan Lewis, better known as "Sleepy Louie," hasn't been seeing those certain girls lately; he is extremely busy fixing his fishing kit.

Robert "Bob" Potter has done it again with an "A" report—what brains and what a smile! James Musso and William Rimbey have joined the armed forces.

Mae Murray has returned from a visit with her soldier husband in New Mexico.

Mildred Jean Ashley is proudly wearing a ring which soon means a walk down the aisle.

Leona Mass was pleasantly surprised with a party by the girls on Shift 2 January 28, when she was transferred from Group 1.

Group 6

Group 6 just isn't the same any more with all of the changes in personnel that have taken place since the advent of the New Year.

After several weeks of special training, Gloria Annunzi, Rita Berglund, Mary Cucos, Lorna Haller, Bernice Ksiazak and Margaret McGowan are working in the High Explosives Area.

Eugene Crumbaugh has been transferred to Group 2.

Elizabeth Button, who was transferred to Group 7 for a brief time, is welcomed back.

Goodbye was said with regret to Bernice Unwin, who resigned. She will soon be on her way to sunny California. Bernice was one of the first Government inspectors sent to Group 6. Her many friends wish her success in her new venture. On January 28 Bernice was guest of honor at a dinner held at the home of Ruth Smith. Other guests included Margaret Carter, Kathryn Eberhart, Mary Meaux and Betty Thompson.

Dorothy Haag recently spent a pleasant week-end in Chicago.

Group 61

A 7 pound, 1½ ounce son, Francis A. Taylor the 3rd, was born January 30 to Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Taylor. The proud father is employed as a line inspector here.

Q. A good many soldiers are wearing a lemon-colored service bar. What does it represent?

A. The lemon-colored bar with pin stripes at each end denotes that the soldier wearing it was in active service before Pearl Harbor, or Dec. 8, 1941. A small star on the bar denotes that the wearer has been in one of the major engagements — Bataan, Corregidor, Coral Sea, or Midway Island battle.

The ground-hog tradition will be told again in the next six weeks. Sometimes it fails, but never to fail is the progress at EOP. Just look at that big blue flag with the Army-Navy "E" in front of the Administration Building along with the Stars and Stripes. Pause a moment — aren't you happy to know you helped put it there. Chosen to represent the Inert Storage Groups as usher in the celebration was Richard R. Kuntz —a true war worker.

Early morning breezes in summer are great, but early morning blazes in winter with temperatures below are just a little too much. What the dormitory fire in Wilmington costs is not known, but it did cost this writer two full hours of sound sleep. Thanks are deserved by the EOP fire fighters who took over when the volunteer outfit was swamped. In place of writing "I Saw It Burn," this piece stops right here.

Inert Storage dribblers came through with a win over Group 3-A 25 to 11. A well organized team with synchronized play from Group 3 known as the Leaders defeated the Inerts February 1 by 44 to 22. In the stands at this game was Supt. A. P. Balston, a true follower of all of the Groups' activities. Another team to beat off the Inert attackers was the Fire Guard outfit who turned in 29 points against 24.

The sick list claimed many in January, among them being C. A. Kemper, who suffered a toe infection.

Richard Ashworth has received Army censored mail from Pvt. F. J. Kelly, who formerly worked in the EOP engineering division and is now stationed somewhere in India. Many of his friends here at Inert Storage wish him success in the service.

Andrew Fris of North Inert reports his son, Robert Fris, is serving with the Signal Corps in Kentucky.

In the Lost and Found Department, there is George Newton discovering the answer to the heating question of the South Inert Office . . . ask George. Another question was answered by Charles Gorham who told Charles Mann that the reason for the deep snows being over his head was when he was a boy was that he was littler then. John Wald would like to know when the talk about boyhood days is to stop. Charles Wardell would like to know if spring water bounces.

All should get in the parade of War Bond changers . . . from $25 bonds to $50 bond denominations . . . it will save postage and time.

Lucky indeed is Fred Ford of South Inert who won a War Bond in the Inspection Department Bond Club. The club is sponsoring a drive to raise funds for basketball equipment. Fred says the bond will be given to the newcomer at their house . . . when the day arrives.

Jim Whitley has moved to larger living quarters where he can carry out his chicken raising campaign.

George Shaw was seen scratching around the turf at Group 27—perhaps he lost a coin or was checking on a location for next year's vegetable garden.

More dogs—more dogs. Walter Petersen at Group 27 has operated a kennel at Frankfort for many years and has had many winners at Skokie Valley shows. Perhaps some day there may be an EOP dog show, so that dog lovers here would have a chance to prove their boasts.

Great interest has been shown in the new class started at Group 27 on the subject of bomb car loading. First class was held January 23. The instructors were furnished by North Inert and all the students are grateful for their instructions. No date for the second class has been set, but all are looking forward with a great big smile.

William Moberly of Group 27 is interested in a maternity column. The tall story telling club at North Inert clockhouse has two honorary members, John Feltenz and Elliot Hayes. If you wish to try for a berth with the club, just tell your story at the clockhouse. LaVerne Lyons, who is on the night shift, is sporting a new felt hat.

Well liked at Inert was Clyde Mulligan, visiting timekeeper. Sidney Bennett of the checking staff wants 1,000 copies of the issue of The Bomb-Shell in which his name was published, and if this item appears he wants 1,000 copies of it.

James H. Liles, guard at Group 1, reports that his son, Lovel Liles, who is a sailor, is home spending a 30-day furlough. Young Liles was aboard the Northhampton when it was sunk in the Solomons area November 30. He and 25 companions boarded a life raft at 11 o'clock that night, when they were ordered to abandon ship, and rode the raft until 9 the following morning when they were rescued. Although still showing the nervous strain of his experience in the thirteenth engagement in which he had taken part while in the Navy, he said he was "anxious to get back into service and get it over with."

Sgt. Louis Hedstrom can answer queries regarding Guard John Maxim's unavoidable accident.

At the recent Goodfellowship meeting, the members were treated to some fine feats of magic by Guard Lee Airs. Even the Captain of his shift, Capt. Joseph Killian, who was a very close observer, was astounded at his magical ability.

The Guards team is pressing hard to win the EOP basketball championship. They won a hard fought, nip and tuck battle with Group 3 by a score of 26 to 25.

It has been discovered that Henry Hunter, Post 9, has put a padlock on his dinner bucket. He has made no explanation, but possibly Officer Frank Willis, his partner, could shed some light on the subject.

Word has been passed around to the boys that the Women Guards would like a bowling match. The question is, could the ladies recruit a 100-man team? That is about the number of Guard applicants who want to participate.

Remember When in January, 1941

Sgt. Earl Goodknecht and Lt. Clarence Baker rode in the squad car together, and Goodknecht threatened to break the windows unless Baker stopped smoking those pungent panatellas. Captain Killian and Lt. William McClellan, then mere squad men, lost their compass, and had to awaken a farmer for directions back to Richards Farm, then Guard headquarters. Sgt. Joseph Kelly reported for work at Forsythe Farm, clocked in at 8:10 p. m., rushed upstairs, put on his uniform and said to Lt. J. Trecker, "Sorry, I'm late, I missed my ride." Kelly was a trifle mixed up. He was supposed to report at 8 a. m. and had only been home four hours.

The Sergeants who dressed in the chief's sleeping room would sneak in very quietly on the night shifts, then absent-mindedly sit down and drop their shoes on the floor. This occurred at Forsythe Farm, where Chief M. C. Baughman had more sleepless nights than a night watchman.

Remember

Frozen lunches, oil stoves, no uniforms; watching John O'Connell learn to drive; parking lot at Richards Farm; white EOP cards for all workers; John Burke's stocking cap; Capt. Thomas Murphy's Durant; Lieutenant Trecker's yellow coat; Lt. John Sullivan's oxfords and no ear muffs; Lt. Clarence White's college sweater; Lt. Herman Walter's model "T" Ford; Matthew Mueller's hotel on wheels; the parking lot guards' daily first customer, A. M. Lockwood; Lt. Eylar Brunskill, George Hazer, and Sgt. Clare Cosgrove parking cars at Group 2, with their favorite order "On Down"; Ray Harper's friendliness; Capt. Walter Bayer's and Lt. Robert Bodley's description of a winter night lodging at their "Cabana"; people looking for work, asking Sgt. Dewitt Davis and Sgt. Harry Williams the location of the Personality Building; Capt. William Maskel trying to chisel materials for his various safety signs; the electrical foreman who used to ride a horse, and the time he attempted to tie the steed to Sgt. Cosgrove on a foggy day.

CANDIDATE for city commissioner of Joliet is John R. Barber, formerly employed in the Inspection Department here. He resigned because of ill health, but has recovered and is making a vigorous campaign.

Paul Hall, supervisor, is really "tickled pink" since he has moved into his new home at 402 White Avenue, Joliet. Efficient help was supplied by John Kezerle and brothers, Tommy Hall and Bill Hall. Paul's friends are invited to pay him a visit, just a few at a time, however, he added.

Now that the proverbial ground hog has seen his shadow, the Igloo boys are preparing for an extended siege of cold wintry weather. The only signs of seasonal discontent is portrayed by the way many of the boys are spending leisure hours—making fish nets. The disease, which has now grown to the proportions of an epidemic, is spreading relentlessly to the remotest corners of the area. Even the "Mill" has become infected. The real master behind the anglers' intriguing sport is none other than Mac McClusky, foreman. While watching his good wife crocheting a night cap for herself, he conceived the idea. It must be popular among the fair sex because it's really keeping the boys in at night. Maybe this surge is due to the farsightedness of the Isaac Waltons in forseeing the steak rationing bill.

"Wild Bill" Watt and "Sweetie Pie" Noble are back together again in Group 4. They are remembered as the "Terror Team" of Group 5.

Bill "Freddie" Wheeler was a guest at the Slant-Rock-Literary Society meeting held recently.

Group 6

Dorothy Connor makes all those trips to Dwight to visit her nephew —she says.

Joe Keefe has been transferred to Group 3-A.

Marcella Novak has been singing "Lonesome" for the last few days.

Juanita Thompson finally got tires from the board. And is she happy—even says she won't miss that bus at all!

Carey Laabs is really encouraged about that diet—the loss of two ounces is reported.

Helen Cryer of Morris is back to work after being ill with pneumonia.

Habit is a peculiar thing indeed —Agnes Hodges and Dorothy Delaney started looking for their EOP badges when they got caught in a traffic jam in Chicago recently.

Lil Malinski is having a hard time living down that picture she had taken over in Indiana.

Catherine Lasko's husband is coming home from Greenland soon —and that is a real furlough.

Deloris Wruk is also interested in furloughs. Seems a certain petty officer will be home soon from Norfolk, Va.

Rita "Timmy" O'Connors is quite a lady now since she discarded the coveralls.

Group 45

The office in Building 3 has been remodeled, and Mac Agnich, now in charge of trucks there, is thinking seriously of venetian blinds.

The new mascot of the Group is "Booster," a little dog, clock 13, who is considered quite the thing.

Seems that Mary Byron has a time with her tire inspection form. Recently her husband was standing outside of the gates waiting for her to reveal where she hid them.

Many wonder what Edna Johnson said when that big, big and heavy icicle fell on her head as she was making a delivery to Group 4.

Bill Blonske is gaining weight in the health resort at Group 45. It is reported that he drinks honey in his coffee. That's all right to take care of the sugar rationing, but what is he going to put in instead of coffee?

James Ewing is welcomed as the new foreman of Building 4.

Elizabeth Drennen, office, was reported apartment hunting.

Howard Oakes, boiler man, runs out to look at the chimney each and every time he fires up. That is really fire inspection!

Her associates send congratulations to Alice Taskey of Building 4 who was chosen as the representative of the Fuze and Booster Groups in the "E" award ceremonies.

Fleda Davis, formerly of Group 6, is welcomed as matron of Group 45.

Personnel

DARA PREW
Correspondent

Even though Darwin G. Boitnott is a new employee, there doesn't seem to be any reason for hiding him behind the fingerprint files. The recent change in rooms and position does afford the fingerprint men who are classifying prints more privacy, however. It is only after you are inside the room and look about inquiringly that you can discover that both Mr. Boitnott and Maurice Evans are well concealed behind three big file cabinets and busily engaged in examining swirls and whorls. Somehow that doesn't seem to be quite the right lingo, but readers will probably understand that better than the correct terms.

When a calamity befalls someone in the Personnel Department, one name seems to spring into the minds of the person to whom you are recounting the latest news before the true facts are disclosed. Yes, it was unfortunate Audrey Deiss skidded on the ice so weil polished and lubricated with water one recent morning. She didn't have a 'kerchief over her head and was trying to avoid getting her hair wet. Her head struck the edge of a car fender and brushed on past while other portions of her anatomy came into contact with the slush and firm ground rather violently. It wasn't her hair that got wet. Under questioning she volunteered that maybe it would knock some sense into her head.

Stephen J. McGann is in the "groove." While driving in Chicago recently, he was stopped at a red light by the uplifted hand of a city policeman. Without stopping his tirade, Mr. McGann reached in his pocket, exposed a small object in the palm of his hand and shifted gears preparatory to driving off down the street. He was startled by the laughing "cop," who informed him, "This isn't a defense plant, Buddy, just wait for the light to change."

It will be food with Georgiana Flavin until the last breath that she draws, according to her cohorts in the reference room. Rumor has it that every day she brings a small lunch so that she can diet and lose some weight, but before the noon hour is over she has had something to eat out of every single lunch in the room. There is the legend of the bananas. Al Dearth brought some back from Bloomington after a weekend, and she obtained two of them on the pretense of making a banana cake and bringing it out to the plant so everyone could have a piece. That was two weeks ago and still no cake. Now she wants somebody to bring the sugar. Nobody knows, but accusations are running rampant that Georgiana ate the bananas on the way home.

Bessie East could hardly tell the others her news one morning. She had a long distance telephone call shortly after she arrived and was so excited that she trembled and sputtered while explaining. She started in the middle and ended at the beginning, but perhaps if it is straightened out, it will be more readily understood. First, the telephone call was from San Francisco, Calif., and, secondly, it was her son, Bill East, on the other end of the line. He had just arrived in the United States and called to ask her if she could be in Harvey, Ill., by February 6, when he expected to reach there. All she could reply was, "Will I! I'll say I will." Bill is in the Coast Guard and this is the first time she has seen him in six years, and the first since both he and his brother, Bob East, who was home at Christmas time, were in Pearl Harbor December 7.

From this time hence it will be "Commando" Lundquist when referring to Margaret "Dolly" Lundquist. This announcement was made recently and then—no more information. Of course, this could never be allowed to remain in such an incomplete state. The "inside dope" is that she never uses the same tactics twice except that she always comes out fighting.

If the ceiling had suddenly fallen, no one would have been more surprised. Irene Mulligan and Marion Griffley had the giggles. These two girls, who work side by side in the Statistical Department day after day, are usually models of office decorum. But that day, if anyone opened the door, they giggled; a walk across the floor produced a titter. The cause of the merriment or nervousness is still a dark secret.

Rose LeBeau just sat there, but Jeanne Hershey, in the back seat, did something about that skidding car. She removed her glasses and then leaned back and relaxed. It happened enroute to the plant on the Kankakee road Another car drove into the ditch to avoid the car the girls were driving. Their skid ended when they were but two feet from the other car and facing toward home. Jeanne said she didn't know whether or not that was a hint to go home to safety. Jeanne probably needs new glasses anyhow, as she opened the door of the doctor's office and started to enter a few days ago. Of course, the doctor had just changed offices with the fingerprinters, but anyhow—. . .

There's a real vacancy in the Transfer Department these days with the absence of Kathryn Smith, who is at home with her son, Jimmy-Boy, 2½ years old, quarantined with scarlet fever. Rita Cooney has been among those missing, but it was husband, Ken, on a five-day furlough in Erie, Pa., who prompted her leave of absence. Receiving the information one afternoon, she started her trip the same evening.

Since her driver was not at work one day, Dorothy Kaldem asked Marcella Burnham how she got to work and immediately regretted the query. Marcella's facetious reply was, "Oh, I always get to work 'thumb' way."

On opposing teams the night of February 2 were George F. Bent and Floyd C. Schauland. The team which Mr. Schauland was helping kept giving an additional handicap to the losers on each game until finally on the last game the other team won by the gift of 120 pins. Russell Watt went bowling to practice for the big sweepstakes to be held next week. His high game was 259 and he had a series of 590. Now all the men in the building are laying wagers that his average will not reach 150 during the competition.

Quiet Vivian Jones was all flustered. Answering a phone that was insistently ringing when practically everyone was out of the room at lunch time, she very seriously tried to aid the puzzled man on the phone who was plying her with questions. She was particularly embarrassed when she learned that it was jolly Francis E. Peck, just across the desk, who was on the other end of the wire.

After living in Texas for two months with her new husband, who is an Army dentist, Lucille Dillon Venzara is busily back at work here.

Some of the girls from the Personnel Department have joined the WOWS, an organization of Women Ordnance Workers, and one of the activities of the group is rolling bandages for the Red Cross each Tuesday evening. Last Tuesday, the girls appeared at headquarters for the first time expecting to work at rolling long strips of bandages. They soon discovered that their task for the evening was taking a piece of gauze six inches square and folding it into a hypodermic bandage two inches square. Sounds easy, doesn't it? Well, with the aid of a ruler and a knife, you must fold that material so that its measurements are exact and there is not one thread sticking out on any side. Helen Bardi took the prize, not only in dexterity but the fashion in which she donned her hair net with the elastic beneath her chin. June Morgan copied her hair style but her fingers just wouldn't work quite as well and there were dog ears on several of her bandages on the first folding attempt. If the little square doesn't meet requirements the first time, why you just try right over again on the same piece of gauze.

Latest feud of the building is about weight and the leading characters, Gordon McQuiggin and Cora Adelman, have stock phrases which they exchange when they meet. They run something like this—

Cora: "Gee, Mac, but you're getting fat. Wonder what you'll look like when you get your sixth chin."

Mac: "People in glass houses shouldn't throw stones."

SPAR bound with stars in her eyes, Lucille Ambrose of the Comptroller's Department left February 13 to become EOP's first entry into the Women's Auxiliary of the Coast Guard.

Material Warehouse

FRANK McCORMICK
Correspondent

The Material Warehouse employees extend their sympathy to Material Checker Edward Delaney and his family. His brother was drowned last week off the coast of Florida while serving with the Army.

Building 62-1 in the South Inert Group has produced a one-hand automobile driver in the person of Frank Abbott. Frank said there is a reason for becoming a champion one-hand driver, but he failed to furnish her name.

Frank Rupnow, material checker at the clock house in Group 70, is still worrying about a load of lumber he checked one day last week in the lumber yard. The delivery ticket listed 1,200 board feet, but Frank couldn't find a wooden shoe in the whole carload, much less a board foot.

Johnnie Beldon, Sr., and his family moved into better and much more comfortable living quarters in Joliet last Saturday. All hope they will enjoy their new home.

There are eight reasons why girls leave homes and laundries, and Store-Keeper Harry Tilden seems to be six of them and Paul Roy the other two.

Material Checker Ronald M. Bennett reported for work recently ready to fight. It seems as though the ragman knocked on his door that morning and asked him if he would donate the Ford car he is driving to Uncle Sam's scrap pile. Bennett said he is just two years older than the Ford and they are both well insured so regardless which one dies first there will be ample provision for their survivors.

Joseph Horrell, material checker, called your correspondent out of a nice warm bed at 4:30 a. m. one day recently to watch a fire, which happened to be in the building next to the one in which we were sleeping. There was nothing to do but grab clothes and get out in the 16 below zero weather, which is making it hot for you one minute and plenty chilly the next.

Q. What is the value of a soldier's equipment?

A. When a soldier goes through a reception center at a camp, he is given no less than 79 articles of clothing and equipment. At retail prices, his equipment is valued at $150. This issue after recruit training is supplemented and varies according to the type of organization to which the soldier is assigned.

WAR FAMILY is a title which can be claimed by the Utleys of EOP. Father, mother and four sons are actively participating in the war effort. E. J. Utley (top left) is a machinist foreman and has been here since October 24, 1940. His wife, Lucille Utley, came in January, 1941, and is a forelady in Group 6. Shown with them is Lt. Harold C. Utley. At the bottom, left to right, are: Jack Utley, in Officers Training School; Sgt. Howard Utley, serving in Arizona, and Sgt. Gordon Utley, Camp Bowie, Texas. Howard and Gordon are former EOP workers.

George Galvin and Mac McLean, component expediters, received telegraphic notice to report for duty in the Air Corps on January 30 They will spend the balance of the winter at Miami Beach learning how to fly and earning their wings.

Sgt. Alvin Schroeder will be at the station hospital, Ft. Bliss, Texas, for the next two months recovering from an operation on his shoulder. It would be a swell gesture if some of his friends in the group would drop the old sarge a line.

Edward St. Clair Farrell has broken out in a new place. He came to work one night last week with his pajamas on. You may have it for what it's worth but his story is that his brother was wearing the old red flannels to work on that particular day. Or was it night?

A group of luminaries from the insurance world traveled the length of the production line here to see how the ammunition is passed. In two groups under the guidance of Supt. Joseph Salmon and Asst. Supt. George Gibson they proved to be a deeply interested audience. And there is one thing for sure. They will never doubt that all safety precautions are exercised. Inspector Edward McGarigle prevailed upon one of the men to surrender his fur cap at the head of the line and the poor fellow had to walk through all the ramps uncovered. The day was cold, but there was no static.

Edward Kanoski and Mrs. Kanoski celebrated their sixth wedding anniversary February 6, and just to be original they agreed that it seemed "just like yesterday."

If a fellow had the druthers he would druther be as capable a cartoonist as is August Ash, ordnance inspector for the Government. Gus has been drawing some artistic pictures pertaining to the work at EOP, and they are seen from time to time in The Bomb-Shell.

The veterans of this group have held another party and it proved to be all that was expected from advance notices. The party was held in the main dining room of the Woodruff hotel the night of February 6. A first class buffet supper was served and there was pop and soda water for all. Old songs of World War I were sung. Five card peek and other indoor sports were played. Davey Rosen arranged a couple of boxing bouts. The first, featuring Charlie Persiti of Joliet, three-time local Golden Gloves champion, of Building 3, was rough and ready. The second, between John McCarthy, electrician, and better known under his old fighting name of "Kid Mack," and Jack Barry, expediter of sorts, might have been a fair go 30 years ago when the lads were young and in their prime. Even so, as a feature, its face was saved by Mr. Gibson, who ably acted as referee. Shorty Bowman presented a new clown act which had the company in stitches and nearly blew off one stooge's ear. The party was a grand success and there may be another by-and-by.

George Ternan, guard, aroused much comment recently by his self-evident pleasure in swinging the Gate 6 when the temperature was 16 below zero. . . . And the vital statistics are getting better and better. If they have another war in 20 or 25 years there will be plenty of the children of Group 1 employes to carry on and on. Bob Sherwood announces the birtn of a son February 3; Edward Johnson, Plainfield, came around with the cigars for a son born January 27; Inspector Clifford Scott hailed a brand new daughter, named Anita Louise, January 5; Group Inspector Mid Slack, a daughter, Delia Ann, January 28; and last but by no means least, Inspector Fred Harris closed the books for this time by ringing in a bouncing baby girl. Poor Adolph. Tojo, and Mussi.

It seems Bruce Fahrner is losing all respect for women automobile drivers. Bruce, having just recovered from an injured back, was coming to work February 1 when he had an encounter with another car at an intersection. The injuries were slight, even to the woman in the other car, and everything is straightened out, that is, everything except Bruce's car.

Gossip has it that Sam Gomora, Building 3, spent a recent weekend painting Joliet a particularly bright crimson. Incidently, by the time this is printed Sam will be a member of the armed forces. Sam is of slight stature, but says he can help lick the Japs.

Supt. H. D. Dougherty returned to his office the other day and commented on a faint odor outside the building. Someone, wittingly or unwittingly, remarked, "Oh, that is probably caused by all the victims of our basketball team."

The team is really living up to its promise of causing their opponents plenty of trouble. So far the highiight game of the season was the one with the Guards. With only a few seconds left in the game, one of the Guards made a shot that was nothing but sheer luck. It was their decision, but still a good game.

In a game against Group 62, Ted Struck showed outstanding ability by making 19 points. Of course, the rest of the team was really in there fighting too, for the game was won 44 to 28.

Group 3 is a cinch to play for the area championship and any person who wants to see a great game is invited to come out and cheer for Group 3.

It is rumored that Ernie Hill and Don Fread have enlisted in the Army. Melvin Day, Building 16, says they are probably trying to escape all those blondes who are attracted to them.

TORPEDOED in the Pacific, Paul T. Brozman, who left EOP last March after wearing Badge 52 since construction was started, had many stories to tell during his visit here.

Ernie Myers, second floor, Building 4, has all the boys wondering who is kidding whom. But he passed out the cigars.

A hat found in Building 4 the other day was found to be too large for anyone but Floyd Hoffman, assistant foreman.

John Boucher, Building 4, wishes he had a newspaper of his own, so that he could advertise every other day for his lost dog.

Guy Hails is reminded he is next on the list for the cigars, it is hoped.

If Bernard Boos sticks to his promise, he should either pass out cigars or apple pie.

It is wondered . . . What great power induced Bud McKune to get rid of his cookie duster. . . . Why the groundhog went back in his hole after seeing Jim "Viper" Fagan. . . . Why they call Sam Morgan the shiek of Group 3. . . . Why Vic Lemmon doesn't love fat persons. . . . How the two foot rat, that Jimmy "Houdini" Crane reputedly saw, diminishes with every telling until it was small enough to fly away. . . . Why Al Matteson, head timekeeper, always has a big smile day in and day out. . . . Why the storeroom custodian, John Belasich, is called the best dressed man. . . . Why "Boots" Martin gets that homesick look in his eyes so often. . . . Why Dick Owens and Herschel Laughlin are worrying about getting larger bumpers on their cars. . . . Why Bob Harkless dropped the cigarettes in the cup of tea?

I have written . . . a poem!

Sunday at Richards Farm

This poem is of great interest becauseit expresses the thoughts and actions of the timekeepers that have to work at Richards Farm on Sunday and proofread time cards so that there are no mistakes. It was written by Helen Kelly, timekeeper at Group 4, who more than once has worked that shift.

The quiet is deadly when first you walk in,
The night shift, how sleepy, may give you a grin.
The timekeepers gaze at the cards stacked in piles,
Walk mournfully over so space seems like miles.
They take a small stack and sit next to a friend
To discuss the week's doings from start 'til the end.
The chatter grows louder and slams start to fly
Among all those present who've opened an eye.
"Those cards aren't in order," the key man will yell
Then in may walk O'Connell or MacShane or Treitel.
The timekeepers lower their eyes to their work
Muttering softly about "the big jerk."
When cards are in order, first reading will start
From the girls' sixty thousands old timers won't part.
The newer, hence braver ones, march to the table
They take personnel—to resist they aren't able.
They ponder and squirm over time and extension
They've earned in one Sunday their old age pension.
Meanwhile an argument loud and quite strong
Starts over a time card—both guys are wrong.
They bristle and glare while preparing to fight,
Then in steps O'Connell—the time card was right.
Peace reigns again while on candy we munch
Then somebody yells, "Hey, how about lunch?"
At one or some after, the gang wanders back
To proofread again—but not the same stack.
It's now that you'll find to your utmost dismay
That errors unnumbered you've made in that day.
You thought you were right, but somehow you're wrong,
O'Connell will sing out your name like a song.
The government men upon you will pounce,
Of brains—they say timekeepers haven't an ounce.
Your group will defend you, the others just gloat
Around you your errors like bubbles will float.
For errors in proofreading is something that "ain't"
Though clocks may be screwy and schedules are not shown
It's still up to you to correct and not moan.
'Long abut four peace again reigns supreme
The dog fight that morning could just be a dream
A blue haze of smoke lies over the room
A half hour to go—smiles chase away the gloom.
The cards have been finished by diligent workers
But now even they will talk to the shirkers.
All eyes on the clock and then with a shout
"Hey, ridin with me? It's time to punch out."

An Ode to a Guard

He dresses in blue, this fine, upright man
He's there for a purpose, and he helps when he can,
He does his duty, with all fairness to men
And when in trouble, he counts up to ten.
He stands at the gate, with a wide, friendly grin
He takes everything from you but your hat and your skin,
There's a reason for that, that all men cannot fathom
It's to see that the axis will wind up at the bottom.
There's many a thing he has taken from me
From spark making parts, that look harmless and free.
But he's there for that purpose as all men can see
To protect a free country from the Slavery to be
If a Jap or a Nazi should rule over me.
To some he's a cop, all sternness and brass,
To me he's a friend, with permission to pass.
He's here to protect me, my family and friends,
From dangers and pitfalls that may mean my end.
So here's to the Guard, so staunch and so true
He's my friend, let him be your friend, too.

—Guard Fay A. Horstmeier

Q. Who creates a new military medal of honor—Congress or the President?

A. Medals of military honor and merit are created by act of Congress. The medal may be a permanent decoration, conferred on all men performing acts of bravery or heroism, as prescribed in the act, or Congress may, by resolution, authorize a particular medal for a particular person for a particular act of heroism. It holds the same status of any private bill. The President may order the "striking of a new medal" for award for distinguished service, which is given the same military recognition as one created by act of Congress.

Group 3-A

F. G. TAMBLYN
Correspondent

Those from this Group who have completed their work in first aid, as outlined by the Red Cross, are Raymond Brennan, James F. Clar, Ernest H. Cooper, Mervin E. Dornburg, Colby Eriksen, George L. Hausser, Leo A. Kalman, Stewart Law, John M. Line, Jr., Noel S. Longton, Flossie Marshall, Emma M. Noel, Joseph L. Petko, Clarence L. Phillips, Walter C. Rasmus, Harold E. Shepperd.

Congratulations to Guard William Crossman, who is the proud father of a girl, born January 14 and named Mary Kathyrn. Bill said, "This is our fifth child, and it takes a little time to get around the table now."

Oden Poynter, who had an accident sometime ago, wishes to thank the boys in Group 3-A for their contribution.

Mildred Askley can explain why a fire chief keeps a close watch on Gate 6 every afternoon.

It was heard that Leonard Davis from the Power House is always in the market for country sorghum.

After much questioning, Charlie "Arky" White, confessed that he owes his sweet romantic and youthful complexion to the miracles of honey and almond cream.

Amy Losby has been absent from work because of an appendectomy. She is making a speedy recovery and expects to be back to work soon.

Steve Falatti of Building 10 was seen giving instructions to the girls in Building 12 in the art of swinging a mop with the greatest of ease. Uncle Sam soon will be singing "I've Got My Eye On You."

After checking carefully every building in the Line for two weeks, Red Buell and Ned Belesio report they've located the "Ozark Kid."

Sincerest sympathy is extended to Helen Hunter in her bereavement.

Jessie Blackford is welcomed back to work, after being absent because of illness.

The stronger sex admires the gay colorful neckties worn by Effie Homerding.

The basketball team has new green and white suits. It is hoped this will inspire Lady Luck to start the players on a winning streak.

Hospital

EVELYN RICHARDS
Correspondent

Written by Evelyn Doran during the absence of Evelyn Richards.

January 22 brought several visitors to the Hospital. The visitors were Col. Louis Schwartz, Maj. S. M. Bick of the U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.; Capt. H. Price, U. S. Army; Drs. Tibor Beredeck, W. Roy Hill, Ethel M. Davis, Paul H. Power, David C. Staus, W. H. Lipman, Clarence Shaw, Samuel F. Rosen and David M. Coken.

Pvt. William T. Bryant, former insurance adjuster here, has been promoted to second lieutenant. He was one of the few to pass the test. The Hospital staff is proud of him. He is stationed at Camp Davis, North Carolina.

In the last issue of The Bomb-Shell Dr. Andrew Bustin was introduced as a visitor to the Hospital, but now he is presented as one of the staff physicians here. Dr. Bustin was graduated from the University of Prague in Bohemia in 1937. He came to the United States in 1939, and was employed at the Ideal Hospital in Endicott, N. Y. Then he was a resident at the Memorial Hospital in Johnstown, Penn. He was a resident at St. Joseph's Hospital in Joliet just before coming to EOP.

Elsie Baer attended the lovely wedding of Virgil James and William Herman at the St. Bernadine's Parsonage January 30. A reception was held at the Flamingo Hotel in Chicago.

Apparently some persons know what to do on week-ends. Myrtle Burrus goes dancing in Coal City, and Dr. Bohdan Giel and Dr. Bustin enjoy dancing at the Aragon in Chicago.

It's good to see Frank Grosey all smiles again. His infant son, Wally, is home and well after a week in St. Joseph's Hospital.

All are sorry to lose Earl McKinney, former ambulance driver, and wish him the best of luck.

Dr. H. L. Schultz is back at the Hospital with plenty of vim, vigor and vitality as always.

Hurrah, for the ground hog! If he can stand it, so can others.

Inspection

LORRAYNE OSTREM
Correspondent

The happy routine of Cyrille Grandame has been interrupted by a call from his draft board. He probably will not get as many apples in the Army as he did at North Inert.

Owen Ralston is back on the job after a brief illness.

Anyone who is curious, just ask Willie Vail, Sr., inspector at Group 6, about the height required for the Army Air Corps.

Benedict Suca and John Turner have joined forces at Group 62 North to whip the Axis.

The inspectors on the midnight shift at Group 61 welcome Lloyd Thompson, recent transfer from Group 2. They have all been promised free hair cuts by the genial ex-barber.

Ed Rashid, shift man, had just convinced one new employee he was the best man to ride to work with, being such a good driver and all. Was Ed fumming when it was found out that the prospective rider was working on the wrong shift!

Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Karges and to grandpa, William Karges, on the birth of the glamour girl, Janna Diane.

Rex Vane, the old timer of Group 1, wishes to be back in the good old salt mines.

Red Beeley, scale man in Group 1, bought himself a larger trailer. He said he can now stretch his arms and legs out and still be inside.

Sam Hoffman, former scale man, is doing nicely for himself in Chicago.

Packy Walsh has just returned from spending a few weeks in the Scale Shop. He probably was glad to get back to Group 2.

Bob Walsh, Group 3-A, is dispirited. Bob Wilhelmi, assistant to the chief inspector, is trying to raise something new, and it ain't hay.

Harold Troupe, gage technician, is going to buy himself a pair of roller skates. He has trouble keeping up with fast stepping A. J. MacLellan, chief inspector, walking through the groups.

Ed Sloss, Group 1, is on night vigil. He is in charge of the dog watch inspectors.

Glen Sparks is the most overworked fellow at Richards Farm. If you don't believe this, ask him.

The Inspection Department has organized a "Buy a Bond" club. The first drawing was held February 1. The following thirteen employees each won a bond: Fred Ford, W. Lapinski, James DeLong, M. Bernier, Lucille Dobak, Erma Davidson, L. A. Davis, Nellie Ott, Guy Gagnier, Thomas Mooty, Stephani Bielec, J. Owen and Edward Warmier.

Bill Kirban, scale superintendent, plays popular tunes during dinner hour. He boils his own soup.

Several inspectors in Group 2 wonder if the clothes Bob Schmitz wears to work are his work clothes, and if so, he must look like a mama's boy on Sunday.

Myron Champoux has just ordered for himself a couple of sky ladders to inspect bombs at Group 3-A.

Dave Rosen, Group 1, asks anyone wishing to participate in the sectional Golden Gloves tourney at Joliet to see him. He hopes to organize an EOP Team.

Best wishes accompanied Elmer Nesius, former senior inspector of Group 7, who left January 25 for Naval Officers Training at Notre Dame.

Judy Fusco has returned to Group 8 as an inspector, after serving as a Government inspector in Groups 9, 4 and 7 for several months.

Ruth Price is a transfer to Group 8 from Group 7, along with Bernice Sperry, who has been in Groups 7 and 6 and Helen Stonitch of Groups 9 and 7.

"Daddy" Goebel, shift inspector in Group 8, has been lullabying ever since little Mary Frances, born January 16, found out she could cry. Incidentally she's a big girl now—weighing six pounds, twelve ounces.

Bob Partridge left Group 1 for schooling as an Army aviation cadet.

HERO of the battles of Guadalcanal is Corp. John E. Barry of Joliet, who worked here for several months in 1941 on railroad construction. Wounded and returned home for a rest, Corporal Barry has been telling some thrilling tales. He is shown here with his knife on which appear six notches for as many Japs killed in hand-to-hand fighting. Some of his stories will be related in the next issue of The Bomb-Shell.

leadership of your operators, Harrison Smith and the other members of Sanderson & Porter.

Job Well Done

"In this conflict there were not enough government plants to begin to turn out the munitions required, consequently it was a policy of our Nation to turn to private industry and select reputable organizations to build and operate the new plants which the government financed. The firm of Sanderson & Porter was one of the first selected for this responsibility and the success of this vast undertaking is a tribute to the ingenuity, resourcefulness and determination of the management of that firm. The workers, too, did their part. All the wonderful things that have been accomplished have been the result of the combined efforts of management and labor. The wholeheartedness, determination and cooperation and co-ordination that is so necessary in the successful team has been shown in the construction and operation of this plant. It has been truly a job well done.

"War to be fought successfully requires the united and unswerving devotion of the whole people to the cause. To fight a successful war requires a morale of the highest order, a determination to do everything in one's power to aid the cause and a willingness to subordinate every pleasure and comfort to the ultimate object of victory. As evidence that you have here that spirit, I note your bond purchases, which are in excess of the 10 per cent requested by your Government; I note that the output of this plant has far exceeded its estimated rate; I note that the plant was built and placed in operation in a remarkably short time; that within eight months after breaking ground this plant was loading shells. A plant such as this, employing more than 10,000 people, is truly a strong arm for our side.

"Without the modern weapons of war our armed forces would be powerless to attack the enemy or to defend our country against their onslaught. The rapid production of these modern weapons of war therefore become of vital importance to our existence. The industrial soldiers behind our men on the fighting fronts of this global war are now producing these weapons in greater quantity and of better quality than the Axis nations can produce. In view of that achievement we may rightly be confident that victory will ultimately be on our side. Of all the present implements of war, none is more important than the ammunition which the gun fires. Without the loaded shell there would be no need for the gun or for the men behind the gun. The loaded shell is the means by which death and destruction are inflicted upon the enemy. The loaded shell is the fist of Uncle Sam. Therefore you men and women in this plant know that you are pretty close to war, and that you are very necessary to winning the war when you are loading shells and bombs which are the only parts of our weapons which actually touch and destroy the enemy. You write messages here in this plant to Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito and those messages are not love letters.

Doing Their Part

"New weapons have come to the fore in this conflict. We have seen the supremacy of the tank, the devastating effects of the airplane. A whole new technique of naval warfare has been developed. Yet, if the plane did not have ammunition for its machine guns; if the tank did not have shell for its cannon; if the battleships' magazines were empty of shell, the heaviest armor plate, the fastest airplane motors would be of no avail against the enemy.

"When our Nation entered this second World War we did not have any loading plants, nor did we have very much loaded ammunition. The need for quickly providing loading capacity was of first priority. The Elwood Ordnance Plant was the second loading plant started after our entry into the war and has been used as a model or pilot for many of the plants subsequently built. In the early days this was one of a few loading plants operating, and now it is one of many. But the road has been a hard one, the struggle to achieve this degree of preparedness has been severe. There have been human casualties and those who have died are just as much heroes and have contributed just as much to the Nation as the soldiers who have been killed in battle. In many ways the civilian behind the soldier has to suffer mentally and physically just as severely as the soldier himself. So you must feel that you are doing your part to help the men who are fighting your battles.

"When I present this award to you today, it carries with it a salute to you men and women of this plant from the soldiers, sailors and marines fighting on the distant fronts in many parts of the world. But this salute from your fighting men brings with it also a plea—a plea for even better production. You have done well, remarkably well, but not well enough. We cannot let up for one moment; we cannot rest on a job well done because this war is a fight to the death. It is, in fact, either the Axis or us. One or the other will go down, and we must work and fight, toil and sweat to make sure that in the end our cause will be victorious.

"It is my privilege to present on behalf of the Army and Navy, the Army and Navy Production Award of Excellence in Production to you men and women of the Elwood Ordnance Plant. As a token of this award, I now hand to you, Mr. Smith, this flag, which symbolizes the successful contribution of this great organization to the war effort of this country."

BALE OF HAY was presented to Paymaster John F. Dolan by E. C. Carlson, purchasing director (extreme left), for a horse he is alleged to have bought. The paymaster's assistants look on laughingly, but the tables were turned when somehow the bale of hay, unbaled, was found in Mr. Carlson's car later.

The Inquiring Line

Q. What is the difference between an "alien" and an "enemy alien?"

A. Section 601.2 of the second edition of the Selective Service Regulations defines the term "alien" to mean any person who is not a national of the U. S. A "national of the U. S." is defined as a person: (1) Who is a citizen of the U. S. (2) Who, though not a citizen of the U. S., owes permanent allegiance to the U. S. The term "enemy alien" is defined to mean a citizen or subject of any country which has been or may hereafter be proclaimed by the President to be an enemy of the U. S.

Q. Is it still possible for enlisted men to rise to the rank of general?

A. Absolutely! It has always been so, and don't forget that many generals have risen from the ranks.

Q. What does it cost the Government to ration a soldier?

A. The cost varies according to locality and size of mess. The Government spends approximately 42 cents a day for the ration of a soldier in the continental U. S.

Group 3 Quint Holds Lead As Pace Increases

Guards and Chemists Not Far Behind As Season Nears End

Group 3 continues to hold the lead in a hotly contested race in the EOP Basketball League, having won eight and lost one. This team always puts up a good, clean, fast game and it is a pleasure to watch the play, also another reason why the number of spectators at the Recreation Building is growing every week.

Among the players is Don Fread, a six-foot forward, who has had three years experience at Morris High School as forward and center. Elmer Emanuelson, the other forward, played with Coal City High four years and was second for state scoring honors during his senior year. Elmer is five foot 11 inches tall, and one of the leading point getters. Six foot two Bob Hankis handles the center position. Bob has played considerable independent basketball in addition to his three years at Naperville High. He also had a year at college.

Theodore Struck played four years independent ball in addition to his high school experience. He is five feet ten. The captain Gus Juricic, played lightweight ball with Joliet High, and independent ball.

One of the real rugged and aggressive players, both on offense and defense, is Tex Donaldson, a six-foot forward, who played with Ramsey High School.

Everett Harris is another forward who can be depended upon for many baskets. He is a good shot, five feet nine and played with Pontiac High.

The others on the team are just as dependable and fit into the play like clockworks. Wilbert Helmick is a six foot two forward. Edward Pecar is a guard, formerly of Catholic High, Joliet. John Pekar, also from Catholic High, and Harrison Beasley add to the strength.

Supt. H. D. Dougherty credits Coach Charles B. Harrisson with much of the success of his team as Charles was coach at Kankakee High School for 16 years.

E. L. WALKUP
Director

Those who did not attend Ladies' Day January 29 missed a swell time. There was plenty of fun for all including bowling, ping pong, basketball and some mighty serious pool shooting. The Group 7 bowling team defeated Group 6 with Isobelle Green of Group 6 holding the high series. Group 9 defeated a representative team from the Personnel Department with Ginger Bendrick of Group 9 getting high series. The teams from the Hospital and the War Bond Department were tied and scheduled for a play-off. High game of 180 pins was rolled by Dorothy Schoop of the Hospital. These teams are interested in competition, so if any would like to challenge them, please call the Recreation Department and games will be arranged.

The ping pong tournament will begin February 22. There are now 35 entries. Some of the finest players in the plant have entered this fast and exciting tournament, so if your entry is not yet in call the Recreation Department and have your name put on the dotted line.

There has been a request for a Gymnastic Class once a week. Those who have had experience with tumbling, horizontal and parallel bars and horses are asked to call the Recreation office. Victor Kindelberger and some of the boys at Richards Farm have had a lot of experience in gymnastics and are eager to meet others.

Bowling Tourney

There was plenty of wood flying around the Recreation Hall the week of February 1. The men's sweepstakes tournament with 100 entries was in full swing. With twelve more men to roll, the following list shows the leaders as of February 6.

EDWARD KEENAN

WILBUR GALBRAITH
Correspondents

Although there wasn't a chance to say good-bye to Bob Burke, it is fortunate indeed The Bomb-Shell can be used to wish Bob good luck and success as a Chief Specialist in Uncle Sam's Navy. Bob, as was reported earlier, is a former major league pitcher and is in the hall of fame for having pitched a no-run no-hit game for the Washington Senators.

It is reliably reported that Otto Koch, the round man, is making a girdle for himself out of some good old galvanized sheet metal. His new name probably will be Otto "Metal Girdle" Koch.

What's in a name? Moe Goodspeed is a member of the Speed Boys Club and they say he really speeds things up at the club.

Many wonder why Charles Gaby goes to Clinton, Ill., every time he has a day off.

Don Bryant is welcomed back. Don recently underwent an operation so he will be fit as a fiddle for the Navy Air Corps.

Gene Hunt, they say, is a rabid wrestling fan and will do most anything to attend a good grunt and groan session. Gene said his ambition is to meet the horrible King Kong of wrestling, "The Angel."

Sympathies are extended to Corliss Van Meter, whose father-in-law died last week.

Gridley Wheeler, the old paper hanger, is trying to get priorities for paste to hang curtains in the Group 2 Time Office.

Roland Sisk, assistant foreman, left to join the armed services recently and all wish him good luck.

Charles Chapman, appropriately nicknamed "Vitamin Kid," is reputed to be an unalterable booster of the alphabet medicine and spreads their beneficial fame far and wide. He should be reminded that fish oil, they say, will turn one into a runner.

Those who have heard Art Ricketts sing, "He Waits With His Arms Wide to Meet Me Home," consider him as one of the finest choir singers in this part of the state.

Pete Fleming, crack expediter, received a very fine letter from John Barry, who is now stationed with the Army at Camp Phillip, Kansas. John said The Bomb-Shell is very entertaining and interesting.

When it comes to telling tales out of school, the temptation to tell one about Bill Galbraith can't be resisted. Bill, it seems, has a habit of turning off the alarm clock in order to catch a few more winks of sleep and while visiting in Aurora recently did the same thing, only to wake up about 7:30 a. m. and discover he still had to drive to the plant and start work at 8 a. m. Bill says any ideas to help in overcoming this habit will be more than appreciated.

Although Terrance McGovern is bordering the golden age of 60, every one was amazed to learn that his draft board had declared him a delinquent. However, Terry cleared up a little technicality and everything is all right once again.

A friend asked it be reported that Merle Bryant walked down "Death Valley" January 29. Merle did get married that day to a very charming young woman. It is reported Barney O'Conner was best man. Information could not be obtained from Barney, but from his actions and his own words to Bill Fiene, "Wow, what a party," and, "Say, tell me who got married this time," it is apparent Barney thinks this marriage stuff is great.

George Williams is seriously considering a change. George is now an air hoist operator, but after Thursday is going to take up the art of magic. His able assistant is none other than Jimmy Falbo, known to all in the plant as "Slicker Jim." It will be well worth anyone's time to watch this team put on an exhibition.

Duane Huston, the dapper Dan of Joliet and an inspector in this group, had not been able to give a plausible excuse for his thumb being in a cast. Some think it's a cramp from holding a cup of tea, but Ode Golden asserts it's from thumbing a ride from Highland Park.

John Kelahn, assistant superintendent, attributes his rise in production due to the Gremlins he has in Building 12. Their boss is "High Pockets" Bradley, the walking cud of chewing tobacco.

Elmer Parrish, explosives operator, looked into the mirror admiring himself, then looked a little closer and said to his wife, "Yep, I thinks it's TNT rash, all right." Some of the boys disagree, say it's Rock Creek rash.

Frank Burk is trying his best to make the most out of his gasoline. He buys the best gas to be had, has a light oil in the crankcase, keeps his tires inflated and even goes into Kankakee to a motor supply store and buys a set of 42 ignition points. For a '36 Ford he should have bought 36 points.

One evening Eddie Keenan was relating his experiences to a few guests and said, "Now if I were married, and, etc." He took a vacation last September to get married and now the boys wonder.

Leap Year Babies' Friends Puzzled

Friends of eight EOP employees are puzzled as to when to send birthday greetings to them. These eight once were Leap Year babies, born February 29 of their respective years. You could call them either February 28 or March 1, or, to play safe, you could call them both days. The eight are Joseph Bejma, Group 1; Walter Johnson, High Explosives; Claire Shols, Ordnance; Dorothy Stahler, Group 8; Clarence Vangampler, Group 1; James Ventsias, Group 1; Stanley Wiencek, Inert Storage.

Accidents On Increase, Unbelievable—But True

In 1941 there were 4,000,000 workers injured. Of these 1,600,000 were injured while at work, while 2,400,000 were injured away from their jobs. Fifty thousand of these died, while 170,000 were permanently disabled.

In 1942, with employment increased, the National Safety Council estimated a total of 4,400,000 injuries—52,000 deaths and 180,000 permanent injuries.

In 1942 approximately 500,000,000 man days of labor were lost because of accidents. This is equivalent to 2,000,000 men working 50 weeks of 40 hours each—enough manpower to build

71 battleships,
625 destroyers,
24,000 flying fortresses,
120,000 fighter planes or
312,500 light tanks.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

Production Planning

LORETTA RYAN
Correspondent

Good-byes were said last week to Connie Sternberg, Harriet Jensen and Dorothy Nemanich. Meanwhile welcomes were extended to Justine Kastelec, Freelic Reid and Mable Robbins.

Uncle Sam has acquired another good man, Francis Schade, inventory clerk. Willie Duperrieu, formerly with E. A. Evans, chief field engineer, has taken over.

Jim Murphy has been proudly displaying a picture of his brother-in-law, Pvt. Bud Zamboracz, former equipment checker. Bud is now stationed at the Army Radio School, Omaha, Neb.

Dick Court gave all a very pleasant surprise when he showed up to spend an afternoon before returning to Great Lakes where he has been in training. He expects to be transferred soon.

Genevieve Carr says "you wanted news, so here is some. I had the misfortune to run into a snowbank." Genevieve came out best with only a few scratches.

Mary O'Connor reports that Geraldine Weir of the multilith room has been celebrating her eighth wedding anniversary, and at the same time Dorothy Mihelic is waving her banners high for a certain gent from across the tracks. Christine Dare is trying to keep her ears warm after the loss of a few locks of hair, but she looks well. Miss O'Connor's associates have issued a warning to all who enter their little office to be on the lookout for flying tools, while Mary handles the task of repairs. Perhaps a petition signed by all might get her a chance as a pitcher for the big league teams, at least one of them.

Andy Vail of Salvage Department has some explaining to do because Elva Thomas does not like being quoted, especially when she does not quote exactly what he says.

Helen Hausser is greatly appreciated as the new helper of the Traffic Audit Department.

This item is written as an advertisement in the hope of obtaining a new pair of glasses for Eugene W. Wright, and if there is no luck with that plea, someone will have to get another assistant for him. Dorothy Maxwell's eyes have been betraying her lately; she has lost the little appetite she had, and the only cause for such things taking place seems to be the fact that her one big moment has been interned in a hospital for a few days. It even delays her means of transportation, which is very bad.

Myrtle Cooper seems to have little or no trouble in completing the many summaries she is called upon to compile, perhaps it is due to the assistance of Frances Mores, whose remarks and humor hurry the problems along, and the aid of little Lucille Brown, who also is a great help.

Marjorie Gall is weighted down these days. It is said the load she carries on her shoulders is too much. If only some one would come to her rescue! The Marines might help.

Mary Serdar has returned after a long illness, and said she is glad to be back.

Shirley Wessels has been under the guidance of Ray Banker and apparently is enjoying it. They are both doing nicely. In fact, if they were able to see above the work, which is forever snowing them under, they could do much better.

Harry Brown is carrying tootsie-rolls in his pockets 'tis said, and many wonder if it is becoming a serious habit.

Group News

Group 1 reports there is to be nothing forthcoming this week, as the time it has taken them to rush from Change House to the remainder of the buildings in which the Progress Clerks have been scattered is taking the time up that they would ordinarily spend collecting their items. Their effort is appreciated.

Group 2 sends news that Ralph Hatch departed last week and has been replaced by John R. Williamson. Ralph is greatly missed by his associates and they wish him luck in his new adventure. Honors are bestowed upon Paul Somerville, who is their standby in all emergencies. The duties of Ray Nelson, who was inducted into the armed forces January 6, are now under the supervision of Orville Rasmussen.

At Group 3 Wayne Munyon and his associates could not be located, but is is assumed they have managed to make their many trips daily through the lines in order that production can be carried on faithfully.

Group 3-A has been wondering if Mary Bertino isn't thinking of joining the WAVES since her friend has enlisted in the Navy.

New Phone Books Now Available

A limited supply of new EOP telephone directories is available at the Telephone Building and may be obtained there, according to Supt. W. A. Buck. Mr. Buck said also that 34,780 calls were handled by the switchboard operator January 19, the day of the blizzard, when only one out of every seven employees was able to reach the plant and the night forces were marooned here.

Group 2 Worker's Song Is Published

"If You Can't Go to War Buy A Bond," is the title of a new song published last month by Bell Music Company, Chicago, music and words of which were written by Winston Wascher, a storekeeper in Group 2. Mr. Wascher is an accomplished arranger and has worked with many name bands. He is receiving congratulations from friends throughout EOP. The words are as follows:

"Listen all you mill and office workers
There's still another job to be done.
You don't want the name of being shirkers,
Although you can't carry a gun.
North and South, East and West,
Every one must invest,
If you can't go to war buy a bond.
Now's the time, don't delay
When they hand you your pay,
If you can't go to war buy a bond.
Let's keep the Stars and Stripes forever flying,
We've got to win this war, so keep on buying,
Everywhere send the word,
Let this message be heard,
If you can't go to war buy a bond."

Former Guard Here Prisoner In Italy

Walter W. Plumb, former EOP guard and later a parachutist with United States forces in North Africa, reported missing in action last December, is a prisoner in Italy, his grandmother, Mrs. Theresa Watson, of Odell, was informed by the War Department. His former associates among the Guards were glad to hear he had not lost his life as they feared at first

ELWOOD ON PARADE

WORDS OF WELCOME were spoken at the "E" award ceremonies by Major Kenneth M. Haber, Commanding Officer of EOP, who launched the program Friday afternoon, February 12.

WORDS OF PRAISE for the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant were heard from Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, EOP's builders and operators.

WORDS OF PRIDE were uttered by Lieutenant Colonel Don M. Hoffman, who told his audience that he was glad to have been associated with them as Commanding Officer.

WORDS OF ENCOURAGEMENT were expressed by Colonel T. C. Gerber, another former Commanding Officer, who is now Field Director of all Ammunition Plants in the country.

PARTLY HIDDEN, BUT THERE NEVERTHELESS is the happy smile worn by Harrison Smith as he received from the hands of Major General Charles T. Harris, Jr., Commanding General, Aberdeen Proving Ground, the coveted Army and Navy "E" flag, and accepted it in behalf of all EOP's men and women soldiers of ordnance.

Grim Tales of War Told Here By EOP Hero

Group Spellbound As Marine Relates Pacific Experiences

Realization of what hand-to-hand fighting with the Japs in the Solomons is held by those who attended the EOP Fellowship Meeting in the Recreation Building February 18 and heard Corp. John Barry, former employee, tell of his experiences as a marine at Guadalcanal.

The audience of nearly 200 was held spellbound by tales of killing at least six Japs with a knife, of being wounded in both legs and being returned to his home in Joliet for a rest, after having received treatment in several hospitals.

It was a grim story, a story that brought war home to EOP because it wasn't so long ago Corp. Barry was working here. From September 3, 1941, to December 31 of the same year, he was employed in railroad construction under J. L. "Pop" James. Five days after resigning he enlisted in the Marines and in May of 1942 went overseas with a raiding battalion.

On Two Sunken Carriers

He was assigned to duty on the carrier Lexington and was on board that ship when it went down in the Coral Sea. Rescued after two hours in the water, Barry eventually got back on another carrier, the Yorktown. That went down at Midway, and once again he slid down the ropes into the sea and was rescued in two hours.

He is perhaps proudest of the fact that his battalion participated in the famous commando raid on Makin Island, led by Lt. Col. James Roosevelt and Col. Edwin F. Carlson. The now famous "Carlson's Raiders" landed on the island under cover of darkness and completely annihilated a Jap force of 350 men. A seaplane base was wiped off the map as the marines destroyed everything in sight.

Japs Always Dig In

After Makin the raiders were ordered to relieve their mates on Guadalcanal. Barry's outfit arrived on Oct. 1 to relieve the remnants of the gallant marines who had fought since August.

"We were a guerrilla outfit," he explained, "mopping up back in the jungles and swamps. We used machine guns, knives, hand grenades, our fists, clubs, mortars; anything that was handy. We lived in the jungles on rations and a few bananas and cocoanuts, lugging our equipment everywhere. It was plain, simple hell."

The leathernecks were machine-gunned, shelled, bombed. The Japs used every weapon at their disposal to halt the steadily advancing Americans.

"Every time a Jap stops for five

Ready for a Day's Work at EOP

See Own Boards After March 1

Issuance of gasoline rationing cards has been completed at EOP and those who do not receive their cards by March 1 are advised to apply at once to their local rationing boards. Assistance to employees in filling out their applications and issuance of cards for some counties was started at EOP February 16 and completed February 23. Several thousand workers took advantage of the service.

Fellowship Meeting March 11

The next meeting of the EOP Fellowship Club in the Recreation Building, originally scheduled for March 4, has been postponed to March 11.

Colonel Reed Pays First Visit Here

Col. C. S. Reed, chief of the Inspection Section, Ammunition Division, Ordnance Department, Washington, paid his first visit to EOP February 18. He inspected the plant in company with Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, commanding officer, and Capt. A. G. Resch, Ordnance inspection officer.

Harrison Smith Returns From Business Trip

Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, has returned from a trip to New York and Shreveport, La. He left February 13 and spent three days in New York on business. In Shreveport he inspected the Louisiana Ordnance Plant, an operation similar to EOP, as the guest of a former associate, Leslie Myer, vice president of Silas Mason Co.

Workers Reminded To Get "E" Pins

Employees who have not yet received their "E" pins are again reminded they may obtain them through their foremen. Those who were on the payroll January 9 are eligible. If production is maintained at necessary excellence for six months, EOP may be awarded a star for the flag and in that event employees on the payroll then will be eligible for pins.

Spring Activities Planned

The Recreation Department is busy planning spring activities, according to Director E. L. Walkup, and those interested in baseball, softball and tennis are asked to communicate with him.

War Fund For Red Cross Is Sought Here

Employees Asked To Give at Least Two Hours of Pay

The campaign of the American Red Cross for its $125,000,000 emergency fund is on and the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant will be doing their share the week of March 1 to 8.

Contributions from the workers in the groups will be handled by their respective superintendents and there is no doubt but that each group will play its allotted part.

Each contributor will receive a tag . . . buttons are out this year because of the metal shortage. Stickers for automobiles or residence windows are available to those who wish them.

Employees are reminded that the Red Cross functions inside the military camps in this country and with the armed forces in the field throughout the world. United Service Organizations operate outside of the camps within this country. USO's principal function is to look after recreational features for the armed forces when members are on leave.

Many Families Represented

This is not the annual Roll Call of the Red Cross . . . it is a call to aid in the direst emergency ever faced by the Red Cross or by this Nation. It is a campaign for a war fund and all are asked to give to the limit of their ability. It has been suggested that the minimum contribution should be not less than two hours' pay. It will require the help of every individual to raise the necessary funds. Heads of families are asked to give for each member, as the emergency faces all.

Each contribution to the Red Cross will go to alleviate suffering or to meet the needs of some loved one . . . so great is the representation of families in the armed forces here and abroad.

The American Red Cross today faces the second year of United States' participation in World War II secure in the knowledge that its vast resources have withstood the rigid tests of wartime in the months since Pearl Harbor.

To meet its increased wartime responsibilities, the Red Cross has set a goal of $125,000,000 for the 1943 War Fund. Of this sum, $80,000,000 will go to the national organization to further its services to the armed forces.

Distant Outposts Aided

At distant outposts where American fighting men are guarding freedom, from India to the tiny garrisoned islands of the South Pacific, Red Cross services have reached out to keep pace with the fast-changing requirements of global warfare.

On the home front, the Red Cross has broadened its program to guard against the unbridled

The Red Cross Helps

Somewhere, today, an American serviceman needs help. He may be at a distant domestic camp or base, on a ship at sea, in an unfriendly prison camp. Wherever he is, there also is the American Red Cross, offering him its many resources. Whether his problem is personal, physical, mental or financial, the Red Cross stands ready to assist him and his family. Somewhere, every minute of the hour, every hour of the day, every day of the year, the Red Cross is helping someone.

Won't you help, too?

Railroad Crossings

In the past few weeks we have had reports not only from our train crews, but other employees as well, as to the chances some automobile drivers are taking at all railroad crossings in the EOP area. Fortunately, nothing serious had come of this practice until a few nights ago when an automobile driven by one of our employees collided with one of our diesel engines. Both occupants of the automobile were taken to our plant hospital where it was determined that their condition was not serious although they both needed medical attention. Now, an accident like this could be very serious—maybe loss of life; then why is it people driving cars in this plant insist on trying to beat our engines to the crossing!

This is not the first time that a diesel engine has been in an accident with an automobile; however, I believe that the seriousness of this accident should make us all think for a few minutes just how serious this accident could have been. There are signs posted at each of the crossings and, at the south sub-station, where we believe there is more chance of an accident, there is a flasher-light posted with the word "STOP" on it, but to most of us it might as well read "GO," for very few motorists ever stop at this crossing. Let all automobile drivers make a pledge to themselves not only to slow down, but to come to a complete stop when approaching all of our railroad crossings. There aren't many, and the few minutes lost will be repaid by the feeling that you are not only protecting your own life, but the lives of each of your riders.

Remember that until someone invents a steering wheel for our engines, it is up to you to take every precaution in preserving the safety of your fellow employees; and the members of our train crews will continue always to be alert and to use every safety measure at their disposal to inform you of an engine approaching a road crossing.

Give them a break during this bad weather and drive slowly so that you will not have any difficulty in stopping even though the road may be slippery.

—George J. Reilly.

"Momie! Does he say 'keep 'em rolling' in this letter, too?"

The Burning Pit

By Scorchy

The recent activity down at the Administration Building where all our fellow toilers are trying to get another eye-dropper of gasoline for the ensuing few months suggests that rationing may provide the season's best admission ticket to all the local insane asylums.

Last November's spasm on gasoline was just a teaser, although it did force a lot of the boys to find out the names of their "buddies," who they were transporting to and from work for fees that would, in the aggregate, amortize the mortgage on the old jalopy long before the war is over; and permit the owner-chauffeur to buy an occasional cigar that stunk up the tonneau to the point where some of the passengers were almost ready to get out and walk.

Yes, those were the rosy days when shoe stores were free institutions, and the fronts of grocery stores were made of glass instead of hard steel bars.

We have already been driven to sorrow for the fellow who protested that size 17 shoes were too big for him, but he finally got it through his skull that 17 is only the number of the coupon. Our heart goes out for the genius who roamed around in a fog for two weeks because he couldn't decide whether his three cans of Sterno should be reported as canned goods or should be deducted from his quota of fuel oil.

The increasing pressure to regulate the flow and use of goods suggests the desirability of a one-legged men's clearing house, so that one pair of shoes could do double duty and thus avoid the apparent discrimination against the man with two feet crying for protective covering.

I know it sounds ridiculous but there are possibilities in an Exchange that would provide the opportunity to unload your permit for eight cans of spinach to some ardent spinach-lover in return for a ticket that allows you to get a self-respecting pork chop all in one piece, instead of picking it up at the butcher's in installments. By a little careful trading and saving, it should be possible to collect enough coupons all at once for a complete meal, sans such impossible fripperies as salad, soup and dessert.

A word of caution is also indicated. If you are not careful to coordinate your coupons with your calendar making sure that coupon No. 6 comes due in the first week of April, and that No. 2 is disposed of before Labor Day, you may arrive at that puzzling predicament of sitting down to Sunday dinner confronted with one boiled shoe, a large tumbler of gasoline, and a dish of shredded questionnaire, a la OPA. Oh well, it may wear us down, and make bookkeepers out of us all, but who knows, it may in the long run keep the hordes from hoarding.

Don't Let This Happen Here

"E" Flags Withdrawn From War Plants For Output Lag

New York, Feb. 18.—A policy of cracking down on war plants which permit a lag in production was disclosed today as the Navy announced the withdrawal of two Army-Navy E awards. The plants were directed to haul down their pennants and notify employees to discontinue wearing the E label insignia. The firms are the Electric Specialty Co. of Stamford, Conn., and John A. Roebling Sons Co. of Trenton, N. J.

I have written . . . a poem!

War of Christianity

It's called the War of Christianity,
I really believe that's true,
For the way of the heathen seldom finds,
A land that's all true-blue.

A son, a sweetheart, or a Dad,
So many of you have sent,
You hope and pray that God is good and will Return him as he went.

Your prayers are not unanswered,
Your hearts may break and bleed,
But never, for one moment, think
That God did not take heed.

He's with them every minute,
For is it not His War
To fight the men, the parasites, who Monopolize His door?

The avaricious, greedy things
Who live, but yet, to die,
Will soon have met their judgment
Under a red, and blazing sky.

While America, the U. S. A.,
The home of the brave and the free,
Shall count their losses, one by one,
But will "Thank God, for Victory."

People may talk and people may lie,
But there's still always you and I
Mind not what they say,
If there's a will, there's a way.

Keep a prayer in your heart each night,
And you'll know you're doing what's right,
People may knock and kick you about
But show them you can stick it out.

Wear a cheery smile and a great big grin,
Because in the end you'll always win,
So trust in God who watches above
'Cause he watches o'er you with guiding love.

Working for Your Uncle

We are all in the Army,
We're working for Uncle Sam,
And we carry a pack and rifle
When our Country is in a jam.

It's in a jam at present,
And we are raring for to go
Across the great big ocean
To fight in Tokyo.

And when we get to Tokyo
We'll clean it up with ease,
Then we won't have to worry
About those dirty Japanese.

We won't forget Pearl Harbor,
And the bombs they dropped that day
Upon our flying personnel
And ships in Manila Bay.

When this quarrel is over
And we return to our own shore,
I hope we have a lasting peace,
And be free for ever more.

Don't forget your Uncle, boys,
The folks all call him Sam,
So always stand behind him
When our Country is in a jam.

He needs your help at present,
For he's got a job to do,
That's why he's calling all you boys,
For he depends on you.

And when this job is over
And you have won the fray,
I hope you all return again
To this good old U. S. A.

805 Cora Street, Joliet.

For America and Us He Did It

The shout was, "over the top, boys!"
As Joe lifted his weary head
And raised his battered helmet
From the side of his so-called bed.

The voice of the sergeant was loud and clear,
And rung above the noise,
Of the raging, bloody battle
That went on without a pause.

But Joe was then so far away,
On thoughts that were so strange
To this field of endless struggle,
To this bloody rifle range.

The sergeant seemed so far away,
Yet Joe stumbled to his feet
And wabbled off to battle;
Yes, to victory or defeat.

His teammates stormed ahead of him
With bayonets out in front,
And he heard a startled Jap or two
End life with just a grunt.

And then his mind began to clear;
This thing that he was doing
Was just one deed to save for him
The girl that he'd been wooing.

The debt-free home of all his dreams,
Front lawn and shady trees,
A little boy about the house
To sit on daddy's knees.

This was for the right to sit
On Sunday in his pew
In any church, in any place
And learn the things to do.

To save his soul, be Captain of his Fate,
To live in righteous ways,
To make his friends, to glory Him,
Who now prolongs his days.

This was for the right to think
And give one's own opinion
Of any word, or thought, or deed
In this, our own dominion.

This was for the Bill of Rights
And life and liberty,
The right to sail our many ships
On lake and on the sea.

The right to lift a zooming plane
Above a peaceful world
And sail at will above the clouds
That float o'er flags unfurled.

Not flags of war, of hate or fear,
But those above the free
Who now must toil, and sweat, and fight
To live like you and me.

Now these were racing through his head
With a thousand thoughts or more,
But even these could not express
What Joe was fighting for.

'Twould take a hundred books or more
To show this information
That clearly was presented
In a moment's meditation.

For 'twas only a fleeting moment
'Til Joe did meet the foe
And meted out destruction
Like a roaring inferno.

He spent his last hot bullet
On a rumbling, massive tank,
And began to use the bayonet,
A friend of every Yank.

His thrusts were swift and sure
As he dug in with his toes
And the choking scent of human blood
Assailed his battered nose.

But Joe, his pals, a mighty band
Had met the terrible fate,
And dooming words rung in their ears,
Thundering "Too little and too late!"

Soldier Sends Salutation on 'E' Award Here

Says Workers Should Be Proud and Look To It as Incentive

"All EOP employees should be proud of the part which they have played in bringing this honor to the plant," wrote Pvt. Robert F. Clark, from Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, in commenting on the Army-Navy "E" award to the men and women of Elwood Ordnance, in a letter to The Bomb-Shell.

"Not only should it remind them," he continued, "of the endeavor and excellence of their work as displayed so far, but it should be an incentive for an even higher quantity and quality of production. Both my father and mother are employed at the plant. Please say hello to Supt. Joseph E. Salmon of Group 1 and to Lee Redell, Rex Vane and all the fellows I worked with in Building 5-A."

Pvt. Clark's father, James F. Clark, is an assistant foreman in Group 3-A, and his mother, Mrs. Abbie Clark, worked in Groups 1 and 9.

"I'm positive that as long as there is an Elwood Ordnance Plant," said Corp. Charles V. Wood, a former railroad employee, in a letter from Fort Benning, Georgia, where he is in Officers Candidate School, "that the men in the armed forces will not want or worry about not having enough to fight with."

Commissioned March 20

"The picture of the railroad man in the snow in a recent issue of your paper looked very familiar to me," he continued, "for when I was on the railroad there I went through several blizzards and I know just what it's like. If I continue my work satisfactorily, I will be commissioned on March 20. I hope to get my first furlough then and visit my friends at Elwood."

Pvt. Richard G. Stanley, San Diego, Calif., sent greetings to his former associates in Inert Storage, especially Pete Peterson and John Wald. He said he was having a swell time and that the weather there is fine.

Pvt. W. R. Jarvis, formerly of Fuze and Booster Area, wrote that he was in boot training with the Marines in San Diego, Calif., and that if he ever gets married he is going to get his wife the best washing machine made. "I've washed so many clothes by hand that I'm getting washtub hands," he added.

McFadden, Ardmore, Okla., and Gerald E. Thaden, who has been discharged honorably from the Marines because of wounds and has returned to his home in Bradley, Ill.

PROUDLY flying just beneath Old Glory and supported by EOP's "T" flag, the plant's Army-Navy "E" flag is shown here in its place. The "E" flag is for excellence in production and the "T" flag indicates EOP workers are putting 10 per cent of their income into War Bonds.

Albion Delander, Payroll — Walter D. Neher, Group 61 — Bernard Boos, Group 3 — Fred Cox, Group 3-A

EMPLOYEE REPRESENTATIVES who acted for their co-workers during the "E" ceremony were selected by vote. Of the four representatives of the loading line groups, the five representatives from the Fuze and Booster Area and six representatives of miscellaneous groups, three were named to receive symbolic "E" pins. They were Alice Taskey, Fuze & Booster; Richard G. Richards, miscellaneous, and Vincent Farrell, Group 2. These three, as well as the others, asked that The Bomb-Shell convey thanks to their co-workers for the honor.

Give what you can to the

but not less than 2 hours' pay

"This time I'm giving double."

Make that a quotation from you and see that your superintendent receives your contribution today.

President Roosevelt has designated March as "Red Cross Month." From March 1 to 8, EOP employees have the opportunity to help the American Red Cross and thereby help their sons, fathers, husbands, daughters, mothers and wives in the armed services.

In peacetime many persons have been satisfied to become members of the Red Cross by subscribing the minimum membership of one dollar. Surely, this year, few of us will be content to make such a contribution. Global war, which has made necessary the dispatch of a dozen A.E.F.'s to the far corners of the world, has multiplied many-fold the work of our American Red Cross.

Wherever United States fighting men go, there, also, the Red Cross goes.

Today the American Red Cross is the only non-military organization operating within military and naval reservations. It is the liaison between the people and the soldiers who fight to defend them.

And that is why the Red Cross is worthy of your larger contribution in this second year of war.

EOP'S FINEST once again displayed its claim to this title when the color guard selected from the Guards raised the "E" flag over the plant. Pictured here are the members of the color guard, Lt. Frank Pate, Sgt. Clare Cosgrove, Sgt. Earl Goodnecht, Sgt. Everett Brammer, Guards Harlan Grogan, Raymond O'Keefe, Harold Morine, John Maxim, James Murphy, Ernest Bennett, Roy Wolfe, Henry Gerbracht, Coy Willis, Frank Greene, Edward Stonich, Elmer Boulware, Leonard Peterson, John Pearce, Armond Bouchard and Elmer Carlson.

The excitement among the feminine element in the line was caused by the handsome young visitor, Sgt. C. Tarran, son of Chris "Scotty" Tarran of Mazon. Sgt. Tarran is stationed at Ft. Brady, Michigan.

One of the first signs of spring in Group 3-A is the new hat being worn by Edgar Engle.

Group 3-A extends sincere sympathy in Alice Clark's bereavement.

Among the group of distinguished visitors to Group 3-A during the "E" award ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Malone of New York.

When Patsy Hawkins attended the "E" dance she took two Coast Guards along. She reports that both her husband, Harvey Hawkins, and his friend, Arthur Phelps, enjoyed the dance immensely.

Popular Frances Biros is ill at home.

Group 3-A's basketball team got off to a slow start, but they put on the steam later. Capt. Stewart Law and teammates, Raymond Blecha, Roy Beatty, David Gutierrez, Frankie Guest, Don Kiefner, Bob Griffin and Philip Hester, play a fine game to which Group 1, Inspectors and the Bus Drivers can attest. In appreciation of the good sportsmanship these boys have displayed, Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick has ordered uniforms which will be worn by the team at its next game.

Russell Shriver spent a pleasant week-end at his home in southern Illinois. He said that the weather was so cold most of the people were wearing shoes.

Jake "Mountain Boy" Wheeler, the Ozark hillclimber, would be very pleased if some kind soul would give him a ride to the strip mines someday so he could get some practice and also get over being homesick for the hills.

Building 10 has a Round Table consisting of the following members: Philip Bedore, Crawford Kerr, William McCall, and George Hausser. Any subjects will be gladly discussed to compete for the $64 question.

Art Thompson's investment in chickens has yielded a return of one egg to date. It is known as the $15 egg.

Several of the girls presented August Janov with a cake on his birthday. He is now known as "Cake-Eater Gus."

Group 3-A welcomes Amy Losby back to her job. Amy rapidly recovered from her appendectomy and feels as good as new. She says she is very happy to be back in the swing of things and thanks everyone for the lovely flowers and cards.

Alma Eklund's recent bereavement has the Group's sincerest sympathy.

Mr. Bedore wants to know why Dell Raridon is now wearing a tie every day.

Mary Rigoni has been selected to represent the girls on the Employees Activities Commitee. Mary said bowlers are gathering at the Recreation Building to form a team to accept challenges issued by various girls' teams of the area.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dodson have recently moved into their new home which replaces the one destroyed by fire several months ago.

Clarence Massey returned safely from his trip to Chicago. This being the first time he traveled alone, his associates in Building 3 were really glad to know of his safety.

The men's bowling team is proudly displaying newly acquired bowling shirts at the Wilmington Alleys Fridays at 7 p.m. The team includes Paul Weber, Lloyd Changnon, Jim Hendershott, Wilfred Spiers and Colby Erickson. The boys are valiantly striving for first place.

Francis "Doug" Oram's dissipation is fishing. Spring is just around the corner, so "look over the dam, little fishies."

Ted Miller of Sup't Joseph E. Salmon's office, bought a fancy cigar at the Mess Hall. It was complete with a neat white holder and intrigued Ted no end. A few puffs and the lad lost interest for he grew quite pale around the gills.

Smokey Moore fell out of a building one night when he opened the door too vigorously. Now Herman Beringer, safety engineer, who lives in the same apartment, double-bars all doors and windows so Smokey will not fall out at home. That's precaution.

If a fellow had the druthers he druther be as obliging and helpful as were Red Bevinger and Joe Nardi at the war veteran's get-together. Being experts in the gentle and lost art of mixing 'em up, these lads took over the elbow bending departments and fixed everything to a king's taste.

Joe Smaid, vociferous timekeeper, has gone away, but left many aching hearts behind. Joe transferred to another group, but before he left was presented with a petition signed by several hundred folks in this group begging him to remain.

Cynthia Camp, a former employe, ranked next to highest in the second semester exams at U. of I., with an average of 97. Seems as though Cynthia is forever bringing home the bacon. Last summer she won the war bond which was given away as a gate prize at the Group 1 picnic.

It's a real pleasure to transact business with such agreeable and obliging dispatchers as Morric Denbolt and George O'Reilly. Their voices even seem to carry a smile over the phone.

Edward St. Clair Farrell makes the headlines again and for the last time for the duration. The Army reserves called on him to help win the war and so he's gone away to do his bit.

When it comes to quality production—Get There Fastest With the Mostest—There are Andre Lombardi, Melvin "Swede" Nielson and Joe D'Andre, who are the skookum chaps who keep their eyes on the ball for.

Ollie "Monk" Sandell, perhaps better known as every-other-month, is back on the job after having recovered from a fractured ankle.

Russell Girot, by which name he would never be recognized by all those who call him "Hooley," is quite proud of the two air hoists (elevators to you) which were installed in Building 4 where he presides.

The race is over and it seems as though Betty Murphy has won the heart of the grand prize; in short Frank Paul in person. When questioned by the roving reporter, Betty said she wasn't even trying very hard but she's got that self-satisfied look.

THREE - THOUSANDTH employee to step up his War Bond buying to the $50 denomination was Guard Prentice P. Antle, stationed at Group 3. Many employees are signing for $50 instead of $25 bonds, so as to save the Government money at no cost to them. The weekly payment remains the same.

Brunnell "Dupe" Dupuis at long last received his call to the Army Air Corps and left for Sheppard Field February 19. All and sundry are cast down by this great loss but are compensated more than somewhat that one old timer has returned. Emil Bruni, a veteran of World War I and of the present global conflict, came back to work again after having served for some months with the Marines.

Don't look now but it seems a real orgy of nicknames has crept into this issue.

James "Smokey" Moore has fully recovered from his recent accident. All the hatches have been battened down and it was suggested to Smokey that in the future, he use the stairs when leaving a building. Previously Smokey had always been known to be fast and light on his feet, but now there is a little doubt.

"Tall Story" Lou Evans, Building 16; victim of obesity, has finally hit pay dirt. Ask him about it. Oil, ore or coal,—it's all the same to Lou.

Robert Fox, a veteran of Group 3 has gone. All extend good wishes to him in his new venture. He vacated the foreman's job at Buildings 5-A, 6 and 7, now being capably handled by Jack Homel.

A way of defining Tony Helling is; the man with a prolonged streak of luck. Tony won a prize in the recent EOP bowling sweepstakes.

The grapevine has it that EOP was awarded the Army-Navy "E." It also tells that Elmer Emanuelson and Keith Lockwood make up a very fine singing duo. Of course both of these boys are of the bashful type and have to be coaxed into offering one of their fine renditions.

Could it be the income tax or gasoline rationing that is bothering Wilbur Olroyd? He drove up to a stop light in Wilmington, opened his jacket and held out his badge. After a few seconds he realized his mistake, but he couldn't explain to Ray Stehlik what was wrong.

Wayne "Flash" Munyon has moved his office to Building 10. The boys there will now see a living example of unequalled speed and stamina.

Tom Sprague, a well liked foreman of Building 3, is in the race for police magistrate of Joliet. He has many loyal supporters at EOP.

Harry Beasley of Building 5-A is progressing very well in his study of the finer points of hockey playing. Of course, his progress would not be so rapid were it not for the fact that he is being tutored by Norbert McLuckie and Mr. Emanuelson, former experts in the game.

George Knezevic and John Harzheim are ready and willing to assist Gerald Clennon in filing his income tax return. Of course, they will not tolerate any misinformation that Jerry has hinted he may give, such as: damage to the oats in the pig pen or depreciation on the manure spreader (which incidentally is used very much).

Many wonder why Lester Crook dodges all the junk yards on his way to work. Some say he is afraid the Government will take his car for scrap.

Helen Hausser, traffic audit office, is probably having the time of her life in Louisiana. She received a two-week leave of absence in order to visit her husband who is stationed down there.

Mary Matesi is now working on the other side of the room, while Dorothy Bollig is taking over Mary's old job.

Many wonder why Frances Mores jerked that ring off of the "right" finger so suddenly the other day when she met several of the girls.

What are those notes that Rowena Roberts finds tucked in her typewriter everyday? The mystery—how do they get there? It must be someone who is pretty familiar with the office.

If you are wondering why Bud Wright looks so much different these days, it is merely because he has his specks back again and can see where he is going.

Bernadine Clausing appears to be fully recovered from her one-day illness.

Eleanor Goss' sadness is due to the fact that a farewell was said to one of the fellows in the Engineering Department who is departing for New York.

Dorothy Mehelic's latest is pining because it has been all of 272 hours since he last saw her or so he said in a letter received recently . . . while at the same time she received an official notice from the government that another one landed safely on foreign soil. Now what is this?

"Mess Sergeant" Sends in Omelet Recipe

Capt. A. G. Resch, mess sergeant at "Camp Brennan" and Ordnance Inspection officer here, contributes the following "Fluffy Omelet" recipe which, he claims, excels Eleanor Roosevelt's famous Omelet recipe:

Two tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, three-quarters cup milk (scalded), one tablespoon butter, four egg yolks beaten until thick and lemon colored, four egg whites stiffly beaten.

Method — Add quick cooking tapioca, salt and pepper to milk and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear and mixture thickened, stirring frequently. Add butter. Combine with egg yolks, stirring constantly. Fold in egg whites. Pour into hot buttered nine-inch frying pan. Cook over low flame three minutes. Then bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 15 minutes. Omelet is sufficiently cooked when a knife inserted comes out clean. Cut across at right angles to handle of pan, being careful not to cut all the way through. Fold carefully from handle to opposite side and serve on hot platter. (Serves six.)

Q. What insignia designates an honorable discharge as a soldier in World War I?

A. A bronze button, with a star and "U.S." in center of star, and a laurel victory wreath entwined about the star. If the star is silver, it denotes "wounded in action."

Q. What is the Legion of Merit?

A. It is a new decoration that has just been established. The Legion of Merit will be awarded for extraordinary fidelity in essential service. Its design has been developed from the Great Seal of the United States. The ribbon is purple-red edged with white.

Q. Can you tell me why the Marines are called leathernecks?

A. Sure. They got the name from the leather lined collar that was formerly part of a marine uniform.

spread of suffering and death in the wake of disaster from natural catastrophies or war.

War clouds had not yet settled over Pearl Harbor when Red Cross workers throughout the nation were called into action by Chairman Norman H. Davis.

Prepared for War

Veteran Red Cross workers, who had maintained a constant alert and were ready to face the emergencies of war, were joined by tens of thousands of new volunteers anxious to do their part in the cause of humanity.

Thousands of workers were trained to serve with the military forces as Red Cross field directors, hospital recreation workers, and medical social workers. They were assigned to posts at home, and all armed tasks forces leaving ports of embarkation for foreign service were accompanied by Red Cross field directors and their staffs.

Overseas, the Red Cross organized an extensive club program for the recreation of the armed forces in leave areas. Staffed by American men and women who by experience and training were suited to the task, nearly 150 clubs were opened in Australia, Great Britain, Iceland, India, the Middle East, Alaska, Northern Ireland, and China.

On the home front, Red Cross chapters and branches assumed an early lead preparing the nation for the disasters war might bring to the civilian population, training of an estimated 5,500,000 persons in first aid. Through the Red Cross Nurses War Reserve, 28,000 nurses were recruited for the armed forces and 15,000 for service at home. An estimated 50,000 Red Cross Nurse's Aides were trained to help relieve the shortage of nurses in hospitals, while 900,000 persons received instruction in home nursing techniques.

In Red Cross production rooms the nation over, patriotic women volunteers worked long hours making 520,000,000 surgical dressings and 14,300,000 garments for relief among civilian refugees of a war-torn world and for the armed forces.

Volunteered Blood

The Red Cross Blood Donor Service was established in 24 cities where laboratory facilities were available, and thousands of people volunteered as donors. Approximately 1,800,000 pints of blood were contributed at these centers and at Red Cross mobile centers operating from them.

Young America joined the Red Cross call by enlisting in the American Junior Red Cross. With its 14,500,000 members the Junior Red Cross carried on an extensive program of production for the armed forces.

When the war struck home to the American population as the first U. S. troops were captured in battle, the Red Cross Inquiry Service stood ready to assist in establishing communications between the prisoners and their families. At the same time, relief to American prisoners of war including food parcels, large quantities of cigarettes, tobacco, medical supplies and clothing were shipped by the Red Cross, and relief supplies were sent to victims of aggression in foreign countries.

Grim Tales of War Told Here

minutes he digs a fox hole. We had to get in close to get them out with knives or hand grenades," said Barry.

Corp. Barry got his Jap bullet late one afternoon on Nov. 11 while the world was observing Armistice Day. The raiders had walked into what amounted to a trap.

"We had a mission that took us behind the Jap lines," he explained. "For three or four days marines filtered through the lines and then met at a rendezvous to wipe out a Jap emplacement that was supposed to hold between 50 and 75 men. We came out of a cocoanut grove across a clearing, and got almost to the Jap position when they cut loose with machine guns and 20 millimeter guns. Instead of 50 Japs there were between 400 and 500. We had no support—couldn't expect any behind their lines—so we had to get out. I laid in the grass from 7 o'clock in the morning until 4 in the afternoon. A sniper got me through the leg."

Believes in the Knife

When Barry's outfit first arrived on Guadalcanal they were opposed by the imperial Japanese marines. They were big, well trained men, and Barry found that subsequent replacements were not as good. He is a firm believer in the knife.

DETAILS of battle life in Guadalcanal were given those attending the EOP Fellowship Meeting February 18 by Corp. John Barry, former EOP employee. Those who heard him have a better idea of what hand-to-hand fighting with the Japs is like . . . and that's putting it mildly.

"It's quiet and quick," he said. "And it don't give away your position."

There's grim evidence of the youth's prowess in his forced art of killing. He brought home a wicked looking knife, stained with a brown substance. On the handle of the knife are six notches. Each one of those notches represents a dead Jap killed in hand-to-hand fighting.

"It's kill or be killed," Corp. Barry explained. "The Japs don't surrender. We never take prisoners. And don't let anyone tell you the Japs can't fight. They are tough and excel in trickery and night fighting. You can't make any mistakes and live."

Q. Will there be a new service ribbon for men who have been on duty overseas since this war started?

A. There will be at least three new ribbons indicating such service. President Roosevelt has issued an executive order creating the American; Asiatic-Pacific; and European, African, Middle-Eastern ribbons to be awarded to anybody in the armed services who has served outside the continental limits of the United States anytime between Dec. 7, 1941, and a date six months after the end of the war.

About Group 3

Here is a story about Group 3,
As fine a group as ever you see,
Within its bounds are the best of men,
And the best of these are in Building Ten;
Here Rudy is boss and next to him
Are his two subs, Smitty and Slim;
These three guys are quite a sight
As they strut around in their robes of white;
The men are all loyal and true,
Putting in their licks for the red, white and blue;
They clean off the bombs and sweep the floor,
Booster them all and holler for more,
Slap on the bands and smear on the paint,
Doing all this with no complaint.
Stencil the bombs as they roll on the ramp,
And then they are ready for Government stamp;
This stamp is kept far out of reach
Of every one else but Scotty or Deitz;
The bombs are then rolled into the car
And this is the place where the termites are;
The boss of this gang is a Swede you know,
Martin by name and he's not slow;
He dashes in and out of Building Ten
Giving orders to all his men;
They growl and gripe one and all,
But when the bombs roll fast they hit the ball;
We're never let down by this bunch of boys,
But heavens above what an awful noise;
When the noise it stops you think they're through.
But a voice pipes up, who's got a chew?
We roll in the bombs, they build the track,
And many a finger gets a nasty crack.
They work and sing all through the day;
At quitting time you should see them play,
So again I say for the best of men
Just take Group 3 and Building Ten.

—Slim Madsen,
Group 3.

Q. How come silver outranks gold in officers' insignias?

A. Here's the explanation. In the early days of the organization of the Army, silver was used for the insignia of the higher grades; the lower grades had no insignia. Later, when they were given designations, it was simpler to use gold for these lower grades.

Q. Were American Indians required to serve in the Army in World War I?

A. No. This is the first war in which they have been required to serve in the U. S. Armed Forces as an obligation of citizenship.

Q. How many different sizes of shoes does the Army issue?

A. Two hundred and thirty-eight—ranging from size 4½ to 16!

Q. In what states can a soldier be married by proxy?

A. Proxy marriages are legal in Idaho, Nebraska, Kansas, Florida, South Carolina, and Washington.

"You mean you dropped one of our eggs ker-smack down the ship's smoke stack?"

With the presentation of the Army-Navy "E" award everyone is knuckling down to fulfill the pledge taken to redouble efforts to produce the weapons of victory.

Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Glenney, who are the proud parents of an eight pound daughter. Dan, they say, had to take quite a bit of back water and pay off a lot of expensive bets.

Pete Fleming sent two dress shirts, Arrow and Manhattan, to the laundry and when they were returned to him he discovered that he had two work shirts instead. Oshkosh-B-Gosh by label. Pete didn't think this was such a good exchange.

Best of luck and good wishes are extended to Frank Jankowski and Edward Bedford, who left to join the Army Air Corps.

One of the current questions is why does Joseph Alberts take so much extra time to come into work on the afternoon shift?

Roy Martin hasn't been home since he advised his wife to return a pair of shoes to a certain shoe dealer in his home town. It seems his wife was unable to purchase the usual brand of shoes and took the next best, which Roy didn't think was so good and advised she return them, which she did. His wife was not able to get to town the next two days or so and by that time the shoe rationing program had been started so she was out of luck for replacement of the shoes originally bought.

Things all would like to know: What Ted Arens does on his day off. . . . Where "Brother" Lawrence Crawford gets all his wrong phone numbers. . . . Why Harold Sonday wears coveralls. . . . When Otto Koch is going to start cashing his 1942 paychecks. . . . Why John Boggetto needs so much first aid. . . . Why Harold Hazzard keeps cotton in his ears while he is working. . . . Why Don May doesn't jack-up the tail light on his car. . . . Why a certain threshing machine operator is trying to teach Bill O'Connor the pipe trade. . . . Why Bill Kane is such a White Sox fan?

All wish Barney O'Connor success in his new position here.

Archie LeBorence's smiling face is missed these days, as he hasn't come in for aspirins lately.

Mel Roach is really boiling at your correspondents for the write-up published about him in the last issue. Mel threatens to sue for libel unless some statements are retracted.

John Wiles is in St. Joseph's Hospital, Joliet, and all wish for him a speedy recovery.

Claude Massey is said to be the sleep-walker of the month. Claude got up out of bed and walked about the house one night, all in his sleep, and then into the guest room, where he piled in. It must seem strange to wake up in the morning in a room different from the one in which you went to sleep.

Ray Murray has an acute case of indigestion. His wife was away over the week-end and Ray had to take his meals in a restaurant. Ray reports he would be O.K. if he had chosen the right restaurant.

Bill Denver of Inert Storage has an early start on his spring Victory Garden. Bill is raising a couple of "Lillies" and if they bloom before the end of the week, victory is his, for he will win a bet from Dick Ashworth.

It was reported Joe Connors is out looking for his ration book. Many wonder if he plans to take up housekeeping or needs a new pair of shoes.

Did you ever overhear a conversation between Karl Ulrich and Harl Son about their dogs? After bragging for an hour or so about his three or four dogs, Karl decided to let Harl tell about his dog. Well, Harl said his dog could do many tricks, one of which is very cute and it happens when the dog is following someone downstairs. Just watch your pants legs when you are over at Harl's house.

Joe Furlan is a student in the afternoon first aid class, but reports he is worried about getting to the scene of the accident first. He says he has no car and someone may have to aid him to get there first.

Cy Thompson asked why all the speed limit signs were taken down in the Area. The signs are very definitely there, so perhaps he should leave his glasses on when he passes through the gate.

George Schoppe is going to be the "First Aid Boy" of Building 12. When the instructor passes out the examination papers, George is the first one to hand his in. As a matter of fact, George is getting his in so fast the instructor has no record of his papers at all. George is the only man in the class who can practice all of his bandaging on himself.

Q. A friend of mine in a tank destroyer outfit wrote me that they now have a new shoulder insignia and it's a wow! Can you tell me what it looks like?

A. The Tank Destroyers are now authorized to wear a distinctive shoulder insignia of their own design. It shows a cougar in black, crunching a tank, all imposed on a circular field of golden orange.

Guards

GENE RYAN

Correspondent

At the recent "E" Award festivities, the Guard Department was justly proud of not only their Color Guard's performance but of all the guards who helped handle the traffic in the area. Lieut. Frank Pate was in charge of the Color Guards, while Chief M. C. Baughman actively handled the traffic affairs.

The query at present around Guard Headquarters is "Who is Lieutenant Gates?" It is understood that Radio Dispatcher Paul Stacel is the only one who can answer this question.

Wayne "Hallelujah" Boyd is a new monicker worth explaining. It is understood that a man appeared at the Front Gate last week and after spending some time there waiting, asked permission from the guards to do a little praying. The guards consented but they asked him to include Boyd in his prayers. With great action and words, he proceeded, and did include Guard Boyd.

Lieut. William McClellan, on tour of his duties one night last week, was approached by a ramp guard in one of the ramps, with this salutation, "What tower are you out of, Buddy?" Lieutenant McClellan has, since then, put a bright new lustre on his gold.

Dispatcher Casimir J. "Spike" Klafta, who recently moved into the metropolitan area, visited his bosom pal in Joliet on a recent weekend.

Notice

Are you in doubt? Are you concerned over momentous problems the outcome of which are in doubt? Do you wish to argue for the sake of argument or for the purpose of being informed? If so, see the 4-12 shift at Room 18, Guardhouse. Satisfaction guaranteed or argument ad infinitum.

Joseph C. Wolf is improving his mind by a review of elementary arithmetic during his spare time at home. He will vouch for the fact that the circumference of a circle is Pi times the diameter. He proved it.

Lieut. Herman Walters related the fact that he was very much surprised when he received his change in classification to 4-H. He said the card was accompanied by a note which read, "This classification is subject to change in the event that a need for Generals arises."

With the Women

Marie Hanson has returned home from St. Joseph's Hospital. Her broken ankle is "on the mend."

Lt. Eve Anna Castle visited her home in Quincy last week end.

Five new Women Guards are welcomed. They are: Mary Lou Beam, Joliet; Mary L. Gardner, Lexington, Ill.; Pauline Bloomquist, Lexington; Phyllis Surman, Dwight, and Frances Carpenter, Urbana.

Mabel Peterson is still wondering who put the frying pan in her bunk one Saturday. "You'd think," she said, "that they'd at least heat it. After all, a girl's tootsies are cold after working a gate."

Florence Bradecish, Nora Mae Secor, Margaret Cavolt and Verla Chism looked very glamorous at the Army-Navy "E" Dance.

The one and only "General" Villa Eggleston planned to act as newsboy for the Women Guards. She purchased 15 copies of a recent newspaper expecting to find pictures of her co-workers. However, after scanning the paper and finding no pictures, she returned them to the office.

Capt. Gladys Armstrong now believes in fairies. When she returned from work the other evening her dinner was "ready and waiting." Mayona Nelson hopes she'll soon be as pleasantly surprised.

Mae Glade has returned to work after a week's illness.

Come spring and all may be able to see that new outfit Polly Morrow recently purchased.

Last week there was a "fish" network which practically engulfed the entire area. Now it's given way to something else in the form of Spring fantasy—the gentle art of raising hares. Coops, pens, dog houses and even igloos have been suggested as brooders. Of course, the innovation, as it were, is well rooted, having a patriotic angle, but perhaps more of an urge toward that indefatigable part our anatomy commonly known as the stomach. Of course, some of the boys hope to realize a few "bucks" while others will be contented with just a little "doe."

Recent communication from Pvt. Arthur C. Donavan, who is stationed at Stockton, Calif., says even though it's like spring there, he still prefers good old Illinois. Pvt. Donavan wants to hear from the boys, even though it's only a card.

It's suggested that all would-be anglers at Groups 66 and 66-A purchase fishing licenses early this season. After all, $27.50 is a lot of money!

Bill Van Duyne is offering a few good musical instruments for sale very cheap. Since his concerts have stopped, the cats have returned to the clock house.

Lyle "Murphy" Thompson left before it could be learned who received a fine Waltham.

The Inspection Department is turning amateur night sleuths. Their problem is—who put the limburger cheese in the manifold heater? For two days it has been necessary to keep the car windows open. Robert Swinford and Andy Perino are still under supervision and, needless to say, the Inspection Department is looking forward to revenge.

Frank Perino and Elmer Zost report success for their Saturday night dances at the Lincoln Ballroom in Marseilles—several faces from EOP have been sighted in the crowd. Barney Falletti and his orchestra have been featured.

Dick Sebastian, who is sporting a first aid badge, recently had an opportunity to prove his skill on a large owl found by Denzell R. Clay and which examination disclosed had a broken wing.

The group welcomes back in the midst as ace time helper Paul "Story Woronovich" Zamkovitz (Zam for short).

Group 63

Friends of Frank J. Walsh, a former material checker in Group 63, will be interested to know that several letters have been received by friends here from "somewhere in North Africa." He was formerly in England and Ireland.

Wendell J. Overacker, Jr., better known as 'Wilkie" and a star material checker, is enthusiastic about his prospects for the Army Quartermaster Corps. It won't be long before he finds out if, when and where he will be wearing that nifty olive drab.

A new and popular addition to the Inspection Department, John Cameron Brown, Chatsworth, Ill., soon makes his first appearance before his local draft board. "Cam" is just bubbling over in anticipation of that big moment.

The romance(?) or troubles(?) that began when Tommy Hall ran into a door at Group 1 several months ago had its sequel February 13 when Christine Aimone and Tom said "I do." Tom is a member of the popular explosive truck team of Walter Shaffer and Hall.

In the past few months a number of men active in Group 63 have had their names added to the large and ever growing list of EOP employees in the armed services. They are August J. Simonich, Ray Hansen, Loren "Chenoa Mike" Ellis, Frank Mitok, Anton "Tiny" Grayback, Charles "Cropsey" Weatherford, Jack Needles and Dee Johnson of the timekeeping department; Don "Chick" Manthey, Dan Stringer and Albert "Butch" Pescitelli. Ray was last heard from in Texas, "Chenoa Mike" from Camp Campbell, Kentucky Army Air Base, "Cropsey" from Camp Kohler Army Signal Corps at Sacramento, Calif., "Chick" from Army Radio Signal Corps at Ashland, Ky., and "Butch" from Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis.

A SIDE VIEW FURTHER MAGNIFIES THE CROWD which heard EOP's men and women soldiers of ordnance praised by "E" ceremony speakers.

Dispatcher Virgil Hidlebaugh is enveloped in a deep daze—trying to think up items about his co-workers. Frank Skoff, the G. B. Shaw of the Fire Department, is busy turning out his usual fine copy, and your other correspondent is doing a gandi-dance that makes for much fuss, but no copy. This three-ring circus is being watched by Chief R. W. Mortenson, who occasionally puts in a quip or two which relieve the tension in the press-room.

Wayne Barber isn't a stenog any more. He has traded the typewriter for his first new suit (khaki—no cuffs) an a rifle. He's in for the duration.

Thomas Billadeau sure likes his new morning duty. It could be the new help!

Asst. Chief Walter Lueder to Chief Mortenson: "Chief, I would like to get off an extra day this week. The wife is coming home—I want to wash the dishes." Answer—"XRCMPTU!"

Asst. Chief Charles Davis knows what gas rationing is now. His V8 Ford was at a standstill on Route 66A "half way home."

Joe Baudino, timekeeper, sure looks pretty! Half of his complexion is "blue."

Frank Scoma would like to be the cook on the 7:30 shift. He thinks his Italian style cooking would agree with everyone, especially with Frankie Nolan, to whom the smell of garlic plant is as sweet as an evening breeze wafting o'er the parched proboscis of a weary desert prospector.

The Deparment extends a hearty welcome to the following new members: Frank Popstein, Alex Klemit, Joe Walsh and Tom Bretto.

Fred Habing was transferred from the clerks to the fire inspectors. He was tendered a chic new suit of red flannels by the boys, as he will now be roughing it among the igloos.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin DuPuis have a new tax exemption in their home. The lassie arrived Valentine Day.

George Zelke, who underwent an operation, is welcomed back.

Inspector Johnny Hembrough's favorite song, "I Didn't Know What Time It Was," suddenly changed to "I Wonder Where My 'E' Badge Is Tonight!"

Charley "Loquacious" Tyler reports the political scene in his home town as follows: "We all got a tough election comin' up down Leafy Grove way; but I don't worry: I'm on the right bandwagon."

You can always get a hot tip on the horses from George "Tout" Collins.

You can always get a hot tip "Silent" Mietz to come out with a new story every day.

Warren Colby's bowling score of 265 is still tops.

Orval Riggs thinks that Illinois has the best basketball team in the country; and is willing to bet on it—for a small sum.

George Bexson is having a tough time figuring out his income tax. But then, who isn't?

Bob Hamilton, Ray Rowen and James Bean have received their notice and soon will be in Uncle Sam's Army. Bob and Ray work at Group 1 where they have been doing a swell job while James is one of the night field riders. All three will be missed and they are sent off with the best wishes of the department.

Frances Keigher, who hails from Joliet, and Vesta Hines, who lives in Wilmington, are the newest members of the department.

The main Time Office is patiently waiting to see the little puppies which were born under the building. "Whitey," the mascot of Richards Farm, has kept them hidden since they were born a month ago and it seems she is quite content to leave them there where eager hands of would-be owners, can't get at them.

Gerry Parthuns, pretty little keeper of time at Group 4, is ill at home with pneumonia. All are hoping for her quick recovery.

The husband of Alice Petke, formerly Alice Secor, is still waiting for a home cooked meal prepared by his beautiful bride.

Rumors, but not confirmed, are that Helen Buck and Helen Kelly will announce their engagements soon.

Eva Sweda, keeper of the files, is planning on joining either the WAACs or the WAVES.

John O'Connell is raising another mustache after accidentally shaving off the old one.

Cliff Northrup is planning to buy a frog farm so he can take the hops out to make beer.

The absence of key men who once adorned and polished the "corn crib" is conspicuously noted.

The Army, Navy, and Notre Dame were rewarded with some beautiful photos when Gerry Graham had her picture taken recently.

Rose LeBeau has found the cheapest lodging place of all—and in the city of Chicago, too. Deciding that she would stay overnight to finish some business the next day, Rose started to hunt for a place to sleep after eating dinner. If any of you have searched for a hotel room in Chicago on a Saturday night, you know just how difficult her task was. Her quest finally ended in the Illinois Central station where the matron in the rest room agreed to let her stay for 25 cents if she had a train ticket. When Rose gave her twice that amount, she took great pains to make her as comfortable as possible.

Although Dr. I. W. Madura says he's (censored) years old, no one seems inclined to believe him. Recently "Doc" procured a birth certificate and the date recorded for his birth does not coincide with that which he's been using. Now, the question which arises is: "If the date is not correct, could there have been a mistake in the year also? Could 'Doc' have been as bashful as a girl about his age?"

If you want to have the hair on which the sun glints and the boys rave about, just use glove shampoo the next time you wash your hair. The new process is personally recommended by Charlotte Doxsee. So far there have been no buttons or seams sprouting out of her hair, so it is presumed that it's safe.

Byron Mills has a double purpose for celebrating on Valentine's Day. This year he spent a quiet 67th birthday at home with his family. It was a busy weekend for Carmen Oldani, too, for her birthday not only falls on Valentine's Day but her brother was married the day before.

Among those things you can't believe, even when you hear them with your own ears, was the statement made by Rita "Rusty" Cushing to Helen Bardi as they were both entering the door of the vault. Tiny "Rusty" who is just 18 years old and scarcely five feet tall turned to Helen with a kindly, "After you, child."

Darwin Boitnott and Maurice Evans are the newest straw bosses in the plant. While a new counter was being installed in the fingerprint classification room, they supervised the carpenters in all operations. P.S. Although the counter looks strong, conjecture is running high as to whether it is due to their sagacity.

Falling into a sound sleep while riding through the area, Marge Bittles did not have her badge ready for the guard to inspect. When roused, she reported, "It's in the vault; I put it there." Even that is not so queer as Marge driving out of one of the Chicago parks directly onto a one-way boulevard—proceeding in the opposite direction. After dodging crazy drivers who were out in the middle of the street, the sound of a siren froze her to the spot. The policeman asked her if she knew what she was doing and then elaborated on the subject. Ending his tirade with instructions to turn around, he watched while she drove to the next corner, maneuvered and finished the turn still headed in the wrong direction. Sarcastically inquiring why she couldn't follow his directions, he led her around a few blocks and was exasperated to discover when they returned to the street that they were still driving in exactly the wrong direction. Laughing at himself, he told her to scoot before he forgot it was funny. She did!

James George and William Leeland are proud fathers, and if you don't believe it, just ask them to show the pictures of their children. Mr. Leeland will pull out a picture of a charming young girl, while Mr. George's pride and joy are two boys aged 4 and 5 years respectively. Forgot to mention that the latter will show you a whole gallery of pictures if you have the time and express a desire to see them. The boys are caught in various poses including explorers from throughout the world.

A regular song bird of joy was Peg Collins one morning. It didn't take long to discover the source of her inspiration as the vehicles of her talent were "Harrigan," "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Mary," and other of the same vintage. You've guessed that she attended the current movie starring James Cagney and it recalled the songs that she knows so well. There's a secret though—she had the girls in the lounge singing, and they knew the words, too.

Pearl, the polka dot cat with the cactus tail, has come to visit Herman. Now this frisky young gentleman is a daschund who also has a desert cactus for a tail. Lest you think that there are no such beasts, they are made of china and wear dirt on their backs. Pearl has recently come to live on Miss Bardi's desk to be company for Herman who has been lonesome on Marcella Burnham's desk.

If you've never heard June Morgan sneeze you have a treat (or a scare) waiting for you. It's an odd combination of a squeal and a scream. The other day when this phenomenon occurred, one of the girls jibbered, "Where's the mouse? I don't see any mouse."

Unbelieving, yet thrilled was Joyce Enger the other day when she discovered that she had won two tickets to the stage show, "Lady in the Dark," and traveling money. It was not quite as chipper a girl who wandered into work on Saturday morning with news that the play was wonderful but her bed was, too, when she had to leave it.

There is a club developing on the area which seems to be made up of men who are particularly fond of oysters. Responding to a blind call to come to the fire station at 1 o'clock, George Bent found a veritable galaxy of EOP talent gathered there, and the oysters soon appeared. These imported oysters were served both fried and raw with everything that should go with them. Among those present were James Murphy, Henry Dougherty, Capt. John Hardy, Wm. Buck, Jack Egan, Gustav Peterson and, of course, Chief Roy Mortenson, the ever amiable host. If you've never been on the inside with the Chief you've missed a rare treat.

Material Warehouse

Former Material Checker John Wharrie dropped into the Warehouse in Group 70 one day last week to bid the boys goodbye. John said he enjoyed working with the men here and, of course, the employees feel the same way about working with John, but Uncle Sam is first to be served by all so John answered his call and is now wearing an Army uniform. All wish him the best of luck and hope to hear from him often.

Former Material Checker Louis Kalina is now employed in the Pipe Shop, Group 70. When Louie was asked how he liked his new position, he said it was a "pipe" working in the Pipe Shop, and in order to prove it he now smokes a pipe instead of cigarettes.

Perry Bruno has been busy for the last six weeks preparing his income tax return, and after taking all legal and illegal deductions he has finally arrived at the conclusion that the Government owes him $241.86 plus $18.00 for asperin tablets used to relieve the headaches he had while preparing the return.

Material Checker Ronald M. Bennett is back on the job again after a few days spent at home last week doctoring a severe cold.

Even-tempered Herman Guard made up his mind one day last week to cure his cold without the advice of a physician, so he bought a bottle of cold cure on the way home, drank all the contents and went to bed. When Herman was asked the next day if he felt any better he said from now on he will consult a doctor when he feels a cold is imminent.

Joseph Horrell and your correspondent spent half of their time Monday and Monday night sitting in a cold car out on the highway waiting for the car to take a notion to go. Trading the car in for a mule is being considered, because you can coax a mule along, but when the car takes a notion to quit you are through, too.

Irvine, all former officers at the plant, looking chipper than that, at the ceremony. . . . Major Irvine looks taller than ever since he's been getting that Texas sunshine. . . . Lt. Bob Stephens looking as handsome as could be. . . . Lt. Robert Johnson, shaking hands with the gang, Capt. G. A. Grant busier than all get out and why not??? . . . Being host to all that gang ain't no strawberry social, but with his usual grace he made it a huge success. . . . Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, the perfect host as usual, looking suave and poised. . . . Taking everything into consideration . . . it makes a fellow pretty proud to be part of this here munitions plant. . . . Regular officers, regular executives and last but not least regular fellas to work with. . . .

Say, didja see John Welch dashing down the hall the other day. . . . He was perturbed about something . . . but when he came out of Miss Harmon's office he was all smiles. . . . Mystery No. 1001. . . . Paging Sherlock Holmes. Molly "Teletype Queen" Baker likes coffee??? . . . snuff said.

Have you heard that Ann Kulpa likes ensigns . . . and all the time most thought it was captains. . . . Boy, the way these gals change their minds.

Danny Considine is looking harassed these days . . . no wonder . . . with that gang of females on his neck . . . they sure lead him a merry life. . . .

Mary Dagon is always coming up with some bright saying and is amply helped by Vera Gussman and Pat Haley. . . . Then there's Juanita Kliegl to help matters . . . now to top it off Art Koch has to go and get himself mixed up in it??? . . .

Wonder why Marion Yeager was so anxious that her hair look so very so so on the night of the dance at the Recreation Building. . . . So far no news on that score, but time will tell!??? . . .

Bernie Jones of Payroll looked rather peaked the other day . . . could be loss of sleep, eh??? . . . Betty Wilhelmi saw her B. F. Saturday, Bob Kennedy had a pass and so came home for a few days.

Ordnance Inspection

GERALDINE M. WARD
Correspondent

Paul R. Smith and Kermitt L. Long, assistant chief inspectors, visited the Jefferson Proving Ground, Madison, Ind., February 8 and 9 on official business in connection with manufacture.

Lt. Col. J. F. McCaslin and Lt. Col. D. L. Woodberry of the Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D.C., visited the Ordnance Inspection Department February 9.

Bryan A. Rogers and Lloyd D. Hunter, ordnance inspectors of Pantex Ordnance Plant, Amarillo, Tex., spent February 15, 16 and 17 here.

C. Richard of the St. Louis Ordnance District Field Director's Office, spent February 13 at EOP.

The following were among those present at the Industry Integration Committee meeting held here February 15: Maj. B. O. Tobin, Ammunition Branch, Ordnance Department, Washington, D.C.; Eloy W. Jacobia, resident inspector, International Derrick & Equipment Company, Houston, Tex.; John Rohland, L. C. Matter and C. W. Imboden of the Philadelphia Ordnance District Office.

Sympathy is extended to Clara I. Wehner, chief clerk, whose father died recently.

Catherine Tomlianovich spent a week with her parents in Canton, Ill.

Dale Lorentzen, a former employee of Office Personnel, Ordnance Inspection, is in training for a Naval petty officer at Tennessee.

Claire Donoghue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Donoghue, 227 Illinois Street, Joliet, and Lt. Dale A. Yeoman, Aberdeen, Md., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Yeoman, Rensselaer, Ind., were married in Baltimore, Md., Feb. 17. Miss Donoghue attended Joliet Township High School and Joliet Junior College. She received her B.S. degree from Northwestern University. Prior to her marriage she was employed here in the Area Engineer's office.

Lt. Yeoman became a member of Delta Tau Delta, national social fraternity, while he was attending Purdue University from which he was graduated with a B.S. degree. He was formerly in the Ordnance Inspection Department and is now receiving special training in Ordnance at Aberdeen Proving Ground. After a honeymoon spent in New York City the couple will reside in Baltimore.

Despite the cold weather, many ventured forth to attend the Army-Navy "E" Award dance February 13 which was sponsored by the Employees' Activity Committee. Those in attendance from this department were Capt. A. G. Resch, Ethel Dirker and Geraldine Ward.

Stuart Moloney, correspondent for the Fire Department was envious of the drummer and wanted to steal the show, so he gently tapped him over the head thereby rendering him unconscious. "Stu" then proceeded to play for the remainder of the evening. The music became so fast it was necessary for the dancers practically to glide across the floor and some thought they were in a Marathon contest. A few of the "old timers" reminded "Stu" they preferred a waltz to jitterbug music. However, his only response was "The Old Gray Mare Ain't What She Used To Be." Nevertheless a good time was had by all.

Group 2.

It seems that the boys in this particular group enjoy being ill occasionally as they like to visit the nurse, Dorothy Gunderson, who administers first aid.

Helen Mueller, nurse, lost a very good friend in the person of Thomas Kenner who went back to "Dose Dar Hills" in Tennessee.

A "topoff" gage used in Building 16 had been missing from the Government Inspection Office for a period of four days. Anthony Posluszny, better known to his many friends as "Tony," exhausted every effort in endeavoring to locate the gage. He finally discovered four days later that he had been carrying the gage in his coat pocket the entire time. Was he embarrassed?

Q. I heard that some non-coms' warrants are permanent and others are temporary. Why the difference?

A. On and after July 1, 1941, all NCO warrants were temporary. Only NCO warrants dated before July 1, 1941, are permanent. This is covered in War Department Circular 22, dated July 23, 1941.

Q. What are the national and regimental flags carried by mounted or motorized organizations called?

A. The national standard and the regimental standard.

Inert Storage

CHARLES MANN
WILLIAM DENVER
Correspondents

Inert men stood in attention while snow flurried to hear the many speakers at the official presentation of the Army-Navy "E." Representing the Inert Storage Department on the platform was Richard R. Kuntz. Many were thinking of those who left the Inert Organization to serve in the armed forces. As the winds flapped the folds of the Star Spangled Banner up went the "E" flag to join her . . . to tell the world of EOP's excellence in war production. Look to her from time to time remembering excellence must and will continue. Look too, to your "E" pin as a keepsake or prayer as it really is.

Best wishes for a speedy recovery go out to Will "Wild Bill" Hayes, who is in the EOP Hospital. He suffered a broken leg while unloading presents for the Axis. Members of his squad miss him greatly. "Wild Bill" is most concerned over the fact that the Group's record of lost time accidents is broken. Too, he was concerned about his "E" pin, until he learned it would be presented to him in the hospital.

Robert Monson, now in Naval Training School, wrote of his life in the service and extended his greetings to his many friends at Inert.

It is reported that Fred Ford of South Inert was overpowered by two blondes while attending the wedding of his brother in Chicago.

Group 27 is not in the squab business, although little houses that could be used for that purpose went to that Group . . . they were made to house the fire extinguishers.

Leaving South Inert to join the armed forces is Art Kossak, one of the early members of the Inert Storage Organization.

George Harrop, Hattie Lardi, Ray McGrath, Herman Gall, Harry Alderman and Walter Peterson and their squads paid a working visit to Group 66-A while Sparrow Chellios, Gordon Venturo and Cod Pelligrini and their men saw action at Group 64. They say there is no place like home and these men believe it.

Joe Birsa soon will have ready for publication his thesis on—"How I Made the Lunch Hour a Racket." He is also working on another, "If My Riders Don't Pay." Joe is a hard worker and often looks at his "E" pin.

Among those who received valentines were Manus Moberly (of a gambler), and John Dixon (of a hen-pecked husband). Lomis Hendrix says he will never again attend a dance at Gardner.

Winter colds claimed John Wald, Chester Holt and Otto Paul.

Blooms soon will be on the plants at North Inert office 'tis hoped.

Charles Gorham of North enjoyed his birthday February 16. His infant son displayed a tooth as a present.

The first to spend his shoe ration coupon was Walter Briton of South Inert. He probably wanted to beat his wife to it.

Visiting at Inert was fellow-correspondent, Wilbur Galbraith of Group 2. Eddie Keenan should have been along.

Group 27 is taking orders for kittens. Just what color they will be or when they will arrive cannot be told at this writing.

Inspection

LORRAYNE OSTREM
Correspondent

Ed Vanni, genial senior inspector of Group 9, left for Columbia University, to where he was called for V-7 Naval Officer Training. He follows his room-mate, Bud Nesius, who is enrolled in a similar class at Notre Dame. Best wishes are sent to both boys.

Jim Glade, popular shift leader at Group 61, is convalescing at St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago following an operation. He sends his regards and is anxious to hear from his friends.

Inspector Jim Finnegan, is on the sick list. However, you can't keep a good man down—Finnegan is expected back at the Crusher Building soon.

Sylvia Neilsen and Lorrayne Ostrem had an exceptionally good time at one of Chicago's well known spots recently. Chicago is quite a ways from Joliet. Many wonder if they could have been with two of their co-workers.

A fine thing! ! ! Tony Lutkus can't even park his car in front of his house without coming home and finding the police have towed it away assuming it was an abandoned car.

If it wasn't for the grapes Homer Peters has every afternoon, it would be impossible for him to make that trip home to Kankakee for his evening meal.

Did you ever see Harold Rouff in his basketball outfit? Some stuff, eh!

Arthur Kossak, Group 62-S, Robert Harsha, Group 27, and Victor Skorupa, Group 64, are leaving soon for their Army physical in Chicago.

For the past few days Jerry Shirtino has been so anxious to get in the Army that he has been able to eat only three he-man sandwiches, cookies, pie, cake and a quart of milk each day for his noon snack.

Poor Stella Jaworski was seen going out in the cold and snow carrying Coca-Cola bottles. The Sir Walter Raleigh spirit of the males in Building 4, Richards Farm, seems on the wane.

A. J. MacLellan, chief inspector, sure hasn't done a lot with the sheet music he was given at Christmas time. He is still whistling the song he learned well over a year ago.

Pipe Shop News
By Mary Wynne

With the addition of a new girl, Lucille Hassel, the Pipe Shop is well on its way to becoming feminine.

Clarence Regnier has been walking around with a wicked gleam in his usually placid brown eyes and every now and then he will stop and say very dramatically "revenge is sweet." Someone had better watch out.

When asked about his husky voice, Bob Harder was quick to reply that it was just a cold in the head.

Ruth Sanderson thinks the term "liquor line" is quite silly.

Service Garage Spares
By Russell E. Benway

Jim Hatz has been seen going quite frequently to the Hospital. Several wonder if it is that arm of his, or the nurse.

It finally happened! Ralph Nickleski tied the matrimonial knot with the gal of his dreams. Best wishes to both are sent from the entire garage force.

Walter Murphy is in line for a professor's diploma after a two-week instruction course in garage ethics given to Eleanor O'Keefe, who has the distinction of being the first woman employee at the Service Garage.

Welcome mats are also extended to William J. Clark, Raymond E. Tucker, Leo E. Wheeler, Louis Calcaterra, Fred Elias and Clarence A. Weidemann.

It is rumored that Ralph Groll has a 1940 Ford caged in his garage, using a Model "A" for the duration, and now is in the market for a 1936 Ford. The best answer to what kind of taxi service has he in mind for the future, is good for a special prize from the "Complaint Committee."

Did you know that: Bill Briddick celebrated his 27th wedding anniversary last week. . . .

Paul Swisshelm is having difficulty in attaining that 15-mile a gallon rate with his Packard. . . .

Jim Wilhelmi and June Wood list movies and radio as their favorite pastimes. . . .

Francis Rabe and Marvin Christensen are ardent fishermen.

John Enrietta and Joe Szwaja set as their goal the huge figure of $1,000 in war bond savings by the end of 1943. . . .

Buck Rogers, Leroy Stutz, Walter Knupp and Ollie Olson smoke fifteen-cent cigars every Friday.

The garage boasts of a "Thursday Night Club." (Members will be listed in the next issue.)

Telephone Tid-bits
By Elaine Christman

Forgetting to pick Mat Horn up was bad enough, but when the girls drove by and didn't see him, that was the pay-off!

Who was the girl James Soule escorted to the "E" dance?

If Herbert Reeves, guard at the Telephone Building, doesn't have the best disposition in the world, who does?

Marguerite Weaver would like to borrow a compass for her next trip to Chicago—she gets lost.

Several fellows at the Telephone Building, including Joe Thompson and Frank Kuechenmeister, would like to rent a farm—for a Victory garden.

Building Maintenance
By John Bottary

Building Maintenance, formerly located near Group 3-A, has moved to a new location—"Taylorville," in Group 70.

Murray Jordan, formerly with the Field Engineering Department, is now assistant to C. J. Taylor, ably filling the position vacated by Hal Vaupell.

Trust George Abel will be abel to do justice to those boarding house steaks after what happened to his teeth over the week-end.

Elmer Dupree says his bowling average is 187.

Bob Walker will be the recipient of a fur-lined coal bucket from the Farm Bureau for performing a patriotic deed. It seems the boys gave Bob a new casting rod for Christmas, so Bob went to one of the local creeks to try some of his fancy lures. The results of his catch were a wagon wheel, a mail box and two milk cans. He salvaged 80 pounds of vital scrap metal.

Many wonder if John Giacomi is still trying to get a refund from the Gas Company.

Motor Pool Memos
By Frank Kern

Frank "Papa" Kern is a sight for sore eyes after a siege of the flu.

Dick Roeder has been christened "Wrong Way Corrigan" since his recent flight around the area.

Although Edward Heath took his turn with the flu, he has returned without the loss of a pound.

Best wishes are sent to Joe Elledge and Delmar Jensen who are carrying guns for Uncle Sam. Perhaps they may develop into jeep drivers.

New faces seen around the Motor Pool include Sylvia Wardell, wife of Edward Wardell of the Guard force, Bill Clark, Leo Wheeler and Ray Tucker. How this EOP family does grow!

Katherine Dixon's greatest worry—keeping cafeteria orders in order.

After many exciting months spent with the Motor Pool, Edward Suffern has returned to normal life at Group 63.

Here and There

Gordon Graham, chief yard clerk at the Classification Yard, has been added to the EOP Honor Roll.

On the sick list with infections, flu, and what-have-you, are Ray Curtis of the Electric Shop; Harry Dank, Harry Dungard and Fred Singer of the Paint Shop.

Keith Gale (second cousin to 90-mile-an-hour-gale, they say) recently celebrated his 30th birthday anniversary.

It is nice to have Leona Hagen back after a week's "stay at home" because of an infected throat.

Cigars were plentiful at the Round House recently when George Bennett took unto himself a wife.

Bus Transportation
By Margie Stevens

Raymond Pratt, formerly with Bus Transportation, is now stationed at Camp White, Oregon.

Responsible for keeping buses in such good running order is Swede Thompson, mechanic.

Robert Hayes, bus driver, has joined the Navy.

Sure is something the way Bert Painter drives those huge EOP buses—just as if they were toys.

Mrs. Carl Sala is quite the persuader when it comes to getting things—especially "C" books.

Luck running true to form is that of Henry "Gooseberry" Kiep's. Three times Mr. Kiep bet on a horse named Gooseberry and lost. The horse enthusiast laid off for two races, naturally, Gooseberry came in first both times.

The height of optimism—Jim Peters saying that his hair is growing back.

Harvey Steffes ought to build a fence around his parking space—he might have more luck getting the vehicle situated every morning.

Old softie, Bob Hinz, grew a good sized callous the first rivet he bucked while working on a tank car.

Phil Francois had an excuse for staying on the day shift for nearly four months. Mr. Francois's wife was expecting "any time now." The long awaited day arrived, net result being a bouncing 10½-pound daughter.

John Giacomi and Bob Walker make quite a twosome, especially when visiting Troy Township.

A brand new daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dobovsky, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown. Mr. Dobovsky gave your correspondent a cigar. Mr. Brown had good intentions—probably saving it for the son.

"Baked potatoes and milk" Bill Biggs will have company soon. Bill is teaching Paul Burke to live on the same diet.

Anthony Berklacich, former supervisor of Building 3, is now in the Navy attending the University of Notre Dame. Upon graduating Mr. Berklacich will be an ensign. Friends received a letter from the sailor.

"Doc" Nicholas Warren moved from Ottawa to Wilmington.

Fortunately shifts change. Sixty-one's "Hi powered nitrate man" Whit Miller is learning new tricks. Mr. Miller is about as hard to find as Tony Ganz.

Cliff Kidney has a birthday coming. Building 2 will furnish paddles and lines will form to the right.

Dave Bumgarner, who spends his spare time in the kitchen cooking meals to satisfy his enormous appetite, has concocted a recipe for making gravy that friends insist tastes every bit as good as Le'Pages glue.

Bill Dooley thanked Bob Plese and Joe Motta for the lunch money provided him on bets made during the basketball season.

Having a lady chauffeur does things to a fellow—John McGraw doesn't mind coming to work.

A hobby of Roland Blackburn is picking up hitch hikers.

Al Pope brought out an attractive picture, but would not add it to the change house collection.

Employees of Building 3 are anxiously awaiting cigars from Olen "Scag" Brucker.

Leaving soon for the Army is Herman "Curly Locks" Stricklin.

Employees noticed that the day timekeepers are here bright and early every morning. Even Larry Holz has to get up before breakfast now.

Employees miss Joseph Sarti who went to work at Seneca.

Every morning John "Judge" Hayes phones in reports to Betty Walsh of Production Planning. Yesterday His Honor claims he forgot the telephone number—a likely story!

At the "E" dance, Bill Kurkamp and former alumnus of Group 61, Gene McAllister, were seen with pretty girls.

There will be no meat rationing at Building 3 . . . total beef there is 558 pounds. Fred Kase weighs 312 pounds and Walter Benjamin 246 pounds.

General Offices

ARLENE SCHLOENDORF
Correspondent

Friday, February 12, will be a day long remembered by everyone at Elwood Ordnance Plant. Many of the guests were old friends or former employees here. General Offices renewed friendship with L. J. Kessel and F. V. DeBona of Pine Bluff Arsenal. Both were the picture of health.

C. P. Lyman, formerly the head of the Mechanical Department, and S. A. Covell, formerly head of the Heating Department, were here for the "E" presentation, and visited friends in the Engineering Department.

Loud applause, heard even across the hall, greeted Arlene Thorsen, Purchasing Department, when she returned to work February 17. Her absence was due to a "swell" affair. The physician called it mumps.

Christine Dare's heart stood still because her heart is still in Fort Worth, Texas, with Corp. George "Bud" Primm. The valentine, "with love," was beau-ti-ful.

George Rummel, head of the Electrical Department, has heard from Al Beyer, former electrical inspector, now in the South Pacific. He and Gene Morrill, another electrical inspector, stationed in California, are in the Construction Battalion (Sea Bees).

Since the SPARS accepted Lucille Ambrose, June Shick, Accounting Department, was transferred to fill her place in the Comptroller's office.

Harry MacCrae, formerly with the Structural Department of the Engineering Department, was inducted into the Army recently, and is stationed at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

"In the spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love" is a famous line, but it was yet winter when romance entered the lives of Georgia Frayser and Jack Breitfuss. It is so serious that they look across the table three times a day.

Ralph Turner, the able news getter from the Heating Department, Engineering Department, is now working in Group 61 as fireman.

Surprise! Surprise! That was what the Engineering Department gave Doris Skinner February 25 in Joliet at the Woodruff Hotel. She plans to leave the plant soon. It is rumored that Bob "Wimpy" Forst entertained ala opera and W. G. Lanterman did some vocalizing.

January 29 was the birthday of June Kaehlert, and friends in the Purchasing Department gave her a little party.

Jo Donna, Bond Department, sends a challenge out to all contenders for Ping Pong Championship in the Administration Area. She is a whirlwind.

The romance of a diamond ring will develop into wedding bells around March 1 when Lucille Jasinski leaves for Virginia to accept the "Mrs." from Pvt. Tom Smith.

Have a heart, folks, and treat Jim Hanley nice. He threatens to join the Army because everyone else is being given parties.

John Comeford was given a real party by the Payroll Department men. Everyone reports a good time, and it is said that John was carried away. He left for the Navy February 17.

February 20 was the final day here for Marge Drauden. She accepted a position in Joliet.

If you could have seen the beautiful pictures taken of Edith Lewis, you would have envied the fellow who received one through the mail recently.

W. E. Schubert left recently for the Army Air Force.

A lot of curiosity was aroused when a gold star appeared on Evelyn Blayde's Time Card.

In Room 41 there are two Joes—Catton and Bebej—but another set of twins caused more confusion when Vic Vanderhoof was hired as a chauffeur. That makes it two Vics—he and Vic Dagenais.

Recreation

E. L. WALKUP
Director

Attendance at Ladies' Day in the Recreation Hall each Friday is showing a definite increase. Group 9 defeated Group 7 February 5 in a bowling match with Thelma Crihfield of Group 9 rolling high game of 162. The Hospital girls were defeated by the War Bond Department in a close match. Sophie Mores, Personnel Department, rolled high game of 186 for the day.

Transportation to Joliet is arranged for you girls each Friday night so it's easy and convenient to attend.

There have been several requests for a bowling sweepstakes for girls. If you're interested, see Myrna Faris at the Recreation Building or call 4109.

Claire Shols, Government Mail and Records Department, is getting to be a pretty sharp ping pong player. She'll be one to watch in the tournament. Lucille Nahas, Group 3 nurse, also offers plenty of competition. Keep your eye on her!

Bowling

Eddie Murphy's keglers held a sweepstakes last week. There were 103 entries, and the maples were flying. Highlights included the performance of Al Hesle, Safety Department, who always hits around 200, but wasn't even in the money. Al said he never could bowl on alley three. You should see him give that alley a going over now.

R. H. Watt, Personnel Department, bowling in the sweepstakes did not get in the money, but turned right around and hit the pins for 259.

Andy Lutkus, inspectors, just dropped in the alleys as the sweepstakes were being completed—entered and won fourth money. The Goodfellowship prizes were drawn from the hat, so the boys with low scores had just as good a chance to get a prize as those who were hitting the maples.

Andy Plym won first prize, but 608 pins are a lot of maple at any time.

There will be another sweepstakes by popular demand in March. Watch your bulletin board and see your Employee's Activity Committee representative for the dates.

Q. How many full generals were active in the U. S. Army when we entered World War II?

A. One, Gen. George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff.

Q. What's the origin of the red stripe on the marine uniform?

A. As we get it, the red stripe stands for the blood shed by the Corps in the Mexican War.

Chemical Lab. Wins Play-off To Take Title

Group 3 Loses Cage Crown in Thrilling Contest by 1 Point

In a thrill-packed contest, the Chemical Lab quintet from Fuze & Booster captured the championship of the first EOP basketball season by defeating Group 3, leaders throughout the season, 29 to 28, at the Recreation Building February 25.

Chemical Lab had defeated the Guards the previous evening 28 to 16 to break a tie for second place. This placed them in a tie with Group 3 for first place and they won the play-off.

There was a large audience and the workers were amply rewarded for their attendance. Gold basketballs for watch chains will be given the members of the first, second and third place teams.

League representatives will meet March 4 to arrange for an elimination series beginning March 8 and those games will ring down the 1942-43 season.

Final Standings

The final standing of the teams follows:

	Won	Lost
Chemical Lab.	10	1
Group 3	9	2
Guards	8	2

BELIEVE IT or not, this is a view of the flag pole in front of the Administration Building, taken as Emil Zajick was stringing a second halyard for the "E" flag. The camera was placed next to the base of the pole, directed up and the shutter clicked.

Four S & P Partners Here for Ceremony

Four Sanderson & Porter partners were here for the "E" award ceremonies, February 12, as the guests of Harrison Smith, resident partner. The four, who came here from New York, were Wynn Meredith, Seton Porter, Francis Blossom and R. L. Hamill. They were as proud as Mr. Smith over the recognition of the efforts of the men and women of EOP by the Army and Navy.

The Inquiring Line

Q. Can a dishonorable discharge ever be removed?

A. Only by an act of Congress, soldier, and this is rarely done. The rights of Federal citizenship forfeited by dishonorable discharge on account of conviction of desertion in time of war may be restored to such former soldier by his unconditional pardon by the President. This, too, is rarely the case.

Q. Are noncommissioned officers in the Army eligible for rental allowances?

A. Enlisted noncommissioned officers in the first three grades—master, technical and staff sergeants—are eligible for rental allowances, provided they have families not living in Government quarters. Other enlisted men when on detached service where quarters are not available are also entitled to such allowances.

Q. Does overseas service pay more than home service?

A. Yes. Enlisted men and warrant officers serving overseas get 20% increase of base pay, or $60 a month for privates, and other enlisted men and warrant officers according to grade. Commissioned officers receive 10% of base pay for overseas duty, and special allowance for flying and parachutist duty.

Q. When is a lieutenant considered too old for field duty?

A. Regulations have just been changed, increasing the age limit for duty with troops in the field. Both first and second lieutenants who have not passed their 36th birthday are now eligible for such duty, providing they are physically qualified. Second lieutenants used to be ineligible after reaching their 30th and first lieutenants their 35th birthdays.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

Q. I saw a WAAC wearing a sergeant's chevrons the other day. Is her title a "sergeant" in the WAAC?

A. No. A WAAC three-striper is known as a "Leader." That's equivalent to the rank of sergeant in the Army.

Q. When were "dog tags" first used in the Army?

A. In the Civil War citizen soldiers used to pin pieces of paper on which they had written their names on their uniforms. As soon as the Government labeled men with an identification tag worn around the neck they became known as dog tags.

Emergency Calls

To report a fire.....Dial 17
To call police.....Dial 2229
To call ambulance
(emergency only).Dial 4262

Report the nature of the emergency. Be prepared to answer all questions a doctor may ask. He has good reasons for asking these—in order that he may come prepared with the necessary equipment.

Hospital

EVELYN RICHARDS
Correspondent

Written by Evelyn Doran during the absence of Evelyn Richards.

Well! Well! Patients come and patients go. Elliott Hayes, from Group 62-N, who suffered a fractured leg, is here. William O'Brien, Group 1, Building 4, who was struck by an automobile and suffered a fractured leg, was admitted as a patient. Hazel Gauger, who has been here for some time, has gone home to Fairbury, and Joseph Thompson went home to Pontiac.

Gordon McCulloch, ambulance driver, was ill with a cold, but is well again.

Many are wondering why Elsie Baer is spending some of her evenings in Chicago. It's surprising what a lake breeze can do!

It was a surprise and a pleasure to have Pvt. Joseph Chizmark as a visitor, even though it was for only an hour. He has a 15-day furlough. Joe escorts prisoners of war, and is stationed at Livingston, La.

Two of the nurses went home over the week end, Catherine Lindblad to Bloomington, and Nellie Lazio to Sterling.

Dr. Bohdan Giel and Dr. Andrew Bustin attended the "E" dance Award. Mary Philbin and Bob Anderson also were there.

You've probably heard the expression "It doesn't pay to cry over spilled milk." Well, R. R. Sidell experienced it. He never shed a tear when he was accidently dampened by some spilled milk. So far he hasn't caught a cold. He does advise to have paper towels on hand in case of similar accidents.

Lorene Motta reached another landmark in her life February 12, Lincoln's birthday. It looks as though Myrtle Burrus was alone for a week. Several did their best to comfort her.

Dr. Bustin had better take good care of his clothes, especially when he's in a hurry to get into a car. After all, clothes are now a luxury, and fresh air is alright in some places.

Mrs. Robert Edwards visited her husband who is in the Medical unit at Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Veronica Rossi was recently married. She is now Mrs. Veronica Kelly.

ELWOOD ON PARADE

PROUD INDEED OF HIS "E" PIN was Elliott "Bill" Hayes when his own superintendent, A. P. Balston, pinned it on him at the EOP Hospital. Bill has been confined there since February 5 with a broken leg he suffered at work in Group 62-N. With Mr. Balston are John P. Wald (right), assistant superintendent in charge of 62-N, and Andrew Fris, a co-worker of Bill's.

Lardi's Squad Takes Second Leg of Contest

Reduction of Work Losses Is Goal of Inert's Employees

By Charles H. Mann

The second three-month period of Inert Storage Department's "Contest to Reduce Work Losses" has been completed with additional success in cutting down hospital visits and absences. The squad winning the contest for this period was headed by David "Hattie" Lardi of Group 62 South. The men in his gang who helped complete this high percentage are Elwood Anderson, Henry Heideman, Michael Griglione, Arthur Kettleson, Joseph Donagala, Lawrence Lavicka, George Bullock and William Barry.

The percentage which Ray Morris of Group 62 North compiled with his squad equals that accumulated by Mr. Lardi, but due to having a smaller total of work hours he received second place in this contest. This is continuing the good work which Mr. Morris started by winning the first "three-month contest."

The complete standing for the leading squads from December 6 through February 27, follows:

Squad	Group	Hosp. Man Hrs.	Absences Man Hrs.	Per Cent Present
Lardi	62S	3	72	98.5
Morris	62N	2	74¼	98.5
McDonald	27	0	73½	98.4
Holt	62N	3½	111¾	98.2
Argyle	62S	0	120¼	98.2
Alderman	62N	7¼	96¾	97.8
Moberly	62S	3¾	104	97.7
Mall	62N	7	107¼	97.6
Bull	62N	0	115½	97.4

This contest was inaugurated by A. P. Balston, superintendent of Inert Storage. It has caused keen rivalry and a great deal of interest among the men working in Inert Storage. The high percentage of attendance and hours worked is a tribute to the effort put forth in organizing this contest.

One man who won individual honors is Clarence Sluiter who does not know what it is to be absent. Mr. Sluiter has been in the employ of the company for two

Group 61 Plans 'Hard Times' Dance

A "Hard Times Dance" is planned by employees of the Ammonium Nitrate Plant, Group 61, at the Recreation Building, Saturday night, March 20, and all EOP workers and their families are invited to attend.

Harvey Steffes and Joe Motta, committee on arrangements, announced this would be one of the most novel affairs of the 1942-43 social season and said anyone who failed to attend would be missing a marvelous time.

Admission is 55 cents and music will be by the EOP Orchestra. Dancing will be from 9 p. m. to 2 a. m.

Since the dance comes but five days after Income Tax Day, the sponsors decided to make it really a "hard times" affair. There will be a judge sitting beside the ticket taker and he may fine those who attend 15 cents for wearing a tie or 5 cents for having a shoe shine. It's going to be hilarious and a heap of fun.

Switch to $50 War Bonds Grows

FIFTY DOLLAR WAR BONDS are being bought by more and more EOP employees every day, according to G. A. Becker, War Bond Department. They are signing for the higher denomination instead of $25 bonds because they can continue to make the same weekly savings and patriotically save money for Uncle Sam at no cost to themselves. Mr. Becker said 3,311 workers so far have changed from $25 to $50 bonds and that 99 per cent of new employees are signing for $50 bonds. If you haven't already done so, you are urged to switch now. Ask your foreman for a slip to sign.

Use Native Wood For Loading Mallets

Native wood is being cut within the area for use in mallets for the loading line groups and elsewhere on the reservation. Under the supervision of "Farmer" W. B. Manchester, Osage-orange hedge lumber is being cut and delivered to the Carpenter Shop where the mallets are being made. Sufficient wood for 500 mallets has been placed in the shop.

Mr. Manchester explained that flexibility and toughness are required for the mallets and that the hedge has proven better than hickory for the purpose. Sometimes a hickory mallet doesn't last half a day, while the Osage-orange mallets are still effective after a week's use.

The Bomb-Shell Now Distributed at Plant

Effective with this issue of The Bomb-Shell, delivery will be made by hand as employees leave the plant, instead of through the Post Office as heretofore. This will place the paper in the hands of readers three or four days earlier than before, and will save considerable money and labor. Any savings are worthwhile and patriotic in this all-out war.

The papers will be distributed at each of the exit gates of the plant beginning with the shift which stops work at 7:30 a. m. Friday. Arrangements are being made to provide for those who are not at work the day the paper is distributed.

Tire-Gas Committee Changes Office Hours

Office hours of the Labor-Management Committee, charged with assisting EOP employees under the gasoline and tire rationing plans, have been restored to their former schedule, now that the rush for applications for "A" and "C" gasoline books has subsided The hours are 8:30 to 9:30 a. m. and 3 to 4:30 p. m. Mondays through Fridays at the Administration Building.

Employees are urged not to wait until their last gasoline coupon is used before applying for another book. Immediate action is impossible under the operating methods of the various rationing boards and the necessary delay may be inconvenient unless application is made in advance.

Workers Give Over $10,000 To Red Cross

One-Week Campaign Brings in 9 Times Total of Last Year

When the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant set their minds to a task . . . whether it be Army-Navy "E" award, funds for the Red Cross, support for the United Service Organization or money for the Community Chest . . . something is bound to happen . . . usually to their credit.

These soldiers of ordnance have contributed more than $10,000 to the emergency war fund of the American Red Cross . . . nine times more than they gave last year . . . because they know the funds are sorely needed.

'Twas a proud foursome . . . Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, commanding officer; Capt. David P. Tunstall, public relations officer; Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, and Richard T. Bassett, assistant comptroller . . . who took $10,000 in cash to the First National Bank of Joliet March 9 after the one-week campaign at EOP. The Joliet Herald News recognized the importance of the achievement by assigning a reporter and photographer to meet the delegation, so that the newspaper's readers might know of one step in the progress of the drive.

Mr. Bassett, who supervised the EOP campaign with the assistance of all of the group superintendents, said funds continued to pour in.

Takes War Job To Buoy Children

Florence A. Costello was employed as an explosives operator in Group 1 March 5. Her 21-year-old daughter is a lieutenant in the WAACs. One son, 20, is a Navy aviator, and another son, 18, is in the Marines.

One of the preliminaries to Mrs. Costello's employment was a letter to the EOP Personnel Department. The letter, which speaks for itself, follows:

"In asking for a job at the ordnance plant, I have a very personal motive. You see, I have three children in the services, the WAACs, the Naval Air Corps and the Marines, and I feel, in a small way, I would be giving my children a lift in their work. I have had no experience, I admit but I could soon learn. They have had hard lessons to learn and I'm sure there will be harder for many of them and I would like to help in any way I could."

All Urged to Hear Army Hour

Employees of EOP will find the weekly "This is the Army Hour" program on their radios of particular interest to them Sunday, March 14. The part played by Depots of the Services of Supply in maintaining the life line of supplies to men on the fighting fronts will be dramatized from 3:30 to 4:30 p. m. The entire program will be devoted to depot work and depot personnel and will include actual pickups from overseas as well as depots in the United States. All are urged to listen.

Strive for "E" Star Now

Next July 9 . . . should the war then still be in progress . . . men and women of EOP will be eligible for a star to be placed on their Army-Navy "E" flag for excellence in production, which now flies above the plant. No one wants to see this war last longer than absolutely necessary for complete victory, but if it must be continued for six months or longer, then every EOP soldier of ordnance should pledge his or her best efforts to maintain the excellent production which originally won the award.

News for Men Overseas

The problem of furnishing news to the men on the battlefronts throughout the world is becoming more acute each day. Regulations now prevent mailing The Bomb-Shell overseas, so that valuable cargo space can be saved for vital materials. No one will argue with this decision. Winning the war is too important, but the morale which results from news from home is important, too. Perhaps there is a way out. The Government urges greater use of V-mail. Perhaps the Recreation Department could form an overseas writing club which could meet each noon. Each member could be responsible for writing once a week to one or more former EOP employees, telling those things about his old group and former associates the specific fighter would want to know about. Read some of the letters from service men on Page 3. They offer convincing proof of the need.

No Place for Carelessness

Safety plays as important a part on the battlefronts of this global war as it does here at home . . . during the daily work of the men and women soldiers of ordnance . . . perhaps, more so. "Outside of carelessness, of course," a soldier has an equal chance to come through alright, is the opinion of Pvt. Robert L. Hamlin, former Personnel Department worker here. That opinion is based on experience as perusal of his letter on Page 3 will show. If you do not do so now, Pvt. Hamlin's attitude is well worth copying in your own thinking about safety.

Taste it yourself an' see if it ain't for a cold. . . . I brought dope for mosquitoes last summer in the same bottle . . . sure this'll cure TNT rash . . . nurse's orders . . . don't be a chump . . . I gotta have a pass . . . a day lost is a day . . . aw right, I know . . . a pass . . . I gotta if I gotta . . . yeah, but I don't touch . . . I don't drink I mean . . . I'm tellin' ya it ain't hootch.

The Burning Pit

By Scorchy

By virtue of a long line of agricultural ancestors, I feel obliged to foist upon my fellow workers at EOP some sage advice on that timely subject, the Victory Garden. It is recognized that these words of earthy wisdom are not requested, but my customary impudence will permit me to ignore your lack of interest while I launch my campaign to bring you back to the soil in the interests of bigger and better rutabagas and such other table delicacies as you may be tempted to nurse from seed to sapling.

It seems appropriate to dignify by public word the rumor in the air that we will have our Victory Gardens this summer on a really organized basis. There was a time when you could don a pair of old pants, sneak quietly to the far corner of your back yard and start a garden without even the neighbors commenting on it. Not so, this anno domini 1943. This year, we'll organize.

It calls for no great stretch of the imagination to envision a nice, dusty, hot piece of the terra firma here at EOP divided into small plots, each assigned to an ambitious but amateur tiller of the soil. Group meetings for cultivating, plowing, weeding, and what-not could be held, more or less along the lines of mass calisthenics classes.

Standing on a raised platform, shouting out the operations in their proper sequence we see the mighty Sage of the Soil, W. B. Manchester coaxing G. R. Kintzel to fill the shovel full each time he embarks on another cycle of his earth moving operations. Neither would it be hard to enjoy the spectable of Mr. K's next door neighbor, E. O. Huey on bended knee pleading with a lowly potato bug to please go away "for the duration," even if he chose merely to meander onto the next plot. Dr. H. L. Schultz could use this program as a research project in finding a lot of aching muscles that the owners heretofore never knew they owned.

Proper planning would also call for stretcher bearers, smelling salts, and such other resuscitating apparatus as might be needed to revive some of the softer neophytes who always thought farming was such a simple task.

Along toward the end of the summer, the more playful side of our collective temperaments could be indulged by the operation of a Guessing Contest, open to all the agricultural wise-acres to which the puzzled farmers could bring their produce and have it identified. Each of the gardeners will only know the picture on the seed package and it can now be predicted with some degree of accuracy that the ripened harvest will bear no resemblance to the picture. The resultant confusion will probably have a deleterious effect on the mentality of some of them, but an iron cage will be set up to keep them out of circulation until the ravings subside; in fact, they can be fed with the ambiguous flora plucked from their own little plot which held forth great promise earlier in the summer.

The movement is growing, folks, so get ready to dig in.

years or longer with unbroken service. Rain or shine, he has never found reason to join the Absentee Club. Even the day of the big blizzard he was right on the job. He has earned for himself the title "Sluiter Comes Through."

Further check disclosed others with good attendance records. Among them are Manus "Red" Moberly, Stanley Wienceck, Fred Ford, George Harrop, Orville Johnson and Mr. Lardi. In over 18 months these men have been off duty only two days. Mr. Moberly said he made up his two days by reporting for special work with rush notice on Sundays.

I have written . . . a poem!

Any Bonds Today?

I'd like to introduce to you
The War Bond personnel.
Our work may not be perfect
But we try to do it well.

G. A. Becker is the "boss"
Who keeps us "on the beam."
He simply has to say the word—
Do we turn on the steam!

Dorothy's heart-throb's gone to war—
To her soldier she is true.
She must be fond of eating,
'Cause she sure loves "Irish "Stu."

Tom Lamon is our bowler,
His style's smooth as butter.
He knocks down every single pin
We set up in the gutter.

Gloria's hobby is working,
Her spare time's spent on that
Which still gives her a lot of time
To date and dream of Jack.

Wilkinson's game is ping pong,
But here's a funny thing:
Every time he's going "pong"
He should be going "ping."

Ruth Berg seems so capable
It somehow is uncanny
That when her shoes need polishing
She always calls on Danny.

George is really quite a "Prince,"
We'll give you odds on that.
We hear his greatest problem
Is a fear of getting fat.

Marilyn's sense of humor
Keeps improving every day.
The little joke about the horse
Was a total "Run-Away."

If Ray Berg turned to music
Or took a hand to verse,
We're almost sure that every line
Would start and end with "Nurse."

Mrs. Willer's so quiet,
She makes not a sound;
But when she starts typing,
We know she's around.

John Burke's laugh is something:
On a clear and quiet day
You'll hear it ring out merrily
A mile or two away.

Kathleen's favorite expression
Is, "Please turn on the heat."
When summer time rolls 'round again
She'll really get a treat.

Bob Connor will give you a bet
From a horse right down to a flea.
Nine times out of ten he'll win that bet—
I know—you can take it from me. (So did he.)

Kinson's work is varied:
Gas, tires, bonds, and so and so.
One time he's here, again he's there—
He's always on the go.

"Consumers" and Jim go together
Like sugar and cream go with tea.
He says he can take it or leave it,
But it doesn't seem so to me.

Would you like to hear quotations?
John Jackman does it well.
To whom's he spouting poetry?
I know—but I won't tell.

Josephine Donna's the poet
Who thinks up lines like these.
If you don't like this kind of stuff,
Well—just forget it, please.

—Josephine C. Donna

Rationing

They ration the sugar
And ration the tires.
They ration the gas
We use in our cars.

They ration the butter
And ration the meat.
They ration the shoes
We wear on our feet.

They ration the coffee
And ration the tea.
They ration the honey
Made by the bee.

They ration the pots
And ration the pans.
They ration the food
That's in tin cans.

They ration our clothing
And ration our pay,
But we're sure glad
We are in the U. S. A.

So come on, Americans,
Don't fret and foam.
For we'll keep on rationing
Till the boys come home.

—Leora Owens,
Group 9, Building 4.

My Prayer

The day is done, and as I trudge
A weary journey home,
My mind is filled with varied thoughts
Of lands across the foam.
Of people who would still be free
But for a fiendish slayer.
And for the souls, whose hearts he's torn,
I breathe this solemn prayer.

God, give me strength
To do a little more than is
My usual task in life.
An extra ounce that mayhap mean
The final thrust that
Spells the saving of a life
For Freedom's cause, for only then
Can men lift up their heads
Now bowed in captive chain.
For only then, when Victory
Shall still the cannon's roar,
Can Peace return again.

God give me strength to carry on,
One tiny cog in this great scheme
That must bring Freedom back.
Bring Freedom back, with sunny skies,
To Norway's stalwart hearts.
To heroic Greece, whose shores are black
With starving creatures by the score,
But who die rather than submit
To Naziism's iron hand.
To brave Michailovitch and his band
In Yugoslavia's mountain bare.
Protectors of their Native Land.
To Belgium, twice raped now,
In scarce a score of years,
And the blasted dykes of Holland.
To the Czech's famed Lidice,
The town that "is no more" in part,
But lives eternally, in every free man's heart.

God give me strength to do my part,
To weld the ship, to build the gun,
Whatever it may be.
And give us strength, each one of us,
To overcome our foe, whose very name
Is but a blasphemy.

God give us strength to best the foe,
Defeat his every move, until
Quiet reigns o'er all the earth,
And Thou can say "well done."

—Charles Andrews,

Q. What is the origin of the neckerchief worn by sailors?

A. The neckerchief was supposed to be a sort of tie or decorative ornament, to be used as a sling for an injured arm or to be used as a tourniquet. It was made in various loud colors until the death of Admiral Nelson in 1805 and was changed to black in mourning. It has remained black ever since.

Q. Where are Army chaplains trained?

A. The Army chaplains school at Harvard University recently was considerably expanded and more than 400 student chaplains are now receiving a four-weeks course of training there.

Former Employees Ask for Mail As They Fight Thruout World

Letters from Africa, Middle East, Alaska And High Seas Describe Experiences

Letters from former employees received by The Bomb-Shell recently describe the fierce fighting in Africa, life in Alaska and on the high seas and the details of training of men before they are sent overseas. The wish can be detected in all of the letters—some express the desire specifically—for mail from home. In adjoining columns and on other pages of this issue, this matter of news for service men, especially in foreign fields, is discussed in detail.

Sgt. E. W. Kallenberg, a former inspector here, wrote from somewhere in Africa. The postmark indicated the date was sometime in February, but Sgt. Kallenberg had just received the November 20 issue of The Bomb-Shell. His letter follows:

"I have just received your November 20 issue of The Bomb-Shell. That has been the first mail mail I have received since I have been in (censored) Africa. I was very glad to read the paper as it brought back a few names that were familiar to me.

"I have been over here for over (censored) months and of course feeling a little low just now, decided to write and thank you for the paper. If it wouldn't be too much bother, I would like to hear from some of the members of the Inspection Department. I have been told by my friends that came over lately that I have loads of mail on the way. But it never seems to catch up with me.

Wonders About Friends

"Well, I believe this will all be over soon and then I will get it all at once. I would like to know if there are many of my old friends still working in the Inspection Department. I enjoyed the paper very much and hope you continue to send it to me. Of course, I have a new address. (Those interested may obtain this address from The Bomb-Shell office . . . Editor.)

"Just in case you might be a little interested in (censored) Africa, I will tell a little about it. The country itself is something like California. The days are slightly chilly right now. The nights are pretty cold. The people are friendly, but the natives are exceptionally dirty. I once thought our bums and hoboes were bad in the States. They are kings along side these natives. They have very good farming soil. Well, I am only allowed three pages, so I will have to close."

Another letter from Africa, describing the life of a fighting marine from Pvt. Robert L. Hamlin, formerly of Personnel, is published elsewhere on this page.

From Alaska, where he is stationed in a hospital, Pvt. Gail Plowman, who was in Group 4 here, wrote that his work is very interesting and gives him "a great feeling to know that I'm doing something that is important.

"I was working in Group 4 before induction," said Pvt. Plowman, "and I'm very much interested in the work that is going on in that group. Many of the group I worked with are gone or in other groups now, but even with the new hands that are now there I know that they will give their best to help shorten this war."

Fighters Here, Too

From the high seas Kenneth F. Hall, fireman second class, formerly of Group 1, wrote that he and his shipmates thanked everyone here for the opportunity to read The Bomb-Shell. "It shows and lets us know," he said, "we have fighting men and women working for Sanderson & Porter, too. So once again I thank you.

"If it is not too much trouble, I would like for the boys in Group 1, Buildings 3 and 16, to know I haven't forgotten them and we all know they are right in there pitching. Keep them rolling, gang, and we will win . . . when I say 'we' I mean you and I and all who are fighting for the good old U. S. A."

"I used to receive The Bomb-Shell very regularly in the States," said Pvt. Frank J. Houser in a one-paragraph letter from the Middle East, "and enjoyed reading it immensely. Since I came overseas some time ago, I haven't received any copies. Here is my correct address and I hope you will continue sending me The Bomb-Shell, as I enjoy reading about my friends, who I used to work with."

Training of a squad of raiding Commandoes is described in a letter written to Lt. Harry Dowden, guards, by Pvt. John Johnson, himself a member of the group in California. Pvt. Johnson was a guard here for 18 months.

"Sometime this week we are shoving off," said the undated letter. "And speaking for all the other lads in this Raiders' outfit. it's about time we are getting a crack at the Japs . . . and pity those Japs when these guys get their hands on them. There ain't a better bunch of fellows nor a tougher bunch than these raiders.

All Men Equal

"In this outfit, everybody is equal . . . officers, non-coms and privates. Only difference is pay. We all wear the same type of clothes, no bars or chevrons are worn. If a private proves to be a better man than a platoon sergeant, he is put in charge. In other words, they don't promote in regards to stripes, but ability.

"And one thing, the lads are really trained . . . knife fighting, judo, sentry killing, booby trap experts, bayonet, mountain climbing, swimming . . . well just about everything. I'll be sure to send you back a pair of Jap ears.

"But what really makes this outfit is Col. Jimmie Roosevelt. He is a grand guy. He gets us the best of everything and he's a regular guy. Lives just like us, sleeps on the deck, cooks his own chow, washes his own clothes and goes to bat for his men. Believe me, in a very short time you will be hearing a lot about the —— Raider Battalion."

A letter signed by Lt. and Mrs. James H. Edwards, Jr., both former employees, was received from Voorheesville Army Depot, New York. Writing March 3, Lt. Edwards said it was five days over one year since he left Group 7, Building 2. His wife, Betty, left Building 6 of the same group more recently.

"We both enjoy reading the news and seeing the pictures of our old friends at EOP," they wrote. "Our sincere congratulations to E. J. and Mr. Utley on the splendid record of their four sons as shown in the issue of February 12. Please tell Bill Blonske not to get too fat in the "Health Resort" at Group 45—nobody loves a fat man, so they say."

Pvt. Robert Gehrke, who is with a medical detachment at Battle Creek, Mich., said he had worked here 19 months as a timekeeper before leaving for the Army. At various times he was assigned to Group 3, Group 4, Railroad Number 4 and the Water Line. He asked that his greetings be extended to all in those groups and to John O'Connell, Milton Treitel and Bernard McShane, "three of the best men I have ever had the pleasure of working under."

"I wish you would tell everyone working at the plant," wrote Pvt. Edward L. Kurth from Will Rogers Field, Oklahoma, "that I think they are doing a wonderful job and to keep it up . . . especially at Group 1, because you know that's the old stamping ground. Tell the boys in Building 4 (or are they all girls now), but what's the difference, I said hello."

Services P-38's

"I have finally been assigned to a squadron and I am working on the line as a mechanic," said Pvt. Ivan C. Nelson, stationed at Oakland Municipal Airport, California. "We service the P-39 and P-38 pursuit planes here."

"I was especially glad to hear of the splendid record established by the workers of the plant as a whole," penned Howard E. Feldmann, seaman second class, who is in Naval aviation ordnance training at Norman, Okla., "and also of Group 61's accomplishment (I once worked there).

"If the girls at the plant can do it, I can," wrote Pvt. Richard M. Cassani from Buckley Field, Colorado, in describing his duties teaching at an armorer's school from 10 at night to 6 in the morning. He explained he, too, was studying and would be an aerial gunner when the course is finished.

Pvt. Eddie J. Kendziorek, writing from Camp Phillips, Kansas, said he is still working with anti-tank mines and shells as he did here at Group 2. He sent regards

More Soldiers Send "E" Congratulations

Additional congratulations to the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant on their winning of the Army-Navy "E" award have been received from former employees in the armed forces. Among them are Pvt. James F. Moore, Avon Park Bombing Range, Florida, a former timekeeper; Pvt. Raymond J. Marenda, Fort Bliss, Texas, formerly of Group 3; Pvt. Kenneth Beaudoin, Camp Claiborne, Louisiana, formerly of Group 3-A; Pvt. Norman Lange, Army Air Force, Altus, Okla.; Lt. Ronald A. Sachs, Army Air Base, Wilmington, Del., and Pvt. Glenn L. Templin, Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, formerly of Group 1.

"It was a well deserved honor and proves to us fellows in the service that the folks back home are backing us to the limit," was the unanimous opinion of the writers.

EOP's Service Album

Writes Vividly of Battles and After

In a letter to George F. Bent, EOP personnel director, Pvt. Robert L. Hamlin, formerly of that department, wrote so interestingly of his fighting experiences in the South Pacific that his letter is published practically in full. Personal references only were deleted. The letter follows:

"I received an issue of The Bomb-Shell the other day in this far off island and I was so glad to get it and read about all personnel and changes that were apparent. It sure looks as though Sanderson & Porter were going in full force, and, if I'm not mistaken, I have seen some of the products here so you know they're getting the desired result.

Our battalion came off the front line here the day before yesterday after over two weeks of the hardest and most strenuous going I've ever had. It's the rainy season here (name begins with the first letter of your first name—you'll know) and sometimes for days we're soaked to the skin and remain so till once again the hot sun comes out and we can dry ourselves and gear. And then when hiking and advancing through the jungle and up ond over the steep hills we're soaked with streams of perspiration. So you see we're soaked most of the time and miserable with mosquitoes and flies, all besides the actual enemy, the Jap.

"But now that we're back of the lines along (censored) we have time to clean off the weeks' dirt and grime and wash our clothes and recuperate physically and mentally. We all lost weight from the ordeal and quite weak as a great deal of the time we had just the canned rations (beans, hash, cookies or chocolate, which is hardly a substitute for a hot chow, but of course keeps one alive with needed calories.

"So, for a little time we're enjoying ourselves eating everything in sight, relaxing and writing letters home, forgetting for a little time the things we've seen and heard. We've become pretty good at knowing the sound of the enemy artillery commencing and of course we have to make a dive immediately for our fox holes sometimes six and seven times a night and of course it's frightening always wondering if the next one will get you and as it's at night one gets very little sleep which doesn't help with all to be done during the day.

"We've gotten our share of the Japs, however, and I guess you know we Marines rather enjoy getting souvenirs. In fact, I'm writing with a Jap pen right now, one of the spoils of war. Some go in for gold teeth and one fellow has quite a sack full, being worth about $400, he says, and another has two sets of ears, one he'll dry and the other to take back pickled. But I stop at such things as that and have a few little interesting items.

"I've witnessed and been through so much I'd like to tell you of it, but can't because of censorship. etc. I only hope the foregoing will go through, but so far I'm in good health and whole, while some of my buddies are less fortunate. It seems to me more a matter of chance than anything else (outside of carelessness of course) that one comes through all right. I've been religious in taking my daily atabrine and have so far avoided malaria and the many other things one can get.

Send Thanks to Fire Department

De Lancy Cossett and Minnie Bruechet sent the following letter of thanks: "We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all of the many employees of EOP and to the Fire Department for all they did to try to save our home and the many personal effects they did save during the fire of last month on South Chicago Street. Without their quick aid, we would have saved very little."

Women Guard Offices

Women guards are more in evidence now than ever before at the Administration Building. With the exception of a few key points, men guards have been replaced by women under the supervision of Sgt. Clare Cosgrove.

Group 3-A

F. G. TAMBLYN
Correspondent

The following men have left Group 3-A for the armed services: Edward Lindner, Charles Linko, Angelo Sperelakis, Landon S. Miles, Ray Blecha, Melvin Payne and Raymond Martin.

The graduates of the first group of 3-A First Aiders have now received their cards from the American Red Cross. Two other groups have since completed their course of training. Those now eligible for cards are: Mary Bertino, Birdeen Clark, James S. Corrigan, Ethel Copping, Ethel Davenport, Mary Erickson, Peter Hammerle, Alvin Hubert, Carl Kemp, Louis Paul, Frances O'Keefe, Daniel Palmer, Melvin Schramm, Mabel Uhrenholdt, Edward Wheeler, Emil Zajicek, Lavin Ecklund, Donald Elsome, Wayne Frederickson, Anna Hoffman, Arthur Jones, Frank Mathewson, Glenn Milstead, E. H. Morron, Jr., Alvin Schwoke, Emma Tezak, Marion Williams, Anna Worland and Mr. Linko, who left for the Army.

Arthur Thompson's chicken venture has proven so successful that he is now contemplating going in for rabbits.

A letter from John E. Rossi to Gerald Hall reports he is now a candidate for officers' training at Fort Benning, Georgia.

The group was pleased to have a visit recently from Tommy Costello, brother of Asst. Supt. George Costello. Tommy, a former employee, is now at Norfolk, Va., in the Navy Construction Battalions known as "Seabees."

The other morning when he arrived at the office, Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick found his desk adorned with a lovely package topped by a red rose and tied with ribbon of the same color. What many want to know is how he rates?

Congratulations are in order for Frank Renchen whose marriage last fall was announced recently in a local paper.

Sincere sympathy is extended to Vivian Green, John Lines, Jr., and Everett Brooks in their recent bereavements.

During the lunch period conversations, interesting items come to light about "former lives." It was interesting to hear that, at the age of 11, Irma Lieberthal won a prize for cake-making.

Fred Kurbis celebrated his birthday on the job. The gang wish him many more.

Genevie Nelson is reported to be recovering from a throat ailment. All hope she will soon be back.

Frank Ruffato can relate many fascinating personal experiences in Tunisia during World War I. One of the most interesting was his escape from an enemy prison and being lost for 90 days in the jungles.

Adrian Blankenstein is back on the job again after a bout with pneumonia.

One of the principal topics of Dave Henneberry's conversation is his three-weeks old grandson, who, Dave says, looks just like him.

At last Amy Losby is an aunt and the little niece is named Susan Kathryn. What's more, she has red hair!

Inspection

LORRAYNE OSTREM
Correspondent

The South Inert Superintendent's Office now has a Weather Bureau Department since Tommy Dillon brought out a thermometer and barometer—weather forecasts 8 to 16 hours in advance now available.

Alex Stern's enviable record for unfailing accuracy almost hit a snag the other day. Mistakes are bound to happen sometimes.

Since meals from a can are now a thing of the past, Walter Britton is carrying a dinner pail.

The boys were smoking cigars last week in honor of John Douglas, Jr., the new arrival in the Paul Mosteller home.

Arthur Kossak has answered the call of Uncle Sam and left February 25 for Fort Sheridan.

The weather of the last two weeks has nothing on the Inspection Department of Group 6 as far as changes are concerned—Roger Anderson, shift inspector of Group 6, exchanged places with Jack Fey of Group 7. During the same week Mary Sortori, forelady, became Mrs. Charles Brown of San Francisco, Calif. Both Roger and Mary will be greatly missed.

Mike Kelly, Group 66, is giving free dancing lessons to his coworkers.

Anton Togliatti, Group 63, became the proud possessor of 5 new pups one night recently.

Elmer Zost, Group 68, is trying to figure his 1942 income tax, since he took over the management of a dance hall in Marseilles.

Pvt. L. H. Olson is now stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas, and Corp. George A. Atteway at Camp Camel, Kentucky. Both formerly worked at Group 64.

Mary Brown, Group 9, says she received her husband's picture from Camp Young, Calif., and, bang, fell in love all over again.

Bob Wilhelmi was told the other day he had a nice large diamond, but it was rather yellow. Bob, shining it on his coat lapel and trying to give a quick and good answer said, "Yea, yea, and yea—oh, yes, that's the carrots in it."

Ruth Drnec, Group 9, oversleeps about three times a week, but always makes it to work on time. Some say she should be nicknamed "Lucky."

Group 9 welcomes Helen Feeney and Mary Forgarty from Groups 4 and 5.

Jim Glade is well on the road to recovery and will soon be back at Group 61 after his recent operation.

"Laramie" Ostrem, eager for news, has learned not to be too eager. One can be shocked listening to a conversation over an extension phone.

Joe Sutkaski is a very busy man over at the Crusher Building. The going at Group 61-7 is pretty rough, all right.

Sam Mount is now living in Manteno. Could it be the work at Group 61 affected him, several have asked.

"Dottie Palenske"

Our girl friend, Dottie, is now a WAAC;
Of course we miss her and wish she were back,
But she's taking the place of some man—that is fine—
So he can do his part at the head of the line.

A person like that is always worth while.
Her friends who are WAACs she'll never let down;
She'll cheer them if they're wearing a frown.

She's up very early and quickly gets dressed
In her wonderful uniform so neatly pressed.
She studies, marches and also drills,
To our Dottie that is a great thrill.

And then in the evening when their work is done,
They all get together for a little fun.
Alas! There is the bugle every night at ten,
Which brings every fine day to an end.

We know that Dottie will do her part
For the love of our country that is in her heart;
To her friends, the WAACs, she'll always be true,
Because she'll never change—the Dottie we knew.

—Alice Martin and Kay Funk,
Tetryl Pelleting 6-4.

"Best Things in Life Still Free!"

They've rationed our sugar, our coffee, our shoes;
Now they're going to ration our beans.
Our butter and eggs and beefsteak and fruit
Will be equally rationed it seems.

They haven't rationed water, sunshine and white clouds;
Still free are gay laughter and love.
The birds still warble their songs to God.
They won't ration blue skies above.

They won't ration the stars in Old Glory,
Nor the red, nor the white, nor the blue.
Her stripes, and her furls and her glorious swirls,
Spell Freedom, unrationed to you.

—Elizabeth LeBeau,
Tetryl Pelleting 6-4.

Funeral Services Held for Jack Barry

Funeral services for Jack Barry, 49 years old, expediter in Group 1 and correspondent for that group on the staff of The Bomb-Shell since the paper was started, were held March 7 in Joliet. The services were conducted by Cantigny Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in which Mr. Barry had taken an active part.

Mr. Barry died in a Joliet hospital following a brief illness with pneumonia. He is survived by one son, Capt. John Barry, Jr., stationed somewhere in the South Pacific.

GROUP 3

NORBERT McLUCKIE
Correspondent

A favorite saying in this great old world is: "May the best man win." Well that fact was brought out in the recent game with the Chemical Lab basketball team. Aside from regular line of duty, the workers of Group 3 have really stuck with the boys on the floor. Now even though they ended up second best in the championship game, it is felt that the boys did a very fine job. And yes! Now you can say, "may the luckiest man win."

The team will be somewhat hampered by the loss of Don Fread and Edward Pekar who joined the armed forces right after the final game. The boys still have plenty of that Group 3 fighting spirit though and will fight to the finish.

The curious and maybe somewhat nosy boys of the second floor in Building 4 are wondering who the good looking girl is that Leo Wagner gave a ride to Joliet the other day.

Ervin K. Wood, former employee of Group 3, is now in the Marine Corps training to be a paratrooper. He would be glad to hear from any of his former coworkers. He is stationed in San Diego, Calif., and his complete address can be obtained from The Bomb-Shell.

Income tax. Frank Cassidy has a full house, so he beats Uncle Sam at that game. Cassidy, a veteran of 1918, now has one son on Guadalcanal and another at Camp Grant.

Ted Pollack, after swingin' his black snake whip for eight hours, turns soft hearted after leaving gate 3. He is always on the job to help the other fellows get their cars started, before he leaves for home. He says Cassidy must have gremlins in his engine.

Phillip Wright, foreman of Building 10, is doing alright with his new Studebaker.

Spring soon will be here and Henry Risk will be hard at it with his Victory garden, chickens and oh, yes, the other side of the house must be painted. It is hoped he has the painting job finished by fall.

A sign in the change house reads: "An American soldier depends on you!" Tom Maher says: "He has for the last 20 years and may continue to do so. We haven't felt the load yet."

Joe Abraham, that super-super Government inspector, is always on the job looking for rejects. Nothing escapes that man inside or outside of the plant.

Every time Vern Worden seeks an Army enlistment station, they are closed for the day. He could sneak up on them at night. Warner Harrison is a new addition to electrical maintenance at Group 3. He will team up with Stanley Pearson of "no lady riders" fame.

"Kankakee" Laughlin has presented Uncle Sam with a new WAAC or WAVE, but Sam can't use same for about 20 years. Proud Papa, but no cigars.

Woody Koerner has developed a new method for keeping the baby quiet. Of course, George Weber is supposed to have offered some of his excellent suggestions to help the process.

When W. K. Hillenbrand heard that old campaign slogan, "A chicken in every pot, two cars in every garage and prosperity just around the corner," he said: "Yes, but with the meat shortage there should be a chicken coop in place of every garage."

Former Employees Ask for Mail

to Supt. James J. Murphy and Foreman Johnny Alo. Pvt. Rudolph M. Sackman, a second cook at Santa Monica, California, said he would appreciate letters from anyone at EOP.

"As assistant foreman of Building 13, Group 1," said Pvt. Nathan S. Cohen, now stationed at an Army air base at Reno, Nev., "the fellows told me they certainly would continue to carry on the good work which they had started, and from the looks of the way the war is going, I guess they have kept their promise."

"We in the armed forces realize and appreciate the tremendous task of production that such plants as EOP are accomplishing," wrote Ensign Robert S. Freeman from Bedford, Ind. "Such a contact with ordnance production as The Bomb-Shell is indeed a morale builder. We pledge that the enemy will know that EOP does exist—EOP products will do the talking. In every burst, they will tell of feats of production, of sweat and the tireless efforts of thousands of Americans dedicated to winning the war, of the millions and millions of shells and bombs yet to come."

Desolate in Florida

Pvt. Howard Burden, former foreman in Group 1, said he is now stationed in a desolate place in Florida and appreciates The Bomb-Shell as he would a stack of letters from home. He asked for letters from those in Buildings 5-A, 6 and 7, especially Harvey Barrett, inspector.

"I was a Government inspector at Group 64, shipping out——m.m. shells," wrote Pvt. John Dubrovich, Jr., from Camp Dunlap, Niland, Calif., "and now I am firing the —— m.m. howitzer guns." Pvt. William R. Hicks, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Aberdeen, Md., asked that his former associates on the 11:30-7:30 shift at Group 1, where he was an assistant foreman, write to him.

Myron Cobb, Group 1, sent in a photograph of his brother, Pvt. Cyrus F. Cobb, formerly of Inert Storage, now stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas. Mr. Cobb said two other brothers and a sister are employed here. Samuel Cobb is in Group 2. Erlan Cobb is in Inert Storage and Lucille Clements is at Group 3-A.

"May The Bomb-Shell continue to be successful and bring happy reading time to all, especially our boys in the service who eagerly look forward to news from home," wrote Mrs. H. Steffes, Route 1, Joliet, who sent a photograph of her brother, Pvt. Ben Cadwell, formerly of Group 1, now stationed at Camp Gordon, Georgia. Mrs. Steffes said her brother sent congratulations on the "E" award.

Others Also Write

Letters and cards also were received from Pvt. Fred Knop, New Orleans, La.; Pvt. Walter Simpson, Beltsville, Md.; Sgt. Floyd Huddleston, Selfridge Field, Michigan; Pvt. Melvin O. Warriner, Camp Livingston, Louisiana; Pvt. Ivan C. Nelson, Hammer Field, California; Glenn C. Schedeen, Davisville, R. I.; Robert G. Monson, Norman, Okla.; Cpl. R. C. Vignocchi, Camp Swift, Texas; Ralph H. Mallory, Fort Knox, Kentucky; Max Rieck, Dwight, Ill., who wrote in behalf of his son, Pvt. Everette Rieck, Camp Claiborne, Louisiana; Raymond J. Bartels, Camden, S. C.; Harry Stuckel, Ottumwa, Ia.; Pvt Frederick Sperling, Midland, Texas; Cpl. H. Fratz, Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri; Pvt. Leonard Todd, Camp Howze, Texas; Pvt. Chris J. Economos, Kansas City, Mo.; Pvt. Floyd Zebell, Camp Sibert, Alabama; Pvt. Joseph Gutierrez, Sheppard Field, Texas; Charles H. Yearick, Portsmouth, Va.; Pvt. Raymond F. Pratt, Camp White, Oregon; Lt. W. G. Grohne, Camp Blanding, Florida; John V. Roberts, New York City, N. Y.; Ensign R. Oldani, Lee Field, Florida; Pvt. Glenn M. Siemers, Tampa, Florida; Pvt. B. Klimek, San Diego, Calif.; Pvt. R. E. Allen, Camp Elliott, California; Pvt. Archie L. Sharp, San Angelo, Tex.; Pvt. Dennis Doyle, Selman Field, Louisiana; Cpl. Gordon Utley, Camp Bowie, Texas; Pvt. Bryant S. Brown, Camp Bowie, Texas; Mrs. Elizabeth Hightower, Kankakee, Ill., who wrote in behalf of her son, Pvt. Harry Hightower, Camp Livingston, Louisiana; Roy W. Carpenter, San Antonio, Tex.; Pvt. John Hines, Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, and Lucille A. Ambrose, Bronx, N. Y., EOP's first SPAR.

General Offices

ARLENE SCHLOENDORF
Correspondent

Orchids go to Dorothea Glaudell, who recently resigned from the Auditing Department and who was given a surprise farewell which started out to be a small, intimate party, but developed into quite a large and exhilarating affair. Those present voted it one of those things which starts spontaneously and usually ends up being a long-remembered and happy event. Her friends wanted to make sure she would remember them, so they gave her a beautiful matched traveling set. Her cheery personality will be missed from these "diggin's" by both the old timers and those of more recent origin.

Mary O'Connor's presence at work Saturday, February 27, was emphasized by a new fur coat—her absence from work the following Monday was necessitated by a new batch of measles.

Emalie Mueller and Arlene Thorson have been riding a different train every day in their imagination. They are leaving March 12 for Mississippi to visit two heart-throbs. Emalie will see friend hubby, and Arlene will see Wayne Sebby.

The WAACS were not what interested Helen Boling when she visited Des Moines, Ia.—her parents live there.

Word was received recently that George Buffleben, formerly in the Engineering Department before his transfer to Pine Bluff, Ark., is now located at Camp Paine, Washington. George was ill for some time, and has been transferred to so many camps that his Christmas card from someone at EOP reached him around February 24. He sends his best regards to friends here.

"Why doesn't he write," is what Frances Tomac asks every day. It seems that "Lou" (her boy friend), is a sergeant at Camp Wheeler, Georgia, and is located near a WAAC camp.

Hugh Thompson of W. F. Luehr's office, has a memory system all his own. On the wall he has a chart that reads "'Tis" and "'Taint." The words that prove to be stickers are listed as "'Tis" spelled and as "'Taint" spelled.

A newcomer to the office of G. B. Pumphrey, assistant comptroller, is Sophie Mores, who was transferred from Personnel. Barbara Melin was transferred to the position of secetary to Mr. Pumphrey when Virginia Krause Ray resigned.

Daniel Donegan, the wild Irishman, resigned from the Tabulating Department. He has returned to his home in Chicago because of ill health.

George "Pop" Poplausky is glad summer is nearly here. The car he rides in is occupied by a bunch of non-believers. They don't believe he should wear that hat any longer.

Harriet Wise resigned from the Tabulating Department March 6. Ethel Stevens of Wilmington took her place.

Margaret Fitzhugh of the Administration Building timekeepers was given a little surprise party by Mary Gliha, Wanda Hudak and Edith Lewis on her birthday, March 3. All wished her many happy returns of the day.

Large and small size inter-departmental envelopes were introduced throughout the plant this week. They are the type that can be re-used several times—another step in economizing in the war effort.

Bob McKeon's 1-A came due. Uncle Sam claimed him for service last week. The blueprint department is blue.

Harlan ("Mickey Front Gate") Grogan was sadly disappointed "E" day. He spent $2 to improve his appearance—ears set out, shampoo, shave, facial, shoes polished 'n' everything—and then when the color guard's photo was taken—where was Grogan — behind the flag pole.

"Measles" is the sign on Marg Forrest, Personnel, as of March 3.

Capt. John Watson, Air Corps, former legal advisor of this plant, visited here March 4 from Sedalia Army Air Field, Missouri. He is attached to the Troop Carrier Command. He congratulated the plant on winning the Army-Navy "E" flag.

It had been wondered why the boys in the Administration Building spruce up like Beau Brummels when it was realized that it could be nothing other than the change in guards, supervised by Sgt. Clare Cosgrove, now known as "Biddy." Some of the boys are even shaving twice a day. Hollywood's finest has nothing on these girls for looks and cannot duplicate them for efficiency.

People Least Mentioned: The janitors and janitresses in the Administration Building who work continuously day and nite to keep the building spic and span . . . the window washers who shine the windows to perfection . . . the messenger boy and girls who make countless trips upstairs and downstairs daily.

One of the happiest as well as busiest offices in the Administration Building is the timekeepers office to which R. L. Voss applied for membership. The new arrangement of desks is also a noted improvement. The Superintendent of Buildings and the Timekeping Department are now a very happy group.

Group 61

JOE MOTTA
Correspondent

Employees of Group 61 are patriotic and generous. They contribute to the Red Cross, to the Community Chest, buy War Bonds, and chipped in to buy your correspondent a haircut. Supt. P. L. Deylitz did a good job in teaching his pupils the value of helping out worthy causes, but the Boss doesn't know a good crop of hair when he sees one.

Gone but not forgotten is Jules Bunge, who has transferred to another group.

James Decker relates the following story; the names and places are supposed to be fictitious and any similarity to Group 61's building foreman, electrician, and assistant superintendent are purely coincidental:

"When Carlson and Anderson came over on the boat Bill Dooley met them. Instead of the traditional box saw and hammer, Anderson had a pair of pliers and a piece of bent wire and Carlson was carrying a transit."

Ray Carlson makes a habit of memorizing advertisements. Ray's latest is "you are always welcome at Walgreen's."

Beside being assistant superintendent, W. C. Miller also has talent in the literary field. His daily writings are something to look forward to even on these cold mornings.

Since Glenn Coppens brought his wife to Joliet from Green Bay, Wis., his disposition and work have improved considerably.

H. E. Barclay claims that he knows how to drive rivets. Some group employees are from Missouri, but Mr. Barclay didn't make an attempt to show them.

Norman Johnston and Virgil Jordon are looking forward to warm weather—cold hands being the reason.

Next time Harold Rouff wants four-minute eggs he should check on Lloyd Combs' culinary ability. Lloyd boiled a couple of eggs for two hours—probably waiting for the shells to become soft.

Frank Ariagno is known as "the cap shrinker." Every headgear that the little man washed won't fit a child.

"Who Killed Cadwell," is the name of a book and has no relation to fair-haired Asst. Supt. Howard Cadwell.

Elmer McCans would appreciate any information about cattle. Mr. McCans is in dead earnest to find sufficient information, about knot headed cows, to win a wager.

Leo Leser, high pan man, type 1, class 1-A, was given over to the Army Air Corps recently.

This time it isn't Gabriel, but Larry Baudino, blowing his horn. Mr. Baudino dusted off his old saxophone and has started to play again.

If the weather stays cold, Carl Sala might use that car of his to make ice cubes. He has a fresh batch of ice in his radiator every morning.

Ed Rashid has been trying to wean his car. It seems he has had little success with water.

"B-r-r, will winter never end," wonders Bea Bovee as she makes a mad dash from the clock house to the office every morning.

After a recent whirlwind shopping tour of Peoria, Miss Bovee and Marge Howerton report that that fair city is still intact.

Group 68

Latest report on the dances at the Lincoln Ballroom in Marseilles is—still big successes and going strong. It's been decided to branch off in order to accommodate the enormous crowds—the branch being the Ivy Way Gardens.

Another popular activity to be inaugurated April 1 is a skating rink—a big name orchestra is being sought for the opening night.

Someone should present Elmer Zost a book entitled "A Truck and How to Drive Such." Francis "Atlas" Monroe, with all his brawny strength, almost tore out the engine trying to start the truck—after pushing it quite a distance, Elmer discovered the motor had not been turned on.

Group 63

The rank and file of men in Group 63 was depleted further March 8, when two more faithful ammunition passers moved up closer to the front line where they will continue to pass more of the same. They are Robert Libertor and Bill Hall. They reported to Fort Sheridan. George Barr took his final examination before induction March 10. All of these men leave with best wishes.

A new member in the Inspection Department is Roy Pfeifer of New Lenox.

Wendell "Wilkie" Overacker, of Kankakee, a mainstay of the material checkers' staff, will leave in two weeks to take his final induction examination.

Another good reason for anticipating spring is due to Ed Suffern, inspector—maybe then he can be persuaded to get a crew haircut.

Paging all efficiency experts! Rex Thomas, foreman, needs advice on how to operate a 160 acre farm and maintain his present job. The income certainly would come in handy around March 15.

DRINKING WATER for the EOP Area is supplied by this deep well pump, the motor of which is being inspected by W. H. White, assistant electric superintendent.

WATER FOR EOP is treated in this building, some 70,000 gallons an hour. David L. Secrest is shown making a record of the hourly water check at the softening plant.

IT WON'T BE LONG until scenes like this again are familiar at EOP. Despite the rains, snows and winds of recent weeks, spring is not far away and once more departing employees in summer dresses and shirt sleeves will board homeward bound busses at the Administration Building.

Groups 4-9

Fuze-Booster-Primer and Detonator Lines

Group 4

Betty Boldan of Supt. T. J. Burn's office has another "code" in her head, nevertheless she's working.

According to Clare Hayden, Group 4 is not the same since Mary Lou McHale has been transferred. Ruth Westergard is home ill.

There were wedding bells for Loretta Clark, inspector, February 13.

Irene Patnaude is on the sick list due to a recent operation.

Marcella Hebert, "the little Irish miss," now in the office, watches the mail rather closely nowadays. Could it be because the boy friend writes occasionally—say every other day?

Harriet Porter and Lilla Clyne spent the weekend at Fort Des Moines where they visited former Group 4 employees, Betty Foster and Billie Burril, now of the WAACS.

Ethel Bierman, Component Room, reports that her son, Ray, is well and enjoying his Navy life in San Diego, Calif. Ray worked in Group 3-A before leaving for the Marines.

Jeanette Ward recently visited in Arizona where her boy friend is stationed.

Johnny Woods, foreman of 4-9, is the proud father of a daughter, Barbara Joan, born February 13.

Group 4 extends sympathy to Marge Nedelski, whose mother died recently.

Everyone welcomed Bernie McNamara back. Bernie returned to the group after several months' absence.

Chemical Lab

John "Papa" Woods, Bill "Freddie" Wheeler and Britton "Flash" Palmateer have gone in the razor blade, shoe string and button business—and cork eggs from Timekeeper Grant Stitt.

"Sweetie Pie" Noble is busy attending spaghetti dinners.

"Wild Bill" Watt isn't going to be hungry. He's raising rabbits and chickens.

EOP was well represented at the Rolleratarum the night of March 3. Seems like Dorothy Williamson was having a wonderful time. She didn't even want to go home. Hmm— Eleanor Peronciak seemed to be having quite a bit of trouble.

Lorraine Papach spent a week in Georgia at Camp Gordon visiting her husband. While there she had some of that famous "Southern fried" chicken, but she said she'd rather eat Northern fried.

Letters have been coming in from the WAAC Center at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, from Miss Burrill and Miss Foster. They report they like Army life a lot. They are getting hard work and drilling and plenty to eat. The girls would like to hear from their friends here.

Group 6

Everyone is glad Willie Vail got his pretty little green ear muffs to keep him warm.

Group 7

Group 7 has one of the smallest girl operators in the area in the person of Katherine Sinkular, who is 4 feet 8 inches tall. You guessed it, her boy friend is over 6 feet tall.

John Meinert and Clarence DeFrees left March 10 for the armed forces. The former is reporting to the Army and the latter to the Navy.

Group 8

Elmer "Dusty" Hinds, basketball playing assistant chemist 8-8 testing laboratory, lost to the Army on a 1-A decision by the local board referees.

Tillie Borghette traded her braids for a new Victory bob.

The "Quiz Kids" from Black Powder loading hope they will be asked to appear on the air waves.

Forelady Christine Leser's son, Leo S., left February 22 to enter the Army Air Corps at Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, Tex. This is her third son to join the armed forces.

Veronica Vilt's husband was home on furlough from the Army. He is stationed in California.

Alice Krzivh, Building 8, is back to work after a long spell of illness.

Norma Castle, inspector, has received word her boy-friend has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army. They say the bars mean bills.

Judy Fusco, inspector, has a new heart throb from Aurora. Spring has sprung.

Shirley Magosky, inspector, recently became engaged to Laverne Dains of Joliet, who is leaving for the Army.

Buck Weese, Building 8, received a birthday cake from Ann Princko and Deloris Motschall with 72 candles and a copy of Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Bus Transportation
By Margie Stevens

James Doran and Seveno Leggero never tire of the "scavenger" run.

The two girls who have joined the conductors' staff are Maxine Hozel and Marion Long.

Deepest sympathy is extended to Margie Stevens, whose mother died recently.

Cigars were passed around the Bus Depot by Ray Provance, the proud father of a daughter born February 6. Also, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Crook March 2.

It is nice having Ira Smith, better known as Smitty to his friends, back from the Army driving EOP buses again.

Bert Painter walked right out of his shoes while walking across the parking lot one of those nice warm days!

Telephone Tid-Bits
By Elaine Christman

Supt. W. A. Buck was host at his residence on the reservation February 26 for the men employees of the Telephone Building. A good time was enjoyed by everyone present.

Art Green celebrated his 25th wedding anniversary February 20. Alfred Emiley and family were present at the celebration.

Frank Kuechenmeister spent a weekend at his summer home north of Chicago and found it mighty, mighty cold.

Pipe Shop News
By Mary Wynne

The Pipe Shop office personnel were carrying on a lively conversation about lipstick which was all well and good until Joe Mills wrote "lipstick" on his inventory report instead of "gate valve."

Comments overheard after the Pipe Shop dance held at Midway Inn February 18: "The food was super deluxe"—Bill Sexton; "You should have been there"—Buck Dale; "Oo my widda head"—Tom French, and "Why don't we do this more often?"—everyone who attended.

Gordon Stratton has his own theories about a few "office plutocrats" who do not stand in line at night to clock out.

Motor Pool Memos
By Frank Kern

Flu symptoms seem to have hit the Motor Pool hard—the victims—Zelda Boyd, Jack Knarr, Lucille McCabe and Marie Armstrong.

Olive McDonald is hoping for warmer weather. Her shoes are worn out and her shoe stamp is gone.

While Jack is on the sick list, William Hatting is handling all "Mr. Anthony" affairs of the Motor Pool.

It soon will be "curtains" for Dorothy Bick if food rationing continues.

New self-appointed superintendent of gas and air is Dick Roeder.

Sheet Metal Scraps
By Jess Thomas

John Hanson, home on furlough and looking very fit, stopped in at the shop to see the boys. John is in the Navy and stationed at Davisville, R. I.

Dan Haines, sheet metal worker assigned to Group 2, resigned to take up farming and has been replaced by Chester Davito.

Mrs. Mattie Louis Koch, wife of Otto Koch, was a winner of a $100 War Bond at a Wilmington theatre.

Line Department Lines
By Ray Curtis

W. C. Frieling, formerly of Group 3-A, has been added to the Line Department roster.

Web Willows, one of the "old-timers" with this department, has been called for his Army physical. It may be "so long" for the duration for Web.

Tears, so much in evidence around the Women Guard Headquarters, are being shed because "Battling" John Wagner has left the U.S.A. for foreign parts unknown.

Electric Shop
By Ben Webster

Robert Baskerville, truck driver for the Electric Shop, has begun his turn for Uncle Sam. He is well qualified to pilot anything that burrows or leaps, as he so ably demonstrated before EOP was blessed with black-top roads.

Raymond Dracca, lightning rod specialist, chose Uncle Sam's Navy as the best place to serve. The "rods" are bigger there and are not made for "receiving only."

Round House
By Jim Thompson

Farewells were said to Richard Norris, who severed connections here for a new field.

Fellow workers extend wishes for a speedy recovery to William Ellinger, who is ill at St. Joseph Hospital.

Building Maintenance
By John Bottary

Bill Piontkowsky and John McGraw have been vying for the front seat of the station wagon on their morning drives to Group 61 since the advent of women drivers.

The gremlins played a prank on Frank Roemer by putting disappearing ink in the time clock at the exact instant he punched his card.

It is understood that Alfred Davison encountered difficulties entering the Plant—without a badge!

Service Garage Spares
By Russel E. Benway

Now that Walter H. Murphy has joined the Navy, the Thursday Night Club will have to elect a new president. Being a "live-wire" is the principal qualification for prexy. Original members of this unique club are Blanchard "Boots" Shepherd, Glenn "Porky" Bitterman, Joseph "Jojo" Szwaja and Walter "The Great Informer" Knupp.

Jim Welhelmi wants to know how long it takes to become a general in the Army after he gets drafted. Such modesty!

It seems that Bob Cleghorn is now making the most trips to the laundry. His alibi is a good one—seat covers for sedans must be sewed in Francis Walsh's inner sanctum.

Many wonder why Mr. Bitterman, Bill Booker, Sylvester Learned and Paul Swisshelm do not wear their "E" pins?

Excerpts from Walter E. Sheridan's current Personnel Dictionary: Production—Clarence Weidemann; Keep 'Em Rolling—June Wood; OPA—Ralph Groll; Point System—John Enrietta; Emergency—Remmel Rogers; Second Front—Marvin Christensen; Ration—William Briddick; Convoy—Eugene Gorski; Non-Essential—Reckless Drivers; Submarine—Angelo Calcaterra; ODT—Frank Kern; Pay-as-You-Go—Mark Livingston; Lend-Lease—S. J. Kukulski.

Did you know that: Jim Hatz keeps a ferocious dog at home to protect his beautiful wife . . . Sgt. Earl Goodknecht of the Guards is a good customer . . . Ray "Jackrabbit" McCoy is training for the Army with his boyhood "BB" gun . . . Jean Ann Evans is the latest feminine addition to the office force . . . Paul Bud Wood's hobby is cooking, and Eleanor O'Keefe's is sailors . . . Bob St. John has a vast collection of S-R and M-W mail order catalogs . . . Louis Calcaterra, Clarence Murphy and others threaten to join the Army if food rationing continues to become more threatening?

Radio Ramblings
By Kathryn Richardson

Someone in the radio shop apparently heard that the well dressed man would be wearing blue this year. Oh, but it didn't mean paint, did it? No one seems to know a thing about it and curiosity is killing.

It is good to see Ken Storch back on the job. Ken was under a physician's care for a week but again is feeling mighty chipper.

Larry Jack appeared on the scene the other day wearing dark glasses. Larry had been on the night shift and according to him—carrots played a big part in his diet. This daylight is a shock to his eyesight he explained and the carrots help one to see in the dark. He always carries one in case of a blackout.

Beverly Ashley reports that she is going to raise chickens this year. "Razzberries," said Merle Eberhart. "Well then, maybe razzberries," retorted Bev.

A defenseless little squirrel found its way into the radio shop a few weeks back and has since made its home there. Everything was peaceful until he had a fight with an electric fan. Most learn by JOKING ASIDE, those who almost have given up hope that winter will ever end are assured that summer always comes. This photograph, taken in front of the EOP Hospital, is proof that there are days here when overcoats, scarves and galoshes are wholly unnecessary.

Vi Wheeler and Lois Martin, having heard some wild tales about Coal City, visited Betty Ross hoping to find out if they were so . . . seems they picked the wrong night . . . not a soul in town.

Helen Boula's one gal who isn't worried about food rationing . . . she's well supplied with chickens, milk and eggs and p-l-e-n-t-y of ground for planting a Victory garden.

If you want to see Stan Eisler's face turn color, ask him about the $2.06 roast pork dinner he had with Lt. Sol. Jacobs.

Gerry Ward has transfered to the office of Lt. R. E. Pinnick in Safety and Security.

Carl Anker left for the armed forces and Clara Brennan has assumed his duties.

If you want to know anything about civil aeronautics ask Esther Noffke — she's in the "know" about it.

Evan Lewis and Basil Steinhoff are a welcome sight at the office at any time . . . it usually means a "coke party."

Have you noticed: The glamour gal hair-do's on Bernice Shroba, Penny Dagon, Linnetta Parry and Miss Brennan — Ethel Dirker's capacity for food—the steady nerves of Catherine Tomlianovich —how pleasant it is to work with Clara Wehner?

F & B Chem. Lab

W. H. Peterson visited the Arkansas Ordnance Plant in Jacksonville, Ark., February 15 and 16.

It's just been discovered that Robert Harbison's car is two-toned grey. It had its annual bath recently.

Gladys Cain scraped the mud of Group 9 from her feet recently and moved her baggage to the Chemical Lab.

Want to buy tomorrow's eggs today? Get in touch with Harriet Nadelhoffer.

Marie Plankar has returned to work after enjoying a vacation because "Johnny came marching home again."

Group 61

Marion Carter became the proud father of a daughter March 2.

Group 3-A

Paul Smith, assistant chief inspector, sure knows how to hang baby clothes!

Uncle Sam called Robert Potter to help win this war.

F. J. Kraft and D. E. Grimshaw were transferred to Group 3.

Anna Bates, Minnetta Arter and Irene Allison are known as "The Three Musketeers."

Anna Mae Harvey is the mascot of Irv Slutsky's shift. Ted Rhode is so good to all the girls that they gave him the name of "Daddy." Basil Steinhoff has a weakness for pencil stubs—a decent sized pencil doesn't have a chance any more.

Melvin Dugan, assistant chief inspector, is back after a very short illness—extremely bad cold and laryngitis had him down for a little bit, but not for long—his voice is still known to squeak at inopportune moments.

Ruth Capanash recently left to join her husband in Tennessee . . . according to word from Ruth everything's just wonderful.

It is suspected—Helen Biernat is dieting—an apple for lunch and rushing home weakly—to a full-fledged "Diamond Jim Brady" with all the trimmings . . . that Aurdrey Waldvogel's interest in Group 2 goes further than ammunition . . . Sylvia Nielson is the prettiest inspector in Group 7.

Familiar sights: Lucille Weber and a hue hairbow—Edith Senesac's perfect fingernails — Bob Cretcher lugging his favorite box around — to test ballistics, of course—Bill Proudley always in a hurry, and Sylvia Nielson never, never that way—Cathy Cyphers and her smile and dimples—Mary Pomykala having a good laugh over some quip she'd just heard.

Signs of Spring as seen by Elinor Gudath: So Spring is here! Proof?—the corner office thermometer registering a cool 67 degrees, about 10 degrees higher than it has all winter—Helen Zivic with a sprained ankle, probably from kicking her heels from joy of living—thickest proof of all is the Miles of mud to slop through daily.

Group 6

Elizabeth Button has plenty of trouble getting her car out of the muddy parking lot at Gate 8.

Many wonder why Dorothy Haag didn't go to Rantoul February 22 . . . couldn't be that she was afraid of the "big bad wolf!"

Lorraine Barger's boy friend left for the Navy.

Gertrude Collins is wished a speedy recovery from her illness.

Mary Cucos, recently transferred to 3-A, writes that she is very pleased with her new job. Ruth Phillips has returned to Group 7 after spending a few weeks here.

It is recommended that Margaret Carter get a hunting license before she again starts to play with her husband's revolver . . . luckily the dog was under the table so the bullet found its mark in the wall instead. Now Margaret is convinced the gun was really l-o-a-d-e-d.

Group 9

Marion Westcott has truly begun dieting . . . she accepts only a "little" offering from each lunch pail now.

Wally Zukowski is now serving in the Navy Reserves and is stationed in New York City.

E. J. Nemanich has "an added attraction" in a little frame on his desk.

Alice Ward has been traveling to Chicago quite often lately—going "big city."

From June Morgan comes the latest bit of advice, but you'll have to supply the imagination as Helen Bardi did. Helen was searching for a letter that she has mislaid when June suggested, "Loose the wolves, er—I mean greyhounds, like I do." Of course, everyone in the room realized that she meant bloodhounds, but it was fully two minutes before she could state that fact clearly, and the letter had been found long before the hint could be rephrased.

Maurice Evans has a new treatment to propose to the medical world. As he walked down the hall several days ago, he was striking the back of his head with the side of his hand. Now this presented a strange spectacle and evoked considerable comment. In defense he explained that having forgotten his glasses, he was troubled by a dull headache and the jarring helped. That's his story and he doesn't seem inclined to change it.

Bernice "Barney" Keenan is doing a little rationalizing these days. Since she's decided that she should diet (though everyone has tried to discourage her) she's been bringing less in her lunch each day. It was one day last week that she reached the peak when she brought only half a sandwich, no fruit, and then sneaked a piece of luscious, home-made, chocolate cake. When she boldly consumed this treat, she explained that it was only a very small piece and that soon she hoped to change it to a piece of fruit.

Charging out of the examination room, Dr. I. W. Madura practically knocked a man down. Startled to find a man standing quietly outside his door, "Doc" exclaimed, "Well, are you just visiting or do you want to come in?"

When Kathryn "Katie" Smith returned to work after being quarantined with her adorable son, she told Audrey Deiss that Jimmy-Boy was fine, except, of course, he still had his leg in the cast. Audrey, who is always teasing someone and will patiently explain that black is white—if you're credible enough to listen—was nonplussed. A short while later she asked how he broke his leg and if it bothered him very much. This was more than "Katie" could stand, and she burst out laughing while Audrey admitted a little sheepishly that she guessed she was caught at one of her own tricks.

Helen Bardi courteously inquired of two men who approached the door of her office if she could help them. The taller of the two dignified men responded, "Well, we just wanted to know a few facts. We were told to ask for Miss Bardi, and if you are she, we would like to know if you bake your own pies or what?" Even Helen was taken aback but soon recovered her poise and clarified the man's case. He was from a baking company and wanted to sell pies to the commissary.

Those first few days of spring weather the last of February affected everyone, and several of the girls mentioned spring with birds and flowers, the moon and a lonely lane, but L. D. Edwards was the first to show symptoms of spring fever. Early one morning he was standing, or rather leaning, against the door frame gazing out over the grass that will be green someday. When someone approached, he was heard to remark that it looked nicer outside than it was inside Since the cold wave returned, the southern gentleman doesn't yearn over the out of doors.

Reports are being hushed about the building that the girls in the Personnel Department are true sportswomen. Betty Benedict, who declares that she is only learning to bowl, rolled a game totalling 183 pins just recently. If she continues her present rate of improvement, she'll have earned a champion's rating within a few weeks. In the tennis world—Lucille Venzara won the title in the Will County tournament just about two years ago. She insists that she doesn't play at all any more, but there are some hardy souls who hope to challenge her during the approaching season.

To Vivian Jones, it doesn't make a particle of difference whether it is her birthday or not, she can fall just as gracefully on that day as the next. Of course, if you mentioned the fact to her, she would probably say it was wind that blew the brim of her hat in front of her eyes when she turned to see what was detaining Helen DeLach, and not the particular occasion. Net results were: one pair of stockings, which had been new, with a hole in each knee, two knees from which the skin had been scraped, two red hands where the orange methiolate spilled, and more than two laughing persons.

While you're laughing, you might as well join James Forrest in one of the heartiest laughs of the season, 'cause his wife Marge was sent home yesterday morning with symptoms of the measles. When she called to tell him the news, he just couldn't restrain himself. Poor Marge, everybody she told followed his example. In all fairness, it must be added that after his first burst of laughter, his solicitude was all and more than could be desired.

Cold stares greeted Cora Adelman when she entered the rest room one noon. Not a word was spoken and then Lorraine Nichols began to laugh. Laugh — she giggled and tittered until the tears were running down her cheeks. Finally Cora could stand it no longer and volunteered to leave if she were interrupting something. Then Lorraine turned around with a warning to Rita Cooney, "Don't look at me," while Margaret "Dolly" Lundquist and Patricia Carlos joined her, beginning to snicker. It was all a plot to undermine the morale and the scheme was to stop talking abruptly as soon as anyone entered the room, just to discover how she would react.

Selma Brown is mourning for May. May is her trusty car which she's been driving to work every day and is nicknamed for "maybe she will and maybe she won't." It seems that after rounding a curve, May had to make a choice whether to try to buck four cows in the middle of the road, two on the left or one in the ditch. She drove right into the ditch, chased down the single one and made contact. After everything had quieted down, like the pig, the cow "got up and slowly walked away." Not equally fortunate was May, however, as she's been convalescing in the garage for several days.

Champion of the blunders for the week has been claimed by Marcella Burnham. Describing a small boy in a comedy she was comparing notes with one of the other girls when the companion added, "And he was always reciting poetry." "That's right, and he said poems, too," was Marcella's contribution.

Cigars and chocolates have been passed about the building by none other than Maurice Evans. It's a fine, healthy boy weighing more than seven pounds. Father is coming along nicely.

The Three Musketeers, John Nelson, John Whalen and Lee Noberg come rolling in each day in a chariot driven by Joe Gardinia.

Dominick Astorino read an article that reported snow never falls on 70 per cent of the earth's surface. That was easy for him to understand, as he believes it all fell in this vicinity.

Earl Fick claims the statesman of the future will not boast that he was born in a log cabin. He will begin his autobiography: "My people were a one-car family with an 'A' card."

Cap Eads saws his new neighbors' children. The boy is the picture of his father. And the girl is the talkie of her mother.

William Keenan and Jack De Vore are the two most sober men in the area. They are always on the water wagon (M. E. 1720).

Art Voss has found a safe place in the event of an air raid. He found this note on a slot machine: "In case of an air raid stand next to this machine. No one has ever hit it."

Edward Girot left this department to join the Army.

their mistakes as "Bushy" found out.

Members of the Radio Department and their guests enjoyed a pleasant house warming party at Kathryn Richardson's in Wilmington recently.

Here and There

George C. Ricketts, train dispatcher, became ill suddenly at work March 3 and was removed to the Silver Cross Hospital, where his condition is reported as favorable.

Leona Hagen, formerly of Personnel and later with Utilities, left to become associated with Dr. D. H. Hoge, Joliet.

CLERICAL WORK in the Fire Department and with the fire inspectors is being assumed by girls. Among the first is this group. Shown left to right are Harriet Knight, Ellen Dill, Molly Mahoney, Henrietta McBride and Helen Gahagan.

Marty Knowles, fire inspector, who was stationed in the Administration Area for a year, was inducted recently, but in his ever quiet manner impressed the Navy into selecting him. Marty is now in the Cee-Bees (Construction Battalions) of the Navy, making good use of the pipe-fitting skills gained from his Dad, who has been a plumbing contractor in Chicago for years. The whole department wishes Marty Godspeed and good luck.

Willie "The Professor" Atwood, fire inspector, left for the Merchant Marine, his old stamping grounds. He promised to send back a mermaid for a pet if the boys will construct a water tank in the back yard. All wish him the best of luck on his way to Murmansk or to wherever his ship sails.

It was noticed February 18 by the Number 3 shift that the dog at Station 3 was appearing scrawnier every day. Finally the mystery was solved when some food scraps intended for the dog never reached the poor fellow. George Rogina and his cohorts, Len Anderson, Ralph Batty, Bert Benson, Marion Murawski, Ted Kloeckner, Norm Heath, John Davis, Tom Downey, Al Roth, Don Barnett and Lloyd Rector decided that the food was too rich for the dog and disposed of it themselves. However, they were kind enough not to eat the dog, who is even scrawnier now. The dog has been renamed "Gandhi."

The Fire Department Dribblers —the apple of the department's eye—are drilling overtime under the direction of Loris "Candy" Hart, fire inspector, in preparation for the basketball tournament. Stress has been placed on secret plays and formations (Hart scouted the U. of I. a few weeks ago). Thus far, assignments call for Joe "Stretch" Catalani at center, "Candy" and Larry Dailey in the forward spots, and Ed Dickens and Eddie Striklin in the guard positions. Harry Neilson will stand by in case of an emergency, such as being the sixth man on the floor when the referee isn't looking.

The Dribblers planned to ask E. L. Walkup if they could insert their own specially trained referees into the games, but, after due consideration, the suggestion was tabled. With it went the last hope of the Dribblers.

When George "Gutter-Ball" Philip and Al "No Pins" Penn spend an evening at the bowling alleys, strange events take place. The spectators think the boys are having a bocci ball session. Penn was asked about the final score and said something about "4-love."

Chief Roy Mortenson (wishing a new polish on his desk) asked John "Fibber" McGee to simonize that useful article. Fibber, the urchin, said, "Chief, if it's Johnson's Wax, aye; if anything else, nay."

William "Banker's Hours" Bolton rushed into the Central Fire Station screaming "Whoops—Eureka!" When he was finally lassoed, searched and questioned his schedule read 6-8:30 shifts.

The lovelorn can lay all their problems at the dancing feet of Donnie "The Lovah" Jones.

Anyone having a slightly used compass can find a buyer in Ed "Where Am I" Markstrom.

Sgt. James Dillree looked at the new fire inspector as he reported for work and bellowed, "You should have been here at roll call at the change of shifts." The Inspector looked puzzled and answered, "Why, what happened then?"

The boys at Station 1 would like to know how Orvil Milton drives that cracker box jeep of his to Champaign from Pontiac in one hour and 30 minutes. If anyone would like to learn how to roller skate, please get in touch with "Smokey." Smokey sure keeps the boys at the station entertained with those tall yarns of his.

The lesser light of the Fire Department corresponding duo has been given undeserved credit for some darn clever copy that hits The Bomb-Shell under the name of "Scorchy." As much as glory would like to be claimed for those gratifying gems, in all fairness, a statement must be made, and called to the august attention of such swell guys as John O'Connell, Tom Singer, George Becker and Milton Treitel, who have kept the Central Fire Station filled with gardenias and orchids, believing this place to be the source of much classy copy from the pen of "Scorchy." Comes this honest denial—"We are not Scorchy; we do not know Scorchy—but if we did, we would try to enlist his talents in helping us prepare our column."

Carl Gebhardt has always been proud that he has never been ill from smoking cigars. But it so happened that one of his buddies gave him one and he hasn't felt well for a couple of days. He wont admit it was the cigar.

Great was the elation among the stalwart members of Sgt. Joseph Chavez's shift when they peered into the "little red colored wagon" (Group 3 truck) and learned that what they saw was no mirage, but real seats, which had been removed several days ago to renovate the truck.

The Guards of Group 3 on Sergeant Chavez's shift went over with a bang in making a 100 per cent contribution to the Red Cross War Fund.

Condolences were sympathetically given by Group 3 guards to Harry Bloomquist and Prentice Antle, guards. Fathers of both men died recently and two beautiful floral wreaths were sent.

Robert Hard said he can tell when the themometer hits zero merely by observing Robert Jennings' shawl. The shawl is always present on the cold mornings.

Howard Gill's uncle died recently. All the boys offer their sympathy.

It looks like Spring is just around the corner, for Lt. Joseph Noel and Stanley Safiran are shining their fishing tackle.

Corp. Albert W. Frankovich, MP division, U. S. Army, now stationed at Fort Custer, Michigan, spent February 21 in Joliet with his relatives and friends. His time being limited, he asked to be remembered to his many friends on the EOP guard force. Frankovich was a former Lieutenant here.

Frank Porterfield received a letter from his son, Sgt. Bud Porterfield, reporting that Elwood Ordnance Plant is very definitely represented in the Middle East.

D. F. Harrelson, son of Lt. Frank Harrelson, and a former employee at Group 3, is now in training at Great Lakes Naval Station. Also the sons of Lt. John Sullivan and Lt. Noel entered the service recently.

Howard W. Maxim, son of John Maxim, is reported dropping his share of bombs on Germany, according to latest news.

Sgt. Peter Lazar isn't worrying much about rationing as yet. However, when they start rationing snuff he may be perturbed.

Evidently your reporter is slipping, as there seems to be some type of a race going on among the Groups. However, reports reach Headquarters that Cecil Godbey, Group 2, is one up on Guard Maxim, Group 3-A. It is possible that further information may be obtained from Sgts. Louis Hedstrom and Foster Jarvis.

DEACON is what many call popular Jim Grady of the Recreation Department. Jim obligingly posed for this picture to illustrate his nickname. He is known to all softball and baseball players at EOP and at present is hard at work helping Director E. L. Walkup get plans ready for the 1943 season.

Joyce Olson has bought a new dog. Many think it is a ruse he is employing to keep himself out of the dog-house.

Edwin Legg said he is going to do a little farming this year. His equipment so far consists of two acres of top-grade soil, two burly hogs, one meek cow and 400 baby chicks. Poor Mrs. Legg!

The boys at Group 2 want to know if it is the old oaken bucket or just "Buck at Gate 4, Group 2." (Telephone address.)

Old ME-2771, the faithful truck, which is commonly referred to as the "Meat Wagon" because it hauls the men to and from their posts, has been remodeled and painted. Two wise-crackers were overheard as they viewed its renovation job. One remarked, "It looks like a coffin now." The other responded, "It ought to, most of you fellows are half-asleep when you go out in it, anyway."

Speaking of coffins, it is reported Lieutenant Harrelson is driving a reasonable facsimile of a hearse around the area.

Group 2 guards are anxious to know if Elbert "Panel Kid" Lemley has any startling news about his four-day vacation in southern Illinois.

Glendon Lade's 4 - year - old daughter, who fell from a window and suffered a broken leg, has returned to her Wilmington home after complete recovery at a Joliet hospital. Guard Lade has been in much better spirit since her return home.

John Coumbes and Simpson Garrett have been assigned to Group 2. Sergeant Jarvis and his men gave them a cordial welcome.

The one big reason Carl Graham is always anxious to work the day shift is because it gives him an opportunity to hear his favorite news commentator, Cal Tinney.

Amidst a salvo of farewells such as, "so long boy—good luck, fellow—be seeing you around," and many others, good-bye was said to John Pete Fleming.

Starting here in early construction days, he literally grew up with Group 2, transferring to operations July 1, 1941. His ability, efficiency and competency will be sadly missed by all.

Supt. James J. Murphy, Asst. Supts. Gene Hunt, John H. Johnson, and John Kelahan and all Group 2 personnel join in wishing Pete success and good luck in his return to farming.

"We Rent 'Em—You Push 'Em Baby Co."—that's the latest on Robert "Purdue" Case of Building 12. Bob, in possession of one buggy now, is attempting to obtain eleven more. His plan to rent all eleven until such time as his own family needs have to be met has drawn much comment here. The boys of Building 12 asked that an advertisement be placed in The Bomb-Shell to help the cause along.

Robert Rutherford writes, "I now wear an Army uniform instead of EOP coveralls. Keep 'em rolling, boys." He added that Army life has been swell so far and asked to be remembered to all the boys.

Daniel Vicini and Andy Plym are reported to have been pounding the sidewalks on Collins Street and some of the fellows wonder why.

Nurse Beatrice Merrick reported her hubby, Lee Merrick, is now with Uncle Sam's armed forces at Camp McKain, Mississippi. The climate should agree with Lee as well as the good "ole Southern" hospitality.

William "Jersey" Klegman with pencils behind both ears attempting to do some clerical work is one of those things which just can't be believed.

Letters have been received with pleasure from two former workers, James Noblitt, stationed at Camp Howze, Texas, and William "Atlas" Rogers, stationed with the Army Air Corps in San Antonio, Tex.

Some of the boys have questioned Jerry Phelan about a pretty nurse living near Seneca. He is reported to be carrying the well known "torch."

Robert "Tiny" Conroy, weight and measure man, has a terrible time trying to keep water in a bomb split. One of the reasons the water was evaporating so quickly was a small crack in the split itself. So the story goes anyway.

Another item of interest comes from Building 12 and concerns none other than George "Speed Merchant" Williams, known as a crack radio salesman and sharpshooter. George, it seems, has transferred to Building 3, leaving many sad hearts, especially James Falbo, who bemoans the fact whenever any one mentions it.

Other farewells were to Melvin Roach and Charles Gaby, timekeepers, who have transferred to Group 3 and Group 61, respectively. Mel, they say, has been quite sick and all wish him a speedy recovery.

For some interesting literature contact Clerk Robert McCleary at this group. Bob has an endless amount of some very absorbing reading matter.

Gridley "Paper Hanger" Wheeler has asked to be assigned to the midnight shift permanently. Everyone wonders why he asked for this assignment.

Ask Eugene Carter or William Kelsey to tell you about Frank Zabor putting his foot in the water pan last week. Frank was putting some screens up in the superintendent's office when the foot soaking took place.

There is a wild rumor that Don Carlson cannot keep ahead bumming cigarettes. It wasn't so bad when he had only himself to supply, but he just cannot keep up when he has to provide for John "Nate" Johnson, too. Johnson's motto is, "You bum 'em—I'll smoke 'em."

Charles "Cowboy" Brewer, an honor student in the afternoon first aid class, has a hard time finding some one on whom to practice. If you would see "Cowboy" fold a "sarong" and try to apply it, you would wonder if he were practicing his homework or putting on a hip bandage. "Cowboy" is never without an answer for the instructor.

Leo Bell, a young fellow, but still an old timer here, is now a member of Uncle Sam's armed forces. Leo hasn't been gone long, but is sure missed by all who knew him. Leo started here early in construction days, December, 1940, and came into loading operations in September, 1941. Everyone wishes Leo the best of luck, and all await a letter or card.

Archie "On the Wagon" LeBorence reports he is going to take a long rest after the bowling season. Arch has been kept busy rolling up good scores. Maybe after the season is over and the softball season starts, Archie will not want to sell his house trailer. If anyone is interested in that trailer he should contact him before the start of softball season, because Archie uses it frequently at that time of the year.

Dan Obrien of Building 4 has donated generously to the Red Cross and, with a broad smile, said, "What's the difference, if I go home "Bonnie" will just take the dough away from me anyway."

There is no end to the tales of Carter White, Building 12. All day long he talks about the Flying Ford. It's a Ford, all right, but it was difficult to find out about the flying part. It was finally learned that he makes model airplanes.

John Ala, Building 16, has all of his boys tipped off, not to give out information to anyone connected with The Bomb-Shell. Ray Forsythe wanted to report a story, but looked at John, and then said he might give with a little story next time.

Tom Ryan, Building 12, is not an Irishman, but is the champion euchre player in Morris, Ill.

Clifford Ashley, Building 12, is keeping the boys in the dark about his passenger. They want to know if "she" is his wife or his sister.

Lemon Pie

1 Cup Sugar mixed with 4 level tablespoons cornstarch.

¼ Teaspoon Salt.

¼ Cup cold water added to sugar, cornstarch and salt to make a smooth paste.

Boil 1 cup water separately. Add to first mixture and cook 3 minutes. Add piece of butter the size of a walnut.

Grate rind of 1 lemon and use the juice. Use 2 or 3 eggs. Separate yolks from whites. Beat yolks with lemon juice and rind with a fork. Add yolks and lemon to cornstarch mixture and cook for 3 minutes. Cool and put in baked pastry shell. Cover with meringue and bake in moderate oven (350°) until well browned which requires approximately 12 minutes.

HELEN McGINNIS
Correspondent

The life of a columnist is one of ups and downs . . . each time the issue comes out a guy worries until all of them have been delivered . . . afraid to walk down the hall for a couple of days . . . but the latest is that this column has been likened to one that appears in a big city sheet . . . it could be complimentary, but coming from J. Thomas Haigh, he of the marrying Haighs . . . it can't be taken too seriously . . . however, it has been suggested that the title "Everything goes when the wagon comes" . . . be used as a slogan . . . the rest is for your imagination.

Suppose you know that Helen Harmon of Payroll is about to become a draft widow . . . yep . . . Uncle Sam is about to grab off the B. F. . . . Bill Dockendorf by name . . . suppose that accounts for the sad expression in her blue eyes come these mornings.

Charlotte Matheny has been having quite a time these days . . . her soldier husband is about to enter officers training and Char can hardly wait for those gold bars.

If you are in the market for the latest in publications . . . see Charles Di Lorenzo, he's the boy who can give them to you.

Dick Nemanich is now answering to the familiar sound of "Daddy" . . . he has a brand new son. Phil Hahn is one of the nicest guys you'd want to know . . . always there with a smile . . . and willing to help . . . By the way . . . Phil and Johnny Odchodinicky have a bet on . . . to see who first will acquire the parental name of "Papa."

Have you heard . . . Capt. A. G. Resch, Ordnance Inspection . . . is an expert omelet maker . . . He has the recipe and will be glad to demonstrate his ability by appointment.

Got info about Ralph Clutts and Bill Perkins . . . Ralph is at Camp White, Oregon, and Bill at Aberdeen Proving Grounds . . . Both say they like the Army but miss good old EOP.

Ain't love grand???? . . . Hazel Kossak got a dozen red roses from hubby, Art, t'other day . . . He is in the Army, but didn't forget their six-month anniversary.

Betty Wilhelmi certainly will cast her vote for the guys who invented that three-day pass thing . . . twice in a row . . . two weekends.

Shirley Gersich is a cutie pie, no? . . . she can make heads turn in the proper direction when she walks in a room.

If you'd like to see a good representation of Love in Bloom . . . take a gander in the direction of Margaret Jesberger . . . She's got that stuff and his monicker is "Tony" Haffner?? . . . Many wonder when that sparkler on the proper finger will be polished off by the "all important" round ring!

Along the romance road. . . . Evelyn Dix has made a trip to the Army . . . yep, 'tis a nice guy by the name of Lt. Virgil Long.

See where Carl Anker is now wearing that familiar olive drab . . . yep, frans, he's in the Army now.

Off the record . . . have you heard that they call Jim Pavel the "Man with the Glasses"? so far that is all the dope on it . . . but full info has been promised by next time.

At last that cute bundle of dynamite in the Payroll Audit section . . . Elaine Levanduski has shown the "weaker sex" how to act in an emergency. . . . Since the men are so scare in the vicinity . . . she has hied herself to "Old McDonald's Farm." . . . Boy . . . will the cows have a break with all that glamour about!

John Gravelot, Jr., has the nicest eyes? . . . Got a very good chance to look 'em over the other day . . . besides that he's got a wonderful sense of humor.

Mary Lou Schwartz of Mail and Record is sure burning up the midnight oil and Uncle Sam's postal service . . . the reason:—Her big hubby is in the Army down California way.

Dorothy Herbst is sort of giving the Navy preference over the Army . . . seems that the ensigns have the inside track.

Ginny Harrod, of Personnel, was agoin' to get herself married to that handsome soldier when he got home on leave. . . . Fate took a hand and can you imagine . . . the camp was quarantined and so—o—o . . . Wedding bells didn't ring . . . but the poor guy did get a pass and they had a few days of seeing the sights . . . the wedding will have to wait for a while but that's the way things go these days.

Art Koch is wondering if he should have taken a driving test before he got his license . . . seems as if Art had a slight misunderstanding with another car the other night.

There was a nice little article about Mavis Emerson that was supposed to appear in this issue . . . but . . . a little gremlin got into the mail and so . . . all that can be said is she should be ashamed.

Jim George was floored by a strep gremlin last month and was off for a short time, but he's back in the groove again.

Kay Reubart's heartbeat . . . Fred Lancaster . . . former EOP worker . . . is in the thick of that fight in Africa. . . . It's up to those at home to keep those supplies moving in that direction . . . so don't be absent without cause.

Betty Kovach sure was dressed up the other Sunday . . . furs and everything . . . seems that Waukegan was going to be the honored city . . . lucky them.

Didja know that some of the office girls have become tongue tied???? . . . yep when they answer the phone, one of them said "Public Service" . . . instead of the proper salutation . . . how about that?

There was quite a state of confusion in the Executive Office the day the Red Cross Drive was started. . . . Lt. C. R. Crandall and Capt. George A. Grant started the drive off with a bang and their office was the very first to receive that great big Red Cross sticker. . . . That's one thing about that outfit . . . they sure are the best co-operators.

And now, my little pigeons, 'tis time to tuck this sheet in its little bed.

With the Timekeepers

The Government time inspectors entertained at a dinner party at a local night spot February 24 as they bid fond adieu to Robert McEvoy who left recently to help settle that account with the no-account paperhanger.

Oh, boy! Betty Lou Page has a pretty new spring hat—flowers 'n' everything!!

Best wishes go with Ken Chapman who recently resigned to accept a position nearer to his home.

Petite Anita Lambur was thrilled February 28 — the reason — she visited boy friend, Ed Farrell, formerly of Group 1, who is a boy in khaki at Ft. Sheridan.

Mary Biernat was much elated the other day—when she received five letters—and several gifts—including a pair of grass slippers from her husband who is stationed in Africa.

Two former co-workers, Bob Kasten and Ray Coesfeld, have recently been released from the Army because of the 38-year-old provision. They are welcomed back to civilian life.

Now that spring is just around the corner—the balmy breezes have stirred something in Ed Reichert (probably his asthma)—so that he craves a romp or a frolic—or something of the sort.

Imagine: Frank Bravato without an oversized chew of Beech Nut. . . . George Stevens with his upper-plate. . . . John Hugo Green not "rolling his own." . . Willie Peebles showing Loretta Franke a card trick—and having it work. . . . Kay Lohman without her derby!

Inert Storage

CHARLES MANN
WILLIAM DENVER
Correspondents

Clement Eiden, safety engineer, reports the Inert Storage Department is one of the first to hold safety meetings for foremen and sub-foremen. At these meetings general problems are presented and action is taken to obtain a successful solution. The meetings are held every two weeks in the Inert Groups.

Mr. Eiden and Irving Olson, also of the Safety Department, expressed appreciation to Supt. A. P. Balston and C. H. Mann for their active interest. The men, too, are happy to have the opportunity to discuss their problems.

Will "Wild Bill" Hayes, confined to the EOP Hospital, wishes to thank the boys for their visits and hopes they will continue to dribble in. Will is responding well to treatment and is able to enjoy a ride in a wheel chair.

Walter Peterson of Group 27 has an addition to his family . . . an 8½ pound son. Walt is planning a bigger garden this year.

Horace Clarke, who has had some conferences with his draft board, is back on the job at Group 27.

Group 27 will miss Ray Biggins, Robert Moberly, Harold Ruble and Osborne Sims. These boys will soon be serving in the armed forces.

Idle moments are spent selecting seeds for Victory gardens at the South Inert library . . . Earl Ely and George Harrop have thumbed the catalog so much they had to order another.

Jim Brooks of South Inert has taken up new living quarters in Gardner. Some of the boys think Jim may run for public office in this coming little town.

Weather department of South Inert is able to give reports some 24 hours in advance . . . just call Thomas Dillon.

The basketball team wound up with five wins and five defeats. They are now re-organizing and have a new counter attack which they will display in the tournament.

The spring cleaning campaign is under way at South Inert . . . Elmer Boudreau claims offices and clockhouses will be spic and span before long.

Jim Whitley and Al Gierich were happy to hear from their old friend and co-worker, Walter Fang, who worked both at South Inert and at Group 27. Walter is stationed at Camp Grant.

Along with Dick Ashworth, who is an accomplished cook, it is reported that Fred Ford also has something cooking. At least he was overheard to say that he had a pie in the oven!

George Newton predicts a chicken dinner at his house by Decoration Day. George has been saving eggs for the last three months and is now bargaining for a setting hen. If no chicken dinner develops, he is sure to have an odiferous omelet at least.

That big mountain of scotch plaid with the shaved head sticking out is not Andrew Fris as stated in the last issue of The Bomb-Shell, but looking at it from a distance it turns out to be the "Plano Kid," John Wald.

Since there is nothing else to add to this column it has been decided to start a "Ben Bernie-Jack Benny" feud with that highly imaginative, non-realistic, ethereal and perhaps even non-existent gentleman who issue after issue manufactures or stretches his conjured up ideas into a full length column for The Bomb-Shell. It is rumored his name is "Scorchy."

AMATEUR fighter hereabouts is Tommy Thompson, EOP locksmith, shown here in ring garb. He is popular in fistic circles and is called upon frequently to display his ability as a leather pusher.

CONFISCATED ITEMS in Guard Headquarters run from firecrackers to firearms. Cameras make up the bulk of banned articles taken from employees before entering the plant.

Production Planning

MARY McGOVERN
Correspondent

The many friends of Agnes Freehauf were pleased to hear that she is now employed at General Electric as a secretary.

Pvt. Florian Ebben of Truax Field, Wisconsin, has been seriously ill for several weeks and would like to hear from all his friends at EOP. His address may be obtained from his sister in Room 237 or your correspondent.

Mable Robbins left to take a job elsewhere. Phyllis Clair is the new typist. Bud Wright bid adieu to all his friends here February 27.

Ray Banker has announced that she is a proud grandmother now.

Marge Gall, after several days' illness, has returned to the fold.

Some of the familiar expressions heard from a few of the Production Planners follow:

Lucille Brown: "How can you tell?" Frances Mores: "Oh, that's all right!" Myrtle Cooper: "Yes, little girl!" Mae Norem: "Gosh, I'm starved!?" Bud Wright: "I don't know." Jim Murphy: "Will someone please get me something?" Fred Mastin: "If I dood it, I dit a whippin'? I dood it!" June Kuglich: "Yes, I'll type that report" (hesitantly).

The other day Harry Brown mistook the figure of an Indian for a bull dog. Now what could be more novel than that?

Traffic Audit Division

Helen Hausser has returned from a two-week leave of absence. She enjoyed the time with her husband, who is stationed in Louisiana.

Multilith Room

Mary O'Connor took everyone by surprise when she contracted the —did you guess right—measles. All hope she will be back soon.

Christine Dare will have a longer distance to travel now, as she and her folks are moving to Morris.

Equipment Checkers

Since George Sangmiester has been put in charge of the equipment checkers, it is reported that he has been really "dolling up." Any one in Traffic Audit will confirm it.

Kenneth Weber, formerly an equipment checker, is now serving in the Air Corps at Miami, Fla.

Tom Nugent, whose home is in New Hampshire, says he is getting used to the plains out here, but he sure does miss the mountains back home.

John Cann, who is supervisor of Wilton Township, says he is giving up politics. He reports that he is not running for re-election.

Pete Conroy likes to smoke his pipe, but Leslie Wilson doesn't like the kind of tobacco he uses. Suggestions as to how both could be pleased are welcome.

Jake Debri surprised everyone by purchasing himself a tool box. Reports have it that he keeps two locks on it.

Frank Weston is an admirer of Indianapolis, because he hails from the Hoosier State.

Group 2

Bob Ardaugh, after a short stay here, left for a good reason, to join up with Uncle Sam.

Paul Somervilles' pet peeve is to answer the phone, only to hear someone ask, "Is this the Reverend?"

The clerks never get in "Dutch" with their "Chief," Johnny Williamson. Johnny could very well be called the "Sweater Guy," for he wears several sweaters of various designs and colors.

Orville Rasmussen is also getting along very well for the short time he's been here. He says he likes Group 2.

Group 3-A

Edna Strohm gives her lunch a party air with her new beverage idea. She melts a plain chocolate bar and then adds her milk to it.

Ask Neoma Jett why Mary Bertino brought her a ruler?

Any broken ribs, fractured skulls, or lacerated wounds? See Frances O'Keefe. She wants a few victims on whom to practice her first aid training.

Groups 4-9

Joanne Schwartz, who was reported as going to do some middle-aisling, wishes to correct this statement. She said she is not going to be married as yet.

Loretta McDonald is ill with pneumonia. Gwen Hannabarger has returned after a week's illness.

Ask Gwen Ellis "what's copper?" and many would like to know her reason for insisting that she will not eat any more lunches.

E. L. WALKUP
Director

If you live in Wilmington, it is suggested that you visit the USO Wednesday evenings when they have their "Swing Shift" parties. Every week there are newly added features. There is dancing, table tennis, chess and checkers, reading room, and starting next week they expect to have entertainers. This party starts at 11 p. m. and runs until 2 a. m.

The few spring-like days brought several calls about softball and baseball. The Recreation Department is getting all set for a busy season. Oh, yes! there will be leagues for the girls this summer, in addition to a strong men's league. Group 62 is trying to figure out how they can strengthen up its team this year. Eddie Spezio thinks he again has a championship team the way it looks on paper.

Twenty-six men are playing off the Table Tennis Tournament. All eyes are on Dr. Andrew Bustin, Jim Hart, Bill Bishop and Bob Hanks. There are several dark horses who might come through and surprise the many fans and players. The girls' schedule for singles, doubles and mixed doubles has not been drawn up yet. If anyone has been missed, call in your entries and every effort will be made to get them on the list.

Watch your bulletin boards for the next dance. It promises to be something different and a real novelty. It will be under the auspices of Group 61. Harvey Steffes is working on the plans with a strong committee from the group.

Bowling

The Pabst Blue Ribbon women's bowling team gave an exhibition against a picked team of men from EOP February 18. The girls came through strong the first game with a total of 847 pins to the men's 807. High score for the girls during the exhibition was made by Nell Hartman with 194. W. Colby of the Fire Guards was high man with 221 for the third game. The score was as follows:

Pabst
Joan Meseck	162	123	150	445
Rose Simmons	170	152	151	473
Mary Ortyl	166	161	162	489
Marie Meyer	155	160	132	457
Nell Hartman	194	171	178	543
Total	847	767	773	2387

EOP
Ed Murphy	200	172	196	578
Harold Troupe	103	179	148	430
Ken. Bull	178	201	199	578
W. Colby	155	136	221	512
A. Plym	171	164	180	515
Total	807	852	944	2603

By popular request there will be another bowling sweepstakes the latter part of this month. Keep in touch with Eddie Murphy and the Recreation Department, watch your bulletin boards in the change houses, or inquire of your Employees' Activity Committee representative for entry blanks. One hundred and three bowlers participated in the last Sweepstakes, and it appears there may be more than 200 for the next one.

Every Wednesday night teams representing Payroll, Government Auditing, Fire Guards and Investigators bowl. They have drawn up a schedule for 23 weeks, and plan to have cash prizes to divide among themselves at the end of that period.

Basketball

The basketball elimination series is now being played. Visit the Recreation gymnasium any Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday and you will be assured of seeing a fine game.

The Purchasing Department is justly proud of Kathryn Johnson's 226 bowling score, which remains high for women bowlers here.

Esther "Snuffy" Doeden, Group 9, bowled high score of 176 Ladies' Day, February 19. Incidentally, her regular visits will be missed, as she has returned home.

Dorothy Tou Velle, War Bond Department, is a daily visitor. Wonder if she's getting in trim for the terrific ping pong tournament. Could be!

Catherine Noonan is a walking testimonial of learning to play ping pong in ten easy lessons. She is known as "Champ" around the Recreation Building—and rightly so!

Emergency Calls

To report a fire....Dial 17
To call police.....Dial 2229
To call ambulance
(emergency only).Dial 4262

Report the nature of the emergency. Be prepared to answer all questions a doctor may ask. He has good reasons for asking these—in order that he may come prepared with the necessary equipment.

Final Scores of First Cage Season

An elimination series is now in progress between the teams of the EOP Basketball League, following Chemical Lab's winning of the first season's title. The Fuze and Booster chemists closed the season in a blaze of glory.

The following box scores complete the reports of the regularly scheduled league games.

Material Warehouse

FRANK McCORMICK
Correspondent

Oscar Horn is in the market for two large red lights for the right side of his Buick, all because of a little accident he had in Joliet one evening last week on the way home from work.

Oscar tried to turn right and the fellow in the car on his right side tried to turn left at the same time. They collided, but there was very little damage done to either car. One of the passengers riding with Oscar reports it looked like Oscar and the other driver would get into a fist fight all on account of noisy Fred Nelson, who started calling the other driver names and inviting him to fight. The argument finally ended, and both drivers went peacefully on their way.

Gaylord Sties, material checker stationed at the Hub with John Markley, left February 25 for the armed forces. His former associates wish him the best of luck and hope to hear from him often.

Norman Hammerschmidt, material checker of the Hub staff, is now the proud father of a seven pound son, born February 14. This may have started the boss, Mr. Markley, smoking, as it is difficult to refuse when the cigars are passed around.

Another Hub employee, James Eib, is the owner of a nanny goat that expects to have a kid some time this spring.

RADIO tower erection offers a different kind of thrill around a bomb and shell loading plant. Here are shown L. L. Rood (top) and W. W. Willows putting one of the final sections of EOP's new antenna in place.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

Q. What is the derivation of the word "chevrons"—you know, those stripes that we non-coms wear?

A. It's an architectural term, and the stripe itself is a representation of the apex of a roof. In early days the wearer of a chevron was the head of a clan or "the top of his house."

"I'll inform the captain you want the Army to start using paper cups exclusively. Now may I ask you to please bear with us in the meantime?"

How popular these new brides can be! Veronica Kelly, formerly Veronica Rossi, receives a letter daily from her husband. However, Dorothy Busse, a previous bride, writes a letter to her husband daily.

Mrs. Busse received an interesting letter from a merchant in Cairo, Egypt. The merchant several times had entertained her husband who is now in the armed forces over there. The merchant sent pictures of his family and himself. They speak five languages, English, French, Arabic, Italian and Greek. This is due to the fact that Cairo is a cosmopolitan country. He was born in Alexandria, Egypt, but is of Russian origin.

The next time Kay Lindblad has her club meeting it is hoped some one will be able to suggest some way of entertaining without the difficulties of making open-face sandwiches. However, Kay did solve the problem by engaging a maid.

All are glad to know that Myrtle Burrus' husband is well again after being hospitalized with an infected eye at Galesburg during a two-week vacation.

Esther Baer, sister of Elsie Baer, was an air stewardess on the American Airlines. She has just recently resigned and enlisted in the Army Evacuating Air Corps. Until she is called, she will spend a two-week vacation at some camp in Virginia.

Well, well, well, there is here a scientific Farmer Jones. It is difficult to decide what type of chicken is his specialty, poultry or human beings for scientific experimentation. To tell you the truth, it is poultry—one thousand of them. If anyone is interested in eggs in the not-so-far future just get in touch with Farmer Jones, alias R. R. Sidell.

Sylvia Hamper, formerly a nurse here, is stationed at Camp Blanding, Florida. She will be on a flying boat carrying the sick and wounded from war zones to hospitals.

The Hospital staff extends sincere sympathy to Nellie Lazio whose brother died last month and was buried March 1 at Ohio, Ill.

Lorene Motta attended the play "Goodnight Ladies" in Chicago with a party of friends.

That seedy expression Tom Moore has these days is to be sown in his Victory Garden. He expects to raise cane, wild oats and cantelope. This garden is to be situated on the roof of his apartment, thereby, making it a tall-story garden.

Gerber Once Commanded 2 Plants Here

Former C.O. of EOP Now Field Director Of Ammunition Work

By Harrison Smith

Col. T. C. Gerber does not need an introduction to our people through The Bomb-Shell. He served as our commanding officer for a year and three months, comprising practically all of the construction period and until all of our main loading lines were in operation. He is familiar with the Elwood Ordnance Plant in all its details. He knows the kind of people we are, the work which we have done and are doing. He has approved our efforts on many occasions and has co-operated in correcting our deficiencies. His ability as a leader accounts for the increasing responsibilities which have been bestowed upon him.

We are all proud of our association with Colonel Gerber and of the good job he is doing as Field Director of Ammunition Plants. He makes our tasks easier because he understands our problems and helps us solve them.

As Field Director of Ammunition Plants, Colonel Gerber works very closely with Brig. Gen. R. E. Hardy, chief of the ammunition branch, Ordnance Department. The Field Director supervises the administration of all Government-owned contractor-operated ammunition plants, except small arms facilities.

Native of Missouri

Colonel Gerber is a native of Missouri and a graduate of the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy. He entered the Army in 1917 as a lieutenant of engineers, and after having served with the Infantry during World War I, he transferred to the Ordnance Department in 1920. He is also a graduate of the Ordnance School of Technology and the Army Industrial College. Although his service has been varied, his chief connection has been with the manufacture and maintenance of ordnance material and ammunition.

Following Colonel Gerber's graduation from the Ordnance School he served with the Office. Chief of Ordnance, in the outfitting of the National Guard when it was being reorganized after World War I. This duty being completed, he was assigned as Ordnance instructor of the National Guard of the Fifth Corps Area, which comprised the states of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia. In 1928 he was detailed as Ordnance officer of the Philippine Division, at the time Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur was in command of the Philippine Department.

Upon his return to the United States, Colonel Gerber attended the Army Industrial College. After graduation there, he served at Picatinny Arsenal for four years. His next duty was that of Ordnance Instructor of R.O.T.C. at Lehigh University, and later served at Watertown Arsenal, Mass. Colonel Gerber reported to Joliet, November 2, 1940, as commanding officer of Kankakee Ordnance Works. He assumed command of Elwood Ordnance Plant January

A Salute to a Former Commander

COLONEL THEODORE C. GERBER

Field Director of Ammunition Plants, St. Louis, Missouri

"I have been asked to speak on the subject of Elwood's contribution to the war effort. While it is not possible in these times to use production figures in describing the Elwood effort, we can look back over the short, but successful, history of this plant and see how, through the vigorous activities of Sanderson & Porter and all those associated with them, you started and maintained production within eight months after the beginning of construction.

"When you started operations in July, 1941, you were the first establishment of its kind to initiate operations. This being the case, numerous key personnel from other plants, building and projected, converged upon Elwood to learn how this unique establishment was built and operated.

"Those were trying days for many of you because you were building, operating and instructing both your own personnel and visitors. You were very patient, despite the extreme pressure of those days. We know that the products of the Elwood Ordnance Plant have found their way to the far corners of the world wherever our troops are engaged. We know that they are high quality products. They are the best that American workmanship and American ingenuity can produce."—From speech by Col. T. C. Gerber during Army-Navy "E" Award Ceremonies here February 12.

Tunstall Promoted To Director's Office

Capt. David P. Tunstall, public relations officer at EOP since construction days, has taken over wider duties in the office of Col. T. C. Gerber, field director of ammunition plants, with headquarters in St. Louis. Capt. Tunstall will assist all plants under Col. Gerber's supervision with public relations activities.

$50 Bond Buyers Grow

Three hundred forty-nine additional EOP workers signed last week for $50 War Bonds instead of $25 ones in the campaign to save money for Uncle Sam, it was reported by G. A. Becker, of the War Bond Dept., who said the total who had changed is now 3,658. For slips to sign see your foreman.

Fellowship Meeting Planned for April 8

A. J. MacLellan, head of the inspection department, will serve as chairman of the EOP Fellowship Meeting scheduled for April 8th in the Mess Hall and Recreation Building. Others on the committee are H. S. Robb, assistant chairman; Ruth Elliott, Charles Hickock, Lt. C. R. Crandell, J. J. Casey, D. P. Mancini, and E. L. Walkup.

Red Cross Fund Raised To $11,513.00

Woodruff Congratulates Workers; Departmental Contributions Listed

"Everyone in this locality highly appreciates the fine community spirit of your whole organization," said F. W. Woodruff, Joliet, chairman of the Will County Chapter, American Red Cross, in a letter to Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, acknowledging contributions from EOP men and women to the Red Cross War Fund.

A total of $11,513.88 was given by employees and management of Elwood Ordnance plant, according to R. T. Bassett, who handled the fund raising drive here. Supervision of the campaign was directed by the superintendents of the various groups.

An initial contribution of $10,000.00 was turned over to the Will County Chapter immediately after the 7-day drive here, and later contributions increased the total to $11,513.88.

The departmental contributions follow:

Utilities	$3,533.65
Loading Lines	2,685.38
Fuze & Booster Lines	1,483.31
Administration	1,252.46
Plant Protection	765.77
War Department	589.90
Inspection Department	401.83
Group 61	272.18
Inert Storage Groups	259.50
Timekeepers and Material Checkers	253.50
High Explosives Laboratory	16.40

Mr. Woodruff's letter to Mr Smith follows:

"On behalf of the American Red Cross, I want to thank all the good people at the Elwood Ordnance Plant for the wonderful contribution of $10,000.00 which they made yesterday.

"You will remember that I have always told you that I do not think there is a finer group of Americans anywhere than the employees of EOP and their action yesterday proved to me once more that I am right. May I also say that in my opinion your 'production army' at EOP is led by a very able general.

"Assuring you that everyone in this locality highly appreciates the fine community spirit of your whole organization, and with kindest personal regards and best wishes, I beg to remain . . ."

Mr. Smith replied to Mr. Woodruff as follows:

"It was kind of you to write your letter of March 10th in appreciation of the contribution to the American Red Cross by the employees of this plant.

"I quite agree with you that there is no finer group of citizens than the people of Elwood Ordnance Plant. I have said this so often as applying not only to them, but to the whole citizenship of this territory, that I rather thought I had invented the idea.

"We are very proud of the public spirit and of the intense interest in the war effort which the people of this plant have so often displayed. They alone are entitled to commendation and it affords me great pleasure to have them receive it."

Lots of Bonds Required

It takes the purchase of a good many bonds to buy a soldier's complete outfit and a lot of time to train him to use it properly. But no cost and no effort is spared to see that he gets all that he needs, and the "know how" to use it efficiently. Equipment and knowledge plus American fighting spirit, have made our soldiers a formidable enemy. The Axis fear such soldiers because they know such a combination cannot and will not be beaten. Perhaps we have grown too accustomed to America's habit of being best. We expect final success because we know the men, material and methods of this great country cannot be bettered.

A steel bullet puts a man down and out—a tank or truck can be shattered by artillery, too. An accident bullet, with less noise and surprise, will kill and injure just as efficiently. Does it matter whether a man bleeds through khaki or coveralls; does it matter whether the machine be tank, truck or drill-press? In all cases, accidents cripple our effort to wade through this mess and come out where the sun is shining, and each day's delay drags down its share of lives as eager to reach that goal as you and I.

We would roundly condemn the soldier who needlessly exposed himself to enemy fire, for we can evaluate the loss of a trained man and material. We would equally condemn the commander of a mobile unit who carelessly fell into enemy ambush which demolished his precious machines. We speak out, at home or at work, against such blunders made under the pressure of combat, amid bursting bombs and screaming shells. We berate and belittle, "Cuss" and discuss, these things—yet, in the calm and friendly surroundings of our work where conditions are nicely tailored to allow the focus of attention where it belongs—on the job, we are placid witnesses to the accidents which injure and disable our workers and machines.

What do you think a battery commander says about you when he faces the advancing enemy with empty guns and glances anxiously behind him for the armored tank support that isn't coming because in a great many places a great many men who "know how" didn't get around to making those shells or those tanks because accidents—the fourth Axis partner, laid his demolishing hand on those men and their machines?

Well, perhaps it's a good thing you can't hear those bitter words from a brave commander whose men and machines calmly await destruction and death—they might make you mad! They might make you spring out of the lethargic acceptance of Accident, the grave-filler. Your eyes might suddenly see that sometimes men die because they don't have guns and planes and tanks, and not because they blundered. And you just might begin to get your own personal knife sharpened to do a bit of carving on old man Accident. But then again, you may decide this is all a lot of eyewash and go on living with him—who knows?

The Burning Pit
By Scorchy

The lesser light of the Fire Department corresponding duo has been given undeserved credit for some darn clever copy that hits The Bomb-Shell under the name of "Scorchy." As much as glory would like to be claimed for those gratifying gems, in all fairness, a statement must be made, and called to the august attention of such swell guys as John O'Connell, Tom Singer, George Becker and Milton Treitel, who have kept the Central Fire Station filled with gardenias and orchids, believing this place to be the source of much classy copy from the pen of "Scorchy." Comes this honest denial—"We are not Scorchy; we do not know Scorchy—but if we did, we would try to enlist his talents in helping us prepare our column."—From Fire Department column.

Since there is nothing else to add to this column it has been decided to start a "Ben Bernie-Jack Benny" feud with that highly imaginative, non-realistic, ethereal and perhaps even non-existent gentleman who issue after issue manufactures or stretches his conjured-up ideas into a full length column for The Bomb-Shell. It is rumored his name is "Scorchy."—From Inert Storage Department column.

The two foregoing paragraphs are reprinted from the February 26 issue of The Bomb-Shell to make Scorchy's column herewith a little bit clearer. They were written by Stuart Moloney and Charles H. Mann respectively.—EDITOR.

And now for a little journalistic fly-swatting. Funny how comes one nice day at the end of a long winter and the local insects come soaring out of their hiding places to pester and annoy. I refer more particularly to two messages directed to your learned scribe in the last issue of Ordnance's Gift to the Graphic Arts. If you will turn to page 8 of Vol. 1, No. 21, you will find a manly admission from Stuart Moloney under the confusing heading of "Fire." Thence off to the southeast on page 9, your lead foot will stumble over a rash challenge from one Charles Mann. It is under the heading "Inert."

Your correspondent did not start out to quarrel with the honored editor about his selection of captions, but it is indeed curious that the only recognition recently cast at EOP's Roving Distorter should come from two sources where Moloney and "Fire" are intertwined and Mann and "Inert" seem to be in such columnar partnership. You figure it out. I have things to settle.

Thank you very much, Mr. Moloney, for those kind words, but even you ought to know better than to take seriously the guesses of John O'Connell and Milton Treitel—they never did get a name straight, but, oh boy, mention a clock number and they will describe the bloke down to the karats of gold in his rear (and to make it harder) upper molars. George Becker's word is usually his bond but this time, he buys the cokes. As for Tom Singer, we'll give him the brush-off and let him dry up.

But the more important aspect of your innocent arrogance, Mr. Boloney, is that you thought it necessary to disclaim to your fellow workers any remote similarity to the originally copyrighted article. In fact, Mr. Salami, I have been told by the little bird high up in that hose tower that the only completely coherent story you ever wrote without outside help went something like this: "Alarm rang, went to fire, put it out, came back." There is no doubt, Mr. Liverwurst, that such a vivid recounting of the episode suggests the possibility that, if you live long enough, proper training might really bring you to the pinnacle of literary ripeness. But what's the sense of me sitting here planning entertainment for my great-grandchildren? You answer.

And now, folks, that Mann's here again. The audacity of him stepping out with a challenge without even first ascertaining the opponent's weight class, and also what is to be in the gloves besides digits. His first feint carried the words imaginative and ethereal. Then to make it worse, he attached his insolent defi to the end of his laboriously extruded words more or less as a bit of journalistic putty to fill in the spaces which were still blank after exhausting his store of "Inertiana."

Just to deflate his feudal instincts, I may find myself forced to go up to Group 62 and kick a few holes in that pretty picket fence. Nothing ethereal about that, is there, Mr. Mann? I can't resist this one—I suppose since that fence went up, they call the joint "Wald Inn." But to get back to Mr. Inert, or should I say Mr. Mann, I just want to say that with rationing coming up, I eat guys like him—'cause I'm a Mann-eating fool.

I have written . . . a poem!

A Guard's Ambition

There I sit at Tower Three,
I like to work at EOP.
I sit there, grumble and growl,
But that's a hell of a lot better
Than milking a cow.

Then I wait and wait to get
My turn at Change House Eight,
To shake down the fellows
Who come in late.

Then down the stairs to
Have a smoke and sit
Around to hear a joke.

Then comes the day to get Building Three—
We just watch to see what we can see.

They're there in work up to their knees—
Reminds one of a bunch of bees.
But still I like to work in Three.

Then we get old Gate Six,
And you should see the girls primp
and fix.

A Toast

Here's to the man
So loyal and brave
That he'd give up his life
This country to save.

He's the stout-hearted man
In the Army today
Who's fighting our battles
In lands far away.

It's taking the strength
Of our country's young men
To stem a cruel tide
That wants to rush in.

He's fighting those battles
In lands over there
So our flag ever flies
O'er a free land so fair.

Do you think he likes it—
This battle and strife?
No, you bet not,
It is taking a life.

He is hoping that when
This battle is o'er
He'll never have to fight
A battle no more.

So think of him now
As you sit there at ease
And breathe out a prayer
For a soldier who's there.

To Ann McFarland

A time has come to tell you, Ann,
In words quite simple, if we can,
That though we've razzed you
every day,
And burned you up in every way,
We think you're tops, and real true
blue,
And hope our words will comfort
you.

We love your Irish charm and smile,
Even your wisecracks, because all the while
We know if ever we needed a friend
You'd be there pitching, and on you we'd depend.
So, Ann, to you from your girls at four,
May your birthday be happy;
May you enjoy many more!

Absenteeism

This is a reminder to everyone,
Without you this war cannot be won.
So let's work to keep us free,
By never being an absentee.

This war can be won, and win we will,
If you knuckle down and use your skill.
But Victory we will never see
If everyone should be an absentee.

The soldiers of our armed forces
Could never travel on their courses.
Their bombs and shells will never be,
If we never get rid of the absentee.

The soldiers who fight and die
each day,
Lying in fox holes, they probably pray
For peace that comes with Victory.
Victory, without the aid of an absentee.

Some people work and slave,
Helping our men to be more brave,
By sending them power over the sea,
But others remain an absentee.

There is a war to be won, and we will win
If you on the job tomorrow begin.
Like a true American, never be
A measly little absentee.

EOP has won the "E" flag and recognition by the Army and Navy for its efficiency. Now the trustworthiness of a former EOP employee has come to light. In "Navy Breezes," a Navy publication, James Koerner was commended for his honesty. All appreciate Jim's carrying on the EOP tradition. The item, under a heading, "Skipper Commends Honesty," follows:

"Within the last few days three wallets containing large sums of money were turned in to the proper authorities by three individuals for claiming. The prompt action and honesty of H. D. Hubbard, D. D. Austin and James Koerner came to the attention of Captain Browder, who commended the men for their acts.

"The prompt action on the part of these men is well worth the consideration of every man aboard and it is hoped that anyone else finding an object of value will act with the same accord.

"The wallets were turned over to either the company commanders or the Officer of the Day. As yet unclaimed, the owners may have the articles upon proper identification."

Catherine Noonan resigned from the staff of The Bomb-Shell and has been succeeded by Edith "Billie" Valentine of Joliet, a recent graduate of St. Francis Academy, as secretary to Vernon C. Bailey, editor.

Gene Bennington received a call from Uncle Sam for his physical exam March 24. Gene had too much luck lately, winning bonds two weeks in a row.

Ask Mavis Francis, Jean Oliver or Mary Narwick what they saw out of the window March 16.

Hazel Gleason suggested a traveling make-up kit be sent to Lucille Ambrose, who recently left for New York for duty with the SPARS. Her many friends responded with contributions, and all hope Lucille will enjoy her gift.

Ruth Myers resigned March 20 as secretary to H. H. Clark of the Expediter's Department. Ruthy was always a pal to girls throughout the building.

Vincent Cantarella, Payroll, was invited to the Elwood Club in the Elks' Ballroom March 14 by Jim Scheidt of Group 3. Vince reports having a wonderful time, and hopes some of his friends will be there next Sunday night to enjoy the dancing.

Veronica Hansen of Joliet, formerly with the Boston Store, is a new girl in the Payroll Department.

All the gals who go to the Recreation Building for a little relaxation at noon want to thank someone for their thoughtfulness in installing that new cinder sidewalk from the Administration Building.

Edmund L. Rowley left the Accounting Department March 20. His friends presented him with a fountain pen.

The Purchasing Department has a new buyer, S. P. Nyren, formerly with the outside expediters.

A little bundle from Heaven arrived at the home of Russel R. Kuntz March 8. She was named Wanda Lee.

Duane Swinford, of the Navy Air Corps, stationed at Naperville, Ill., was a visitor March 16. Duane is thrilled over his work and so were all to see him.

Imogene Wilson, Payroll, reported to work the other day with a shorter hairdo. Looks nice, too!

G. J. Wilcox left the Purchasing Department March 20.

It seems that one department was lost when it was moved around but it was finally found, so everyone is happy now. Now, John Platz' department will be represented here from time to time. By the way, Platzy does run a peaceful, happy and busy department.

Bob McKeon, Engineering Department, was given a party at the Grogan Club by friends before he left for service.

George Karas seems to be having trouble. The speedometer on his DeSota won't work so friends have suggested his jacking up the back wheels and running a new car under.

When a 204 score is bowled there is reason to go hi-hat and that is why everyone is saying Walter Peterson is swelled with pride and won't consider mediocres.

The Engineering Department is following with interest the "back-to-nature" movement of Al Scheer and E. V. Sperling, who are planning great things in their Victory gardens in the Administration Area. A great celebration is planned for the pulling of the first radish.

Ray Marquardt says he got that sliver from jumping too close to a fence. It is reported his physician gave him an anti-tetanus shot to get even for Ray wearing orange stockings St. Patrick's Day.

Dorothea Beverly, Accounting has been ill for several days and is missed.

Fred "Pop" Poplausky has a new position—finding cracks and chips in concrete floors. He says the only trouble is that he "fweezes."

Edward Washburn, Sr., Engineering Department, reports that his son, Edward, Jr., formerly of the Chemical Lab, is in Miami Beach, Fla., in the Army Air Corps. He left two weeks ago. There is a proud father.

With the shortage of shells, many wonder what Bob Forst plans to do with his new duck call.

Catherine Lynch, Payroll, was entertained at a birthday party March 11 at Stefanich's in Joliet. The group went bowling later. A lovely gift was presented to Catherine.

Extra! Extra! March 12 sweet music burst forth from the rear of the 6:25 plant bus. The serenaders were Donald Natchorn, with his accordion, and Jack Walker, with drums. All the passengers wanted to know why this doesn't happen more often.

Inert basketeers performed at the Recreation Building in two games, winning one and losing one. The Inspectors fell to the Inert attackers 36 to 27. The test tubers of Chemical Lab split the Attackers' hopes of a second win by a score of 30 to 28.

Russell Kuntz of the Inert organization and a member of the EOP Labor-Management Committee is the proud father of a seven pound, five ounce daughter . . . when she becomes of age she hopes to join the WAACS.

Leslie Cloyd, inspector, is about to hire a detective to solve the problem of what happens to his home-made pies . . . he never has to worry about his hot peppers.

Thanks are given to the Inert boys for the fine way they came through for the Red Cross War Fund.

LaVerne Lyons of the owl shift is performing again in great style, since his return from a few days' sick leave.

Charles McDonald

Charles McDonald, a squad leader at Group 27, claims a long distance championship in traveling to and from the plant with the least amount of absences. In the last 19 months he has traveled 175 miles a day in order to work at Inert. During this time he has traveled 86,450 miles. John Leindecker and William Stors lost only two days in 19 months and Bill McCollum, also of his squad, has not been absent in 12 months.

Turk Argyle is not only an artist with the brush, but throws a mean hammer . . . what a cabinet he can build.

Many robins are reported at Inert warehouses . . . mostly at the lunch rooms. Some even open the lunches.

Gardens and more gardens are the issue . . . Leonard Spooner has selected some fine evergreens for North Inert.

Instead of a shamrock, St. Patrick's Day brought a black and white cat to North Inert office. He is well mannered and is making many friends. Thanks go to the boys of Chemical Lab. He has been named—Wilhe.

Now that the seed catalog is worn out, the boys have turned to the sports catalog. Little new equipment will be necessary this year, as the boys have quite a supply of bats and balls on hand. Spring practice will be getting under way in a few weeks. Supt. A. P. Balston is waiting for the day.

Out the window can be seen Stuart Moloney of the Fire Department across the road coming out of the building with his mouth moving and arms waving and it turns out that this regular procedure is necessary so that he can let off steam. There are quite a few girls working inside the fire house. An all-girl band would be a good thing to organize with summer coming on . . . with Stu as director.

Deepest sympathy goes to the family of Edward Schreck, who died as a result of an automobile accident.

If you would like a newly born kitten for your trailer so he can be trained to sleep in a cracker box, just call Edward Sheridan at Group 27 . . . get 'em while they're young.

Jack Turner, dog enthusiast, has a reject. It seems Jack sold a bull terrier some days ago on a pay-as-you-go basis. When the going got tough, the terrier was given back in full payment of the debt. Jack will have him on sale again in a few days after his bath. Sidney Bennett says he is the cutest pup he ever saw.

Manus "Red" Moberly of South Inert is about to join the soup drinkers' club . . . he will take a week off to have his tonsils removed.

South Inert boys have received mail from two old timers—James Wolsey and Whitey Wheeler. Both men are serving at Lincoln, Neb. "Hello to all," is their greeting.

Betty Ross, Ordnance inspection, treated the office staff to chocolates. Betty says she received them from one of her admirers.

Joe Birsa says he once knew a fellow who wrote a column for a business paper and now they have him in a steel cage.

Seen at the drug store corner was Robert "Lefty" McGraw visiting, planning a week-end, talking about a vacation, or giving good advice to three blondes and one red-head.

C. A. Kemper has two sons in the service . . . one is in the Air Corps.

George Shaw is back on the job after a winter illness.

Next on the list of days comes April Fool's Day. Don't be fooled if they tell you summer is coming—it is. If those chilblains on your toes will pass away—they will. If more people will have gardens this year—they will. If the "E" flag will be forfeited—it will not. If they tell you that absenteeism pays—it does not.

After filling space with mention of a feud with Scorchy in the last issue, it seems the subconscious has begun to work. Your correspondent's sleep has been greatly disturbed recently. He seems to sense a scorching feeling. The heat is unbearable and the perspiration exudes from the brow. Flames dance about and one time amid the tongues of fire he saw a pointed ear and occasionally a glimpse of a mocking face. Once as he lunged for his tormentor, he saw a pointed tail drag over the embers as the vision eluded his grasp. The thought of Scorchy torturing him became greater and greater. When awoke, he decided that it was just the same old devil who has been tempting and tormenting him all his life—but was it?—Scorchy—heat—devil? It fits—Scorchy is unveiled, exposed. At last the mystery clears with a pointed ear, a mocking grin and a pointed tail.

Garden Plots Available for EOP Employees

Applications Sought As Victory Program Is Launched Here

There will be Victory gardens at EOP this spring and summer. This announcement met with instant approval of hundreds of employees who are living in apartments, trailers and Government homes. Since the rationing of canned goods has gone into effect more fresh vegetables will have to be used, and it has been a problem in many minds to find suitable space and well fertilized ground to grow their own garden truck.

The answer came in a bulletin from A. E. Frosch, chief engineer, in which he said that Victory gardens will be arranged in many of the Groups as well as in the Administration Area. The plan is very simple and the ground will be plowed and prepared for all who wish to take advantage of the opportunity to grow what they eat.

If you want a plot in the group where you work, take it up with your superintendent and if plans have been made for gardens he will arrange for your participation. If you want space reserved in the Administration Area, you can sign up with E. L. Walkup, Director of Recreation.

Plots 40 by 50 feet will be staked out. W. B. Manchester, groundskeeper, will plow and fertilize where necessary and do all work required to prepare the ground for initial planting. A. M. Lockwood, general superintendent of utilities, will provide water connections for garden hose. Mr. Walkup, acting for the Employees Activities Committee, will assign the plots to the individuals in the Administration Area, establish rules under which parcels are to be farmed, keep necessary records and institute competition for best farmed plots.

Here is an opportunity for you to grow what you eat, and get a lot of good healthy outdoor exercise while doing it. The dividends will be better food and better health.

WILBUR GALBRAITH

Correspondents

Many of the men at this group have been asking about the assignment of Victory gardens. At a recent meeting of the Employees' Activities Committee the entire plan was outlined by Recreation Director E. L. Walkup and any one here desiring information should contact Wilbur Galbraith.

In the last issue of The Bomb-Shell the departure of Timekeeper Mel Roach was mentioned, only to learn since that he was transferred to Group 2. He is welcomed back to the fold.

Walter Voss, Building 16, is known to all as "Mayor of Peotone," but Walt modestly denies the accusation, adding, "I'm merely a native son."

Talking about hats and caps the other day, some one reported Nicola Altieri's assortment could match any which might be found in Harlem or Hollywood.

The group's contributions to 'Golden Gloves' are none other than Lawrence "Terror" McKeon and Harold "Scrap Iron" Spier. Both boys have daily workouts and are reported to be rounding into form.

Louis Mietsner, known to all as a confirmed 'woman hater,' has changed his mind about the fair sex. Attendance at a house party in New Lenox recently, where the main entertainment consisted of parlor games such as 'post office,' etc., was the main reason. Rumors say Louie is a second Clark Gable.

Roland Pierson was voted the best story teller ever to work in Building 16, barring none.

Best wishes for success are extended to Bernard Riley and Richard Feller who have returned to farming. The boys are missed by their fellow workers.

Lester "Whitey" Butler, foreman of Building 7, is nominated to represent the group in the next EOP bowling sweepstakes. The only complaint 'Whitey' makes is, "the alleys are too wide and the ball too small."

Congratulations go to Charles "Deputy" Schoenfielder who was married in his home town of Aurora, February 22. The gang awaits the cigars.

It is alleged Albert Rusterholz brings a piece of pie each day to his building foreman. Al claims he is paid for each slice delivered, but some of the fellows wonder.

Another proud father is Gerard Dandurand, whose wife presented him with a bouncing son. The boys hope to be singing "Smoke Gets In My Eyes" soon.

Probably Fred Johnson will make sure he has all his clothing before any empty cars are pulled away from Building 7 hereafter. A few days ago he had most of the office force tracking down his coat which had been left in an empty car.

Any one desiring information about the fine points of basketball contact Vernon Walsmith and Frank Szabo at Building 5-A. They say these fellows are really experts.

Raymond "Over Pour" Bell really was excited the other day when two pretty feminine visitors went to Building 4. Ray, of course, denies this, adding, "my complexion is naturally ruddy."

Good old Gridley "Paper Hanger" Wheeler went duck hunting last week, fell asleep in the boat and returned home empty handed. Doing some talking in his sleep that evening, Grid kept accusing his wife of rocking the boat. Now the reason is known why he wasn't successful on his latest duck hunting expedition.

A great big welcome was extended to George Richardson, assistant foreman, who returned to work after being away for three months with a broken ankle.

Lots of good luck wishes accompanied V. Fogarty, when he left for the armed forces. He said he is going to 'bag' a Jap for every man in Building 12, and while doing this will get three for himself, adding "and that's for sure."

Now that F. Bales has completed his welding course he is thinking about taking a first aid course to heal his many wounds.

Did you ever see a dream walking? Come over and take a look at Art Beardsly in Building 12.

Best wishes go with Frank Lorenc on his adventure as a farmer. This is nothing new for Frank, so all are sure he'll do well.

Rudy Larson, foreman, predicts he'll get to Chicago to the Zoo, gas or no gas. He said, "the trains are still running."

All hope that Andy Doyle will be back by the time shifts are changed. Andy is having a rather tough job waiting for the stork.

George "Meat and Gravy" Spencer came out with something new in the line of a haircut. It wasn't the usual broken bowl, but a chipped tea-cup affair. This is something new and, who knows, it may be the start of a fad.

Friends are congratulating James "Rackets" Brophy and Moe Feeney on their beautiful friendship. Some say they get along like brothers and others say it is more like a bill collector and a debtor.

Ask Hal "Pack-em-in" Pitchford to show a trick of his which he calls "the old New Yorker."

Helen Abrams was disappointed last week when her para-trooper husband couldn't get home because his leave was cancelled.

Harriet Porter, forelady in Group 4, left for the WAVES March 25. A chicken dinner and handkerchief shower was given in her honor by the girls on her line.

John "Peddler" Kinney, foreman of Building 5, must have taken a course in salesmanship—the way he is high pressuring his friends. He is also thinking of a going-away party, but is too shy to mention it to his friends.

Ethel Studer was a happy girl when she received a cablegram from her boy friend, who is somewhere in England.

Harvey Sessi writes every day to his "one and only" (?) girl friend back East.

Jean Beyer left March 12 for Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex., to visit her husband who is stationed there.

Best wishes are in order for Mickey Sanchez on her marriage to Robert Wonnell of Joliet March 6.

Gladys Todd has been walking on clouds ever since her recent visit with her husband, who is a sergeant stationed at Indiantown Gap, Penn.

Serious days ahead are reported for Anna Esser, who received a watch from her boy friend in North Carolina.

Alice Deschand has received some interesting pictures from her soldier brother in North Africa.

Many wonder why Helen Cusick and Julia Flori are better known as "Ding" and "Dong." Bing Enger and Ronnie Carlson are reading Emily Post and saying, among other things, "After you, please."

Loretta "Shadow" Leamann, is back on a steady liquid diet.

John "Pa" Woods, Britton "Flash" Palmateer and "Wild Bill" Watt report that their razor blade, shoe string and button business is not on the point rationing system. Eddie Burns is their best customer.

In the Nickname Department there are Lois Schultz and Mary Foster, who are known as the "Gold Dust Twins," and "Peaches" Hulse and "Sully" Sullivan are called the "Rinso White Girls."

Pauline Vismara, Helen "Honey" Kelley and Gerry "Cindy" Parthun can throw anything but a party!

The Fuze and Booster Area is justly proud of its championship basketball team. All comments concerning "the luckiest team winning" are being disregarded. It seems that it takes a high quality team to be a good loser. The boys are wearing their gold basketballs, and the first place trophy is theirs.

By the looks of the sparkler on Cecelia Stangler's left hand, it won't be long till she is taking that final step.

The girls from the shipping room surely missed Hulda Gaffey the day she missed her bus. Hulda was scheduled to bring all the trimmings for the pot luck luncheon.

MAJ. GENERAL Russell L. Maxwell observes closely as a 2,000 pound bomb is poured in Group 3-A.

Vernon Foster has a new spring bonnet that is deserving of comment. Marcella Barchark has a new system for saving time in dressing. Extended napping periods are involved.

Doris Raber is welcomed back to work after a week's illness.

Rita Legris was surprised recently on her birthday when the girls in the Paint Shop had a party and presented her with a gift.

Al Nahas has been missed since he left for the Army; however, the blue-eyed painter is cheerfully trying to console all the girls.

Larry Patton is cordially welcomed to Group 5. Many wonder what the great attraction is out in the receiving room where Rus Dwyer and Art Thomas spend most of their time helping.

Tommy Nesbit, assistant superintendent, who has acquired the art of painting, has only to obtain a union card in order to hang out a shingle.

Jack O'Grady wonders where a really good barber is available for 50 cents. Two more boys have gone into service, Johnny Dolnak and Walter "Smokey" Duncan.

When Mary Pribish sings "Miss You" she has that far away look in her eyes. Ruth Schaubel hasn't appeared so happy lately. The Army? Could be!

Ruby Hoye, who is convalescing from a minor operation, is really missed by her many friends.

A word of praise is deserved by the girls of the clean-up gang. They are doing nice work on their new job.

Group 9
By Marguerite Goodendorf

Peggy Warren, timekeeper here, who left for the SPARS, will be missed by all those who admired charming personality. Velda Clemens is ill with pneumonia.

Kathleen Coash is welcomed back to work after being off to take care of her little daughter who was ill.

The girls on the clean-up crew are very efficient, and a pleasant addition to the group.

Lois Krieger has been ill for some time and everyone wishes her a speedy recovery.

Is John McCormick, the great Irish tenor, dead or alive? Any information would be greatly appreciated by some puzzled workers here.

Several persons have received post-cards from Ray Ruder of the Air Corps, now in Miami, Fla.

Harriet Sokolinski, who soon will leave for the WAACS, was given a farewell dinner by her fellow-workers.

Group 45
By Mae Agnich

Billie Burrill left recently for the WAACS, and already several of the girls have received letters and postals from her. Billie is stationed at Des Moines, Ia., and sends her regards to all of her friends.

James Ewing has taken over the Reclamation Division.

Edna Johnson is back after being confined to her home for a couple of weeks.

Dorothy Hallett, driver, took the limited to Champaign in search of romance one week end. Looks like she found it!* No definite reports are available.

Helen Fritz and Rilla Tallman, truck helpers, were out on a double date one night. Double as far as they were concerned, for there was but one man. Mary Krawetz was their chaperon.

Wilma "Willie" Fawver seems to block traffic on Route 66-A at the entrance to Group 45 each morning. Many of her associates wonder why. Ida Moers had her car washed.

Pat Engel is on a diet. So is Chris Franklin, the kind when you eat everything and any time.

Mary Byron is thinking of sailboats—on her wallpaper.

Amy Bishop is welcomed as a new matron.

Alice Meadows is flashing a diamond on that certain finger.

Red Lampman has a $10 bet with Mae Agnich but no details have been obtained. Mary Wright, driver, has that sad, forlorn and lonely look in her eyes. 'Tis the war!

"Booster," mascot of Group 45, had a little difficulty one morning gaining admittance, and several plan to get a badge for the puppy.

Millie Doyle, helper, plans to buy a bicycle, since her Buick requires so much gasoline.

Terrence Henry Hop, eight-pound son of Pvt. Henry Hop, formerly of Group 7, Building 10, now stationed at the Cut Bank Air Base, Montana, is two months old. He was born January 24. Mrs. Hop is the former Wanda Hertz, who also was employed in Group 7.

George Lamb paid a visit to his home town of Oglesby which, he explained to a few of his friends, is a wide spot in the road. On his return he remarked that some work had been done on the road—the draft board narrowed it.

All donations will be cheerfully accepted for the "bull-whip" which will be given to Dan Carey his next birthday. The whip he has been cracking around the last few weeks is nearly worn out and should be replaced.

Everyone is hoping and pulling for a speedy recovery for Edwin Giasson. All are looking forward to seeing him back at work soon.

Did you know—That Joe Horvat will fight at the drop of a quarter . . . That Bill Borr keeps time by the number of days until the midnight shift . . . That Otto "Bull of the Woods" Koch doesn't like poetry . . . That Les Arling is wearing a tie waiting for feminine visitors to come through the line . . . That Ode Golden lost his hat at the Moose Hall one night, and made three trips there to get it, coming back each time without it?

Q. How much is deducted from a serviceman's pay, if his dependents receive an allowance from the Government under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act?

A. Twenty-two bucks a month. This deduction is made whether his dependents are in class A (wife and child, or children) or class B (parents, brother, sister, and grandchild). However, if an allowance is paid to dependents in both class A and class B, $27 will be deducted from his pay.

Hospital

EVELYN RICHARDS
Correspondent

Several co-workers have been on the sick list. Lorene Motta, Ozzie Blancard, Vance Cook and Dr. Andrew Bustin. Dr. Bustin, Vance and Ozzie have recovered.

Among the Hospital staff members who blossomed with bits of Erin St. Patrick's Day were O'Schultz, O'Cohler, O'Luke, O'Gergovich. Dr. Jim Madura said he is not at all Irish, since his forefathers came from India.

Elliott Hayes, a versatile patient, has been amusing the nurses with his prowess as a monkey. The only things he can't climb are some of the tall stories he has been broadcasting. Even "Imogene" is beginning to doubt his words! Especially about the string of yellow catfish that the railroad detective mistook for a stolen bunch of bananas. Mr. Cotner is beginning to be a bit envious of his roommate's cage-like tendencies and would also like to have some steel bars placed about his bed.

Best wishes for a successful recovery are sent to Mary Philbin's mother, who underwent an operation at St. Joseph's Hospital, Joliet.

The staff wished happy birthday to Doris McCollum St. Patrick's Day.

Bertha Perush enjoyed the play "Maid of the Ozarks" in Chicago.

Dr. Lazarus Cohler has become a good mathematician. How? The hard way—by doing ration-point shopping for his wife. So far he hasn't been heard to complain about headaches.

Reports have it that Dr. Bohdan Giel, who has been working on the p. m. shift, is mighty lonesome. However, he does find time during the day to watch the surgery being done at St. Joseph's Hospital in Joliet.

Marge Hartong was royally entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCollum. Marge had an excellent dinner, but many wonder how she spent the rest of the time.

Dorothy Busse attended the wedding of her borther at Palos Park March 13. She returned to work starry-eyed, probably with fond memories of her own wedding of a year ago.

Roy Picamen, Hospital "G" man, left for Alaska to seek fame and fortune.

Inspection

LORRAYNE OSTREM
Correspondent

The inspectors at Group 61, as far as their former occupations are concerned form the melting pot of industry:

Jim Finnegan, alcohol distiller, A. P. (after prohibition); Joe Sitkowski, photographer; Jimmy Glade, school teacher; John Smith, stove artist; Harold Rouff, playboy and student; Albert "Dink" Mattern, Charlie Barnett's drummer; Joe Sullivan, grain dealer; Ed Rashid, lawyer; Bob Karges, traveling salesman; Elmer Tolf, wallpaper maker; Sam Mount, horse fancier; Clarence Dixon, car salesman; Glenn Coppens, paper machine operator; Lloyd Thompson, barber; Ed Korevac, male nurse, and Perc Sprimont, farmer.

It has been rumored that the Foremen's Quarters are going to have a Victory Garden. They have elected Bill Hartman and Art Jensen as head gardeners. It is hoped that Art doesn't get his sweat shirt dirty again so he will have to return it to the cleaners for the second time this year.

Bob Partridge, Army aviation cadet at Coe College, and Don Peters, Navy aviation cadet at DePauw University, sent their regards to the inspectors of the Fuze and Booster Area.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Thompkins, Group 62-S, spent a week-end in Detroit visiting relatives.

Wedding bells soon will be ringing for Ruth Mueller of Kankakee. Glenn Evans of Chillicothe, O., is the lucky man. Maybe you remember the day he braved the flood and suffered a sprained wrist while walking on a slippery floor.

Everett A. Thompkins, Group 62-S, now holds a U. S. Government second class commercial radio telephone operators license, following a recent examination. This is a very limited field of service and the group is proud one of its members made this creditable record.

Jack Heavens and his companion, Matt Reay, are anxious to see good weather come. Cold and snowy week-ends don't make very pleasant motoring. Jack says that it is a shock to find, all of a sudden, cornstalks flapping against the car windows.

Arthur Kossak, who recently left South Inert for the Army, writes the boys that he is now in Miami, Fla., with the Air Corps, and that the famous Florida climate is really great.

The Inspection Office is getting more feminine every day. Now there is Grace Johnson, who is taking the place of Glenn Sparks. The first few chilly days she wore her jodhpurs, but she must have tied her horse behind the Time Office, for no one ever saw it. Anyway, she is very welcome in the department.

SUPERINTENDENT J. J. Fitzpatrick welcomed Maj. Gen. Russell L. Maxwell, who visited EOP after spending 16 months in Africa.

Homer Peters reported that there is at least one canned delectable, which is neither frozen nor rationed, still on the shelves of a few stores. In case any one wants to save on a few points, Homer is going to let you in on it—it's rattlesnake meat.

Lawrence Myers was giving his grocery order over the phone the other day and among the articles on the list were two or three kinds of meat. The grocer, knowing that he couldn't part with that much meat, told him in a nice way that it was frozen. Lawrence, absent minded, said, "Oh, think nothing of it, it will be all right after my wife thaws it out."

Loretta Mock, Group 7, left for the good old homestead in Joliet. The inspectors surprised her with several lovely gifts.

Several inspectors had a good time in Morris at a P & A dance. Josephine Kien, Group 7, must have been there, for she just loves to do the polka.

The Gremlins you have been reading about in Smilin' Jack sure are doing their part in Stella Jaworski's office. They seem to get in the lead of her pencil when she takes dictation and also must climb all over her typewriter keys, for when she finishes a letter no one will claim it and if someone does claim it they have to sit by her side and keep an eye on the keys while Stella types it over again. This time, whether the Gremlins are scared away or not, the letter turns out perfectly. Has anyone a powder or something that will take care of these Gremlins for Stella?

Congratulations go to George Wetterhahn and Mel Kennedy of Group 3. George was promoted from shift supervisor to senior inspector, and Mel was promoted from inspector to shift supervisor.

After working with Bob Rolence for some time, it was finally learned through a recording, that he is an accomplished musician on a tenor saxophone.

It just doesn't pay Joe Motta, Group 61, to dream about Alice. While doing so his news for The Bomb-Shell disappeared. Of course, his inspector friends wouldn't know a thing about it.

BOMB LOADING is watched by Maj. Gen. Russell L. Maxwell (left), Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, commanding officer, and Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, in Group 3-A.

Utilities

HELEN SHIMEK
Correspondent

S. G. Joseph, former superintendent of concrete, steel and brickwork during the construction of EOP, spent March 12 visiting here. This was Mr. Joseph's first return since leaving February 7, 1942. Since that date, Mr. Joseph has been connected with two Sanderson & Porter projects. First, he worked on the completion of the Rivesville Power Station at Fairmont, W. Va.; later, a dam project at Santa Fe, N. M., for the New Mexico Power Company. Mr. Joseph's work here contributed largely to the success of this project.

News has been received of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Vaupell of Elmhurst. Mr. Vaupell was until recently connected with the Utilities Department.

Beno Judge, Water Division, has moved back to civilization. The address is 1111 Kankakee Street, Wilmington—but he still complains of no key to his home.

Bus Transportation
By Margie Stevens

Robert Hayes is settled down at Great Lakes, and would appreciate hearing from his friends here.

James O'Connor has joined the Marines, and is missed by all his pals, especially at lunch time.

Girls are now driving the "zoom" buses. Any questions? Ask Ray Provance.

According to the guards at Group 8, Edith Cerre is doing O.K. driving a semi.

Margaret Forbin has a new light in her eyes. She says she gets a kick out of driving a bus.

Sheet Metal Scrap
By Jess Thomas

John Vidmar and Earl Olson passed around cigars. Both have sons.

Karl Triebel is now raising rabbits in anticipation of meat rationing.

Charlie Webb has gone to Mayo Brothers for a check-up.

Building Maintenance
By John Bottary

Alex Bertoia is now a member of the "I forgot my badge club."

Bob Walker and Charles Wackendorfer opened the fishing season at Taylor Lake.

Jack Shiner can use at least three more men.

Eddie Wolford says his Victory garden will grow only one vegetable—'onions.'

Bob Dickman won't help his wife assemble a quilting frame again. The blisters on his hand explain the reason.

Elmer Dupree has given up smoking a pipe. Cigarettes are easier to handle.

Pipe Shop News
By Mary Wynne

Lucille Hassel has a definite aversion to snakes, even a toy one which jumps out of a can marked "peanut brittle."

Everyone was glad to see Harry Chayer back at work after being off for two weeks with a severe cold.

Kenneth Robertson, pipefitter on the night shift, left to join the Army.

Jim Miller always carries a few marbles in his coat pocket in hopes that someone will want to play during the noon hour. Jim says, "In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of marbles."

One of the most efficient Red Cross collectors during the recent campaign was Mary Wynne, who had even the cot at the Pipe Shop tagged!

Machine Shop Slants
By Marie Studer

Paul Becker celebrated his birthday March 17, St. Patrick's Day.

Edward Delaney has returned to work, also Glen Bick, who returned March 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kallner are the proud parents of a new son.

All baseball-minded men of the Machine Shop are reminded that Spring training will begin just as soon as the weather warms up a little bit. Anyone who wishes to play is to report to Manager Becker. As most know, the Machine Shop won the trophy last year, and hopes to repeat this year.

Telephone Tid-bits
By Elaine Christman

Mary McFadden resigned as an operator to care for her home and children.

John Brewer and family spent a week-end in Streator, his home town.

Loretta Bradshaw has been on the sick list for a week. All hope she will be back soon.

Velma Whitmore has received word from her soldier boy, Ray Harper, that he has been transferred from Camp Grant to Washington, D. C.

The field men of the telephone building have been kept busy with cable trouble caused by the heavy lightning and rain storm of March 15.

Radio Ramblings
By Kathryn Richardson

Oh, the pity of it all! The thermometer read 10 above zero and Gust Hahn nonchalantly walked into work with the sunniest suntan ever seen here. He said he fell asleep under a sun lamp and everyone believes him.

R. A. Brown has a few homemade recordings which really take the cake. Ask him about the one which he has very appropriately named "Corn."

They were discussing the tramp situation the other noon hour at work and were wondering if there were such things any more. Ken Storch answered the question by saying that on his day off he took a little tramp around the town.

Who "planted" the mouse near the telephone in the front office? It could have been Clarence Coope and yet he isn't the only one with a sheepish look on his face around these h'yar parts.

Herb Senter stood at the work bench assembling a radio when apparently something went wrong and Herb (on the verge of using a little profanity) looked up suddenly and saw your correspondent watching the process. "How long have you been here?" asked Herb. Your correspondent (not knowing that he meant—standing in that particular place) answered, "A year and a half." "Oh, you poor girl," he responded, "you must be tired—draw up a chair."

Merle Eberhart was greatly envied as he walked into work gingerly swinging an apparently new lunch bucket the other day. "Just a new paint job," Merle reported. It was a new tool box he carried in March 19 though and was he beaming?

Bess Moore's Brother Is Reported Safe

Bess Moore, chief, Personnel Division, Ordnance Department, has been notified by the Navy Department that her brother, Marine Gunner Joseph F. Moravec, who was reported missing in action in the South Pacific, is now back at his base in New Hebrides. A letter from the fighter revealed that he had to bail out during a driving storm when his plane ran out of gas. The hail cut off his helmet and goggles, but he hit the water and immediately launched his collapsible rubber boat. Friendly natives on the shore hid him from the Japs and later took him to an outpost from where his base was signaled. A plane was sent for him and returned him to his own squadron. He was missing for ten days.

Guards

GENE RYAN

Word has been received from Sgt. Joseph Haley, a former guard here. Joe sent his regards to all the boys and said he enjoys immensely The Bomb-Shell. He is stationed at Camp Adair, Oregon, and would welcome letters.

It seems a good many former guards are moving places in Uncle Sam's Army. Former Supervising Sgt. Ray Harper is reported in Washington, D. C., while former Lieut. James Connor is at Fort Jay, Governor's Island, N. Y. Both are in the MP service.

Deep sympathy is extended to Sgt. Foster Jarvis and Lieut. William Bantner in recent bereavements in their families.

The Guards' basketball team saved a number of their backers from embarrassment by coming through with a victory over the "Dribblers" from the Fire Department. Not seeing the boys in action before, it was difficult to select a proper monicker. But then came a flash—"The Beef Trust." Some shapes and sizes—but they put the ball through the hoop.

Frank L. Hansen, former guard, is a corporal in the Army, stationed at Camp Chaffie, Arkansas.

Congratulations are extended to Lowell French, who is now fondling a new son, born February 27.

The Guards suffered another loss when Peter Sacco was called by Uncle Sam. From the many telephone calls he received, he was quite popular here.

Your correspondent has been pondering over a noteworthy article in behalf of the Irishman's day—March 17. After due deliberation (being of Irish descent) it was decided not to flourish on the subject, as by the time this reaches press, the Kellys, O'Briens, Murphys, and the Macs will have resumed normal stature, that is, their expanded chests and heads will have been reduced.

Capt. Walter Bayer, Lieut. Gene Ryan, dispatchers John Smith and John Welch were very interesting and accommodating students at a recent card-playing demonstration given by Joseph Wolf at a recent fellowship meeting. Guard Wolf asserts that at all future lessons all students will be awarded gold certificates.

With the Women
By Lt. Ruth Chidsey

Marjorie Kelly, a former woman guard, has returned to the farm. It is hard to lose a good policewoman, but farming is very essential and all wish her every success in her new endeavor.

Alice Lacey has been called home to Ottumwa, Ia. Her mother is very ill.

Sgt. Billie Taff enjoyed a day off last Friday. She went to Chicago and really did the town.

Mayona Nelson, efficient driver, is home suffering from a severe cold.

Some of the women guards were pleasantly surprised when, on St. Patrick's Day morn, Margaret Egan sang a number of Irish songs and Helen Dillon danced a jig.

Zelma Kinard is spending all of her spare time reading the seed catalogs. She plans to have one of the best Victory gardens at EOP.

Lt. EveAnna Castle helped Miss Dillon befriend a little white puppy. Luella Lipzchutz applauded their noble deed until she was asked to sit in the back seat of the car so that the puppy could sit up front and keep warm.

Esther Martin of Joliet has been employed by this department.

Several of the women guards bowled March 10 and then joined Capt. Gladys Armstrong for a chicken dinner. Several of the girls were proud of their scores and others were a little discouraged. However, a good time was had by all.

Lt. Ruth Chidsey has been trying to convince the office force that that little plant on her desk is a shamrock and not a clover.

Beatrice McInerney was a victim of another automobile accident. Her injuries were slight but painful.

Several new women have entered the department: Georgine Blaeuer, Wilmington; Mary Burke, Joliet; Clara Arnold, Dwight; Amy Gable, Manteno; Alice Lee, Kankakee; Peggy Stinespring, Kankakee, and Bette Walters, Joliet.

Cecile Martin resigned because of ill health.

Ruth Kimmel received word that her son has joined the armed forces. She is doing more than her bit; it isn't everyone who can boast of having a husband in the Navy and a son in the Army.

Jo Finch moved to Joliet from Morris. Her husband left for the Army.

The harmonious strains emanating from the Payroll Department at quitting time St. Patrick's Day came from none other than those famous sons of Erin, John Dolan, John O'Connell and Company. Many wonder where the wheezy baritone with the bald pate, the company part of the trio, learned all of those Irish lyrics. Perhaps he is Irish on his mother-in-law's side.

Material Warehouse

FRANK McCORMICK
Correspondent

Kenneth Wehling, Tom Martin, Paul Ray and a few of the Warehouse employees are warming up every day during lunch hour with the baseball and gloves, and expect to be in the best of condition when the season officially opens.

Gerald Fitzgerald, one of the old timers checking material for John Markley at the Hub, was examined March 18 for military service. If Fitz is accepted and will do as good a job for Uncle as he has done here for EOP it will not be long before this war is over.

Robert Gulso, a checker stationed at the Hub, reported March 18 at Peoria for a final examination for the armed forces. At the rate these youngsters are leaving for the fighting fronts, it looks like Charlie Herbig, Clinton "Barrel House" Jones, Fred "Billy Goat" Nelson and your correspondent, "Superseding Ticket" Frank McCormick, will be about all that's left to carry on.

One night recently in a bowling match, Felix Senasac got three fingers stuck in a ball and he couldn't get them out so when it was his turn to bowl, Felix, ball and all shot down the alley, knocking down all the pins on two alleys. When Felix wanted to chalk up two strikes, the other players wouldn't allow it so Felix quit bowling and is strictly a pingpong player from now on.

With the robins singing every morning, the rains falling and all signs pointing to spring, most persons shiver and hang on to their overcoats every time they see the old "Fox Squirrel," Joe Horrell, hiding stale bread crusts and sour peas and potatoes.

Fire

STUART MOLONEY

FRANK J. SKOFF
Correspondents

The boys of the Fire Department are busy with the black paint and crepe to match. No one has a sweet smile for his fellow fire-fighters and it is not very nice to come home to the fire inspectors.

Fire Inspectors John D. Smith, Harry Nielson, John Hembrough, Jim Dickson, Jack Jevitz, Tom Brown, Bob Graham and Harold Guderjan handed Frankie Nolan a petition requesting that the color of the pretty carmine hued extinguishers throughout the area be changed to black.

Mark Settlemoir, Bill Monk, Ken Curry, Ogle Garrett, Art Flahaven, George Bexson, Dutch Meyer and Otto Mietz are mournfully engaged in a most unjoyous task . . . they are tying large bows of crepe around each and every fire barrel in the lumber yard . . . page A. M. Lockwood. The barrels in the groups are receiving similar treatment from Ermand Marco, Clyde Townsend, Did Jensen, Lynn Boman, Orville Riggs, Nick Cleary, Murrell Smith, "Cy" Ochs, Howard Arnold, Don Trimmer and Clarence Kline.

Now you are whisked to the Fire Stations to show you how a brave fireman stands up under the strain of an overwhelming avalanche of grief and sorrow. At Central Fire Station, Chief Roy W. Mortenson has quit eating. Cliff Weiss, Charlie Davis, Walt Lueder and Bill Reichert, assistant chiefs, refuse to play checkers. Tony Schnelton stopped cooking and Frank Scoma won't talk. Donnie Jones has joined a Bible class and Tom Downey is running for mayor of Ottawa on the Prohibition ticket. Willie Hayes just sits and stares with his eyes closed.

At the Group 60 fire barn, Grover Alexander keeps asking for the address of Pete Kelly's mission; Al Newman just won't be drawn into an argument, and Walt Williamson doesn't care if he gets a raise or not. No one can get Mike Ryan to leave at the end of his shift. He says he just can't bear his grief all alone looking at four walls.

Charlie Jiskra stopped writing those fancy checks. Larry Bade gave up playing the piano and "Pappy" Hayes sold his roller skates. Jim McGinnis wants to dye his hair black and Gerry Noyd keeps mumbling "I'll Never Smile Again." This article gets more and more depressing (and disgusting), so off to Station 3 for a gander.

Here also the clouds hang low. Buzz Pavlich, Earl Fitzgerald, Ed Koren and Don Trainor just look at each other and tears come to their eyes. The officers got together and formed a "Sobbin' Blues" quartet with George Philip as soprano, Ralph Rausch, baritone; Mike Olson, mezzo soprano; Norm Lubs, contralto, and George Rogina and Ken "Squeaky" Brooke doubling on bass. They were accompanied by that Frankenstein of the canine world, Rin-Tin-Tin the Third (4, 5, and 7). This is slightly more than is usually found in the average quartet, but what are a few figures . . . if it's art . . . (haw)?

But back to the boys on the rigs. Joe Vaccaro's chin is down to his knees . . . and that's a drop in any man's language. Ed Kamper has to be watched every time he shears his mustache for fear that he might include his throat in the operation. Angelo Amarose won't even fight with his kids at home and Ludwig Lazar is wearing purple glasses.

At the Chicago Road Burning Pit, the scene is equally miserable. Clayton Fuller just says "yes" in a mild manner to all questions put to him by Walt Van Winkle, Roy Barth, Lee Gadberry, Harry Moran, Ralph Hoehn and Donald Pray. Frank Hayes nods his head in mute approval of all these doings.

By now all youse readers who have not fallen asleep . . . or fallen off the wagon . . . with this drivel, may faintly wonder what is this calamity that has overtaken the ex-happy Fire Department. Is it the reverse at Kharkov? Income Tax? The Lenten season? Memories of the early days of the war . . . or what?

Anyone who has gone through the ordeal of reading the foregoing is entitled to an answer and here it is in your correspondent's own dull and rambling manner.

On the afternoon of March 16, an event took place which is common practice (says the script). Those darlings of the basketball world . . . "The Fire Department Dribblers" encountered three teams from a group or a team from Group 3. It was a tough tussle. The boys sank one sensational shot after another (and then they sank). It was a see-saw, razzle-dazzle affair throughout. The final score was in doubt until the whistle blew (the Fire Department blues). The crowd was treated to basketball a la professionals. The boys were practically perfect. The game uncovered one star after another, Ed Stricklin, Larry Dailey, Loris Hart, Ed Dickens and Joe Catalani. Your correspondents have never seen 'em play, so they don't know who else is on the team . . . but it's a cinch they were great that night.

In the last second of the game a freak shot from the opponents was found in the Fire Department basket, thus rendering the final score 33 to 17. It is unimportant who won. The fire fighters did their best and after all, it was only a semi-final in some sort of a tournament and look what it gave the boys in the department . . . something to sigh for . . . something to cry for . . . and a lot of names in The Bomb-Shell.

The following new members are welcomed to the Fire Department: Sylvester Hubert, Anton Stukel, Erwin Randolph. And "so long" was said to John Watkins, Paul Mulvain, Max Reick, Al Schomas and Rudy Getson.

Set two more places at the table. Old friends Len Jesson and Wiley Bell are back from the Army.

Marine Says Girls Here Are Inspiration

Harvey Conrad, who left EOP in March, 1942, to enlist in the Marines, visited his former co-workers here March 16. Mr. Conrad was an explosives operator in Group 1.

After serving with the Marines for six months, Mr. Conrad was honorably discharged following an injury to his hand during a drill in San Diego, Calif. Then he enlisted in the Merchant Marine and, for some time, was on convoy duty in the Atlantic. At present he is training gunners in New York.

"The girls at EOP," said Mr. Conrad, "are doing a swell job on the loading lines. I will admit I was somewhat shocked when I saw a girl doing the same job I used to do, but after watching her and her associates in the building, I am confident that the ammunition will continue to roll no matter how many men are called to the armed forces.

"I wish it were possible for all of the men who used to work here to come back to see what a wonderful job the girls are doing. It would be an inspiration to every one of them."

Standing in Trucks Is Dangerous Practice

Employees who stand up in the backs of trucks while they are in motion are cautioned by Rollin T. Reed, safety supervisor, that they are committing an offense against safety regulations and are taking needless chances. Mr. Reed pointed out that if the truck should come to a quick stop, the workers might be thrown off balance, and cause a serious accident, resulting in lost time for the employees and considerable expense to the plant. Truck drivers are requested to be certain that all passengers are seated before starting.

OFF TO THE WARS goes Peggy Warren as she places her own number on the Time Office Honor Roll as Bernard McShane, John O'Connell and Milton Treitel look on.

Ordnance

HELEN McGINNIS
Correspondent

It is with regret that farewell was said to Capt. David P. Tunstall, who has been public relations officer here for longer than a year. The best wishes of the Ordnance Department went with him . . . and the big welcome mat was spread for his successor, Capt. Paul Cooper. His pleasant manner will bring him hosts of friends and so "Farewell and Welcome" is said all in the same breath. . . .

Now to the work at hand. . . . Ray Reynolds, known as "Skip" to the gang in Operations and Engineering, is now in Milton, Wis., where he will receive civilian training as a pilot and after two months will be enrolled in the Navy V-5 program at the University of Iowa, at Iowa City . . . how about that? . . . ain't ya glad? . . .

Also heard the other day that Harold Holz, formerly of Inspection is now in the Armed Forces. . . . Boy, they sure are grabbin' 'em. . . . Who knows . . . maybe your correspondent will be next. . . . That cute little man with the bow and arrows caught another gal in his journeys . . . yep. . . . Ethel Dirker now answers when you call "Mrs. Robert Campbell" . . . hubby is Pvt. Bob Campbell of Scott Field. . . . Congrats and good luck. . . .

Suppose you heard that Emma Shea was in a cigar store buying a big fat cigar for Bill Leeland and her pride and joy, the junior edition of Em, her daughter, told the vendor . . . that if her mom was going to start smoking . . . she wanted a package of snuff. . . . How about that!

The Public Relations office has a new "glamor gal" . . . she is the very pretty Jeanne Baskerville. . . . All welcome her and hope she will like the gang.

Keesler Field, Miss., is the new home of Robert McEvoy. . . . He's at the Air Corps Technical School there.

Danny Considine is the clock-outingest guy ever known hereabouts. . . . When he goes to lunch, doesn't he go up to the time clock and big as life punch out . . . having done that once . . . could be forgiven . . . but no . . . Danny boy romps up the next day and does the same thing . . . when questioned about this . . . Danny just sighs and mumbles something about . . . "Well, if you had 10 girls working for you, you'd be nuts, too."

Bernece Carlson had the "flu bug" the other day . . . but she done threw him and is back on the job again.

Hazel Kossak heard from hubby, Art. . . . He's in Florida, soaking up all the sunshine. . . . He was in the Inspection Department prior to being inducted into the Army. . . . Hazel is about to get writer's cramp writing to him. . . . He is one of those A A F T T C. . . . That is really a mouthful, but it really means somethin' . . . yep, them flier fellows sure do the stuff, don't they?

Lois Ressler is keeping herself scarce these days. Has she got something on her mind that is important . . . have heard rumors that her heart is fluttering for a dark man . . . full name is unknown at present . . . Janet Chapman sure is a model of neatness and besides has a swell personality . . . she's in Operation and Transportation.

Many wonder how Aubrey Brockhouse manages to get his exercises since Ray Duclos left . . . no ping pong to take off that excess weight. Also Don Hubbard must miss those "bull" sessions that gang use to have . . . Seems as though no one ever won.

Leona Sopher of Personnel reverted back to the old ways to catch a man . . . she and her friends from Streator and Joliet were taking a tour through the penitentiary in Joliet the other Sunday and Leona played "drop the handkerchief." . . . For details it is suggested that little "Lee" be consulted . . . anyway that gang had a good time . . . and they always do . . . Bill Zelko sure was missed the other night when the Transportation outfit had a party . . . ya know kids . . . he's the "life of any party." . . . "Snuffy" Santry, the traffic king . . . sure gets the guys and gals off on the right trains at the right time. . . . By the way . . . what's that "Snuffy" deal?

The flash of the week . . . Mavis Emerson has taken over Orphan Annie's job as a Commando . . . so folksies it is now Colonel Emerson of the Junior Commandos.

Flossie Babecke has all but lost that Kentucky drawl she acquired on her recent trip.

From the Timekeepers

Best wishes went with Otto Zenke who recently returned to his former position with the Armour Packing Company in Chicago.

Kay Lohman's brother, Ensign Robert Lohman of the Naval Air Corps, has completed his training at Corpus Christi, Tex., and spent some of his furlough with his charming and cute sister.

Flash, flash—Willie Peebles has something attached to his upper lip . . . no one seems to know just what will happen . . . but are all waiting with their usual sceptic looks.

Lots of persons are jealous of Jay Folk's curly hair, why not with the price of permanents what they are! Wonder how Chester Tomes likes walking the floor at night . . . he should secure the services of that stamina stout Lewis Schuck . . . he'd be a big help. . . . Or maybe the quiet manner of Lonnie Richardson would fit into the picture better. . . . Anyway the timekeepers want to help all they can.

Q. What does Guadalcanal mean?

A. Named by a far-wandering Spanish adventurer in 1568 after his home town, Guadalcanal, Spain, a silver-mining village 50 miles northwest of Seville. Village name is believed to have come from the Moorish "wadi," meaning stream, and the Spanish "canal" meaning channel.

J. W. Milus, a first sergeant at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, formerly employed in Group 3, wrote that he had been there a year and is training recruits as they come from reception centers.

FILLING ORDERS for persons sought from here to there is the daily job of Floyd Schauland, assistant personnel director, attempts to fill. He is shown with his secretary, Jane Schnepper.

Personnel

Darwin "Dale" Boitnott has been making it a point to be confident his name will be in each issue of The Bomb-Shell. Know what he did now? He had a birthday; nothing so unusual about that, but what happened in connection with it is what started tongues to wagging. Someone who signed only the name, "Lorella," sent him a birthday box similar to the kind you used to receive when you celebrated at school. Starting out with home-made cookies and candy, gum drops, peanuts, shaving soap, tooth-paste and tooth brush, it ran the complete list of everything that a fertile imagination could unearth down to a toy sailboat and socks.

Even though Claude Sayre can't by any stretch of imagination be included in the Personnel Department, unless you count his daily visit to the building, a story he told about himself is just too good to omit. Going to a small eating place directly after he finished working (and without bothering to change his clothes), he was accosted by a man who noticed his EOP badge. Answering pertinent questions, he revealed his name and that he was A. M. Lockwood's assistant. "Oh, no you aren't," was the reply. "If you had a job like that you wouldn't be wearing those clothes!" Mr. Sayre said he bought those clothes himself and he's rather proud of them. (P. S.—The man later apologized.)

Alphe Englehart has been particular in caring for her shoes since rationing became effective. However, it's not many days since she made a little journey down the road to get a treat after her lunch at the Olympic Commissary. Stepping out of the car, she was talking, and stepped right into a puddle consisting of more mud than water as they had been grading the road. Mud oozed almost to the top of her brown suede pumps; now it's the subject of a great deal of good natured teasing, but it wasn't so funny at the time.

Titles of sleeping beauties were earned March 13 by Vivian Jones, Dorothy Kaldem and Marjorie Onsen. These girls, who usually eat their lunches at a fairly normal rate of speed, fairly gulped the food and then disappeared. The reason was soon apparent. They were discovered curled up in a row like kittens on the studio couch in the rest room, sound asleep.

While the subject of the rest room is at the front, the intruders of March 18 mustn't be forgotten. A few of the girls were in the room when the door, marked Private suddenly swung in so abruptly and forcefully that one girl screamed, intuitively guessing that it wasn't one of the Personnel employees at the door handle. It was none other than Comptroller John Cole and his assistant, Richard T. Bassett. In trying to reach L. D. Edwards' office, they had made the natural mistake of opening the door marked Private in the same approximate position in the hall. Moral—beware of doors marked Private.

Carmen Oldani has suddenly developed a hush-hush technique when anyone who might report something to The Bomb-Shell approaches. It wouldn't be so disastrous, if she didn't warn everyone in the vicinity that a villain is in the crowd and every word must be guarded.

News which shocked the entire department was received by Rose LeBeau recently when she learned of the airplane accident in which her only brother, flying Sgt. Isidore LeBeau, received fatal injuries in Hawaii. A military funeral was observed and his grave is on the island. Memorial services were held for him in Kankakee March 20.

Celebrating before they started fasting, girls in the Transfer Division took up a collection from every girl and bought a large box of candy. Acting as purchasing agent, Margaret "Dolly" Lundquist entered one of the best candy stores in Joliet and was asked frequently by the clerk, "You lika dis, Hon? Or dis better?" Not only was the box a good idea but the odds are that they almost made expenses as they charged every outsider for a piece of the treat.

A "bucket of tears" was presented to Miss Englehart by Frank "Mickey" Green, guard, after the recent sectional basketball tournament in Joliet, when the home team won. Alpha was there with a group of Bradley enthusiasts to cheer them on to victory, but she didn't shout loud enough. It was bad enough to lose to Joliet, but she lost a bet, too. There was a nice little verse of consolation attached to the pail which reposed on her desk when she arrived the following morning.

Ethel Dirker, secretary to W. F. Douville, chief inspector, became the bride of Pvt. Robert Campbell of Coal City, now stationed at Scott Field, at a double ring ceremony performed by Chaplain William Pearson in the Army Chapel at Scott Field, Illinois, March 8. The bride wore a beige dressmaker suit with blue accessories and a corsage of white roses. Attendants to the bride and bridegroom were Mrs. Alan Heavens, sister of the bride, and Sgt. Paul Ryan, also of Coal City and now stationed at Scott Field. Present at the ceremony were fellow classmates of the groom, who is attending the Army Air Corps Radio school, and also Clara Ashamy of Coal City. Members of the bridal party were dinner guests at the Officers Club.

When the new Mrs. Campbell returned to work March 15, she had a surprise. Fellow co-workers had bedecked her desk in pink and white crepe paper, old shoes and rice and placed in the center a wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride and groom. A lovely gift was presented to the bride by the group.

Fifteen guests helped Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Smith celebrate their third wedding anniversary February 28. The list included Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Wooley, Mr. and Mrs. Gar Burt, Mrs. Kermitt Long and daughter, Judy; Mr. and Mrs. William White, Mr. and Mrs. James George, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Loucks, Mrs. Roy Beourgois, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Falletti. A buffet supper was served and the honored couple received several lovely gifts. Mr. Smith is an assistant chief inspector.

Two new classes for Government inspectors began March 1. Robert Harbison is instructor for the group assigned to the Fuze and Booster area and Mr. Long is instructing those assigned to the loading lines.

Lea Dalton of Group 9 is recuperating from a recent operation and her friends hope she will be able to return to work soon.

Romance seems to be in the air these days—Vicana Wheeler is going around happy as a lark—that's what a new "interest" in life will do. Miss Dirker said "I do." Bernice Shroba is contemplating doing the same soon. Lois Martin is wearing gardenias and getting long distance calls from a young lieutenant in Panama and Penny Dagon is hoping the b. f. will pop the question—or is it just that Spring is in the air?

Linnetta Parry, librarian, will be known as Farmer Parry's wife soon. Her husband is going to farm the "old homestead."

Evan Lewis, line inspector at Group 3-A, is in the market for some chicken fence. Rumor says he's having a tough time getting it.

Group 2

Morris Banks bid farewell to his fellow workers and left for the Army. He is stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland.

Arthur L. Friedburg, formerly of this group is reported as being well and rapidly shaping up to be a 60-day wonder with a commission in the Navy.

By all accounts and correspondence, "a quiet life of heaven on earth" or "life in Peoria" ended when Pvt. Louis D. Shuler entered studies in the field of meteorology with the Army.

Philip Lipson was called in the draft—it's Private Lipson reporting for duty.

It is rumored that Max Krup feels the hot breath of his committee of neighbors who are just about to select him for greetings from the President.

What is this thing about the lost loves of Eugene L. Crumbaugh? The Fuze and Booster area is all broken up about it—girls, please! the man has duties.

"Doc" H. E. Barrett is known to give his lunch "bag" a last look-see for any stray pups or one of the family cats.

This "ducky" weather seems to take effect on newcomer David E. Jones. As his temperature goes down his big smile fades.

Chemical Lab

The girls at Chemical Lab have all added weight due to the excellent cooking of Harriet Nadelhoffer. Now, some good diets would come in mighty handy.

There's a decided improvement in Marie Plankar's bowling due to more "shut eye" since the boy friend went back to the Army.

Gladys Cain is busy moving and packing. She should be patient as all will be settled soon.

Katherine Ochs and Lorraine Kinsley have moved to the High Explosives Lab in Group. 71.

Catherine Kemp hasn't been feeling up to par lately. It might be due to a jaunt to Milwaukee.

Government inspectors in Group 4 recently enjoyed a delicious chili dinner prepared by Mr. and Mrs. John Habes.

Arah Lovel enjoyed a visit from her daughter who is studying nursing at Evanston, Ill.

Many wonder if Eddie Kluza has heard the proverb "a stitch in time saves nine." Seems he bent down to look into a cabinet one day and hearing a loud tearing noise, investigated the cause and hurriedly donned his topcoat. However, he later appeared on the (sans coat) due to the line inspector's dexterity with needle and thread.

Frances Olroyd spent an enjoyable week-end in Milwaukee with her husband, February 21.

FAST ACTION on the basketball floor was seen when the Inspectors met opponents. Members of the "see all" crew shown here left to right are: Front row—Robert Marlette, Robert Wilhelmi and Douglas Oram; back row—Robert Carroll, Frank Pitt, Marvin Beeley, Robert Brennan and Warren Hair.

There has been an addition to the James Morey family, an eight-pound son.

From explosive operator to farmer is true of Bill Busing, who resigned to till the soil.

A man who likes his job is Luther Keirsey. Mr. Keirsey says he will never leave the high pan floor.

Together at work and play are Harold Tease and Lawrence Baudino. The pair were seen entering the theatre together after a day's labor.

An orchid goes to Oscar Otterson, who never was late or missed a day's work in 1942.

When asked the name of his lady passenger, Louis Vitzthum says only "the gal from Texas."

William "General" Custer is the newest addition to the clerical department here.

Leonard Williams is very interested in the electricians—lady helper sounds more logical.

Donald Lukich is slated for the Army.

The nickname of George Woodburn is "Bumblebee."

Back to work, after a minor operation, is James Glade.

According to Ed Korevec, Forrest Clatterbuck is a whizz at checkers.

Paul Burke is well pleased when addressed as "Mr. Burke."

Patiently awaiting his "C" book is Sam O'Large.

Friends of John Meyer have nicknamed him "The Painter."

Recently William Biggs went to Chicago on a business trip.

Norman Johnston claims that he is an Irishman.

Four stitches were required to stop the bleeding of Al Pope's finger.

John Smith is wondering who ran into his car.

High Explosives

MARJORIE HOWERTON

The number of "executives" puffing on big, black cigars increased during the last two weeks since Ralph Rutland, carpenter, and Walter Emmerson, guard, both of Joliet, each announced the arrival of new daughters.

Charles DiPeso, Sr., Chicago Heights, will agree that his initiation as timekeeper at Group 63 was a wet one with all the snow and rain, much more so because of the muddy forced landing he took one day in Guard Emmerson's raincoat.

The big moment for Wendell "Wilkie" Overacker, Kankakee, arrived March 15, when he was accepted for Army service. Wendell left for Camp Grant March 22.

It is good to report a happy ending to the serial entitled "The Adventures of Ed Suffern and a Haircut." A few days ago Ed appeared on the job all slicked up like the proverbial sheik, but not with a crew cut.

Howard Pointer, Bill Handlon and Joe Rady are looking for a return engagement in an Australian tag wrestling match since the day they staged a real exhibition when Howard pinned both Bill and Joe. Matches are held every Tuesday night in Joliet.

Bernie Cavanaugh, explosive truck driver at Group 63, can't be blamed for being "up in the air" when he flew down to Camp Foster at Victoria, Tex., to attend the graduation of his son, Harold, from the training school of the Army Air Corps.

Sure signs of spring in Group 63: J. Claude Heap shedding his $65 sheepskin overcoat . . . George Mackey wearing orange March 17 . . . Mud getting nice and deep in the area . . . A flock of geese flying north . . . Discussing the planting of a Victory garden in back of the office.

A hidden talent of John J. Kezerle was uncovered when "Shorty" really started clicking on the adding machine.

Material checker Don Long is back on the job after being on the sick list.

Group 66-A

The Inspection Department has a new member in its fold in the person of Johnny Cross, formerly of Group 3. Jimmy Martin left for the Army.

Every group may have one, but 66-A is believed to have the best. The wrecking crew, the Dead End Kids, is referred to. They are led by co-captains Tony Kolenc and Charley "The Brains" Picco—the crew consists of 6 foot 5 inch Slim Walsh, Mutsy Ambrosich, Greek Kochoupas, Johnny Goggins, Don Zobel and Muscles Tovrea.

Fred Wesselhoff soon will bear a new nickname, "Pug."

Octave Cartier, clerk, slightly resembled a notorious gangster when he sported a derby recently.

Ralph McCormick, guard, is paying tribute to Guard Flash Gordon by hanging that title on his new coon hound.

Ben Sloan, of Firepower fame, is a new timekeeper here.

Group 6

It is rumored that Lorraine Barger is learning the "sign" language because frequent attacks of laryngitis caused her to lose her voice.

Gertrude Collins is now a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, where she is recuperating from an extended illness. Her many friends miss her and all join in wishing her a speedy recovery.

Recreation

E. L. WALKUP
Director

Table tennis players, both men and women, are requested to get in touch with their opponents for the tournaments, if you don't know them call the Recreation Department, Line 4109.

Dr. Andrew Bustin of the Hospital has played into the semi-finals of the Table Tennis Tournament, and he eliminated some good men, including E. C. Hubbard, Administration Building, who is a fine player.

How about that Victory garden? Not only is gardening one of the finest leisure time activities, but it should be a very profitable one this summer. Apply at the Recreation Department for garden space.

The men's Bowling Sweepstakes will follow the one the girls will hold March 26 and 29. Watch your Bulletin Boards and see your Employees' Activities Committee representatives for entry blanks.

With the Keglers

Maj. George A. Grant just seems to stay hot when it comes to shooting high games. He came through this week with three neat games of 224—171—171 and a series of 571.

O. K., fellows, if you are going to bet A. E. Frosch on high games his ball shouldn't be hidden on Tuesday nights any more, is the plea of Conny Carlson.

George F. Bent, Personnel director, also came up with a good series and some good games with 184 and 194, then he slipped to 127, but even at that he made 505.

Chief M. C. Baughman is the main go on Tuesday nights. He gets three or four pins on a few throws, then squanders a nickle bet that he can make a strike. It's safe to say the Chief is ahead in cash, according to W. A. Buck, who isn't ahead.

Everyone was hitting March 16. Floyd Schauland, assistant personnel director, rolled a neat 666 series, with games of 205—212—249 and seven strikes in a row.

The Machine Shop boys are doing quite a bit of bowling, having the alleys reserved every Wednesday at 2 o'clock. They are trying to beat the high score of 265.

Girls' Activities Increase

June Morgan, Personnel Department, is a regular Ladies' Day visitor in the Recreation Building.

Eva Sweda is a new member of the Employees' Activities Committee. She will represent the Timekeeping Department — so submit your ideas of recreational activities to her.

Proof of Dotty Mihelic's ping-pong prowess is demonstrated in the individuality she displays. Her latest feat was a solo game played under the table. And that "ain't" good! Especially on Wednesdays.

From all appearances the Women's Bowling Sweepstakes to be held March 26 and 29 will be interesting. Plenty of good bowlers are entering and keen competition is anticipated.

A number of girls from Group 3-A were bowling March 16. It is hoped they will return soon. These girls plan to have a strong softball team from their group.

Timekeeping

NICHOLAS BELLUSO
Correspondent

The Time Department's first girl timekeeper to become a member of the Coast Guard occurred when Peggy Warren announced that she had enlisted in the SPARS. The lovable and ever smiling countenance of Miss Warren, who by the way was one of the first girl timekeepers, will be missed throughout the entire department. They all realize, though, that this is also a woman's war and that her acceptance in the SPARS has released one more soldier for active duty. She leaves with the most gracious wishes of the department showered upon her and all hope that she is as successful in her new vocation as she was in keeping time.

Carl Swanson has replaced Homer Smalt as kingfish of the proofreading department. The addition of Carl's cheerful face and good humor is welcome.

Sparkles are flashing from the eyes of comely Ruth Stites since her soldier boy friend visited her. Rumors are that "the bells are ringing for me and my gal."

Five more boys are wearing the olive drab of the Army. They are Ray Rowen and Nick Choronzy of Group 1, Robert Zobel of Group 3-A, Robert Bright of Group 68, and one of the quiz kids of Group 70, Eddie Kollman.

Marge Downs has resigned from the proofreading department.

The time office was decorated with green March 17 when T. V. Brennan, who is as Irish as they come, passed out shamrocks to all.

Bessie East's son, Bill, is now in command of a Coast Guard boat.

Making up for a stinging defeat in handball several weeks ago, Milton Treitel came back and soundly whitewashed Richard Bassett by the identical score of 21-0.

Elmer Dames has replaced Charles DiPeso as culinary chef of the Time Department. Elmer also enjoys washing dishes — girls, please note.

Lois Parker visits husband, Carl, in Missouri whenever she gets the chance. Carl formerly worked in Group 1 as a timekeeper before entering the service. Mrs. Parker is now a timekeeper in Group 7.

Lloyd Raridion, who is better known as "Squish," has been Bloomington bound quite a bit lately.

Mrs. Robert Gehrke, wife of the former timekeeper, visited the main Time Office recently. She resigned her position in Fuse and Booster and is now in Battle Creek, Mich., where her husband is stationed.

Did you know that Eva Sweda sang "O you great big beautiful doll" to John O'Connell . . . all by mistake?

Many wonder what keen rivalry exists between a certain timekeeper in Group 1 and a certain timekeeper in Group 3, also, what does the middle initial "T" stand for in Ray Levenger's name and why does Ira Combs keep insisting that Saunemin has a gold mine and a trolley car? What psychic power does Bill Seeley possess to know days ahead of time that he is going to be sick and why does Nick Bartly want to go out in the field as a timekeeper? Could it be, as he says, that he can be more useful there, or is there a mercenary motive?

Production Planning

MARY McGOVERN
Correspondent

It has been reported there are two violinists in the department, namely, Jim Murphy and Fred Mastin.

Irene Blatnik, Harry Brown and Mr. Mastin all seemed to have the same trouble in reporting for work March 15. All three were in accidents, but by 11 a. m. they were on the job and business proceeded as usual.

Mae Norem gave all a scare last week by nearly passing out, but Ray "Mother" Banker took her under her wing and over to the Hospital. Everyone, including Mae, was recovered by the following day.

The Group 4-9 progress clerks are now working from the home office. Several of the girls were transferred elsewhere but Joan Schwartz, Owen Ellis, Gwen Hanabarger and Loretta Scott are still on the same assignment.

Not much mention is ever made of the persons working on the midnight shift in the office. They do one swell job. Orchids are sent to Mary Glade, Leota Williams, Argyle Dalziel and Ewald Becker.

Industrial Service

Mary Sedar and Miss Blatnik were on the sick list last week, also Dorothy Bollig.

Many would like to know the secret Tommy Nugent, equipment checker, has tried to swear certain people to secrecy about. It seems it has to do with a certain Saturday night in Rockdale.

It would be nice to know if it's the WAVES or WAACS that Mary Bertino is thinking of joining. But it is known why Meoma Jett has that lonesome look.

Group 2

A big hearty welcome was given Cliff Fisher, who was recently transferred here from Group 3. Cliff says he likes Group 2 very much.

Orville Rasmussen is quite a composer of poems. Amid his attempts at masterpieces—he brings forth some that are above amateur "stuff." Well, almost, at least!

Now that spring is just around the corner, it is evident that Paul Somerville's thoughts will turn to the athletic field. He is a declared sports fan.

Since Johnny Williamson and Orville are from the same town, they go roller skating together after working hours. They believe there's nothing like a little exercise to fill out the day.

Lt. Col. White Visits EOP, Sees Brother

Lt. Col. Charles G. White, executive officer to the base commander at Selfridge Field, Michigan, honored EOP February 26 by an inistration Area, Groups 1 and 3-A, spection trip through the Administration Area, Groups 1 and 3-A as well as other points of interest.

His brother, Walter H. White, assistant electrical superintendent, made his trip a pleasant one by pointing out the development of the plant from what it was two years ago, to its present day status as a most modern and up-to-date ammunition loading plant.

Another brother is Fred J. White, who, until March 6, was a maintenance electrician in Group 2, and is now in the Air Corps at Camp Grant.

TROPHIES WERE GIVEN to captains of the three leading teams by the representatives of the Recreation Department, namely, the Chemical Lab, the Guards and Group 3.

GROUP 1

BEVERLY GARING
Correspondent

Group 1 would like to pay its respects to Jack Barry, former correspondent for this group on the staff of The Bomb-Shell, expeditor, and friend, who died March 4 in Joliet. The gang misses Jack with his joviality and friendliness to all. All knew him and loved him for the "swell guy" that he was. Co-workers in Group 1 who acted as pallbearers at the funeral services were N. Johnson. E. Bowman, F. Malkosky, J. M. Ternes, C. L. Harris and George Doig, all of whom served Uncle Sam in World War I.

Ralph Emerson, foreman of Building 13, waited all year to see his name in The Bomb-Shell birthday list and it wasn't there. Ralph was heartbroken, so please note, readers, that Mr. Emerson had a birthday last month. (P.S.—He didn't say which one.)

Ed Kein, line foreman, has the line still guessing about his sudden appearance not long ago in full regalia—everything but tails and top hat—but the secret has leaked out. Ed was the proud recipient January 22 of an 8 pound, 1 ounce daughter. The stork really did a fine job on that trip, even with gas rationing, 'cause little Sue Carol Kein is a prize package.

Building 10 kinda' misses Sarge Boles, former Bay 9 foreman, since he went back to farming. Many wish Sarge would come back for a visit—with some fresh eggs maybe.

Did anyone notice Ken Chandler's nose last week? He had a big boil right on the very end of it and he claimed it was rather painful.

Favorite sayings of favorite people:

George Gibson, assistant superintendent—"What have you got to eat today?"

Bud Cane, formerly a guard at Personnel and now a well known member of Group 1 painters, is sponsoring tennis for the group. Anyone wishing to do a little or even a lot of playing on the EOP courts should contact Bud. Just catch him the next time he's in your building—you can't miss him—he's tall, blond, and handsome (also married).

If it weren't for Eileen Shipp, luscious blonde in Building 16, the members of her church in Manteno would have a cold welcome on Sundays. Believe it or not, Eileen builds the fires.

Robert Schroba, Building 10, left for San Diego March 18 with fellow Marines. The gang wishes Bob good luck.

Harry Dank and Harry Eungard, painters, received a hearty welcome in the group after a long illness.

Many wonder why Kay Cornman was looking so sad in a local brass-railer the other eve. Some who saw her said a lovelorn column should be started for her benefit.

Pat Nevin was really aggravated when Jim Jones spoke to her the other day. She was working at top speed when Jim walked up behind her and said, "Say, Pat, would you mind hurrying a little?"

Building 13 would like to know if Joe Neiswender will still be wearing his heavy overcoat in the middle of June. They're a little afraid it's getting Joe down.

Chuck Corliss, Building 3, is quite puffed up now. He finally got his white coveralls.

The group had an honored visitor last week—Harvey Conrad, formerly of the Marines and Group 1, and now just returned from a trip across on convoy duty with the Merchant Marine.

Those who have heard her wonder if Bernice Skriner will ever stop bragging about her girls in Building 10. She never talks about anything else, but the girls certainly rate it.

Group 3-A

F. G. TAMBLYN
Correspondent

Those who have gone into the armed forces recently are Robert Brereton, James Edwards, Robert Palda and Jerry Jacobs.

Joe Prieboy was limping along in Building 16-B three men short on account of illness, and his boss, Lowell Hansen, called up and yelled, "Hey, Joe, I'm short handed, send me two men right away!" "Two men!" stammered Joe, wild-eyed, "what in the double barreled blankety blank d'ya think this is, the Employment Office!"

Francis King, Vivian Dornberg, Jim Clark and Lloyd Zenor were congratulating Thomas Riley upon the arrival of his new daughter, his seventh youngster. "Aw," said Tommy, his homely puss turning two shades pinker than the floor wax, " 'twasn't nuthin', I jist done like I wuz told, you all know how Fitz is allus yelpin' at us for more production!"

Stanley Borowski misses his old pal, George Tierney, whose leg injury sent him to the hospital. George was doing all right at first, but lately it seems he made a turn for the nurse.

Harry Lenny feels certain that Stanley Angus won't find bakery pie crust so tough and tasteless if he will only take the pie out of the paper plate before eating it.

Many wondered how Martin Billsland could sell all those ornamental shamrocks to the Poles, Czechs, Lithuanians, Russians and Greeks here, until it was discovered he was telling them that March 17 was Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick's birthday.

Orin Marvick, Building 10, is out gunnin' for Harry Walters, Building 9. Orin wears a size 40 jumper, and last week Harry gave him a size 60. He was wearing two sweaters under it and three girls from Building 12 wasted half their lunch period waiting for the balloon to go up.

Cute little Gladys Kauffman claims that Forelady Della Norman doesn't dare argue with Everett Brooks, because she rides home with him, and there is a big bump out on Troy Road, and if he hits it, she nearly bounces through the roof.

The girls in Building 3 are having a great laugh at the expense of Marcela "Jeep" Vandal and Margaret "Tiny" Pavletich. It seems they wear rather snug coveralls, and in pushing those two-ton bombs around, they met with a slight—er—accident. It isn't permitted to tell where they tore 'em, but they were ripped not-withstanding.

Harry Ketner reports that Bill Baer has only one weather vane on his house now. He took the other one down, claiming there wasn't enough wind for two.

There is an unconfirmed rumor that, since rationing, Jimmy Hart pours used coffee grounds on his moustache and drinks hot water!

Slim Simmons, better known as tall, dark and homely, used to be quite a table tennis shark. But the night of the 3-A party, he tangled horns with the Safety Department champ. Since then he has put his paddle to a much better use. His new baby uses it to cut "um toofies!"

The inquiring reporter interviewed the matron of the girls' lunch room and queried: "What is the average age of your girls out here?" "Oh," replied the matron wearily, as she emptied six ash-trays, "I'd say most of 'em are in their early nicotines!"

It was midnight! The thermometer read 16 below. A group of blue lipped men huddled about a bulletin board and laughed uproariously. A bystander read the item, a scare-head from the evening paper which said: "Government Will Freeze Workers to Their Jobs." "What's so funny?" he asked wonderingly. "Hell, mister," the chilled laughers roared, "we work in 16-A!"

Four young drivers were proudly showing off their newly painted Mercury trucks to Emory Akeman, when one of the passers-by exclaimed: "My, aren't the seats on those Mercuries big, though?" "No," murmured Emory thoughtlessly, "no bigger than necessary." (And the air was suddenly filled with more dirty looks than you'll find at a peace conference!)

GROUP 3

NORBERT McLUCKIE
Correspondent

Trophies and individual basketball awards were presented to the winning EOP tournament teams the eve of St. Patrick's Day. The highlight of the evening was the game between Chemical Lab and Group 3. It was, without a doubt, the finest game of the season. It was a last minute thriller that ended 25-23 with Chemical Lab on the better end.

Credit has been given to the members of the team, but the coach was nearly overlooked. He is a mild-mannered man who goes by the name of Charlie Harrison. He was coach of the finest teams which ever came out of Kankakee High and is now employed out here as a safety engineer. So, while the boys of the team and Supt. H. D. Dougherty admire the second place tournament trophy and their gold basketball charms, sincere heartfelt thanks are given by everyone in the group for the excellent job Coach Charlie has done with the boys.

One of the best players, Ted Struck, is going into the Army and everyone is confident he will have that same indomitable spirit on the battlefield that he displayed on the basketball floor.

Anyone wanting pullets about three months from now should see Bill "Farmer" Beringer or Paul Lambert. If you place your order now the chickens and eggs will be held until called for. Yes, the eggs might spoil, but you'll get a refund.

A late report from the two chicken ranchers is that a super-salesman of chicken feeds, Frank Howard, changed their minds when the cost of feed for six months was figured.

Mike Zobel, Building 10, represents a perfect example of America's "All out for Victory" campaign. He, besides being employed in war work has four sons in the armed forces and a fifth son soon to be inducted. Mike is also a faithful purchaser of War Bonds.

The two would-be lovers, Tony Helling and Jim Crane, found to their sorrow that all the young men are not in the Army. After a hot race between the two Don Juans to win the affections of a certain young lady from Morris, in comes the dark horse, Youth, to win the prize, leaving Tony and Jim to place and show.

Embarrassing moment for Lloyd Miller: playing a slot machine and dropping a couple of nickels on the floor. Some believe that split seam in his trousers made him leave them there.

Jack Farcus must have the situation well in hand at home. He doesn't seem so sleepy on the grave-yard shift any more.

Jack Cerruti says if they ration meat and chickens, he's going into the hare raising business.

Bill Brennan, Bill Agrue and Tom Farley, three ramp men who keep things clean, are very glad to see Spring weather coming. They think it is about time for them to work without having cold feet and fevered brows.

It seems that Tony Gomora was bragging about his pool game one day so a few boys agreed to play him at the Recreation Building. Much to their surprise, Tony gave them a real and costly beating.

Stanley Kroger, Building 16's top kick, middle-aisled it the other day and in keeping with the times, now faces a war on two fronts. By way of comment, the honeymoon will be over when the dazed groom slips into that w. k. grave-yard shift. At any rate, your correspondent, in the midst of his bachelor bliss, extends condolences.

When Steve Colfer, swing shift super, found himself the custodian of the Head Man's rabbit dinner, he took no chances with a repetition of the unfortunate circumstances that led to the still-unsolved disappearance of its predecessor. Signed, sealed and witnessed receipts marked Bunny's passage throughout the office personnel until it finally reposed upon the Boss' dinner plate where it was received with gustatory anticipation, whetted by long denial.

PROGRESS CHECK-UP in the storage of loaded shells is made frequently. This photograph, taken in Group 64, shows, left to right: L. C. Brerton, inspector; Dom Pastore, general foreman of quality control; R. J. Cunningham, supervising general foreman; R. L. Irwin, group inspector; Frank J. Wehrli, supervisor; B. H. Born, expediter, and August P. Ash, Government inspector, who draws cartoons for The Bomb-Shell in his spare time.

Q. I'm going home on furlough and will need my car in order to visit most of my relatives. I don't have a gasoline ration book, so how'll I get one?

A. Apply for a temporary one at your local rationing board, when you get home. Take it easy though—gas is precious stuff these days.

Q. My girl writes that she's a WOW! Now I know she's good, but not that good! What else could she mean?

A. She could mean that she belongs to the Woman Ordnance Workers, Inc., soldier. This is a uniformed but non-military organization of women workers in armament plants whose purpose is to maintain health and promote friendship and cooperation among the workers. WOW!

Q. A friend of my dad writes that he was given the Victory Medal in World War 1. Why would he be given such a medal?

A. The Victory Medal was awarded to any person who served on active duty in the U. S. armed forces between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918, or who was a member of the AEF in Siberia or European Russia, even if he entered the service subsequent to the latter date.

Q. I have a pal in the New York State Guard and would like to know if this will keep him from being drafted.

A. No. Membership in the Guard doesn't relieve any of its members from the provisions of the Selective Service Act. However, any fellow in the Guard gets darn good preliminary training for the regular Army.

Q. How are dependents of enlisted men classified for allowance under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942?

A. Class A, wife and child (or children); Class B, parents, brother, sister, or grandchild, who are found by the Secretary of the Department concerned to be dependent upon such enlisted man for a substantial portion of their support.

EOP Executive Officer Promoted to Major

George A. Grant, executive officer at EOP, was promoted from captain to major March 18, it was announced by Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, commanding officer. Maj. Grant has been at EOP since September, 1941, and has been executive officer since December 23, 1942.

17, 1941, and continued to command both plants until March 11, 1942. For the next six months Colonel Gerber was on special duty with the Ammunition Branch, and on August 1, 1942, he was appointed the first Field Director.

Colonel Gerber was promoted to major in 1935 and to lieutenant colonel in 1939. With the application, for the first time, of the selection system in December, 1941, Colonel Gerber, while in command of the Elwood Ordnance Plant, was selected for promotion from lieutenant colonel to the rank of a full colonel.

Colonel and Mrs. Gerber reside in St. Louis. They have a son, Lt. Theodore Gerber, a graduate of the United States Military Academy, class of 1942, who is now in the Pacific area; and a daughter, Charlotte, who will be graduated from Cedar Cliff this year, and who is married to Lt. Richard Curtis, also a graduate of the United States Military Academy, class of 1942, and now serving in the Atlantic area. Lieutenants Gerber and Curtis were roommates at the Academy. Lieutenant Curtis is a nephew of Brig. Gen. Edward M. Shinkle, retired, now plant manager, Day & Zimmerman, operators of Iowa Ordnance Plant, Burlington, Ia.

VISITORS TO EOP included Maj. Gen. Russell L. Maxwell, who was greeted by Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, commanding officer, and Maj. L. K. Culbertson, Kankakee Ordnance Works, and Maj. W. G. Jones, aide to General Maxwell.

Chemical Lab Clinches Hold On Cage Title

Group 3 Is Second In Elimination Tilt; Guards Take Third

By E. L. Walkup

No basketball tournament ever ended with more enthusiasm than the EOP elimination tourney. Every game was strongly contested and a game was never won until the final horn was blown. No tournament ever displayed a greater spirit of sportsmanship than the one just completed March 18.

The Guards and Fire Guards fought it out for third place and a more cautious and clean game has never been played by these two teams. It was only during the last quarter the Guards were able to sink five baskets to two for the Fire Guards that put the game on ice for them. The final score was 22 to 16.

In the final game Group 3 again missed during the third quarter and Dennis "Little Poison" Elliott started grabbing the ball from all angles and feeding it to the boys who were in position. At the half the Group 3 boys were leading 14 to 12, but at the end of the third quarter the Chemical Lab team had 21 points to Group 3's 17. Group 3 started to come back in the fourth quarter with three goals to the Lab's two, but time was too short and the boys from the Lab won 25 to 23. A cleaner, faster game has never been played on the floor was the comment of John Kusinski, in charge of Athletics for the Recreation Department.

After the games E. L. Walkup, director of recreation, presented to the winners beautiful trophies that no doubt will grace the desks of the respective superintendents. Small gold basketballs also were presented to the individual players of the three winning teams for winning the round robin tournament that was held during the earlier part of the season.

Plan Softball Leagues Here For Men, Girls

Second Season Is Expected to Draw Many More Players

Before the snow had melted the Recreation Department was kept busy answering the phone regarding the possibilities of softball for spring and summer. There were eight teams last year, but a quick check indicates that this year there will be 12 or 14 teams in the men's league, and possibly 8 girls' teams, according to Myrna Faris, director of girls' and women's recreation activities.

John Kusinski, director of athletics, said it looks like a strong season for softball players. Some of the teams which already have asked to be listed and some of the reasons why they are sure they will be able to win a trophy make interesting pre-season reading.

Group 70, last year's winners, according to Paul Becker, manager, will be right at the top again this year and his reasons are such strong players as Lou Haake, Mario Zanninni, William Ashenbrenner, William House, Delno Gavoni and William Whaling.

The Bus Drivers will have a strong aggregation with William Babich, Leo Scaggins, Claude Cole, Lawrence Anderson, Keith Hossack, Robert Ehrsan and Seveno Leggero, manager.

Group 62, last year's second place winners, will be in there from the start with Edward Sheridan as manager, and Eddie Spiezo, Mose Williams, Horace Clark, Mat Reay, Emil Ramsak, John Havens, Frank Zupancic, Charles George and Leonard Suhadolc.

Group 1, under the management of John Burdette, will have James Tucker, Francis Sharkey, John Fegan, Fred Harris, Sam Africano, Vernon Hilt, John Hanson and Kelly Arseneau, so Mr. Burdette feels confident.

Group 61, with Harvey Steffes as manager, can always be sure of a good strong team. Some of his players will be Joe Motta, Robert Plese, Steven Juricic, Robert Hinz, Alfred Pope, Harold Rouff, Laurence Budino, Robert Karges, Edward Korevec, John Smith, Raymond Carlson and Forest Clatterbuck.

Some of the other teams which will be in there fighting, but were not able to report their players, include Group 3, where Supt. Henry D. Dougherty awaited the finish of the basketball tourney before turning to softball. Robert Hanks is manager.

The Guards will have a strong team and so will the Fire Guards with Sgt. Edward Stricklen as manager. Harold Bowler, who held the Army quintet together for basketball, is really going after a fast playing team. Robert Wilhelmi's Inspectors also will have a strong aggregation. The Fuze and Booster Chemical Lab—winners of the basketball round robin, will try to repeat in softball. Denny Elliott probably will be the manager.

Girls Like Softball

Much enthusiasm for softball is being shown among the girls of the plant. Teams from Groups 1, 3-A, 8, 9 and 60 already are being organized. The team from Group 1 will offer plenty of strong competition this year. The majority of last year's winning team will be back including Mary Gurka, Frances Krenn, Mary Dresser, Lola Harnack, Betty Ford, June Kemp, Helen Jubera, Dorothy Oldrich, Jeannette Salzman, Mary Klen, Helen Maher and Cecelia Bebey. Mr. Burdette will manage the girls and with such experienced players much is expected from this team.

Group 8 will have the following players on their team: Theresa Seno, La Verne Gomora, Veronica Vilt, Lucille Englert, Betty Johnson, Eileen Woodcock, Ida Bishop, Angela Turk, Janet Bailey, Dorothy Lehman and Phyllis Filette.

There has been a tremendous change in the type of conversations the last few days. Instead of speaking in terms of ice and snow Group 8 dialogue tends toward home runs, base hits, put outs and competition.

Jo Donna of the War Bond Department plans to have a winning team from Group 60. Some of the players will be Elaine Levanduski, Dorothy Mihelic, Gloria Frazier, Dorothy Tou Velle, Irene Mulligan, Irene Batnik, Juanita Kliegel and Kay Cusick.

Those groups who have not organized a team are urged to do so and notify Miss Faris in the Recreation Department, Line 4109.

All teams which plan to enter either of the leagues are requested to keep in touch with the office so that when equipment arrives they can get some for practice.

Salvage

ANDY VAIL
Correspondent

You can't spell Victory with an absent "T," remarked Albin Smrekar.

Art Voss no longer walks to Manhattan. He now rides the local.

Believe it or not, Jack "Simon Legree" Murray referred to this department by its proper name—Salvage Department — and not "Transit Mix."

The Army no doubt got its inspiration for training the Commandos after watching Mike Doyle one morning when he took across the hog lot and over the fence closely pursued by an angry 500 pound porker.

Francis Rogan found it very difficult to dig his Victory garden with a snow shovel.

Rita Brogra is welcomed to the office force, the only girl up here in "Siberia."

Dominick Astorino is somewhat worried for fear that a ceiling will be placed on doughnuts and he will be unable to consume his daily dozen.

Many have heard of persons running into doors and getting scratched, but there is a new one from Donald Doyle. He claims he fell off a horse.

Dara Prew's Engagement Announced in Joliet

Announcement of the engagement of Dara Prew, correspondent for the Personnel Department on the staff of The Bomb-Shell, and Charles McKeown, city attorney of Joliet, was made March 16. Miss Prew formerly was society editor of the Spectator. She was graduated from Joliet Township High School and Joliet Junior College, where she played leading roles in operettas and dramatic productions. She won the Gerlach-Barklow Junior College Scholarship and Robert M. Adam award. No date for the wedding was announced.

Construction "E" Awarded to Pine Bluff

Sanderson & Porter Have Army-Navy Flags in 2 Fields

Announcement that the men and women of Sanderson & Porter at Pine Bluff Arsenal, Pine Bluff, Ark., had been honored with the Army-Navy Production Award for high achievement in war construction was received with elation at EOP. A number who helped build EOP are with the Pine Bluff group.

Harrison Smith, resident partner here for Sanderson & Porter; A. E. Frosch, chief engineer, A. M. Lockwood, general superintendent of utilities, and Thomas M. Burns, general superintendent Fuse and Booster Area, plan to attend the "E" award ceremonies at Pine Bluff April 10.

Armed with a contract dated November 13, 1941, Sanderson & Porter arrived at Pine Bluff November 17. Offices were opened in the city, which is ten miles south of the reservation, with forces at one time scattered over three locations—two office floors and the local Armory.

The permanent Administration Building at the site was ready for occupancy April 1, 1942, and was fully tenanted by personnel of the Chemical Warfare Service. Temporary headquarters for Sanderson & Porter were occupied February 7, 1942.

The first contract covered incendiaries only and was followed by a Depot Extension in February and a Chemical Section in April, 1942.

Ground was broken in December, 1941, and there immediately set in a wet winter and spring, April alone contributing over 12 inches of rain. There was one January snow storm with temperatures of 6° above, all of which sounds tropical when compared with Elwood conditions. All soil within the reservation comprised a layer of clay and sand from four to eight feet deep overlying a hardpan. The wet weather converted all ground into a quagmire and one of the embarrassing situations was the miring of two Chemical Warfare generals while on an inspection tour in February, necessitating "cats" for their rescue.

However, when spring finally settled followed by a very dry summer, construction progress was remarkably good. The Incendiary area comprised six lines, each of which was completed on schedule at intervals of two weeks. The first munitions were turned out in July,

Stay Off Grass Or Get Ticket

Spring is here and the grass is turning green. E. O. Huey, head of the Plant Protection Department, urges all EOP workers to stay off the grass in the Administration area. Most of the territory has just been seeded and the grass should be given a chance to grow. Violators of the request will be given a ticket (just as for a traffic violation) by the Guards.

Posters Important in Safety Promotion

Emergency Stations Named for Shortage

Seven gasoline service stations in the vicinity of Elwood Ordnance Plant have been designated by local members of the Office of Price Administration to take care of the needs of EOP employees in the event there is a gasoline shortage similar to the one in the East last December.

These stations will be provided with gasoline for war workers and military personnel should others be closed as the result of any severe shortage. The stations are:

FitzHenry and Cate Oil Company, 76 South Chicago Street, Joliet; Jack's Service Station, Route 66A, Elwood (Approximately one mile north of the plant); Carkhuff's Service Station, Route 47 and Washington Street, Morris; The Wilmington Motor Company, Route 66 and Main Street, Wilmington; Krizan's Service Station, Fifth Avenue and Broadway Street, Bradley; Schoth's Service Station, 687 East Court Street, Kankakee, and Baron Huot Oil Company, River and West Avenue, Kankakee.

Ample notice will be given to EOP employees should a shortage develop the need to use the emergency station arise, said R. T. Bassett, assistant comptroller.

Safety Records Increase at EOP

New safety records are being set each month by various departments of Elwood Ordnance Plant. Group 61 has now operated 15 consecutive months without a lost-time accident. The Fuze and Booster groups operated all of March without a lost-time accident. For the first time, all loading lines, Groups 1, 2, 3 and 3-A, had no lost-time accidents during any one month, February.

Buying Safety Shoes Is Made Easier

Recent Office of Price Administration rulings have eased the restrictions on war plant employees, including those at EOP, pertaining to the necessity for them to exchange their Number 17 ration stamp when buying safety shoes.

It is still necessary for employees to present stamps when buying safety shoes from their employers, but in the event the Number 17 stamp has been used for street shoes, a certificate can be obtained from local rationing boards and this can be substituted for the stamp. If the stamp has been used for safety shoes and street shoes are required, a certificate may be obtained from the boards.

Patterson Praises War Workers Here

Employees of EOP were told that they shared a tribute with the soldiers on the fighting front, by Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, in a telegram informing them that Army Day would not be celebrated with the usual military ceremonies and parades this year. Army Day was observed April 6.

"Americans everywhere are too busy fighting and working to pause even for a few moments," said Mr. Patterson's telegram, "but the occasion remains a tribute to the soldiers of America. On this Army Day you who have done your full duty on the production lines, share that tribute with American fighting men. Our soldiers are on the offensive over Europe, in North Africa and in the Pacific. With your continued support the Army will keep that offensive rolling until Victory rewards our efforts."

Blood Bank May Be Set Up Here

A portable trailer "blood bank" of the American Red Cross may be in the vicinity of EOP within a few weeks and a committee has been named to check the possibilities of using this equipment for obtaining blood donations here.

The committee is composed of John F. Welch, War Department; Veronica Kelley, Hospital, and Anna K. Baird, General Offices.

Safety Plan At EOP for All Employees

Accident Prevention Is Ceaseless Task Of Trained Workers

The farflung safety program in effect at Elwood Ordnance Plant reaches into every department and covers all of the activities proved most effective in the prevention of accidents. The execution of the program is in the hands of Rollin T. Read, safety director, of 28 trained safety engineers and assistants.

Premises in the loading and assembling lines are inspected daily and any unsafe conditions are immediately corrected so that they can't develop into hazardous situations. Close co-operation is in effect with the Plant Protection Department and its various divisions.

Prevention of traffic accidents is developed with the Guards, and elimination of fire hazards is sought in conjunction with the Fire Department and the fire inspectors.

First Aid Included

Mr. Read, who was assistant manager of the safety section of the Dupont companies for five years during and after World War I, and who served as secretary-manager of the Delaware Safety Council and as president of Public Safety Councils for the Southern States, has three general assistants. Karl Ulrich, a former State safety consultant engineer and labor conciliator, is assistant director. Harl Son, who spent several years in highway safety, supervises the safety engineers in the loading lines and Al Hesley, a construction safety engineer, looks after the miscellaneous areas.

A meteorology division furnishes up-to-the-minute weather forecasts for the guidance of the plant's operating department. There are two meteorologists, G. B. Ward and L. S. Southcomb. I. W. Hawes, formerly of the National Safety Council, conducts first aid classes throughout the area. Leslie M. Ross supervises a statistical division, which is located at the EOP Hospital.

There is a safety engineer on duty for each shift in the loading and assembling lines. In some instances there are two for the day shift. These men make daily inspections, reports and recommendations and the progress of suggestions for improvements and

Listen to Army Hour Each Sunday

EOP employees are urged to listen to the Army Hour broadcast every Sunday afternoon, 2:30 to 3:30, over the NBC network. WMAQ in Chicago carries the program, which dramatizes the functions of the various divisions of the Army. Activities of the Ordnance Department were dramatized in the last two programs and those who heard them were thrilled by the experience.

Absenteeism Decreasing

It is with much pride that we can report that the percentage of workers absent from their duties is decreasing and during the month of March it was the lowest experienced at EOP. This improvement is taken as an indication that employees are becoming more conscious of their obligation to the fighting men.

We hope each employee will realize the importance of his job to the war effort. Without your help and regular attendance, either some one else must do your work on the days you are absent, or this plant will fail in fulfilling its assigned tasks. We do not believe you are consciously a shirker, or that you wish your plant to fail in its mission.

No "E's" for Absentees

You can't win the "E" if you're an absentee! The Army-Navy Board for Production Awards gives the factor of absenteeism a high rating in considering the eligibility of war production plants for an award for excellence in production.

Companies which are nominated for the award will be requested to furnish the Board with a statement of the percentage of absenteeism in their plants for each of the preceding months, so that the Board will have data on the current situation and an indication of whether the problem of absenteeism is increasing or decreasing.

Unnecessary absenteeism is seriously curtailing production of war material. Labor organizations are cooperating with Management and the Government in a national drive to reduce absenteeism by eliminating such causes as illness, accidents, poor transportation and housing facilities, and the lack of appreciation by some workers of their importance in the war program.

Buy War Bonds Now!

The second great campaign of the United States Treasury for the sale of War Bonds starts next week. Be ready to do your share. If you are not already an owner, be sure you are one before the campaign is over. Better still, sign up now to purchase a $50 bond out of your weekly pay. Just ask your timekeeper for a slip and you can be enrolled in the EOP Ten Per Cent Club, devoting 10 per cent of your earnings each week to war savings. If you already are a buyer, buy more. Money as well as men and materials is needed to win this war.

The Burning Pit
By Scorchy

Thoughts from a Sentry Tower: —Who said a goldfish has no privacy—after 20 minutes up here I'm convinced any ordinary goldfish could be an accredited member of the gestapo and still escape detection—but on to the labors of this exalted position.

Illinois is awfully flat, isn't it? — Brunswick - Balke - Collender ought to capitalize on it and advertise it as the "Billiard Table State"—Nice car going by—no wonder he has it full of pretty gals —suppose he thinks he attracts that kind of riders, but how little he knows about the magnetism of a Super DeLuxe Stratoliner Job—(10 payments still due).

Wow! there goes W. G. Lanterman lickety split—bet he doesn't spend half his time on the right side of the road—might call him a passing fancy, so to speak—bet the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company would like that right rear job for their museum as tire No. 1 from their establishment.

More activity among the farmers these days—the plows coming out in the open—tractors getting their first squirt of oil since 1942. . . . Greyhound buses, Santa Fe Trailways buses—how in the world do they get the gasoline and tires to ply (no pun as far as tires are concerned) their trade.

Well, I guess I'll go out for a spell—too bad they could not build plank walks this short distance—not such a bad assignment after all—always did have a liking for poetry—pretty good world as far as I am concerned—that Sears-Roebuck outfit is a pretty square gang—I'm for them from now on.

I feel better now—eight hours times 60 minutes is 480 minutes. I never knew 480 minutes took such a long time—that Alton engineer thinks he's smart blowing that whistle so long—bet he lives ten miles from the nearest railroad so he can't hear the bleat of his contemporaries—whoops! here comes G. R. Kintzel with his seemingly new Chrysler—hope the Scorching (copyrighted) sun doesn't fade that black paint.

Look at that bunch of joy-riders, they couldn't possibly be from EOP, must be from a neighboring establishment (we have our cash rates for public mention)—how does that guy manage all that traffic and still keep the strangle hold on the damsel, we admit she likes it but the irresistibility of concrete culverts is something that throws one-armed driving into the realm of insoluble insolubles.

Well, sorry folks, got to go now —here comes my relief.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I suppose my pitiful little defense of your spectacular columnist will be completely buried under the perfect avalanche of protests you'll receive after that Baloney-Mann expose . . . but please, do read it at least, won't you?

The very idea of those two awful men saying such terrible things about that darling "Scorchy"!

Why, they should be ridden on a rail—(no, they'd probably only put one foot on it and order a chaser, since they were the originators of that famous war slogan, "Sighted Schooner—Drank Same").

And each of these ungallant galoots claims to be a Self Made Man! Which only serves to accentuate the absurdity of using nothing but unskilled labor. * * * * (Why, these Lydia Pinkham fiends look so derned run down, that last week three undertakers wanted to submit estimates!)

But—such diatribes are to be expected from men who do nothing except sit around all day . . . and that's where these lads really shine.

Ah, the impudent idiocy of their challenging the prolific pen of that scintillating scribe whose fiery style has rightfully earned him the hard won nom de plume of "Scorchy." Why, he's uncovered more startling subjects than Gypsy Rose Lee!

Tscha! The piercing thrusts of his rapier like wit will carve them to ribbons before they can even lift the clumsy broadaxes they use for timid tete-a-tete. 'Tis like pitting a dashing D'Artagnan against a pair of oafish offal mongers!

And now, with such a warm, informal introductory, what a perfectly grand spot to introduce our campaign cry, "Scorchy for President!"

This great man is the logical Candidate for '44. He has always been marked for exalted places—why, even as a child, he held down a very high chair.

Once he ran for a big office. It was near closing time and the elevator broke. As a youth he worked hard and faithfully, trying to clean up the county. He sold soap.

When elected, he promises work for everybody—grafting perfume buds of stinkweeds along the Michigan Canal. And he personally guarantees that there will be no horsing around with the meat situation, and that he will force dandelion shoots to give out with canned peaches and cut plug.

Voters! Get behind this Magnetic Personality! Give him a push, a shove, or at least a pat on the back. If you're a blonde widow of 28, at 118 ringside and wealthy, just give him a warm look and a blank check.

Enthusiastically yours,
Euphelia Roanebeck
Campaign Manager

I have written . . . a poem!

Farewell to a Bomb

Now Pal, you'll be all loaded
Long before the end of day.
Then we'll roll you in a boxcar,
And they'll start you on your way.
When you land on Wilhelmstrasse
Blow the d..m thing all away,
As you boom, "With love and kisses,
From Fitzpatrick and 3-A!"

—James Hart,
Safety Engineer.

I Have Written a Poem

There are two little Helens and one little Millie,
They work right next to me, and oh, are they silly.
When one of these girls comes up with a joke,
She passes it around and we laugh till we choke.

The one little Helen, with sweater of blue,
She works harder than the other two do,
But there are times when her work is done
And she stops for a while to join in the fun.

But the Helen who wears the babushka of yellow,
She works quite hard, but she dreams of her fellow,
And as she stamps boxes she thinks of the chap
And longs to be home, sitting in his lap.

But for that Millie, there's not much I can say,
Her two main past-times are sleep and play;
And very happy I would be
If she had a little more ambition, like me.

The Victory Gals

We're all alike—we Victory dames—
And none of us has any claims.
We wake in time to see the sun in the sky.
Rather than get up, we'd just as soon die.

We reach our Group, alight from the bus,
Put on uniforms, and prepare without fuss.
Our hair is combed in a simple way—
Off with glamour eight hours a day.

There's Rosie who works on the Fuze line,
And Mary who numbers each mine.
They accept every hardship that comes with a smile,
Thru unity they will denounce the word Heil!!!!!

We do our work the best way we know;
War Bonds, of course, with all extra dough.
There's never any complaining at all.
We know that eventually Hitler will fall.

We're not doing this for only me and you,
It's for the whole Nation—the Red, White and Blue.
We're fighting now on land and on sea
To keep Uncle Sam's children happy and free.

Beautiful Spring

I'm—oh—so glad that spring is here,
The sun smiles down so bright.
The little birds are in the trees
And chirping with delight.

It's a tingling thrill to linger
Where the flowers are once more seen.
The tulip lifts her pretty head
As though she were the queen.

The tree lifts her leafy branches
Up to the clear, blue sky,
Where the skylarks and the robins
Are soaring up so high.

The Maker must be very kind,
He made each pretty thing.
We ought to love Him so much more
For giving us "Beautiful Spring."

—Edith "Billie" Valentine
General Offices

We're Glad We Live in the U.S.A.

We don't hear the cannon's roar,
Or see bombs drop at our front door.
We're in a country that is free;
We're Americans, you and me.

We're glad we live in the U.S.A.
And not in a country across the sea
Where they bow and beg on bended knee.
Congress can use our very last dollar
To preserve our freedom, we won't holler.

Our boys are out there fighting from day to day
And aiding in defense plans in every way
To keep Herr Hitler from our shore
And maintain peace forevermore.

He wants to get us in his clutch
Like he did the Danish and the Dutch,
But we'll guard our land and guard it well
'Ere a Hun sneaks in on us to dwell.

And when Il Duce's ceased to be
And Hitler's been dunked into the sea,
We'll have our liberty, tried and true,
'Neath our own Old Glory, the Red, White and Blue.

Kin Urged to Write Often to Service Men

Soldier Says Paper Shortens Distance To North Africa

Workers at EOP who have relatives in the armed forces overseas now have a greater responsibility than ever to write to them frequently by V-mail as only those letters have the best chance of being delivered to the fighters.

Regulations prohibit the mailing of The Bomb-Shell and similar publications to those stationed overseas. Authorities also asked that a proposal to form a correspondence club among EOP employees to write to the men and women overseas who formerly worked here not be developed as letters from relatives only will receive priority in delivery.

These steps were taken to save valuable cargo space, sorely needed for ordnance, food and supplies. Only V-mail from relatives is transported by plane and can be duplicated in the event of loss, as the originals are kept in this country until word that the photographic copies have been received. Other letters go by ship, which is much slower, and they cannot be duplicated in the event of loss.

Congratulations to his former associates here on their winning of the Army-Navy "E" Award were sent by Pvt. Fred M. Padley from somewhere in North Africa. His letter, dated March 5, said five or six issues of The Bomb-Shell were delivered to him "when the mail finally came through." Those probably will be the last he will receive as they were sent prior to the regulation against mailing publications overseas.

Gets Overseas Haircut

"I thought I enjoyed your paper while I was in the States," said Pvt. Padley, "but now that I am on foreign soil—well it seems to mean just that much more. It seems to shorten the distance of the miles and miles of land and water that separate us."

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. Maude Adams of Cerro Gordo, Ill., Pvt. Francis L. Adams said he had received his "overseas haircut" and would be on his way across by the time the letter was received. Commenting on the picture of Maj. Gen. Charles T. Harris, Jr., on Page One of the January 29 issue of The Bomb-Shell, Pvt. Adams said he had served under him at Aberdeen Proving Ground and considered him one of the best officers with whom he had come in contact. General Harris presented the "E" flag to EOP employees February 12.

Tom J. Riley of Group 3-A received a V-mail letter from Lt. Col. D. J. Manning, somewhere overseas, in which he said he sees "the EOP stamp every day" and "it gets bigger and better."

Corp. Harold E. Johnson, a former timekeeper here, who has been transferred to an Army Administration School at the University of Mississippi, said he was home on a furlough recently, but had no idea former employees would be permitted to visit the plant. "Please say hello to all timekeepers in service and those still at the plant working for John O'Connell," he added.

Girl Is Transferred

Additional congratulations on the "E" award were sent by Pvt. Ernest Kinzer, Fort Sam Houston, Texas; Pvt. F. A. Tibble, Fort Bragg, North Carolina, and Pvt. Harold L. Sites, Camp Campbell, Kentucky.

Lucille A. Ambrose, formerly of the Comptroller's Office, now with the SPARS, wrote that she had been transferred from New York to Stillwater, Okla., for special training at Oklahoma A & M University. Marco Polo had nothing on Lucille when describing travels and experiences, as those who have heard from her will testify.

Staff Sgt. Maynard B. Standley, a former employee who visited here recently while on furlough, is now an aerial gunner with the Army Air Force at Salina, Kan. In a recent letter to his mother, Mrs. Estella B. Standley, of Kankakee, he said his crew had received their plane and predicted he would be overseas soon.

Corp. Raymond H. Myers, formerly of Group 5, is now stationed at Los Angeles and wrote interestingly of visits to Hollywood, where he met a few movie stars, and the Los Angeles radio stations. He is attending a radio school.

Pvt. Albert D. Saieg, Camp Hulen, Texas, said he would "drop the company a line from Berlin or Tokyo as soon as we get settled there." He formerly worked in Group 1. Pvt. William R. Hamilton, Camp Hauze, Texas, sent greetings to his former associates in Building 6, Group 1. He reported that Fedele Testa, who formerly worked in Building 13, is in his company.

In Radio School

L. E. Webster, an aviation cadet at Maxwell Field, Alabama, wrote that he remembered with pleasure the 20 months he spent at EOP and that "while The Bomb-Shell isn't as nice as a dozen letters, it at least lets me know what the score is."

"The employees of EOP earned that 'E' and I hope that it will stay on the flag pole in front of the Administration Building," said Pvt. Robert R. Engstrom, Camp Hulen, Texas. "I want to congratulate each and everyone on the 'E' and the fine work they are doing."

Pvt. Jack Grimm wrote to Edward J. Keenan of Group 2, where he formerly worked, describing in detail his studies at a Signal Corps radio school at Ashland, Wis. He has finished half of his 20-week course.

In a letter to Geraldine M. Ward, Ordnance Safety and Security Division, Sgt. Jay Futterer, who formerly operated a "cat" at EOP, explained that he is chief of a search light section, stationed at Berkeley, Calif.

Letters and cards were received also from Pvt. Mervelle Helle, Camp Blanding, Florida, formerly of Bldg. 10, Group 3-A; Pvt. Alfred J. Barnes, Camp Claiborne, Louisiana; Pvt. Lawrence E. Ross, Portsmouth, Va.; Pvt. Amos N. Mathison, San Francisco, Calif; Malcolm L. Persinger, Great Lakes Naval Training Station; Mrs. M. Kreimeier, Bradley, Ill., in behalf of James S. Coyle, Great Lakes Naval Training Station; Donald L. Johnson, Naval Air Technical Training Center, Norman, Okla.; Lt. Douglas C. Etling, Douglas, Ariz.; James M. Scobell, Braidwood, Ill., in behalf of his son, Pvt. Edward D. Scobell, Greenville, Penn.; Pvt. James Ventsias, San Diego, Calif., formerly of Group 1; Pvt. I. A. Knight, Fort Lewis, Washington; Pvt. Earl G. Potter, Camp Van Dorn, Mississippi; Ralph E. Adams, RT 3/C, Treasure Island, California; Burton Peet, S 2/C, Memphis, Tenn.; Lt. Harold C. Morrison, Will Rogers Field, Oklahoma, formerly of Group 1, Bldg. 10; Pvt. William R. Hicks, Jackson, Miss.; Pvt. Hilbert H. Nelson, Camp Pine Dale, Fresno, Calif.; Pvt. Frank C. Butala, Fort Custer, Michigan, and AC Clarence Rowoldt, Johnson City, Tenn.

AS SPRING ARRIVES, this montage of recreational activities at EOP during the winter will bring fond memories to many. The Recreation Department is now busy with plans for the summer.

Emergency Calls

To report a fire . . . . . Dial 17
To call police . . . . . Dial 2229
To call ambulance (emergency only) . . Dial 4262

Report the nature of the emergency. Be prepared to answer all questions a doctor may ask. He has good reasons for asking these—in order that he may come prepared with the necessary equipment.

Fire

STUART MOLONEY

FRANK J. SKOFF

Correspondents

The Fire Department played its last basketball game March 17 in the finals of the Tournament, and lost to the Guards, with whom they were tied for third place. The team had a good season, winning eight out of 11 games. All are satisfied with taking fourth place in the tournament with so many good teams competing.

The last game for the firemen was one of the most exciting of all. At the end of the first quarter the Fire Fighters were ahead 5 to 1; at half-time the score was 8 to 8. It was anybody's game until the final whistle.

The members of the Fire Department team wish to express their sincere gratitude and thanks to all members of the Recreation Department for their splendid work and untiring efforts that made this basketball season so successful.

Sgt. Everett Stricklin must have had something on his mind during the last tournament game. Could it have been "Butcher Boy"?

"There just ain't no justice," says Frankie Scoma, "I read everything I can lay my hands on about those Hollywood lovelies. but when I retire at night, all I dream about is Indians."

Tony Schnelton: "I can only give you two eggs this morning. They're getting scarcer as the war goes on." Willie Day: "How do the eggs know there is a war?" P. S. This joke has not been approved by the OPA.

Professor Dayle Pratt, that tall, blond, and four-effsome chap, says: "The Government better do something about lifting the priority on girdles, or else enlarge the kitchen door."

Larry Dailey, master farmer, cracked: "Boy, I just can't wait until they get the Victory Garden going. I'll show them boys a few tricks I learned down yonder."

Seeds! Seeds! Seeds! The station is getting to look like a seed-growers convention. . . . The Chief yells to Stuart Moloney: "Have you got beets, corn, potatoes, beans, tomatoes, lettuce, peas, etc., on your list?" With perfect timing Cliff Weiss enters the office; the Chief sees him and immediately yells again to Moloney: "Don't forget the cabbage heads." And so starts the annual race between weeds and vegetables.

What is the reason for the sudden outburst of "birthdays" among the Inspectors? Johnny Connelly is aging fast, claiming at least three birthdays annually.

Regretfully it is announced that Jimmy Dillree is leaving the Inspection Department. Everyone here liked Jim, and all wish him luck in his new venture.

The columnists of The Bomb-Shell are all one big happy family; but, alas, every family has a black sheep and the last issue disclosed one of those unnecessary citizens. When bread thrown upon the water returns—covered with mildew; when the milk of human kindness curdles into whey (which no one eats any more); and when the upturned cheek is stabbed in the back; then is the time to assert one's self and rip asunder the veil of black magic that tries to poison the untarnished minds of readers by casting aspersions upon the honored name of a fellow correspondent.

Reference is made to that sly, crafty drooler of dastardly drivel who masquerades under the name of "Scorchy" and has the brazen gall to refer to a fellow correspondent as "Liverwurst," "Boloney," etc. It seems strange that one who dodges sending news to press under his own name is so eager to pun with the honored name of Moloney, a name which comes directly from the kings of Ireland and which is known throughout this country as a synonym for "lace curtain" Irish (see the Chicago Telephone Directory). Perhaps "Scorchy" has no other name. People in that category are defined in Webster's dictionary and one doesn't have to go very far from the front of the book to find the name.

Besides, why isn't "Scorchy's" picture at the head of his column? Agreeing to the fact that the picture fronting the Fire Department news is a genuine replica of a comic valentine, at least. L. D. Ross snapped it without too much fear of shattering any camera lenses. "Scorchy's" does not appear. He probably looks like Hitler with a hangover, or will when those sterling gentlemen whom he knocked catch up with him. More could be written in answer to this Pearl Harbor style of literature (hah!) had not an acute attack of ptomaine poisoning been suffered after reading the first few lines of the asinine article.

Inert Storage

CHARLES MANN

WILLIAM DENVER

Correspondents

Credit is due to a number of men who reported for work Sunday, March 28, and did a masterful job. They are George Harrop and his squad of William Hocking, Earl Ely, Joseph Lucca, Leonard Nelson, Frank Clausen, Delbert Zebell, Fred Waltz and Gene Pruitt; Milton Korach and his squad of Otis Lee, William Jones, Ray Spivey, John Harris, Gordon Woodson, Houston Powell and George Crenshaw; Charles McDonald and his squad of William Schoudis, William McCollum, John Leindecker, Frank Baber, William Stor, Angelo Ferrari and Francis Bryant; Edward Spezio and his squad of Louis Werner, Alex Ciarlette, Horace Clarke, Leonard Martin, Ray Sawatzki and Mack Willis. These men inconvenienced themselves to work that Sunday when most were enjoying ourselves. They loaded cars with components. This feat is just an example of the regular good work the men at Inert Storage are doing. They know what it means to be soldiers on the production front.

There is some dispute at South Inert as to the relative hardness of the back of a truck, the side of a warehouse, or Stanley Wiencek's head. In an unplanned demonstration the building remained as was, the truck left under its own power and Stanley, perfectly conscious, is back at work after three days of re-hardening.

The donor of a flowering plant at Group 27 is un-named. The boys say it looks like a baby sunflower except the blossoms are blue.

A collection was taken up in the office at North Inert for "Wilhe," the cat, and the official zoo keeper, Charles Wardell, bought six cans of cat food for the friendly mascot. He now says that three cans are missing and he strongly suspects that Willie Denver has made meat loaf with the missing food to serve his Sunday guests at his river estate.

The Victory Garden plots are not dished out through this office—North Inert. Some of the boys have called in for information as to how many seeds they would need to have a harvest to feed a family of four for the winter. There are no cabbage plants under your correspondent's desk although there are times when he wishes he did have a nice fresh radish or a ripe tomato (to eat). A garden of any kind would require seeds, rake, hoe, water and fertile soil. It hasn't been determined whether you would need a truck with a truck garden—maybe a coaster wagon or a bushel basket on a roller skate would be sufficient to carry the harvest, if there is anything left when the harvest season comes. Some of the clerical staff have suggested that typewriter cleaner used here would kill potato bugs . . . could be.

Morgan Moberly of Group 27 has an enviable record. He has worked for more than a year at EOP and has never missed a day. He is the father of four EOP sons—Bob, who worked at Inert and recently joined the Air Corps; Bill and Manus are now working at Inert and Chester is an EOP guard. If you ever drive south on Route 66 from Wilmington you will see Moberlyville across from Cleopatra Gardens.

John Wald, of North, has joined the few on the sick list and is putting up a battle to get back on the job. It seems a little flu flew in John's window and John fled to bed. All the boys at North hope he will fly back soon.

On the Side

Like any devotee of Isaac Walton your correspondent was gratified to see in the last issue of The Bomb-Shell that "Scorchy" had risen to the insect lure and in the lunge for the bait quite a prize specimen was discerned—kind of looked like he had a "Baileyache." Not only did the barb bring out some of the sharper sides of the "Scorchy" Scribbler, but it has promoted the Inert Column from the South East corner of page 9, Vol. I—No. 21, to the center column of page 3, Vol. I—No. 22. Thanks a lot—every knock a boost.

As to his roundhouse swings at this correspondent a few of his apparently more deadly ones should be examined. He boldly says he is a Mann-eating-fool—as long as he admits his basic character, the particular type is unimportant—besides he should have realized that he may be up against a fire eater. He also says his weight class was not ascertained, or what was in his gloves. It is realized that he was in the heavyweight class (that old one about the bigger they are, etc., could be brought out, but it isn't necessary) and that the only thing in his gloves besides digits is scorched wind. A little well placed pin prick could let out that hot air. "Scorchy," this is feud for fun.

BEVERLY GARING

Correspondent

To all those thoughtful people who made it a point to mention that they liked this column in the last issue go the sincere thanks of this correspondent. They were greatly appreciated.

Group 1 electricians are really going into politics in a big way. At present, they're supporting John Mackender for Justice of the Peace in Symerton. It seems that John will, in return, take care of any matrimonial problems free of charge.

The former Marie "Freckles" O'Reilly of Building 4 is now Mrs. Raymond Wennberg. Ray is stationed in a Naval Training Unit at Memphis, Tenn.

When Harry Peterson came into Building 3, March 28, he was one big ray of sunshine. "Pete" was one of the happiest men in the group. His son had just called to say that he was safe and sound in California after doing 17 months duty on Kodiak Island, Alaska.

Jimmy Barrowman, electrician, received a cablegram that has kept him beaming all week. His son is safe in the South Pacific.

Bob Blaine is now—believe it or not—a grandpa! The little one is Robert Bruce (after grandpa) MacDonald. Bob would appreciate it greatly if someone will tell him he doesn't look a bit like a grandfather.

The girls in Building 10 have been eager to ask Walt "Swede" Wiley where he has his hair done, because peroxide is getting scarce these days—but perhaps Walt won't have to worry. He says he's a natural blond.

Cpl. James E. Flannery came back for an afternoon's visit in his old haunts—primarily the boilerhouse in Group 1. The Corporal raced the stork from Tyson, Tenn., and won by a nose. He and Mrs. Flannery are very proud of the first prize, a seven and a quarter pound son.

The engineers at the powerhouse will be glad to show the new paint job to any distinguished visitors. What a little paint will do to "doll-up" four big hot boilers!

It has been requested that brands of cough syrup be changed. Mid Slack, chief of inspectors in Group 1, thinks it's peach brandy so will probably have nothing less than pneumonia all summer.

Eddie Sloss, inspector, wishes that no one ask him any questions for a few weeks. He's all out of teeth at present and refuses to open his mouth. Priorities really hit everyone nowadays.

L. M. Osterbauer, Building 4, should be an example for everyone to follow. He's been working in the group since it began and has missed only one day's work since he started. That's a record worth mentioning.

Edward J. Vaughan, Jr., arrived last week, much to the delight of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Vaughan. Ed, Sr., is one of the chief Government inspectors in Group 1. The group stork has now joined the union and receives double time for Saturday and Sunday.

Staff Sgt. Daniel O. Ruettiger, former employee of Group 1, Bldg. 5-A, received a citation from the Army March 18 for taking part in five or more bomber raids. He enlisted January 26, 1942, in the Air Corps. Dan wrote his dad, Eugene Ruettiger, Bldg. 10, that he has unloaded lots of EOP shells and they made him a little homesick, but he was certainly proud of the work the folks at home are doing. The folks are pretty proud of Dan, too.

Bldg. 4 is glad to see Dick Valentine with the patch off his eye. They were afraid he was missing at least half of everything that went on.

The group's sympathies go to Morris Crocker, whose father died March 24.

Bldg. 14 has ordered a soft chair for Armand Vicini, inspector. It seems he needs one badly. He must have attended the building party. Practically everyone who did has need of a soft chair or a bed. Betty Ford made a three-point landing in the middle of the skating rink and hurt (of all things) her finger.

"Swede" Harrison, Bldg. 10; Eddie Farrell, expediter; William McLean, expediter; Tom Shay, expediter; George Galvin, expediter; Raymond Hayen, Bldg. 10; Eddie Pack, Bldg. 4; Harry L. Leith, Bldg. 16, and Dick Farley, inspector, are Group 1's latest contributions to the armed forces. The folks are sorry to see them go and wish them the best of luck.

Material Warehouse

FRANK McCORMICK

Correspondent

The employees working with warehouse store keeper Malcolm Stenstrom on the night shift presented him with a briar pipe and a jar of tobacco March 25. Malcolm bid all good-bye and left the following day to join the Army. He promised to write and report where he is stationed, as he always did enjoy reading The Bomb-Shell.

Ray Nicholson, who checks in material at the Electric Shop in Group 70, has been considering going on a diet because he lost his appetite somewhere along the road, but had picked up an elephant's instead; so just as he was on his way to see his doctor about the diet, along came point rationing and if Ray can get the "point" and follow point rationing he can forget all about the diet.

Edward Giles is busy every Sunday around his summer home on the Kankakee River, plowing a garden and erecting a chicken house. As chickens are unable to swim, Ed would do better if he would get himself a flock of ducks, but of course he knows his own chickens and what they can do.

Thanks are sent to the Safety Department for the new top on the Warehouse table on which material checkers write receiving reports. This old table has been in constant use since the first day they started to write receiving reports on material received to construct EOP and the old top was so well worn that the checkers were getting slivers in their fingers. Although there are new desks and chairs which can be used when writing reports, the checkers seem to prefer standing at the old table with the long legs.

High Explosives

GROUP 63

By Larry J. Dunda

Chicago draft board examinations are calling five Group 63 men within the next week. They are Edward Solley, Lockport; Robert F. Barry, Joliet; Eldon F. Overright, Kankakee; Ray Gartke and George Barr, Wilmington.

The beaming face shown by Leo J. "Farmer" Steffes, of Morris, is easily explained by the fact that the arrival of an eight pound son was announced by the passing around of cigars.

Many wonder if Tony Zuppa can help out the boys with their meat rations from his store. The fellows seem to think he can since his dapper picture appeared on the front page of the local paper last week as he was lined up for his share of pork chops.

Wendell J. "Wilkie" Overacker, Jr., reported that he is now stationed at Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis. Bill Hall is way out at Camp Roberts, California. Dee Johnson, former timekeeper for Group 63, now in the Army Medical Corps, is stationed at Camp Barkeley, Tex. Last communication from John P. "Moozie" Piazza was postmarked Richmond, Va.

The two "beloved" cousins of Group 63, Eddie Suffern and Tony Togliatti, really promoted a birthday party for "Cousin Ed." Thanks go to Mrs. Togliatti for supplying a superb angel food cake and topping of ice cream. The very fine and "important" eggs were contributed by Ray Offerman.

Group 65

Tom "Cowboy" Harrop became the proud owner of a cow. His troubles have just begun, however, because the cow refuses to give any milk. The men at Group 65 recommend priming to start the milk flowing, so as to improve Tom's shrinking rations.

Anyone desiring information on how to save tires and gas are advised to contact Lemmel Ferguson. It seems that those Nash cars have so much power that one can't keep them "out of the air."

Group 68

By Elmer Zost

Recently announced by the distribution of cigars was the arrival of an eight and one-half pound son to Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Langdon.

After this E. L. McCray, Group 66 supervisor, and Edward Berens, night foreman, will think twice before accepting a challenge in bowling from Andy Perino and James Halpin—they really received a beating.

Something should be done about this—the Tatro twins, namely, Bernald and Bernard, are presenting a problem because they are identical even to a mole on the cheek. Suggestions will be appreciated.

A farewell dinner was held March 30 in the EOP Mess Hall in honor of St. Clair Smith, who left for his home in Stamford, Conn.

167 Plots Are Prepared for Use Here

Gardens Will Be Plowed, Fertilized, Ready for Planting

Just as they were 25 years ago, gardens are on the front page and in the headlines as an important part of the Nation's war effort. Gardens are again responding to their country's call to enlist in the great army whose battle cry is "Food for Victory."

The importance of food is being emphasized now, greater than ever before, as this is a global war. The food needs of the Army and those of our allies are greater than they were ever anticipated. Today interest is not so much in enough food but the right foods. The modern science of nutrition has been revealing facts and conditions about human health and the kinds and amounts of foods required.

EOP employees are now being given the opportunity to join this vast army of gardeners by signing up for garden space with the Recreation Department. One hundred sixty-seven plots of ground 40 feet by 50 feet will be plowed, fertilized and made ready for planting. Water is being piped to the area, and a tool shed built.

If you are not an experienced gardener, you will find that many of those already signed up for space have been farmers that know and are willing to assist you with your garden, men like Dale E. Fisher of Group 1, who has been director of community gardens, will be glad to give you information that will assist you.

The Recreation Department has much data on gardening, what and what not to grow. With the information that is available a novice should be able to keep his table well supplied during the summer months and have enough surplus to put much of his harvest away for next winter's use. Of course it is not as easy as that. The novice must realize that a productive garden means work. Not only should he have planned a garden, he must purchase seed—good seed—and plants. They must be spaced correctly or thinned out so they will have ample space to develop; they must be supplied with enough water so the ground will retain moisture; they must be cultivated frequently not only to keep down the growth of weeds, but to keep the ground loose so that air can get to the roots. Insect pests and plant diseases, the enemies of the garden, must be watched and taken care of, but the work is pleasant and interesting, it is out of doors and healthful, and as your garden matures you will find yourself well paid for the small effort you had to put into the project.

If you have not yet signed up for a Victory garden you can do so by seeing E. L. Walkup at the Recreation Department.

Japs Fear EOP Products, Huber Says

Bombardier Reports Success of Bombs To Their Loaders

EOP products really go over with a big bang, according to Sgt. Richard Huber, Army Air Corps bombardier and turret gunner, who visited Group 3 March 30.

The boys at Guadalcanal know that when they drop Elwood bombs that there are no duds. Sgt. Huber said that the Japs fear Elwood.

After the Sergeant's thrilling visit to Group 3, accompanied by Father Adrian of Catholic High and Dick Lowery, a former Elwood employee, he delivered a ten-minute talk to workers assembled to hear how he felt about the work they were doing. His enthusiasm carried the crowd. His stories of the dive-bombing mosquitoes at Guadalcanal, the splendid meals eaten by the American boys and his vivid reproductions of the sounds of various bombs and shells were well received.

In the evening, Sgt. Huber spoke at a dinner given in honor of St. Clair Smith. The sergeant displayed a piece of plastic glass through which he was peering on one of his Guadalcanal raids when it was smashed by Japanese slugs. He also read a citation given his outfit by the President and displayed some maps taken from a Japanese soldier which showed in minute detail the coral reef area of the region about Guadalcanal.

Sgt. Huber left April 1 for duty after a 20-day furlough, his next station being Salt Lake City where he hopes to enter an Officer Candidate School.

Group 4
By Marcella Hebert

Liberty Robertson is a little dubious about receiving contributions from friends anymore since she wore out so much shoe leather after accepting some gum recently.

Crystal Hansen and Doris Calloway are now situated in Chicago attending the Women's Aeronautical Instruments Training School. When they complete their fifteen weeks of training, they will be eligible for a commission in either the WAACS or the WAVES.

Catherine Cinkovich and her parents received word March 8 that her brother, Eddie, has been missing in action since February 17. He was stationed in Africa. He has been in the service since November, 1941. Another brother, Andrew, is working in Group 6.

John Kinney is the proud recipient of a handsome wrist watch. "A gift from Mother and Dad"—so he says.

Many wonder what Marshall "Fitz" Fitzgerald will do when they ration jokes.

Hazel "Tiny" Hartman will be glad when she can pick tomatoes from her Victory garden.

Peggy Lewis, forelady in Group 4, has resigned to enjoy the California sunshine.

If you have any problems to solve, see John "Curley" Seehafer, maintenance machinist. He has an idea for an answer for everything.

Red Kneller just bought another used car. He says his troubles are over.

The "Three Little Sisters" of the Delay Building, Mert Fordyce, Marge Hermes and Eleanor Fay, have a tough time keeping their pencils sharpened.

Clarence Bartlett is looking for another small rider. He is running the "midget express" now.

John "Pushcart" Kinney's business has grown. It comes from a reliable source that he has cornered the used tin market.

Mabel Kehoe visited her brother, who was home on furlough last week.

Deloris Davidson seems very happy these days, due to the frequent visits of her sailor boyfriend.

Congratulations go to Aaron Greifer, Chemical Lab., on his recent marriage. Aaron is back to work after a quick honeymoon trip to New York.

Ronnie Carlson and Harvey Sessi were recently seen shopping for hair pins.

A rose by any other name could never equal the tender blush of Rose Machak, popular powder girl in Bldg. 5.

John "Pa" Woods went shopping for a baby carriage in Chicago and had to walk the entire town after forgetting where he parked his car. He finally had to come home in the baby buggy!

The engagement and approaching marriage of Betty Eckhardt of Primer Loading is a topic of much interest.

Dorothy Eglin, after thoroughly learning primer loading, intends to become familiar with black powder pelleting.

"Honey" Kelley, Pauline Vismara and "Cindy" Parthun believe that actions speak louder than words—at least they have been very quiet lately.

Maxine Enger, forelady in Primer Loading, has been invited to join the exclusive Samaritan Club of Chicago. Membership is restricted to those who have distinguished themselves along social lines.

Theresa Svitek and Eddie Kluza, Government inspector, announced their engagement.

The girls in Shipping Room 14 surprised their forelady, Lauretta Delaney, on her birthday with a handkerchief shower and a beautiful bouquet.

The Shipping Room misses the familiar face of Leila Whall, who has joined the WAACS.

Earl Dufrain is missed by the Shipping Room. He was transferred to Group 45.

It has been heard via the grapevine that Myrtle Yates is planning a trip down the aisle to the tune of Lohengrin.

Everyone is pleased to see Kathleen Poutre back to work after being absent for a week.

Did you know that Marie Viscum is an accomplished vocalist and Frances Niewenski is an excellent imitator of Gracie Allen?

Sue Bagay is a graduate welder and will soon get her certificate as a master machinist. At present she is foreman of her class in night school.

William "Wild Bill" Watt is the financial genius of Group 4. Not only does he cash in on his chickens and rabbits but he also has a lucky streak that pays off.

Ann Meres and Margaret Surinak are the jitterbugs of Group 4. Things that help make the day more worthwhile are: Lois Schultz's laugh; Mary Foster's blush and Marie Hodina's soft voice.

Group 5

Gerry Morris spent a delightful week-end in Springfield with her parents.

Eileen Garrish's recent bereavement has the group's sincerest sympathy.

Inspector La Verne Dite has the undisputed title of champion gum cracker of the group.

Mary Davis seems to be broken-hearted since her husband left for duty, but Florence Schnebly is all smiles since her husband was home on a leave from Camp McCoy, Wisconsin.

Margaret Laverty, Lillian Gunderson, Jean Gunderson, Anne Chorak and Frances Craig of Group 4 and Lottie Maloney of Group 45 were recently transferred to Group 5.

Miss Laverty's ever-present smile has been even cheerier than usual lately due to a visit from a certain fella in uniform.

BOMB LOADERS HEAR BOMBARDIER when Sgt. Richard Huber, Army Air Corps, speaks to Group 3 employees during his recent visit.

Group 6
By Mary Richards

Everyone in 6-4 misses Bessie Kennedy, who left to study aircraft assembly at Detroit.

All are glad to see Eleanor Fleener back at 6-4 after being ill for some time.

Someone should explain why Evie Krohn gets so mad when called "Patches."

All the girls in 6-4 welcome Mary Jane Barrowman as forelady. She was formerly in 7-4.

Everyone in Group 6 will be missing Eddie Schultz, who left for the armed services. He is now stationed at Fort Sheridan.

Catherine Colls is back after being ill for several weeks.

J. G. Crites, assistant superintendent, left Group 6 to go back to his home in Ohio. All were sorry to see him go and he will be missed by his many friends. All wish him the best of luck.

Group 8

Marjorie Kirincich and Alice Krzich came to work all dolled up and said they're going to Hollywood. They're ready for autograph seekers.

Mary Gale, 8-8, would like to buy a Ford V-8 and any style is O.K.

Bill Birtwistle plans to spend his vacation touring the Rocky Mountains on his two "wheeler."

Norma Castle has resigned her position at Group 8 as an inspector and has entered Nurses Training School.

Parks Paxton, Government inspector at Group 8, left for Uncle Sam's armed forces.

Milton Stein, foreman 8-8, reported sick March 18 and 19. Could St. Patrick's Day have had any influence?

Building Maintenance
By John Bottary

Joe Boucher, Ed Warmbier and Joe Johnson keep busy on their days off building brooder houses. It all started after the trio tried to buy steaks for a Sunday dinner.

All signs point to a long drought this summer; Taylor Lake has already dried up.

Fred Fredrickson has his concrete mixer all cleaned and polished, ready for another year's work.

Elmer DuPress lost three points from his ration book, by uttering just one word, "how."

Telephone Tid-Bits
By Elaine Christman

The chirpy voices of the operators these days indicate that Spring is here.

Everyone is sorry to hear that Herbert Reeves, guard at the Telephone Building, will no longer be stationed here. He has been assigned to another post.

A field inspection of the plant has been completed by Supt. W. A. Buck.

A welcome is extended to Frank Kripner, formerly of the Pipe Shop, now an installer's helper with the Telephone Department.

Velma Whitmore has sold her only means of transportation, her car! She should remember the No. 17 coupon buys only one pair.

Electric Shop
By Ben Webster

Best wishes for a speedy recovery from all the boys at the Electric Shop are sent to John Follett, who has been hospitalized in Chicago for two months.

Ernie. Vicelli of the Electrical Department left for the Army March 18, but his destination was not given. Ernie was one of the first electricians on the job when EOP was just a prairie.

Motor Pool Memos
By Frank Kern

Six additional recruits left for the Army from the Motor Pool this week. They are Jack Knarr, Alfred Block, Chester Voss, Leo Wheeler, Edward Sile and William Hetting.

What could have been more natural than for Harry Walgast to go back to farm work, where he is greatly needed?

New faces currently seen at the Motor Pool are Clyde Tucker, Shirley Van Gampler and Vivian Ward.

It is wondered just how long John Fisher will maintain his bachelor status with the shortage of men.

With all the crocheting and needle point work that's being done around the Motor Pool during spare moments, many are waiting to see if the boys will begin sewing bundles for Britain.

Jean Swanson is heard talking of joining the Marines.

New assistant dispatchers are Marie Armstrong and Alice Wardell.

Pipe Shop News
By Mary Wynne

Conscientious Roy Benson was most concerned over the misspelling of a simple little word like c-a-t.

Bill Sexton has developed a beautiful southern drawl—almost overnight.

"It's So Peaceful in the Country" might well be Ruther Sanderson's theme song.

When chocolate pie is passed around, Mary Wynne is sure to be found.

Edward Geeding, former employee in the Stock Room, left to join the Navy.

Sheet Metal Scraps
By Jess Thomas

William M. Ryan sends thanks to the employees for their thoughtfulness and expressions of sympathy during his recent bereavement.

Bill Helland, demon welder, is back from Alaska and is working with the iron workers.

Charles Speaker is back again after a vacation of several months spent with Uncle Sam in New Mexico.

Shorty Weidenback, with the Military Police at Pampa, Tex., was a visitor at the shop last week to see some of his old friends.

Sympathy is extended to Ray Trimby, whose father died recently.

Laundry Notes
By Lucille Morrissette

Proud possessor of a Japanese flag is Freelove Curry. It was sent to her by Pvt. Elwood Erickson of Graettinger, Ia., who is stationed at Guadalcanal.

Violet St. Aubin, former Laundry correspondent, has been transferred to the High Explosive Lab.

Rose Mary Elwood, Margaret Hopkins, Lela Fry, Emma Herndon, Merle Workman, Alphonse Smeets and Mike Harrard are welcomed to the Laundry.

Harley Benge has been transferred to the Service Garage, where he is working as a mechanic. Joe Smeets is very happy with his transfer as a truck driver's helper.

Francis Walsh, supervisor of the Laundry, celebrated his birthday March 26. During the lunch period he was very much surprised when the girls presented him with a large and beautifully decorated birthday cake.

Line Department Lines
By Ray Curtis

"Ringer" Red Reeves is just about the best horseshoe pitcher in the plant. He admits it. Anyone who thinks different should get in touch with the "Ringer's" manager, A. T. Smith. A match for money, marbles or chalk can be arranged.

Haskell Johnson, who left about a year ago, is back again. Hack has been stationed in Alaska. Mickey Donley is also back in the fold.

Web Willows took off for the Army. At a farewell party given by this department in his honor, all joined in the sentiments expressed by "Boss" Jim Boyd as he presented Web with a Gruen wrist watch.

Bus Transportation
By Margie Stevens

The oxford gray slack suits soon to be worn by the girl chauffeurs are their new spring uniforms. Katherine Tonne is given credit in choosing them.

Charles Harris is the smiling dispatcher this week.

INTO THE JUG went those who attended the "hard times" dance of Group 61 if the "policemen," Harvey Steffes and Charles Hinz, considered they were too dressed up for the affair. Clyde Stahly is shown on his knees, pleading to be released, while Carl Sala (extreme right) looks on with interest.

Three of the progress clerks of Group 3-A celebrated the happy coincidence of birthdays within the last five days of March; France O'Keefe, March 26; Mary Bertino, March 29, and Neoma Jett, March 31.

After four months of working in Group 3-A, Edna Strohm's diligent search for a ride has ended.

All the clerks in Group 2 love to hear Orville Rasmussen's grand entrance with the famous words, "I Have Written a Poem." If the poem happens to be a fairly good one, Paul Somerville will be bound to put in his compliments—but on the other hand—if there are any corrections to be made, almost everyone has a suggestion.

It was believed that Johnny Williamson went roller skating with Orville so that they could pick each other up from the floor—but this has changed—now when one falls—the girls are one step ahead. Man power shortage, you know!!!

Ida Dombrawiak, Group 1, is very faithful in writing to her husband overseas. She writes two letters every day.

Grace Brereton ran John Connors, both of Group 1, a little competition at the St. Patrick's supper at Minooka Sunday evening, March 21.

Equipment Checkers

With the coming of Spring Tom Nugent donned his overcoat, after not wearing one all winter. Frank Weston claims he is somewhat responsible for this mystery.

Pete Conroy has been mixing up a few cigars with his pipe since the last complaint—but they were given to him.

John Cann, while not a candidate for re-election, is still quite interested in who is to succeed him.

Leslie Wilson visits Bloomington quite frequently. Jacob Debri has been keeping dates, too—with his dentist.

Multilith Room

Have you noticed how excited "Chris" Dare is lately? Reason is her heart throb is coming home on a furlough for Easter!!

Dottie Mihelic got her "Dear Gussie" off to a good start last week when he left for the Army!!

"Chilluns"—Have you all heard the latest?? Hot off the press is this great orchestra consisting of the gals from "41." It's really stupendous! Rehearsals are at 5—Anyone wanting to join — See Marge Zarely!!! (Booking Agent and 'cello player.)

There's been a terrific scrap drive going on in "41"—Seems as though the gals have started to leave work with a collection of junk and paper in both coat pockets and purses—Maybe it's the gremlins!

Gerry Wier sure meets a handsome fella every nite after work—Gosh—And he's blond, chubby and short! But after all all can't have the tall, dark and handsome ones.

Traffic Audit

Sympathy is extended to Fred Legris, whose mother died last week.

Pvt. Larry Crawford pleasantly surprised everyone by visiting the office March 18. He also announced his impending marriage.

Pvt. Bud Zamboracz reports that he is now stationed in New Jersey.

Inventory Clerks

Willie Duperrieu has been assigned to the Utilities Department for the past week. Willie formerly worked in E. A. Evans' office.

Argyle Dalziel has transferred from Production Planning and has joined Don Nelson's little gang of inventory clerks.

Industrial Service

Irene Blatnik left to join her husband who is now stationed at Great Lakes, but soon will leave for Boston.

Mary Serdar leaves April 10.

Marge Gall has transferred from Production Planning, also Dorothy Bollig from Traffic Audit.

Planning

Capt. J. A. Brown, brother of Harry Brown, Jr., was a visitor March 28.

Q. What is the hand signal for "cease firing?"

A. The hand is raised in front of the forehead, palm to the front and is swung up and down several times in front of the face.

Nation Hears Voice of EOP On Army Hour

Listeners Told of Bomb Loading by Maj. Haber, Others

The voice of EOP was heard throughout the Nation Sunday, March 14, when this plant participated in the Army Hour, broadcast from coast to coast, over the NBC network. The program outlined some of the functions of Services of Supply and, among other things, told the story of block-busters from the time the empty cases are made until the bombs are dropped from planes.

A pouring bay in Group 3-A was the scene of the broadcast from EOP with Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, commanding officer, as commentator. The program from here followed a brief description of the manufacture of TNT at Kankakee Ordnance Works.

The continuity of the local program follows:

Maj. Haber: This is Major Haber, speaking from the pouring bay of one of the bomb loading lines of the Elwood Ordnance Plant. This plant is one of the largest shell and bomb loading plants in the world and it has been in operation for almost two years—the first plant of its kind to start operations under the Nation's war program. The sound you may be able to hear in the background is a rack of empty bombs being hauled into this concrete walled and floored bay on an explosion-proof, trackless truck. Perhaps you'd like to meet the driver of this huge vehicle. Driver . . .

Gagnier: Yes, Major.

Maj. Haber: Yes, that's right . . . the driver is Josephine Gagnier, one of the many women ordnance workers we have here. Josephine, will you tell us something about your work?

Gagnier: Well, sir, these empty bombs have just come from the cleaning room. Now they're all ready to be loaded with the explosive. Marjie Morris over here is in charge of the women in the unit who guide the bombs into position under the draw-off spout to receive the explosive.

Maj. Haber: Margie, how do you like working with high explosives every day? Don't you often long for the quiet and peace of your kitchen?

Morris: Sir, have you ever tried to take hot biscuits out of a hotter oven—or scratched your hand opening a can of beans? No, sir, I'd rather be right here. It's safer here, surrounded by TNT, than it is in anybody's kitchen. And, besides, I have a personal interest in this war—my brother was killed in combat on Guadalcanal—and, well, I like to feel that I'm taking his place and in some small way helping to finish the job he started.

Maj. Haber: And Margie's sentiments are the same as many of our women workers here. Now the empty bomb is in place. On a portable platform next to it stands George Lockwood with his hand on a chain lever, ready to turn the empty bomb into a deadly block buster. George, tell us what you're going to do now.

Lockwood: Well, sir, the pouring spout, which is now directly over the bomb, leads from a mixing kettle in a room overhead. In that kettle is a mixture of melted TNT and nitrate of ammonia called Amatol. I pull this chain and the bomb is filled with the mixture. Then it moves on into a cooling bay where it is kept for from four to five hours to allow heat and gas to escape. At the end of this period, the molten explosive will have become solidified and the bomb will be ready for assembly and closing the top. Just a minute now and you'll hear the pouring operation.

Sound: Lockwood pulls chain, Amatol rushes from spout into bomb—pneumatic lift truck removes first bomb and places second in position. Voices of cleanup crew in background.

Maj. Haber: Up there with George Lockwood is a whole crew of men and women who act as a cleanup crew. They immediately remove any drippings of Amatol and any sign of foreign matter. This is all a part of the safety program—also all the motors, switches and lighting in this bay are explosion-proof.

Sound: Truck hauling bombs away.

Maj. Haber: There goes another load of bombs. After leaving the cooling bay they will be packed into railroad cars and started on their way to the depot. Soon they will be on their way to battlefronts and air bases throughout the world. This is just one loading line of one plant in this country. Day and night these civilian soldiers work tirelessly to keep our boys supplied with the best fighting equipment man can manufacture. Practically every worker here has one or more members of his family in military service—and it is for those husbands, fathers, sons and brothers away from home that these men and women are devoting their every effort to "keep 'em rolling."

We return you to the Army Hour in New York.

Razors Are Sought For U. S. Sailors

Requests for safety razors for 32,000 sailors who have lost their's in ship sinkings since the start of the war are being sought by the Navy Mothers Clubs of America. Mary Barrowman, adjutant of the Joliet Club, 507 Meeker Avenue, Joliet, asks that EOP workers who have razors to contribute to communicate with her or to leave the razors at USO headquarters with a request they be sent to her. Lack of steel prevents replacement by manufacturers.

Q. A friend of mine in the Army Air Forces referred to a plane as a "duck." Can you tell me what he meant?

A. A "duck" is slang for an amphibian airplane, capable of landing on water or ground.

Q. I was going to send a package to my brother who's overseas, but my topkick told me there was a new Regulation against this. What's the dope?

A. The topkick's right. You may only send packages overseas that have been requested by the soldier, and then his letter must be approved by his commanding officer. This is in compliance with a new Regulation, announced by Secretary of War Stimson Jan. 7 and which became effective Jan. 15. It was necessary because of the flood of packages that were taking up vital transport space.

Q. I've spent some time in the Canadian Army. Will this count toward my retirement in the U. S. Army?

A. Nope.

By the looks of the weather now it probably is safe for Helen Cusick to take her golf clubs from the attic. She plays a pretty good game when she hits the ball.

Bill Hartman, Group 4, is singing lullabys to Art Jensen every night before he goes to bed. Bill should beware of the game "possum."

Jack Dempsy left for the Army March 31 and he will be missed by all, but especially by one "Mickey." Also Bill Lipsey left March 31 and the boys of Group 4 and 5 miss his services.

Mary Jane Snapp of Group 4, has had a new twinkle in her eyes lately. Reason—A certain young marine from Momence by the name of Bill Schopf has popped the question and little Janey accepted. They are both leaving for California April 14 and the great event will take place there very soon. Bill has just come back from the Solomon Islands and Guadalcanal.

If anyone finds a blue garter, please return it to Julia Flori, who lost one quite a while ago and she is still having trouble with her hose.

If anyone runs out of things to eat he should get in touch with Jim Tyler and Bob Welch, who have both started a Victory Garden. They must have been afraid they might have to eat strained baby food. Jim is fond of raspberry Jam in the small jars.

Helen Cusick has recovered and is back to work after suffering injury in a fall.

Jim Nolan, Group 7, has a scar on his left cheek. It looks like it might be a fingernail scratch.

Found—One horse out behind the Time Office. It might be Grace Johnson's for she hasn't been wearing her jodphurs lately.

Genevieve Karpel, Group 7, likes the idea of having seven girls in the family, except it is rather embarrasing when she starts naming them and can't get past six. After a few minutes' hesitation she finally adds, "Oh, I always forget, that's me."

Bob Rolence drove fifty miles to Marseilles last week. He said he went to look over the town. For anyone to drive that far these days, there must be something cooking.

All Mildred Veach does at Group 7 is to make detonators. Many wonder if asked to do anything else down there she would remember how.

Harold Fowler, Group 1, wishes a week had six days. Every Wednesday someone from the group hears this same question from Harold, "Can I borrow $5 'till tomorrow?"

Lillian Nesst, Group 7, is taking steam baths. Trimness does count, even after marriage.

Roger Anderson may become a magician if he ever leaves EOP.

INFORMAL ATTIRE featured the "hard times" dance given by Group 61 at the Recreation Building, Saturday night, March 20. Shown here are some of the dancers.

Guards

GENE RYAN
Correspondent

The boys at Group 3 have been doing some spring housecleaning under the expert direction of Sgt. Edward Oetter. Neil Hicks questioned the legality of the action, because Sgt. Oetter had no union card, and now he and Charles Swick and Robert Crane are washing the walls of the Guard shanties in the Group.

Baker is a common name, so common in fact that the two Bakers on the guard force often get the other's telephone calls. For anyone who may want to contact a Baker on headquarter's phone please designate either "Dispatcher David Baker" or "Lt. Clarence Baker." It irks both of them to be taken for the other — sort of a Manteno-Chicago Heights feud.

If Lt. Frank "Major" Harrelson's wife could have seen him at 4:30 a. m., carefully sewing a button on his uniform coat, she would probably have him take care of the family mending. However, the needle became unthreaded, and after a few of the major's choice (&##"?) comments, she would have changed her mind.

Dispatcher Paul Stacel is soon to become, of all things, a farmer. He is going to take advantage of EOP's offer of garden spots. You probably will see a new radish, or some modulated tomatoes, or even an antenna potato developed by the erstwhile radio expert.

Dispatcher (Edward) Ritchie wishes to thank the guards who contributed to the purchase of his state license, a new plate glass in his living room, the expense of having a washing machine motor repaired, and a vulcanizing job on a tire. It really was mighty fine of them and he hopes these good deeds continue.

One of the boys who recently left the guard force to return to farming is Ross Briley, who was stationed at Group 2, on Capt. Thomas Murphy's shift, for more than a year. His smiling ways will be missed by Sgt. Leo Keigher and his gang of good-fellows.

The $64 question in Group 3-A is, "Who was heard telling the cuties in Bldg. 3—'Just call me Jag, girls.' And one replied: 'That's good enough for me.' "

The last issue of The Bomb-Shell disclosed the first name of Guard Royal Krause. He was formerly known to the boys as "Krausy"—now it is "Royal."

George "Chris" Christiansen is booming Orville Benton for congressman for Du Page County. In a recent speech to the boys Orvie showed he has what it takes.

Guy Woolems claims that Frank "Speed" Kuntz is a poor truck driver, and he has a bump on his head to prove it.

Lt. Clarence Baker and Lt. William McClellan staged a hard fought bowling match with picked squads from their shifts and even though Lt. Baker furnished his own equipment he came out loser. (He forgot his rocking chair.)

James Liles and Delbert Harvey don't care about working Gate 1 at Group 1 anymore since their wives use this particular gate to enter the Group and the good officers find that it is very simple for their better halves to check on their activities.

What is the private stock that George McTernan has been mentioning of late?

It is rumored that "Colonel" Jefferson Welch and "Rookie" George Bulliner have been making themselves useful as well as ornamental at Group 1.

What with rationing and all, the boys at Group 1 are wondering what some of Ralph Emrichs private chowder would taste like.

The number one man amongst the glamour boys is now "Sweet Pickles" James Gerkins, 'tis said.

Lt. Owen McCarthy, manager of the Guards softball team, is very interested in contacting all MP's who could—can—or still think they can throw a ball.—The last game of the basketball season brought forth a couple of our inactives—Perhaps the boys won't wait this long for the coming baseball season.

Lt. Frank Harrelson reports that his three-year-old son transferred his coal pile to the neighbor's pile, using his little red wagon. In this connection it is rumored that Disp. Casimir Klafta, who has no children, has purchased a little red wagon and is asking for the 4-12 Shift.

With the Women

The women guards were defeated when they bowled the Investigation Department March 24. However, they have challenged them to another game and all hope they will be able to do better next time.

Florence Bradecich is leaving because of ill health. Florence made many friends in the various departments of the plant and everyone will miss her.

Kay Koncor spent last week end visiting her family in Streator. She still claims to be the only woman guard to have ridden in a jeep.

Several Dwight girls have been on a very special diet awaiting a certain Friday night. Bea Sondergaard has promised them a wonderful fish dinner.

Pauline Klinger is welcomed as a new member.

Mae Glade underwent a tonsilectomy recently. She is doing fine and will soon be back on the job. Nora Mae Secor has resigned.

Opal Wright spent several days in Silver Cross Hospital. All are happy to have her back at work.

Have you noticed the gleam in Polly Morrow's eyes recently? She has been receiving plenty of mail from friend hubby who is overseas.

Bell Named Captain

Lt. George N. Bell, formerly stationed here, has been promoted to captain, according to the Wolf Creek Banner. He left EOP in January, 1942, to become Army inspector of ordnance at Wolf Creek Ordnance Plant, Milan, Tenn.

Causes-Cures Of Accidents Told Workers

Details to Be Given In Each Issue as Safety Measure

Detailed reports of accidents, as to how they happened and what might have been done to prevent them, will be a regular feature of The Bomb-Shell beginning with this issue. The reports are copies of those sent to the superintendents of the groups affected. They are written by R. T. Read, safety director, and sent out as quickly as possible after the accidents.

Lost-time accidents which occurred recently are as follows:

John Harzheim, a sub-foreman in Bldg. 4, Group 3, suffered the amputation of the end of his right index finger April 1 when he caught it in the rocker of a tilt tub as he was completing the pouring of scrap amatol. This injury is classified as a permanent partial disability and carries a time-charge of 150 days.

Mechanically, the equipment involved in this accident is as safe as it can be. Similar mishaps can be avoided only by the exercise of greater caution on the part of the operator. This will come only through constant stress on safety rules and practices.

Worked at Igloo

As Robert Eyman, a laborer, Group 63, was carrying material into an igloo at Group 63 March 27, he tripped over a board that extended into the aisle, fell, and broke his right ankle. Probable lost time, two weeks.

Accidents of this type can be avoided if the boards on which boxes are stacked are cut to the proper length. They should be flush with the edge of the outside box, leaving the aisle free.

Stanley Wiencek, a foreman at South Inert, was the victim of a painful and what might have been a very serious accident March 24. He thrust his head out of a doorway in Bldg. 10 to call to someone just at the moment the air brakes were released on a semi-trailer truck that had just been unloaded. The truck rolled back far enough to catch Wiencek's head between the end of the truck and the building wall. Injuries included a scalp laceration and a strain of the neck muscles. It was a narrow escape from a skull fracture.

This may appear to be a freakish accident, due to sheer "bad luck" in timing. In reality, it resulted from a violation of the safety rule which warns against putting your body or any part of it between a mobile object and a fixed one where there is insufficient clearance.

Safe practices become "second nature" only by being constantly stressed in a program of safety education.

Loses End of Thumb

Rollin Bennett's failure to take proper hold of a door which he was closing in Bldg. 7, Group 1, caused him, March 16, the loss of the end of his right thumb. The accident also cost the group a time-charge of 150 days.

High wind was a contributing factor; but the very fact that the day was windy should have indicated the necessity for greater caution.

Stressing the hazards in simple, everyday actions, and instruction in the proper way to perform those actions, is one phase of a complete safety education program.

Huston Powell lost six days from his work at North Inert due to an injury to his right leg, the result of being struck by a 250 pound bomb which rolled from the rack in a box car and struck him, March 12.

This is at least the second lost-time accident from this cause. One man, William Hayes, is still in the Hospital with a broken leg due to a similar mishap. It proves the urgent necessity of a careful examination of all bomb racking before unloading begins and at every stage as it progresses. Workmen in this operation must be fully instructed on protecting themselves and their fellow workmen.

William Cotner, a Group 2 carpenter, was cutting a 4x4 with a skilsaw March 12. The saw jammed in the wet wood and jumped out of control. Result: a long and deep laceration in the operator's right thigh that will probably keep him in bed for three weeks.

The violation of several safety practices combined to produce that accident. First, Cotner should not have been cutting wet wood with a power tool. Second, any piece that he was working on should have been securely clamped on the work bench. This piece was not. Third, a small skilsaw was not the appropriate tool to be using on a 4x4.

Since none of these factors was beyond reasonable control, it is fair to say that this accident could have been avoided!

Jerry Besco, a carpenter working out of Group 70, suffered a broken wrist March 11 when a ladder on which he was climbing into a box-car at Group 68 slipped causing him to fall.

The fact that the ladder was set on an icy surface should have indicated the need for ladder shoes or spikes. If these were not available, the ladder should have been supported by another workman.

Walter Long, an iron worker at Group 70, sprained his back March 9 when his foot slipped in the snow as he was helping lift an air tank onto a truck.

This accident would not have happened if the workman had provided sure footing for himself before he began to lift. He could have done this by clearing away the snow or procuring a board or other dry object on which to stand.

Of course these precautions take time, but not four to six days, and that is what the man is losing from work as a result of the injury, not to mention the pain and discomfort involved.

Timekeeping

NICHOLAS BELLUSO
Correspondent

Congratulations are extended to Lt. Eugene J. Moretti, former timekeeper during construction, who was graduated March 27 from the Navigation class of the Air Force Advanced Flying School at Mather Field, California.

Royce Quayle, timekeeper at Group 2, and Lloyd Raridon, second quiz kid to leave from Group 70 in less than a month, have been inducted into the service.

Through the mail. Kay Frandsen, one of the earlier timekeepers, writes from Africa saying that things aren't bad out there, a roof over his head, three meals a day and all the champagne and wine that he wants. Amusing note is he would trade all of the champagne for a malted milk. Clyde Mulligan received a card from Donald Sharp who was with the Seabees in Connecticut, but is now in California. Vearl Heinis is expected home soon on furlough before leaving for overseas duty.

Several new faces can be seen in the department. Virginia Harscher and Rena Grenda have taken over riding the field, a job never before handled by women. Martha Piper, Sylvia Dyanshi and Mary Biernat are newest timekeepers. Mary transferred from the Government timekeeping staff.

Paul Zamkovitz has written a theme to inspire him whenever his patriotism begins to wane. If it encourages him so, perhaps his thoughts should be made public.

Miss Spring has made her yearly debut, proof of the fact can be seen by John O'Connell shedding his characteristic sheep skin coat for a light top coat, Emily Kexel venturing forth in a pretty spring print, and Marcella Corbett ushering it in with a spring tweed. Robert Waddell, the early worm who always gets the bird, made his entrance into Group 3-A one day with a straw hat only to have the weather change to rain and then snow. However, he is still wearing the hat.

Bernard McShane, who, due to some recent bowling matches, thinks Lady Luck is not on his side, is now complacently dreaming of what he is going to plant in his Victory garden.

"The night is still young when the clock strikes one," seems to be the motto of the Group 1 timekeepers, several of whom were seen in Coal City one early Friday morning.

The $2 Questions

Why didn't Zona Bond report she could dance? What is the male interest in Bldg. 13, Group 1, to Shirley Van Duyne? What timekeeper told an innocent young waitress in Wilmington he has been with EOP for 17 years? Why the sudden interest of Frank Skole in the chauffeurettes? Where does Nick Eartly hang out now that he is working nights? Who is the red head from Coal City that is Bill Dwyer's latest armfull?

When will Bob Balma and John Hohisel get out of their respective doghouses? Wonder what the general reaction will be to the new women field riders? Why is Bill Seeley so positive that Saunemin does not have a gold mine and trolley car that he is willing to bet good money on it? How does Chuck Swanberg stand his quiz kids? Don't you wish that Angeline Gunnerson could forget about Harry Knarr? When will the bells ring for several engaged timekeepers?

What happened to Marcella Corbett, who, after eating a chicken dinner, became sick for several days? Can you imagine Milton Treitel clipping Chuck Vismara of the Truck Drivers and getting away with it? Why is Eva Sweda walking on air lately? Isn't it amazing the effect Army fellows have on romantic young girls? Is Elmer Dames taking up nurses' aid or is he? Wouldn't it be nice if the one hundred former timekeepers now in service could come home on furlough and a big party be given honoring them? Wonder when the next timekeepers' party is going to be?

THREE PRETTY DAUGHTERS make life happier for John S. Leitzell, Groundskeeping Division, Utilities Department, and Mrs. Leitzell. They are Dorothy, Diane and Donna.

Applications continue to come in for Victory garden plots. All applicants upon notification should do their planting as early as possible in order to avoid confusion.

Francis Feeney thinks Route 66-A should have five lanes, so he could have one all of his own. He says all cars are at a standstill when he is coming to work on the day shift.

Otto "Bull of the Woods" Koch and Harold "Master Plumber" Sonday are carrying chips on their shoulders these days. Everyone hopes they will patch up their differences.

Since the State basketball tournament at Urbana, Vern Walsmith doesn't know as much about basketball as the boys thought he did. Vern was telling the gang that Paris didn't have a chance. He even backed up his conviction with some greenbacks.

Farris Bales is thinking of buying a race horse as soon as he can get a real bargain. Since horse meat is becoming the main meat, Bales remarked, "If the horse can't run I'll eat it."

A new man was received last week by the name of Rassie Jackson and it was noted with interest the co-owner on his War Bond pledge card was Mrs. Baffie Jackson. Quite a combination, some of the boys think.

Someone placed a sign over the Storeroom reading, "Fred Mogle & Wilbur Galbraith, General Merchandise, Store No. 9. Incidentally, these two fellows are now called Lum and Abner after a favorite radio program heard over a nation-wide hook-up.

Congratulations are sent to Clyde Beeson and Leonard Frieling. Both are now proud fathers. Clyde has a son and Leonard a daughter.

Edward Triebull sold his farm the other day and is now lamenting the fact that he should have kept it as horse meat has come into its own. Ed, they say, had a herd of some mighty fine horse flesh.

Word has been received that Pipefitter Ambrose Grandpre is a very sick man and his doctor has ordered him to remain in bed until he shows more improvement. All wish him a speedy recovery.

They say John Bogetto has a special dinner date every day he has off.

Bill Kane assures reports the Chicago White Sox are a cinch to win the American League pennant this year. Bill is a dyed-in-the-wool Sox fan and has been for many years.

Pipefitter William "Bill" O'Connor, 65 years old, thinks there is a possibility he might be called in the near future and is looking over some tractor equipment.

A burning question these days is, "why does Mel Roach, timekeeper, like the 3:30 shift?" Mel has been working this shift for a month or so.

Now that Maurice "Moe" Goodspeed's wife is working at Group 1, Moe is the chief cook and bottle washer around the house. They say it keeps him humping these days.

Albert "Archie" La Borence predicts the bums from Brooklyn, more appropriately named the Brooklyn Dodgers, will win the National League pennant this year. Arch says he has the green lettuce to back up his choice.

Best wishes go to Timekeeper Royce Quale who is scheduled to join the armed services next week.

To Joseph Connors, building foreman, all wish success and best wishes in the future. Joe plans to enter Uncle Sam's growing Army and should be a most capable man. His brilliant record at this Group will long be remembered.

All enjoyed a brief visit from a former "Murphy's boy," Ensign Richard Oldani, Naval Air Corps. Dick is scheduled to become an instructor at the Naval Air Training Station at Pensacola, Fla.

Your correspondents again were threatened and it looks as though someone may mean business. This time as before the threat came from Gridley "Paperhanger" Wheeler. He said that his wife would wrap an umbrella around their necks if she ever saw them on the street. Private Detective Roach checked on this story and found an entirely different set-up. As a matter of fact his wife gave Detective Roach an interesting story about Grid, which is being held for another issue.

Now that the weather is breaking and the ground drying out a little, Frank Marlette may be seen riding from building to building; that is if he can get the bike away from John Kelahan.

Gene Carter was seen driving the "Green Hornet" a little faster than usual one morning. Could be that Gene didn't have a good night's sleep, but his story is a little different. He said his wife forgot to set the alarm, and when he did wake up and see the time he took off from the house like Illinois Tomm in the fifth race on a dry track.

Maybe Jimmy Falbo can tell why George Williams is always trying to have Jimmy's name connected with some little incident and printed in The Bomb-Shell. George reports that Jimmy hoped at one time to be a movie actor, but gave it up for a war job, and now that his name does not appear in leading movie papers through the country it is only fair that he get a little splash in The Bomb-Shell.

Charles Mann's little white fence in front of the office at Group 62-N is very nice, and it would be a shame if "Scorchy" would kick the pickets off it. It is suggested that Charles have Bill Denver patrol the fence at night to watch for such an invader. Dick Ashworth and Chuck Gorham can look after it while they are on duty.

There is a wild rumor that someone is in their second childhood . . . Ray Murray or Don Carlson. Someone has seen both of these brave lads reading "The Adventures of Superman." If Bob McCleary had been involved no one would have thought anything about it because he looks like a little boy.

Hank Prosser is doing his best to save on gloves, and it isn't because he is worried about them being rationed. No sir, Hank is a natural born fisherman and does not pass up an opportunity. This time Hank had to fish with a pair of pliers and in a small pool of water near Change House 8. His catch was not a big one, but just an old glove. All will be hearing soon. "You should have seen the one that got away."

Comptroller John J. Cole is firmly convinced that when Group 61 advertises a "hard times" dance they mean just that. The unruly "Check Signer" was forced to take his tie off or else ! ! !

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Marshall has been named Patricia Gale.

After several months of Army life, Jess Shelby is again making nitrate. Mr. Shelby was honorably discharged due to the age limit.

W. C. Miller has named Group 61's nitrate "Yank's Delight."

Fellow workers are wondering where Carl Sala learned the new dance steps. The talented timekeeper does the difficult feat of going backwards combined with a few circles.

A likely story — Ralph Walter claims that he was given a ticket for driving too slow.

The first occupants of the jail at Group 61's dance were Marien Westcott and Henry Barber. Miss Westcott seems to have taken a sudden interest in the group—especially machinists.

Associates were sorry to hear about the death of Mrs. Marvin Rasmussen, wife of a co-worker.

Ray Carlson insists that he was interested in a radio program on his car radio when being picked up for speeding.

Drilling seems to be J. Crossen's main delight. It is not unusual to see him do an "about face."

In her column recently, Lorrayne Ostrem seemed worried about your correspondent losing his newspaper articles. It is appreciated, however Miss Ostrem need not feel too badly, as long as her items improved 100 per cent in that particular issue.

According to H. O. Cadwell, every last person in his new neighborhood is Swell.

When having a physical examination the doctor asked Willard "Zeke" McDowell if he had frequent fainting spells. The "doc" evidently had someone else in mind—"Zeke" never fainted in his life.

Not unusual, Robert Brais had his first physical—it was nice working with him.

The only task that Charles Usewich doesn't like is unloading paper bags. Mr. Usewich claims that just the thought of the job makes him ill.

Upon his return from Group 1, John Kelly said "it was nice while it lasted."

For a hobby, William Bretzman goes fishing. Recently he reeled in two large bullheads.

Harry Willis has something to be proud of in sons, Maj. Elmer Willis and Lt. George Willis, who visited him recently.

Credit for the idea of Group 61's "hard times" dance and party goes to Harvey Steffes.

Ed Hasse had a good time at the "hard times" dance while he lasted, but Ed didn't stay long enough.

The irrepressible Wayne Howard is at it again. Mr. Howard is now using cup grease to protect his hide.

From now on Fred Kase will have a safety sticker on his truck —$7 and costs convinced him.

Lawrence Johnson is particular with whom he sits on the bus.

John Hosler and Barney Beoletto recently visited relatives in their respective home towns. Sporting a Mercury is Edward McLaughlin.

Taylor is quite a prominent name around the Group, Grover Taylor, Francis Taylor and Moses Taylor.

Irvin Shelby wants a "C" book. Mr. Shelby's car won't take him to work on an "A" book.

His Honor, John Hayes, is judge of Livingston County; Charles Wagoner can vouch for that.

Hospital

Dr. Nathan Atvosky of Chicago is welcomed to the staff. Prior to his coming to EOP, he was a resident physician at the Evangelical Deaconess Hospital at Cleveland, O. Dr. Atovsky applied for a commission in the Army Medical Corps, but was advised by the War Manpower Commission that he was more necessary in a war plant. So here he is.

A fond farewell was bid to a member of the staff, Genevieve Hurley. She had dinner at the Mess Hall on her last day here with R. R. Sidell, Elsie Baer, Wallace Koepp, Dr. G. F. Luke, Dr. L. N. Cohler and Dr. A. Bustin. A fountain pen and pencil set and a corsage were presented to her by the staff, including those stationed at the different groups. Leslie Ross contributed a farewell poem. She has accepted a position in Dr. R. J. Kennedy's office in Joliet.

It looks as though Dottie Schoop's only ambition is to improve her bowling. It relegates her instincts, feelings, dates and every sort of entertainment to second places.

Well! A few of the physicians had quite a week-end. Dr. Luke and his wife and Dr. Jim Madura and his wife went out for an evening of relaxation. They budgeted themselves???

Speaking of patriotism, Marge Hartong and Mary Philbin have started their Victory Gardens. Dirt farmer Tom Moore has planted some moon vine seeds to dream under. Watch his wild oats sprout! Progress of Tom's garden will be continued in the next issue.

Elliott Hayes is complaining that he has had only two shaves since he has been hospitalized. He hopes that no one will imagine him as always having this hirsute adornment.

Margaret Gergovich is looking forward to retiring soon and live on the accumulated pools she has collected recently.

Dr. Bustin is being punished for his misbehavior at the "hard times" dance. He was given a modernistic haircut by the overconfident Dr. Madura, who claims he is a specialist in that field.

Emogene mysteriously disappeared for one day and two nights. Everyone worried, but little Emogene is back again and appearing dignified.

Dr. B. Giel has spring fever these days. The first stage of the fever was in purchasing a new tan suit.

Mrs. Lillian Doran visited the Hospital to check on the various activities of her daughter. Strictly off the record, she liked the Hospital very much. That's why Evelyn cleaned the laboratory so thoroughly, bottles, corks, and all.

Myrtle Burrus's social life is progressing by leaps and bounds. She spent one evening with a group of friends leaping about a dance floor. The next day she was so muscle-bound, she did most of her exercising on a long-legged stool.

Hm!!! Hm!!! Maybe a little hot throat wash would help Dr. H. L. Schultz' cold.

The finale: The little mother, Evelyn Richards, has returned to her old haunting grounds. It has done wonders for her. In fact, she sets a good example for all the attached women who work with her. (I hope she receives as much cooperation in writing the Hospital news for The Bomb-Shell in the future as I have had while she was away. I wish to thank all those who contributed news items to me. —Evelyn Doran.)

The Gremlin report of the week is that Ken Bull of the Safety and Security Section is looking at those "hoops" in the jewelry stores . . . could be he is really serious this time.

It was with reluctance that the workers at EOP bid farewell to Lt. Sol J. Jacobs, assistant to the chief, Safety and Security Division, who was assigned to new duties at the Green River Ordnance Plant, Dixon, Ill., effective March 29. Prior to being assigned as assistant in the Safety and Security Division, Lt. Jacobs was divisional inspector in the Fuze and Booster Area. He then left for special training at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, and upon his return was appointed as assistant to the chief of operations and engineering in August, 1942. He was transferred to the Safety and Security Division December 1, 1942. Best wishes go with Lt. Jacobs for success and happiness in his new surroundings.

From the Timekeepers

Verne Parry resigned recently to go back to the farm . . . yessiree, he's going to raise them there essential vegetables and such . . . and all the gang have his address down in the black book . . . just in case the red coupons or the blue ones don't hold out.

Many wonder why Johnny Green and John Kolb let their blood pressure rise so high the day they went up to the hospital for their physicals.

Mary Kay Lohman has recovered from the ordeal of chasing her derby down the hills and dales of the reservation . . . yep, it done blew off and she fell down while retrieving it.

There is great enthusiasm over the Victory Garden space which is being so generously offered to EOP employees who wish to take the opportunity of growing their own vegetables. There is going to be some strong competition for that coveted first prize in the contest for the best garden in the Area. It is rumored that some of the girls have already purchased sprays and disinfectant to care for those vexatious potato bugs. Woe to the one who is apprehended throwing potato bugs gathered from their patch to that of their neighbors. The girls haven't fully decided to don slacks or shorts in working their gardens. However, the major portion are of the opinion that slacks would be the better of the two, as they provide protection against the hot rays of Old Sol.

If the foreladies ever have a debate on "snapshots," Mary Rigoni won't take the negative.

Jayne Freeze and Ethel Davenport claim that, as a child, good natured Wilma Rohde was so skinny that once she fell through a flute and never hit a note.

Charles "Arkey" White and Opal Richardson are reported planning to buy smoked glasses and pencils for someone in Bldg. 2.

Harry "Rags" Traynor opened his lunch bucket on April 1 to discover a luscious repast of wood blocks and asbestos strips. He says food rationing has gone too far.

Douglas Oram's dream of a "fishing partner" came true March 13 when small Douglas Mansfield Oram, arrived.

Mary Bettino has three ambitions, to learn to bowl, skate and dance. Instructors may apply at the desk in Bldg. 3.

Ordnance Inspection

If you'd like to know how to obtain an advance copy of The Bomb-Shell, ask Helen Boula and perhaps she'll let you in on a little secret.

Ask Delores "Penny" Dagon and Johnny Phelan what their fondest dreams are about. It has something to do with castles, two-carat diamonds and adventurous trips.

Just cast your eye on the sparkler on Betty Ross' third finger left hand. Wow! it'll knock your eyes out, folks. Did you know Lois Martin prefers red cars—and redheads?

Tony Posluszny of Group 2 may plan to be a gentleman farmer. Guards recently found three pairs of leather gloves in his locker.

Have you noticed William Van Houten's eye for beauty? He sure can pick 'em.

Bernice Shroba broke out with a rash just recently—could be that the "love bug" bit her.

The famous last words in Group 2 are "when in a mesh, call Captain Resch."

FREQUENT EXAMINATION of litters is a function of the Safety Department and Jack Frost (left) and Chet Coldwater are pictured here at the task in the Fuse and Booster Area.

Group 1

It was remarked that Benny Milkowski's little Ford was "riding like a Packard." He was seen driving six lady inspectors to work one Sunday.

Introducing the "Man about Group 1"; Emil Bruni. He'll never keep that title if he continues making engagements and appearing hours later all "wide eyed and innocent" looking.

Someone should inform Ed Vaughan that G-women do not smoke cigars, but then it isn't every day a new son takes over.

Catherine Fitzmaurice recently appeared at work with a very disgruntled expression on her face. Through reliable sources it was soon learned that she had fallen down a flight of stairs rushing to work!

It has been reported that Al Ehringer catches up on his sleep while riding to work in the morning. Could be that someone is prying into his dreams these nights.

It seems Merle Denny's heart is somewhere down in Florida. She recently received a pair of silver wings from a young lieutenant.

Group 3

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steiskal are the proud parents of a seven pound son. Bob is going to start grooming him for 5-A as soon as possible. He is also paying $5 for the best name sent in to Group 3 Government Inspection Office, so hurry with your suggestion.

The hardest thing in the world to do is to get Wyman Scott to admit he's married. Confidentially, he is 100 per cent and all his friends wish him the best of luck on this new adventure. The real give away is the dainty little sandwiches he carries in his lunch, compared with the hash he previously carried.

Friday, April 9, will see Joe Abraham on his way to join the Army. All his co-workers will pay tribute to Joe by removing their hats and facing the northeast for 45 seconds.

Emil Odchodnicky is anxious to obtain stockholders in a business venture which should prove very profitable at this time. Anyone with some loose change and a fondness for frogs (legs) get in touch with him.

Now that the whispering campaign to elect Kermitt Long as a representative of the loading lines for recreation and dance programs is over, how about a little action? An after-Easter spring dance and festival of some sort would be welcomed by all.

Group 3-A

The girls on Roy Hallihan's shift have a beginners bowling team. Members are Mildred Ashley, Ethel Cooley, Ethel McCann, Margaret McGowan, Ann Radakovich, Beatrice Rodgers and Victoria Scuteri. They have played two games with other girls and won both times.

Congratulations are sent to Ethel Bryant and Minnette Arter on their recent promotion to assistant shift inspectors.

Basil Steinhoff, recently transferred to Group 2, is missed by all who wish him luck.

Evan Lewis has been scouting around for a good flashlight. Perhaps he wants to go hunting for "night crawlers" for his fishing trips.

After a recent bowling game, Ethel Cooley had to see a tailor to keep out of the draft.

Group 4

Many wonder why Kathryn Vlasic had such a surprised look on her face when opening a can of relays recently.

Catherine Kemp is spending her lonely hours working jig-saw puzzles now that her boy friend is in the Army.

Group 9

Sympathy is extended to Sophie Mixner, whose son died March 26.

Group 9 welcomed four new inspectors recently. They are Helen Vlach, Helen Conroy, Effie Park and Celia Gillan.

During any lunch period you can find Mary Benac and Dorothy Magolan crying in each other's lunch pails about their favorite men who have joined the Army.

If anyone is interested in debate club members, you'll find Frances Kraus and Delores "Zombie" Hawotte are two of the best. They're especially good on farm problems.

Marcella "Moat" Morton remains a favorite with all the personnel of Group 9.

Rose Gigliette is still dating a certain ensign. Rumor has it that a plane ran out of gas and landed in her back yard depositing two ensigns.

E. J. Nemanich has 30 small stars attached to the wall of his garage. He voluntarily donated thirty of his registered homing pigeons for service in the U. S. Signal Corps.

Group 8

Congratulations are sent to Margaret Kertes and Frances Mohr who were recently promoted to line inspector and assistant line inspector, respectively.

Down the little grape vine comes the rumor that wedding bells will soon be ringing for Betty Stalzer.

Betty Elias is the proud possessor of a gold Ordnance pin (Ball of Flame) sent to her by a dear friend in Santa Anita, Calif.

Group 8 regrets the loss of Park Paxton who recently joined the Army. His friends wish him luck.

Group 61

Line inspector Al Weinstock is being led by hand around town by a pair of blue eyes and black hair. He appears to be in an aesthetic daze.

The Government Inspection office was honored by the presence of a very attractive nurse, Edna Rimmer, recently. She was the first woman to remain in Group 61 for a period of time.

William Harrison served as a lieutenant in the British Army during the last war. His son is now in the U. S. Army.

You'd never think there was such a thing as food rationing if you could see Guy Gimbel's lunches. Being on speaking terms with a certain waitress doesn't hurt either.

Marion Carter's daughter was the main attraction at a baby shower April 4.

CELEBRATING their 37th wedding anniversary April 4, Mr. and Mrs. Hawk P. Smith received many congratulations. Mr. Smith, who is employed at Group 2, also observed his birthday anniversary the same day. They have eight children and 23 grandchildren.

Recreation

E. L. WALKUP
Director

Vince Cantarella of Payroll has taken up bowling and the other day created quite a sensation around the alleys when he picked up a "double pinochle" split. Tom Wayman, who was bowling with him at the time, said Vince took it as if he was used to making difficult spares.

EOP employees surely expect to eat this summer. Seems that they are taking advantage of the Victory garden offer, and they're not all men either (many of the men have said they will have to have the help of their wives to keep their plots clear of weeds). Among the girls signed up are Geraldine Ward of the War Department and Edith Lewis and Jackie Binzen of Timekeeping and Mailing Room.

For three or four days before the girls sweepstakes, the men had a tough time trying to get an alley to bowl. The girls insisted on having priority. That large group from Group 3-A, headed by Lorraine Liesse, is using the alleys weekly now. One group of girls start bowling at noon and leave in time for their shift to start and they are followed by the first shift girls, headed by Mary Ragoni, an hour or so later. The Recreation Department supplied entertainers for the Joliet Chamber of Commerce War Bond Drive. Not only did they entertain a large audience, but the program was aired over WCLS.

Do you sing, dance, or otherwise entertain? If you do, please let the Recreation Office know, as there are many calls coming in for such services.

Spring training is on. For another season of softball and baseball, all candidates for positions on the EOP teams should get in touch with the Recreation office. Candidates for the Softball team should contact John Kusinski and Ed Murphy for baseball. These teams will not travel as last year, due to rubber and gasoline rationing and the fact that all Army and Navy teams will not be permitted to travel except within a certain radius of their headquarters.

Now that the spring weather is here the first call for horseshoe pitchers is issued. New courts are being built next to the tennis courts in Group 60.

Archery enthusiasts can look forward to a busy season as a range is being built in the Recreation Area in Group 60. If enough enthusiasm and good marksmen can be found an Archery Club will be organized and outsiders invited in for competition.

EOP tennis enthusiasts have been watching the painters with interest as they paint the lines on the new tennis courts in Group 60. While these courts were built last year, they have never been played on. Fencing and other drawbacks kept them from being completed. Play will start as soon as the weather permits.

Tennis courts will not be scheduled, although a set of rules governing the use of the courts will be posted so that everyone can observe them.

Tennis rackets and balls are personal equipment and each player must supply his own, and due to the shortage of tennis balls and the material used in making them all players are advised to purchase a few early in the season.

The game of tennis, from a very modest beginning, has risen to a leading position among sports. More people actually participate in tennis than any other outdoor game, and each year enrolls new thousands of devotees. Regular play develops coordination of eye, mind and muscle, and improves general health and stamina. No one in good physical condition is either too young or too old to play

81 Entries Make Sweepstakes Success

The first individual bowling sweepstakes for EOP women was held in the Recreation Hall, March 26 and 29, with 81 entries. Catherine "Tomi" Tomlianovich of the Ordnance Inspection Department was the winner, rolling 514 for high series. Kathryn Johnson, Purchasing Department, was second high with a 491 series.

If sailors don't mind water, why should Carmen Oldani have been so excited about her hat at Red Cross headquarters? Entertaining the crowd, Carmen was hurrying to leave the workroom with the other girls who roll bandages regularly on that night when she dropped her blue sailor hat into the sink. That wouldn't have bothered her so much, she claims, if in her attempts to recover it, she hadn't brushed against the faucet and turned the handle. One of the spectators then kindly reminded her that sailors shouldn't mind water.

Clement Lambert was one very excited interviewer March 30. He had word that he could be reexamined for the Navy and was busy bidding everyone goodbye and treating them before he left. News was received a few days later that Clem had been successful and was speeding jubilantly toward the east coast. This recall to the Navy has been one of Clem's fondest hopes and now all bid him luck on his way.

Although all the prize-winners names for the Women's Bowling Sweepstakes haven't been published, the girls from the building who participated assured everyone that the building employees need have no fears about carrying off high honors. Practically everyone who loses by a big margin has some sort of an excuse such as they couldn't find a ball they could control, they were bowling on the wrong alley or someone distracted them. But the girls must have agreed to stand together for when they returned to report they offered no explanation other than the usual stage fright. Betty Benedict joyfully claims one gain, a large bruise on her ankle where a ball hit it.

Blame it on the Monday morning daze if you wish, but no one wants to lose Helen Bardi. She had boarded the Kankakee Ordnance Works bus, paid her fare and received her change one morning before some of her friends caught her and informed her about what she had done.

Former interviewer, Lynn McCoskey, was back on furlough to exhibit his new gold bars and to see his old friends. Lynn left here last summer and is now an extremely dapper second lieutenant in the field artillery. However, don't overlook Pvt. William Johnson, one of Lynn's fellow-interviewers who was back in Joliet last week. Bill is in the Medical Corps at Camp Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas, as he was studying a pre-medical course. He said his rank is the best one in the entire Army and he wouldn't change places with any of them.

June Morgan has a new "Nicky." Well, maybe it's not a boy friend, but it is a true friend to help her with transportation problems. You see "Old Nck" was having trouble in the morning being just too sleepy to wake up or becoming tired enroute with the result that June was having plenty of worries. Now that the new car has been purchased, she misses "Old Nick's" personality, but has to admit that it is for the best.

It just didn't seem right that the fire bug had to hit Hugo Brauer's car when he'd only been working here three days. Before anyone realized exactly what was happening one morning, there were men streaming from every nook and cranny, a fire extinguisher had been brought into use, a big fire engine was panting out in front of the building and the firemen were piling out hurriedly. Mustn't forget that Chief Roy Mortenson came over, too, just to check that everything possible had been done. From the volume of smoke that was released, everyone expected to hear an explosion as the conflagration was directly above the gas tank. When all the damage was ascertained there was a hole about a foot in diameter in the back seat with only a small soaked portion around it to mark the damage that a cigarette had wreaked.

Everyone in the department was happy to see Selma Brown return to work after an extended leave of absence. They all welcomed two new girls on the same day; namely, Betty Diehl and Jean Chase.

"April Fool's Day" or "All Fool's Day" started early this year for Rita "Rusty" Cushing when her brother shouted, "Better hurry and get up, it's 8 o'clock." Rushing headlong out of her bedroom she found him doubled up with laughter. It was 5:30 a. m.; he had just arrived home from work and tried to convince her that it would be the sisterly thing to do to prepare some breakfast for him before she returned to bed. Sleepy Rusty just turned around and tumbled right back into that cozy nest.

Due to the press of work and war conditions, other tricks were of a minor nature. Guard Frank "Mickey" Green arrived extremely early to plan some pranks for the girls who start work at 7:30 o'clock. It wasn't hard to discover why Jeanne Hershey couldn't hold that pencil when it was covered with vaseline, but Alpha Englehart had a trifle more difficult problem to deal with when her pen wouldn't write. After figuring and experimenting, she solved the problem by emptying the water out and refilling her pen with ink. Even Joe "Shorty" Shipla didn't escape the fertile imagination of the master mind. Picking up his lunch box, he discovered it was practically rooted to the ground. Of course, that infectious grin of Mickey's that makes it impossible for anyone to get angry couldn't be repressed. Joe turned about with, "What did you put in this box, Mickey?" A search revealed everything from stones down to scrap iron. He didn't escape entirely himself, however, for he paraded up and down the hall with a sign advertising, "Oh, what a dope I am!" It was at this point in the day that the rest of the office force came to work at 8:45 o'clock.

Only prankster Audrey Deiss really was abused when Joyce Enger obeyed her tag that commanded, "I am a fool; kick me!" Prize and only reported trick that fizzled was when Miss Bardi ate the cocoanut bar which had been carefully prepared with soap slivers for Marge Onsen. Helen consumed the whole bar without suspecting and without suffering any bad results.

Misses Only Six Out of 820 Days

Everyone has heard the plaudits given to General Douglas MacArthur, Colin Kelly and the five Sullivan brothers, and justly so, but one of the unsung heroes of the present war effort is an EOP employee who has gone on his way, plugging and working diligently, and he is Lewis C. Schuck, a timekeeper.

Lewis C. Schuck

Mr. Schuck came to EOP December 13, 1940, and has worked at his job constantly. His record indicates that in 820 days of employment he has been absent only 6 days. This record is commendable and should be an incentive to other employees of the plant. It shows enthusiasm for his job and the war effort, carrying on for "the man at the front." He believes in the term that "There is no day off at the front."

The days he was absent from his duties were not attributed to his being ill, but instead he had put his country ahead of his personal feelings and worked excessive hours and thus it became necessary for him to take off this time. This was compensable time allotted for this particular situation, a policy of the time.

When the final peace is written and the last man accounted for and given his citations, there should be a place on that plaque for men and women such as Mr. Schuck.

PROMOTED from captain to major, George A. Grant is executive officer at EOP, a post he has held for several months.

FOREMAN Lester Butler, Group 2, is welcomed home at Ritchey, Ill., after each shift by his two sons, Charles Thomas, 4½ years old, and Leo Gordon, 7 months, shown here.

Report Draft Status Changes to Bent

Selective Service record cards are being distributed among male EOP employees, 17 through 38 years old, by their respective superintendents at the request of the War Manpower Commission.

Employees are asked to report to George F. Bent, personnel director, any changes in their draft classifications which may result from the WMC investigation of the cards, which are to be returned to the superintendents as soon as filled in.

Watson Visits Here

Capt. John A. Watson visited former associates here during a recent furlough. He is now stationed at Sedalia Army Air Field, Warrensburg, Mo. While here he called on Harrison Smith and Supt. Joseph E. Salmon and others at Group 1.

Safety Plan at EOP For All Employees

correction of unsafe practices. These engineers hold weekly meetings with the supervisors and conduct frequent meetings within the groups to which they are assigned.

Each new employee is given a booklet of safety rules and precautions. Reminders of these regulations are given by use of poster boards at strategic points, by smaller posters on the bulletin boards of the change houses and by the superintendents, foremen and safety engineers at meetings within the groups.

New safety devices are investigated as they are developed and use is made of their protective merits. Movies carrying a safety message are made available to foremen.

Photographs of various safety activities are shown on Page 12 and elsewhere in this issue and others will be carried in forthcoming issues.

Construction "E" Awarded Pine Bluff

1942. Similar success was achieved in the Depot and Chemical areas, the two processes involved going into operation in November and December, 1942. An interesting feature of the construction of 220 igloos involved the boring of holes through the soft subsoil into which concrete was poured to serve as floor props. The total length of these props was in excess of ten miles.

Two minor additions in the Incendiary Area were started in November, 1942, and January, 1943. The latter began operation in March of this year.

With the "E" award to Pine Bluff, Sanderson & Porter is in the enviable position of receiving awards for great accomplishment in the production of war equipment and for high achievement in war construction.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

GROUP 3

NORBERT McLUCKIE
Correspondent

Group 3 was privileged to have Sgt. Richard Huber, an Army Air Corps bombardier, as a guest recently. He had combat service and gave the boys on the line a very encouraging pep talk.

The grapevine says "Scottie," alias Wyman Scott, Government inspector, has taken a bride. It also is an established fact that she is a very good looking blonde from Kankakee. Why won't "Scottie" admit this to the boys and pass out the cigars?

Joe "The Wrangler" Hanon, carpenter helper at Bldg. 10, is improving in health. "No more bowling balls for me," says Joe. He was trying to help some good-looking girls who were bowling and in so doing he got excited and had his fingers slightly smashed between two balls.

There seems to be some question as to whether John "Red" Boucher's second floor bowling team can beat his third floor team. In one of their recent contests, Bruce Fahrner, Nick Green, Jimmy Ray, Walter Roth and Scotty Dalziel of the third floor defeated Robert Dow, Ernie Meyer, Guy Hailes and "Red" of the second floor by 17 points. Barney Boos, an employee on the third floor, put his life in jeopardy by betting on the second floor team along with George Holland. They both lost their bets and have been pretty quiet ever since. After the game Jimmy footed the bill for a choice steak supper.

James "Smoky" Moore had the only major injury of the month in Group 3, a hang-nail which was readily treated, but should not cause a lost time accident report.

The $64 question of the Maintenance Department is: "Why does Wilbur Sanders call Herschel Laughlin, 'Wrench Stillson, the handy man'?"

After seeing their name in a recent issue of The Bomb-Shell, Jim Crane and Tony Helling promptly cornered Ed Peterson and made some accusations that probably were correct.

All the boys working for Gerald Clennon in Bldg. 4 have welcomed back George Conley who spent a few months in the Army. George says, "The Army life is great, look what it did for my waistline."

George Knezevic, Lester Reiniche and Louis Ceci must have a high powered bet as to which can grow the finest mustache. The one who seems to be leading in the race is Louis who incidently may be nicknamed "Mustachio Kid."

Joseph Abraham left to answer Uncle Sam's call. He is a fellow of a very likable nature and made many friends who will no doubt remember Joe for a good number of years to come. One of the wittiest scenes ever witnessed by your correspondent was the adios and adieu exchanged by Joe and Donald "Tiny" Mancini. The high spot of their farewell was when Tiny offered Joe the remaining butt of the cigarette he was smoking as a going-away present.

Warren Hair, veteran inspector, left for the Army. He was a very helpful man, especially in keeping the inspection records in perfect order at all times.

SALE · FOUND · LOST · RENT · BUY · SERVICE · TRADE · RIDES

Classified ads will be published without charge for EOP employees and their families. If you can offer transportation, want transportation; want to trade, buy or sell something; have a house or apartment to rent; have lost or found something, you are invited to make use of this service. Deadline is Wednesday, ten days preceding publication.

Wanted—Boat with 1½ horsepower motor or 1½ horsepower outboard motor. Call W. J. Denver, Line 2267.

Riders Wanted—From Joliet on the 3:30 to 11:30 shift. Joseph Maren, Water Dept., Line 4125, or Joliet 2-4740.

Wanted—Lawnmower in good condition. Give description. E. L. Fisher, Group 2, Line 5232.

For Sale—4 to 6 room capacity Florence oil heater range. Used one year. Sold for $69.50. Stove pipe and heater A-1 condition. Call engineer, Line 4144.

Lost—Black billfold containing A card, B tickets, Social Security card, birth certificate, Registration card and classification, $16 in cash. Return billfold and contents except cash to Tom Wheeler, foreman Bldg. 16-A, Group 3-A.

Reward—For return of hand-hammered silver bracelet, lost at Group 4 party at Germania Hall April 3. Sophie Ethyl Odenwald, clock number 69581.

ELWOOD ON PARADE

SMALL POSTERS also stress EOP's safety program. Don Crowthers, Group 3-A safety engineer, is shown here installing one in the Mess Hall.

ROUND TABLE CONFERENCES are held frequently by Safety Director R. T. Read and his key assistants. Pictured here, studying goggles, are Harl Son, Karl Ulrich, Mr. Read and Al Hesley.

EMERGENCY TRUCK of the Fire Department is pictured here being inspected by Chief R. W. Mortenson and Karl Ulrich, assistant safety director.

STATISTICAL STUDIES enable the Safety Department to determine the effectiveness of its program and show the frequency and severity of specific types of accidents. These studies are made by L. M. Ross and his secretary, Mary Philbin, pictured here before one of their charts in the Hospital.

OPERATING EQUIPMENT is inspected regularly by the safety engineers assigned to the loading and assembling lines. Mechanical defects which might cause accidents are eliminated in this way. Charles Harrison is shown here inspecting one of the bomb conveyors in Group 3.

Col. Schneider Now Prepares EOP Schedules

Regards Plant Here "His Baby"; Gives Much to War Effort

By Harrison Smith

Col. Charles F. Schneider is an old friend of Elwood Ordnance Plant. This may well be true, because it is "his baby." It was in early 1941, when the design of Elwood Ordnance Plant was in the embryo stage, that Colonel Schneider, then civilian assistant to Col. Joel G. Holmes, in charge of the ammunition loading program, under Col. F. H. Miles, Jr., at that time chief of the Ammunition Division, conferred so frequently, both in Washington and Joliet, with Sanderson & Porter's engineers in the development of this modern shell and bomb loading plant.

As the plans for Elwood were developed and construction progressed, Colonel Schneider maintained his keen interest, and continued to give his helpful advice in equipping the plant and in placing it in operation. This interest has never lapsed, and as operating problems developed, he has been helpful in solving them.

Colonel Schneider, as lieutenant colonel, and later colonel, has continued to be our mainstay. His calm and considered judgment have contributed more to the war effort than will ever be known, because the colonel is a modest gentleman and he alone could tell his story.

Colonel Schneider was educated in Columbus, O. He engaged in mechanical engineering before his entry into the Ordnance Department, as a civilian technician, in June, 1918. His initial duties covered supervision of the installation of weighing equipment, measuring devices and mechanical controls. Later he was appointed chief inspector at the Woodbury, N. J., Bag Loading Plant.

Early in 1919 Colonel Schneider was transferred to the Tullytown (Penna.), Arsenal, and served there approximately a year. In 1920 he was transferred to Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, N. J., to assist in the design and construction of the loading facilities at that point, and later placed in charge of all operations involving the loading of components, complete rounds and bag loading. In addition, he was in charge of experimental loading for approximately two years.

In the latter part of 1923, Colonel Schneider was transferred to the Eighth Corps Area, San Antonio, Tex., and remained for a period of approximately four years in connection with the maintenance and test of ammunition in the field, which afforded him an opportunity to observe how the troops used the ammunition which was furnished them.

Colonel Schneider was transferred to Washington, D. C., in the latter part of 1927 to design, construct and operate numerous Renovation Plants throughout the country, involving renovation of stocks of ammunition left over from the first world war. In addition, he assumed control of surveillance, through a Field Surveillance Organization, of all ammunition stocks on hand in the continental United States and Possessions. This work involved the compilation and writing of the safety regulations.

When the Ordnance Department was called upon to develop a program for loading ammunition, prior to our entry into World War II, Colonel Schneider was transferred to the Industrial Service Division in Washington to assist in the development of the loading program. When the United States entered the war, the program was greatly expanded and instead of the few initial plants, the number grew until now they are located in many sections of the United States. Colonel Schneider was closely associated with, and approved the design of all these plants.

When the Office of the Field Director of Ammunition Plants, under the direction of Col. T. C. Gerber, was established in St Louis in August, 1942, Colonel Schneider became a member of Colonel Gerber's staff. Because of his familiarity with the equipment of all of the loading plants he prepares their loading schedules and assists in the supervision of their operation.

Colonel Schneider entered the service as a lieutenant colonel April 18, 1942. He was promoted to full colonel February 17, 1943. He and Mrs. Schneider reside in St. Louis. Their daughter, Nan Schneider, is attending the University of Wisconsin. She will receive her Master's Degree in Philosophy in June.

"Continue the good work."

Colonel Charles F. Schneider

"The Elwood Family may well be proud of their accomplishments: For the construction of a well designed Loading Facility in record time. . . . For the production of ammunition in great quantity, of high quality and on schedule.. . . The knowledge that those products have and will continue to participate in the defeat of our common enemy. Continue the good work."
—Colonel Charles F. Schneider, Office of Field Director of Ammunition Plants.

Safety Engineers Offer Blood First

Members of the Safety Department have volunteered to be the first blood donors when a portable trailer "blood bank" of the American Red Cross is brought to EOP. A committee composed of John F. Welch, War Department; Veronica Kelley, Hospital, and Anna K. Baird, General Offices, is working out details. The suggestion for being the first volunteers was made by Jimmy Hart.

EOP Workers Will Receive Vitamins Soon

Distribution to Start May 1; Milk Service to Be Discontinued

Following the practice long in effect at all other ammunition loading plants, distribution of vitamin capsules and digestive tablets to employees in those areas where explosives are handled will be started May 1, it was announced by Dr. H. L. Schultz, Elwood Ordnance Plant medical director.

Dr. Schultz said that this distribution is a great forward step in the continuous program to guard and improve the health of EOP workers handling toxic materials.

"With the beginning of this program, distribution of milk will be discontinued," added Dr. Schultz "The policy of supplying milk to some employees engaged in explosives operations has been in practice at this plant since July, 1941. It is a practice carried over from World War I, and was instituted when certain blockaded countries in Europe attempted to make up nutritional deficiencies by giving a daily allotment of milk to all war workers.

"Employees who maintain fundamental good health are less apt to be affected by the handling of explosives than those who drink too much milk, and fail to get a diversity of foodstuff in their diet.

"Vitamin capsules have a benefical affect upon the general well-being of war workers, but employees should not depend on them for their food needs. Balanced meals, served at the proper times, are still the basis of good health.

"However, under the various rationing programs, there may be a shortage of meats and green vegetables with a corresponding increase in consumption of starchy foods. The tablets are designed to prevent any digestive difficulties resulting from the greater use of starchy foods.

"Capsules and tablets will be distributed without charge immediately after the lunch period on each shift. I recommend strongly that all workers take them every day. It is in the interest of their well-being, and they should understand that it is a privilege to receive them. As long as this privilege is not abused the practice will be continued.

"Milk is a good food and those workers, who have used milk furnished at the plant as their sole supply in their daily diet, should take steps to include it in their balanced meals."

Office Hours Return To Summer Schedule

Hours of work in the Administration Area will return to a summer schedule Monday, May 3, it was announced by Comptroller John J. Cole. The present 8:45 a. m. starting time will be changed to 8:30 and the 5:15 p. m. quitting time will be changed to 5 o'clock. The present half-hour lunch period will remain unchanged. Saturday hours will be 8:30 to 12:30, instead of 8:45 to 12:45.

This change was directed so that employees may take advantage of the longer hours of daylight.

Remember the Kid Next Door?

He used to hang around when you were polishing your car or cutting the lawn. You kidded with him like you did with all the small boys, and he liked it and handed it back to you the best he could. His dad and yourself taught him how to throw a baseball and box a little with a pair of cheap gloves you bought him. He thought you were quite a guy.

Then you quit seeing him so much, he didn't come over to the house like he used to and pore over your magazine—you saw him in the family car one day with a cute little high school girl, then you grinned and understood why he didn't have time to see much of you. Remember how you poured it into him the next time you saw him; he was still enough of a puppy to like it and did everything but wiggle the way a puppy would.

You didn't figure him very seriously in the War thing—probably didn't even know how old he was, but one day his dad told you he was called up and was reporting within a few days. You didn't take this war business very seriously either—a year in the army wouldn't do him any harm, so you dished it out a little more. But you couldn't make the kidding quite real that time. You could see that he was a little scared and bewildered, but he understood and grinned back.

Now you know, don't you? The kidding is all over. He's somewhere, some place—not a boy any longer, but a man. DANGER—sure he's in danger—the business he's in isn't a good insurance risk. He can take care of himself, if you back him up. He can't tear a tank apart with his hand, he can't knock an airplane out of the sky with a rock, he needs tanks and more tanks, airplanes and more airplanes to do the job.

So buckle down, neighbor—buy more WAR BONDS than you can afford, just like you used to buy a better car than you could afford. REMEMBER, IT'S FOR THE KID NEXT DOOR.

The foregoing was written by Harry M. Bricks, editor, General Electric News, and is reprinted with the hope it will inspire you to buy an additional War Bond—now.

The Burning Pit
By Scorchy

In several recent issues of the Heavenly Gift to the Fourth Estate, I have light-heartedly held forth on the probabilities of rationing of things erstwhile most commonplace. Those remarks were, of course, intended to divert your attention from the real proportions of the imminent income tax—sort of sedative against the day when the check would be written to initiate what I think will probably become a long-time acquaintance with that champion gatherer of gatherers, the Collector of Internal Revenue.

There are some rumblings to the effect that the opiate wore off altogether too soon, but you must admit that a good many of our fellow-strugglers in the cause of bigger and better ammunition squeal rather loudly when the needle is administered a bit beyond the usual depth. The squeal sometimes seems to be heard on occasions when even a slight murmur would ordinarily be considered infantile. However, fellow tough guys, you figure that out.

But to get back to rationing. Time enough has elapsed for a good many of the boys to have listened to the "Mrs." on why she didn't lay before them the usual half-cow for supper, and then the usual dissertation of so many points for the half-pound of butter for next week's bread and that half-pound of cheese (more points) for the sandwiches to feed the Friday night poker group, and all that kind of gastronomical arithmetic.

I have had my ear to the ground recently. Out in the Area, and scattered without any particular pattern as to occupation (present or past), sex, position (present or hopefully prospective) or any other design, there is an atmosphere of prediction as to what we fellow-mortals will look like come Fall, after a season of this here starvation point stuff. If you will while away a few minutes at lunch time with some of these super-patriots, you will soon be on the lookout for a horde of walking skeletons pushing the empty shell or bomb listlessly on its path toward the shipping room.

According to some of the more pessimistic gluttons, it won't be long before there will be squads of clean-up men, who will roam the area picking up the starved victims whose coupons were insufficient to get them to the time-clock, after which the worry would not be quite so acute. In sum, folks, a lot of bellyaching long before the belly really starts to ache. If it were possible to run a sweepstakes on the one who lost the most weight because of inadequate food, the loudest gripers of today would be so fat they could not even waddle up to claim the consolation prize. Watch it during the Summer.

And now to the Dirty Linen:

Mann is swinging from the Mann to the Inert side of his personality. He may revive, but I doubt it.

Moloney (alias Boloney) is floored, and has had to call upon a particularly unqualified helper to translate and transmit his gasping last thoughts to your scribe. At least I recognize that the brilliant readership of this Journal will appraise his condition with searing accuracy. His amateurish assistant suggests that my cognomen can be found in the early pages of the dictionary. Mr. Moloney, let you be here notified, that in the much earlier pages of the same dictionary your best description can be found in a handy little word of three letters instead of the seven that you have relegated to me. More descriptive, and less derogatory of the rest of the family.

In Volume I, No. 23, of Ordnance's Greatest Published Document, Mr. Boloney, through his still unskilled helper, admits that his chagrin after exposure brought on a bit of ptomaine poisoning, but upon reading his article, it seems to me that he has suffered an even more severe bilious attack.

Having cleared the decks, now for some Clean Linen:

The appealing message of Euphelia Roanebeck in the aforementioned No. 23 of The Bomb-Shell kindles in me a fire for bigger and better presidents that far transcends my columnar appellation. More on this in the next issue.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This is not in the nature of a complaint but rather as an appeal to your sportsmanship. Since the battle is on—because of your position you would be the logical party to act as referee. But, by the looks of your last issue, it would seem that you wear the same hat as that self styled learned "Scorchy." My friendly, albeit satanical, jibe at him was accorded a tail-end, jammed-up-type allowance such as is found in the less attractive paragraphs of an insurance policy. Whereas "Scorchy's" tirade was allowed the use of italics, paragraph indentions, quotation marks and other journalistic embellishments. Now I don't ask to be accorded the same space as my worthy opponent but . . . you see the point!

In all honesty I think "Scorchy" has been doing an excellent job. I particularly enjoyed his timely treatise on Victory gardens. He really dished the dirt and in the same breath spread the necessary fertilizer for good cultivation.

Charles H. Mann.

P.S. Since you chose to omit the foregoing appeal from the last issue and to use, instead, a letter from the imaginative "Scorchy's" imaginative campaign manager—namely "Euphelia Roanebeck"—and also joined their frothings into the same column, I have no choice but to declaim the rantings from both of these sources which obviously come from the same "Baileywick."—C. H. M.

To the Editor:

Thank you so much for giving my enlightening little epistle such flattering attention! But—why did you print half of what I said about that Dodo-bird Duo? This censoring of my very chaste chastisements annoyed me no end at first, until I realized that of course the Postal Authorities must exercise some control, else such Changhouse Impressarios as Baloney and Locker-room Lotharios like "Wotta" Mann would proceed to get entirely out of hand.

But I do wish you had printed that part which read: "The very idea of these militant mugwumps trying to put on the pup with anybody! Why, before they sneaked into those down-filled jobs they have (when nobody was looking), neither one of 'em had a pot to put a posey in nor a window sill to set it on. And now, rumor has it that some sadly misguided Draft Board is seeking to put these corny characters in the ARMY! Ye Gods! If our once mighty Nation is really that hard up, I'm gonna cash in my bonds tomorrow!"

Did you happen to read that tinsled tripe about: "Moloney is a name that came directly from the Kings of Ireland"? It must have been one of those old, wornout names they used to dig the dungeons with, and then threw out of the house when it got too dirty. Odd, isn't it, how a distinguishing family characteristic will always manifest itself?

Wasn't it cute, his reference to our noble "Scorchy's" definition being "near the front of the dictionary"? Of course he meant "Acclaimed" or "Admirable"; I can't, somehow, believe he meant us to go further in the book and discover "ANGELIC."

And, as to our handsome hero's amazing modesty in not using his picture, why—that's merely a patriotic sacrifice to insure an all-out war effort from the impressionable fair sex, for—were that Napoleonic brow, those piercing, poetic orbs and Byronic lips but once to grace a page — THOUSANDS of moon-eyed maidens would toss out their film star folios, their homework and their husbands—and sit about all day, dreamily disbursing double dribbled endearments to their adored!

Whilst we're on the subject of pictures—will you grab a gander at that Molonic phiz? I almost said "MORONIC." Wonder why I didn't? Editor's Note: "Why don't you?" There, my finely feathered friends, is a face that looks like it had outworn three bodies.

And Mann — that peripatetic prune-puss, his—like the immortal Helen's—is truly: "The face that launched a thousand quips!" And to think, that once he had the unmitigated gall to let that cockeyed glint gleam in his one good glim (which he fondly imagines to be a roguish twinkle) as he simpered: "My friends all tell me I have the fair complexion of a high school kid" . . . well, brother, you'd better give it back, you're gettin' it all wrinkled.

—Euphelia Roanebeck.

The "little old man," Chris Manny, has finally taken off the sheepskin, but refuses to dispose of the overshoes.

Harold "Heggie" Fraher left recently for the Air Corps.

Four more fellows are now getting a chance to push in "der Fuehrer's face" since their induction into the army. They are Robert Waddell, Bruce Southcombe, Sam Briones and Whitney Schultz. Best of luck is wished to them by the department, and all know that they will take their places along side the 101 timekeepers who preceded them into the service.

Several new persons have taken positions in the Time Department. They are Foster Maris, Henry Seborg, Arthur Davis, Agnes Hatting, Lorretta McDonald, Irene Blaha, Margaret Cosgrove and Martha Piper.

A pleasant dinner party was given in honor of T. V. "Uncle Tom" Brennan's birthday recently in the private dining room of the Mess Hall. The hostesses were 12 charming girls of the Administration Area. The girls were Peg Collins, Helen McGinnis, Carmen Oldani, Beatrice Bovee, Esther Heavens, Lola Early, June Morgan, Bernadine Keenan, Rita Washburn, Helen Bardi, Charlotte Doxsee and Mary Virginia Gallagher.

From the sound of all the chatter about seeds and Victory gardens and such, a requisition for a produce warehouse must be recommended to hold all the fruits of labor. Marcella Corbett, Emily Kexel and Maria Darin are planning a garden close to the time office while Milton Treitel is weighing heavily the thought of giving up his athletic career in favor of a hoe, which should remind all that if corn is ever rationed, Eva Sweda will be behind the much publicized eightball.

Many, many persons wonder how Angeline Gunnerson, the what's on the vine girl, came through without any ill effects when her boy friend came down with the mumps.

Notes about the service. Carl Parker is entering Officer's Training School in Virginia. Vearl Heinis visited the time office recently while home on furlough. Harry Knarr is expected home soon.

Here is a record anyone would be proud to own. Bert Rydman, the talkative poster, has been absent but two days in 890. He has worked 15 consecutive months without a day off.

Johnston Sends Congratulations From Australia

Former Executive Officer Here Glad About "E" Award

Congratulations to the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant on their Army-Navy Award for Production have been received from Maj. Alan C. Johnston, former executive officer of EOP, now somewhere in Australia.

Maj. Johnston's V-mail letter, addressed to Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, follows:

"I want to thank you for a very kind invitation to be with you for a big and, I bet, swell celebration at Elwood on February 12. I regret that I was unable to be with you in person, but as Lt. C. R. Crandell had informed me of the event, I was with you in spirit. I want to congratulate the men and women on having won this coveted and, I believe, justly deserved recognition of the work at Elwood. I have always thought, personally, that everybody at the plant was doing a swell job, which is just as important as that of the men and women in the armed forces. During a recent trip through many cities in Australia and many parts of New Guinea, I visited many of the ordnance establishments and observed at many of them (censored) familiar (censored). It made my heart feel good to notice this and to realize that Elwood was doing its part in the show. I believe that everybody at Elwood can be justly proud of this award which is so well deserved. Best regards to you and to all the personnel at Elwood."

Pvt. Donald Allison wrote that he had been with a bomb squadron in Africa for three months and that he hoped to "run across" some of the other EOP men stationed there.

"It seems wherever I go," said Pvt. Allison, "the letters EOP are to be found and I just want to let you know they're still doing what they were made to do. It makes me feel at home when I see the good old markings. Just keep sending them and we'll do our best to deliver them. I see where the plant was awarded the Army-Navy "E" flag for its accomplishment in war production. I imagine everyone was proud to see it."

Sgt. Elvin Skinner, also in a bomb squadron, wrote from Australia that he, too, sees the "great EOP markings."

"I am attached to the field artillery," wrote Pvt. John J. Bonas from the Hawaiian Islands, "so you people had better keep them rolling, especially those (censored) fuzes and primers, including the (censored) shells. From the way it looks, the hunting season will open for us before too long. I might add it is not for ducks.

"In the plant, I have two sisters, one at Group 9 and one at Group 3-A, and also a girl friend at Group 7. I was glad to see that the plant had been awarded the "E" flag. That shows that everyone is working and doing his or her share in this war. I was employed as a truck and bus driver at Fuze and Booster for 20 months and left a lot of friends there. I can't write to each and every one of them, so am saying hello to all."

Two years of service in the Army were celebrated by Pvt. Gilbert A. Reeves, a former construction worker here, according to his letter from North Africa. He said he had been in England and halfway around the world.

"From all reports, you are doing a swell job . . . keep it up," said Pvt. Reeves. He closed with "your's for a quick victory."

In a letter from "boot camp" in San Diego, Calif., Pvt. Henry J. Giermala, formerly of Group 7, described himself as "just a lonesome marine." His address will be given to anyone who wants to do something about this. Pvt. Jim "Cisco" Ventsias, who is in the same Marine platoon at San Diego, said his buddies who had seen action told him "that the shells Elwood produces go off when they're supposed to do so." He worked in Bldg. 13, Group 1.

Pvt. Glen Bruner wrote that he is attending airplane mechanics school at Lincoln, Neb., and sent greetings to those in Bldg. 3, Group 1. Sgt. T. W. Birkey, Daniel Field, Augusta, Ga., said he would be going across soon and would look for the EOP "trademark on those shells and bombs" he used to help make.

"Sure glad to get mail, which is a sacred feeling for all men in the service," said Pvt. Richard Clanahan in a letter from Camp Swift, Texas. Cpl. Jehle F. Koehler sent greetings to his former associates in Groups 66 and 66-A. He said he was servicing planes at a bombardier training school at San Angelo, Tex.

Pvt. Walter E. Burns, who worked on construction here and later in Group 3, said he was surprised to learn how many former EOP men were in his camp at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. "I am in the Infantry," he continued, "and I thought it was tough until I heard some of those tales about the marines. I took some commando training and liked it real well."

A letter filled with keen observations was received from Pvt. Robert Melson, Camp Stewart, Georgia, and is as follows:

"I saw some of the country since I have been in the Army. I went through some of the southern states and what a sight to see. The houses or shacks, which is the right name for them, were very terrible looking. Some of them never had any windows and those who lived in ones with windows were considered well-to-do. All the soil is very poor. In some states, it's all red clay and when it rains it's just like cement on your shoes.

"In Mississippi the shacks set out in the open fields. In Georgia they have grass around them. In Georgia there are plenty of woods and, with all this wood, there are saw mills all through the State. There are also plenty of cotton mills. The weather down here is hot during the day, so that the boys run around outside of the barracks without shirts, but the nights are cool."

Letters were received also from Aviation Cadet Roy Carpenter, Ellington Field, Texas; Pvt. P. M. Susemiehl, Keesler Field, Mississippi; Lt. William T. Bryant, Camp Davis, North Carolina; Pvt. James Noblitt, Camp Howze, Texas; Ensign John F. Watson, Naval Air Station, New Orleans, La.; Pvt. Leo P. Kilanowski, Camp Kohler, California; Pvt. Norman Conn, Camp McClellan, Alabama; Mrs. Judy Sutherland, Pontiac, Ill., who wrote in behalf of her brother, Pvt. James M. Bean, Camp Roberts, California; Pvt. Marvin Offenbach, Camp Hood, Texas; Martin A. Knowler, SF 2/C, Camp Peary, Williamsburg, Va.; Sgt. Theodore Q. Stukel, Fort Benning, Georgia; Sgt. Tuttle L. Boldt, Camp Gordon Johnston, Florida, and Pvt. Julius H. Dovich, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Aberdeen, Md.

Durrenberger Is Headed for Boat Ride, He Writes

Says It's Pleasure To Set Out With Support Like EOP's

"I'm heading for a boat ride," said Capt. William J. Durrenberger, popular officer formerly stationed here, in a letter from St. Louis addressed to The Bomb-Shell.

Capt. Durrenberger, who left here as a lieutenant in August, 1942, was chief, Stores and Transportation, Ordnance Department. His letter follows:

"Several nights ago, in the thriving city of Texarkana, Tex.—Ark., (on the line) I ran into our good friend, John J. Cole, who made me promise to drop you a line.

"At the moment, I'm on the train (hence the scribbling) leaving Red River Ordnance Depot, Texarkana, on confidential orders. In other words, I'm heading for a boat ride.

"After leaving EOP in August, 1942, I spent three and a half months in the Ordnance School at Aberdeen Proving Ground. From there I was transferred to Rock Island Arsenal in December for a three-months' course in tank maintenance. Upon leaving Rock Island March 13, I had seven days' leave and then reported to Red River Ordnance Depot, tank maintenance center of the Eighth Service Command. About one and a half weeks at RROD and my orders to take a nice trip came through.

"I've asked Mr. Cole to convey my best regards to all my friends there at EOP and I certainly would appreciate it if you would do likewise. The 21 or so months that I spent at EOP were among the most enjoyed of my Army experience. It's a pleasure to set out for the scene of action knowing that we're backed by the high caliber of supporters, such as you at EOP."

TWO SONS in the Army are the pride of Caphas A. Eads, Salvage Department. Sgt. Everett M. Eads (left) is in the Air Corps at Atlantic City, N. J. Cpl. William Clyde Eads is in the Barrage Balloon Corps at San Pedro, Calif.

News and Notes from EOP Safety Engineers

Clem Eiden, Group 70 safety engineer, reported that this group, with its many shops and diversified crafts, possesses a splendid safety record. He said the following shops and buildings have not had a lost-time accident since the Group was started: Electric Shop, Sheet Metal Shop, Blacksmith Shop, Material Warehouse, Pipe Shop, Laundry, Engine Repair Shop, Lumber Yard, Lumber Storage Shed and Linemen's Building.

Important factors in enabling Group 61 to establish a 15-months no-lost-time record, according to Irving R. Olson, Groups 61 and 27 safety engineer, include bi-weekly safety meetings of building safety foremen, assistant superintendent and safety engineer; about 11 per cent of the workers with first aid training; regular use of face shields, respirators, goggles and other protective devices, and cooperation between superintendent, foremen and safety engineers.

Once a week each safety foreman, one for each building, makes a thorough inspection of all buildings and operations. If something is overlooked by one man, it is usually found by one or more of the others. Their findings are reported to Supt. P. L. Deylitz for analysis and action.

At Group 1, reported H. J. Beringer, safety engineer for that group, Supt. Joseph E. Salmon has inaugurated a series of weekly meetings of supervising foremen and foreladies. Safety problems as well as others are discussed and solved. Speakers from other departments are invited to discuss problems of mutual interest. These meetings are held during the lunch period.

Board walks have been installed in the ramps from change houses to buildings in Group 1, according to Louis Walsh, safety engineer, and housekeeping problems in the buildings have been greatly reduced by the elimination of tracked-in mud. Mr. Walsh also reported that Group 70 electricians had changed the location of some switches on operating machinery in the group, enabling operators to stop the machines much more quickly in emergencies.

New safety couplings have been installed on lift trucks in Group 3-A, with a resulting reduction in finger injuries, and improvements have been made to conveyor and tables in Bldg. 5, according to Don Crowthers, safety engineer for that group.

Mr. Eiden said that safety meetings are held every two weeks, so as to include the swing shift, at 62-N, 62-S and 27. Charles Mann, assistant superintendent, presides and general foremen and crew foremen attend.

Installation of brakes on trucks required to go down grade with heavy loads at Group 27 permits one man to take the truck down safely, where previously two were needed, Safety Engineer Olson said. This idea was developed during the group safety meetings.

A series of safety meetings, arranged by Supt. James J. Murphy, was held in Group 2 from March 15 to 20 by Safety Engineers Lorin Cain and B. R. Bowden. Each afternoon, Mr. Cain met with the men of one of the buildings, and each morning Mr. Bowden met with the workers on the midnight shift.

Until recently, Mr. Cain carried cardboard cartons to service the first aid kits in Group 2. He was asked frequently if he were dispensing candy bars. No more, however. Now he carries a kit made at the Carpenter Shop by Foreman Bill Kelsey, painted white by Foreman Charlie Butt and neatly lettered, "First Aid," by Harry Dankes.

The Machine Shop has lost its pet cat, but her life was not given in vain. The cat was between the wall and the "V" belts of a compressor when the machine was started by Lloyd Widup, who was very much surprised as fur started to fly when the cat had leaped into the belts. A contemplated guard was installed immediately by order of Supt. J. A. Cocker.

L. M. Ross, Safety Department statistician, reported that eye injuries are from 10 to 12 per cent of all injuries requiring medical treatment at EOP. Causes varied, but most of them could have been prevented had the victims been wearing their goggles.

Careful use of supplies in first aid kits is more necessary than ever, because of growing shortages, due to less being manufactured and more being shipped overseas, cautioned Harl E. Son, supervising safety engineer.

Commendation is due Paul Hall, Frank J. Wehrli, Joe Studevin, E. L. McCray, Andrew Perino and St. Elmo Stewart, high explosives supervisors, for their collective record of six consecutive months without a lost-time accident, according to John H. Connor, safety engineer for this area.

This is a considerable achievement since the bulk of production is handled through Groups 63, 64, 65, 66, 66-A and 68, said Mr. Connor.

"I am not much for table manners," added Mr. Connor, "but when it comes to cleanliness, if you see me eating off the floor of any high explosive lunch house, you'll know that I am making good my boast that the janitors of the different groups here actually keep their places that clean.

"Spic and span floors, orderly arrangement, prompt disposal of waste and the other phases of absolute cleanliness are the order of the day for Janitors Rudolph Schramm, of 63, Stanley Waswaiak of 64, Ed Leibold of 65, William VanDuyne of 66, Emil Becker of 66-A and Leo Trickler of 68."

John C. Schmeh spent several days in Chicago on business during the week of April 10.

Francis Mores, who has been ill, has returned to work.

All join with Ray Banker in hoping that her husband, who was seriously injured when a car dropped on him, will recover soon.

Bud Wright, former production planner, called on the department April 2.

Fred Mastin has taken up pipe smoking — folks, it isn't honey that perfumes the department, it is merely the type of tobacco Fred uses.

June Kuglech was sporting some pretty snappy photos, namely of herself and her husband. As usual everyone was most interested in "Hubby."

Dorothy Maxwell has again taken up the phrase, "I just missed my ride." Dorothy was giving Loretta Ryan competition on this a few months ago, but Loretta left and she has the field to herself.

Shirley Wessles, who celebrated her 21st birthday April 12, displayed several lovely gifts and treated the girls with whom she eats with a piece of her birthday cake.

Industrial Service

Commotion, action, and worry!! Marge Gall threw everyone into a flurry when she went home with the measles. Now she has returned, fully recovered.

Mary Matesi is back after being away a few days to care for her daughter who had an infected finger. The little girl is recovering nicely.

Traffic Audit

Jim Murphy has transferred from Production Planning to the Traffic Audit Division.

Helen Hausser has been really thrilled lately. Good news that her husband may get a furlough—right at the right time—so they can spend their first anniversary together.

Elva Thomas and Simon Legris seem always to become entangled in some kind of an argument with each other—the referee is generally that genial mayor of Frankfort, Gorge Sangmiester.

Inventory Clerks

Argyle Dalziel doesn't believe he will flip coins any more. "Dal" had the experience of losing two days straight and had to buy lunches for Willie DuPuierre and Don Nelson. And do those two eat, to say nothing of what it costs "Dal" just for himself. Willie and Don think the system is all right.

Orlie Scott has been away for a week because of the serious illness of his brother.

Uncle Sam called Willie DuPerrieu April 17.

Multilith Room

Dorothy Mihelic is now chief machinist and with her efficient assistants, Chris Dare and Jerry Weir, business will proceed as usual in the Multilith Room.

Equipment Checkers

Frank Weston can always be heard giving fatherly advice to Tom "Pants" Nugent, who, by the way, celebrated his birthday recently at the Trianon in Chicago.

Jake Debri was invited to his brother's for supper, and afterwards was asked to finish out the evening by working in the Victory garden.

Les Wilson would like to know which is worse, to smoke the tobacco Pete Conroy smokes or to chew it.

Group 2

The clerks at Group 2 are all teasing their "Chief," Johnny Williamson, about the telephone calls he receives from a nice somebody in Group 1 (could the initials possibly be S. V. D.?).

Paul Somerville had as his guest one night, Orville Rasmussen, They went to Kankakee where, as Cliff Fisher claims, they met a few sensible people.

Planning Department

Room 59 is really quite an enterprising office — what with Production Planning, Industrial Service and Transportation all in the one room transacting business, you can just bet your boots that old "59" really hums with activity.

Betty Welch has deserted the city of Morris and is now residing in the thriving metropolis of Wilmington.

Eveline Mikuce, formerly of Fuze and Booster, is a new typist in this office.

Y Players to Present "Ladies in Retirement"

"Ladies in Retirement," recent hit of both stage and screen, will be presented by the YMCA Players Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, May 4, 5, 6 and 7, in the Farragut School Auditorium in Joliet.

This is the final production of the current year, concluding eleven years of successful trouping by the Players.

"Ladies in Retirement" is a spine-tingling melodrama, centering around a group of eccentric old ladies. Ida Lupino, Louise Hayward and Elsa Lanchester will be remembered as the stars of the movie version.

Seasoned players and newcomers form the cast of the Players' production. They are Lois Zarley Robson, Katherine Hollsten, Mary C. Rompel, Elizabeth Jackson, May B. Lloyd, Shirley Morse and Gerald Kraft.

Dorothy Brodeske is an active member of the Players, having last been seen in "The Warrior's Husband." Mrs. Harl Son, wife of Harl Son of the Safety Department, is a member of the Ticket Committee. Jimmy Hart has played feature roles in a number of past productions.

Tickets are on sale now at the YMCA, 215 N. Ottawa Street, Joliet; at the Recreation Department here and by the individual players. Admission is 44 cents.

Do's and Dont's Of Fire Fighting Related by Chief

Mortenson Advises Call Firemen First, Then Follow Through

By Chief Roy W. Mortenson
Chief, EOP Fire Department

Every two minutes an American home catches on fire. Many such outbreaks develop into conflagrations because no one discovers them in time. A large number of fires get out of control simply because whoever discovered them didn't know what to do. You should understand a few plain facts about fires, how to report and fight them; as the country cannot afford to replace 30 homes every hour—insurance or no insurance.

The first thing to do is call the fire department. There are thousands of cases every year where two or more persons, excited and confused, attempt to extinguish a growing fire, each thinking the other has turned in an alarm. Then when the fire drives them out, someone finally turns in an alarm. All fires are the same size when they start, which means that a trained man given a crack at extinguishing a fire in the incipient stage, can hold loss to a minimum. It is a known fact among Firemen that the first five minutes are worth five hours. Always remember the fire department would much rather be there and not needed than to be needed and not there.

Even if it is out, the boys would like a look at it for safety's sake. In Youngstown, O., for example, a small fire started in a factory when sparks from a cutting torch blew into a partition. The workmen present quickly extinguished the small blaze with extinguishers and went back to work. Several hours later the fire they had put out burned through the roof and the final cost of that insignificant blaze was $400,000. Inexperienced men didn't realize the small blaze had gotten through the partition and was spreading upwards into the attic. The next time you see a fireman ripping up a place after the fire has been extinguished, just remember this one incident. There are thousands like it.

After placing the alarm naturally you will make every effort to evacuate occupants, and to control the flames with whatever first aid fire extinguishers are at hand.

First, be sure an alarm has been placed. Second, evacuate building. Third, use any first aid appliances available. Keep doors and windows shut! Few realize that the average fire spreads faster through rising heat than by eating its way from one combustible to another. The most natural mistake made upon discovering a fire is to leave the door of the burning room open and run.

In a New York skyscraper, a blaze which started in oily waste at the foot of a cable shaft did $75,000 worth of damage on a 35th floor of that building. The rising heat simply flooded up the shaft, swept through an open door and ignited the combustibles in that office, quite unknown to the solitary workman in the basement, who had hurried off to get an extinguisher to put out his little bonfire.

If a fire can spread to the extent of rising 35 stories, it can do it more quickly in your two-and-a-half story home. So if you open a door and find a room on fire, or if a fire starts in the room you are in, slam the door shut, run and call the fire department. After that what you do depends upon the equipment you have at hand, and to what extent the fire had progressed.

If the heat in the room is punishing, or if the smoke is dark black or heavy looking, then you had better get out and stay out. Hard as it is to replace your home, it is still harder to replace your life. Most persons will retreat from intense heat without any urging. They are less likely to back out of thick smoke until it is too late.

Yet, of the two, smoke can be far more dangerous. Smoke is usually the product of incomplete combustion and loaded with carbon monoxide and other deadly gases. It is a good rule never to venture into a room charged with smoke, if alone, as it may drop you in your tracks.

One theory is that a wet towel around the face will serve as an emergency gas mask. Another is that the air closest the floor is always purest. Both are wrong. The wet towel is of absolutely no value in knocking out toxic gases which really does the damage. The only benefit derived from a wet towel or blanket would be a slight protection against extreme heat, for instance, while searching for some missing member of the household. Incidentally, if the missing member should be a child, don't forget to look under the bed as that is where firemen find them seven times out of ten.

In reference to fresher air closer to the floor, it is true that most gases of combustion rise with heat to the highest levels, but in a fire there are also numerous gases of distillation most of which are heavier than air. These sink to the lowest levels. This is one reason the American Fire Service has never accepted the British Civil Defense teaching of "belly whoppering" into a room to fight a fire, as the American firemen have found that the safest air in a burning room is likely to be about three or four feet above floor level, hence they crouch or kneel when the heat beats them down rather than to lay prone.

If you have an extinguisher at hand always remember to aim a stream at the base of the flames. The most frequent mistake is to start squirting water as soon as a cloud of smoke is seen. This certainly is the wrong method, as the smoke may even be coming from another room or another floor. One good rule to follow is never open a nozzle until you see a flame. Another thing drilled into rooky firemen is the principle of dispersion, keeping the nozzle moving back and forth and up and down to get water over all the burning mass instead of one spot delivery. Although this applies more to a powerful stream on a big fire, it also applies to a burning rubbish pile in your attic or basement.

The job isn't ended with the extinguishing of visible flame. It is necessary to turn over all of the embers carefully and douse every spark or flame. In the case of the smaller trash fire a simple method is to remove burning materials to the outside where a rekindle can do no harm. It will pay well to look for the hidden spark, feel the walls in all the rooms directly above the point where the fire was. Look for paint blisters on walls and woodwork in rooms above. Any symptoms of heat in those areas means trouble and if trained help is not likely to be on hand quickly, chop a small hole in walls or floor in order to apply water better.

Frank Scoma and Frank Nolan, politicians incorporated, are backing the same man in a coming election. It has been a long time since they found themselves in complete agreement and harmony about anything; now that they suddenly find themselves together, they are both pleased with being in such fine company.

The Fire Department had quite a family reunion one Saturday night in one of Joliet's brightest night-spots. The visiting celebrities included Mr. and Mrs. George Zelke, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Fear, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Cline, Mr. and Mrs. James McBride, Mr. and Mrs. John McGee. Others included Joe Vaccaro, Walt Panian, Willie Davis, Cliff Weiss, Archie James, Tate Ehman, and, the writer begs to be forgiven for omitting any names of those nice people whose company he so thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated. Lt. Harry Dowden, Guards, and Mrs. Dowden also attended.

Martin Hanson recently had difficulty remembering exactly what he did one afternoon. This was understandable when you considered all he "went through."

Baseball starts May 4 at the Fire Department under Charley Davis and Joe Catalani. The department hopes to do even better at kittenball than they did at basketball.

Will "Captain" Essington finally got revenge (after 4 losses in a row) by beating William Dust at bowling.

Ike Babington finally made the grade with the Army Induction Center and in a few days will be going to barracks. All wish him the best of luck.

Thomas Brown must be allergic to badges; he forgets them so often.

Many in the Department think that the eating habits of George Collins have been the cause of certain food shortages.

Congratulations go to Ralph Blake on becoming the proud papa of a son recently. (The cigars he passed out were good, too.)

John Connelly said the other day that he was going to reform; frankly, few think he can do the job and he has some doubts himself. John has vowed that in the future he will always be punctual and never late for any appointment and that he will never read newspapers at the breakfast table.

John Hembrough has quit the Department to go back to his old job, farming.

Q. What is the rank of a WAAC officer who wears two silver bars?

A. Her title is "First Officer"; corresponding to the rank of captain in the regular Army.

And so it was a memorable occasion April 5 as the first contingent of women workers reported for work at this group. After a brief talk by Supt. James J. Murphy the women were sent to Bldg. 12 and spent most of the day familiarizing themselves with the various operations in this building. They are welcome and all extend best wishes for success in their new work.

The other day Foreman Robert "Moose" Sohan was questioning William Cox, building foreman, about one of his men who had just returned from the hospital to which Cox replied, "the man sprung his back." Everyone is wondering who the iron man is.

What's in a name asked one of the boys? Sidney Barber of Bldg. 16 is nicknamed "Doctor."

After hearing Fred Casper rave about the wonders of Pontiac, Ill., a few of the fellows believe there might be something in what he says.

Congratulations are sent to Edward Erschen, who is the proud father of a son. Cigars, of course, were passed out.

John "Harvey" Bentowski, maintenance man, surely keeps his hair well groomed these days. The answer lies in Bldg. 12, where the women are working.

They say David "B. S." Richards is in line to be president of the tall story club of Group 2.

Another report from the grapevine says Frank Platt of Bldg. 12 is being called "Sister Platt" by the boys. Frank hasn't confirmed this new monicker as yet.

Kenneth Neblock, now stationed at Camp Roberts, California, has written of his experiences.

If you are interested in learning to be a good trapper in one easy lesson, including a week of intense reading with a season of putting your knowledge to use, consult Inspector John Frank.

Do you think the new strut Tony Posluzsni developed is due to the new woman Government inspector? Consensus is that Tony has gone Hollywood.

Charles "Grandpa" Haines said the frost the first of the month was an onion frost. Many wonder what kind of name he has for the recent blizzard.

Recently, Bernadine "Bing" Keenan hurrying out of the house one morning on her way to work grabbed the paper sack nearest the back door entrance only to find when she arrived at work that the sack contained some electrical parts from a switch which had been left there by a guy named Ed. To say her face was red when she opened the sack in front of Audrey Deiss would be an understatement.

George "Minnesota" Evans has taken up farming. George was quite a fisherman in his day, but now plans all his meals from his backyard.

Heard Thomas Todd, known to all as just plain "Tom," has a hard time distinguishing between Change Houses. It seems Tom wandered into Change House 20-B in search for the millennium. His quest happened on the right shift, but at the wrong time. Perhaps a course in re-educating the eyes would be beneficial.

Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the visit paid to this group by Lt. Glen Hoffman, Naval Air Corps. Lt. Hoffman took part in many important naval engagements such as Midway, Coral Sea and others, and received the Navy Silver Cross in recognition for outstanding performance.

Eugene Hunt, assistant supt., and William Klegman were recent visitors to Elizabeth, Ill., and South Amboy, N. J., respectively. Illness in their families prompted their visits.

Although Bruno Bartell is always called "Shorty," he is way up in the air these days. When he comes to work in the morning and starts his daily routine he is greeted with a pretty smile and a cheery "Good morning, Shorty," by Ethel McCann, Government inspector.

Everett "Spit & Chew" Bradley said he is now receiving good service from the Maintenance Department. Before the glamor girls started to work in Bldg. 12 the maintenance men would flip a coin to see who would do the work there, because it was so far away from their location and the clock alley. Now, they nearly break their neck to get there first to change a 50-watt lamp.

Your correspondent enjoyed very much the cigars passed out by Bill Kirban, Scale Department. Congratulations go to Bill and his wife on the arrival of a 6-pound boy.

Pat McGrath is now shaving regularly since his new buddy on the stencil machine is a girl. Mary Wagner is doing a wonderful job on the machine.

Ray Murray is off in a world of his own. He is living in the days when a fellow can make six copies of a miscellaneous material transfer without using carbon paper. The other day Ray typed out the transfer without using carbon and stamped, and signed them all blank. It wasn't long before the phone started to ring asking what the transfer covered.

It is rumored that John Johnson is going to plant a Victory garden. His will be different. It is to be all corn. This will be easier on the figure; he won't have to stoop to harvest.

Josephine Srncik, Bldg. 12, is helping gather bits of news for The Bomb-Shell. She is worried about writing a story concerning George Richardson.

Never were there so many inspectors who would show a person just how the work in a shipping building is done. Even Ode Golden is helping to break in the new girls. He is a busy man with his other work.

Archie LaBounce has a yen for the number nine. For years this number has shown itself in his life. It took him nine years to get out of high school. He wears a size nine shoe, always gets the No. nine pin to make a spare when bowling. In a recent election he polled nine votes.

Shoe rationing is a serious problem with Bob McCleary. Getting up early one Sunday morning to come to work he slipped into his shoes and found out later he had the left one from one pair and the right from another.

This is a story that was a little late for the last issue. When Gridley "Paperhanger" Wheeler was sick he made out a complete schedule for his wife to follow in giving him the pills. Somehow the schedule was misplaced and Grid got a headache worrying if he was to take a white or a blue or a pink pill at 2 o'clock or take all three at 3 o'clock.

TOUR OF INSPECTION through the Illinois State Penitentiary was taken recently by this group of employees from the Ordnance Department's Personnel, Mail & Record and Payroll Sections, all of whom were enthusiastic about their visit.

Horseplay Puts EOP Employee In Hospital

Suffers Broken Bone; Torn Coverall Cuff Cause of Injuries

By Rollin T. Read
EOP Safety Director

Charles T. Palmer, Bldg. 16, Group 3, suffered a shoulder bone fracture April 6. He collided with a fellow-workman as they were running to the clock-house. Indications are that the men were indulging in a little horseplay, contrary to safety rules and instructions.

But it was not harmless horseplay . . . Palmer was confined to the Hospital for 10 days and it probably will be three weeks before he is able to return to work.

Here is added proof that it is a foolish and risky thing to disregard safety rules.

William Siefert, Group 3, was injured the morning of April 7. He was pulling a heavily loaded hand truck when he tripped on the torn cuff of his overalls. The man at the rear of the truck, unaware of the mishap, continued to push. Siefert, in a jackknifed position, was caught between the truck and the ramp, suffering severe chest, back and leg injuries. He is now in the hospital and it probably will be a while before he is able to return to work.

This is a clear case of improper attention to dangerous wearing apparel. The man knew his cuff was torn, but he failed to anticipate the trouble it might cause. He took a chance and lost.

Injured in Stomach

Eldora Mustin, Group 1, Bldg. 14, lost time following an injury the morning of April 7. While unloading empty cartons from a box car, she attempted to catch one as it toppled from the stack. She missed, and the box struck her in the stomach, causing some contusion.

Accidents of this type can usually be avoided by the exercise of proper care in the removal of stacked material. Where the workers appear awkward or inexpeienced, proper methods should be explained and demonstrated by those in charge of the job.

Fredrick Rummey was a Hospital patient for several days, suffering from an arm infection probably caused by a splinter in his finger. He got the splinter from a rack on which he was working April 2. He removed it himself and did not report for medical treatment until pain developed several hours later.

The use of gloves on that particular job would probably have prevented the accident. Prompt medical treatment would, most likely, have averted the infection. Self treatment of even minor injuries is a risky procedure and should be discouraged.

Dance Is Planned for May 8

The Employees' Activities Committee will usher in the month of May with a dance in the Recreation Hall Saturday night, May 8, from 9 until 1. Music for dancing will be furnished by the EOP Band under the direction of George Zelke of the Fire Department. There will be fun for all, so be sure to bring your family and friends. Admission is 55 cents a person. Tickets may be bought from your group representative on the Employees' Activities Committee or at the door the night of the dance.

SAFETY CONFERENCES are held frequently in Group 2. In this one, held in Bldg. 16, those participating are (left to right) Supt. James J. Murphy, Loren Cain and B. R. Bowden, safety engineers; John Kelahan, assistant superintendent, and William Weir, foreman.

Capt. A. G. Resch has been transferred to the Oak Ordnance Plant on temporary duty. It is hoped he will return in the near future.

Vieana Wheeler has been wearing that sparkler on third finger left hand since her marine came home on furlough. She is seriously thinking of that well-known walk down the aisle.

Three cheers for Catherine "Tomi" Tomlianovich for bringing a new "champ" title to this department when she recently won the EOP bowling tournament.

Warren Weithofer, former chief of Gage Section, has been inducted into the armed forces.

Carl Anker, former chief of the Statistical Section, and Park Paxton, formerly line inspector at Group 8, are both stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland.

Irving Slutsky, line inspector at Group 3-A, tries to look dignified on one of the new bicycles the Inspectors are using for transportation around the group.

Bob Harbinson, assistant chief inspector in the Fuze and Booster Area, is using the latest form of transportation to get around to the different groups—a gasoline scooter.

Group 2 Inspection Department added a feminine touch recently when Mae Murray, Eleanor Czajkoski, Ann Radakovich (former show girl), Ethel McCann and Beatrice Rodgers were transferred there.

Group 1

A week-end in Milwaukee may be the reason for Trixie Allen's smiles these days.

If Eddie Vaughan would like to be a "model poppy" the least he can do is to learn how to take corners in the group on his new bike.

Since Bernice Ksiazak changed rides recently she has been arriving at work with "bumps on her little head."

Where were Walter Sorley's thoughts when he was given a ticket for "leisurely speeding" recently?

Did you know that that cute little gal, Evelyn Martin, is the heartthrob of many a man in the service?

Group 4

Eddie Kluza can tell you where all the prominent side-streets are in Joliet.

The Government inspectors, especially Lucille Olson, enjoyed themselves at a party given for Jack Dempsey and John Kinney recently.

John Habes, popular line inspector, has recently been investigating literature on "Care of the Baby." He has acquired a beautiful perambulator and asserts that practice makes perfect. As a result, he is trying out the new carriage daily. It is rumored that the blessed event will take place the latter part of April. When questioned if it will be a boy or girl, he confidently replies it will be a baby.

Group 6

Margaret Carter is recovering from a recent operation and her friends hope that she may be able to return to work soon.

Edna Sickert recently spent a week-end visiting her sister in Chicago.

Signs of Spring as seen about Group 6—Marie Donahue and her new aqua blouse—Lorraine Barger and her new raincoat—Dorothy Haag and her bows (and beaux)—Virginia Wright and her new spring shade of nail polish—Betty Thompson with that dreamy look—Ruth Smith trying to interest the girls in reducing exercises—Elizabeth Button stuck in the mud—Kathryn Eberhart driving her car after having it tucked away all winter—Edward Ritter, line inspector, with a short haircut—Jerome Foster reducing.

Gertrude Collins is again a patient at St. Joseph Hospital in Joliet and her friends all hope she will soon be well.

Group 9

Cecilia Temple will gladly trade a pair of shoes for a pound of coffee. She's been dipping the same coffee bean for a week.

Margaret Olszta, with the coming of balmy weather, is looking forward to another visit with her hubby who is stationed at Virginia.

Government inspectors in Group 9 aren't worrying about a food shortage—they're all depending on E. J. Nemanich's Victory garden.

Dorothy Magolan and Sophie Mixner have been transferred to Group 5. All wish them the best of luck.

Gladys Voorhees' two favorite men are her handsome husband and her soldier son.

It is rumored that Gert Beland is quite a hula-hula dancer. Reports are that it is on the professional side.

Marion "Scotty" Westcott sure was in a "pickle" recently when her two soldier friends came home on furlough at the same time.

Lea Dalton is back again after her recent illness looking as chipper as ever.

Group 8

Ilene Lawler is looking forward to a visit from her son who is expected home on leave from the Naval Air Corps.

Friends of Helen Ballack would like to see her strolling down Chicago Street in Joliet with the boy friend (in the knicker uniform) when he comes home on furlough.

Jerry Preboy had difficulties one night recently while driving her Ford home. After stalling the car on the Washington Street hill, it is alleged, she misjudged distances at the garage and damaged a fender. Her explanations are classics.

Mr. and Mrs. William Leeland, parents of William J. Leeland, of the War Department, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. The couple was born and reared in Chicago and their marriage took place at the Holy Family Catholic Church in that city. There were five daughters and one son born of this union, one daughter, Mrs. Mary McCarthy, having died some years ago. All of the children, Mrs. Frank Crowe, Mrs. Lester Lemme, Mrs. George McGuire and William J. Leeland live in Chicago, with the exception of Mrs. Ray Doering, San Francisco, Calif. There are five grand-children and one great-grandchild. Mr. and Mrs. Leeland are both enjoying good health and Mr. Leeland is still active in the upholstery business in Chicago. Open house will be held at the residence of the celebrants the evening of April 24th and Mrs. Doering will arrive from California in time to join the party.

Government Auditing had a get-together in honor of Philip Hahn and John Odchodnicky who recently became proud daddies. The party was made a triple event as Roy Eckberg's birthday also was celebrated. The new daddies were presented with play pens so they should be able to keep their young 'uns corralled come creeping days.

Danny Considine's "Little Cherubs" should now be known as the "Little Mermaids" as several of them are now enrolled in the Red Cross swimming course at the "Y" on Monday nights and, who knows, some day they may be life guards.

Betty Kovach received a card from Jerry Russ, formerly of Auditing. He is now sojourning in the sun at Tampa, Fla., along with Norman Long, also a former employee of Auditing.

Geraldine M. Ward, Safety and Security Division, received a letter from Pvt. Jerry R. Shirtino, former Inspection Department employee, who enlisted in the Marines and is now stationed in San Diego, Calif. Jerry would enjoy hearing from his former co-workers.

Lois Dix, of Operations, is recuperating from a major operation at St. Mary's Hospital, Kankakee.

Have you ever wondered how many miles Claire Shols and Dorothy Herbst of Mail and Records walk in a day?

Frank Kadlec is enthusiastic over a 'Victory garden' on the side of a hill.

If you want to see an industrious individual, take a glance at Gladys Groenveld who is exceedingly busy these days with the new bookkeeping machine.

Harry Gunchin should have been a weather prophet. It seems he is well supplied with cigars—thanks to Mara Puett. Mara shouldn't have bet it wouldn't snow.

Helen McGinnis is all out for Victory. She even went so far as to contract Victory measles.

Dale Lorentzen was recently graduated in Tennessee as a third class petty officer in the Navy and he is now stationed at Pensacola, Fla.

Mary Dagon, Payroll Audit, wears a War Department EOP uniform. A group of small boys seeing her in Joliet thought she was in the Army and saluted her. In order to avoid any embarrassment, Mary returned the salute.

Bernard O. Brown's favorite dessert is cake and he eats it daily.

Time Inspectors

Best wishes go with Bill Peebles, Tom Wharrie, Bert Folk, Lonnie Richardson and George Stevens who were recently transferred to the Material Inspection Department.

John Hugo Green, who worried all last year about his lawn, now has it plowed and converted into a Victory garden. He is still worrying.

Petite Anita Lambur has recently transferred to the Engineering Department and will have I. E. "Tex" Jackson as her employer.

Betty Jane Jensen, former time inspector at Richards Farm and Group 70, underwent a major operation at Silver Gross Hospital, Joliet, and is reported to be doing nicely.

Harold J. Kapsch of Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, is now known as Corporal Kapsch.

This little story is written in the interest of those who some day may be confronted with the same circumstances.. Lt. Eylar Brunskill, Fuze and Booster Area, on a recent day off, decided to see a rubbing doctor back home to cure his backaches. The doctor placed him on a table and proceeded to give him the jiu-jitsu. Upon completion, the doctor advised him that one leg was shorter than the other and he would have to build up his heel to cure the ailment. The doctor very courteously extended his hand, and the lieutenant very gingerly padded it with three dollars, and went on his happy way, much relieved. After the long journey home, he seemed very disconsolate, and his wife queried "Didn't the Doctor help you any?" "Yes, he did," replied Brunskill, "but he forgot to tell me which leg was shorter." (The supposition at the Guardhouse was that he stuffed too many paychecks in the heel of one shoe—as a hiding place—which made one leg shorter.)

Chief M. C. Baughman may not have enough free time to cultivate a Victory garden, but when he finishes arrangements for all the farmers in the area, he should be allowed to pick an onion or two.

Sgt. Cecil Johnson is still the Guard House's most available bachelor. Very good qualifications too — a smiling countenance — a very savory conversationalist — a car with gas in it — and lots of dough. The line forms to the right.

The great day has arrived. It has been discovered there is a lieutenant on the force who no longer is in need of that insignificant little thing called a check which all employees receive each week for their labors. Pardon, please, that is Lieut. Owen McCarthy's face blushing—he is taking offense to the foregoing remark and says he is very much in need of the check. His explanation is that he absentmindedly tore up the check thinking it was the check-stub. It does sound logical!

Guard headquarters was warmed by the presence of a former comrade recently, in the person of Pvt. Charles "Whitey" Wolcott. "Whitey" has been on desert maneuvers in California and is in tip-top shape.

It sometimes appears difficult to ascertain the right sleeve from the left sleeve of a coat, but usually it is possible to right a mistake before it costs money. However, in Capt. Walter Bayer's case, it cost him money. So the story goes, Capt. Bayer took his uniform coat to a seamstress to have his service bars sewed on the sleeve. After explaining where and how to sew them, he returned later in the day, picked up the coat and paid the usual fee. When putting the coat on at work, much to his chagrin, he discovered the bars were on the wrong sleeve. He walked around with one arm hidden that night, and next day returned to pay the usual fee again to re-sew the bars.

"Sling - shot" Smith he was known as in those days. He is now MP-245, Dispatcher John Smith.

While it is the duty of a wife to keep up her appearance for the sake of her husband, it isn't necessary for her to do so at an unearthly hour in the morning. Perhaps it was to prove her devotion to him—which no one had questioned — that he wore upon his cheek the mark of her lips, in a vivid red. It was known, of course, that he left home about 5 a. m. (Please don't ask questions—this little item is to prove the alertness of one of the stooges.)

Some claim exemption on the grounds of conscientious objections. Some go farming, who have never farmed before. But Guard Albert Atwood notified his draft board that his wife was no longer dependent on his income.

For the honor of being one of the most learned men in the department, all in unison nominate Dispatcher John Welch. Welch is a constant reader of all types of literature, and readily will discuss any world topic or current event. If he is ever assigned to tower—he no doubt will use it for a pulpit.

Group 3 seems to have many proud fathers of boys in war service. Patrick Duignan, a pipe-fitter, has a son, Patrick, Jr., who has been in the Canadian Army for three years. Pat, Jr., is 31 years old and was a deputy sheriff in Kankakee before he enlisted. Pat claims to have legal right to arrest Herr Hitler. Pat, who incidently has advanced to the post of acting sergeant major has participated in all the bombardments of the London area and proved himself to be an outstanding soldier in the Dieppe raid.

Pvt. Joe Garavalia, a former operator here, returned recently to say hello to all his old friends. Joe is now in the Marine Corps and doing fine work as always.

There seems to be a feud arising between some of the boys out here. It is a free-for-all game, but Ed Peterson is the subject who receives most attention this week. When Ed, the sensational garden plower, went to Morris he had a Montgomery-Ward catalogue under his arm and was leading a billy-goat. He has at last arrived to the motorized section of the above catalogue, and to his sorrow picked out a garden plow. He has sold the billy-goat since he plowed up his lawn and flower beds.

George Styck is the proud owner of a bovine beauty which works the swing shift right with him.

From every fighting front
Comes a cry for help

This is it . . . this is the call you must heed . . . the plea you must respond to. On every fighting front America moves ahead. In the tortuous swamps of the tropics, on the raging seas, over the air of Europe and in Africa our troops are striking hard.

And from everywhere there comes a cry for help. "More tanks, more guns!" cry the soldiers. "More planes, more bombs," beg our flying squadrons. They're ready, eager to strike at the enemy . . . and they turn to YOU for help.

As America takes the offensive . . . your dollars must take the offensive, too. Yes, it's going to be hard to dig deeper . . . but remember the thousands who have given their lives and the many more who are prepared to do so. Despite the fact you are enrolled in the EOP Ten Per Cent Club and buying War Bonds regularly . . . buy at least one more NOW . . . and make it as large as you can. You can get your additional bond at any bank, postoffice or at the Comptroller's Office here. DO IT NOW.

Inert Storage

Group 27 has taken on a new spirit and it is not due to Spring. The boys are combing their hair and whistling these days. The reason turned out to be Orville Bronks' staff in 27-14. Yes, indeed, the feminine touch has reached Inert Storage. You should see the little ladies handle the goods. When your reporter questioned them about a story Helen "Kentucky" Billings said she would write the story on her own time at home. But from the noise the other girls put up after the offer her article will have to pass through the hands of ten censors or more before it reaches The Bomb-Shell. Among the feminine storagers is Alice Wilson, widow of James R. Wilson, who had been an outstanding member of the Production Planning Department. If Orville Bronk gets a call back to the farm due to any one of eleven reasons, Ross A. Miller announces his candidacy for the vacated position.

This week's sketch concerns Robert "Lefty" "Terrace" McGraw. The name, with its adornments, indicates his unique character. He has been here since January, 1941, and since that time has had a marvelous attendance record. The only day he missed was the day of the great storm. In his own bashful way he gives all the credit to his two sisters. "Lefty" found that putting his savings into the dresser drawer turned his money into furniture so now he keeps it in his shoe. During a recent contest at Group 27 he tied for the title of "Mr. Victory," but when he heard that Emil Ramsak of basketball fame was going to the Army he willingly turned over his half of the title.

If you see a tall, dark, handsome man with white teeth arranging the placement of hand truck equipment at Group 27, it will be Grover Williams, the man who knows where to find things.

Larry Lazier was busying himself the other day with piling blocks in a neat stack. He says that his reclining position was not due to the fact that they call him "Lazy," but because the job works better that way.

The checking staff at North bid farewell to Sidney Bennett, who will be associated with the Douglas Aircraft Corporation in the Inspection Department of the Chicago Plant. A welcome goes to Robert Henneberry, who will check and check and check and check.

Motion pictures of working safely were shown by the Safety Department to the Workers Club of Inert Storage. These safety hints will be beneficial to the boys and girls and should cut down accidents.

Genial George Shaw is sponsoring a "Butter Dinner" in honor of Otto Heap—the butter king—(confidentially, if you are hungry, better bring your own cow).

Brush pushers were active in the vicinity of Inert Storage last week. The doors were painted Moloney green and the clock houses Galbraith gray. The way they were climbing up and over the buildings brought to mind the thought that maybe the Wilmington zoo keepers were on the look for some of their missing creatures. Five of them approached the Inert office ready to dob the lead—they refused to be welcomed and refused to talk lest they might be returned to their keeper. Not one of them would paint from behind the picket fence as it reminded them too much of home. At the sound of an approaching automobile they would run, but they were tracked by the paint from their dripping brush and brought back on the job. When birds would fly low overhead they would lunge into the air hoping to taste meat again. Then one day when all the painting was completed they fled toward the Richards Farm gate and disappeared through the Paint Shop. It is hoped that some day these strange actors will return and accept sincere thanks for the fine way they prettied up the buildings.

LaVerne Lyons, the twilight assistant super of North Inert, is sporting a new white summer hat. He is rushing the season. . . with the frequent unseasonable snows, it is a job to find LaVerne.

Andrew Fris of North Inert is raising a family of rabbits . . . to eat, to have and to hold.

Here they come . . . Victory Gardeners. John Ney leads the parade with a bag of seed potatoes and Owen Ralston with Indian sweet corn. They believe that petty larceny will not be committed in the garden as these vegetables produce late. John is not so worried as they will have to dig the potatoes.

Walter Briton came through with a box of candy. The sole disparity was that it was one pound instead of five and Betty Ross will consider it as a down payment only.

On the Inside

This time your reporter will confine his comments on V. C. Bailey's Jeckyl to "Scorchy's" Hyde in the "Letters to the Editor" column.

PREDICTION FOR JULY 9 is this photograph of Anna Mae Thompson, Purchasing Department, pinning a star on EOP's "E" flag, everyone at the plant hopes. If production is maintained at the rate which earned the flag, the plant's workers will be eligible for a star which means, among other things, that those employees added since January 9 will be entitled to wear an "E" pin.

You women now taking men's places . . . are the spokes of the wheels that run — you are the hands that take the place of the hands of the man at the gun. . . . When you work and toil the American way . . . till the hour of freedom is won . . . May God guide the hands that take the place . . . of the hands of the man at the gun.

It must have been startling news that H. E. Barclay of the Purchasing Department heard over the telephone one day because the first thing anyone knew, "Bark" was upside down in his chair with the telephone dangling in his hand. With a little rescue work, order was quickly restored and so was Barclay.

Sympathy is extended to Dagmar Peterson, that grand lady in the Mailing Room, during the recent bereavement in her family. Her sister, Mrs. Florence Murphy, Chicago, died April 7.

Bernice Schroba has been ill at her home for two weeks. Everyone will welcome Bernice's return.

If anyone has neglected congratulating Lorraine Hilling, Auditing, for her new hair-do, now is the time. A little bit of poise-in-reality.

John Platz reports that Irene Millinger must have slept in a barn to wake up a little hoarse (horse). Anyway, Irene is still her sweet self, despite the absence of her voice.

Ray Berg, posting clerk in Payroll, is slated to leave for the Army soon.

Talk about pride! Vince Canterella bowled 233! That was no April Fool stunt! He is reported to be quite a fisherman, too! . . . at least his story is.

Believe it or not . . . Margaret FitzHugh took some time for herself and went shopping . . . she said it was a case of shop or go barefoot.

When that gallant Irishman, Art Flahaven, fire guards, arose when ladies came to his table, a murmur went through the Mess Hall. The other girls started comparing his manners with those of their hearts' interest. Take a tip, men, that word gentle in gentlemen is really appreciated by the femmes.

Bruce Elliott of G. B. Pumphrey's office left April 17 for a position with the Ford Motor Company at Ypsilanti, Michigan. He can even spell it already without blinking an eye.

Tom Lamon and Mr. Canterella of Payroll have joined the Sunday morning bowlers at the Elks Club, Joliet.

Bea Peterson has a new job . . . that of supplying book worms with materials. It seems her private library is constantly moving and that friends are taking advantage of reading her books at home. A nice collection of best sellers, 'tis said.

The 13th was not on Friday . . . but it snowed . . . and it blowed . . . and was Charlie Duchene's birthday . . . cake and all . . . and a white carnation in his lapel, a remembrance from his daughter.

Arlene Thorsen, Katherine Johnson, Mary Clow, Shirley Grassle, Anna Mae Thompson, Veranice Quade, Emily Voegtle, Marion Shelley and Eleanor Dufrain went to Chicago April 10. These nine noises went shopping in the afternoon, had dinner at Stouffer's and went to see "Doughgirls" at the Selwyn Theatre.

The Payroll men have challenged the girls' soft ball team of the Administration Building to a real game, any place or time the girls think they are up to par. Something to look forward to . . . nothing like pinning those men's ears back.

Several Engineering Department boys who are in the armed services have not been listed in the Honor Roll. Corp. John J. Consdorf, stationed at Camp Atterbury. He was with the department longer than a year.

Aviation Cadet William R. Herbst is stationed at Merced, Calif. He was a draftsman here for a year. He has been in the hospital with a rather severe injury suffered in a plane crash during training.

Aviation Cadet William C. Shaw, present whereabouts unknown, was a draftsman here for a year.

Edward F. Kionka, of the Navy, is at Chicago as an instructor.

Lt. Col. Don M. Hoffman, former commanding officer here, visited EOP April 9 and 10. Colonel Hoffman is now stationed in St. Louis in the office of the Field Director of Ammunition plants. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hoffman, who reported that a recent package of souvenirs from their son, Bill, with the Army in the Middle East, was wrapped in back issues of The Bomb-Shell.

Gene "Red" Bennington left the stock room for the Army April 17.

Your correspondent has noticed that Stuart Moloney and "Scorchy" are "feudin." He is inclined to be on "Scorchy's" side; since women were hired at Central Fire Station, Moloney has been awfully hard to get along with.

Harold Wilkins is proud of the fact that he hasn't missed a day in a long time.

Ed Agnich, former butter and egg man because of rationing, is an unusual person—Ed would like to work on the midnight shift permanently.

Willard Gast, alumnus of Group 61, became engaged to Margie Powers.

Fellow workers absolutely will refuse the cigars Robert Hinz bought three months ago. The smokes are apt to be stale before the new addition arrives.

Sporting a 1941 Buick is Bill Orr.

Ray Koerner has missed only two days of work in 11 months. It's a good record when it is considered Mr. Koerner drives all the way from Pontiac.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hinz were married 25 years April 20. Congratulations are in order.

There is nothing to write about Harvey Steffes for this issue—rather unusual.

A fellow hard to please is Ronald Blackburn. Ronald was anxious to be stationed at the Crusher Building; after being there for a while he wanted to go back to the main gate.

The Bomb-Shell doesn't have a society column, so it is permissible to write about Percy Boulware's social affairs. Mr. Boulware entertained Allen Mayes and Kyron Doyle April 10. Refreshments were served by the host, then many topics were discussed. A common subject was "Marching"; Mr. Mayes seemed well informed. Mr. Boulware interrupted briefly to tell about the new job his wife had been offered. Mr. Mayes brought back his views on "Marching," and became so intent he missed the bus. However, he caught the late bus—much later. Everyone had a hilarious time; Mr. Boulware sure can put on a party.

Government inspectors now have a bicycle and a motor scooter. The bicycle is for Al Weinstock, who is unable to drive.

Virgil Jordon is going to pass out cigars soon—some are wagering that the child will be a boy; others say it will be a girl.

It is a mystery why Perle Waller was embarrassed the other night—Perle is by no means shy.

Ed Westmeyer may have to borrow the Government bicycle to come to work if he doesn't get more gas.

To the armed forces went the ever popular James "Scooter" Sinkular.

"High Fliers" is the name tagged to Ray Carlson, Clifford Kidney and John Kelly—tickets for speeding may be the reason.

Back to work after a few days' illness is Clyde Runyon.

While riding through the area together, Frank Kachelhoffer and Marion Carter picked up a few pointers on planting Victory gardens. The two friends said there are many gardens being planted at EOP.

After the war, Leo Blottiaux, Elmer McCans and Sam Mount, former inspector who returned to farming, are going to buy a farm in Missouri, and they are going to fish the rest of their lives away—talk is cheap.

Best wishes go to Robert Morrison, who is scheduled for the Army.

Working at EOP is a side line for Herman Dandurand. Mr. Dandurand's main occupation is plowing gardens for friends.

Sleeping seems to be one of Arnet Dressler's main interests. It is not unusual for him to fall asleep in a bus.

Just a suggestion for Felix Dandurand, who is planning marriage; anyone betrothed before July 1 will save on his income tax.

Walter Neher traveled to Jamestown, Ind., to visit his brother, Pvt. Albert Neher, who is home on furlough.

A man who never has much to say is Clarence Wells, but it never interferes with his work.

Nelson Williams is known to his friends as the "Deacon." Coworkers wonder when Mr. Williams is going to start practicing what he preaches.

Area Dressed Up For Spring-Summer

An improvement and beautification for the EOP area is well under way under the supervision of W. B. Manchester, superintendent of the Groundskeeping Division of the Utilities Department.

Top soil is being placed on barren spots throughout the Administration Area and these, together with other plots, are being seeded with grass. Concrete walks are being laid from the Administration Building to the Recreation Buildings and from the latter to the nearby black-top roads.

Fences within the Administration Area have been painted white and parking spaces more clearly identified. Snowdrift fences throughout the entire area have been dismantled for the summer. Trees have been trimmed and those without life removed. Groundskeeping equipment has been renovated and is at work daily.

Everyone at Richards Farm is glad to see genial Celia Kretz back at her desk (especially the correspondent). She had quite a lengthy illness.

Laundry Notes
By Lucille Morrissette

Pat Runyon wanted to visit her folks in Iowa. After resorting to every means, including blackmail, to be excused, she finally conspired with George Kinard to receive an urgent wire. George, Tim Thompson, locksmith, and Bob Enger, carpenter shop, types the telegram. Imagine Pat's chagrin when she hastily read the telegram to Francis Walsh as follows: "Grandma hurt in bicycle accident (stop) Wants to die (Stop) Can't die till you get here (Stop), signed Grandpa Snazzy." Note: Pat enjoyed the week with her folks.

Welcome is extended to new employees, Bernice Brooker, Virginia Adams and Joe Setina.

Three more stars decorate the laundry service flag. Billie and Dickie Lieb are members of the WAVES and Arnold Vaughan has joined the armed forces.

Rita Coash is resigning to explore new fields in California. The laundry gang as well as the Motor Pool, Carpenter Shop and Service Garage will certainly miss her.

Birthday greetings were extended to Jimmie Fance at a party recently.

The amateur gardners are in full swing these days. The boys sure feel lucky to have a veteran like George Slaughter around. Incidentally, if Harry Lehner doesn't keep away from Woman Guard (ner) Mrs. George Kinard's onions he may get in trouble with the law.

In spite of a sore hand, Veronica Curry is very adept at telling fortunes.

Radio Communications
By K. Richardson

Spring must be here. R. A. Brown was recently seen paging through a fishing equipment catalog with that "far-away" look in his eyes. 'Twon't be long now till they're biting—he hopes.

Ed Chinski, of Kankakee, is welcomed as a new member of the staff.

Merle Eberhart has been coming to work with a gleam in his eye. He thinks he is in love.

Bert Meads has been explaining for a week just how to plant a garden. Planting isn't so difficult. It's the aftermath which is disturbing.

The clock in the Radio Department lost ten minutes one day. Larry Jack was seen setting the clock up ten minutes. Clarence Coope apparently didn't know about this and he nonchalantly strolled in and proceeded to do likewise, but the third fellow—yep, you guessed it, caught in the act.

L. W. Soulon, former radio maintenance man and now a member of Uncle Sam's armed forces, dropped a line to report he is stationed at Lowry Field, Colorado.

Pipe Shop News
By Mary Wynne

Eating cornflakes for breakfast is a good American custom enjoyed by almost everyone. However, Buck Dale likes to reverse the procedure a little and eats his at 9 or 9:30 every evening.

Cal Ashline had a little struggle with Old Man Flue last week but is back at work hale and hearty again. It would take more than a little flu to keep a good man like Cal down.

Many wonder why Clarence Regnier, a seemingly husky individual, has such a fear of working in the rain.

Tommy French is the Walter Winchell of the Pipe Shop who always seems to get the news a split second after it happens; sometimes even before it happens.

Sheet Metal Scraps
By Jess Thomas

Emil Kapetanic has gone to Mayo Brothers Hospital for treatment.

Bill Richards is the most recent sheet metal man to answer Uncle Sam's call.

There has been quite an epidemic of new neckties in the shop since the girls have been checking numbers.

Service Garage Spares

Milford Green does his gardening the modern way. His 20th century method is unique in more ways than one. First he charges nominal amounts for spading his neighbors' plots, then he turns around and hires a tractor and driver to plow his own dozen acres.

Fresh from the rumor clinic it is reported that Glen Bitterman and Marvin Christensen will diet a la Gandhi for a short period. Just goes to show you what food rationing will do to heavy men—or perhaps it is patriotism.

"Professor" William Booker has been giving geometry lessons to Sgt. Earl Goodknecht of the Guard Force. Perhaps there is a pic to be had somewhere in the result.

Best quip of the month comes from Bob St. John who suggested that C. I. Wilson and Stan "Kelly" Kukulski obtain fire insurance for their cigars so that they don't burn up by accident, or otherwise.

Raymond "Jackrabbit" McCoy is riding herd on tanks deep in the heart of Texas. The gang was sure glad to hear from him.

Ralph Nickleski never dreamed of visiting Atlantic City, N. J., until the Army Air Corps had something to say about it. He's right on the boardwalk there and writes that Army Life is very agreeable.

From down Texas way comes a report that Joe Gutierrez is now a private, first class. He wants a few more letters from the boys.

Angelo Calcaterra says that the Mayo Brothers Clinic in Rochester, Minn., is a great place (to stay away from?). However, he came through alright.

Spring must be here! Stuart Moloney paid his annual visit to the garage recently to check up some work performed on one of the "blooming gas buggies" assigned to the Fire Department. His smiling face is always welcome in any department, except the hideout of that mythical stranger called "Scorchy."

Motor Pool Memos
By Frank Kern

New additions to the Pool are Marian Gray, Georgia Fabry and Eula Snell.

Frank Kern and Ed Heath boast of new desks, but still refuse to let the girls hang curtains.

The "Wrong Way Corrigan" Club has a new member—Marie Armstrong joined last week.

Dorothy Bick is taking orders for the tomatoes she hasn't planted yet. She may be able to tell the plants from the weeds. If all the gardens get planted that the Pool girls want, carrying in of overnight bags may be expected.

Dick Roeder has a system whereby he cleans his pipe with the air pressure generally used for tires.

Quite chic is Jean Swanson with her new marine hair cut.

Machine Shop
By Marie Studer

Hank Schelling, Jr., former employee of the Machine Shop, now with the Navy, was home on furlough recently and visited here. He thinks Navy life is fine.

Gerry Utley has become a new member of Uncle Sam's armed forces.

It is suggested that Bill Dolan be a little more cautious about reaching into high places. One never knows what he will find, even though it may be an innocent looking lunch bucket.

A hasty trip was made to the Laundry one day recently to have a little mending done. Frank DeMarco might enlighten those who are interested.

Groundskeeping

Back to the mines and back to his bride went the popular landscape foreman, Ted Melzer.

Claude Sayre is planning to add to his svelte figure. He is planting about ten acres of potatoes. He says he is going to put on a demonstration of hoeing some hot Sunday soon—the public will be invited.

Eddie Powers is back from Louisiana and the Army. Eddie says he liked it fine and is ready to return any time Uncle Sam wants him.

The telephone at Bldg. 71-3 rings several times a day—"when can you plow a garden for . . . . ?" It would take an adding machine to total all of these calls. It will be a lot of fun to see if the enthusiasm lasts through hoeing in the Summer months to come.

W. B. "Farmer" Manchester was gratified with the notice in the last issue of The Bomb-Shell from E. O. Huey regarding "Keep Off the Grass." If Mr. Huey can impress the girls with high-heel shoes, he is really good.

Paint Shop Patter
By Pat Stettbacher

Sympathy is extended to William Legg, whose mother died at her home in Danville, Ill., recently.

The Paint Shop Office has been remodeled! The reason—a new junior clerk. Her name—Pat Stettbacher, formerly cashier at the Mess Hall. T. M. Singer, superintendent, says the fence and gate were installed to keep the "yodelers" away.

Bill Borg has trouble finding his lunch bucket at noon. A St. Bernard dog might be more helpful than trying to catch up with the truck in which he leaves it.

Line Department Lines
By Ray Curtis

The Line Gang was glad to see Ex-Timekeeper, Vearl Heinis, who is now storekeeper, second class, in the Navy "Seabees." He is home on leave and took time enough off from admiring his month-old daughter to visit here.

It is hoped that plenty of vegetables of all kinds will be produced in the Line Gang Victory garden. Head Gardner Ernie Johnston has a variety of plants started in indoor boxes.

Telephone Tid-Bits
By Elaine Christman

The telephone men are all busy these evenings in their Victory gardens.

Mathis Horn said he hit his forehead on a door. Silly, but could be!

Goodbye and good luck were said to Eugene Ridenour, a former employee of the Telephone Building.

Homer Balding, night tester, was on the sick list, but is back to work and feeling much better. Joe Thompson, trouble man, also was ill in St. Joseph's Hospital. However, he has returned to the firing line.

Congratulations were extended to Everett Manthey who was made field foreman.

Building Maintenance
By John Bottary

George Abel has eight stitches in a finger to remind him to remove his hand before closing the door.

Bob Dickman is trying to figure out a way to spend all the money he thinks he will inherit.

Bob Walker is stuck with the story he told about catching ten pike which weighed three pounds apiece.

Eddie Wolford never knew that teeth could have such long roots.

Bus Transportation
By Margie Stevens

Bert Painter received a letter from James O'Connor who said he is happy in the Marines, but he would appreciate hearing from his pals.

Claude Cole and his $22.50 Ford spent a week-end on the farm—ask Claude where the Ford is now.

Maxine Hazel and family moved to Seneca recently.

Transportation Tales
By George O'Reilly

George Ricketts, chief train dispatcher, is giving his all in the war effort. Not only is he giving 10 per cent or more for War Bonds, but also is giving up his teeth.

Albert Delaney, comely stenographer, knows now what Sherman meant. Her ensign, it seems, is no longer within telephone reach.

Chief Yardmaster Jim Fitzgerald has received word from two of his former yardmasters, Richard Carroll and Francis Johnson. Dick is stationed somewhere in Africa and Francis is in Iran.

Electric Shop News
By John J. Kelly

Due to his age, Lloyd Shreffler was released from the Army Air Corps. All are glad to see him back at his old job as storekeeper.

Frank Morris has been confined to his home with the flu.

One of the first maintenance men to work in Group 70—John Follett, died at his home at 3321 West Monroe Street, Chicago, after an illness of two months. He is survived by his wife and two sons.

Before his departure for the Army, Mike Pellegrini was presented with a pen and pencil set by the boys in the shop.

Round House
By Jim Thompson

David Kreider, Jr., left for the armed forces. Edward Geeding sent his regards to the gang from Virginia. Ed is in the "Seabees."

ANDY VAIL
Correspondent

The department welcomes the following:

Ralph E. Hoehn, Roy E. Barth, Frank Lebo and Joe Faludy.

Jack Shelly caught his arm in a window while waving at some one.

It has been reported that John Cann, assistant supervisor of Wilton Center Township, has been paving Mike Doyle's road with corn cobs.

A card was received from Robert Cohen who is now in Boston. He expected to be in Ft. Devons the next day.

Harlan Kadow has shed his "galluses" and is now sporting a two-tone jacket.

Certain truck drivers have been sprucing themselves up lately, perhaps because of the presence of Rita Bargra.

Dominick Astorino solved his daily-dozen-doughnut problem; he is making them himself.

Joe Green got the jump on everyone and has planted several vegetables in his Victory garden.

Easter Sunday most everyone comes out in new togs. Swan A. Sandahl is waiting until Easter Monday, April 26, when Uncle Sam is going to give him a new outfit.

Earl Fick has been entertaining his brother, Lester, who is attached to the Air Corps at Altus, Okla.

GROUP 1

BEVERLY GARING
Correspondent

Flash! Pat Fitzgerald, one of the first girls to work in Bldg. 13, Group 1, was sworn into the WAACS April 9 and will leave for service Easter Monday. The group sends all its best wishes with Pat. She is the first Group 1 girl to join the services and the folks are really proud of her. They want to remind her, too, that she promised to send her address as soon as she was stationed.

Frank "Hon" Terlep, formerly of Bldg. 13, has notified his many girl friends that he's taking his training at the Proving Ground in Aberdeen, Md. "Big Hon" says that at present he's a first class "shell-hole filler inner."

It is rumored that Bob Hilt, Bldg. 4, presented Peggy Herbanek, formerly of the same building, with a diamond. When anyone asks him to verify the rumor, Bob just grins from ear to ear, blushes until his ears look like stop-lights, and bobs his head up and down.

Janette Johnson and Jean "Scotty" Knudsen left for California April 1. They were certainly the envy of every cold-blooded member of Group 1, since there's a rumor that it's warm in California.

Sgt. John Buffo, aerial engineer gunner at Columbia Army Air Base, South Carolina, visited the Group the week of April 10. John worked in Bldg. 13 for 14 months and has been in the Air Corps for 10 months. He was quite surprised and a little jealous to see a girl doing his old job, but after watching her for a while he had to admit that she was doing a swell job. John was accompanied by Pvt. B. J. Lipsey, whom lots of people will remember as W. E. Canniff's chauffeur. Bud is located at Camp Adair, Oregon. John and Bud refused to miss Bldg. 14 on their visit (more girls there) and almost sprained their necks looking at Frances Krenn.

The Group would like Bob Balma—key timekeeper in Group 1 until last week—to know that he is missed. He might come back at least for a visit.

Ralph Albani of Bldg. 10 was the proud papa of a six-pound son last month. He hasn't named the baby yet, but if anyone wants to see his blood pressure go up, just ask him if he calls him "junior."

Sherman Butler, inspector, Bldg. 14, left for the army April 14. The old-timers especially will miss Sherman. They called him "Sugar" because he had such a sweet smile.

Margaret Taylor, who works on the midnight shift, walks to work from Custer Park, Ill.—believe it or not! She leaves home at 4 in the afternoon, stops in Wilmington for supper and gets to work on time. Margaret has two sons in the services—one in Florida and one overseas.

Jewel Chandler, Bldg. 13, has twin brothers in the armed forces, but at almost opposite ends of the country. One is stationed at Camp Atterburg, Indiana, and the other at Camp Wallas, Texas.

Group 4
By Marcella Hebert

Mary Jane Snapp, inspector, was married April 12 at Momence, Ill., to William Schopf. Mary Jane will return to Long Beach, Calif., with her husband who is stationed with the Marines near there.

Ann M. Weir—the "M" stands for "Mamie"—is an excellent cook. Her angel food cake is the envy of every girl in Primer Loading.

Candy making is Dorothy Nilson's pride—especially her divinity fudge.

Evelyn "Porky" Bault is right at home in Carbon Hill. She is doing all she can to further the mining of coal to keep her soldier friend in Alaska warm.

The girls in Delays are asking Dorothy Berta what was in the package she left in Lt. (j.g.) Hiram Uplift's car.

Rose Partak wears a pair of silver wings from Joe Schuster, formerly of Group 4.

Congratulations go to Hal Pitchford and his wife, Millie, upon the arrival of a 7½ pound daughter which they named Joan Cecile.

Ramona Wills, of the Delay Building, took a quick trip to Louisiana to marry that Gilmour boy. Best wishes Mr. and Mrs. Gilmour!

Helen Kuhayda and Dorothy McCarthy are becoming uniform conscious. Soldiers and sailors are cautioned.

His friends are wondering why Red Kneller is learning to speak "pig latin."

Helen Buck, timekeeper, left April 16 for Washington, D. C., to meet her husband-to-be, Harold Murphy.

Group 4 welcomes Walt Whitman, machinist, formerly of Group 9, to its fold!

Evelyn Tatroe is very interested in the Navy Air Corps—especially the branch at Lewis School.

Marie Huska is happy to report that her husband is rapidly recuperating and should be discharged from the hospital soon.

Theresa Svitek's friends plan to give a shower in her honor—some rainy day!

Bernadine Branz was a visitor in Pontiac last week-end. Her hosts were the McCaskys — especially Pvt. Mike McCasky.

Another new nickname has presented itself—Helen "Cig" Bowler. Helen refuses to explain it.

Julie Howard thinks the EOP Fire Department is the best in the world.

Catherine Bellegante is trying to get Bill Bertwhistle to take her to her home in Springfield some week-end. Bill is very considerate —of his tires!

Ronnie Carlson hopes that long skirts never come back into style.

Mary Foster is quite an artist. She studied art in school and has continued it as a hobby ever since.

Lois Schultz's favorite song is "Old MacDonald's Farm." She now answers to "Eiei Iiii Oooo"!

"Madame" Marie Hodina is a very capable magician having been instructed by her famous uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Denton Elliott week-ended in Ohio. They have become so acclimated that they can't stay away from Illinois more than a few days.

Walter O'Hearn gives an excellent skit on production and the need of "stuff" by Gen. MacArthur.

Now it is known why Deloris Wruk, Verona Lambert, Jo Kaiser and Ruth Westergaard of 4-14 are so full of pep; you ought to see them jitterbug. But what happened to Jo when Deloris forgot to make a catch?

Several of the girls in 4-14 are anxious to visit Mary Begler's home.

There is some doubt if Orville "Frenchie" Granger can saw a board as straight as he claims he can.

Hazel Conover's son will soon be home on furlough. Maybe that's why Hazel is so happy these days.

Jack Dempsey, formerly Jumble & Jolt foreman, is now one of Uncle Sam's boys, stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri.

Ed Burns, who was transferred to Group 9, is missed by all his friends in Group 4.

Helen Kelly, timekeeper in Group 4, was transferred to Group 2, April 19. Her pleasant smile and laughing Irish eyes, will be missed by all in Group 4.

Don Leonard, foreman in 4-14, is back to work after several days' absence because of illness.

Group 5
By Cora Kay and Florence Schnebly

John "Doc" Lyman is welcomed back after a two-week illness.

Goodbyes were said to Elmer Dodge, truck driver, who leaves for the Army soon.

All were sorry to see Bill Blonski, Larry Patton and Tommy Nesbit leave Group 5.

Welcomes were extended to Edward C. Riley, Dalton Daly, Joe Smith and Charles "Chuck" Farrington.

The girls in the paint shop surprised Jean Bolte on her birthday when they presented her with a lovely gift.

Marian Bennett's theme song is "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

Reluctant goodbyes were said to Millie Schuster who resigned as office girl. Dorothy Arnold is welcomed into the Group 5 office.

Group 7
By Ruth Starkman

The Tetryl girls seem to have spring house-cleaning fever even though spring weather hasn't arrived.

Many have heard of six letters a week, but six in one day! These were received by Sonia Belec from her boy friend.

Dorothy Cox visited her brother, who is in service at Camp Custer, Michigan, over the week-end.

Helen DuLany has been appointed manager of the girls' softball team.

Ruth Mueller and Glen Evans were married at Danville, Ill., April 10. They were both former employees of this group.

Helen Martin spent a week-end with her parents in Jacksonville, Ill.

Eloise Lane spent a week-end in Tonica, Ill., with her parents and her brother, who is on furlough from Camp Battle, North Carolina.

The reason Pauline Hagerman has been so blue lately is due to the shortage of letters received from South Carolina.

Lee Jorstad spent a week-end in Ottawa.

Group 7 has a patriotic and artistic painter, who has painted the clock, red, white and blue.

George Elum and Waldo Baldon are welcomed to Group 7.

Group 8

Friends of Gertrude Jostak, former Group 8 employee, will be happy to learn she has been given a rating as Auxiliary First Class and is stationed at Commerce, Texas.

Lorraine Nelson Hansen, inspector, is waiting to be called for service in the WAACS. She was inducted a week ago.

New Group 8 "Romeo" is Mike Molnar. He really plays the part.

All are glad to see Frank Zupancic, timekeeper, back at work, after having his tonsils removed. His voice is still slightly fuzzy.

Eugene Schuck, former timekeeper, was a recent visitor.

The clean-up girls avow that Mabel Simpson does a mean rhumba.

Group 9
By Virginia Anderson

It is rumored that Bill Hartman, inspector, who has a slight southern accent, is quite allergic to the tune of "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny."

Ed Nemanich was very sorry to see Art Jensen leave Group 9, especially since he has become a connoisseur on Victory gardens. It was very thoughtful of the boys at the Foremen's Quarters to give Art an encyclopedia on gardening.

Dorothy Murphy became engaged last week-end, when she went to Ohio to visit Dan Bryan, former foreman in Group 9.

Sam Bell, John Barna, Keith Smith, Joe Killealea, Bill Burke and Al Hoppe are all missed by their friends in Group 9.

Clarabelle McClain went to visit her brother who is in the Navy, stationed at Oxford University.

Luella Williams has been entertaining her son from Camp Phillips, Kansas, for a week.

Something happened to the potluck lunch John Neeley was supposed to receive April Fool's day?

Group 45

Mary Lampman is flashing a diamond. Her husband-to-be left for the Army April 7.

Christine Franklin and husband celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary April 11.

Millie Doyle must have had her dates and places mixed up when she went to the Legion Hall to attend a party that wasn't there!

Shirley Hoeller plans to move to Wilmington soon.

A welcome is extended to Bill Blonske who is now in Group 45.

Just wonders:

Where does Mary Wright get that big red apple every day. . .

Why did Helen Firtz forget to get off the bus the other night. . .

Why does Ida Moers look so blue lately. . .

Where did Alice Jones get the ring she's been wearing lately. . .

Why Alice Meadows has been buying new furniture lately. . .

What happened to Edna Johnson's arm?

Personnel

DARA PREW
Correspondent

For several weeks Marge Bittles has been extremely cautious about what she exclaims before anyone who might think it interesting enough to print in The Bomb-Shell, but her guard was down one morning. With a wild hand waving she shouted, "Hello Hank!" as a car stopped to allow the one in which she was riding to pass. As if allowing the other riders in the car to share her secret, she explained, "That's Henry Schelling; guess he must be back from his trip." By the way, Henry Schelling, Jr., was in the Personnel Building yesterday looking very handsome in his Navy blues. He's now a petty officer first class and is about to start torpedo school.

Kathryn Smith claims that she is the nucleus of room 5, and that they affectionately call her "Nuccie" for a nickname. Unfortunately, even she is forced to admit that the pet name is spelled exactly as if it were "Nutty." Now she brags that husband, Jim, has the same enviable title out in group 3-A.

Louis Schuck, the Government timekeeper of the good attendance record, was entertaining all the girls the other day with the story about the two kinds of sugar. Now since the system has been changed and he doesn't come to the building to collect slips any more, he insists that he'll miss the bright and shining faces of the Personnel girls.

The newest measles expert in the business is Helen McGinnis, but she doesn't recommend the course. Do you have a headache? Do your eyes have shooting pains? Can you locate your arms, legs and back by the aches? Are you suffering with a sore throat? Then, my dears, you are not going to be the victim of the flue germ, but old man measles is coming to visit you according to Dr. McGinnis. She insists that she knows all about it because she's experienced.

From Camp Peary, Williamsburg, Va., comes word that both former investigator Francis Gonce and former interviewer Clem Lambert are training there with the "Sea-Bees." Neither has mentioned meeting the other in camp, so that surprise still awaits them. The whole department has expressed their wishes to witness that scene.

While the armed forces are the course being served, Carmen Oldani has a brand new subject about which to worry. Husband, Sgt. Jimmy Oldani, has been transferred to a new camp in Florida, just 58 miles from 15,000 WAACS. Irene Mulligan has heard that her boy friend is learning to ride a motorcycle over the sand. He enjoys it immensely, especially when they have races chasing small animals. Rita "Rusty" Cushing plans to visit her fiance, Robert Gato, in San Diego, Calif. In fact, she and Mrs. Gato were worrying about sending for reservations for early summer. June Morgan received a cablegram from her friend and now she's busy asking everyone if they can decode the opening letters to find out where he's stationed.

Everyone is becoming accustomed to hearing the girls complain about not receiving letters from their soldier and sailor boy friends, but the tables are turned when you hear a mother's quiet understatement, "I write and write but haven't had any word for so long. I might become impatient for an answer if I knew they were still there." One son is in Arizona and the other in California. She is Bessie East and a third son, Tom, will leave for the Army Air Corps soon.

Things that should be explained: The inability of James George to master the mail schedule, even with the boy coming early; Eugene "Jean" Erp saying that the infection on her finger didn't bother her at all—she explained that it was a different type of infection; Helen Bardi's new telephone laugh that sounds as if it needed a little oil; Helen Pikush refraining from doing something about Henry "Gramps" Bale's position when he was almost bent double looking in a file when he should have pulled up a chair.

Hurrying out the door, Bernadine "Bing" Keenan bumped the extending shelf on a typing "jeep" and knocked it down. Since old Lady Bad Luck was on the job instead of her kinder sister, the shelf was loaded with transfer slips which slid to the floor. That didn't phase "Bing" though. She calmly uttered, as much a statement as a question, "And I'll bet they were alphabetized, too." Then she bent over, gathered them up, sorted and placed them on the restored "wing" and walked out without another word. Such self control should be rewarded.

Charlotte Doxsee has her plans all laid for becoming a model farmerette. Potatoes will be the first crop to be planted in the plot that was allotted to her in the Administration Area. When you catch her with that rapt expression, you can bet the dreams are of tomato plants, carrots and lettuce. She snatches every opportunity to garner more advice, no matter if it doesn't agree with that which she's already had. If the weather permits, she declares that she'll spend all day Sunday with nature.

There's an old custom that if your younger sister is married before you are, you must dance in the horse trough. It is to this that Jeanne Hershey owes her downfall. Or should it be falling down? After her sister's wedding April 11, Jeanne's father and brother were chasing her to remind her forcibly of the rules and regulation which she must follow when she tripped. She's able to sit down today, but requires a great deal of care to do it comfortably.

Material Warehouse

FRANK McCORMICK
Correspondent

The Material Warehouse employees welcome the following new members to the department: Frances L. Grinrod, Iolene P. Croxen, Ernest A. Moser, Harry M. Hyatt and Robert F. Henneberry. Mr. Moser is checking material and the two young women, Miss Grinrod and Mr. Croxen are part of the office force in the Group 70 warehouse. Mr. Hyatt is at Group 63 and Mr. Henneberry is stationed at North Inert. It is hoped they will enjoy their work here and remain for the duration.

If Johnnie Purcell, the former jockey, ever slips you the name of a horse, you are supposed to bet all the tea that's left in China that horse will win his next race. Nine times out of ten the horse he gives you won't win, but if you don't bet on him Johnnie will. Your correspondent gave Johnnie the sports section of a paper one day, and told Johnnie to select a winner at the Fair Grounds, which he did, but when he went to place a 50 cent bet on his selection, he learned the paper was a week old. The race was run the week before and the horse won and paid $86.40; so the old saying, "One day it's milk and honey" still goes.

The list up-to-date of the material warehouse employees who have joined the armed services follows:

Foster W. Merker, James C. Powers, John E. Neminich, Daniel H. Meyer, Hugh F. Corrigan, Joseph R. Ferguson, Ralph J. Jielsen, Robert E. Jones, David B. Kendrick, Ben H. Miller, George Vercimak, John S. Ralph, Thomas Raey, Frank J. Walsh, Glen Wheeler, Laverne M. Lindstrom, Bernard L. Klimeki, Donald B. Dewitt, Donald J. McCauley, George N. Stumpf, John K. Zopf, Earl W. McCoughey, George T. Gray, Thomas F. Costello, Richard A. McCallan, Deane E. Erickson, Clarence C. Rowolt, John D. Wharrie, Gaylord E. Spies, Wendall J. Overacker, Robert E. Gulso.

The Warehouse employees extend their sympathy to their fellow worker, Oscar Horn, whose brother-in-law died suddenly in Paris, Ill., April 9. This is the second trip Oscar made to Paris in the last few months on the same kind of mission.

Thomas Martin's friends wish his wife, who has been in a Joliet hospital, the best of luck and a speedy recovery.

QUANTITY of explosives and number of persons allowed in any bay at one time are limited and Paul Embick, safety engineer in the Fuze & Booster Area is shown here placing a card indicating limitations for a particular bay.

Recreation

E. L. WALKUP
Director

Overheard in the Recreation Building. A few executives were talking "Let's start a fad of wearing out all our old clothes. Maybe we could have a slogan like—See yourself in your neighbor's suit." It is not a bad idea and it would be something if EOP could start a fad like that. During the first World War, many office men used to come to work in overalls. If any one can suggest a start for this, let the Recreation Office know, and "Patches" might be made popular paraphernalia.

A new high score for the bowling alleys was made by Anton Skov of the Water Department—288—ten straight strikes, and after wabbling the head pin he got only eight pins, but finished with a spare.

Archery enthusiasts can look forward to plenty of competition this summer and are anxiously awaiting erection of the new range. It is being built next to the tennis courts. Watch Wanda Hudak in this sport.

Three new horseshoe courts are being built in the Recreation Area near the tennis courts and baseball field. The tournament that was frozen out last fall, might be played soon now; at least that is the way James Kirwin, Virgil Bell, Frank Goldenstein and Angelo Amaoros of the Fire Guards feel about it.

The four tennis courts in the Recreation Area in Group 60 are all set and ready for play. Several tennis rackets have appeared on the scene, and with a break in the weather, the courts should see a lot of play. If enough interest is shown invitations for teams to come to EOP will be sent to tennis clubs in nearby communities.

Lovers of square dancing should visit the USO Center in Wilmington. This ever popular center has been adding much to its program, in fact Anne Lindsay and Harry Mantle, the popular directors, are planning ways and means to enlarge their facilities to handle a greater number of persons. Much of the success of the square dancing can be given to Arthur Sanders, who is teaching and calling.

According to Myrna Faris, director of women's recreational activities, there will be plenty of keen competition this summer in the Women's Softball League with eight teams already in preparatory stages for the season. Any girl interested in playing is asked to contact the Employees' Activities Committee representative in her group. They are: Group 1—Beverly Garing; Group 3-A—Lorraine Liesse or Mary Ragoni; Groups 6 and 7—Ruth Starkman; Group 8—Dorothy Lehman; Group 9—Dorothy Murphy; Group 60—Arlene Schloendorf; Timekeeping Department—Eva Sweda; Personnel Department — Dara Prew; Women Guards—Lucia Jane Pearson.

Rose Le Bau, Carmen Oldani, Charlotte Doxsee, Jean Hershey and Selma Brown of the Personnel Department are going all-out for gardening this year. Their plot number is 158. All contributions of helpful gardening hints will be deeply appreciated. Other glamour girl gardenerettes are Pearl G. Marshall, Women Guards; Edith Lewis and Jackie Binzen, Administration Area, and Miss Ragoni of Group 3-A.

The lovely voice emanating from the Treasury Center program broadcast over WCLS March 20 and April 17 belonged to Margie Bryant, Women Guards.

Jo Donna, War Bond Department, is ready for tennis weather. 'Tis said she is the owner of several tennis trophies won in interscholastic competition.

Martha M. Lannon, USO director for Joliet, and Helen Walker Holman, member of the National USO Board, Washington, D. C., were visitors to the Recreation Hall April 16.

275 Victory Gardens Are Now Underway

Number May Grow To 500 As Workers Raise Own Vegetables

Victory gardens to the number of 275 are being prepared for EOP employees. Plots numbering have been assigned in the Administration Area and applications for 20 others are being held until more land can be prepared.

Additional ground will be converted into plots in the southeast corner of the Administration Area, with an entrance lane between the Foremen's Quarters and the nearby garages.

About 125 gardens have been plowed and prepared in the Groups for employees who do not care to come to the Administration Area to work on their gardens. This number is gradually increasing and it is believed that 500 gardens will be producing food for employees before the summer is over.

Workers realize that food will help win the war and write the peace. Victory gardens must not only raise food to help win the war, but Victory gardeners must develop a garden strategy which provides aggressive action for production of more vegetables, and for defense against their enemies—insects and disease.

While fighting a war to maintain freedom, it is necessary to see to it that the plants are secure with their essential freedom for life and growth. If there is any doubt about the proper way to plant and cultivate a garden, make use of the many fine articles and books which are on file in the Recreation Department.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has suggested the slogan "Grow Vegetables for Vitality and Victory." Another "V" might be added to make the slogan "Grow Vegetables for Vitamins, for Vitality and for Victory."

You still have time to register for a plot. If you want a garden near your group, see your superintendent. If you want it in Group 60, register at the Recreation Office.

"E" FLAG now waves at North Gate of plant as daily reminder to those group workers who use this gate exclusively that they have won the Army-Navy Award for Production and can win a star for the flag by continuance of their production record.

Skov Bowls 288 to Lead Tourney

One hundred and fifty men are completing the Second Bowling Sweepstakes and, from the scores turned in, many of the boys have been showing their midseason form.

Anton Skov, Water Department, almost had a perfect game. After throwing 10 perfect strikes, he got an eight on his eleventh ball and cleared the alley for the spare, giving him a 288 for the game. This is the alley record, and may stand for some time. Mr. Skov said he threw a perfect game several years ago and he was trying hard for his second.

Seven men have topped the 600-pin mark, and that is a lot of wood for three games.

Several entries have not bowled yet, but the scores of the high men are as follows:

Bowler	Series	Hi Game
C. Ochs	627	219
T. Helling	623	217
Maj. Grant	619	223
A. Skov	611	288

Inspection

LORRAYNE OSTREM
Correspondent

The Inspection Department baseball team will soon begin spring training under the watchful eye of "Buck" Spiers. The team will be chosen from the following players: Lee Parsons, Jack Carroll, Doug Oram, Lloyd Changnon, Bob Walsh, Ollie Ehrsam, Ray Brennan, Paul Jackson and Frank Pitt, all of Group 3-A; Red Beeley, Group 1; Owen Golden, Group 2, and Tony Lutkus, Scale Department. Other inspectors who desire to play baseball are asked to make those wishes.

A new inspector was added to the force at Group 3-A in the person of Ollie Ehrsam, formerly of Group 2.

Paul "Shoeless" Jackson, shift supervisor at Group 3-A, ran off and got married April 14. The entire group wishes he and his bride the best of luck.

The Inspectors at Group 3-A wish to say "hello" to the following list of buddies in the armed services: Don "Red" McKenzie, Gib Miller, Marvin Offenbach, Don Walsh, John Savage, Orrin Long and Bob Manning.

Bob Walsh is quite proud of the fact that his brother, Don, is a member of the 5th Army Air Force which recently sent 22 ships of a Jap convoy to see Davy Jones.

Ray Brennan and Herman Steinman are better known to the Group 3-A Inspectors as "O'Connor and Goldberg."

An old friend of the Group 3-A gang and once an inspector is seen quite frequently about the group tearing down and putting up pipes. He is none other than Tony "Yard Bird" Rusko.

The Inspectors bowling team fell down in the Joliet city bowling tournament, but some of the members won individual prizes. In the doubles Spires and Walsh hit 1171 pins to get in the money. In the singles Colby Erickson had 606, Spiers shot 610, and Walsh got 643. All of these were in the money. Changnon, one of the mainstays of the team, had a pair of bad nights. The team participated in the Joliet C.Y.O. tournament at Rivals Club April 18.

Inspector Oram, Group 3-A, is the proud pater of a five and one-half pound son.

Anyone desiring information on chick raising should consult Bill Hartman, who is an authority on chickens, especially baby chicks.

Group 8 Inspectors seem to be going "all out for Victory." Lorraine Nelson joined the WAACS and Norma Castle started nurses training at St. Joseph's hospital.

If the food supply gets low next winter, it's a pretty sure bet there'll be a good square meal at Ralph Pratt's. Yes, it's a Victory garden.

Willard Vail, socialite of Group 6, attended the Fellowship Meeting April 8 in rare form. Some one asked where he was the preceding evening.

A cure for boils on the nape of the neck would be appreciated by Berniece Sperry, Group 8. After a week off with one she returned to work with her neck still in a plaster.

Mabel Dean, Group 8, left April 10 to attend welding school in Kankakee.

Anyone wanting information as to the time and place of Fellowship Meetings may obtain it from Lorrayne Ostrem, if she hasn't quit giving that information.

Warren Hair, Group 3, left April 15 to answer the call of Uncle Sam.

Ration board will be glad to hear of the diets some inspectors have adopted. Lillian Nesst said that Eleanor Hoagland can have a share in her uniform. Gen Karpel and Dorothy Kinder are wearing out the shipping room scales in search of reject weight.

Lucille Line and Betty Ostrowski, who have been here for almost a year, left for their homes in Kankakee.

Ruth Mueller, who by the time this issue is printed will be Mrs. Glenn Evans, also will be missed by her friends here.

Many wonder if James Nolan ever found the solution to that "T" puzzle he worked on so ardently.

Walter Britton learned that it doesn't pay to bet on the proverbial closeness of Scotsmen. Everybody enjoyed the candy anyway.

Jack Heavens received formal greetings from his Uncle Sam. He left for the induction center April 17.

The North Inert Garden Club has begun the race to see who can raise melons as large as Leslie Cloyd has down at Peoria. It is feared they will never reach maturity so close to the Fire Station. Other members of the Club are Owen Ralston, John Ney, William Denver, William Jones, George Bradbury, Edgar Weakly and Edward Grenshaw.

Mr. Ney will not experiment again with car polish. He finally restored it to its original lustre after three hours exertion.

Joseph Birsa has just one good fender left. Ed Zarley says he can get some in better shape at the Salvage Depot. There can be no more depreciation on his car, considering its shape.

Cyrille Grandame returned after a brief visit to Gillispie, Ill. He expects to be inducted into the Army and all will regret to see him leave.

A fine letter to the editor of the Melvin, Ill., newspaper was written by Lloyd Thomson, Jr., air cadet, son of the Group 61 inspector.

The fellows of "Yank's Delight" nitrate farm miss Sam Mount who left recently. His last promise was an invitation to the wedding.

Cards were received from Bill Kurkamp and Jack Darkins, who worked together at Group 61 and are now living and flying together at a Southern flight school.

Congratulations are in order for Mr. and Mrs. William Kirban, Scale Department, who are proud parents of a son.

Softball Play Starts May 4 with 12 Teams

Softball players plan to pry off the lid of the season Tuesday, May 4. John Kusinski, director of athletics for the Recreation Department, is busy making up the schedule for the opening games.

There will be 12 teams in the league including:

Group 61, Inert Storage, Group 3-A, Group 3, Group 2, Group 1, Guards, Army and Administration Bldg., Group 70, Fuze & Booster Lab, Bus Drivers and Fire Guards.

The managers agreed to play games each Tuesday and every other Friday, leaving the alternating Friday open for games which are postponed because of bad weather.

There will be two rounds and the winning teams will be suitably rewarded by trophies furnished by the Recreation Department. Games will be played in the groups as well as on both diamonds in the Recreation Area in Group 60.

FIRST AID kits are now serviced in Group 2 by Loren Cain, safety engineer, with a neat carrying case and he is no longer referred to as a "Good Humor Man," as he was previously when he carried cardboard cartons.

Spring Frolic Set For May 2 Here

Plans have been formulated by the War Department Employees Service Committee under the general chairmanship of Richard L. Nemanich for a May Frolic to be held at the Recreation Building Sunday, May 2.

The festivities will commence at 6 p. m. Recreational facilities will be available to everyone. Dancing to the music of Roy Gordon's Band will be from 9 to 1 o'clock. Cards, movies and entertainment will be featured prior to dancing. Door prizes will be given. There will be an admission fee of 75 cents a person, which includes tax and refreshments.

This party is intended as an informal get-together for all EOP employees, and the Employees Service Committee is doing everything to make it a success. Members are Bess Moore, president; Mr. Nemanich, vice president; Anne D. Kakara, secretary; Mara Puett, treasurer; Kermitt L. Long, Edward J. Nemanich, Ethel Campbell, Loretta Franke, Mavis Emerson and Geraldine M. Ward.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

Bryant Now Lieutenant

W. T. "Bill" Bryant, formerly insurance adjuster at the EOP Hospital, has received a commission as a lieutenant in an Army anti-aircraft division following his graduation from Officers Training School at Camp Davis, North Carolina. Following a furlough home, he returned to the school as an instructor.

"Well, you said to bring in all of Lot 22-154H!!"

Hospital

EVELYN RICHARDS
Correspondent

Elsie B. Roberts, new x-ray technician, was welcomed here April 5. She is a graduate of the Northwestern Hospital School of Nursing in Minneapolis, Minn., and took additional training as a laboratory and x-ray technician from the Edgewater Hospital in Chicago. Formerly employed at the Post Graduate Hospital in Chicago, she commutes between there and the plant.

Flash! Flash! Can he swing the chromium behind him. The song "Tie Me to Your Apron Strings Again" was recalled when Dr. Bohdan Giel walked through the Hospital with a Kelly forceps clamped to his gown belt. Was his face red when he found his attachment. He is still wondering who was responsible.

Charles T. Palmer, Fred Rumney and Bill Siefert will all stand on a stack of Bibles and swear that they are receiving the best of treatment while being hospitalized. Mr. Palmer goes so far as to ask his nurse for permission to eat this or that. And that is something.

Spring is here and you don't need your heater on now. Dr. G. F. Luke's riders were frozen stiff all winter as he had no heat in his car—when they complained his answer was — "I don't know what's wrong with that darn heater, it used to heat last winter." Mentioning it to a mechanic the other day that it didn't work —He examined same. Oh! here's the trouble—pulling out the button. Dr. Luke, red faced, said he was afraid to touch it—because he didn't want to break it.

The expression "You can't eat your cake and have it too," holds false for June Hull. However, Dorothy Busse was left holding the bag in this deal.

That statue in the hall isn't a knight in armor, but only James Stiglich, known as Cave Man.

Going through the gate in her Studebaker was Nellie Lazio in a stew, when the North Gate guards laughed at her for driving to work on her "A" card.

Marie Ulrich took Dorothy Lundin's place at Group 1 during her short illness.

Dr. A. Bustin is getting down to earth by renting a plot of ground for a garden.

Ozro Blanchard shared Marjorie Hartong's piece of homemade pie. She claims her mother is the world's best pie maker.

Mary V. Kulpa put another candle on her birthday cake April 15.

Pete Busanelli said—"you kin talk about all your Victory Gardens you wanta—but you come to my house anda I'll show my garden —They are dat high"—(showing a distance of four inches between fingers).

Speaking about gardens—no reports have come in about Tom Moore's moonvine patch. Did he give up? Has the rain washed the seeds away? (To be continued.)

Going to sleep under a sun lamp has the same or worse effect as the sun. Mary Philbin has demonstrated the results. Leslie Ross can get away with saying—"Is your face red"—when she looks up from her typewriter.

The EOP Guide Post

SALE • FOUND • LOST • RENT — BUY • SERVICE • TRADE • RIDES

Classified ads will be published without charge for EOP employees and their families. If you can offer transportation, want transportation; want to trade, buy or sell something; have a house or apartment to rent; have lost or found something, you are invited to make use of this service. Deadline is Wednesday, ten days preceding publication.

Riders Wanted—Can accommodate four on regular day shift, 7 to 3:30, from Kankakee. Paul W. Hatcher, Group 70, Line 2184.

For Rent — Double room for two girls, $7.50 a week. 103 N. Broadway, Joliet, ½ block from Jefferson. 1 block from Western. Phone Joliet 2-6073 or 4274, Miss Carpenter.

For Sale—600,000 white spruce trees, 6 years old, 15 to 18 inches high. Bundles of 50—7 cents a tree; bundles of 200—5 cents a tree. E. R. Bick, 327 South LaSalle St., Chicago. Phone Wabash 1530.

For Sale—Black and white cocker spaniel pups. Call Line 3256 or Coal City 2691.

Riders Wanted—Joliet to plant, 7:30 to 3:30 shift and 3:30 to 11:30 shift. Call Dorothy Bick, Motor Pool, Line 2187.

Riders Wanted—Two riders to Group 70, 7:30 to 4 shift, from Joliet in the vicinity of Raynor Ave. and West Jefferson St. Call Joliet 5518 or EOP 5115. Good car and tires and a careful, dependable driver.

ELWOOD ON PARADE

MICROSCOPIC examinations of blood specimens are an important phase of EOP Hospital activities. Evelyn Doran, technician, is shown here at her work.

MAGNIFIED through a powerful glass, injured eyes are more easily examined. Dr. L. N. Kohler is looking at the eye of Pete Busanelli, janitor.

X-RAY PICTURES are important in determining the extent of injuries. The X-Ray Room at EOP is modernly equipped and in the capable hands of Elsie Roberts, shown here with Lorene Motta, receptionist, posing as a patient.

EXAMINATION of employees at the EOP Hospital is complete and thorough. Dr. Nathan Atovsky is shown examining a worker's eyes, nose and throat.

TREATMENT of conditions which might cause days off the job is a Hospital service. Here Dr. I. W. Madura is treating a nape of the neck carbuncle.

CLEANLINESS is a byword and watchword at the EOP Hospital. Myrtle Burrus, laboratory technician, is pictured cleaning pipettes after running tests.

LIGHT AND HEAT treatments are required by some injuries. Dr. Andrew G. Bustin is giving a heat treatment to Jacob N. Keller, Group 64, who suffered a frozen toe. A completely equipped room is set aside for this diathermy.

LETS GO! U.S.A. KEEP 'EM SHOOTING!

Vol. 1, No. 25 | JOLIET, ILLINOIS, MAY 7, 1943 | EVERY OTHER FRIDAY

EOP Publicized by Newspapers After Day Visit

Five Reporters and Four Photographers See Groups 3-A and 1

Declaring that "they never had spent a more interesting day," five girl reporters and four photographers representing the metropolitan newspapers in Chicago left the Elwood Ordnance Plant in a very fatigued condition after having spent April 23 in Group 3-A and Group I.

Coming to Elwood for the purpose of writing articles exclusively on the role of the feminine sex in a big ordnance establishment like the Elwood Ordnance Plant, the newspaper people were thrilled with the sights they saw and the pictures they took, all of which concerned women.

Of particular interest to the reporters were the methods used in a modern plant to safeguard the health and safety of the workers. The photographers took numerous shots of women in various jobs and attire while the reporters spent their time interviewing the women to determine their connection with the war effort here and their relation to the men on the active front.

The articles, the outgrowth of this visit, began appearing in the newspapers April 28.

The representatives were the luncheon guests of Harrison Smith at the Elwood Ordnance Plant Cafeteria, after which they made their interesting tour.

Feeling that they had only scratched the surface at Elwood, the press representatives were anxious to return for the purpose of writing a series of general articles on how a great ordnance plant functions.

The group included the following persons: Capt. Ralph Young, representing the Safety and Security Branch, Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Chicago, Illinois; Dorothy Hartung, Chicago Times; Tony Berarati, Herald American; Adele Hoskins, Chicago Daily News; Edward McGill, Chicago Tribune; Neola Northam, Chicago Sun; Russell Hamm, Chicago Daily News; Jane Meyer, Herald American; Jane McCarthy, Chicago Tribune, and Albert Westlin, Chicago Times.

Non-Filers of Income Tax Returns Probed

Representatives of the Internal Revenue Service of the Treasury Department are investigating EOP employees who did not file an income tax return. Letters have been received asking for the present address of a number of workers and whether they are married or not.

The income tax law provides that employers report to the Treasury Department the amount of wages paid to each individual employee. Those whose earnings make them liable to the tax and who do not file a return are investigated. There are stiff penalties for failure to make a return.

Fellowship Meet May 13

Chief Roy W. Mortenson is chairman of the next Fellowship's meeting, May 13, at the Mess Hall and Recreation Building.

General Hardy Pays First Visit to EOP

Names for Housing Units Are Sought

By E. C. Fortmann
Housing Manager

With the anticipation of early complete occupancy of the Government houses in Wilmington, Ill., we are anxious to secure an appropriate name for each of our two housing additions. It is our plan to have these names suggested by persons interested in the developments and then final selection made by the Housing Councils.

We wish to invite you to submit your choice of name or names for each site and mail to me on or before May 15. We suggest that you consult your co-workers or members of your organization and give publicity to this information in order to secure the greatest number of suggestions before submitting your final selections.

The following information is suggested as a possible guide towards making your selection:

(1) The names of living persons should not be used.

(2) It is preferable that names have local significance and be of such character not only to identify the development, but also to lend to its livability and attractiveness.

(3) Names that pertain to geographic terrain or historical significance pertaining to location are preferable to the names of deceased persons although this is a matter of local determination.

After a name has been selected for each of our developments, and approval of the regional director received, an appropriate sign will be erected officially naming each location.

Lt. Col. Rife New C.O. Here and at KNK

Official announcement was made May 6 of the appointment of Lt. Col. Byron Rife to the post of commanding officer of both the Elwood Ordnance Plant and the Kankakee Ordnance Works, the assignment formerly held by Col. T. C. Gerber, now field director of Ammunition Plants in St. Louis.

Lt. Col. Don M. Hoffman, formerly commanding officer at Elwood Ordnance Plant and recently temporarily in command at Kankakee Ordnance Works during the absence of Maj. Donald M. Sibray, returns to his office in St. Louis. Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, the popular commanding officer at EOP, will leave shortly for Washington to confer on a new assignment, the nature of which is unknown at this time.

Colonel Rife, who comes to the munition plant from the Office of Field Director of Ammunition Plants, was executive officer under Colonel Gerber, further proof of the importance of the Elwood Ordnance Plant and the Kankakee Ordnance Works in the picture of Army ordnance.

Prior to serving in St. Louis, Colonel Rife was commanding officer at the Missouri Ordnance Plant at Louisiana, Mo., from December, 1941, to August, 1942, having been transferred from the Baytown Ordnance Works, Baytown, Tex., where he served as executive officer.

In civil life, a consultant on problems of petroleum engineering, he was graduated in mechanical and petroleum engineering from Purdue University in 1916.

All Workers Offered Medical Service Here

Attention of all employees is again directed to the first aid, medical and surgical services maintained by Sanderson & Porter at the Elwood Ordnance Plant for the benefit of employees.

It is requested that employees suffering injuries or illness, however slight, contact their department head for permission to go to the First Aid Station or the Hospital for examination or treatment.

The plant Hospital and medical staff will furnish or arrange for first aid, medical and surgical services for all employees injured in the course of employment. Under the Workmen's Compensation Law, an employee who elects to obtain his own physician, surgeon or hospital services will do so at his own personal expense.

Gas-Tire Committee Meets Here Daily

Office hours of the EOP gasoline and tire rationing committee are from 8 to 9:30 a. m. and from 3 to 4:30 p. m. daily except Saturday and Sunday in the Administration Building. Employees who wish to avail themselves of the services of this committee are asked to do so during office hours only.

John J. Cole Named Asst. Gen. Manager

Appointment Effective May 4 Is Announced by Smith and Canniff

Superintendents and department heads were notified by official bulletin May 4 that John J. Cole, comptroller, had been appointed assistant general manager of Elwood Ordnance Plant by W. E. Canniff, general manager, and Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter.

The bulletin asked for a continuance of the co-operation of department heads with the new assistant general manager, whose duties were outlined as being of a character general to the work of managing the plant.

Mr. Cole was the recipient of congratulations from numerous employees who have learned to know him in the more than two years he has been at EOP. He was one of the first Sanderson & Porter executives to arrive on the scene after the firm was awarded the contract for the plant by the War Department.

It is recalled that he came to Joliet in September, 1940, and established EOP headquarters with one typewriter and two fast-working forefingers in the Elks Building on Scott Street.

A graduate of Cornell, mechanical engineering degree, Mr. Cole joined the Sanderson & Porter organization in 1925. One of his assignments preceding his work at EOP was as assistant to Seton Porter, in the latter's various executive and managing connections.

400 Laid Off As Schedules Cut

Elwood Ordnance Plant will experience a reduction of personnel extending through the early part of May and affecting some 400 operating employes, it was announced by Maj. George A. Grant, executive officer at the shell and bomb loading establishment. Maj. Kenneth Haber, commanding officer at the plant, released the announcement to set at rest rumors going through the plant that the layoff amounted to as many as 1,500 employes.

A downward revision of production schedules on some munitions items necessitated the small layoff, as it is the policy of the ordnance department to have no idle employes maintained on the payroll.

In co-operation with the War Manpower Commission and the United States Employment Service, every effort is being made to secure employment for the persons laid off. Workers will be retired in accordance with seniority rules, but a chance to find work elsewhere is being given to those persons who must suffer some hardships in traveling long distances.

Major Haber said that hiring of new employes will naturally be sharply curtailed, although hiring in certain lines may be required.

Major Grant declared that it was not possible to predict a change from the present situation inasmuch as production schedules are subject to revision overnight, depending upon the demands made upon army ordnance by the fighting forces.

TNT . . . A Gentleman at Heart

When the ordinary person thinks of explosives, he thinks of them as things that go "Boom." The expert, however, recognizes all sorts such as detonators, boosters, progressive powders, used for propellants, and high explosives.

Some materials, such as silver aceytlide, are so sensitive that they can be tickled to death with a feather. These have no commercial or military use. Others, such as mercury fulminate, are not so sensitive, yet are too sensitive to handle in large quantities. In small quantities they are easily set off and are used as detonators to bring about the explosion of larger quantities of less sensitive material. Sometimes a material of intermediate sensitivity is interposed between the detonator and the charge to be exploded.

Propellant powders are used to fire shells from guns. They burn rapidly but are not considered to explode. Guncotton is the chief ingredient in this country and Cordite, a mixture of guncotton and nitroglycerine in England.

Shells, torpedoes, depth bombs, land mines and such articles which are meant to explode with great force are ordinarily filled with a high explosive such as TNT or a mixture of TNT and ammonium nitrate. They act in some cases as agents to cause concussion in a large area; in other cases their function is to tear the container into small fragments and propel them through the air with high velocity.

A depth bomb or aerial bomb does the former, a shrapnel shell the latter. Slow burning powders would not create the concussion or bring about the fragmentation desired in these cases.

The preference for TNT is based on many factors. It has high explosive power and is relatively cheap to make, the raw materials are plentiful and the process comparatively simple. It is a pure compound so that every particle, no matter how small, has the same composition as every other one.

This is especially valuable in melting it for pouring into bombs since there is no possibility of separate layers being formed. It melts at a temperature low enough to make the filling process relatively safe. Being a pure compound its melting point alone is a good indication of its purity, and one lot always performs like another so its effects can be calculated.

The finished material can be flaked, crystallized, or cast in blocks. And last perhaps, but not least, it is the safest high explosive known. This makes it easier to handle all the way from the nitrator to Berlin and Tokyo.

The process of filling into bombs is relatively simple. The TNT is melted and generally mixed with molten ammonium nitrate. The temperature must be kept within close limits to prevent decomposition. The mixture is then poured into the bomb-shell until it is full, for small bombs.

For the very large ones, as many as five pours may be made. One reason for this is that the material contracts on freezing and a very large charge would leave a deep cup in the center, where the fuse is ordinarily located.

A fuse or detonator set in "safe" position is then put on the nose and the bomb is ready for shipment. Just before use the safety is removed and the bomb dropped. Some fuses are set to explode on contact, some after a definite interval of time, and some by clockwork, etc. The action of the detonator in the bomb explodes the charge of TNT and . . . WHAM!

The Burning Pit
By Scorchy

In the last issue of what has, since its birth, maintained its standing as the world's greatest newspaper, I promised an answer to my new and as yet unseen admirer, Euphelia, on the subject of "Scorchy for President." Her suggestion that your humble scribe might be a worthy candidate for that great office naturally fills my heart with a surge of gratitude and pride. Scorchy thanks Euphelia.

It is difficult to receive such encomiums and still retain the same old hat size, but, nevertheless, an innate sense of modesty prompts me to decline the offer in favor of other candidates who really need the job worse than I. There are those who might question the judgment of one who declines the offer of assistance toward such a lofty position, but, on the other hand, suppose I won. What then? All that white paint to keep clean. . . . And to have a bushy-haired coal-mining unioneer put soap on my windows and stand in front of the house all day making faces is just about enough to make the job completely unattractive.

It is very nice to hear such kind words, but there are other things to consider. Forgive me if I delve into a bit of personal history. Forgive me also if I become a bit philosophical on matters which may seem to you a bit commonplace.

It was not very long ago when the pass-word of the day around Joliet was "Times are tough." If you got a job, you worked like everything to hold onto it, and despite your zeal, it was altogether too often that the boss had to call you in and tell you the bad news. Business was bad, and there was no telling just when it would get better. There was not enough good news in the offing to permit him to carry you on, and so you just went out the door looking for something else that might be a bit more permanent.

Then came EOP and a lot of other similar activities. Your correspondent applied for a job and got it. He is sure that if the big shots really knew his incompetence they would have thrown in the sponge and told the government they could not go on any further with lugs like Scorchy around. But they didn't. The first boss I had was the unluckiest guy in the area, because, in addition to all his other troubles, he had me. Believe me, he had something, and why he and I are still alive today is one of those mysteries of mercy which go unexplained down through the years.

Despite their illegality and immorality, he had suicide and I had murder, and through superhuman restraint, neither of us took advantage of our respective weapons. It is more to his credit than mine. Had I used my choice, it could have been charged to ignorance, but had he used capital punishment on me, there is some reason to believe he would have been pardoned, and decorated by the community for good riddance.

The patience of the bosses at EOP was terrific in the early days. But as time went on their good counsel, teaching, and guidance seemed to help your ignoble scribe up out of the mud. There is still a long road from my daily stint to the top of the ladder and sometimes I get the idea that in me there is some real executive talent going to waste but, all in all, I don't want to go back to the old days when times were tough. I just thought you would like to know.

Alice Pichon Promoted to First Lieutenantcy

Alice Pichon, first EOP girl to join the WAACS, was promoted from second to first lieutenant April 16 and transferred to March Field, California, where she will be in command of the WAAC unit stationed there.

I have written . . . a poem!

The Backbone of Group 9

The Azide Gang is right on time,
They're called the "Backbone of Group 9."
They're on the job to the man each day,
And soon there's powder in each bay.

The powder is blended in Building 4
By fellows known as the Azide Corps.
They do their work with efficient care,
Hoping it kills a Jap, somewhere.

To Building 5 the powder goes
Where twelve smooth girls are on their toes.
They wheel it to the lines, and there
It's loaded into the "dets" with care.

A "det" is rather small—that's so.
But it's the "jigger" that starts the blow.

—The Gang,
Group 9, Building 4.

On the Midnight Shift

As the twilight falls over the light blue sky
We leave our homes with a latent sigh;
Across the country we make our way
To begin the work of another day.

And then when the shades of night begin to leave
We start our trek back
O'er the long, long way,
For we have finished another day.

—Orville Rasmussen,
Group 2 Progress Clerk.

Mother Nature

Old Mother Nature has commenced to cry,
As she watches the earth in its turmoil pass by.
When she sees her children groveling in pain,
Her crying is what we call the rain.
The thunder is her sobbing,
At the hate with which the world is throbbing.
To end her suffering we must all do our part,
To finish this strife a maniac did start.
On the firing line maybe we cannot be,
But there's work on the production line for you and for me.
So what do you say we give it all we got,
We can rest after Hitler has begun to rot.

—George "Pat" Patterson.
Group 4.

Is He Looking For You?

I am looking for one who worked
But has not yet received his pay.
For when his check was written out
They omitted one full day.
I don't know what his name is—
Or the color of his hair.
I don't even know his number
Or the kind of clothes he'd wear.
But nevertheless I'm doing my best
To find the one I owe.
So if it's you, the thing to do,
Is promptly let me know.

I am sure you must be loyal,
Whether woman, boy or man,
In helping me win the war
You are doing the best you can.
Now I realize the work you did
Was not so hard to do—
Just drinking wine and whiskey
Or perhaps some gin or brew;
Yet it makes me very happy
And my heart would fill with glee,
If I only had a million
Like the sort you seem to be.
They would all be very useful
To my leaders who are "in"
On the scheme of world dominion
By a race of "Supermen"
Your time card shows you didn't work
But that's not right, you see.
The day you lost for your Uncle Sam
Was the day you worked for me.
Signed—Adolph Hitler.

—Marie Barnett,
Group 1, Bldg. 13.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Subject No. 1—Burning Pit.
Subject No. 2—Scorchy.

I have in the past derived quite a bit of pleasure from reading the verbal rantings of the above mentioned Subject No. 2 who, through the medium of Subject No. 1, has, in his own peculiar way, managed at times to elicit from his readers what might be called compliments on his sense of humor. I have even heard some of the "high brows" say he had "verve," whatever that is. Now, mind you, I hold no brief for enthusiastic humor, but I think this latest attempt to enlist readers of "The Burning Pit" in a "Scorchy for President" campaign should be brought to the fore and I don't mean fourth.

Let me ask a few questions: (1) What has Scorchy to offer except a glib tongue and a lot of nonsensical day dreams which he has been able to get in print? (2) Are there people like myself who think the above items are humorous? (3) Why lose a good writer to the radio?

—A. R. Chieny,

Keep Scorchy Where He Is Committee

To the Editor:

Since our sagacious "Scorchy's" soporific satire has reduced the once belligerent "Boloney" to a slightly silly side-order of wilted lettuce, 'twould seem we have only the wearisome "Wotta mann" with whom to contend. He with that beautiful head of skin, those pearly white gums, and the schoolgirl complexion that flunked. (Once, years ago, he was gonna have his mournful map lifted, but when he discovered they charged for such mammoth WPA projects, he just let the whole thing drop. That's why his present persimmon-like puss would come in a bad fourth in a beauty contest with two bullpups and a panda.)

In his ragged - edged youth "Wotta" went to grade school, 'til he finally met a teacher he couldn't whip. (It's funny—in Mann's day the boys all wanted to thrash the teacher. . . . Moloney wanted to neck his. . . .) But, this mouthy, moth-eaten Inerter does hold one unique distinction—that of being the only lad in the county permitted to leave the fourth grade to go home and vote (for McKinley).

He did finally sneak into high school — through the tradesmen's entrance — where he learned to skip rope and classes. He was so thorough and conscientious that he took freshman English six years. While there he entered an oratorical contest and walked off with first prize; but the teacher was watching and made him put it back.

Although he is a born woman-hater . . . hating to be with more than one at a time . . . he is nevertheless an admitted authority on legs, being able to set up a bridge table in two minutes flat.

But there is one thing you'll hafta say about this "great big hunk of Mann," he's ingenious. The metal shortage never even fazed him, as he's now using his Adam's apple for a collar button, and the iron in his blood has changed to lead in his arch. He's a great believer in Victory gardens and free speech. Claims he always calls "A Spade a Spade!" . . . but when he smacked his shins with one out at 70, that ain't what he called it!—Euphelia Roanebeck.

Seabees Find Fishing Good in N. Atlantic

Others Praise Girls and Men, Urge All to Work Regularly

Seabees are finding that "fishing is good" in the North Atlantic, according to Millard L. Neher, now one of them, but formerly a painter here.

"I am not permitted to tell you where I am," said Seabee Neher's letter, "although I can tell you that I am in the North Atlantic and the fishing is good. Will you please tell the boys in the Paint Shop hello from 'Slug.' You fellows keep loading the shells and we will do the rest."

In a letter written from North Africa March 20, PFC. Ray C. Hardwick said he had received the January 29 issue of The Bomb-Shell that morning. He added that he had been in Africa for several months, but had received the paper regularly although about two months late.

Since Private Hardwick wrote his letter, distribution of employee publications to men and women stationed overseas has been stopped to save valuable cargo space.

"I sure do enjoy reading about the girls and fellows who have a most important part in this war," said a letter from Pvt. Melvin E. Watters, Camp Adair, Oregon, "and I know the boys all over the war zone are very grateful to these girls and men, who have done such a wonderful job to put out these products of war, because they know for sure there is never a failure.

Salutes Sanderson & Porter

"I give Sanderson & Porter a big salute for they surely deserve it for what they are doing to win the war and make Old Glory fly forever."

"Watching the honor roll of those going to the service of their country," wrote Sgt. Rudolph R. Weise from Camp Crowder, Missouri, "and observing that the women are keeping the military forces supplied with ammunition gives me a real thrill. Three cheers, girls; keep them rolling. Your work is just as important a task as our's."

Sergeant Weise, a cook and baker for a signal squadron, was formerly employed in the Timekeeping and Inert Storage Departments.

Congratulations to his wife and his former associates in Group 1 on the Army-Navy "E" Award were sent by Cpl. Eugene M. Zuchowski, Fort Bliss, Texas.

"I know they are doing a splendid job in their production of ammunition," said Corporal Zuchowski. "I also want to say to those who stay home from work for no reason at all, every time they stay home it may mean the life of one of the boys over there fighting for freedom. It may mean the life of a husband, sweetheart, brother or some loved one from their family. So tell them for me to keep up the good work. Every day lost in work means the life of some man in the armed forces."

Roy C. Wright, now a rifle instructor at the Naval Construction Training Center, Davisville, R. I., reported that the other 11 men in his Quonset Hut read his copy of The Bomb-Shell regularly.

Hopes to Return

"I think the fellows I used to work with are doing a swell job," wrote Cpl. Claude S. "Whitey" Wheeler from Lincoln Air Base, Nebraska. "It has been a long time since I left Group 62-S, but hope to be back there some time in the future. I never worked with a better bunch of men in my life.

"I have come a long way in the Army since I left EOP, but expect to go farther. I was graduated from Airplane Mechanical School here just five months and five days after leaving the plant. I was then picked as an instructor. For a while I taught new students what little I knew. Then I was transferred to Properties, which is the distribution of all supplies used in the Inspection Branch of the school. Since I have been there, I have received two ratings and expect to add to them, if possible."

"A few weeks ago, while listening to a program, we heard a broadcast from the plant," said Mrs. Elmer Metzke, who wrote from Oceanside, Calif., where she is living while her husband, Private Metzke, is stationed with the Marine Corps at Camp Pendleton there. "It sure was a great event for us, especially when we heard some persons we knew slightly.

Proud of "E" Award

"We are also awfully proud to hear of the 'E' award being made, and we are sure proud to tell our acquaintances here of the fact. Elmer would like to hear from some of the men and women with whom he worked in Group 1."

"I was glad to hear that EOP was awarded the Army-Navy 'E,' wrote Staff Sgt. Laverne H. Patterson from the Army Air Base at Pyote, Texas, formerly of Bldg. 4, Group 3. "I am sure the good work of the employees really deserved the award. In a few months I will be using some of the bombs you are making. I am a member of a bomber crew on a Flying Fortress. Keep up the good work."

Congratulations on the "E" award also were sent by Staff Sgt. Corbley H. Bowen, Camp Blanding, Florida.

"As yet I haven't seen any actual fighting," said Pvt. Paul M. Browman, Fort Benning, Georgia, "but by the way EOP shells explode, I can see they will do the job. Keep up the good work so that when it comes my turn to distribute leaflets on the battlefield they will be there."

Private Browman, who worked in Bldg. 5-A, Group 3, under Robert Foxx, also sent congratulations on the "E" award.

"I am stationed here in Indiantown Gap, Penn., where I'm taking my basic training as a longshoreman," wrote Sgt. Mike Bubetz, who formerly worked in Bldg. 4, Group 1. "I find it very interesting and hope to find myself handling some of those shells I used to load."

Sergeant Dubetz, who worked here for two and a half years, sent greetings to John Kusinski and expressed good wishes for a successful EOP softball team this year. He played with the team last season.

Sailor Writes Poem

Bob Reitz, carpenter's mate 2/c, Coast Guard Yard, Curtis Bay, Md., former timekeeper, sent a poem which he said refers to a girl whose boy friend is in the service. The poem follows:

I want to be where you is,
Instead of where I be.
Cause when I are where you are not,
It ain't no place for me.

I used to think the world was great,
But now I know it isn't.
For you have gone to where I ain't
And left me where you isn't.

Letters and cards also were received from Lt. James H. Edwards, Army Depot, Voorheesville, N. Y.; Sgt. A. E. Gresham, Ward Island, Corpus Christi, Tex.; Pvt. Melwood L. Dammann, Chanute Field, Ill., formerly of Group 61 and now an instructor in motorized equipment; Lt. Lynn McCoskey, Camp Wolters, Tex.; Mrs. David M. Green, Joliet, in behalf of her son, Pvt. David Y. Green, Lincoln Air Base, Nebraska; Pvt. Donald Sutton, Fort Casey, Washington; Pvt. Leroy D. Baker, Independence, Kan.; Pvt. James Oliver, Camp Millard, Bucyrus, O.; Pvt. Harold T. O'Keefe, Pendleton Field, Ore.; Pvt. Ralph Kapchinski, on desert maneuvers near Los Angeles, Calif.; R. L. Plowman, Pontiac, Ill., in behalf of Pvt. Gail O. Plowman, who is in Alaska; Pvt. Joseph B. Lovera, Camp Rucker, Alabama, who asked for letters from Groups 2, 4 and 5 and sent greetings to John Lower, Edward Burns and Tom Nesbitt, and Tech. Sgt. Stephen V. Biro, Camp Campbell, Kentucky.

Q. Is it true that the pistol was named after an Italian?

A. No—but it was named after the Italian town, Pistoia.

"MILLIONS OF 'EM" . . . proudly boast EOP employees as they see this array of block-busters in the area. Soon these bombs, more deadly than they appear here, will be loaded and sent to the battle front of the world.

Come one—come all—to the Ivy Way Gardens, Marseilles, May 24, and hear Art Kassel and his Kassels in the Air. Everyone—young and old—is urged to attend and cut a rug or two. Tickets can be purchased from Elmer Zost. Advance sale of tickets is $1.00—tickets purchased at the door, $1.25 (including tax).

Every time it rains, Group 68 acquires running water — about two inches—on the office floor.

Anyone wishing to make a tour of Marseilles night spots may be personally conducted by Andy Perino. They didn't miss a "spot" when he recenlty conducted William Reilly around.

Chalon and Gale Pickett recently visited their father in Davenport, Ia.—considered the nicest city in this part of the country (personal opinion only).

Ray W. Gartke, one of Carpenter Foreman Joe Umphrey's "boys" and most recent contribution to the Army, wrote a newsy letter to Joe from the Army Engineering Camouflage Division at Camp Van Dorn, Mississippi. Ray is a little disappointed because he is still a private.

Plans for the dedication of the new medicine cabinet for first aid are being made. Carpenter Chris Orbeson built it and "Doctors" Tony Togliatti and Leigh Tarbell are in charge. It is open for inspection by visitors any time during the day.

Frank Ozbolt, a member of Fulton Edmonds' crew, left recently for Eva, Ala., to resume work on his farm. His two sons left for the service. Frank hopes to return to EOP in the fall after the harvest.

News of Charles "Chuck" DiPeso's skill in preparing Italian dishes certainly gets around. Chuck and Rudy Schramm were hosts to John O'Connell at a delectable spaghetti and cheese dinner. Ravioli, chicken and dandelion greens were a few other mouth watering delicacies served. Chuck will be glad to supply recipes or furnish suggestions on how to prepare these dishes.

General Offices

ARLENE SCHLOENDORF

Bob Stewart, Mailing Room, left this week and is to go into the armed forces soon. Bob made a lot of friends all through the building.

Fred "Brother" Leslie, Engineering, is back to work after a two months' illness. The entire department welcomed him back with open arms.

A. Allison of Engineering has been absent the last few days—on the sick list.

Joe Lezbetak is being inducted into the armed services soon.

Howard "Bud" Davey of the Field Engineers is due to leave for the Navy Air Corps between May 1 and 15. He enlisted December 8, 1942, and has been waiting for this call.

Veranice Quade of the Purchasing Department left May 1 and will return to her home in Spring Valley, Minn. The entire building is going to miss this little mite of mischief.

Maybelle Anderson, Purchasing Department, left the office of E. C. Carlson May 1. "Andy" will be remembered as the first correspondent for General Offices for The Bomb-Shell.

Q. Do parachutists in the U. S. Army get a monthly bonus in addition to their regular base pay.

A. Yes—50 bucks extra monthly. The reason for this is that parachute jumpers perform what is considered one of the most hazardous jobs in the Army.

OFFICE WORKERS in the Machine Shop include this quartet. They are, left to right: Edward Bick, draftsman; Erva Willford, assistant draftsman; Helen Mandzuk, stenographer, and Franz Miller, foreman.

Inert Storage

CHARLES MANN

WILLIAM DENVER

The fever of spring is rising and the call for baseball players for the Inerts is being issued. With all the changes in personnel since last season, there is an urgent need for groomed players. The boys who brought home the second place trophy last year are now in the armed forces. Edward Sheridan of Group 27 will be more than happy to have the Inert scouts give you a chance at your favorite position.

From his own lips comes the words of John Wald that his buildings are always clean, whether it is spring or not. John says the only thing they need is a little wax on the floor for a springtime dance. The animal doctor, Charles Wardell, thought that if a dance was given it would be a good chance to find happy homes for the tiger-type kittens which soon will be in the maternity ward of the modern animal hospital. With all the kittens, Joe Baudino wonders if the hospital could be moved for the duration.

Best wishes go to Harold Zager, who left to perform important duties in the Army. If he does his job there as well as here, it will not be long until he is promoted.

Chester Holt tops the meat program with buffalo steak and mushrooms.

Clarence Sluiter is on the mend from an appendectomy. All the squads are hoping for his speedy recovery.

Edward Zarley of the checking staff suffered a mashed finger while digging for lot numbers that meant a lot.

Donald McCauley, who has been stationed in the sunny South, will be home on furlough in a few weeks. Don hopes to visit his old friends at Inert.

Whitey Wheeler, formerly of South Inert, writes of his life in the service and says "Hello to all Inerts."

Ray Lee, the gentleman timekeeper of South, is training a cocker spaniel pup from the Argyle Kennel. Ray says he is good at snatching meat and papers from the neighboring porches.

Edward "Jerk" Jurjevich, the man with the lot numbers and yard stick, will go before the examining physician with a high hope of becoming a soldier. Ed has not as yet appointed a successor for the black dirt market that shows great gains on Decoration Day at the cemeteries.

The biggest question at South Inert these days is who gets there first . . . "Leader" David Lardi or "Captain" Bill York.

Marguerite Scott reports that the girls are wondering if Estelle Glasshogel hasn't won enough money in the last two weeks to buy a pair of overshoes so she won't need assistance to get through the mud at Group 27. Mary Berg claims that it is the weather that makes her feel bad on Monday mornings.

The girls surprised "Tiny" Dorine Koerner on her birthday last week and all enjoyed some of the cake. "Midge" Amelia Mayo spent the week-end at Galesburg with her parents and four of her five brothers who are in the service. The girls have chosen as their favorite Inert colors black and white, although some of them have a tinge of green.

In the April 9 issue of The Bomb-Shell much credit was given to a number of men who came out on March 28, a Sunday, and did a masterful job, but without the two bulkheaders this feat would not have been possible. They were William Wiermann and Roy Arseneau of South Inert, and they, too, deserve high praise.

Inert gardeners are at a standstill . . . Owen J. Ralston reports the mud is knee deep in the potato patch. Richard "Dick" Ashworth constantly laughs at the gardeners and claims he already has onions and lettuce on his table.

Martin Storm, Erlan Cobb and Frank Clausen are proud daddies of daughters, all born in the same week.

Sympathies go to Harry Alderman, whose son, Harold, was seriously injured in an accident.

Consider the Source And Be Kind

After reading in the last issue of The Bomb-Shell the "dirty linen" section it becomes more evident that the Inert side of this Mann's personality alone is more than adequate to counter the perverted prose set forth under the name of "Scorchy." The other day as I passed along on Chicago Road my eyes followed a sign which pointed off to the side and on which was lettered The Burning Pit. This of course brought to mind our handicapped friend, "Scorchy," and it touched a soft spot in my heart for him.

You probably know that The Burning Pit is a very abject and desolate spot reminiscent of a movie version of a depression hobo camp. The shelter is constructed in a makeshift manner from discarded boxes, boards, tarpaulins and miscellaneous junk. The pit itself is the final resting place of the unwanted rubbish and general discarded materials which have no worth as salvage.

One of the most useless and unwanted items (unwanted by everybody but "Scavenger Scorchy") to reach the pit was that purveyor of polluted palaver, "Euphelia Roanebeck," and "Scorchy" realizing this brain child of his was cut to the same ignoble pattern and from the same rejected cloth as himself, took her as his soul mate and alter ego in order to blow up his deflated morale.

Nothing of any value reaches The Burning Pit. It is the crematory for all the useless dross which has become a nuisance and a handicap in the course of operation. From such a sordid background, according to "Scorchy's" column heading, come his literary gems. So I naturally felt sympathetic toward our unfortunate friend and wish him courage so that he will continue to use his imagination to rise above his most uninspiring environment. And I hope that you readers, too, will forgive "Scorchy" as his literary gems fail to give off that sparkle which is a necessary characteristic of the genuine article. Because even the real thing becomes tarnished and loses its luster after it reaches The Burning Pit.—Charles Mann.

Material Warehouse

Herman Guard's friends were pleased to see him back on the job again, after another operation and a week spent at home recuperating. All hope this will be the last time Herman will be compelled to inhale ether. He is considering sewing on a zipper to allow the surgeon to open and close as the occasion arises.

The Warehouse employees welcome the association of the following Government material checkers: George K. Stevens, Thomas Wharrie, Jay A. Folk, William Peebles and Lonnie Richardson. The Warehouse Department's policy is to cooperate and make their work a pleasure instead of a burden.

A woman truck driver invited Perry Bruno to put the gloves on, but as Bruno was busy at the time stenciling EOP on 4,000 pairs of gloves, he is still at a loss to know just which pair she wanted him to put on, so the bout with the truck driver has been postponed to a later date.

One of the timekeepers in Group 70 asked Lester Patterson one day if he thought the Cubs would win the National League pennant this year, but he failed to get an answer.

Another fellow asked Pat if he thought the White Sox would win the American League pennant and he, too, failed to receive an answer. Still another asked Pat if he thought the war would end this year and he is still awaiting a reply, but when your correspondent dropped in and asked if the fish were biting up on Duck Lake, he started off on a rampage and it was necessary to close all doors and windows so the people in Joliet could sleep.

The old billy goat, Fred Nelson, came very near "butting" his way into public office in Joliet in the last election. His campaign manager, Oscar Horn, tried to sneak him under the wire by instructing the voters to write his name on the ballot for police magistrate, thereby cheating the Campaign Fund Committee out of their usual donation and elevating Fred to office without spending any of their own dough.

It's a good thing the trick failed to work, or your correspondent would be sitting on the inside looking out.

Failure to Call Signals Results in Head Injury

Man Loses Finger Readjusting Guard with Saw Running

Benjamin Wollan, inspector, is in the Hospital suffering from a brain concussion as the result of an accident at Group 87 April 21.

Wollman, from a position on the ground, was helping to open a boxcar. A workman on a platform above him swung a heavy wooden mallet at the door catch, but the blow landed on the top of the inspector's head.

Two factors contributed to this accident. First, Wollan had stepped out of his routine duties. Second, there was an obvious lack of understanding between the two men as to their intentions. The adequate "calling of signals" between workmen is vital to their safety.

Everett Thompson suffered a severely lacerated hand, an injury necessitating the amputation of his left little finger, in a power saw accident at Group 3 April 22.

The guard of the saw had worked loose as Thompson was cutting 4 by 4's. He attempted to readjust it without first turning off the power. This is another example of the serious consequences of adding an unsafe act to even a minor mechanical misadjudgment.

The slogan, "Don't take a chance," applies with special force to operators of keen, high speed tools.

Shell Drops on Foot

A shell dropped on the left foot of Kathryn Hayes, Group 1, Building 3, April 14. She is losing time due to a severe laceration and fracture of the great toe.

She reported she had just finished loading shells on to a table, turned her head and a shell "from somewhere" fell on her foot. The very vagueness of the description suggests the probability of an absent-minded action such as dragging down a shell with her hand or arm as she turned her head.

The alertness that comes from constant stressing of safety is the best safeguard against such mishaps.

The arm infection of Fredrick Rumney, Group 62-N, is now said to be of unknown origin, not connected with the sliver puncture wound of a finger to which it had been attributed originally.

Horace Larder, Group 2, suffered a broken right leg in an accident in Bldg. 12 April 26. He was trucking skids of bands from a conveyor and was in the act of removing one skid when a second one rammed into it, forcing the truck forward and pinning the operator's leg between the truck handle and the wall.

The trip switch mechanism, designed to regulate the flow of material and prevent such accidents, was found to be insufficiently sensitive to the weight being conveyed. This indicates the importance of periodically testing such equipment under all conditions which might conceivably be encountered in actual operation.

Perry L. Weston, railroad switchman, missed his footing as he attempted to step on a moving car April 23. The injury, a bruised ankle, was not serious, but it might easily have been so.

There is no indication of an unsafe mechanical condition. This mishap to an experienced workman emphasizes again the fact that no action involving risk can, through sheer repetition, be freed of that risk. Constant alertness to such dangers is essential to continued safety.

The last column was dedicated to Spring. The next day an unlucky citizen lost his left toe because of frost-bite. This week's column is dedicated to good-fellowship because Chief Roy W. Mortenson has been selected as "head hostess" for the hungry horde at the next fellowship meeting. So, for both of you readers, here is news about the department's own Good Fellowship Sports Circle. First there is the boxing team: Len Jessen, flyweight, raw but raucus; William Bolton, paperweight, flabby but fast; Dayle Pratt, bantam, cute but corny; Cliff Weiss, lightweight, best on a muddy track; Al Renn, middleweight, rare and rarin'; Frank Rutkowski, welterweight, strictly a club fighter; Frank Scoma, light heavyweight, bad season — overtrained, and Kenny Brooke, heavyweight, too young and fluffy.

Your correspondents expect to collect a name for themselves, plus a few lurid trophies, in some croquet tournament. To that end the nucleus of a ducky team in this ancient and revered sport has been formed as follows: Ludwig Lazar, first mallet, underweight—but tough; Frank Pavlich, second mallet, steady—not flashy; Henry Stege, Russian ballet, dependable veteran; Angelo Amarose, first hoop, dark horse; Norm Heath, second hoop, white horse; Joe Vaccaro, whooper-dooper, an old story; Hopper Combs, first ball, lacks confidence; Larry Molck, second ball, ambitious — light on his feet, and Virgil Bell, belle of the ball, bawls out umpires.

Forthcoming issues will present more teams, but before anything else is printed candy, cigars and chewing gum must be presented to those mentioned here to make up for any unkind things said about them.

Charles Davis will be a bachelor for a few days while his wife visits her relatives in Kickapoo Valley.

The Department dusted off the welcome mat and draped it over the smiling countenance of Helen Gahagen, who is now completely recovered from her recent illness. The clean-up gang at the Hospital must have misplaced the feather duster because fair Helen is now just one sweet little mass of giggles and gayety.

In days of old, the ancient art of horse-swapping led to much feudin'. A modern version of this deadly sport is being enacted here. Sgt. "Captain" John Smith of Group 70 fame has purchased a north forty down yonder, and is preparing to go after potatoes in a big way.

Congratulations are in order to former Inspector Francis Burden, now of the Air Corps, upon his promotion to corporal. . . . The gang knows that the ultimate has not been reached by Francis and wish him much success as he continues that upward climb.

Word has drifted in that former Inspector "Marty" Knowles, now a member of the Navy Sea-Bees, finished boot-camp down Virginia way and was transferred east for advanced training.

The Fire Department maintains its record for meeting every emergency. Which will be verified by Marie Cline and Helen Gahagen.

Service Garage Spares
By Jean Ann Evans

When the fishing fever gets you, it's really a serious case for which even the ablest physician cannot prescribe a cure. Only the presence of a body of water such as a lake, or a stream with a ruffled current can ease the painful thoughts of how thrilling it would feel to have members of the finny tribe dangling on the end of your line, and then a deft scoop with your landing net completes the picture as you proceed gently to remove the hook and place the fish on a stringer. What a glorious feeling!

Several members of the garage force succumbed to this malady and had to take the cure, so they went out to a very famous angling spot over the Easter week-end in quest of fish.

William "Barker" Booker led the parade with six northern pike, two wall-eyed pike and a mess of bull-heads.

Glen "Porky" Bitterman was next in line for top honors with four northerns, three wall-eyes and a mess of bull-heads.

Blanchard "Boots" Shepherd ran a poor third with only one northern pike and a small mess of bull-heads.

The last member of this fishing expedition was Stan "Kelly" Kukulski and his net result was just a plain mess, which proves that you cannot catch fish unless you ACTUALLY go out after them.

Coming back to work after the trip, various suggestions were offered by fellow workers, and here are several of the best:

Joe Szwaja—Follow Bob Becker's column; Earl Goodknecht—Don't follow Bob Becker; Sylvester Learned—Fish early in the morning only; Norman Olson—Fish late in the evening; Bill Briddick—Use live bait only; June Wood—Luminous baits for me; Walter Knupp—I'd use surface plugs only; Leroy Stutz—Spoons will surely get 'em; Fred Elias—Underwater plugs are mine; Bill Rockabrand — Bucktails are my favorite; Harley Benge—Spinners and feathers are best; Louis Calcaterra—Pork rind is a sure killer: Paul Wood—Don't take too many lures along; Walter Sheridan—Stay away from taverns; C. L. Wilson—Fish more and sleep less, and Jim Hatz—Don't fish where they ain't.

M. P. Group Registers Big Hit Here

"What a thriller!" was the comment made by the 160 or more who attended the fourteenth meeting of the Goodfellowship meeting April 22. And it was a thrill to listen to the large Military Band consisting of the soldiers of the 732nd M. P. from Camp Des Plaines. The band was under the leadership of Sgt. Horace Henderson, brother of Fletcher Henderson, the popular orchestra leader.

As a military band they kept the audience on their toes and thrilled every minute. Cheers greeted the finish of every number, then in less than a minute the combination would be changed to an orchestral setup, and what music, from swing to blues until everyone wanted to dance.

The entertainment followed a dinner served in the Mess Hall Among the guests were Harrison Smith, Maj. Kenneth M. Haber, Maj. George A. Grant, Capt. P. D. Cooper, Capt. J. A. Hardy and Lt. C. R. Crandell. Major Haber had as his guests the following officers from Camp Des Plaines: Lt. Col. Amory A. Miller, Capt. Franklin C. Rogers, Capt. Oliver W. Lynen and Capt. Vincent L. Sullivan.

Q. What does the reduced railroad rate for a serviceman amount to?

A. All depends how far you're going, soldier. On furlough you get a reduced railroad fare of one cent a mile on a round-trip basis.

News and Notes from EOP Safety Engineers

Foremen Charles Zogus, Lloyd Zenor and Gilbert Simmons of Group 3-A have done a splendid piece of work in Buildings 16-A and 12 for the week ending April 24 with a no-major-or-minor-accident record, according to Emory M. Akeman, safety engineer.

Mr. Akeman said the entire line had a good record and that employees hoped to end the month with no lost time accidents, and put operations there for three consecutive on that basis.

John Connors, safety engineer, reported that Bill Pyle, inspector at Group 64, eliminated a hazard when he had a chute erected for the disposal of empty shell cases by an overhead route.

E. L. McCray, Group 66, is rearranging all of his igloos with a different piling system, which is creating an enviable appearance of neatness.

Paul Small, superintendent of Group 63, has been busy with the removal of dunnage which accumulated during the winter months.

The Safety Department at Group 3-A, according to Don Crowthers, safety engineer, expressed thanks to Ned Belizo and his boys for their co-operation in the quick change-overs required periodically in this group. Their job is to have the tables in Buildings 16-A, 16-B and 12 at the proper height for the operators.

Mr. Akeman reported that Elbert Smith of Group 3-A has missed but two days of work in the last eight months. Mr. Smith's record achieves more importance when it is understood that he arises at 3 o'clock each morning, walks a mile and a half to catch a 65 mile ride to work, and duplicates the trip in the evening.

An excellent safety record has been established by the men and women in Building 12, Group 2, according to B. R. Bowden, safety engineer.

Thirty-six days have elapsed without an accident in this building, and Foremen Everett Bradley, Arthur Jennings and Roy Shepherd are striving to continue this record as long as possible.

Mr. Bowden and Lorin Cain, safety engineer, discussed safety problems with the first women to be employed in Group 2, when they reported for work April 5. The talks followed the remarks of welcome by Supt. James J. Murphy.

Mr. Cain who had served as safety engineer on the afternoon shift at Group 2, has been transferred to day service at Group 1. He was succeeded by R. F. Wieber.

"Safety is just as important in recreation as in work," asserts James "Gentleman Jim" Grady, who cautioned his pin boys thus: "Don't let a ball strike your pins. it's liable to split 'em, and you haven't got a spare."

"Well," says Gerald "Whitey" Hall, foreman, Bldg. 3, Group 3-A, "tain't so bad during the day to be constantly checked by Akeman and Crowthers, but when it comes to Saturday night, that's going too far. From 7:30 to 3:30, if I don't see Akeman in 3, 11-A, or 11-B, I am certain that Crowthers is just around the corner or coming down the ramp. But last Saturday I took my wife and the kids to Joliet. When I started into the Dime Store there was Crowthers, pacing back and forth, notebook in hand, ready to report me. Rather than face Don, I turned back, hoping to get into Goldblatts before Crowthers spied me. But it was no use, there I was to gaze upon Akeman picketing this store. Well, what's a feller goin' to do? Wait a minute fellows, here's George Costello. See you later."

When the bouquets are passed out for consistant safety and production performances, according to Jimmy Hart, safety engineer, you can save some of your choicest posies for Alonzo "Red" Buehl and his helpers, who, in a few months, have designed and built an "ice-tong" bomb lifter, safety drawbars for lift trucks, spring safety catches for bomb rack gates, safety cable slings and strap harness for hoisting loaded bombs, bomb striper and stenciler, traveling air hoist conveyors, time and labor saving thread cleaner and cavity reamer and safety "slip proof—break proof" tail plate toggle wrenches for 2,000 and 4,000 pound bombs.

William Reed, assistant superintendent of Group 3 has gone a long way in solving the housekeeping situation in Building 6 by assigning Bill Agrue to the clean-up position in the batting order, according to Charles B. Harrison, safety engineer. Tony Gomora, the efficient chief, has been busy oiling the snow shovels for next month's snow storm.

Believe it or not, there are two nurses in Group 3 with the same name, Lucille Nahas, reported Crombie Schindle, safety engineer.

The photograph of Safety Engineer Harrison, which appeared in The Bomb-Shell of April 9 and showed him at work in Group 3, was reproduced in the Kankakee Republican News of April 26. In his column, "Catching a Few Off First," Orren Allain commented that Harrison coached football at Kankakee High for 15 years and has a great reputation throughout the Mid-West as a prep school coach.

At one of the Army-Navy classics, Harrison was an honored guest. Two of his former proteges at Kankakee High were the opposing captains, so Harrison sat on one side of the field for one half and on the other for the second half. He appeared that night on the "We the People Speak" radio program as a result of the coincidence.

Breaking Rules Causes Accidents

Many serious lost time accidents have been due to breaking one of the primary safety rules. Bright yellow and black signs posted around machinery—safety rule books—posters—say "Do not Clean, Oil or Repair Machinery While in Motion." No excuse can be made for such accidents—none is sought—for excuses come AFTER the damage is done, according to Harl E. Son, supervising safety engineer.

It seems that neither calories nor points worry Clem Eiden and Lou Walsh, according to Herman Beringer. Mr. Harrison says that he and Herman had been detained at the barber shop and arrived late for the Will County Safety Council banquet. Just as Herman sat down, Clem remarked, "That's what I call a right smart of a meal and the seconds were really good."

"Better luck next time and be on time, boys," said Lou. Ten minutes after Beringer and Harrison had eaten a left-over plate, in came O. K. Schreib. Within a few minutes he rated a nice big steak supper. Does it pay to be late? "Yes," said Charley "if you're late enough." But Clem said, "The early bird gets the seconds in roast beef."

The Safety Department was represented by Safety Engineers Harrison, Wieber, Akeman, Crowthers, Schreib, Beringer, Walsh, R. R. Jones and Clement Eiden.

SCORCHY? No, wrong again! This is William A. "Bill" Buck, superintendent of EOP's telephone system, at the age of six years. He said he was as proud of his bangs as of his sailor suit . . . which is understandable.

Production Planning

MARY McGOVERN
Correspondent

Production Planning is proud of the fact that they will soon have a girl representative in the armed forces. Shirley Wessels has joined the Marines and is now awaiting call to active duty.

Phyllis Clair would like to know just what technique is used to get stockings out of a bottle. She seemed to be having quite a bit of difficulty in putting them on one day last week. June Kuglick was giving instructions but somehow they just didn't seem to work.

Margaret Bruce of Wilmington is a new typist here.

Tommy Burns of the Navy reports that he is now stationed at the Hospital in Pensacola, Fla., and would like to hear from all of his old friends.

Joan Schwartz and Gwenn Hannabarger have started working days after a month on the third shift. The girls report it sure is hard to get up in the morning after becoming accustomed to sleeping late for so long.

Industrial Service

Eveline Mikuce is welcomed to this division.

It has been learned that Dorothy Bollig has a real talent for art—and, boy, what talent.

If you happen to see Marge Gall flashing a new and shiny insignia pin, don't get excited. It was a gift from her brother, who was home on furlough recently. His favorite name for Marge is "Skinny."

Mary Matesi is going to leave soon to resume her duties as mother and housewife.

Rowena Roberts is doing a swell job of taking over Nina Horrie's work while Nina has been transferred to Transportation.

A surprise came to Bernadine Klausing when she was called to the phone. At the other end someone was singing, "Happy Birthday to you, Happy Birthday to you, you little devil you."

If you want a lesson on how to make smoke rings, just ask J. P. Filips. He knows how.

Many were disturbed about Eleanor Goss being so tired each Monday morning until they learned she always goes to a dance Sunday night.

Transportation

Harold MacFadden, who has transferred from Personnel, is the newest member of the Transportation Division.

Among those transferred from War Department divisions are Charlotte Matheny, whose husband is now attending Officers Training School; Evelyn Dix, Frances Jursenvich and Frank Santri. Mary O'Connor, former multilith chief, has also joined the little gang.

James Pavel thought for sure that he had another new girl to train. The cause of this disturbance was a very windy day. Miss Kuglick, who went to lunch with her hair-do nicely placed on the top of her head, but returned with nice long curls. A bit of help from Mac Norem helped fix the transformation. You see, girls, that's what a different style of hair-do will do for one.

Equipment Checkers

Have you ever heard the expression in the Traffic Audit office, "That's God's country"? Well, Fred Legris calls Burbonnais just that.

Tom "Pants" Nugent is packing his grips for a vacation back home in New Hampshire. Frank Weston said he just don't know whom he will be advising in Tom's absence.

While checking equipment one day a fellow-worker told Pete Conroy he was about the fifth fellow checking the same things. "That's nothing," he retorted, "there might be five more."

Jake Debri has been numbering equipment in the attic of the Administration Building, which he believes would be a hot spot for this summer.

Group 2

Back in the town where Johnny Williamson went to school there is to be one of the year's most successful Proms. The decorating is near completion and the tickets about all sold. It is wondered if Johnny will go, and who will receive a corsage.

One brisk, rainy day, Cliff Fisher said "Sprig has cumb." Everyone well knew spring was here—but they also knew no one could enjoy it with such a cold.

Group 3-A

All are sorry to hear of Meoma Jett's illness, but glad to know that she will soon be back at work as all miss her sunny smile and cheery "hello."

Mary Bertino is still looking for that bicycle she ordered some time ago. Or was it roller skates?

Hospital

EVELYN RICHARDS
Correspondent

Marjorie Hartong took the place of Beatrice Merrick for several days at the first aid station at Group 2. Mrs. Merrick returned with smiles and memories after a brief visit with her husband at his Army camp.

Thank-you cards were received from Elsie Baer in appreciation of the lovely pearl necklace, earrings and bracelet set given her as a farewell present by the staff.

Donated plants and shrubs given Evelyn Doran don't quite fit into her daily routine. Monday every muscle shrieked with pain as she twisted and turned about in her laboratory domain.

Swinging doors are a phobia with Bertha Perush—someone is always on the other side trying to get in at the time she tries to get out.

Frank Grosses was given K.P. duty, peeling potatoes, for the pooled roast chicken Maurice Bremmer brought for supper.

Dr. Jim Madurs's sliver was extracted with the help of three doctors and four nurses.

An unmarked uniform was posted before the eye of the feminine staff for several days. It was finally decided it belonged to Veronica Kelley as the one cut down from size 40 to 16 by her mother. You can see why she was so modest in claiming it.

Dr. M. L. Stern, Chicago, Dr. C. A. Sharp, Joliet, representing the Illinois State Health Department; Dr. K. G. Brockman, Dr. T. P. Hickey and John Daniel, of Kankakee Ordnance Works, were visitors at the Hospital recently.

Nellie Lazio was tickled pink when she was visited by a Seabee for several days—she spruced up with a fine permanent and a twinkle in her eye and awaited the arrival of her husband from the East Coast.

A tire blow-out caused James Stiglich a great deal of concern when he was stranded with several women out in the area. "Good Deed Dottie," alias Ozro Blanchard, helped him out and he went creeping back to the service garage.

A traveler from Arkansas paid a visit to Helen Edwards for a few days. It turned out to be her husband on furlough from Camp Robinson.

Marie Ulrich left the Hospital for the first aid station at Groups 6-7 the early part of the month.

A party was given for Robert Anderson, who is leaving for the armed forces, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Matthews. Refreshments were served and all spent an enjoyable evening dancing. Those present were: Dr. and Mrs. George R. Luke, Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Richards, Dr. Andrew Bustin, Dr. Jacob Wechsler, Sgt. George Wells, Sgt. Edward Strickland, Gordon McCulloch, Mary Philbin, Miss Lazio, Miss Hartong, Myrtle Burris, Vance Cook, Helen Talbott, Bob Crane, Flash Gordon, Dorothy Busse and Lynn Catlett.

Dr. B. Giel is puzzled as to how he is to care for a baby chick given him for Easter.

A talisman rose corsage was sent to Dorothy Busse by her husband in Africa.

Group 1

There is an explanation for John E. Connor's beaming countenance and it's more than just another No. 17 stamp. The reason is a seven-pound, one-ounce granddaughter, Linda Frances, born April 20. Both daughter and father, Staff Sgt. Joseph Connor, are doing nicely.

Grace Brereton, progress clerk, reports that her son, Robert F. Brereton, formerly employed in Group 3-A, is stationed at Kessler Field, Miss.

Personnel

DARA PREW

The admonitory tone that Helen Bardi was using yesterday was toward Pearl. She's been a fixture on Helen's desk for about three months now and certain portions have been growing so rapidly that Helen is becoming worried about Pearl's appearance. Pearl is a cute young kitten! That she's made of china and painted with vari-colored polka dots doesn't seem to perturb anyone, but the fact that her cactus tail seems to have taken a new lease on life and is now three times its original length is of prime concern.

The pink-cheeked boy friend of the Personnel Department came back to work this week after a long sick leave. James Barrowman was welcomed by everybody who remembered his permanent smile and cheery disposition which has been brightening up the Personnel Building for almost two years.

Speaking about boy friends, Helen McGinnis was radiating smiles last week as she passed a recent portrait of her military interest to anyone who would verbally appreciate it. Louis Awe, sergeant in the Army, sent a colored picture up and now we, too, can enjoy the stories about "Looie." Helen is spending her annual leave in Excelsior Springs.

The department just received a group letter from Clem Lambert, former interviewer now in the "Seabees," to say thanks for his gift and make an urgent request for copies of The Bomb-Shell, starting with the month of April. Most recent recruit from the building is William T. Pohlman who left two weeks ago.

Jane Schnepper came into the building with one eye all red and swollen and muttering something about "Red" guessing wrong about the weather as she shivered. No one could discover the cause of the eye ailment, but the shivers were produced by a trip through Group 1 on a cold, blustery day in a spring coat when husband, "Red" Carl, had assured her that it would be warmer during the day.

Returning from the commissary one noon, Charlotte Doxsee was humming a lively tune when she suddenly stopped and another girl continued the melody. "Char" was delighted and halted them all with a glad "You knew what I was singing!"

Fred Cadwallader has reported that even he never could have believed how swollen his face was while suffering with an infected sinus last Thursday if he hadn't seen it. Diligent work with hot packs for the remainder of the week improved his condition so much that he was back at work bright and early Monday with a cheerful smile for all who inquired about his health.

Swinging gaily into the wash room, Georgiana Flavin energetically set about washing a pair of glasses and after a few minutes she returned to the reference room. Finishing powdering her nose, one of the girls turned to pick up her glasses and found them all wet. She dried them and proceeded to the reference room when Byron Mills was sitting working with her glasses on his nose. He did comment that they were a trifle weak.

Betty Lou Barkelew celebrated that anxiously awaited 20th birthday April 22. Girls from the Division of Investigation brought a cake replete with candles for the event. Bashful Betty blushed as they all swung into "Happy Birthday."

Primary interest for Margaret "Dolly" Lundquist outside of office hours during the past two weeks has been unusual coiffures, and she has been receiving some queer looks from women whom she examined too closely. Exery time she noticed a woman with an upswept hair style, she would almost stare at her to discover just how it was kept combed so smoothly. Last Monday capped the climax however. Delivering a report in the room where "Dolly" was busily typing, one of the girls observed that she was searching for something. Inquiring if she could help, she heard the complaint, "I go down and get a new pencil and in two minutes I've lost the darn thing." It required only one glance to ascertain that the pencil in question had been thrust through the curl atop her head and was sticking out a full three inches on either side.

Bernadine "Bing" Keenan returned to work this morning after a brief session with the measles. Feeling rather ill for quite a few days, "Bing" came to work one morning with the conviction that she was coming down with the flu. About 10:30 o'clock she walked into the rest room to say she was hot. After a trip to the hospital, she had to agree that it was the measles which were about to pounce upon her rather than the flu bug. For a few days everyone in the building examined each tiny red spot which might appear on arms or neck with suspicion, but no one discovered anything amiss.

Those fateful words will be repeated May 24 in Grand Forks, N. D., with John "Tom" Haigh as one of the principal characters. On his thirteen-day leave, he will travel to Grand Forks, thence to his home on the Montana border. The rest of his honeymoon will be spent in the Black Hills, which is his idea of heaven.

While the romantic interest is the subject, Rita "Rusty" Cushing has a few days' vacation to spend with her boy friend, Robert Gato, home on an unexpected furlough from the Marine Corps in San Diego, Calif.

June Morgan and Eugene "Jean" Erp were comparing notes on new songs when the following skit occurred. In an attempt to illustrate the one to which she was referring, June burst into song. "Isn't that the way it goes?" Jean's only answer was, "Well, sort of—" With widening eyes she added, "Every time I open my mouth today I put my foot in it." June threatened, any more remarks like that and I'll put MY foot in it."

After five years of married life, Katherine Smith's husband presented her with a friendship ring.

Evelyn Melby is afraid to open her mouth as she claims to have a gold mine hidden there. After a special preview showing of the new cap and bridge, Carmen Oldani declared that "Evvie" was a human lightning rod.

Easter weekend found a few of the Personnel "gang" happily reunited with their distant families. Darwin "Dale" Boitnott chose those few days to travel all the way to Detroit, Mich., and there are rumors of a girl friend there. Marge Lawhead, formerly of this building, and Dolores Courtney journeyed southward with a gentleman who was driving to the far south. Marge jumped out at Champaign while Dolores continued driving to Carrier Mills, Ill. Dolores still blames the white side-wall tires for the blowout which frightened her so badly when it wakened her from a sound sleep. Al Dearth drove to be with his family in Bloomington, too.

Alpha Englehart, June Morgan, Frank "Mickey" Green, Donald "Bud" Kane and Ed Murphy of the Recreation Department officially opened the tennis courts for the year one extremely windy day last week. Eddie, the home run king, demonstrated he could still make tracks chasing the balls, for he just couldn't manage to keep them inside the courts.

Guards

GENE RYAN
Correspondent

Congratulations are extended to the 15 new corporals recently promoted. Hard work and a knowledge of their duties gained them this ranking.

Lieut. Owen McCarthy is busy rounding up recruits for his softball team. Any guards interested notify the lieutenant at once before the roster is completed. Qualifications include "No Smoking" (while at bat).

If his consultation is still required, Lieut. Frank Harrelson is planning to write a book titled, "From Bunnies to Rabbits." Harrelson, a former thoroughbred rabbit trainer, has been threatened by some officers who considered themselves thoughtful by purchasing for their children a real bunny for Easter. The chapters of the book, in accordance with the requests, will include feeding, breeding, training (including setting up exercises) and, last but not least, "One easy lesson on how to Build a Rabbit Hut."

Lieut. Edwin Selle is hard at work with his Drill School. Everything is running smoothly, with one exception, an argument over who is to have the concession for corn-pads.

Dispatcher Ed Ritchie has sharpened up his hoe, rake, shovel and finger-nails in anticipation of spending a week as a farmer.

Lieut. William McClellan laments that meat rationing has caused considerable reduction in his waist-line, which he cannot afford. It is understood that he will use this argument in making an appeal, along with the fact that his digestive organs are not accustomed to eggs and fish. He is a good marine (former) however and states if he is granted additional meat rations, he will forfeit his gas book.

Former Guard Harry Hetzel, now serving in the armed forces, paid a visit to Guard Headquarters recently, while on a furlough. Like all other service men, he looks fit enough to tackle the Germans single-handed.

FURS are required by those in the armed forces stationed in Alaska. One type is shown here, worn by Pvt. Gail O. Plowman, formerly of Group 4, now on hospital duty in Alaska.

Few appreciate the warmer weather more than the guards. No more heavy coats, wool socks, clumsy gloves, and, above all, colorful ear-muffs.

With the Women

Geneva Puckett has been a patient at St. Joseph's Hospital, Joliet. She is on the road to recovery and looks forward to when she will be back.

Mary Gardner left the department to join her husband in Missouri.

At last, after waiting for nearly a year, the women guards have a real honest to goodness bride. Verla Chism has changed her name to Mrs. Jimmy Fisher. The wedding took place April 28. Her husband was home on furlough after serving a year in Hawaii. He left for his new headquarters in Tennessee. Verla will remain as a guard and her co-workers congratulate her lucky corporal husband and wish her all the happiness possible.

Frances Dempsey bowled a 173 game recently.

Everyone tries to eat all of the eggs they can on Easter morn. Jane Johnston set out to make a record and ate 16 eggs in two days; then stopped.

Mable Graham is welcomed back to the department. She left last winter because of illness, but she is now her charming self again.

All of the women guards have been taken through the area by Lt. Frank Pate. They enjoyed their trips very much, especially the trips through Guard Headquarters and the Fire Department. Since the excursion several of the girls have been wondering just how the firemen can slide down that pole, take their shoes off and get into their rubber garments in such a short time.

TEN YEARS' RETIREMENT was ended for J. A. Cocker to answer a war call by coming to EOP December 1, 1940, as mechanical superintendent. Mr. Cocker, shown here with his secretary, Marie Studer, was master mechanic at the American Steel & Wire Company for 34 years.

Dick Gordon, Bldg. 4, came to work with a big smile on his face. The reason, yes, he now is a daddy and naturally very proud of it.

When Charlie Harrison and Elmer Emanuelson get together it sounds almost as good as when Bing Crosby and Bob Hope josh and jive each other.

Many wonder where George Weber is going to get milk to feed his cats now that there is to be no more milk issued. One of his pals said he would probably try feeding them vitamin capsules.

It's too bad it rained so much the last two weeks, for all have been waiting to see the Victory garden that Tony Lanasky and Alvin Knowles have planned.

Bill Siefert, who was injured recently, has returned to the fold.

Group 3 has acquired a man by the name of Ed Spezio who will, no doubt, prove to be very helpful toward the success of the softball team. He came over from one of the inert groups.

Everett Thompson had some very bad luck recently. Although he is a husky man, he didn't fare so well when he tangled with a buzz-saw. He had to have one finger amputated, but according to all reports, he is feeling fine. Everett had just enlisted in the Seabees, but this accident will hold him back for a while now.

John "Red" Boucher and some of his boys want revenge on the bowling team from Group 3-A. "Red" and the gang were beaten in their first clash with Colby Erickson and his team, but topped 3-A the last time by 75 pins.

"Scotty" Dalziel had the high game and high average of the series. He had 602 pins with 220 in the final game.

Did you know that Ted Pollack, carpenter foreman, made acquaintance with the strong arm of the law. Ted told the officer he was listening to a hot swing band and didn't realize how fast he was traveling. The officer said, "The fastest swing tune you will hear is this, eight bucks, please." So Ted dug deep in his money-bag and coughed up eight dollars.

James "Smoky" Moore, who claims to be a boss at home as well as out here, is having trouble with his shoes. It seems the "little woman" won't give up his number 17 stamp so he will probably have to buy some sandals or play shoes.

Al Hintrager is just a kid at heart. At milk time he would amuse the girls by showing them tricks and converting his handkerchief into a mouse. Now that the girls have left, Al will have to talk to himself.

Welcome was the visit paid by Lewis Schuck. Lewis was escorted through the line by Robert Schmitz, key inspector of Group 2.

Supt. James J. Murphy was welcomed home after being away on business a couple of days. He was at work bright and early after his return, but forgot to bring souvenirs for the boys.

William "Jersey" Klegman is doing his best to get an introduction to Tom Hedger, a carpenter helper. Someone must have told "Jersey" that Tom carries nine sandwiches to work every day.

All admire the fine picture of Asst. Supt. John Kelahan in the last issue of The Bomb-Shell. Looks like he is camera shy and is hiding behind B. P. Bowden's hat.

Dodo Veronda claims that he knows when a change in the weather is due. He has a goose and a lump forms on the neck of the goose when the change is due.

Time don't mean a thing to Verona Lamber and Mary Begler of 4-14 when they went to Jo Kaiser's home one Sunday morning at 2 and got her out of bed to go out and have chicken with them.

It was quite a surprise, but a coincidence, when Mary Percich and Deloris Wrick of 4-14 received watches from their "Heart Throbs" at the same time.

Sophie Odenwlad sure is grand at remembering birthdays.

Mabel Woods, shipping room 4-14, seems to think that Arizona and New York are one and the same state.

Fern Darnell was called to Kansas because of the illness of her husband who is in the service.

At last the movie scout has traced "Lana Turner," known to her friends as Bing Enger of the Primer room. Her new coiffure did the trick.

Lidwina Wempe is missed by all the girls in 4-14, who wish her success in her new career.

Domonic Montanna, the curly-haired lad of the component room, really has rhythm.

The girls in 4-14 are very much satisfied since they've seen Chuck Kaplan, assistant superintendent, walk through the building without his hat.

Dorothy Stahler is contemplating a trip to Texas.

Letha Riberto, 4-14, is very seldom seen without gloves.

Wilma Dellibac is back to work again after a week's illness.

Pharmacist Mate Eddie Merriman, on leave from the Navy, said "hello" to his former co-workers while visiting the plant recently.

Rose "Oswald" Machak has a peculiar memory. She remembers names but not places.

Frances Niewinski had a gala Easter party at her home in Morris. Guests included many from "Primers."

So regularly does Anna Marie "Mamie" Weir hear from her soldier friend that a celebration is held when no word is received. "Mamie" intends to be his in "Apple Blossom Time."

Now that Dorothy Eglin's boy friend has gone back to college, she has settled down to the routine of riding the EOP bus line and working in Primers.

Edna "Red" Hedlin has been having some trouble with one of her red corpuscles. It appears in the form of a blush at the most inopportune times.

Helen "Cig" Bowler isn't bothered a bit by her nickname, in fact she eats it up. "Cig" is looking for a one-way ride to Kansas City.

Christine Capetta is an aviation enthusiast.

Pearl Spiers is an authority on liquid diets.

Minnie Haywood is deeply interested in the ballet.

Betty Eckhardt is soon to change her name to "his."

Evelyn "Porky" Bault received a lovely going-away present from her sailor friend, "Buck" Davidson of Morris.

Dorothy Nelson and husband have finally found a lovely apartment in Morris.

Harvey Sessi has focused his attention from Columbus, O., to Manteno, Ill. He plans to move there soon.

Mary Foster took a plunge Easter Sunday in St. Louis. Her new husband is Cpl. Art Scorcia. Lois Schultz and Evelyn Tatro were the envious bridesmaids.

Josephine Pilarick writes daily to her soldier friend, Sgt. Jimmy Jones. Another twenty-four-hour correspondent is Frances Skul, who writes to her fiance, John Slavowski.

Gerry Schuler will soon be wearing something other than finger-nail polish on her third finger, left hand.

Helen Nelson's Easter outfit included a pea green suit and a robins-egg blue hat.

Julie Howard has at last heard from the Army. Pvt. "Sully" Sullivan was the correspondent.

The "E" in William E. Wheeler's name stands for Elliott. Though he hates to do it, Bill has to go to Ohio every May 1—it's an anniversary.

Ronnie Carlson thinks that short dresses are to be preferred over long skirts.

"Madame" Marie Hodina admits that she is engaged, but won't disclose who the lucky fellow is.

Dora Forman suffered a bad fall. All hope she soon recovers from her injury.

If John Bono's garden is as large as his story about it, all of the people in the Paint Shop will be sure of fresh vegetables.

TWIN sisters, Clara and Clarice Lieb, left the EOP Laundry to join the WAVES together. They hoped to be assigned to the same station.

Gilbert Maloney is parading a new Easter bonnet.

Pearl Funk has heard from her son who is over seas. He is well and has many things to tell his mother when he gets back.

Helen Pasternak's sketches have won her considerable acclaim among the girls of the group and her sister, Euginia, is doing her bit at "palm reading."

It is nice to have Marjorie Bennett back after a week's illness.

Lena Colafello has a new hobby . . . "moth catching."

Gerry Morris and her soldier husband from Camp Crowder, Mo., spent a week's vacation with her parents in Springfield.

A vote has been taken to start a "Tall Story Club." The first members are "Tiny" Dick Jensen and Johnny Dole.

During the recent rain storm several of the girls were found to have talent. Eva Coonan sings beautifully and Ruth Schaubel whistles. Marie Ustaski whistles with Ruth.

Group 6

Why is that song "I'm Just Wild About Harry" so popular with Dorothy Connor.

Bea Merrick hasn't said one word about her trip to Indianapolis since she's been back.

Eddie Liebelt, foreman in 6-4, has formed the habit of taking other people's pencils.

Best wishes for a speedy recovery go to Leona Krakar, who is ill with the measles.

Group 6 said good-bye to two members of its Tetryl Room — June Randolph and Geraldine Dammann.

Jean Mowery, office girl in 6-6, went home to welcome her brother who returned from Guadalcanal.

Lillian Russell, 6-4, was the guest of honor at a combined farewell party and stork shower given by 18 of her co-workers. A miniature bassinet decorated in pink and white was filled with many gifts.

Clementine Stonehouse, 6-6, visited in Chicago with her brother, Master Sgt. Steven Sitar, who after six years of service in Alaska, is home on a month's furlough.

Group 8

A letter received by Mike Molnar from Howard Pearl, former EOP worker, is as follows:

Dear Folks:

I received your last letter the other day and sure was glad to hear from you all. The mail service is very good from here, at least coming from the States.

I am fine and sure hope you all are, too.

I get the paper from the plant. The first issue I received was in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean, of all places. I see Mike's name in it quite often. I sure wish you a lot of luck there. I know you are doing a good job there, as always.

We get stuff from both EOP and KOW so you can see where it is going and doing a good job, too. I've been where it is made and where it is used. Quite a lot of mileage in between.

North Africa is rather nice, much better than I originally thought when I came over here. They sure have some powerful drinks here. They burn all the way down.—Howard Pearl.

By Virginia Anderson

Marguerette Ruleson of the Clean-Up Crew doesn't worry about using her No. 17 Ration stamp. She has a new method of saving shoe leather.

Joan Burke returned to work after having spent two weeks in Maryland with her husband, who is stationed there.

Chemical Laboratory

"Three Cheers for the Navy" announced the arrival of Ed Merriman, former employee here. His boyish grin is missed by many.

Howard Brooks enjoyed the full benefits of a full moon with his best gal on his last trip to Ohio.

Any complaints about cuffless trousers should be taken up with Paul Kreuziger who has donned three-quarter length trousers.

Gardenias were received by Clarice Petrelli from a certain someone in Texas, and though they were too late for the Easter parade, they were greatly appreciated.

Jonquils were part of Marie Planker's Easter outfit sent by "her one and only."

The Gang of Group 3

We are the loading gang of Group 3
Our number is sixteen,
Our bosses, who are Ted and Flip,
We really think they're keen.

Of all the groups there are
We know we are the best,
We all will work and do our part,
For the good and great U. S.

Russ and Art, they are a team
We name them both in rhythm.
While George beats John at telling the truth,
McGee finds time to sleep, at times.

Who's next?—Why Joe, of course,
We pin our hopes on him,
For he's the scrapper of our team
And fights with vex and vim.

Then comes Clark in line
In mischief he doth abound
He likes to ring the telephone
As poor Atlas has found.

There's Frosty of Wilmington
And Vick of near Coal City
We name them now with due respect
In this, our little ditty.

Then Frank, and also old Slim
And Mike and others, too,
With Tony to end the lines, as
We must hurry through.

In basketball we had no part,
In bowling, the same old story,
In baseball we will put our heart,
But it's loading bombs, whence comes our glory.

—Frosty McGowen,
Carpenter, Group 3.

It takes an accident to teach a lot of people a simple lesson in safety. This girl, for instance, is a little late in realizing that safety lessons learned at the plant should be applied at home, too.

In a second she'll be on the floor. If she's lucky she'll just be bruised. But she may break an arm or a leg. If she does she won't be any good to herself, to the plant, or to her country's war effort. At least, not for many weeks.

Many off-the-job accidents occur at home. And about half of all home fatalities result from falls. Preventing falls will help keep workers on the job and their families safe too.

Falls from good ladders aren't nearly so common as falls from makeshifts like the one in this cartoon. Next time, if this girl gets out of this mess alive, she will use a genuine ladder. But even then she won't be safe unless she uses it correctly.

If she uses a step ladder properly, she'll never climb one, inside or outside the house, without first making sure the spreader is fully extended.

She won't use a ladder whose steps or rungs are missing or broken or whose side-rails are cracked.

She'll never carry heavy loads up or down ladders.

She won't lean out too far.

She won't do anything risky—if she wants to avoid injury.

Q. What is longevity pay?

A. It is an increase of 5 per cent of base pay, given to a soldier for each three years of active service in the Armed Forces.

Q. What is the derivation of the word "chow"?

A. Said to have been introduced in the U. S. with the first arrival of the Chinese in California in 1849. It is thought to be an Americanized corruption of the Chinese word "chai".

Q. Why do Germans call their submarines U-boats?

A. Because that's the abbreviation for the German Unterseeboot. submarine to us.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?

Ordnance

HELEN McGINNIS
Correspondent

Well, barring all casualties — such as measles and whooping cough . . . your correspondent will endeavor to dish the dirt this time . . . her good friend and cohort in crime is now occupying the enviable position of Government worker in the big city of Chicago . . . this means Geraldine M. Ward, formerly with Safety and Security. . . . Ordnance wishes her well in her new venture.

Bess Moore seems to be overrun with bad luck . . . first of all she spent weeks worrying about her brother when he was missing in action in the Pacific Theatre and then her mother went East to visit her sister and didn't she fall down the stairs with serious complications resulting . . . now after getting her Mom set in the hospital in Philadelphia . . . she gets a phone call that her mother had suffered a heart attack and Bess had to plane back East again . . . that is what is known as "too much."

There were certainly some distinguished visitors here Apr. 26. . . . Brig. Gen. R. C. Hardy, Col. T. C. Gerber, Lt. Col. Don M. Hoffman, Capt. W. Swartzchild and several more. . . . Certainly swell that EOP has the facilities for welcoming such dignitaries . . . makes everyone feel sort of "in the show."

Lt. C. R. Crandell had a party for the Administration Section that was a huge success . . . how else could it be?? . . . What with the charming Mrs. Crandell as hostess . . . of course Lieutenant Crandell is no slouch when it comes to hosting either. . . . Kay Reubart, Mavis Emerson, Helen Harmon, Marion Yeager, Ann Melovic and Molly Baker formed a group who helped entertain some of the military visitors at an impromptu dance in the Recreation Building.

Certainly think that picture of Arthur "Boo Boo" Jensen was a darb . . . heard the gals were singing "You must have been a beautiful baby" to him since the publication. Boy, oh boy, bet his ears are red.

Mara Puett, the cutie pie from Auditing, was seen waiting patiently for one of her riders . . . even in the early morning she looks bright as a dollar.

Charlie Di Lorenzo has all the gals teasing him . . . guess it is because he takes it so graciously . . . but sez he . . . why not? it doesn't do any good to go around with a grouch . . . wish more guys felt that way.

Clare Shols and Ray Marquardt are still woo wooing. . . . He's a busy guy these days now that E. T. Bennington departed for Uncle Sam's contingent.

Jeanne Baskerville is now Mrs. Lt. Baskerville, yep . . . her hubby, Ted, has them there bars now. . . . She went down to Camp Davis, N. C., to pin 'em on, too.

The War Bond campaign met with EOP's usual display of enthusiasm . . . guess the quota is made and then some . . . after all, it is mighty easy to say "Take 10 per cent out of my pay" . . . but those brave fellas at the front can't do that . . . they are stuck there and, believe it or not, that ain't all it's cracked up to be . . . so again EOP folks have shown the kind of stuff they are made of—God bless 'em.

Spring is here and so one and all get the spring fever . . . can't blame them a bit . . . this place down here really shows off to best advantage in the Spring. . . . The trees budding . . . grass nice and green and the whole plant taking on an appearance of being freshly scrubbed —in the vernacular. . . . "Swell place this Elwood Ordnance Plant."

Haven't seen John Phelan lately? . . . many wonder where he has been keeping himself. Lois Dix is recuperating from her operation and will be back on the job soon again. "Tommy" Tomlianovich of Inspection bowled high game in the women's sweepstakes. . . . Pretty nice!

DAUGHTERS of Ed Hasse, Group 61, are these two attractive sisters, Judith Anne and Marjorie Lou Hasse.

H. H. "Red" Bowler and his pa-in-law were being very good one night during Holy Week . . . sure 'nough . . . they were in church.

Johnny Odchodnicky and Phil Hahn are still feuding . . . now it's who is the best father?? . . . each one has his own theory as to how to take care of his offspring.

Emma Shea was taking the Easter bunny to town the other night . . . too bad it rained Easter. . . . Em couldn't brush off that new bonnet and prance down the street. . . . Jo Kush of Mail and Record visited her family over the Easter holiday.

Capt. Paul D. Cooper received some flowers from his very own garden in California . . . they arrived in not too good shape, but with the aid of some fresh water and aspirin they perked up somewhat and are now looking better.

Sadie Atkinson of Auditing looking right smart in a slick looking tweed suit.

Junior (meaning your correspondent) is going on a vacation . . . sure 'nough . . . taking off for the southern extremities . . . so expect to come back streamlined—sun burned and ready for another year's work.

With the Time Inspectors

Mary Kay Lohman, office cutie, recently transferred to the electrical department and has genial W. H. White as her new employer.

Since all the transfers have taken place, the time inspectors now have only two of the fairer sex left—one blonde and one brunette —Betty Lou Page and Loretta Franke. The blonde's likes are—walking in the rain—juke box music—luscious steaks—Chicago—and her greatest dislike is to have to get up in the morning. The brunette likes her soldier husband —bowling—fried chicken—soft music—her greatest dislike is Sunday work.

George Margetts entertained the office force recently with some interesting motion pictures.

Charles Newman Downes had the office agog the other day with some vivid tales of . . . logging in the north woods. It's difficult to imagine Charlie as a lumber-jack, but he seemed to know more about it than the learned John Green, who claims he spent five years in lumber camps.

Now that Easter has come and gone—and everyone has given a dress review of his best "bib and tucker"—laurels go to Ed Reichert —for his undefinable butterfly bow-tie.

Guard Is First To Donate Razor

Stanley Brown, guard, was the first EOP employee to donate a safety razor for the use of sailors who lost their razors in ship sinkings. Mr. Brown delivered his razor to The Bomb-Shell office, but it is preferred that they be sent directly to Mary Barrowman, adjutant, Joliet club of the Navy Mothers Clubs of America. Thirty-two thousand razors are needed.

Catherine "Tomi" Tomlianovich recently visited the folks back home and got her first glimpse of her new nephew.

Bernice Shroba is back at work even though she is still slightly "spreckled."

Linnetta Parry has time on her hands these evenings since her hubby has gone to the old farmstead.

William F. Douville, chief Government inspector, is capably doing two jobs in one, since Capt. A. G. Resch left. Everyone misses Captain Resch.

Roald Evenson, Government Inspector in Group 2, and Audrey Waldvogel, Government Inspector in Group 7, were married April 16. Best wishes were sent by all.

Lois "Panama Hattie" Martin has recently acquired the new nickname of "Minnie the Moocher."

Clara Wehner has changed her hair style and donned earrings lately. There may be a special reason.

Vieana Wheeler is still dreaming of orange blossoms and lace.

It has become quite common to see Warren Weithofer with a patch on his forehead.

Many wonder what has happened to all those dreams of Delores "Penny" Dagon—and hope they haven't been shattered.

Group 1

Frances Rutkiewicz and Ann Bolek spent a very enjoyable Sunday in Chicago recently.

It was indeed a sight to see June Baxter and Emil Bruni deep in conversation one night during the midnight shift and to hear June, with her eyes half open, say, "you know, Bruni, some people live and learn—but some people live and never learn." Those who overheard wonder what they were discussing. Bruni came to work one morning bemoaning that he had to pay $7.50 to have his watch repaired and had to wait months to get it! Perhaps Russell Cline can throw some light on a very interesting story concerning the subject.

It seems like old times to see Frances Ryan back on the job. Caroline Cleaver's son has been ill at Silver Cross Hospital.

Anyone meandering about Group 1 recently may have imagined himself seeing characters from "Arabian Nights" cycling around, but it was just Joe Strohl making his rounds with his smock aflyin' in the breeze!

There is a person who plays an important rule in the lives of Florence and Pete Golgin?

Would you believe that tiny Novella Sheppherd is the mother of a 17-year-old daughter — and they say she's a honey, too!

FAREWELLS were exchanged by E. T. Bennington (left), stock room, and Robert Stewart, mail room, when they learned they both were destined for the armed forces. Mr. Bennington left April 17 and Bob was told to expect a call soon.

What some persons won't do to get peace and sleep during the day while working the midnight shift! Ann Jansky, for instance, takes her little Terrier puppy and stuffs him down at the foot of her bed, under covers and all, then has the audacity to laugh at him when he gets up groggy and dizzy!

Palma Weston started her Easter parading early this year by wearing a cute little tam.

Louise Huckstep did a swell job of entertaining the "G" girls at the change house one evening recently.

Grace Wilson sure was lucky that it was just a drop of water that splashed on the palm of her hand while eating in the change house one day.

Betty Smith, Marion Weber, Clara Lou Bush of Group 1 and Rose Gigliette of Group 9 attended the graduating exercises at Lewis School of Aeronautics recently. One week it's the Army and the next it's the Navy with these gals. How they do get around!

Fuze & Booster Chemical Lab.

Harriet Nadelhoffer and Gladys Cain were seen hoofing it out to the gate one night recently.

A motor scooter is the latest assignment to the Chemical Lab. It's a sure sign of spring, like kites, marbles, roller skates and new bonnets. The Lab. was all decked out in a new coat of paint for Easter.

Anyone needing some good hired help for cleaning walls contact Bob Harbison. He has finished his spring cleaning and might be inveigled into doing a little more, providing you feed him a couple of steak dinners in return.

Marie Plankar has a secret formula for obtaining a bottle of "Tailspin Cologne."

William Peterson works long hours each night in his garden and his sweet peas are already blooming and his potatoes are almost ready to dig.

Group 4

Seems like Eddie Kluza has been lost in a fog lately. His riders waited a half hour one morning while he drove around some of his favorite side streets in Joliet. Several say wedding bells will be heard soon.

Catherine Kemp receives some of the niceat letters from her fella in the Army.

Kathryn Vlasic is also known as "Curvacious Kathy." Her bowling may not be the only reason for the name.

Lucille "Red" Olson is looking forward to another one of those parties.

Lorraine Barger spent the Easter holidays with her sister and family at Moline.

Friends of Margaret Carter are glad to have her back at work following an absence of several weeks because of illness.

Many wonder where Mary Meaux acquired her quiet efficiency.

Group 61

Al Weinstock and Guy Gimbel are having a big time with their motor scooter. They all agree it is quite an asset to the group.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison celebrated their silver wedding anniversary May 3. Their friends wish them lots of luck.

It is possible that Francis Taylor's car will start one of these mornings without being pushed, and Floyd Barber will be able to proceed home without performing this daily chore.

Not content with having to visit the Hospital periodically with an infected finger, Marion Carter became involved in an automobile accident out of which, fortunately, he emerged in one piece.

Q. Can my wife join the WAACs without my consent?

A. And how!

Q. I'm an alien and would like to know if I can ever rise above the grade of private. I'm waiting for my final citizenship papers.

A. Sure. You can be promoted up to the grade of master sergeant, if you're qualified. After receiving your final citizenship papers you will be eligible for OCS.

Q. Did commissioned Army and Navy officers receive increases under the readjustment pay and allowances act?

A. Yes; but only ensigns and second lieutenants received increases in base pay, and the higher ranking officers increases in living allowances. Ensigns and second lieutenants received an increase from $1,500 to $1,800 annually.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?

VETERAN of the Marine Corps is Carl Puswaskis, now employed in Group 61. This picture was taken aboard ship.

12 Teams Launch Softball Season

What promises to be a most successful activity this summer is the EOP Softball League for men. Twelve teams started practice for the opening of the season this week.

Games will be played every Tuesday and every other Friday during the summer. The schedule for next week follows:

Tuesday, May 11
Army at Group 2.
Fire Guards at Chemical Lab.
Group 61 at Bus Drivers.
Group 1 at Group 70.
Group 3 at Inspectors.
Group 3-A at Guards.

Friday, May 14
Group 2 at Chemical Lab.
Army at Bus Drivers.
Fire Guards at Group 70.
Group 61 at Inspectors.
Group 1 at Guards.
Group 3 at Group 3-A.

Recreation

E. L. WALKUP
Director

Although it isn't safe to talk about the weather, the Victory gardeners who congregate around the Recreation office have that as the most important topic for conversation these days. Many of the gardeners haven't had an opportunity to get their gardens started yet, but there is still plenty of time. Incidentally, another plot is being prepared and as soon as W. B. Manchester gets it plowed there will be a few extra plots available. There are about 300 gardens in the entire area, which should cut down on the number of blue ration tickets required next winter.

Tennis courts have already shown that they will be a popular place this summer. EOP should have an outstanding team for invitation play with such players as Jo Donna, War Bond Department, a Will county champion; Lucille Venzara, Personnel, another Will county champion; H. H. "Red" Bowler, War Department; Clement Eiden, Safety Department; Supt. W. D. Whaley, Group 9, and Mrs. Whaley. The Army is well represented among the players, too, with Maj. K. M. Haber; Maj. G. A. Grant and Lt. C. R. Crandell. Donald "Bud" Kane of the Paint Shop and Frank Green, guards, also are good players.

John Kusinski said the baseball team hasn't had much practice this season, but they expect to play their opening game at Statesville prison May 16. Myrna Faris thought it would be nice to have the game played here. (So do the prisoners.)

Many of the bowlers are asking where "Doc," the popular pin boy is. The answer is that Harold Zenor, better known as "Doc," observed his 18th birthday a few weeks ago and was called to the Army, another star for EOP.

Rosemary Kane, Accounting Department, and Gerry Graham, Timekeeping Department, are riding enthusiasts. Even though the April 26 rainstorm prevented them from riding they went out to the stables and looked the situation over and hoped for fair weather—but soon!

If Lois Martin of the Administration Building can play softball as well as she can play ping pong she'll be signed up without the slightest hesitation.

Margaret Fitzhugh, timekeeper in the Administration Area, is getting her tennis equipment together so that she can take advantage of that aforementioned fair weather.

Those white disc-like pills consumed by Margaret Cavolt, Woman guard, as she bowled, really did wonders! Many have asked what they were.

Lola Harnak, manager of the girls' softball team of Group 1, has a winning look in her eyes when she speaks of her team. Wonder if it could be the enthusiastic support she receives that creates that spirit of optimism. Those gals will be in there to win!

Helen DeLaney and Barbara Greenwood have been appointed co-managers of the softball team from Groups 6 and 7. That team will offer plenty of competition.

Don't forget the "spring dance" Saturday night, May 8. Admission 55 cents.

COOK and baker, first class, is the rating of Sgt. Randolph R. Weise, formerly of the Timekeeping and Inert Storage Departments.

Inspection

LORRAYNE OSTREM
Correspondent

Paul "Crusher" Rusher is now wearing a "grunt and groan" style haircut.

Things which are always amazing in Group 2 include:

Bob Conroy actually working . . .

Jack "Brute" Abraham keeping in condition while on densities . . .

The variety of fedoras, crushers and homburgs sported by Bob Schmitz . . .

Walter "Wally" Houdlett's interest in Bldg. 12 . . .

Sherman Smith's Cadillac eight on an inspector's income . . .

Bob Lehnig clearing the office without opening his mouth . . .

George Bryan drawing a full pay check . . .

Wayne "Poultry" Pegan's lectures in Bldg. 4 on "Increasing Egg Production in War Time" . . .

Lloyd Baughman giving up smoking so he can spend more time in Bldg. 12 . . .

Tom Todd tripping over a box car.

The group's best wishes are extended to John Harter, now in the Will County Sanitorium.

Louis D. Huston is really missed around Group 2. The "General" had been at EOP a year and a half before leaving.

Among those from Group 2 in various branches of the armed forces are Robert Kelly, Carl Schmidt, Harry Miles, Leonard Rosen, Richard Conlon, William Casey, Russell Schmitz, Willard French, John Gill, Walter Moorehead, Jr., and Raymond Herkert.

Dan "Match King" Vicini looks quite rested after his enforced vacation.

Vassar Smith must have a relative on the ration board—he has a bulging "C" book—a new Pontiac sedan—and a new spare tire and wheel.

$116 in Prizes Awarded to 40 Bowling Winners

Second Sweepstakes Ended with Brilliant Scores by Players

Prizes totaling $116 are being distributed to bowlers who participated in the second sweepstakes for men at the Recreation Building. C. Ochs won first prize for high series and J. Vaccaro was high game winner.

There were 40 prize winners, including 20 who were awarded good-fellowship prizes totaling $25. Each winner was limited to one prize.

Winners, scores and prizes follow:

A personality contest is raging between Theresa Seno and Ruth Holsauci, with Joe Keefe as the admiring judge.

Shirley Magosky, Group 8, was absent a week because of eye trouble. Funny things happen—her boy friend was home on furlough at the same time.

The girls of Group 8 are wondering why the shift inspector, Ralph Pratt, is called "Professor."

Janet Bailey, Group 8, believes in conserving tires.

Did you ever see Jim Nolan, Group 7, go into his song and dance? He is strictly "hep." He makes applesauce out of the Big Apple.

Mildred Veach visited her boy friend in West Virginia last week.

Del Rider made his debut in Group 7 last week. He brought four of his inspectors along.

All wish the best of luck to Sylvia Neilsen, who has been with EOP for more than a year and will be missed greatly by Group 7. She is leaving to make her home in San Diego, Calif.

SEABEES of the Navy now claim the loyalty of Eddie Geeding and Clem Lambert (right), former pipefitter and interviewer, respectively

GROUP 1

BEVERLY GARING
Correspondent

Lola Harnach looks as though she hit a jackpot lately. She asked if anyone wished to play softball (hoping to get enough players for a team) and she got enough for three teams. The girls have had two practice sessions already, but there is still time if any late-comers would like to play.

The boys in the component office were at a loss last week as to how they were going to write to their former co-worker, Tom Shay, who is now in the Navy Air Corps. As usual, their office was out of paper, so after some deliberation, John Pate rushed up to the change house and came back with yards and yards of paper. They called it onion skin, but the label on the roll said "Northern Tissue."

Andre Lombardi, quality control, took a long and tiresome trip last week and is still recuperating. The journey went along quite smoothly, but his return trip left him a wreck for several days. (Explanation—Andy rode a bicycle from Building 3 to Building 13 and the wind was against him.)

FRIENDS of Al Twardowski, who worked in Building 13, Group 1, for 14 months, will be glad to learn he is making progress at the Naval Training Station at Farragut, Idaho.

Just because the Group I stork saw himself mentioned in the column, he's trying to out-do this month's baby quota. Mr. and Mrs. John Polincandriotes were blessed by his presence April 14. He brought them a seven and one-half pound son, "Tony."—Bill and Bernice McElroy have a six-pound ten ounce daughter named Bonnie Lee.—Donald Harry Bierman (named Harry after his "Pop" in Building 16) arrived at 4:05 a.m., April 10. Donald weighed six and one-half pounds.

Harry Peterson, Building 3, brought his long-heard-of son Francis Brown Peterson, to visit the Group during his 15-day furlough. Besides having done 17 months' duty in Alaska, Francis was tall, dark, handsome, and looked like Clark Gable in uniform. The girls are still being treated for extended eyeballs and stiff necks.

Dottie "Shorty" McClellan left a couple of weeks ago and came back the envy of every single woman in the Group. Dottie "got her man" and is now Dottie Milne, wife of a sailor.

Bob Kay, well-known component juggler, had a back rub at first aid last week and kept returning for so many repeat performances that Herman Beringer, safety engineer, was forced to release him. Bob's feelings hurt more than his back does now, but he doesn't dare show up at first aid again.

The Group's sympathies go to Marge Larson, Government inspector in Building 10, whose father died recently.—Lorraine Luttrell, Government inspector in Building 16 is convalescing after a major operation. The girls send her their best wishes and hope to see her soon.

Ed Sullivan and Bill "Wild Man" Dwyer, Group 1 timekeepers, left for the Army last week. The Group wishes them the best of luck.

STUDIES at Cornell University were disrupted by Richard T. Egan, son of E. J. Egan, EOP railroad superintendent, when he enlisted in the Army Air Corps. He is stationed at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri.

Hobby Show for Employees Planned

Have you a hobby? Do you work in wood, metal, leather—do you build models, airplanes, sail boats, railroads, match stick houses—are you a collector of antiques, stamps, coins, curios, things from foreign lands—do you do painting, free hand drawing, photography—or work in ceramics?

Athletics keep the wrinkles out of your face, and hobbies keep the wrinkles out of your mind. Many persons have hobbies but never have an opportunity to show them, so the Recreation Department wants to know about your hobby and if you would like to participate in a hobby show. The classifications listed are just a few possibilities. There are many more.

Call the Recreation Department—Line 4109—and tell what you could contribute to such a show.

FORMER explosives operator in Building 12, Group 2, Pvt. Richard Fitzgerald, is now stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Q. Is there any way that I can get a divorce while in the Army?

A. There's isn't any Army regulation to prevent you. However, you may not be able to get away from your station if you have to appear in court.

Q. Will the premiums on my Government life insurance be refunded if I am discharged from the service with or without having incurred a disability therein?

A. There will be no general refunding of premiums regardless of whether injury or disease causing disability is or is not incurred in the service, because while in the Army you have the protection for which the premiums are paid.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

Q. What are the official titles and rates of pay for non-coms in the WAAC?

A. The non-commissioned officers in the WAAC are the first leader, corresponding to a top sergeant, $864 per year; leader, corresponding to a sergeant, $720 per year; and junior leader, corresponding to a corporal, $648 per year.

Timekeeping

NICHOLAS BELLUSO
Correspondent

Robert Waddell, Samuel Brioles, Bill Dwyer and Edwin Sullivan have been inducted into the Army. Edward Hackbarth fulfilled an ambition of several years when his enlistment in the Air Corps was accepted.

Candy and good cigars were the orders of the day when Bob Balma announced that his wife had given birth to a seven-pound son at St. Joseph's Hospital in Joliet.

Plans are being completed for a gala Timekeeping stag party at the Hotel Louis Joliet. A banquet and plenty of entertainment will hold the interest of all.

As part of a conversation on the way to work one morning, Bill Seeley was relating to Louise Ardolino an experience he had with several other boys in the raiding of a grape orchard the autumn before. When Bill finally stopped laughing after recalling the incident, Louise asked him very quietly, "Bill, do you know whose orchard that was?" Life's darkest moment occurred when he found out it was Louise's family orchard and that they had been looking for the culprits for a long time.

Pretty Gerry Graham, the girl who adds to the scenic beauty of the time office, loves to ride horses and next to dancing and writing letters to soldiers, it is one of her favorite hobbies.

Paul Zamkovitz had everyone believing that a person living in Joliet could not be buried in Kankakee. Very few persons are buried alive, he added.

Chuck Swanberg is getting strictly in the groove and cooking on the home burner in order to keep up with the cats in Group 70. In other words, he is taking dancing lessons in Joliet at a buck forty an hour.

Edith Cuno will be waltzing down the aisle with the big moment before long.

LETS GO! U·S·A KEEP 'EM SHOOTING!

Vol. 1, No. 26 | JOLIET, ILLINOIS, MAY 21, 1943 | EVERY OTHER FRIDAY

Col. Byron Rife Active in Army and Industry

New Commandant Here Made Russian Rifles in World War I

Col. Byron Rife, new Commanding Officer at Elwood Ordnance Plant, who succeeds Major Kenneth M. Haber, comes to Elwood with an impressive background, both industrial and military. He has a broad grasp of ordnance problems as seen from his key position in the Office of the Field Director of Ammunition Plants, under Col. T. C. Gerber, Elwood's former Commanding Officer.

Col. Rife, who was born in Dayton, Ohio, spent his early youth in Dayton, and entered Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, graduating in the School of Mechanical Engineering and specializing in the field of industrial management. Later post-graduate work was done at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He received his basic military training at Purdue in the Infantry Cadet Corps and spent two years in the Indiana National Guard, a Field Artillery Unit, while at school.

During his summer vacations, he worked in tobacco warehouses and machine shops. He was a member of Alpha Tau Omega, social fraternity and was elected to membership in the local honorary engineering fraternity, Carzeuran, which later became a national affiliate.

In 1917, at the start of the First World War, he was a Junior Engineer with the New England Westinghouse Company making Russian rifles. He was commissioned in the Army and was assigned for duty at Springfield Arsenal where he was acting Quartermaster in charge of shipments of personnel and material to over 40 cantonments and camps. He also handled shipments overseas. Another of his duties at Springfield Arsenal was Motor Transport Corps Officer and eventually, he became Assistant to the Works Manager.

At the close of 1918 he was transferred to Washington, D.C., where he served for three months on the Claims Board and eight months as Executive Officer to the Assistant Chief of Ordnance, General W. S. Peirce.

At the close of the War, he went to the State of Kansas, there entering the exploration and producing end of the petroleum industry and by 1926, he was in West Texas occupied as a Consultant on problems of petroleum engineering.

From 1930 on, he made his headquarters in San Antonio,

Group 61 Sets Fine Safety Record

By Rollin T. Read, Safety Director

From the day that operations began in January, 1942, up to and through April of 1943 not a lost time accident has been experienced by this group. This is indeed an outstanding record.

But there is a good reason behind all this. They have had something on the ball that no other group has equalled as yet, although some groups are pushing up close behind. What is it that these people have that other groups do not have? In our opinion, it is just that they do not want accidents and are willing to throw a great deal of energy and effort into their meetings, into their daily thinking and daily cooperation so that they do not have accidents.

And now that the group is shutting down for stand-by condition, this shows that the group can not only start up, train a whole set of employees, keep on training new employees as far as replacements have been necessary, carry on through the peak of operations for over a year, even through April of this year, and slow down without a lost time accident to mar the record.

All hats are off to the employees of Group 61 for a demonstration of performance of par excellence.

Operator Loses Fingers in Accident

Avery Emmerson of Group 61 suffered the traumatic amputation of the second and third fingers and part of the thumb of his right hand when they were caught between the blade and door of a graining kettle, May 11.

Since there was no evidence of a mechanical defect of any kind, it is most likely that the unfortunate accident resulted from a momentary lapse of caution in the performance of clearing and closing the kettle door.

Safety education aims at eliminating this type of costly shortcomings.

Thelma Keppen, Bldg. 16-B, Group 3-A, is under treatment in the hospital and will lose a week or more of work as the result of a fall from a table on which she was working as a breakdown operator on bombs. She struck against a bomb rack severely injuring her back and right leg.

The table-top was wet, a condition that is unavoidable under certain circumstances and one that should be the signal for increased caution on the part of those who must work on such a surface. If that caution is relaxed, the results are often serious and painful.

A hot TNT splash caused face and eye burns to Dorothy Beaupre, Group 1 "breakdown" operator.

A face shield would have afforded full protection from that mishap. Even the wearing of goggles would have prevented the most painful and serious part of the injury, the eye burns.

Delbert Bennett, Group 1, dropped a shell on his left foot April 30. An X-ray taken some time later showed a fractured bone and lost time began May 6 when a cast was applied.

Bennett was lifting shells from a conveyor in Bldg. 3 to skids. The accident probably resulted from too much hurry or from the inattention that sometimes comes from a simple, routine operation. It is one of the aims of safety education to guard against such inattention and the mishaps which it causes.

David Peterson, Group 27, sprained his right foot, May 6, and was unable to work for the next few days. He was pulling a truck along a plank runway when the sole of his shoe caught in a hole; before he could free it, the truck had run up on him, pressing his foot between the front wheel and the point where it was caught.

While the cause of the accident was partly in the condition of the runway, there was also a personal element involved. The flaw in the planks was of small dimensions and could have been avoided by alertness on the part of the trucker.

Shell Loading Meeting Here Attracts 24

Procedures, Methods Discussed at 3-Day Conference at EOP

Elwood Ordnance Plant was host May 11, 12 and 13 to the Fourth Shell Loading Sub-Committee Conference attended by representatives from various shell loading plants under the jurisdiction of Col. T. C. Gerber, Field Director of Ammunition Plants, according to Lt. Col. Byron Rife, Commanding Officer.

The primary purpose of this, the fourth of a series of conferences, was to establish a standard practice throughout the entire shell loading industry.

The conference was opened by W. E. Canniff, general manager of the Elwood Ordnance Plant, who extended a hearty welcome to the visiting members. Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, operators of the Elwood Ordnance Plant, spoke briefly at a luncheon expressing hearty accord with the purpose behind the meeting and at the same time made available to the Sub-Committee, the complete facilities of this great loading facility.

The chairman of the conference for Sanderson & Porter was Edward J. Walsh, general superintendent of Shell and Bomb Loading lines. Maj. J. N. Pearre, assisted by Capt. M. C. Sutton and Capt. G. W. Mulder, represented the field director. All arrangements were under the direction of G. R. Kintzel, equipment manager at EOP.

Representatives at the conference included the following: J. D. Williams, Oak Ordnance Plant; C. B. Burnette, Kansas Ordnance Plant; R. C. Harrell, Kansas Ordnance Plant; V. W. Randall, Ravenna Ordnance Plant; H. W. Manley, Ravenna Ordnance Plant; Capt. Geo. M. Cunningham, Savanna Ordnance Plant; A. J. Hunt, Savanna Ordnance Plant; Lt. A. M. Fisher, Wolf Creek Ordnance Plant; J. W. Donahue, Wolf Creek Ordnance Plant; F. A. Keniston, Wolf Creek Ordnance Plant; R. E. Bryan, Green River Ordnance Plant; E. F. Weston, Iowa Ordnance Plant; H. A. Meurick, Kingsbury Ordnance Plant; L. M. Summers, Lone Star Ordnance Plant; E. J. Walsh, Elwood Ordnance Plant; J. Salmon, Elwood Ordnance Plant; P. L. Deylitz, Elwood Ordnance Plant; H. E. Hafele, Elwood Ordnance Plant; A. J. MacLellan, Elwood Ordnance Plant; Capt. J. A. Hardy, Elwood Ordnance Plant; W. F. Douville, Elwood Ordnance Plant; R. L. Nemanich, Elwood Ordnance Plant; S. L. Eisler, Elwood Ordnance Plant; P. R. Smith, Elwood Ordnance Plant.

Two Heads Are Better Than One

When you hoof it on the highway on the right hand side of the road, you put your life in the hands of every driver who's going your way!

That's not fair to them—and it's certainly not safe for you.

You owe it to the driver—and to yourself—to share the job of keeping yourself alive.

How to do it? That's simple!

Walk on the left side of the road, facing the traffic on that side.

Then you see the cars, and the drivers see you. It makes sense.

It makes sense because you have a chance to step aside in case the driver is drunk, is crowded over by other cars, is blinded by the sun, or for some other reason hasn't got his car under control.

It makes sense because at night a driver can see your face quicker than he can see the back of your head.

It makes sense, too, to carry or wear something white—a handkerchief in your hand or tied around your arm.

Two heads are better than one. Put your head and the driver's to work for your safety by walking on the left.

Look and Signal to Be Safe

Bill's been a good driver since the day he bought his Model-T.

But today Bill's more than a good driver. Since men and materials are mighty valuable, Bill's doing everything he can to save both.

Bill knows a crash can mean a lot of things to a lot of people. For one thing, he or some other war worker may be injured or killed. Then, too, cars may be smashed—and both parts and men to fix them are hard to find.

Money for car repairs or hospital and doctor bills can be better used elsewhere. Besides, doctors and hospital staffs are overworked today.

Bill knows carelessness may keep him off the job, which means no payday for him and no production of the stuff needed at the front.

So Bill's a patriotic driver. He obeys the rules and has good reasons for doing so.

There are a lot like Bill, and plenty who aren't.

For example, in 1942, says the National Safety Council, 27,800 persons were killed and 1,000,000 injured in motor vehicle accidents. Millions of tires were damaged. Many thousands of cars were smashed.

Of those killed, the Council explains, 18,500 were workers. Man-days lost from traffic accidents alone were sufficient to build thousands of fighter planes and tanks.

"You check 'em, Sandra . . . and I'll measure the dimension with my look-gauge!"

The Burning Pit
By Scorchy

You probably haven't noticed it yet but there are indications that these new vitamin pills that a good many of our fellow toilers are now taking will force certain revolutionary changes on good old EOP. As I wend my weary way through the loading lines in pursuit of my daily routine, I have noticed recently a certain acceleration of the erstwhile slow-motion of a good many of our more patriotic wage earners. If these pills really begin to have the effect that is promised for them, a little leisurely speculation offers some pseudo amusement with respect to the face-lifting that EOP is in for in the near future.

It is not difficult to envision the day when the cumulative effect of these little capsules will manifest itself in a mad race each morning toward the time clock with a resultant clanging of that bell instead of the more familiar tolling of recent weeks. It is not beyond reasonable conjecture to predict that this newly-acquired vigor may render obsolete and unnecessary such lazy-man's indulgences as conveyor systems, elevators and electric trucks. Our esteemed Wearers - Of - The - Cover - All will personally carry each shell and bomb to its appointed destination in order to utilize that vim, vigor and vitality which will spring from the daily vitamin.

Any possible shortage of locomotives can henceforth be dismissed on the predication that these victims of our new "pellets of pep" will push the freight cars when, where and as needed. We can all look forward to that novel experience of a worker pleading with his superintendent for more work to do in order to lighten the monotony of it all. It is true that the first few such requests will probably give some superintendents heart failure, but no great war is ever won without a few casualties.

All the ideas expressed herein are admittedly a bit fanciful but the basic idea is food for good imagination. There are terrific possibilities in the battle for supremacy of the Culotte over the Coverall, and the tide of this struggle may be turned by our new friend, the vitamin. Take an extra vitamin pill tomorrow and think it through from here.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I saw your item in the last issue of The Bomb-Shell asking for safety razors for our sailor boys. I had two that I wasn't using or won't use and they were doing no good. I'm happy to donate them.

I believe if you'd publish an item such as this one but asking for new tooth brushes, etc., needed in their every day life, you would get quite a few from employees working here.

The price of a tooth brush is so small, also a comb, that I think a lot of people would be only too glad to buy one and send to the address in Joliet or to the person who has the job of sending these to the boys.

I have two brothers in the Army and I know they would appreciate such items if theirs were at the bottom of the ocean.

I'm going to see the editor of the Braidwood Index and see if they will print an item like yours.

We'll help to raise 32,000 razors. And how!

William Hall,
Braidwood, Illinois.

HOW TO BUILD A MODEL AEROPLANE
(a la "Scorchy" with no apologies)
By Scorchfree

While tending to our own affairs and minding our own business, the following valuable information chanced to fall in our lap and realizing the importance of aviation in this crisis of the World's History we felt obliged to present this timely guide to the air minded readers of The Bomb-Shell.

The first step in preparing for the adventure of building a model aeroplane is the simple task of buying a kit which is available at all better 10c, drug, variety and hardware stores. The hardware store is recommended because the "keeper" is one man you should get to know—he can be very helpful as you progress with your undertaking. The kit comes in an envelope complete with the necessary wood, wire, aeroplane cement, wheels, paper, and full and complete directions. The wood slivers (pardone me) panels are all marked exactly as to how they should be cut. On most cuts you even form the sides of two pieces at the same time (what a time saver Oh! Boy) . . . Oh! Yeah? You really should have a separate room in order to concentrate and work without distractions. If you have to take the pieces and sections down and replace them each time you will find your project considerably messed up and the total time required will be at least double. If you build the plane complete in 2 hours time you don't need the extra room providing you send the family, miscellaneous roomers and all callers to attend a double feature movie.

The next step is to procure a cutting tool to carve out the wood panels. Don't get it too dull or you will split the wood. Don't get it too sharp or you will overcut the lines and ruin the adjoining pieces. A pruning scalpel obtainable from your "acquaintance" at the hardware store is the recommended incissor. For best cutting results drink no coffee, liquor or other stimulants for three days before attempting the operation with the scalpel. Steady nerves are essential if you are to make the perfect slice which cuts the side of two pieces in the same operation. Remember you don't get an extra piece of wood with the kit—every cut is a major operation—and this Balsa wood is so soft and delicate. If you make a mistake don't worry about it—buy another complete kit—that's the proper way to buy—always get a complete kit—(there are no replacements anyhow)—so take the short cut and buy another complete kit with full and complete directions.

Now that all the wood parts are cut, we cement them together. This is no trouble at all, if you haven't knocked some of the pieces on the floor while cutting and innocently let them get under foot . . . a sad occurrence . . . especially if your working on a table that is too small but then all tables are too small—so you should select one that will be just a little too small and not a lot too small. Of course, you may have to hold some pieces tightly together by hand for 20 minutes while the cement dries, but then there are only about 1,283 pieces at 20 minutes per cementing. Naturally you are expected to spill or drop a little of the cement — who wants to be neat? And Eureka you have that long sought for varnish remover. But don't let the discovery interrupt your course of assembling the plane. Keep your mind on the job. Refinish the surface of the table later. You get full and complete directions right on the varnish can from your "friend" at the hardware store.

Now that you have carefully cemented the wood parts together you start working with the easier medium of paper for covering the wings and the fuselage. The contours of course will be stream lined omitting the possibility of any straight cuts. You clip around arcs, elipses, spheroids, and other geometrical figures. Get a steady bead on the lines similar to shooting ducks — you get a full and complete set of directions with each shot gun from your "pal" at the hardware store. After you have fitted the paper and glued it to the wings and fuselage you will naturally find a few wrinkles. So you remove these by sprinkling a little water on the paper to shrink it smooth. Of course if you get too much water on you will split the delicate soft Balsa wood and ruin the whole job. So you buy a spray gun which comes with complete and full directions on how to evoke an even spray for all purposes from your "Buddy" at the hardware store.

But now I'll bet you forgot something. Did you attach the tail wheel and the landing wheel structure??? Well, that's too bad—you'll have to cut the paper skin in order to attach these. But you wouldn't want a patched up job. Remember! no replacement parts —anyhow the paper is all stuck to the frame work and can't be removed without tearing it and splitting that soft delicate Balsa wood . . . so you start from the beginning. Lay out a little more money for a new envelope with all the parts and with Complete and full directions. You know you certainly couldn't afford not to protect your investment at this stage.

Our limited endurance does not permit us to give all the lessor hints such as attaching the wings to the fuselage at the official angle, or of trimming the propellor blades so they are counter balanced or of correctly fitting and joining the rudder assembly, and finally on how to bend the brittle wires for making the landing gear and the propellor shaft. The wire, you know, is not replaceable due to steel shortages, priorities, etc. And then there is a matter of that necessary vice . . . anyhow another complete set is always available with full and complete directions from your "creditor" at the hardware store.

If you are confronted with more of the practical problems on how to build a model aeroplane we suggest that you stop in to see—Charlie Harbig of Group 70 Warehouse or stop in at his Joliet Workshop — or as an alternative move see "Scorchy," the man who knows all—or as a last resort reread the complete and full directions which comes with each kit. ——Aw! Well . . . this is for young kids anyhow—you grown up kids should know better than to muddle in the affairs of the modern young generation.

L. J. Kessel Succeeds Cole as Comptroller

L. J. Kessel has been named comptroller of EOP to succeed John J. Cole, whose promotion to assistant general manager was announced in the last issue. Mr. Kessel arrived May 15 to assume his new duties and has taken over the office formerly occupied by Mr. Cole. Mr. Cole's office is now on the second floor of the Administration Building.

Mr. Kessel, who formerly worked here as assistant comptroller, came here from Pine Bluff Arsenal, where he served as comptroller for Sanderson & Porter, builders of the plant there for the Chemical Warfare Service.

Memorial Day to Be Observed Here May 31

Memorial Day will be observed as a holiday at Elwood Ordnance Plant on Monday, May 31, 1943.

Load lines, operating departments and offices will be closed for the day.

All maintenance and repair forces will be kept to an absolute minimum over this holiday week end and only such plant protection forces will work as are needed for the protection and preservation of plant property.

Boys Overseas Want to Know What's Cookin'

Interested to Learn How Those on Home Front Are Supporting

Interest in "what the boys back home are doing for us overseas" was expressed by Pvt. Raymond D. Gaddos, former EOP employee, in a letter from Australia.

"I have been transferred to Australia," said Pvt. Gaddos, "and would like for The Bomb-Shell to be sent to me here. I haven't received an issue since December, but I am hoping they will catch up with me. You don't know how much I miss it and I believe that goes for the rest of the boys who also are on the move."

"Not only am I glad to receive the issues, "wrote C. E. Beverly, formerly of Group 3-A, in a V-mail letter, "but it pleased me to note that you people are doing your utmost to increase production. There have been many improvements in the plant since I enlisted in the Navy. I am certain that the standards at EOP are high. We are doing a good job thus far and are looking forward to a speedy victory."

"As a present day Marco Polo, I open this missile to thou," wrote Lucille Ambrose, EOP's first SPAR and formerly employed in George B. Pumphrey's office, who has developed into one of The Bomb-Shell's most interesting correspondents. Miss Ambrose is now a petty officer, third class, and stationed in Washington.

"Now I'm in Washington, D.C., mingling with all the gold braid," her letter continued. "Am employed . . . or assigned (they say) . . . temporarily in the Operations Department, Small Boats Division. Work directly for Lt. Commander Rhodin (grand person) and indirectly for Capt. Parker. Just a few doors away from Admiral Waesche. Very interesting work.

"Last night we attended the initial Coast Guard broadcast which will be heard each week . . . coast to coast NBC. Admiral Waesche said a few words. All in all—a very interetsing program.

"We work these days from 8 a. m. until 4:30 with a half-hour for lunch. We take our lunch at the Post Office Cafeteria. Lovely food for cheap.

"We arrived at the Pennsylvania Station here about 12:30 p. m. Whom do you think I met? Capt. D. P. Tunstall and Col. T. C. Gerber. It was such a pleasant surprise. Felt great about it!"

"Did you hear of the legislation before the Senate that will permit SPARS to go to Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico? Wonderful, isn't it? Here goes Marco!"

Prior to her assignment in Washington, Yeoman Ambrose attended Oklahoma A. & M. College, Stillwater, Okla., for special training.

Other letters and cards were received from Harriet Sokolinski, WAAC Training Center, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Pvt. Newton R. Hauswirth, Norfolk Army Base, Virginia; Mrs. Jack B. Mayfield, Southside, Tenn., in behalf of her husband, who is stationed in Miami Beach, Fla.; Aviation Cadet Howard E. Gustafson, St. Mary's College, California; Pvt. Daniel H. Stringer, Manchester, Conn.; Pvt. Jim Ventsias, Camp Elliott, San Diego, Calif.; Pvt. John Dubrovich, Jr., who wrote a V-mail letter apparently from somewhere in the Pacific; Pvt. Raymond J. Bartels, Army Air Force, Kingman, Ariz., and Aviation Cadet Eugene Suratt, Gettysburg, Penna.

Q. Am I supposed to salute an officer if I approach him from the rear?

A. Not unless the officer looks at you.

Inert Storage

CHARLES MANN

WILLIAM DENVER

Correspondents

A. P. Balston, superintendent of Inert Storage, has moved into the area with his family, two dogs, and seven cocker spaniel puppies. All hope they enjoy their residence in the EOP community.

Cyrille Grandame was the guest of honor at a party held at the Oasis Inn. Cyrille bid fareweli before leaving for the service. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Owen Ralston with daughter, Margaret Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zarley, Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Lyons, Joseph Birsa, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berro, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cherrie and James Brooks.

Matthew Reay of South Inert and two members of the Inspection Department, Paul Mosteller and Alex Stein, are answering draft board calls for examination.

Herman "Clip" LeRette has a certain technique with the daily visitors to Group 27 . . . maybe it is the bag of candy he buys every morning.

Flood waters gobbled up Jim Brooks and a pair of Fred Ford's hip boots. Fred loaned him the boots to make a trip to the coal house and while returning disappeared . . . how he turned up at the office the next day is the mystery.

Clarence Sluiter and William Hayes finally climbed over the Hospital humps and are now back in the saddle riding high.

Pfc. Donald McCauley surprised all when he spoke the vows of marriage with Margaret Lidstrom of Joliet while home on furlough. The ceremony was performed in the rectory of St. Mary's Church May 10. Later a reception was held in the Colonial Tea Room. His friends at Inert wish him every success.

The name of the Victory garden has been changed to Victory lagoon. Since the tomato plants floated away there is space to float cardboard boats and model aircraft carriers. Landing party demonstrations have been given by John Ney, Leslie Cloyd and Bill Denver with great success. George Newton is wondering if it is too late in the season to put in a little rice.

Wilbur Galbraith was wrong. The only time there is any fish at Inert is when he is here doing his advance work. There are some fine kittens, and Mother Tiger Cat spent a happy Mother's Day in the clockhouse.

Sympathies are extended to Ted Hintz of Group 27 and Albert Bunting because of recent deaths in their families.

A wish for a speedy recovery goes to Urbain Glapion who was hospitalized for an operation.

Pvt. Larry Huster and Pvt. Clarence Rowaldt, formerly of Group 27, wrote to their old friends and expressed their satisfaction with Uncle Sam's treatment.

On the Side

A very humble writer sent in an article under the pen name of "Scorchfree," and it is highly recommended. This piece is no imaginative nor dreamed-up hallucination such as advanced by "Scorchy," that abscess on the neck of page two of each issue of The Bomb-Shell, but is a helpful and instructive article on "How to Build a Model Airplane."

ACTION is exemplified in this service photograph of Sgt. Mike Dubetz, former EOP employee.

George Costello, Jr., assistant superintendent, resigned April 24 to join the Navy Seabees. He enlisted as a first class petty officer and for six weeks will be stationed at Camp Perry, Williamsburg, Va. George was employed here since construction was started and after the construction of the group was completed he was transferred to operations. His adaptability to this work soon found him assigned as assistant superintendent. A farewell party was held in his honor and many useful gifts were presented. All wish him a good fight and a safe return.

Darline Maas received her first phone call in 17 months from 'Frisco and that ain't the only ring she got, either!

Nature certainly designed the perfect inspector in Cecil Barnes. Standing in his stocking feet, he can look right down an upright bomb.

Everett Brooks declared that the card he received from Uncle Sam stamped "4-H" does not pertain to hens, hogs, heifers or horse-shoes.

Arthur Thompson has taken the job as doorman of Bldg. 61 along with his other duties.

The boys of Bldg. 10 wonder how John Semankovich gets his feet out of his zoot suit after wearing his new shoes.

Pert little Dana Ivec has a new nickname since Easter. It's "Bunny."

Roy Castle reports that when Guard Fred Haake was on duty in Bldg. 3, two inspectors were heckling him so much that he finally shouted, "If you guys don't quit it, I'm gonna call an officer!"

The recent rain curled jovial Martha "Topsy" Price's hair-do into so many tiny ringlets it looked like a tightly tasseled top-knot on tetryl-headed "Topsy."

Another suggestion for Hitler's punishment: Force him to listen to the Nitrate Quartette composed of Margaret Ficts, Emma Noel, Adeline Siebert and Mildred Rogers, with Thorwald "Swede" Jacobsen directing.

Leroy Smith, Philip Hester and Morton Grierson left for the armed forces.

After receiving a phone call from Chicago and invoking the aid of George Ricketts and other kindly members of his office, Patsy Jo Hawkins of the superintendent's office was able to get to Joliet in time to spend a few hours visiting with her Air Force instructor brother who was on his way to Florida.

Dean Harrison, assistant superintendent, has decided to get a rowboat in order to hoe his potatoes since the rains came.

When petite Ethel Lawrence was asked how come the cut lip, she replied, "You keep wondering."

A SPIRITED WELCOME was extended to Lt. Col. Byron Rife, new EOP commanding officer, by Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, at the entrance to the Administration Building.

TRACTOR AND DISC HARROW are used by one of the farmers who leased EOP acreage for cultivation this year. As in other sections, their efforts have been hampered severely by the consistent rainfall.

In all the rain of Monday, May 10, Ray "Mother" Banker's Packard decided not to go. The result was that some kind soul pushed her all the way to Wilmington. But there isn't anything that can daunt her spirits now as her husband is well on the road to recovery and is going to be homebound soon.

All are mighty proud of little "Champion" Mary Strobel. She wears a cute little gadget that has a miniature bowling ball and golf ball attached. She should be a match for anyone with whom she competes.

Freddie Mastin was recently honored at a wedding by the groom presenting him with the top tier of a nine-tier wedding cake. It's odd, but his department didn't see any of it.

Betti Welch is quite thrilled with having danced to Tommy Dorsey's music. This time she honored a lad from her old home town of Morris. Don Butts of the War Department danced attendance on her the night of the Spring Frolic.

All were surprised and pleased with the visit of Lt. R. O. Nelson, a former progress clerk at Group 1. In six short months he worked himself up to a second lieutenancy. Word was received from Sgt. David Gianuzzi in India. He was the former chief progress clerk at Group 1.

Something the movie scouts are missing is the jig Phyllis Clair puts on frequently — especially when she mislays her badge from one gate to another.

This rain really does things to a girl's curls, but Frances Mores was having more trouble with the pleats in her skirt than her curls. Many wondered why she sat at her desk most of May 11—the truth is now out—no pleats.

All were glad to see Harry Brown come in the other morning with his curly locks shorn. Several persons were thinking seriously of braiding it for him.

Lucille Brown and Myrtle Cooper seem to have money to throw around. It seems the trouble is one owes the other money and she won't accept it. Who owes who and for what can't be determined.

The department was saddened by the departing of one of the old gang, Marge Gall. Her ready smile will be missed and all wish her the best of luck in her new job.

June Kuglich has taken a two-week leave to visit her husband who is stationed on the West Coast.

"Little Gilbert and Sullivan" Dorothy Bollig came in with a two-way surprise. For one she was wearing lipstick, seldom does Dorothy do this, and then she had her hair fixed like a Miss Veronica without the Lake.

Eveline Mikuce has resumed her work after being on the sick list for a few days.

J. P. Filips asked Rowena Roberts to come to his desk, but she hesitated a few minutes. It wasn't known why until she reached to the floor to find her shoe.

If you ever want Eleanor Goss to show her French, just ask her to tie that kerchief of her's around her ankle.

Through the rainy season Elva Thomas dislayed a very colorful umbrella which could be borrowed on your word and honor to return it.

Helen Hausser has been waiting for her husband's return on a brief furlough, the first he has had since entering the service.

Little Mike Murphy put in his appearance May 10. The proud papa, Jim Murphy, property division, brought forth the usual candy and cigars. Congratulations go to Jim from everyone.

It has been rumored that Jake Debri has a new heart throb in the Administration Building—may be a picture show engagement is forthcoming soon.

George Sangmeister was a speaker at a flag raising ceremony at Lincoln Estates May 9.

Tom "Pants" Nugent has sent cards to the gang. He is back home at Groveton, N. H., for a short vacation. Before receiving these cards, Pete Conroy and Frank Weston thought Tom boarded the wrong train.

Fred Legris has been showing Clayton Craig around Kankakee. Oh yes, their wives accompanied them.

Everyone was greatly pleased to hear from Dick Court who is now stationed in South Brooklyn, N. Y. Dick reports that they have had a few WAVES in their division for a while, but that they are gone now.

James Thomson, William Custer, Douglas Wilkins and John D. Hayes are the new inventory clerks.

Suggested theme song for the Progress Clerks at Group 2 is "Don't Get Around Much Any More." There are a number of sayings that each clerk is always giving out: Johnny Williamson with "Precisely" when something is correct; Paul Somerville with "Oh! Boy!" when something exciting happens, and Cliff Fisher with "Golly" in the most harmonizing manner.

Everyone knows when Orville Rasmussen is around the assembly line, for his greeting "Hi ya, Doc!" is familiar there.

Emergency Calls

To report a fire.....Dial 17
To call police.....Dial 2229
To call ambulance
(emergency only)..Dial 4262

Report the nature of the emergency. Be prepared to answer all questions a doctor may ask. He has good reasons for asking these—in order that he may come prepared with the necessary equipment.

Dorothy Touvolle, Payroll, was married April 24 to Pfc. John Mulligan, who is stationed in Florida. Mrs. John Kratchovil of Braidwood gave a shower for her April 11.

Rosemary Kane and June Schick are surely on the upgrade, according to their fancy hair-dos.

C. Harold Taylor of the New York office of Sanderson & Porter, formerly executive secretary here, was a visitor for a week on official business.

Signs of spring: Clarence Malmsten with his sleeves rolled up . . . new "coke" machines in the hall . . . wild crabapple blossoms (ask W. B. Manchester the scientific name for them) . . . a wide variety of colors in tulips . . . housemoving (R. T. Read) . . . office moving (John J. Cole) . . . talk of vacations.

Ann Baird has been transferred to the Stock Room. Ray Marquardt will soon be leaving for the Army—Uncle Sam has told him so.

Geraldine Almon has been transferred to the comptroller's office as secretary.

Cpl. Ray McGuire of Camp Brady, Michigan, was a visitor last week. He has put on weight and is in the pink of condition.

Eugene "Red" Bennington, formerly of the Stock Room, but now in the Army, is the proud father of a little stranger, named Mary Louise, born last month.

Veranice Quade, after leaving here, went to Camp Shelby, Mississippi, to see her heart throb before she returned to her home in Spring Valley, Minn.

R. L. Hamill, Sanderson & Porter partner, was a visitor here last week.

Anyone who sees June Kachler in the hall when she wears that certain dress does not need to ask her name. Dozens of little "me's" are printed all over it.

Talk of glamor plus—did you see that certain sailor in the Administration Building May 12? He was none other than Jack Comerford, formerly of Payroll, on a furlough from Great Lakes. Jack says he is subject to schooling in officer's training. He is a lad who will go far. Many remember his patience in dieting, but he is in grand form now.

The Bond Department spread its wings the other day and moved across the hall to larger quarters.

A censored letter came from Jack Knutson somewhere in the Pacific. Like always, this former chauffeur now in the Marines, was honest and not one word had to be scratched. He wants to know why the boys in the Motor Pool don't do some writing. Jack doesn't know yet that that place is overrun with femmes.

R. P. Piper has returned to work at the Plant and is located in the office of G. B. Pumphrey. He replaces Bruce Elliott who left for Michigan.

Leo Gaffey of the Purchasing Deartment is on the sick list.

Annamarie Kinney, Auditing, underwent an operation in St. Joseph's Hosital. Best wishes are sent to this little miss and an early return is hoped. During her absence Irene Millinger of John Platz's office is taking her place.

Max Wolfson is the happiest man in the Administration Building. He finally got a house in Wilmington and moved from Chicago. He said he can catch up on some postponed sleep now.

Some of the girls in Purchasing received letters from Emalie Mueller Voegtle of Kankakee. Em will always be known as the "little bug" and is surely missed.

George Becker, Bond Department, has been appointed representative on the Employees Activities Committee to replace Mr. Bennington.

Being an ardent bowler and owning bowling shoes proved to be an asset to one little girl in the Administration Building April 11. It seems that she lost her balance while enroute from the Recreation Building and one of her slippers stayed in the mud. What did she do about the muddy slipper? She wore her bowling shoes the rest of the afternoon in the office while said slipper had a chance to dry. Shirley Grassle really combined work and sport.

Ray Shepley, that tall, handsome and strong former Administration timekeeper now in the Army, came from Camp Roberts, California, April 10 and 11. Ray is a 1-A corporal in Uncle Sam's service, and he will always be A-1 with us.

Edward S. Washburn, Engineering, that enthusiast for Victory gardens, is wondering whether the rains will stop long enough in August so he can rent a boat to gather his crop.

Ray Wengierski, Stores and Supplies, better known as "Windy," appears to be adding to his "V Man" physique. His swivel hips of football days show signs of "swivel chair." "Windy" is pouring on the coal.

Softball will start May 24 at 6 p.m. at Federal Trailer Camp, Wilmington, for all men in Wilmington. A good turnout will be more than welcome.

GRADUATED from the Navy's only school for Primary Flight Instruction at New Orleans, Ensign John F. Watson, former Group 1 foreman, has been sent to the Naval Air Station near Memphis, Tenn. Ensign Watson received his wings of gold as a pilot and his commission at Corpus Christi, Tex.

The Garden Club is very grateful to William Denver for making a reservoir in which to store the excessive rain which fell May 10 and 11. We can irrigate all summer with the amount he has in reserve.

A farewell party was given May 8 in honor of Cyrille Grandame. Group 62-N, prior to his induction in the Army. According to reports, a good time was had by all who attended.

Robert Heuser and Peter Klein are the two new members welcomed to the staff.

Leslie Cloyd, Group 62-N, was a guest at the recent wedding of Pvt. Donald McCaughly May 10.

Walter Britton, Group 62-S, is paying off his bet with Irvin Ramsay in installments. Those pound boxes of Fannie May candies will be missed.

Jack Heavens, former Group 62-S employee, writes that he wished he could have had some of the present Florida heat in the warehouses last winter.

Alex Stein, Group 62-S, wishes that the passing motorist would have a little more regards for his car when it is parked at the curb. It is most annoying to have a whole corner of one's car caved in.

The inspectors of Group 9 are wondering why Mary Brown has been so happy since she returned from California.

Betty Meents, Group 9, is rather blue since Wayne Fight went to the Army.

Many wonder why Gaylen Ford, Group 9, has been singing lullabies.

Anita DuPuis, Group 9, is sporting several new hairdo's. The outstanding one is two long braids held in place with orange sticks.

Employees of the Inspection Department extend their sympathy to the family of Theodore Hintz, whose mother died recently.

The Fuze and Booster party proved that Willard Vail, Group 6, is trying his best to be a second Fred Astaire.

Congratulations are in order for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marlette, who are the proud parents of an 8-pound daughter.

Del Rider, Group 7, plays soldier boy every Tuesday night at the Armory in Joliet. He is in the newly-recruited militia, and from inner reports he is as cute as a button in his uniform.

Leona Brault received a car radio from her better half for Mother's Day.

Katherine Felletti, Group 7, left to join her new soldier husband in sunny California.

Dorothy Kinder has voted the "Marine Hymn" as the No. 1 song on her hit parade.

Roger Anderson, Group 7, is the one guy who is "flying high" with both feet on the ground.

STATIONED now at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, Cpl. Stuart Marlette is a former component clerk in Group 2.

The Material Warehouse employees extend their deepest sympathy to Material Checker George Morris, stationed in the South Inert Group, whose mother died May 6 at her home in Evanston, Ill.

James Eib, material checker at the Hub, became the proud father of twin daughters last week and, of course, cigars were the order of the day. His fellow workers congratulated him and wish the father, mother and the twins health, wealth and happiness.

Harriett Guard, daughter of Material Checker Herman J. Guard, was married to Pvt. Gordon James Osmondson of Morris, Ill., May 9, in Chicago. Pvt. Osmondson is stationed at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Philip R. Park will never wear a hat with a large brim again. He cleaned the one he has one day and left it out side of the Trailer Camp at Wilmington to dry and when he came back to get it he found a robin's nest in it.

Now that Spring is here, the old water dog, Frederick Doubeck, has challenged William Allison, Chester Abell and Otto Heap of Group 27 to a swimming contest to be held any time they are ready, in any cornfield where the water is deep enough to hold the event. Ride your dough on Doubeck, he's a sure-fire winner.

Material Checker Alexander Kravitz took an excursion trip across Lake Michigan last summer. About half way across a storm arose, and when one of the passengers told Al the boat was sinking, he tried to sell a watch, worth $30, for $1.98. Who said Al's not a business man.

EASTER suit is the description sent in by the contributor of this costume picture of Joe Alberts of Group 2.

Peter P. Lombardi, now of the Merchant Marine, but formerly of the Group 1 power-house, paid his old haunts a visit and the boys didn't even recognize him. Pete used to have so much grease on his face that Bill Zerhoot, his foreman, couldn't find him unless Pete showed the whites of eyes. It is rumored that Pete finally identified himself by showing them the big bump on his head invariably hit when he ambled along the boiler cat-walk. All jargon aside—Pete looked like a million, and he has the best wishes of all his friends.

If George Gibson rushed right out and bit a dog (and he's usually hungry enough to do just that) he could never make the headlines as much as Bernice Skriner, Bldg. 10, who, not only has a "knack for nosing out newsy names" but has more tricks up her sleeve than Eleanor Roosevelt. According to the latest report, Bernice's physician tried to charge her double for her "three-day" measles, 'cause it took two cases of measles to cover her generosity of expanse (a translation will follow in the next issue—by that time Bernice will have cooled of).

The first liar never has a chance—so the old saying goes—so when the usual prevarications start in the superintendent's office every morning immediately upon the entrance of the early-risers, Robert Kelly, superintendent of the graveyard shift, waits until last to brag about his Victory garden and says: "Well, boys, come on over and dig yourself a couple of potatoes. They'll last you at least ten days, but you may need a crane to get 'em up. It's been several days since I planted 'em."

Worth mentioning in Group 1 is the newly instigated "labor management committee" meeting once a week. The committee is composed of one man and one girl from every building.

Jack Burdette, component man and manager of the men's soft and hardball teams, has been heartbroken since Easter because he hasn't been able to wear his new bonnet. Jack figures that the weather may allow him to wear it long about next Easter.

Congratulations are sent to Carl Sterlin who celebrated Mother's Day in a big way . . . no, he was not a mother—just a grandpa to a seven-pound 12-ounce girl.

Ed Kein never stops at Bldg. 15 on his rounds any more. He stopped last week and someone cut his favorite tie off just below his Adam's apple. Ed feels that was close enough and he doesn't want the blade to get any closer.

Jack Reid, former clerk in Supt. J. E. Salmon's office, wrote that he is now in Army Ordnance at Camp Maxey, Texas, and all he does is fire guns. All of Jack's friends will be interested to know that he is now in seventh heaven because all he does riding to and from work is to roll down the car window, point both fingers at every crow that passes and yell "bang! bang!"

Helen Boula, formerly secretary to Capt. A. G. Resch, has transferred to the offices of the Department of Agriculture in the Post Office building in Chicago.

Stanley Eisler is quite an amateur photographer. He specializes in technicolor pictures.

Bernice Shroba has experienced a few "bumps" on the road to romance recently.

One of the puzzles is why so many girls enjoy eating at the Mess Hall with William Van Houten?

The Government Inspection force was well represented at the Spring Frolic given by the War Department. From all reports a good time was had by all.

Helen Biernat of Group 7 recently received an orchid from an ardent admirer, which made her very happy indeed.

Evan Lewis of Group 3-A and Basil Steinhoff of Group 2 were observed having a rarin' good time at the War Department Spring Frolic.

Congratulations are in order for Bernice Ksiazak who is traveling to California soon to become Mrs. Leo Biernat.

Now that all traces of laryngitis have left Palma Weston she is going in for some social entertaining.

If upon meeting and talking with Catherine Fitzmaurice recently you noticed a lack of interest, don't feel too badly. She has been "completely out of this world" since receiving a letter from Alaska.

A speedy recovery is wished for Virginia Martin recently confined to the Hospital here.

Group 1 welcomes back Harvey Barrett, Arden Allgaier, Chalmers Wooley, Howard Fischer, David Jones, Paul Talbott, August Ash and newlywed Roald Evenson.

It is rumored that Kermitt Long is taking up shorthand so that he can catch up on the inter-office correspondence between Gloria Annunzi and Jeanne Steffen.

Many wonder . . . if Ann Bolek, Frances Rutkiewicz and Jean Erickson had a good time one week end recently . . . if anyone can beat the tire changing record of six minutes made by Mr. Long, Ed Vaughan and Russel Cliné . . . who the two "lovelies" were that Stan Maresh escorted in the Easter parade . . . why Betty Smith isn't tired when she comes to work after a "jam session" . . . if Nellie Lemke had a good time while visiting her old "stomping grounds" in Rockford . . . how Emil Bruni got his lady-fair home after losing the keys of his car.

Lottie Maloney's favorite tune has suddenly become "My Blue Heaven."

Ann "Junior Miss" Chorak is rounding out her adolescent years by having the measles and cutting a wisdom tooth.

Group 5 has added to its personnel Dorothy Magolan, Sophie Mixner, Gertrude Beland, Nellie Hazzard and Marcella Morton. All were formerly inspectors in Group 9.

Group 8

It was a happy surprise to Margaret Kertes when she received her first $100 War Bond recently.

Best wishes go to Helen Ballack who left recently to become the bride of Edward Rozich at Virginia.

The "welcome mat" was put out for Alena Reimers who was transferred from Group 9 recently.

Group 4

John Habes, line inspector, underwent an operation and is reported doing fine. His co-workers hope that he will soon be back because "it just isn't the same without Johnny."

Kathryn Vlasic, Matilda DelRose and Catherine Kemp were recently transferred to Group 5, and Elizabeth Heim and Arah Lovel to Group 9.

Mildred "Millie" Stutz soon will give up her boy friend to the armed forces.

Group 3-A

Congratulations and best wishes go to two brides: Mildred Jean Ashley is now the wife of Sgt. Michael Boris, and Vera Peck now answers to the name of Mrs. Michael Johnston.

Florence Farley is on the sick list and her friends hope that she will soon be well enough to return to work.

Things people notice — Irene Giles, Bldg. 3, looking very nice in blue . . . Mary Taylor, women's supervisor, asking the boys for a long-shot at the races . . . John Pate component man, in his new tan hat. . . . Andy Lombardi's new sport coat . . . Walt Wilcox, component man, taking vitamin tablets. . . . June Gehris and Dorothy Parks wearing bow ties.

Timekeeping

Herbert Drummond, who has been holding down the Group 64 spot for a year and a half, and Lloyd Decker, timekeeper at Group 1, have been inducted into the Army.

Harry Knarr and Ray Shepley took advantage of their furloughs to pay a visit to friends in the Time Department.

Congratulations are in order for Lawrence Ressler who became a lieutenant recently in the bombardier division of the Army Air Corps.

Frank Skole, night timekeeper at Group 70, has two sons and a grandson in the service. Pfc. Cyril Skole has been in since March, 1941, and is stationed at Fort Dix, New York. Cpl. Mike Skole has been in since August, 1942, and is stationed at Camp Shelby, Mississippi. Grandson, Wayne Skole Fisher, enlisted in October, 1942, at the age of 17½ years, in the Parachute Troops and was assigned to Camp Taccoa, Georgia.

Sympathies of all in the Time Department are extended to Angleine Gunnerson, whose mother died recently.

Coincidences develop even at EOP. Gladys Schofield, charming young timekeeper at Group 70, and Harry Carney, supervisor of lumber, discovered, after working in adjoining offices for several weeks, they were related to each other.

Joyce Enger of Personnel worked in the main time office the last three weeks helping to compile seniority records. All enjoyed her company during her brief stay.

Marcella Corbett, keeper of the files, flew to Washington to visit her husband who is stationed there.

"Yes, dear, I have to go. It's a stag with the boss." With that and similar alibis, 30 fellows managed to get to the stag party at the Hotel Louis, Joliet, April 6. A banquet was served after which an old fashioned game of marbles, Rochester style, was played.

Amusing musings. Cliff Northrup finally worked for several days during Miss Gunnerson's absence. Dwight Reitz would like to obtain a pair of red silk pajamas with flowers on them. In view of meat rationing, Bernard McShane is finding it difficult to spade his Victory garden as those delicious worms are a temptation. Emily Kexel raids the flower gardens around Richards Farm. The Time Department now knows why T. V. Brennan likes stepladders. Eva Sweda is sporting another handsome guy. John A'Hearn, commenting on one of radio's favorite opera singers, said, "Don't turn her off. Wait till we find out what she is selling." While the boys use the boss as their alibi, what does the boss use? Nick Eartly is still "snowbirding" at nights. Eddy Swanson is learning how to drive a car. Why doesn't Franklin Guest change the address on his time card? Who is the new flame in Bob Griffin's life? What causes those shadows under Bernie Smego's eyes? At the stag Milton Treitel's absence was conspicuously noted. John O'Connell was showing Bill Seeley, original hep cat, how to cut a rug "New Yawk" style. Leonard Bottomly and Ray Bryant were keeping time together. Arch LaBorence was displaying his versatility. Turner Albright was playing a terrific piano accompanied by Bill Prindle on Larry Prodehl's cornet. Party aftermath—Ira Combs and a flat tire at 3:30 a.m. and all alone.

FIRST girl from EOP to enlist in the marines is Shirley Wessells, who has been with the Production Planning Department since last October. Her home is Gridley, Ill.

CONGRATULATIONS ARE EXTENDED to Howard Gueller (right), newly appointed acting assistant superintendent of Group 3-A, by Asst. Supt. Thomas Patton (left) and Safety Engineer Jimmy Hart. Mr. Gueller's splendid safety record was largely responsible for his promotion.

Guards

GENE RYAN

Sgt. John Dolan, capable and efficient guardian of Group 3, has been called to the service of his country. Dolan's call to the colors gives his family 100 per cent representation, as he has three brothers already serving their country. Sgt. Dolan will be missed very much by the department, as his work has been very good, but all are glad that his talents will be employed in the defense of our country.

Lt. Owen McCarthy is eagerly awaiting the golf season and the financial rewards he will gather on the greens by the courtesy of Capt. Walter Bayer. Capt. Bayer smiled at this challenge as he has a surprise for his lieutenant. The only tip he will give is that the new "balata" ball is rather dead.

Any guard concerned about shoe rationing might contact Ronald Jordan, as it is understood that he teaches the fine art of standing on your head. Have you noticed his stiff neck?

Rudolph "Rudy" Sandine is in the market for any and all information pertaining to the historical and geographical aspects of Chicago. So anxious is this self-styled expert to obtain new data concerning the product of Big Bill the builder's art that he will gladly pay up to and including $1 a lesson. He has already taken two lessons and it is suggested, after about three more lessons, he be nominated as guest expert on "Information, Please."

It is rumored, and this comes from a reliable source, that the fox which used to be seen around the Central Fire Station disappeared around the time meat rationing started. Shortly after its disappearance, "roast pig" appeared at a feast given in the vicinity of Group 25. Could be!

Received word, no name signed, that "Clem," the guard at the front gate, is a very serious looking gentleman lately. This must refer to Herschel Clemons.

E. O. Huey, superintendent of Plant Protection, Chief M. C. Baughman and Chief Roy W. Mortenson toured various plants in the middle west during the past week. From all reports so far, EOP is still tops, and they said that although the trip was well worth while, they were glad to return to the best plant in the middle west.

This is the proper time to make an explanation of a term used at the Guard-house, "High-Explosive Lieutenants." This term is used in designating the lieutenants who have charge of the High Explosives groups, and for no other reason. Now, Lt. Clarence White, Lt. William Krueger and Lt. Joseph Trecker, who come under this classification, can rest assured the kidding will stop.

With the Women

Mayona Nelson was the guest of her sister-in-law in Geneva, Ill., last week.

Sgt. Billie Taff has returned to work after a brief illness. All are happy to have her back. It is always nice to come into the office and hear her drawling "Hi Sugar."

"General" Villa Eggleston spent Mother's day in Dwight with her mother, Mrs. Charles Gorr.

Verla Chism Fisher will spend a week-end with her husband in Tennessee.

Margie "Canary" Bryant sang at the Good-fellowship meeting May 13. Her associates are proud of the two performances she gave during the War bond drive over station WCLS and her numbers at the dance in the Recreation Building May 8.

Lt. EveAnna Castle has been having rent trouble recently. This does not refer to landlord difficulty, but to a tear in her uniform skirt. EveAnna is now looking for the "perfect tailor" to do the repair job.

CARPENTERS BY SCORES responded to the invitation to assemble outside the Carpenter Shop for this group photograph. Other groups are shown on page 7.

Those bugles are blowing again. Wilbur Monk went up again for his Army physical examination May 13. Walter Panian completed his draft board physical.

Many wish Len "Governor" Small would learn to play pinochle so he doesn't get set whenever he bids more than 250.

Why Fire Engines Are Red!

One of the wise men of the department finally brought in the answer to that age-old mystery, "Why are fire engines always red?" Here's the way it goes: "Fire engines have four wheels and eight men. Four and eight are 12. Twelve inches make a foot. A foot is a ruler. Queen Elizabeth was a ruler. The Queen Elizabeth is the largest ship that sails the seven seas. Seas have fish. Fish have fins. The Finns fight the Russians. The Russians are red. Fire engines are always rushin'. Therefore, fire engines are always red."

Some wonder if there is a "Ferdinand the Bull" among the fire inspectors whom Clyde Townsend tried to pacify with a posy.

The artistic talent of George Zelke is well known at EOP. He could be another "Petty" if he confined his drawings more to fact than fancy or desire.

Fire Inspector Tom Billadeau believes allied victory in Tunisia came about because of his impending induction into the Army. He said his notice for physical examination was whispered along the Axis front and so demoralized the troops that victory was simple.

Food rationing has no hardships for George Collins. When lunch time comes, he spies an unsuspecting human "lamb" ready to be "shorn" of his lunch, and engages him in conversation thusly: "Hello, there! I see you're going to eat. . . . Got a good tip today. . . . Yep, a hot one. . . . Nice sandwiches. . . . Will I have one? . . . Sure . . . you say cheese? . . . Well, that's O. K. . . . Nice ham sandwich you got there. Oh, that tip . . . yeah . . . sure. It's a dandy; can't miss . . . Yeah. Oh, you don't like ham. Then I'll take the ham and you can have the cheese. Now this horse. Bet him on the nose in the Derby. He's fast, runs like a deer. . . . The apple's wormy? Don't throw it away; I'll take it. . . . You say your lunch bag's empty? Well, I got to get along. Oh! the horse? It's Dave Pie . . . sure winner."

Frank Scoma has been on top of the world ever since he bet on the right candidate for mayor of Joliet. Until now nobody gave much thought to his skill as a picker of winners.

A late report came in that Ralph Ruddy soon will be in some branch of the armed forces. Right now his physical condition is 1-A.

Frank Rutkowski continues to deny persistent rumors that the Steger Fire Department was reduced to a pile of ashes. Some of his friends (both of them) suggest that he admit the whole thing and take up a collection for a new department.

Anyone desiring frostproof tomato plants contact Lawrence Molck. He'll furnish rubber coats along with them.

Helen Gahagen is wearing a 14 carat smile these days. This matches perfectly the recently received "rock" she is sporting.

Frankie Nolan's take-off of a restaurant owner is highly descriptive, touching and entertaining.

Mike Olson now realizes that the guy who broke out with "Figures don't lie" probably never had to figure out his income tax returns with only the aid of a CPA.

The beautiful new waves in Joe Drazy's tresses will appear rather small compared with the ones his wife is going to place in his spinal column when she comes home and finds out what that hair dresser did.

A phone call from Lola Early and a trip to the Administration Building by Stu Moloney was recently topped off by E. O. Huey's classic query, "Does anyone in the house have a camera?" "Bejabbers, I hope not," said Stu (his face turning a beautiful 'hot pink' as he picked up the three shopping bags). "But I'll tell you, Mr. Huey," he added, "I never had this trouble with Fred Habing."

The calendar may indicate that spring has been in the air for the last few weeks and summer is only a month away, but the weather man has been a trifle stubborn this season in his age-old argument with that piece of numbered paper. Umbrellas, coats and even galoshes have been observed in the raiment being worn into the building. However, George F. Bent, is still a firm believer in Richard's Almanac and, to prove his point, brought a huge bouquet of violets last week. There weren't just a few as you would find nestled in a hidden corner, but a large bunch that led spectators to believe that he had discovered a large bed. Wherever they were growing, they made a beautiful bouquet and attractive hair ornaments for the girls in the building

Carmen Oldani went off in a dither to find that spring that she's been missing in the north and also to visit her husband, Sgt. James Oldani at Fort Pearce, near Tampa, Fla. Dreaming rather idly of visiting him on her vacation, Carmen received a telegram Wednesday night, called to find out about trains Thursday and was aboard a streamliner early Friday morning. Someone suggested she be given a medal as the "quickest vacation planner" or the "packingest girl," but the consensus of opinion remains that her return should be awaited, so she can defend herself.

A great injustice has been committed. Every time Darwin Gale Boitnott's name has been in this column, the middle name has been spelled with a "d," make it Dale. Effusive apologies are being composed, but the printed word will have to be sufficient amends for the present with the promise that in the future all references to him will be spelled as "Gale."

Rita Scahill Cooney burst into the building to surprise all her old friends here. Rita has been ill for quite a few weeks, and resigned as her doctor gave orders she should not work. Before her visit was over, she was sitting down before a typewriter helping make out transfer slips as one of the girls was at home for the day. Acting as chauffeur and guest of honor was her husband, Lt. Kenneth Cooney, at home on furlough after receiving his commission at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md. Rita will accompany him part way on his return trip and plans to join him there in the near future.

CLERK in the Carpenter Shop, shown here, is Robert Enger.

The moot question under consideration in the building is how J. Thomas Haig could have located three alarm clocks after a long search and still give the excuse that he overslept when he was late one morning. Perhaps an explanation should be forthcoming. Tom has rented an apartment as he is returning to North Dakota to be married this month. He and a boy friend have moved into it and they wound the clock and the alarm but overlooked the button which turns on the alarm. Now, is there anything wrong with that clock? Tom is inclined to believe that there should be some sort of an automatic alarm after the clock is wound.

As Evelyn Melby is in the office right beside the time clock, she decided to try an experiment. Hurriedly snatching one of Loren Ross's cigars, she thrust it into her mouth and leaned back in her chair as if she were smoking it. As the Personnel "gang" filed past the door after clocking out, some of them smiled a casual "Good night" and continued their way out of the building—for a second. Their expressions as they jerked themselves back for a better look ran the gamut of surprise and stupefaction. One of the unusual reactions was that of Irvin L. "Jack" Moore when he strode into the door with a full load of photographic equipment. He was way beyond the office door before the significance of what he had glimpsed penetrated fully. He paused with one foot in the air and backed up juggling cameras to satisfy himself that he wasn't dreaming. "Evie's" mother immediately inquired, "You don't think they thought you were really smoking that vile thing?"

Kathryn Smith is gaining fame as the knocking girl. Running to catch her bus one morning, she saw it pulling away from the curb so she quickened her gait and pattered along beside the moving bus knocking at the door. P. S It stopped for her.

With the delay in the spring weather has come sickness which has been evidenced throughout the building as almost every department has had someone ill. All back at work after a few days in bed are Byron Mills, Helen DeLach, Evelyn Voitik and Cora Adelman.

Henry Bale makes a practice of being methodical and meticulous and always carries his raincoat when he thinks there is any likelihood that it might rain. When the recent three days of intermittent rainfall began, Henry had his raincoat all right, but it was in the car and he was in the building. You can use your own imagination about the teasing that followed.

For weeks Marge Bittles has been dreaming about the day when she would have her hair cut off and a new permanent. Even though she warned everyone two or three days before her appointment, no one was prepared for the change. Marge sat down in the chair with her hair hanging below her shoulders and told the operator the she wanted it cut short. Then she dozed off. When she awakened, her hair was no longer than three inches and shorter in the back. After the first shock wore off, the crowd around her agreed that it was becoming.

Don't let anyone tell you that you must wait until you get to heaven to receive your reward for doing kind and thoughtful things while you're here on earth. Helen McGinnis has been writing to a soldier whom she knew casually in civilian life all the time that he has been on a lonely little island in the Pacific. While he was on furlough in Honolulu, he sent her a yellow silk Hawaiian blouse of which all the girls are envious. The gift came as a complete surprise and it fit exactly.

Don't let Maurice Evans know the secret has been revealed, but he's lost the knack of chewing tobacco, according to witnesses. He's been whispering to everyone that it was some fish that didn't agree with him, but others hint broadly that it was the tobacco that George S. "Colonel" Blaydes gave him to chew that gave him that awful feeling. Mr. Evans hasn't smoked or chewed tobacco for several years, so it may have been the combination of the two. It was the very next morning that he ran out of gas on the way to work; all his riders were late to work, and he got wet in the rain.

In case you sample some of the delicious baked things that the girls in the department can whip up now, there ought to be a warning posted about the first time they baked. Just for two examples, take the cases of Margaret "Dolly" Lundquist and Lorraine Nichols. The first time Dolly made a cake, her family spread butter and jelly on it just as if it were bread. Lorraine's experience was just as depressing. She was making oatmeal cookies a long time ago and decided that if two teaspoons of baking powder would make them light, then three teaspoonfuls ought to make them rise better. She followed that misleading thought and felt so badly when they didn't taste good that her grandfather ate a good share of them to try to cheer her up.

Quoting from a famous author, Mark Twain, "every one talks about the weather, but no one ever does anything about it," seems to be most appropriate at this time since torrential rainfalls have all but inundated the countryside.

With almost every one straining at the leash to get started with such hobbies as gardening, hiking, horseback riding, swimming, tennis, golf, baseball and many others, too numerous to mention, it is no wonder the grumbles against the weather man are justified.

As a matter of fact, some of the boys have asked Orville "The Norge" Rasmussen and Johnny "Esthetic" Williamson to hash up a short poem about "rain, when you gonna rain again, rain" . . . just to see whether or not it will make any difference. Orville and Johnny are two of the most promising poets since Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and James Whitcomb Riley. Esecially Orville's creation, "Midnight in a Mad House," which critics call a masterpiece of satire.

Heard Ted Arens picked up a good case of poison ivy while doing some fishing off the Kankakee River banks last week. Ted calls it "poison ivory."

After looking at the baseball standings in the American League Bill Kane was asked if he wanted to reverse his prediction about the outcome, to which Bill replied, "it's early yet, the White Sox will turn on the power before it's over." In observing the National League standings, Archie La Borence's choice is doing O.K. It has been rumored Archie is a first cousin to the Brooklyn manager, Leo "The Lip" Durocher. This probably accounts for Archie's ability to convince most that he doesn't have to sleep in the trailer parked near his home when he has been detailed to the "dog house."

Very encouraging and interesting were the letters from four former Murphy's Boys, William Stanley, Pete Karolick, John Grimm and Thomas Reddy. The boys reaffirmed their apreciation for and enjoyment of The Bomb-Shell.

With all the recent rain, George "Minnesota" Evans doesn't know whether there is more rain on a farm or at a summer resort.

For some good concrete alibis, Helmer "Baby Face" Billquist will pay $1 to $5 since he had his teeth removed. There has been much speculation as to why the ivories had to come out.

Before Alfred "Boney" Ahern went fishing he was accepting orders for all the fish he intended to catch. Coming back empty handed, Al said, "the river was out of the banks."

Henry "Hank" Prosser reported he had about six feet of water in his basement and had to tie the cellar door to keep the place from floating down the river. Hank said if the water didn't go down within a reasonable length of time he planned to open a swimming pool with swimming suits, towels and lockers furnished. Either John "General" Johnson or Robert "Moose" Sohan would be employed as life guard.

Can you imagine Gridley "Paper Hanger" Wheeler saying in a meek voice, "is tomato soup all we're going to have for supper, honey?" It happened after the last timekeepers' party.

John Kelahan has a new pal and an addition to his family. W. A. Buck, telephone superintendent, made John a present of a police dog named "King." All John needs now is a "Dog House," large enough for him and the dog.

Now that the time for vacations is at hand, voices can be heard saying, "Wait a minute, Joe, I want my vacation that week. Do you think you are the only one that knows there is a holiday in that week?

All await the return of Ray Bell, building foreman. Ray is resting up after a recent operation.

Taxi, Taxi. Anyone wanting a ride from the center change house to the superintendent's office contact Willie Van Asdlen. Girls are preferred, of course.

Joe "Contentment" Connors, a former building foreman, reported he is now one of the many. Joe enlisted in the Army and told all to address him as "Buck."

In a recent letter from Leo Bell, who is stationed in California at Camp Roberts, it was learned that the weather is just what the radio comedians joke about. Well, anyway, Leo tells us it is nothing to write home about. All are glad Leo is doing O.K. in the Army and hope to see him soon.

For deluxe hair swirls now-a-days, you might see Nicola Altieri, former hairdresser in Joliet. Nic offered to give one of the girls here a "super-duper" hair-do, 'tis said.

The prodigal has returned with a slight case of sunburn and that let-down feeling a guy gets when there is but a short vacation . . . but life goes on and if you don't stay in step . . . Wow . . . it passes you right by. . . . Lt. Col. Byron Rife has already established himself in the hearts of everyone who had the pleasure of meeting him as being a true Army man . . . stalwart . . . honest . . . sincere and most of all a peach of a smile. . . . Welcome to the place. . . . Such welcomes always bring the sad gesture of goodbyes though. and Maj. Kenneth M. Haber was one fine Commanding Officer and will be missed by all. . . . All wish him Good Luck on his new venture. . . .

Lt. R. E. Pinnick has that cute chick, Mavis Emerson, in his office now. . . . Wonder how her friend Hazel Kossak is getting along down Florida way???? She was supposed to write the column while she was away, but there you are?? . . . out of sight — out of mind — There will have to be a picket line for her when she comes out here to visit on her return. . . . By the way . . . she will not return to her duties as Adjutant here . . . Nope she is staying with hubby Art Kossak at his station in Florida until—.

Kay Reubart had that worried look during the campaign in Africa . . . can't say anyone could blame her . . . what with her heart-beat Fred "Bud" Lancaster right in the middle of it.

Didja see Ginnie Harrod's picture in the local newspaper a while back . . . ain't she the glamor gal though???? . . . Looks like a certain soldier is sure getting a break by putting that hunk of ice on the right finger. . . .

Saw Ann Gubbins and Vi Donlan strutting up the street the other day . . . or should say . . . twilight time . . . they were walking pretty fast . . . could be they were in a hurry to get some where or maybe meet some one?

A certain grower of rare and beautiful orchids pinned one on the Pass Desk Cutie Pie — Rosemary Hebert—the other day . . . 'Twas around Easter time??? . . . She didn't get by with the idea that the Easter Bunny brought it . . . Oh, no, the gentleman in question lives on the North Side of Chicago. . . . Course this is all in fun as Rosemary's big thrill is a soldier in Uncle Sam's Army who has her all in a dither . . . also has a priority on her by means of a "sparkler."

The gang from Personnel had a get-together the other night. . . . Their good friend Bess Moore. . . . is taking off for the big city . . . never no more to roam the wilds of EOP. . . . Wonder why it is that Dara Prew always manages to rib this correspondent about something or other and yet no one ever mentions that she is a daily correspondent with the former attorney Chuck McKeown . . . now in sunny California in the armed forces . . . and she is very faithful about it, too . . . or should it be mentioned where she has been seen writing these letters??? . . .

Patty Haley (Patricia to those who don't know her) and Gerry Kestel were having quite a serious conversation at the dance the other evening. . . . Also Juanita Kliegl looked pretty snappy in a black outfit while shopping in a local store recently. . . . Wonder what's happened to Mary Dagon of Payroll??? Haven't seen her buzzing around lately. . . . Does Danny Considine act as Simon Legree and keep his brood under his guiding hand??? . . . Dan hasn't shown up as a puncher-inner of time cards lately. . . . Via the grape vine:— 'tis learned that E. Zagade will soon be answering to "Grandpa" Congratulations. . . . Phil Hahn and John Odchodnicky haven't come to blows yet about the various methods of raising daughters . . . but there are hopes . . . really fun to watch them in action. . . . More romantic news from Auditing—Mara Puett, the friendly gal from that department . . . done up and married . . . she is now Mrs. Mervin Blum. . . . Ain't love the bestest thing. . . All the luck in the world goes to these two 'cause they are one fine couple. . . . P. S.: Good lookin', too!

WORK AT THE CARPENTER SHOP continues day and night and this group photograph shows the members of the night shift, assembled outside the shop.

ABSORBED in his clerical duties at the Carpenter Shop, John Campbell is shown here at his desk.

Hospital

Dr. Andrew G. Bustin is in the dumps about his garden. He said, shaking his head, "Gosh, after I have planted my whole garden it rains and rains only to wash out the seeds. I tell you I'll not plant it again." He might do as the Chinese do and plant rice, as the land is already flooded.

W. W. Koepp was recently rated 1-A in the Army.

Ann Johnson wants everything quiet in the east wing of the Hospital when she has to add figures taken from orders. The staff wished her a happy birthday.

No one can make heads or tails out of the mysterious "Sam," Margaret Gergovich and Mary Philbin cry about.

Dr. Nathan Atovsky has a new romance . . . and she is a brunette.

Edna Rimmer started a chain letter to Robert Anderson who left for the Army. Each of the staff added their bit of news to cheer him up. Cartoon drawings were included.

Leslie Ross is growing canned tomato juice in his Victory garden.

"Jeep," the four-week-old chick was able to scare the usually unfrightened "Emogene."

The Army physical was passed with flying colors by Ozro Blanchard, who now awaits word from his induction board.

A letter from Juneau, Alaska, made Lorene Motta walk on air for several days.

A skinned knee was suffered by Myrtle Burris when she attempted to volley back a tennis ball and miss————ed.

Dr. George Luke's birthday was May 17. He had visions of a huge birthday cake and southern fried chicken.

One of the best records for attendance has been set by Dr. B. G. Giel, who observed his first anniversary here May 10, without being absent.

John Dixon is the new ambulance driver and has been having difficulty getting acquainted with EOP roads.

Note:

This Reader's Indigestion specimen of a newspaper is prepared in answer to your correspondent's complaint that the hospital "back offices" are as coy with news as a Casablanca conference. To save space, several typical newspaper departments have been combined such as:

Sports and Want Ads

Miss Philbin offers an attractive 2 for 1 trade. Will exchange 2 bowling shoes (uppers in good condition) for 1 first class tennis racket. Suckers please phone 5171.

Home and Gardens and Weather

The official statistician has it figured out that if all the victory gardens of the doctors, nurses and office help were placed end to end they would make an excellent course for a boat-race.

Book Section

The literary employees hereabouts make lunch time do double duty, they read while they eat. Sixteen sandwiches were devoured last week, paper wrappings and all, between paragraphs of "Conga Girl" and "Kings Row."

Song Hits and Personals

If "Mr. Bluebird" doesn't hurry up and tell someone around here "What's the Good Word," somebody else will go nuts (meaning Mr. Ross).

Movie Review—By Peg Gergovich

Best picture of the week: Sam Houstin in "The Lost Race," better even than Ronald Colman in "Lost Horizon," though the action is too slow in some spots.

Make 1943 Accident Free

Pete Fleming, former truck driver at Group 2, who resigned to take up farming near Minooka, is the father of an eight-pound 15-ounce son, born May 13.

Lynn Carol was the name selected for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Louis LaChapelle, born April 5. Mrs. LaChapelle is the daughter of C. L. Utley, former electrical superintendent here, and Mr. LaChapelle is an electrician at Group 7.

SUPERVISORS AND KEY MEN on the staff of Supt. C. C. Hassel of the Carpenter Shop are pictured here. Mr. Hassel is fourth from left in the front row.

INTRICATE GADGETS BY THE SCORE are found in the small lock shop conducted by T. L. "Tommy" Thompson in the Carpenter Shop's Building at Group 70. Repair of locks and grinding of keys are the main tasks in the shop.

Group 61

JOE MOTTA
Correspondent

Since Clerk William Custer was transferred, Howard Cadwell has had trouble keeping his employees' names and clock numbers straight. Mr. Cadwell, will all his duties as assistant superintendent, does not have time to make out a new list every day.

Back to work, after a brief illness, is Norman Johnston.

W. C. Miller has named Group 61's nitrate, "Berlin Bound," considered a very appropriate title by the workers here.

Playing with the EOP baseball team are hard-hitting Bob Plese and Steve Juricic.

Back after two weeks vacation, is Albert "Dink" Mattern. "Dink" said "there is nothing like it."

From truck driver to farmer is true of Louis Vitzthum who was released recently.

The Goodfellowship meeting was attended by P. L. Deylitz, James Decker and Harvey Steffes. The men say they never have a dull moment at these suppers.

John Auberry shows promises of becoming a good horseshoe pitcher.

It is a known fact that Mr. Decker helps his wife with the family laundry. Mr. Decker has been teased by friends, but your correspondent thinks that this is a fine act on the part of James.

Interested persons are wondering whether Lawrence Baudino ever hears from his good friend Harold Tease.

While home on furlough Sgt. Loren Horrie was entertained by William Brown. Loren claims that Mr. Brown sure knows how to show one a good time.

Lawrence Johnson and John McElvain have named their maintenance building the "little home."

In their spare time William Biggs and Paul Burke raise rabbits. William has eight bunnies; Paul has six.

To the armed forces went Al Pope. Al is a veteran of Group 61; he was here when the Group was under construction. Mr. Pope was well liked and will be missed.

William Stilwell claims he needs more gasoline. Stationed in Utah is Pvt. James "Scooter" Sinkular.

Ed Westmeyer had dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sala. Ed says that "Mrs Sala can really cook.

Labor Foreman Tony Ganz said that John Meyer was one of his "best workers."

Evidently Wayne Howard has reformed; he doesn't pull any more tricks on his friends.

Lowrence Holz and Mr. Steffes flew to Chicago. The boys had a fine time in the City.

A sight long to be remembered —Rose Nichols boosting Tillie Watson into a truck from Group 45.

Dominick Astorino announced the arrival of a new 1943 model. A daughter was born May 5. Mother and child are both doing fine.

Roy Anderson seems to be putting on quite a bit of weight since he has been drinking two quarts of milk daily.

Many did not recognize Jack Murray, the new assistant yard master at first, because he was wearing a white collar.

Some one remarked when engine 114 ran over Tom Burns' hat that it was fortunate that his head was not in it at the time. It might have caused a derailment.

Frank Lebo's son, Richard, who is in the Signal Corps at Harrisburg Air Port, New Cumberland, Pa., is home on a furlough.

Elva Thomas is not only a very good seamstress, but has developed into a good bowler and her favorite dessert is ice cream.

Joe Green, one-man night gang, is deriving a great deal of savage pleasure in reading the obituaries of the Axis in Africa.

Scott Soper says he has a den in his house, while other men just growl all over the house.

Art Voss believes that those Nazi generals who surrendered in Africa were typical hard-boiled eggs (yellow inside).

According to Roy Barth there isn't much to be seen in a little town, but what is heard makes up for it.

Swan A. Sandahl's definition of a traffic light is a little green light that changes to red when his car approaches.

Capphas Eads was telling how his home town was bothered one year with mosquitos. He had a belled cow and its calf out in the pasture. Hearing a terrible clinking of the bell he rushed out and found that the mosquitos had eaten the cow, and were ringing the bell for the calf.

It seems that some opera talent scout finally heard Jim Fagan and decided to try him out as a beaming tenor.

George Weber was seen pushing a big wheelbarrow around the powerhouse. Everyone knows that the boys in the powerhouse certainly can dish it out, but don't know that it had piled that deep.

Ray Whalen of Bldg. 10 said he has a garden that would make a very good rice field, so he doesn't care if it rains for the next two months.

Leonard Gilmore, a former employee of Group 3, now in the armed forces, returned home on furlough and visited here.

Do you suppose Jerry Clennon has found out why his sub-formen smashed their fingers? The rumor is, they like to have these pretty nurses hold their hands.

Lou Evans walked into Bldg. 16 and saw so many new faces that he thought he was in the wrong building; however, Alvin Knowles made all the necessary introductions and now they have one big happy family.

Bill Testa and Richard Fitzgerald used to regard Bldg. 5-A as the busy spot of the world, but now have to regard it as a "ghost town."

Despite all the bad weather, Tony Gomora has forged ahead in his direction of the cleaning program carried on in the confines of Group 3.

Arthur Henson says, "Gone are the days of hunting empty milk bottles and rationing those white pints to the various buildings."

Olin Swartz, Government inspector, may have to leave EOP because of a minor health condition which requires a warmer climate.

News had leaked out that Nick Ochodnicky didn't like the size of a booster cavity so, after quite a bit of discussion, he was finally convinced that a three-inch booster won't fit in a two-inch hole.

The steak dinners were on the losers of a bowling match held between Lt. Wm. McClellan's and Lt. C. B. Baker's guards last week. With only a few pins difference, they went into the third game and kept themselves and the spectators on the edge of their seats all through the game. Lt. McClellan's men lacked four pins to tie Baker's strong armers. The score was Baker's men 2082 pins; McClellan's 2078. J. Gerkins of the losers rolled high game 213. Other men on the team were Claude Logan Ronnie Blackburn and Robert Crane. On the winners' side Paul Tucker had high series with 505 pins. Others on the team were Earl Short, George McTerran, Eller Brunskill and Lt. Baker.

Elmer Layden, high commissioner of professional football asked the department to inquire if there were any professional football players employed at EOP or if any player was employed here who had been drafted, for professional football and did not report. A check was made of the groups, but if you know of any please contact the Recreation office.

Both the men's and girls' softball leagues have had to postpone their opening games for two weeks. However, the enthusiasm is still running high and the opening games will show some strong opposing teams.

Archery enthusiasts are watching the construction of the backstop, and anxiously awaiting for their opportunity to try out the new range. Three new horseshoe courts are being built in the Recreation Area in Group 60, and followers of "barnyard golf" hope to be able to toss Dobbin's worn-out shoes soon. With such great numbers of players, EOP should have a strong team to represent the plant.

Tennis players are requested to read the article on tennis in this issue of The Bomb-Shell.

A gay time was had by all attending the May Dance in the Recreation Hall May 8. Music was provided by the EOP Band under the direction of George Zelke, fire guard. An added attraction was vocalist Marge Bryant, woman guard, who captured the hearts of all present with her interpretations of popular tunes.

Decorations of pastel streamers and apple blossoms interlaced in the white picket fence surrounding the bandstand added to the spring motif.

Special guests for the dance were the officers of KNK and Camp Des Plaines.

For Victory gardeners; all weeds must be kept under control by thorough shallow cultivation or hoeing. Vegetable crops should not be cultivated deeply because of danger to roots that grow near the surface. The garden should be cultivated as soon as the soil is dry enough after each rain and as often as necessary to keep the weeds down. Avoid packing and trampling the soil so far as practicable. More than 300 Victory gardens are being worked on EOP property.

Little Maxine Enger, better known as "Bing" Group 4, was featured vocalist at the Mayon Prom May 8. She began to sing one of the most popular hits of today, "Saving Myself For Bill", but had to change it to "Massachusetts" because it reminded her too much of old times.

Evelyn V. Moore, Group 4, is reported to own a half cat and half rabbit.

Sadie Atkinson looked like a page out of "Vogue" at the time clock. That tweed suit is a honey and can Sadie wear it!

Lorraine Hilling has been taking a kidding about her hair do . . . but every one has to admit they like it. . . . It's cute as can be. . . .

Ya know, when a fella looks out the window and sees beautiful flowers and trees that W. B. Manchester and his workers have planted out here it makes him realize that even in time of strife and worry Nature has time for beauty . . . so why don't all take a cue from Nature and see the nice things in life instead of the silly, petty things that in the end won't add up to one.

Radio Ramblings
By K. Richardson

Yep, the Victory gardens at last are started. Not saying what kind of crops they'll produce . . . gardeners just hoping with all their might. First time most of them have ever had a garden you know, so honest—they are hoping. Opinions of how the tiny seeds are to be planted vary. One person said never to go by the directions on the package. George Knarr advised them to plant potatoes with the eyes down and Al Johnson came along and in a slow, convincing drawl, said, "Aw shucks, I plant 'em with the eyes up." There you are! A few planted them with eyes down and some have planted them with the eyes skyward.

Enough corn to cover 50 acres was bought by Larry Jack. "Well, almost that much," Larry reported and said this is his first year of farming. A certain party was seen with knit brows searching in vain for tobacco plants. Three guesses and the first one's it—Mr. Knarr. If George was successful in finding tobacco plants, maybe he'll be treating that prize pipe of his before long.

R. A. Brown was the very first to get the gardening urge and is the proud possessor of broccoli, egg plants and other vegetables which have a good start and which most were a little dubious in tackling.

Percy Miller has settled for tomato plants and won't have anything to do with any other vegetables. Percy has a huge garden at his home in Carpentersville, so that is the reason he will settle for tomatoes at EOP.

Barney Johnson and Gust Hahn go for onions and are putting in a big supply. So that's why they both have been going around with tears in their eyes!

Transportation Tales
By George O'Reilly

Here's a hearty farewell to a swell group of guards who were stationed at Post 2 (Richards Farm). They were all liked and respected at the Farm and will be greatly missed.

Rumor has it that Ernie Raunser is quite a drummer boy. It seems the other night while visiting one of the brighter spots in Chicago, Ernie played the drums with one of the top bands in that city.

Howard Stockum has no worry with food rationing. He not only brings his dinner pail to work for his dinner, but also takes home his relief dispatcher's full dinner pail for supper.

Congratulations go to Switch Foreman Raymond Romans who was married recently.

Sheet Metal Scraps
By Jess Thomas

The latest member of the Tin Shop gang to receive "greetings" from the President is Cliff "Jake" Hagen. Jake, who is at Fort Sheridan, was given quite a farewell party before leaving.

All are glad to see Leon "Polly" Parrot back again after his long illness.

Walter Huntley would like to trade his car for a horse—reason, bad roads in the home town.

Water Division
By Ben Judge

Best of luck was wished for Joseph W. Stark, former superintendent of Water Division, in his new location.

Sam Martin, in charge of the "fish wagon," and his crew, are doing good work checking the wells. Sam always has a good story.

"Gopher" Bill Anglun had trouble finding glasses for the eyes in his potatoes. He believes in keeping the sun and dirt from them.

Mike Kuhorik can always find his boots—nailed to the wall.

Alex "Curly" Diminovich has one flashlight for sale. He's on the day shift now.

Harold Strohman has named his car "The Mayflower."

Ralph Wright makes toasted cheese sandwiches just the way he likes them—black on both sides.

Ben Judge is in the market for a motor scooter.

Motor Pool Memos
By Lucille McCabe

Eula Snell has learned through experience not to take too seriously the Motor Pool jokes. Raincoats are not furnished for the drivers.

Gene "Mac" McGrath, guard, was greatly missed while in the hospital.

Ed Heath is an artist at wearing beautiful belts . . . genuine leather and positive fit.

Frank Kern has decided to take the responsibility of the "Complaint Club" now after one sad experience.

A super-duper member of the "Wrong Way Corrigan Club" is Dorothy Bick.

Jean Swanson has received word that her husband arrived on the other side safely.

Lucille McCabe has at last learned there is more than one "Moore" in the Area.

Pipe Shop News
By Mary Wynne

George Stratton took his family to the circus and from all reports enjoyed it just as much as the children did.

Ed Washburn and John Trepanier displayed unexpected musical talents when they played an improvisation of "Chopsticks" while moving a piano.

A little excess weight seems to be worrying Buck Dale so he is going to try dieting. He won't commit himself as to just what kind, but it is sure to be one that will permit him to eat as much if not more.

Machine Shop Messages
By Marie Studer

Some of the employees have blossomed out in light weight sport hats. Quite a change from the heavy winter models.

Staff Sgt. James Kaye of the Army Air Corps, former employee of the Machine Shop, was a recent visitor. Jimmy thinks that Army life is fine, and would like to make it his life's work.

A very nice card was received from Pvt. Gerald Utley. Jerry is in the Signal Corps at Fort Lewis, Washington.

Everyone at the Machine Shop was pleased with the pictures appearing in the last edition of The Bomb-Shell. Several of the employees are buying prints to keep in the family album.

Service Garage Spares
By Eleanor R. O'Keefe

Blanchard "Boots" Shepherd is known to have shot his neighbors' pet rabbits to keep them out of his Victory garden. However, Jim Wilhelmi thinks that meat rationing is the main reason for these shooting matches which always occur when no one is around.

From a very reliable source it has been learned that Russ Benway may leave for the South Sea islands to visit relatives whom Dave Kreider, Round House king, spoke to him about recently.

Fred "Star Gazer" Elias, amateur astronomer, personally welcomes all girl drivers at the garage, but many wish he would find some salutation other than, "Hello Baby"!

Ben Fisher is welcomed to the ranks. He is the latest addition to the parts department.

The rumor clinic now has Ralph "OPA" Groll contemplating a trip to California in the near future.

Joe Szwaja of vanished vacant lot (Victory garden to you) fame, had a plot cleared for himself at EOP by that gentleman of the soil, W. B. Manchester. This wonderful piece turned out to be a Louisiana bayou after the first rain. Now Joe thinks that he will be able to plant potatoes by July 4, if the ground dries by then. Otherwise he will plant fish so that the expert garage anglers won't have far to go this summer.

Genial Clarence Murphy tries to bribe the scribe to have his name kept out of this column. Maybe that is one way of getting it in.

Congratulations from the entire garage force went to Glen "Porky" Bitterman last week when he became the proud papa of a son. Cigars and candy were distributed by the smiling father.

Did you know that . . . Paul Wood is an expert tree surgeon . . . Richard "Tall Corn" Miller is a former Iowa farmer . . . Leroy Hutchinson used to train saddle and draft horses after the last war . . . William "Wolf" Booker is a former midget car race driver . . . Milford Green and Walt Sheridan are former truckers . . . Paul H. Swisshelm is a former airplane assembler and flyer . . . Henry L. Johnson was a window trimmer for large department stores in the three "I" states — Iowa, Indiana, Illinois . . . Francis G. Rabe gave up his service station to work at EOP . . . Clarence Weidemann does plumbing, carpenter and electrical work as a side line . . . Bill Briddick is a former railroad car builder on the EJ&E . . . John F. Enrietta is a cabinet maker?

Telephone Tid-Bits
By Elaine Christman

Arthur Green, guard at the Telephone Building, is recovering from an operation performed last week.

G. A. Peterson was on the sick list for a few days.

D. McLean, assistant chief engineer of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., was a visitor at the Telephone Building May 11.

Line Department Lines
By Ray Curtis

Edmund Elias left for the Army and said, "It won't be long now."

E. R. "Snuffy" Bigham and Dewey "Buck Private" Kendall have just received their orders to report.

Charlie Hebert's son has been graduated from Officers' Training School at Washington, D. C., and is expected home for a short visit before leaving for his assignment.

Web Willows, ex-lineman, wrote from a southern camp where he is training for glider work. The training is plenty tough, he said, but is no worse than climbing another 85-foot pole!

Paint Shop Patter
By Pat Stettbacher

Hope the rain hasn't dampened Scorchy's spirits to the degree of his giving up The Burning Pit. Referring to his latest bemoanings, if he's in need of still another ladder to climb, the staff will be happy to lend him an extension ladder.

Blackie Blackburn isn't drinking as much milk as usual. It could be love or a new spring tonic.

When the baseball season gets going, watch the Paint Shop battery stars. There will be Harold Wagner and Louis Hoffman pitching, and Verne Lucas catching their curves and fast balls.

BOMB AND SHELL LOADING PRACTICES in vogue at War Department plants throughout the country were discussed at a three-day conference here May 11-12-13. Additional details of the meeting and the names of the representatives attending are on page 1.

News and Notes from EOP Safety Engineers

Congratulations are deserved by William Briddick, foreman, Service Garage, who received a diploma for the completion of a safety course at the Joliet Township High School. Diplomas were given out at the monthly banquet of the Joliet Industrial Safety Council May 20, at the YMCA. He is also completing the advanced first aid course given in conjunction with the safety course, according to Clem Eiden, Group 70 safety engineer.

Al Hesley, safety supervisor, and Mr. Eiden, attend the Midwest Safety Council in Chicago May 6.

Karl J. Ulrick, ass't director of safety, visited the Kingsbury Ordnance Plant at La Porte, Ind., with E. O. Huey, superintendent of plant protection: Chief R. W. Mortenson of the Fire Department and M. C. Baughman, chief of guards.

Mr. Ulrich spent two days in plant inspection.

Due to sudden changes in operations it is necessary for foremen to be on their toes at all times, according to Charles B. Harrison, Group 3 safety engineer. Lou Evans, capable foreman, Bldg. 16, exemplified this by ordering 20 face shields to protect his men while loading bombs.

Superintendent H. D. Dougherty, Group 3 has had all buildings checked as to bonding, placing the group in excellent condition for the seasonal electrical storms during the summer.

Orchids go to T. M. Burns General Superintendent of Fuze and Booster groups, and his entire personnel for not having a single lost-time accident during March and April. This is an accomplishment of which all can be proud.

According to Emory M. Akeman, safety engineer, Group 3-A, Foremen Tony Sarheim and Art Cleary had a no-accident record in Bldg. 4 and the magazines during the last week. In Bldg. 10, the same record was made by Foremen Crawford Kerr, and Steve Falletti.

Safety Engineer I. R. Olson, reported that Al Gierich, general foreman of Group 27, is to be congratulated for his splendid cooperation in making safety meetings possible at Group 27.

Stop blocks have now been installed at each loading entrance which eliminates the danger of someone being caught between truck and building. This feature UNIFORMS were intermingled with informal attire at the plant-wide party held by the WAR Department Employees' Activities Committee at the Recreation Building May 2. There were numerous visitors from Kankakee Ordnance Works and Camp Des Plaines. These Random photos indicate the party was a complete success.

News and Notes From Safety Engineers

also saves many doors from being broken. The suggestion was developed in a recent safety meeting.

Through the co-operation of Chief Mortenson arrangements have been made for American Red Cross first aid training for all EOP firemen.

The plan calls for training of the firemen in both the standard and advanced courses. Following these courses, an instructor's course will be conducted to provide the Fire Department with its own instructors for future training courses.

Twelve standard first aid course periods a week are now operating on schedules during days and evenings at the various fire stations. These courses are being conducted by I. W. Hawes, American Red Cross instructor of the EOP Safety Department.

Take Salt Tablets

Salt tablet dispensers throughout the Area will be serviced by the group safety engineers this spring and summer, it was announced. Workers are advised to take the tablets daily to replace the salt lost through perspiration.

The Shop Committee at the Machine Shop has been doing a swell job, according to Mr. Eiden. J. A. Cocker, superintendent, appoints a committee of three each month with a chairman in charge. The purpose of this committee is to submit a written report to Mr. Cocker of any unsafe practices or conditions which might prevail in the shop. A copy of this report is sent to the Safety Department.

The following have served as chairmen of these committees: James Kaye, Delmo Groveni, Leroy Wilhelmi, Thomas Dooley, John Nilson, Ervin Schweizer, Ezra Buerlein, John Lagen and Claude Blessman.

When Mr. Cocker has taken action on the proposed suggestions, assisted by Frank Miller, shop foreman, the date of disposition is posted behind each suggestion submitted.

O. J. Cartier, office clerk, at Group 66A, just a boy of 70 years, is as active as one 21 years old. He has two sons in Uncle Sam's Army, one of whom is located in Africa. Mr. Cartier surely keeps a very smart set of books, and his chief hobby is collecting old money. Stop in some time and see his collection, advised John H. Connor, safety engineer.

John Leahy is a one-man safety committee at the Pipe Shop and has accepted his duty with enthusiasm. "Cal" Ashline, foreman, and the whole shop are co-operating with him.

Ed Klein, clean-up expert of Group 1, started to work the other day wearing the usual Adam's-apple adornment, commonly called necktie, it was reported by H. J. Beringer, safety engineer. His wife immediately demanded an explanation, but she just couldn't understand that Ed was dressing for the sake of the line's appearance. Ed is still attempting to prove to his wife that the cleanliness of Group 1 is his first love—next to her, of course.

Group 4

By Marcella Hebert

"Sully" Sullivan's new theme song is "Show Me the Way to Go Home." Mary Bauc is anticipating a trip to Missouri—could be wedding bells. Dorothy Murin of the Shipping Room has a new romance. Verona Lambert is always complaining lately about the weeks going by too slowly. She may be expecting someone home soon.

Helen Buck is leaving May 28 for Leonardtown, Md. where she will be married May 30 to Cpl. Harold Murphy.

Ruth Henry of the clean-up gang, says she wouldn't mind the weather is the rain wasn't so wet. Marie McLuckie keeps her chickens busy laying eggs so she can boil them for her lunch.

Harvey "Butcher Boy" Sessi, transferred to Group 5, is missed by all his friends in Group 4.

The fellows at Group 4 are wondering if P. Hoeller, Jr. has been having any more trouble with his bird friends.

Many wonder if Marion Matrella got between the rain drops Monday night when she was shopping in Joliet.

Elsie Mattison is quite proud of a picture she had taken when she was a little girl. She had ric-rac on her petticoat!!

Georgia "Peaches" Hulse is the vivacious manager of the Group 4 and 5 baseball team.

Anita Sarowatz is lucky to have a husband who can keep house as well as Al can. Anita has been ill for some time and all wish her a speedy recovery.

It took a long time to get coveralls for Marion Burke but it looks as though they have finally succeeded.

The girls in 4-14 are all in Commander-All's (overalls) now—and do they look nice! They are all wondering when their service stripes will be added.

Harriet Porter of the WAVES was home over the weekend. She is stationed at Great Lakes for a month of training in the hospital corps. Harriet was formerly a forelady in Group 4.

Dorothy Guarneri plans to spend some time with her soldier friend when he comes home from Kentucky on furlough.

Edna Hedlin's favorite movie star is Lew Ayres.

Helen "Cig" Bowler got a permanent and a new outfit to see her boy friend in Kansas City.

Denny Elliott is now working in Group 4. The girls think he's "as cute as a button!"

Dorothy Berta travelled to Randolph Field, Texas, to visit her fiance, Aviation Cadet Don Bryant of Carbon Hill.

Bing Enger was the vocalist at a recent prom in Mazon. Her encores included "I'm Saving Myself for Bill" and "What Can I Say, Dear, After I Say I'm Sorry."

Georgianna Keir reprimands her soldier friend when his letters are a day late.

Evelyn Moore is very prompt—all her friends have to do is blow a horn (even when she is in church) and she'll be there pronto.

Oswald Marchak is now an inspector.

Mary Foster and Lois Schultz were seen robbing bird's nests.

Marie Viscum was a winner in a recent Morris B. Sach's program.

Kay Keliher had a rather expensive call from her soldier friend in Pennsylvania—it cost Kay $10.

Ramona Gilmore is enjoying her husband's furlough!

Theresa Svitek gave a farewell party for Eddie Kluza before he went into the army.

Mamie Weir plans to wear navy blue with red and green accessories at her wedding June 15.

Recent scenes at Group 4 . . . John Chladek busy in his reject repair shop. . . Johnnie Woods, alias Raphael, plies the brushes . . . Don Leonard minus a stomach . . . Chuck Kaplan still wearing his hat . . . John Kinney praying for his wings . . . Jim Schayer looking for a room stretcher . . . Clare Hayden working . . .Lillian Malinske sopping up all the heat and wishing she was in Arizona. (She'll be there real soon.) . . . Ann Nicholson still slave driving . . . Lilla Clyne still smiling . . Mickey Sanson listening to her barking feet.

Dorothy "Muscles" White says she can lift as much as a man. Just another "Atlas-ette."

Fun-loving gals in the component room swear by the saying "Don't believe it unless you see it in black and white." The girls stamp the lot number with white paint on black fiber containers.

Marcella Hebert (she hasn't seen this) added a new brown gabardine suit to her wardrobe. She dashed between raindrops (and she's tiny enough to do it, too) in Chicago to get it.

Group 5

By Florence Schnebly and Cora Kay

Irene Culyat is taking a week's vacation to be with her husband who is home on a furlough from Keesler Field, Mississippi.

Loretta Thorson, better known as "Daisy Mae," resigned May 1.

Helen Johnson was welcomed back after several days' illness.

The Paint Shop staff wishes John Lyman a speedy recovery.

Many wonder how much thinner Elizabeth Drennen would be if Chet Heggen didn't bring so much lunch.

Wonder what other small group can compare with the Paint Shop in percentage of War Bond purchases?

If anyone wants a contest promoted they should see Walt Stassen.

Marion Bennett, Jean Bolte and Rita Legris spent Mother's Day at Bloomington. They attended the "Passion Play" while there.

Group 6

Some people pay fines for speeding 53 miles an hour, but not Edythe Krzich. She got off with a warning—what a technique!!

All are glad to have Eunice Fredericks back after a siege of illness.

Group 6 bid good-bye to Helen Camp. She will be missed by her many friends.

Many wonder why Dorothy Delaney, forelady in 6-6, is looking so sad these days. It could be because Uncle Sam has a priority on her boy friend.

Deepest sympathy goes to Cecilie Bologanini, whose grandmother died recently.

The girls from Group 6 wish Agnes Matis, tiniest girl in 6-6 a speedy recovery from the measles.

Best wishes go to Evelyn Sheridan of 6-4 who became Mrs. George Pulos May 2 at a lovely wedding in St. Peters Lutheran Church in Joliet. Barbara Greenwood was matron of honor and Arthur Jensen was best man.

Everybody is wondering why Eddie Liebelt is limping lately. Could it really be a sprained ankle?

All in 6-4 have their fingers crossed hoping Edna McFedries' husband gets his furlough soon. Things aren't the same since "Red's" been gone.

Alice Cachilli returned recently from her honeymoon with Lt. Fred Cachilli, who is stationed in Georgia.

The group in Bldg. 4 welcomes back their forelady, Betty Palmer, or is it Palmer? There are rumors.

She replaces Mary Jane Barrowman who has gone to Group 7.

Why is Domina Elich called "Chubby"? Could it be that she is?

Group 7

Gladys Pulliam is leaving for the WAACS. All the girls will miss her.

Many have been wondering why Maysie Chamberlain has been so sleepy of late. Could it be a certain hero, Pfc. Al Voight, who received the purple heart? Maysie has been flashing a sparkler, too. Wedding bells—Could be.

A certain few girls like Ida Pasel's baked beans.

The girls on the Booster Line would like to know if Group 6 has any more foreladies like Juanita Thompson, and if so, would they please send them over.

Janice Holmes left for California where she will visit her boy friend, who is expected to leave for parts unknown in the near future.

Ida Koshak from "Jumble and Jolt" is now Mrs. Edward Badka.

Ray Sacks, truck driver, wore his coat an entire season without knowing that it was a reversible.

All are sorry that Hazel Allen is ill.

Group 9

The girls at Group 9 were very happy when they saw two women guards with smiling faces greeting them as they came in the door May 12. You can't help knowing who they were, as Amy Gabel and Lorraine Guenette are always seen with their smiles.

The Physical Examination

In endless procession, they come and they go,
From any place Murphy can find
'em.
They strip and they strut from this room to that,
Leaving their secrets behind 'em.

They pose for photos of liver and lights;
Their ticker is stop-watched for speed.
Their pressure is taken like air in a tube;
They're jabbed to see if they bleed.

They squirt in a bottle, they squint
at a chart,
They squat at the word of command;
They're measured and weighed like beef on the hoof . . .
All they lack is the brand.

They tell their life-story from cradle to now,
They are left no private possessions;
They cough up their secrets, exhibit pet scars,
They're heroes of True Life Confessions.

Who is to say who suffers the most,
In this peep-show of saint and crook,
The actors who pass across the stage . . .
Or the Doctors who have to look!

—Leslie M. Ross,
Statistician.

GIRLS at EOP were praised for their war efforts by Pvt. Charles Galster of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps (shown here), when he visited Group 1. He is a cousin of H. S. Robb, superintendent of the Salvage Department.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

Col. Byron Rife Active In Army Industry

Texas, where he married Roberta Caffarelli, also of San Antonio, in October of 1938. His son, Byron, Jr., was born August 13, 1940, in San Antonio.

In January of 1941, he was ordered to active duty as Lt. Colonel and was assigned as Executive Officer to the Baytown Ordnance Works, Baytown, Texas, a toluol plant under the command of Col. John G. Booton, who was also Commanding Officer of two other military establishments, San Antonio Arsenal and Camp Stanley located near San Antonio.

In November, 1941, Col. Rife was transferred from Baytown to command the Missouri Ordnance Works at Louisiana, Missouri, an ammonia plant operated by the Hercules Powder Company.

In August, 1942, the Colonel was transferred to the Office of the Field Director of Ammunition Plants as Assistant to Colonel Gerber. His main duty there was to co-ordinate the activities of 20 chemical plants. In September, 1942, he became Executive Officer to the Field Director, still retaining his interest in the chemical plants in addition to his other administrative duties.

Col. Gerber's confidence in Col. Rife secured for him the important post of Commanding Officer of both the Elwood Ordnance Plant and the Kankakee Ordnance Works two of the country's most important ordnance facilities.

The Colonel is making his home in the Commanding Officer's quarter on the Kankakee Ordnance Works Reservation with his family.

Q. Who are the "Armoraiders"?

A. "Armoraiders" is the nickname for the steel-clad legions who strike the enemy in tanks and other mechanized weapons.

Army Leaders, Industrialists Praise Tabloid

The Bomb-Shell Commands Attention Throughout Nation

Comment concerning The Bomb-Shell during its first year of publication has been favorable in business as well as military circles. These comments are interpreted as endorsing the opinion of EOP executives and employees about the excellence of the paper.

Soon after the paper was launched in June of last year, Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, chief of Services of Supply, War Department, wrote that "The Bomb-Shell has made an excellent start and I agree that it should do much for workers' morale."

"Your interesting publication, The Bomb-Shell," said Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell, Jr., chief of Ordnance, "should contribute greatly to maintaining a strong fighting spirit at Elwood. The Bomb-Shell is well edited and printed. In particular, I thought your cuts clean and clear, making each person readily recognizable in group pictures, which is important."

"I have looked over the copies of The Bomb-Shell which you sent me," said Maj. Gen. T. J. Hayes, chief of Industrial Division, Ordnance Department, "and it looks to me as if those responsible for putting this out are doing as good a job as the management of Elwood is doing in its field."

"This is certainly a very creditable paper, and I shall keep this edition as a pleasant reminder of my participation in your jubilant ceremony," said Maj. Gen. Charles T. Harris, Jr., commanding general of Aberdeen Proving Ground, Aberdeen, Md., who presented the Army-Navy "E" flag to EOP employees February 12.

"I would like to take this opportunity of complimenting you upon the splendid job you have done in the handling of the plant publication, "The Bomb-Shell," said Lt. Col. Don M. Hoffman of the Office of the Field Director of Ammunition Plants, St. Louis, when he was commanding officer here. "This is in every way, in my opinion, the most outstanding newspaper I have yet seen and all of us in the War Department are extremely pleased with it."

"We want to compliment those responsible for the publication of such a well edited paper," said Frank M. Bray, former chairman of the Will County War Price and Rationing Board, Joliet. "Its typography and illustrations are of magazine quality. I am going to swipe this copy and take it home for a thorough perusal."

"The writer congratulates the editor on a superior job," said Ernest E. East, in charge of newspapers, Illinois State Historical Library, Springfield. "Your publication surpasses any other military establishment publication received by us from Illinois posts. And the margin is very wide. Especially pleasing to the library is the good quality of paper used, since it is our intention to bind these publications."

Smith Honors Staff on Anniversary

FIRST ANNIVERSARY of The Bomb-Shell was celebrated May 26 with a dinner party given for the staff by Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter. Honor guests included members of the War Department and representatives of local newspapers and radio stations.

Press Visitors Send Girl Driver Present

When an EOP girl can impress five male photographers and four girl reporters with her attractiveness, she must be good! Representing Chicago's big daily newspapers visiting here April 22 to take pictures of women in ordnance, the photographers and reporters took especial note of Kathryn Dixon, who has driven for the Motor Pool since January 12. And—according to the press, her driving is as good as her looks. Recently the mails brought a red WOW bandanna with the standard Ordnance bomb insignia for Driver Dixon.

"Dixie," as she is known by her associates at the Motor Pool, was a home-maker for a year and a half in Braidwood, but her desire to do her part in the war effort brought her to EOP. Her husband, John Dixon, is also employed here as an ambulance driver.

Lt. R. E. Pinnick Promoted to Captain

Announcement of the promotion of Lt. Ralph E. Pinnick to the rank of captain was made by Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer. Capt. Pinnick, who has served as Safety and Plant Protection Officer of EOP since March, 1942, was transferred from Infantry to the Ordnance Department in that month.

A resident of West Baden Springs, Ind., the captain was graduated from Indiana University with an A.B. degree in 1928 and from Purdue University with a B.S. degree in civil engineering in 1932. A member of the National Society of Professional Engineers, Capt. Pinnick was a civil engineer in private life.

15 Get Safety Course Certificates

Fifteen EOP employees received certificates of graduation in industrial safety engineering at the ninth annual meeting of the Joliet Safety Council at YMCA May 20.

All of them deserve commendation for a devotion to duty which led them to spend many hours after work in classes and study. It is hoped that others will be inspired by their example to enroll in future classes to be conducted by the University of Illinois Extension Division.

Those who received certificates for the advanced course are Emory Akeman, Charles Balch, Donald Crowthers, Vance Cook, Clement Eiden, Everett Gray and Stanley Lewis. In the primary course, Herman J. Beringer, William Briddick, Ethel D. Connor, John H. Connor, Charles B. Harrison, Reno R. Jones, Walter Wilcox and Robert F. Wieber received certificates.

Salvaged Lumber Offered to Workers

Considerable lumber has been salvaged from the Carpenter Shop and other groups in the EOP area and is offered without charge to workers. Investigation disclosed that salvage operators could not profitably dispose of the surplus, so the supply is made available to plant employees.

It was pointed out that anyone having a wood-working hobby could find sufficient material to last for some time, and that those who are compelled to heat their homes by log fires could have enough to last a winter or two.

State Officers Visit EOP and Inspect Plant

A trip through EOP by State Senator Richard J. Barr and other state and local officials was made Thursday, May 20. The visitors were luncheon guests of Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter. After a short welcome to the plant by Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer, and John J. Cole, assistant general manager, Senator Barr, acting as toastmaster, introduced the visitors.

The group, consisting of about 50 persons, included State Senators Wallace Thompson, O. E. Benson, Stanley Mandela, John Lee, Walker Butler, Charles Carpentier, Richard J. Daley, minority leader; Arnold P. Benson, majority leader; George Maypole, Frank Lyons, William Knox and Mr. Barr; also Judge Wynn Knock, Judge Roscoe South, Mayor and Mrs. Janke, Commissioners Emmett McGuire, Fred Sehring, Albert Odenthal and Joseph Whalen, Charles Kellem, secretary, Chamber of Commerce; Warren Wood and John Malone, state representatives; Mayor John Kapp of Springfield; State Auditor A. C. Lueder and Assistant State Auditor C. G. Kiessling, and James L. Donelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association.

Gov. Dwight H. Green and Lt. Gov. Hugh Cross, who had planned to attend, were unable to do so because of the press of business, it was said.

In the early afternoon a trip through some of the sections of EOP was made. Afterwards the party traveled by bus to the Kankakee Ordnance Works for a short tour. Late in the afternoon the group left for Stateville for an inspection of the prison and for dinner as guests of Warden Joseph E. Ragen.

Four Selected For Honors by Government

Employees Chosen For Suggestions to Help War Program

(Pictures on Pages 4 and 5)

Four employees of Elwood Ordnance Plant were given citations by the Ordnance Department of the United States Army "for distinguished service" to their country.

In an elaborate ceremony held at Building 14 in Group 4, with all arrangements made by Supt. T. M. Burns, the four men also were presented with EOP certificates of merit.

The four men are Nicholas E. Whitney, James C. Gordon, Edward H. Bick and George W. Bigelow.

W. E. Canniff, general manager, presided as toastmaster. The Army awards were presented by Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer, and the EOP certificates were handed out by Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter.

Issuance of the awards was accompanied by the statement from the management that hereafter all suggestions and ideas submitted by workers would be sent to the Government for official action.

The Merit Award Committee, originally appointed January 14, 1943, by the Operating Manager of Sanderson & Porter in accordance with Industrial Division Order No. 28, shall continue to function as a Committee until the Operating Manager's order is revoked or revised.

The membership of the Committee after the original appointment will be determined by the Committee in formal meeting.

All acts of the Committee shall be subject to review by the Commanding Officer and the Management of Sanderson & Porter.

Meetings of the Merit Award Committee will be held on the 1st and 3rd Tuesdays of the month at 1:30 p.m. at a place designated by the Committee. In the event circumstances require it, the Chairman is empowered to call special meetings at any time. Six members shall constitute a quorum, and no business may be transacted unless a quorum is present.

Any member of the Merit Award Committee, when unable to attend a regularly scheduled meeting, may inform the Chairman of that fact and may advise the Chairman that a proxy will attend in his place.

A record book of contributions will be kept showing the following: Serial number, date of submission, date of recommendation for EOP Award and Ordnance citation, date of acknowledgment of receipt of contribution, date of letter to contributor advising of recommendation.

A complete record of all transactions of the Committee will be maintained in the Merit Award Committee Archives during the life of the Committee. Upon the dissolution of the Merit Award Committee the complete records

"I See by the Paper"

"They Shall Have Ammunition: Jim Donnelly, of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, paid a great tribute to the men and women who operate the Elwood and Kankakee Ordnance Plants, yesterday after inspecting the two plants with a party of state and local officials . . . Jim said: 'I was greatly impressed with the efficiency with which these plants are operated. It thrilled me greatly and gave me great confidence in the ultimate outcome of the great conflict in which we are engaged. These men and women are efficiently turning out the sinews of war and I think great praise should be given them' . . . Lieut. Col. Byron Rife, Harrison Smith, John Cole and other officials of the two plants were hosts to the visitors, who were in the party sponsored by Senator Barr . . . it was a real thrill to many persons in the party who had never seen an ammunition plant in operation to note the efficient way in which bombs, mines and shells were being turned out in great quantities . . . Joliet and Will county should have great pride in these two great plants which are doing so much to bring victory to our arms . . . they are local institutions, operated by our citizens, and when people from other parts of the state come here they are amazed at the precision with which munitions are being produced . . . what was just rolling farm land two years ago is now a bee-hive of industry . . . a tribute to American industry and the workingman . . ."

Bombardiers Face Training

Already making their marks in this war on the fighting fronts of the world are graduates of the Bombardier school at the Air Corps Advanced Flying School, Albuquerque Air Base, New Mexico. The success of any bombing mission depends upon the skill of the man at the bomb sight. If the bombardier is not able to drop his "load" on the "spot," the entire mission is a failure and men and equipment have been risked to no avail.

The love of an American boy for a gun, coupled with the high efficiency of the American bomb sight, form the reasons why Americans have become so proficient in "aiming" the most lethal of all "guns"—heavy aerial bombs.

The Army Air Forces need many more of these trained air warriors and in Albuquerque is one of several schools now turning them out, ready and equipped for duty on our far-flung fronts. But they need new recruits, new volunteers who can pass the entrance requirements and who want to do their part in dropping deadly "eggs" on the Japs and Nazis wherever they can be found.

Many of the young men, between the ages of 18 and 26, who are enlisting in the AAF as air cadets, hope that they will be lucky enough to be designated for bombardier training. Those completing the twelve weeks of intensive training, receive the coveted "Wings" of the bombardier and a second lieutenant's commission in the Army Air Forces.

After proving his skill in bombing tactics and flight procedure in the B-18 bombers used for training, the bombardier, now a full fledged second lieutenant, is ready for action and for his chance to smash the enemy.

"Listen, you lug-head—why don'tcha go to bed at night? I'll mow ya down with one of these loads that's gonna knock hell outa the Axis—I won't toot my horn!"

I have written . . . a poem!

SHORT CHANGE

Since working at EOP, I've found
That these short Changes sure roll around;
With two hours sleep to give me a lift,
I go to work on the graveyard shift.

I don't feel good, but I don't feel bad,
Considering the little sleep I've had.
I do my best to look alive
As I start my shift at 3:05.

It's 1 a. m.—seven hours to go.
To me it seems, time goes so slow.
At 2 a. m. it's quiet and creepy,
I'll tell the world I'm getting sleepy.

It's 3 a. m., a car draws near,
But no one stops to give me cheer.
I open my lunch, can't eat a bite,
So I settle down to spend the night.

It's four o'clock, t'will soon be five,
I feel more dead than I do alive.
I just called Dwyer at Post number nine,
He tells me that he's feeling fine.

It's 6 a. m., two hours to go,
How I'll make it, I don't know.
I stretch my legs, stifle a yawn,
In the East I see the first trace of dawn.

ENLISTING in the Army January 18 of this year, Cpl. Lionel Senesac, shown here, is the son of Material Checker Felix Senesac. He was formerly employed here at the Service Garage.

It's 7 a. m., it will soon be eight,
I pray the Lord, relief's not too late,
I think of home and a nice warm bed,
I'm moving around, but I know I'm dead.

I think of jobs I've had before,
Where I'd start at eight, and quit at four.
The past two years, it's plain to see,
Have surely made a wreck of me.

They say I'm too old to carry a gun,
So guess I'll stay here 'till this war is won.
For there are worse places, I will agree,
Than being a guard at EOP.

—Edward Wardell,

Q. A friend, who had been to Japan before the war, told me that four is their unlucky number, but he couldn't tell me why. Can you give me the answer?

A. In Japan the word four is the same as the word for death. The Japs will go to any extremes to avoid using it.

Buttoned up—Orders clearly understood. (Br. RAF)

Caproni—Italian plane.

Chicago piano — Multiple-barreled anti-aircraft gun, commonly used on ships.

Clara—All clear signal. (Br.)

Browned off—Tired of it all. (Br. RAF)

Twilight on the Lane

They strolled down the lane,
The sky was bright with stars,
Then as they paused—
He let down the bars,
She could not thank him,
For she knew not how,
You see, he was a farmer boy,
And she, a Jersey cow.

Group 2 Progress Clerk.

Q. Is a technical sergeant eligible to receive a monthly family allowance under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942?

A. No. Only enlisted men of the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, or the Coast Guard, including any and all retired and reserve components of such services, are entitled to receive a monthly family allowance for any period during which such enlisted man is in active military service of the U. S. on or after June 1, 1942, during the existence of any war declared by Congress and the 6 months immediately following the termination of any such war. Grades above these are not covered by the act.

Q. How does the value of a soldier's initial equipment compare with a sailor's and a marine's?

A. A soldier, at his reception center, gets no less than 79 articles of clothing and equipment (from razor blades to overcoat!) At retail prices this equipment is valued at $150. A sailor's first issue totals 98 articles valued at $133.81. The initial issue of clothing to a marine costs $84.75 (56 articles) and of individual equipment, including rifle, $101.39 (18 articles), total cost $186.14. After basic training clothing and equipment is supplemented and varies according to the type of organization to which the man is assigned.

Q. Are we supposed to salute Army nurses?

A. Yes. They're entitled to the same privileges with reference to salutes as are customarily enjoyed by and prescribed for grades corresponding to their relative rank.

Army Leaders and Industrialists Praise Paper

department store, said, "it is a most interesting edition and is being passed on to our own department having to do with getting out our wholesale house organ." "It is a high quality publication," said Paul G. Hoffman, president, The Studebaker Corporation, South Bend, Ind. "In my opinion, any added expense necessary to give the publication quality is thoroughly justified. Studies indicate that from two to three times as many employees will read carefully a publication of high quality as opposed to one that is mediocre."

"This is extremely interesting and it is most helpful to compare publication notes," said Hugh W. Hitchcock, advertising manager, Packard Motor Car Company, Detroit. "I have found this a very interesting and newsy publication and I have passed it on to other members of the company," wrote Ralph H. Maxson, president, Tyson Roller Bearing Corporation, Massillon, Ohio. Herman W. Steinkraus, president and general manager, Bridgeport Brass Company, Bridgeport, Conn., said he found The Bomb-Shell "very interesting reading." A similar comment was made by Duncan W. Fraser, president, American Locomotive Company, New York.

"This is certainly a very fine publication and it seems to be growing with each issue," declared W. W. Blunt, National Distillers Products Corporation, New York. Carl J. Schmidlapp, vice president, The Chase National Bank, New York, commented, "I have reviewed your publication with great interest; it contains many interesting facts." "We have looked this over with much interest and I am passing it along to others on the staff of the N.A.M. who are intimately concerned with providing service and information to industrial house organs," wrote G. G. Geddes, director of the member contact department, National Association of Manufacturers, New York.

"I found the publication interesting, especially descriptions of the plant which you have designed, built and are operating," said Robert S. Waters, president, The National Radiator Company, Johnstown, Penn. "I have looked over The Bomb-Shell and found it very interesting," said S. J. McGiveran, vice-president and general sales manager, Owens-Illinois Can Company, Toledo, O. "It has been our experience that house organs of this kind tend to draw an organization together, therefore, I presume in the case of a new group of people, such as your own, this type of periodical is doubly important. Then, too, I don't feel that I have ever seen any that were better done."

"You are to be complimented on the excellence of The Bomb-Shell, said Page Golsan, vice president, Ford, Bacon & Davis, engineers, New York. "I have seen quite a number of similar papers," wrote Robert A. Smith, consulting engineer, Mahwah, N. J. "Comparisons are odious, so I don't want to say that you have the best one, but I do want to say that all three copies have been very well done, and the paper contains matter of such kind, and in such a form, that it will hold the interest of your employees which, after all, is the important point. I think that you, or whoever you have appointed to do the work, is to be congratulated for a very fine job."

"Nothing but the best comes out of Elwood . . . and so it goes with The Bomb-Shell," said William Arnold Hanger, New York. John C. Ohnemus, editor of The Studebaker Spotlight, said "Congratulations on your No. 1 edition . . . it has a human tone throughout." "The editors of this paper are to be congratulated on the first class journalistic job they are doing," said Nathaniel W. Barnes, New York. "For a publication of this kind it is exceptionally well presented . . . in fact, we got a couple of good ideas from it," wrote W. L. Nolan, president, McLellan Stores Company, New York. "I am turning it over to the proper people in our outfit and they will, undoubtedly, find excellent material to copy," said E. D. Bransome, president, Vanadium Corporation of America, New York. James G. Blaine, president, The Marine Midland Trust Company of New York, said, "It is a most interesting publication." "This is an excellent publication and you are to be congratulated," said R. W. Moorehead, Jr., advertising manager, Brown-Forman Distillers Corporation, Louisville. "This publication certainly fits in with your ideas of producing nothing but the best," was the comment of Harold H. Helm, vice president, Chemical Bank and Trust Company, New York.

"A casual glance discloses that The Bomb-Shell is unusually edited and composed and I am taking it home this evening where I can read it from cover to cover . . . allow me to extend to you my heartiest congratulations," said C. S. Kincaid, president, Magnet Mills, Clinton, Tenn. "They have done a splendid job with its make-up and contents and I wish to congratulate them on it," said Earle S. Thompson, president, American Water Works and Electric Company, New York. "The publication is attractive and interesting and should go a long way toward furthering the interest of personnel and increasing morale," said H. J. Hartley, president, Certain-Teed Products Corporation, Pantex Ordnance Plant, Amarillo, Tex. "The publication certainly is a very fine one," commented L. A. Van Bomel, president, National Dairy Products Corporation, New York.

Difficult Life Of Bombardier Due to Bombii

Little Men Not There Cause Trouble for Youthful Trainees

With Army long-range bombardment and reconnaissance planes ranging the Pacific battle areas, in the Mediterranean, North Africa, and the heart of Europe in search of the enemy, the need for trained navigators, bombardiers and gunners to back up the pilots and round out the combat crews of big warplanes has become increasingly urgent.

No matter how good the pilot is, the success of the bombing mission depends entirely on the bombardier, protected by the gunner. He is the man who operates the bombsight and can release the tremendously powerful air weapon, the bomb. He is the man who, by placing this bomb in the right place, carries the striking power to destroy battle ships, industrial and rail centers, and other military objectives. The flight is so designed that the bombardier can drop his bomb on the target. He is most important—he must be on the job—alert and ready, or all the preparation may be wasted.

Young men of the Army are taught the science of accurate and effective aerial bombing at a number of large bombardier training schools scattered throughout the country. The fledgling flyers are known as "pullets" until they drop their first bomb. In preparation for their job as aerial bombardiers, they follow perhaps the most intensive course of training existing in any of the Air Force schools today. While the course of instruction is not quite as long as that for training pilots, it is definitely more exacting in that much of the air training is conducted at night and at very high altitudes, requiring heavy flying clothes and oxygen for breathing.

To give the cadets added incentive in their training flights, a mock version of the German battleship, "Von Tirpitz," has been laid out on the dry "seas" of Midland, Texas, where the world's largest bombardier school is located. Daily these "Hell from Heaven" men, as they have been nicknamed, drop practice bomb loads on a patch of ground marked out in the proportion of the "Von Tirpitz" decks. Wooden replicas of the gun turrets are placed at the approximate stations where they would be found on the Nazi craft. This is an appreciated departure from the more conventional type of target used for bombardier training for the young man who soon will be training bombsights on the real thing.

Army Air Force cadet bombardiers reporting to another Army Air Base at San Angelo, Tex., are handed copies of a publication entitled "Cadet Bombardier," designed to orient them with activities at the base, and offering suggestions which may prove helpful to them while there.

"Cadet Bombardier" tells the incoming cadets that "qualifications for graduation during the 12th week of the bombardier course depend upon immediate application and perpetual intensiveness with which a cadet applies himself to the program."

The publication also introduces cadets to the "Society of Axis Exterminators" and the Bombii.

The Society of Axis Exterminators' membership card stipulates that the holder, "being a duly initiated member of this Brotherhood of the Bombsight, is authorized to damage, destroy, demolish and otherwise bomb the hell out of the Axis."

And the Bombii? Here's how the "Cadet Bombardier" describes this phenomenon:

"The RAF has its Gremlins which cause its fighter pilots all kinds of trouble, but when AAF bombs fail to hit the mark at this bombardier college, it is the fault of the Bombii.

"Bombii are different from Gremlins in that they are qualified bombardiers and understand the complicated mechanism of the famed secret bombsight. According to cadets at San Angelo Army Air Field, they were spawned by Satan and use bomb shackles for teething rings. Being natives of the West Texas cattle country, they can ride a falling bomb to a standstill. They can make a bomb turn handsprings, and to the despair of the bombardier, land it far from the target.

"With the accuracy of their bombing guaranteed by the bombsights, cadets maintain that the only time they miss a target is when a Bombii interferes.

"Like all aviation groups, Bombii are divided into air crews and ground crews. A prime function of the ground crew, cadets say, is to move the target as soon as the cadet bombardier has released his bombs. Groups of the little demons can push a 200 foot target as much as 50 yards in the few seconds between the time the bombs are released and the time they hit the spot where the exact center of the target was at the moment the cadet let go his bombs.

"Another function of the Bombi ground crew is to filch vital mathematical tables from the cadet bombardier's "greenhouse" before the takeoff. Many complicated mathematical formulae are required to make accurate bombing computations. These tables the cadet invariably places in his "office" or "greenhouse" for instant use at the moment of need. But 15,000 feet up, when he reaches for one of the charts, it isn't there. A Bombi has put it somewhere in the operations room where the cadet finds it when the flight is ended.

"During night bombing maneuvers the Bombi night crew dims the target lights just as the cadet tries to line them up in his bombsight.

"Hand picked members of the Bombi ground crew have a very special function. Cadets are given demerits for any lack of personal neatness. Certain Bombii are detailed to unfasten pocket buttons at the moment a cadet enters the commandant's office. Others rub polish off recently shined shoes and belt buckles. Bombii sergeants are detailed to tweak the commandant's nose and otherwise arouse his ire so that the cadet receives the maximum disciplinary punishment provided by regulations.

"In the air, Bombii who have won their wings get down to serious business. One of them carries a "widget," a tool that is a cross between a Boy Scout knife and a machine shop, and is complete down to pencil and eraser. When the cadet bombardier is intent on computing data just before releasing his bombs, this Bombi erases his figures and substitutes others. As a result the bombs land up to a half mile away from the target.

"The San Angelo cadets also describe the broncho-busting Bombii which ride the bombs earthward and make them buck and wobble so that they don't drop true. Others merely steer the bombs so that they hit a few feet to one side of the target. Another Bombi blows strong puffs through the air tube so the air speed indicator gives a false reading. Still another Bombi, named Salvo, pushes the lever releasing all the bombs just at the moment the cadet is ready to release one of them. The results, claim the cadets, are most embarrassing.

"Some Bombii waggle the wings at the moment of release; others change the altimeter reading or put a magnet on the compass and thus play hob with the computations. Another pounds the ear phones and disrupts pilot-bombardier communications. One Bombi empties the black powder out of the spotting charge of the practice bomb. He does this when the other Bombii are resting and when the cadet, therefore, is scoring a perfect hit. The hit doesn't go into the cadet's record, however, because without the powder charge, there is no puff of smoke to show where the bomb landed.

Still another Bombi rides the bombardier's shoulders and back, and as he moves about in the close quarters of the plane, pulls switches which cut off the motors, shut the bomb bay doors, release bombs, and change fuel mixture. For these shenanigans the bombardier gets blamed.

"Pilots, not being qualified bombardiers, are unable to perceive Bombii and are therefore unsympathetic to the protestations of personal innocence which characterize the cadet's explanations of why his bombs fail to hit the mark.

"Fortunately for the cadets, the rapid expansion of bombardier training facilities in the great West Texas bombing area, has caused a tremendous shortage of Bombii. There aren't enough of them to "service" all the cadets through all of their three-months' course. With the new cadet classes arriving every three weeks, the Bombi crew must give their attention where it is most needed, to the new men, with consequent neglect of senior groups whose bombing scores show immediate great improvement. Rid of their tormentors, the cadets are in the last month able to demonstrate their proficiency and qualify for combat operations.

"But, say the cadets who have survived the Bombi menace, heaven help the Army Air Forces if there are ever enough Bombii to go around. Even Superman couldn't get a bomb on the shack if a San Angelo Bombi wanted it otherwise."

THOUSANDS OF GIRLS were posed in this picture. T. M. Burns, superintendent of Fuze & Booster Area, invited his employees to be present at the Merit Award Committee announcements made public May 20.

News and Notes from EOP Safety Engineers

Clem Eiden, good natured safety engineer for the shop areas, is going bareheaded these days. It all began at a Fellowship meeting when Clem's new $6.50 bonnet disappeared and in its place was left a felt with some service in it, but not for him. It perched on his thick, shaggy locks like the cherry on a jumbo soda. So Clem went to the barber, explained the situation, and had his hair sheared down to fit the hat.

No one around the office recognized him for a few days until the story got out. Eiden didn't have much to say, usually stood at the edge of a crowd or in the corner where he was more or less unnoticed.

Several days later, Clem came in with no hat at all, looking like a member of the Harvard crew, (apologies to the H. C.). In the bottom of his streamlined special, he had found a name, J. E. Ryan of EOP RR.—and being an honest chap, Clem returned the hat.

Clem is in a pickle. He can't wear his original hat (if he had it) until his hair grows out again; he has no replacement since returning it to Ryan, and the best way he can balance his books is—$6.50 hat plus a 75 cent close-fitting hair cut, which equals $7.25 loss without subtracting for lost looks and self-assurance.

"Speaking of posters," said Karl Ulrich, assistant safety director, "a good poster must have enough color to attract attention, enough originality to hold attention and enough depth (thought) to make an influencing impression on those to whom and for whom the poster was planned."

"But" continued Mr. Ulrich, "a good poster like a good picture deserves to be hung where the light is right. It should be so arranged as to utilize its color, originality and content to make a favorable impression. A battery display of the 'Four Freedoms' by Norman Rockwell in Group 3-A, exemplifies the proper use of good posters well exhibited. Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick is proud of the arrangement of these posters in Bldgs. 3 and 10. Rumor has it that Foreman Colby Erickson and his men had much to do with the poster board and its arrangement. Safety Engineer Don Crowther, too, had a part in the planning and hanging."

According to Emory M. Akeman, safety engineer in Group 3-A, Guy Gagner, sub-foreman, finds good housekeeping easy. "Nothin' to it," said Guy. "Moppin' ain't hard work, unless you make it such—now these girls like rhythm and have got rhythm and so when it comes mopping time—five or six girls grab mops and sing as they swing."

H. J. Beringer, affable safety engineer in Group 1, is recovering from pneumonia at St. Joseph's Hospital in Joliet. Coincidentally, his assistant, Loren Cain, reports that Mrs. Cain is in the Ottawa hospital, same name, same room number as Beringer's in Joliet.

Hospital

EVELYN RICHARDS

Speaking of blossoms, not only flowers dood it—Bertha Perush was surprised by her sister's appearance at the Hospital, displaying bright red spots on her skin. Upon examination the verdict was measles. A few days later she went home with the little flu bug and a high temperature.

Due to a cloudburst—so he says—Tom Moore had to make a change from his suit to blue denim overalls for the afternoon.

As the rain poured down Mary Philbin went into a dither about her new spectator pumps bought with her ration stamp 17. But she was thankful she could save the precious gadgets by wearing her bowling shoes home.

Vance Cook turned out to be a cabinet maker while convalescing from measles. His wife wanted a desk so he set out to make it. Working hard, he put long hours into it and was able to finish it for their anniversary.

Lucille Frances Nahas, nurse at Group 3, left EOP for the Army. She departed May 24 for Camp Grant. Ruth Matthews has replaced her.

A luscious yellow - pineapple filled cake was brought by Ann Johnson and a raisin nut spice cake by Marjorie Hartong in celebration of Elizabeth Russell's birthday.

Capt. Resch Transferred To Oak Ordnance Plant

Capt. Alois G. Resch, Army Inspector of Ordnance at EOP was transferred to Oak Ordnance Plant, Decatur, Ill., it was announced by Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer.

Captain Resch who will serve under Lt. Col. Don M. Hoffman, present commanding officer of Oak Ordnance Plant, and former commandant here, was a member for seven years of the Illinois National Guard, saw duty in the 124th Field Artillery in Chicago, his birthplace, before enlisting in the regular army. In June 1941, he was commissioned as a second lieutenant and became company commander of the 108th Ordnance Company at Camp Forrest, Tenn. He participated in the Louisiana maneuvers between August and October, 1941, as aide to Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, after which he was transferred to Aberdeen Proving Ground where, after two months, he came here, eventually receiving a promotion to captain and becoming Army Inspector of Ordnance.

Capt. Resch received his education at Chaminade College, graduating in 1924, and was connected with the Lincoln Motor Company in Chicago. He is 37 years old and will live in Decatur with Mrs. Resch, their two sons and one daughter.

The Group welcomed Herman Beringer, safety engineer, back last week, when he returned after his battle with pneumonia. It was quite a fight but Herm won . . . Speaking of safety engineers, Reno Jones, graveyard safetyman, really pulled a good one in the first aid class he has been attending at Joliet High School. The instructor asked if any of the students had ever had any previous experience in putting splints on broken bones. Reno raised his hand and said, "Why yes, I have. I threw a corn cob at a chicken once and broke its leg. I put a splint on it, and it got along just fine." Reno undoubtedly was promoted to the head of his class and will probably graduate with highest honors, since previous experience means a great deal.

Freddie Copp, oiler, announced his departure from the maintenance department last week and the machinists tried for two days before he left to get the address of his best girl, whom he is regretfully leaving behind. Freddie made a great mistake when he showed her picture to the wrench and screw-driver mob in Group 1. They agreed unanimously that she'd be very nice to come home to and tried every method—even bribery—to get her name and address from Freddie.

John Pate, component juggler, had all his upper bicuspids extracted and would appreciate any helpful suggestions on how to talk without lisping. This is the first time in John's life he ever tired of a liquid diet.

If anyone wonders what Group 1 toilers do in their spare time, just ask Marie Zottarelli, Bldg. 13. Marie, who plays a piano and a vibra-harp and sings, has a band of her own that gets booking enough to keep her spare time pretty well occupied.

The girls in Bay 13, Bldg. 13, really enjoy their work, 'cause Jerry Donar keeps the place lively. Jerry is one of those well-known "personality kids" who makes everyone forget sore muscles and tired backs toward the end of the day. A little honest-to-goodness laughter does a lot for a hard working gal and Jerry's the girl who can promote it.

Arnold Rink, machinist, has a new girl friend in Kankakee and gets so flustered when he takes her out that he goes through every stop sign in town. The machinists think it's pretty funny when a man of Rink's experience lets a woman bother him like that.

Winnie Meeker, forelady, Bldg. 10, is a grandma for the first time and is so excited she can hardly work. The baby is an eight pound 7 ounce boy named Floyd Raymond—after grandpa. Winnie hasn't been able to talk about anything else for a week—she can't even appreciate a good story any more.

The happiest thing in ye old writer's life was the invitation to be the guest of Harrison Smith at a party commemorating the first birthday of The Bomb-Shell, the little fellow who started his life just a year ago . . . the first time your correspondent saw him she knew that this six pages of news was a "chip off the old block" in representing the spirit and comradeship of EOP . . . like most babies his start in life was a "howlin" success . . . he has undergone many "changes" and under the extreme care of "Doctor" V. C. Bailey and Godfather Smith, he has developed into a strong, well-proportioned child who has been invited into the homes of many exalted personages . . . his first tooth was cut when EOP won the Army-Navy "E" . . . he proved to be a child prodigy by winning second award in recognition of the outstanding merit of this publication in the industrial publications field by the Industrial Editor's Association of Chicago. . . . Leo Gaffey has been transferred from the Purchasing Department to the office of R. T. Bassett, assistant comptroller.

An old timer is back at the Administration Building—the popular guard, Harry Larson.

Word has been received that Ray Marquardt is located at Camp Grant at Rockford.

Hester Bishop left the Auditing Department May 22.

It was the damp weather that made Frances Page's hair so curly—she got a new permanent and it is very becoming.

C. J. Coburn and Frank Smith compromised and exchanged offices. The arrangement is better for all concerned.

When Lola Early of E. O. Huey's office was asked if she had any news, she laughed and said, the best news she had was the fact that she is leaving next week on her vacation. She is going bye-bye to Washington, D. C., to see her brother.

Virginia Cashen says she is getting up-to-date on her work. She took time off to be with Ray Shepley, former timekeeper in the Administration Building, when he was home on furlough.

Mary Gliha, timekeeper, has been transferred to Richards' Farm.

R. L. Voss set up housekeeping in the stock room along with the Timekeeping Department. No one can say that Earl Moline, Russell Voss, Ann Baird, Margaret Fitzhugh and Edith Lewis don't get along fine—just one happy family.

It is a thrill to listen to a news commentator and hear a familiar name. Such was the case May 19 over WBBM at 10:30 p. m. when Eugene Read, commentator, quoted Col. T. C. Gerber.

Dean Robinson, of the Purchasing Department, left May 29.

W. G. Lanterman is still burning because Scorchy mentioned his driving—he maintains he always did drive 35 miles an hour.

C. Harold Taylor, former executive secretary, was a business visitor at the plant.

Eugene "Red" Bennington is located at Atlantic City, N. J., as a military clerk. He is going to Specialist School.

Jackie Dailey is entertaining her boy friend, Sgt. John Hastert of Camp Claiborne, Louisiana. He is home on a furlough.

An office chair that squeaked started all the excitement, but before it ended both Robert Withey and Hugo Brauer were down on the floor on their hands and knees. With the chair upside down before them they started the application of science (which looked like oil to everyone else). Attention was diverted and what feats of magic they performed no one witnessed, but in less than two minutes the chair was upright and it didn't make a single grating noise.

Selma Brown claims the prize each year for being the first one to come to work in sparkling summer clothes. On the first warm sunny day, which no one had forseen, Selma, the clairvoyant, looked like a breath of spring and made every other girl in the department feel like a little gray field mouse.

If you have missed one of the "Mr. Anthony" programs, don't fret for Betty Diehl can start at the beginning of any episode and tell you almost every word verbatim.

It's been a long siege of illness for both Jean Chase and Cora Adelman. Jean has been back for a few days but is now forced to stay at home for a short while with an ear infection while Cora has been lying in bed for three weeks.

Every morning when Colletta Wright walks in the door wearing something different, someone pops the question, "Did you make that?" She sews so expertly that no one is quite sure and so the stock question follows. Of course, it used to be that anyone could say to Audrey Deiss, "Deissie, your blouse is out," but she's fooled them. She purchased three blouses that have extra long "tails" and now she's not troubled.

Vivian Jones is so even tempered that someone is always teasing her just to test how long she can manage to stay sweet. Quite often she used a rubber filing finger, and the other day when she picked it up and put it on, it was filled with ink. That wasn't quite as bad as the day it "accidentally" fell out of the window.

No one has a grudge against Margaret "Peg" Collins, but they did have to laugh when she answered, "Oh, I knew something last week," in answer to a query.

Stephen McGann was demonstrating the Minnesota University prize cheer in the approved style recently and finished the conversation by saying he was going to wear shorts and a pith helmet during the hot weather.

Oliver Pearce's little boy, "Donnie," came wandering into the building one noon hour and made such a sensation that he was almost frightened. Donnie, who is almost 5 years old, had driven out with his mother to help in the Victory garden and had stopped to see his father. Not to be outdone, the next day Al Dearth walked down the hall early in the afternoon with the sweetest little boy about 2½ years old. He attempted to claim him as his own son, but everyone knew that he didn't have any children. By buying him a chocolate bar, Al had induced Jimmy to come visiting with him while his mother was being interviewed.

While the friendly rivalry was progressing, Clinton Matteson just sat back and smiled from the height of his approved certificate for a new car.

It was just the end of the conversation that was overheard between Florence Dunterman and David Graves, but he was repeating, "I've seen it; I remember it. She must have had it or I wouldn't have done it, but why I didn't record it I don't know." While snooping on conversations, don't forget Dolores Courtney surprising everyone by divulging that they have had several snow storms in Ireland recently. No one paid much attention until they remembered that her soldier husband is over there. He tells of shepherds lifting lambs out of drifts with their staffs.

The Army life expert from Personnel, Ferris Ashamy, has been transferred to another department. The girls will have to find someone else to consult concerning life in the camps and what really happens behind the scenes.

If you'd been in the building when Marion Griffey arrived May 22, you couldn't have missed her grieved expression. She had waited for a nice day to make a trip into Chicago and then when she did come all dressed up and with plans complete, it began to rain. She was very philosophical about it after her first disappointment with the remarks that she could hardly have chosen anything but a rainy Saturday for her shopping trip with weather upset as it was.

In demonstrating her point, Georgiana Flavin described something with her hand and scratched Gilbert Anderson who was riding beside her in the car. Just as calmly as she had performed the act, he reached over and bit off her finger nail which had been the instrument of torture. All is forgiven!

June Morgan is learning to salute. Of course, it's a difficult job for Marge Bittles to refrain from laughing but June is determined to master the WAAC salute and is making progress. Just ask her for a demonstration and then watch her feet.

Poor Fred Cadwallader was really working under duress. He had written a prompt reply to the post card from William Pohlman, former interviewer, now stationed at Camp Lee, Va., but the postmaster had conspired against him and placed the cancellation stamp directly over the return address. He had everyone in the building trying to decipher the complicated address. Finally someone pulled out his card and they obtained the correct address in that manner. "Bill" has been busy recently sending cards to his many friends in the building. After a short basic training course, he will take a specialized course to "learn to handle personnel work the army way."

EMPLOYEES HONORED with U. S. Army certificates of merit for their suggestions for the war program are James C. Gordon, Edward H. Bick, George W. Bigelow and Nicholas E. Whitney.

The Elwood Ordnance Plant

Sanderson and Porter

upon the recommendation of the Merit Award Committee hereby awards

the

E.O.P. Certificate of Merit

in recognition of meritorious service beyond the call of duty, thereby aiding the Elwood Ordnance Plant to more successfully perform its mission on the Production Front in this, Our War.

By _____ Commanding Officer.

By _____ General Manager.

EOP CERTIFICATE OF MERIT is reproduced here. It is offered to any worker who makes a suggestion for speeding up the war effort, either through the saving of time or money.

WORKERS WERE REWARDED with EOP certificates of merit, presented to four representative men by Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter.

Recreation

E. L. WALKUP
Director

Not many here have had an opportunity to see the EOP baseball team play any games so far this year, but the few who have attended the games in Joliet agree that the team does honor to EOP with such stand-bys as Bob Plese, Bob Enger, Edward Spezio, Eddie Murphy and many others.

Lew Hoffman and Pete Wagner, both of the Paint Shop, have been doing some nice hurling for the boys, although they've had little opportunity to get their arms in shape. Watch them in mid-season. When the team takes the field, they sure look as if they were all fresh from the cleaners—Jim "Deacon" Grady certainly is taking care of his part.

The softball teams are pulling for some playing weather. They have three weeks of postponements to make up. It's going to be anybody's trophy in the men's league. All teams seem strong.

The timekeepers at Richards' Farm are horseshoe conscious and with their own courts, they hope to develop players strong enough to trim the firemen.

As soon as the sun poked his nose over the hills and fields, the Victory gardners started in planting, replanting and cultivating. Many of the expensive seed potatoes were lost in the floods. Do you remember when the grocer used to plug an oil can with a potatoe?

Table tennis players are requested to look over the tournament schedule and play their next game. Call at the office if you don't know against whom you play next.

The next dance, June 12, under the auspices of Group 3-A, promises to be even more elaborate than the other swell dance sponsored by this group last winter. Waltzers can look forward to several of their favorite numbers during the evening. Yep—a regular old fashioned prize waltz should be popular.

Word from Clara Louise and Clarice Cecilia Lieb, twin sisters formerly employed here, reveals they are now in Naval Training School, New York.

The Girls' Softball League is all set to go. Six teams are playing and each one is anxious to get started. Games will be played on Monday and Thursday of one week and Thursday of the alternate week.

Don't forget the Group 3-A dance. Big doin's!

Material Warehouse

FRANK McCORMICK

Charles Herbig and his able assistants were honored and pleased May 24 by the presence of former Material Checker Joseph R. Ferguson, who paid a visit to the plant while on furlough from the armed forces. Joe is now a line sergeant in the Anti-Aircraft Division of the Coast Artillery, stationed at Los Angeles, Calif. Joe is a picture of health in uniform and said that Uncle Sam really takes care of his nephews when it comes to food and exercise.

Matthew Reay, material checker, formerly stationed in the South Inert group, was called to the service and left May 29 for Camp Custer, Michigan, where he went into training to assume his new duties. If Matthew puts forth the same effort there that he did here it won't be long till this war is over. His many friends and fellow workers wish him the best of luck and hope to hear from him often.

Last payday, Perry Bruno got the bright idea that he could beat his old pal, "Pops" Chester Melville, out of 25 cents, so after consulting his best friend and legal advisor, Johnnie Baldon, about the best way to do it, he bet "Pops" a quarter that he had more money on his pay check with a one dollar bill pasted on it and Bruno showed a check with a lonesome quarter attached thereto, Bruno will never consult Johnnie again about money making schemes.

It seems as though Material Checker Devereaux Y. English has had more experience than any other warehouse employee. He told the boys one day that he was a swing engineer on a job building a large cotton gin at Columbus, Ga. He also drew the plans and supervised the building of the Navy pier at Brest, France, in the first World War. He was called to Washington not so long ago to help straighten out some affairs there at a dollar a year but declined the offer. He claims he is working here to help retain his health.

Q. When was the khaki uniform first worn by the U. S. Army?

A. It was first worn in 1898 by the volunteer troops in the Spanish-American War. It was found that the heavy woolen, dark blue uniform was too hot for the tropics. The khaki was found so serviceable, that the whole dress Regulation for the Army was changed to khaki.

Where did the "grenade" get its name?

A. We've heard that grenades were named after the pomegranate because this fruit made a rattling noise when shaken. Your guess is as good as ours as to how much truth there is to it.

Q. What happens to a soldier's family allowance if he deserts the Army?

A. Payment of monthly allowance will terminate at the end of the month in which notice is received of the soldier's conviction of desertion or after he has been absent in desertion for three months, whichever occurs first. If he is later restored to duty such allowance may be reinstated as of the first of the month next succeeding that in which such restoration occurs.

Group 4

Group 4 welcomes its new superintendent, W. D. Whaley, Jr., Ass't Sup't. John Neeley, Foremen Al Chidsey and Del Millikin and Foreladies Aleatha Cleary and Luella Williams.

Peppy Tomac is known as "Ragtime Cowboy Joe."

Peggy Phillips is quite a contortionist—she's convinced though, that the floor isn't a safe place on which to land.

All are wondering if Dorothy Guarneri will come back from Kansas City with a diamond on her finger.

If you ever have a flat tire on your way from work, just notify Myrtle Fordyce and Alice Nehl. They sure do good repair work.

Marge Jenco seems to have lots of strength. Could be onions!

For information on why they call Mary Foster, "Lovey Dovey," go to Bernard "Mac" McNamara.

Bing "Lana" Enger keeps in shape by drinking at least a quart of milk every day.

Dorothy Berta week-ended at Normal, Ill., and there met a Norwegian flyer.

Bob Welch is being transferred to Group 1.

Ozzie Machak is kept busy at the local Coast Guard Recreational Center.

Betty Johnson's and Rita Rossetto's favorite song is "Don't Get Around Much Anymore." Navy priorities, perhaps—!

Denny "Cute As A Button" Elliott is now taking in rumors.

John Chaldek never won a bet in his life.

Lois Schultz keeps singing "I'm Saving Myself for Bill."

No one blushes any prettier than Inspector Virginia Andreason.

If Mary Bick doesn't get her tires soon, it looks as though she might be wending her way to EOP via shanks' ponies.

Rose Macuk is known as the professional can opener.

Group 4 cafeteria service opened May 25. The girls are very much pleased with the idea.

Birdella Brackney's son was recently inducted into the Army.

Gertrude Wilhelmi—the blushing beauty, is quite tall and handsome.

You don't find two nicer girls than Myrtle Troutman and Mickey Synorki, but, girls, watch out for those tempers.

Pauline "Corky" Perush's familiar face has been missed since she's been home with the measles.

Kay Kessler of the shipping room has been wearing a very broad smile lately.

The shipping room, 4-14, welcomes Walter O'Hearn.

Dorothy Lamber, inspector of the shipping room, said she will soon be ready to join the Carpenters' Union.

Group 6

Congratulations are sent to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Widlowski, who are the proud parents of an eight pound, 6 ounce son, born May 17. He has been named John Andrew. "Nick," who has been proudly passing out the cigars, is a machinist in 6-6.

Helen Karl and Marge Zugel, 6-4, were the center of attraction at Group 6 with their original WOW skirts. The girls designed these skirts out of bandanas with the "Flaming Bomb" insignia. The girls deserve congratulations for their cleverness and originality.

PFC Louis Peters, a former employee of Group 1, who is stationed at Camp Young, Indio, Calif., with the Engineers Division, wrote his sister, Miss Karl, that he enjoys reading The Bomb-Shell. After he reads it, he passes it on to the other soldiers who also enjoy it.

All wish little Mary Vint the best of luck in her marriage to Corp. Eddie Majcina. Mary and Eddie were married April 27.

Rita Dupuis and Angela Turk will be the next girls to take the final step. They each have those diamond engagement rings which mean so much.

Edith Cuno, timekeeper, resigned to marry that soldier who has been away for such a long time. The big day was May 29.

Group 3

It seems Anthony "Frenchie" Pacquet of Bldg. 16 is somewhat downhearted these days. He lost his billfold three different times last week and each time it was returned he had to part with a huge reward. Giving the reward didn't bother him nearly as much as the realization that he has spent over a year at Group 3 and no one showed any signs of knowing Anthony Pacquet. Of course everyone knew him as "Frenchie," and had never inquired about his full name.

Ed Doyle is away ahead of the times right now. Not much is known about the gag, but, he has already presented Everett Denoyer with his next year's Valentine.

News has just been received that Joe Garavalis, formerly a member of Group 3, now a member of the Marine Corps, was promoted to corporal. Good luck is extended to him by all of his friends back here at home.

Things that can't happen here . . . E. "Dutch" Ahrens working on the day that he is not supposed to be off.

Bob Hankes was seen taking Vitamin pills. Some one said he probably was taking Vitamin C.

All that is needed now is a Government ok on the new type amphibian jeep owned by one of the fire guards.

Wayne Munyon has been the object of quite a bit of well-meant kidding in the last 12 months, but all kidding aside, the gang really extends good wishes to him in his new connection with Uncle Sam.

By the time this reaches the press John "Mac" McCarthy will have left the confines of EOP. "Mac" has proved very efficient and, also very friendly in all his dealings through the superintendent's office.

Points, rationing, femmes . . . finally got Dan Considine down . . . believe it or not . . . yep . . . he was seen wearing woman's shoes the other day . . . from all reports he looked pretty snappy, too . . . It's hard to believe that things have come to that . . . but in this day and age who knows??

GIFT from Karl Ulrich, assistant safety director, to Asst. Supt. John Johnson of Group 2, is the cocker spaniel held here by Mary Jane Sohan, daughter of Foreman Robert Sohan of Group 2.

Someone was asking why William Van Houten always has a "harem" around him in the Mess Hall???? . . . Answer . . . simple: . . . "Colonel" Van Houten can put out that charmin' chatter and has a swell sense of humor . . . which in this day and age is a wonder . . .

Speaking of the Gage Lab . . . Warren Weithofer stopped in to say goodbye the other day . . . he is going home to Wisconsin . . 'Spect that a certain gal in the Inspection office by the name of Catherine "Tommy" Tomlianovich will miss that gage technician . . . No?

Pretty Marge Kangley of Personnel took off for Florida to see her soldier brother, Norm Long . . . You all remember Norm, he was in Auditing.

Saw in the local gazette where Jerome Kren . . . who used to be a big help to Jo Kush in Mail and Records is rapidly becoming a thespian . . . He has a leading role in a high school play . . . Don't say EOP graduates don't make good?? . . . His co-worker at one time . . . Ray Marquardt left for the armed forces . . . Ray also worked in Mail and Records before he transferred to the Stock Room . . . Now there will be another "Mail user upper" . . . Clare Shol will be spending all her spare pennies on postage . . .

John Welch has the snappiest voice . . . always quick and to the point . . . plus that he has a hearty laugh and sparkling eyes . . . to add up a thumb nail biography . . . a swell guy.

Many wonder what happened to Carl Anker. He joined the Army and so far not a peep out of him? . . . Sure miss his decorative ability around here. There was one guy who knew color schemes and what to do with them . . . Dick Nemanich sure looked dignified coming out of the conference room the other day . . . but that's Dick . . . when there is business at hand Dick takes care of it . . .

Ann Kulpa has a secret that she thinks no one knows about, but someone does.

Josephine Vilt is back to work after a session with the measles.

Ask Mavis Emerson about the moron who is dead now??? . . . a gooney bird told someone that she had the best answer . . . could be!

Suppose J. Thomas Haigh is now traveling in the higher realms of star dust . . . He got hitched May 24 and will bring his pretty bride—Lois Healy Haigh to Kankakee for all the guys and gals to see . . .

Hazel Kossak, former adjutant office employee, was back to see the folksies the other day . . . she was sure tan . . . and looked like a million . . . says hubby, Art, is fine and enjoying the Army life . . . Brought greeting from him to his former collegues . . .

It is now Capt. R. E. Pinnick . . . Gosh . . . that is good news . . . he passed out the big fat cigars, too . . . Jim G. George had a heck of a time convincing himself that it wasn't too much for him . . . the cigar!

By the way . . . candy was being passed around the public relations office. Yep . . . Capt. Paul D. Cooper and the Mrs. have a new daughter . . . she'll be a big "help" to Priscilla, the captain's other daughter.

Many wonder why Kay Rosenbaum was all dressed up the other Saturday . . . sorta looked like she was Chicago bound . . . Could be?? . . . The gals were saying that Betty Kovach's uniformed boy friend is tall and blonde . . . Bea Berge, personnel chief, has a keen picture of her "baby" brother in Uncle Sam's Army . . . Anne Kakara of Mail and Records is sporting a new permanent . . . Mary Lou Schwarts of that office is now settled in the adjutant's office and a nice addition, too . . . she's sweet and polite and courteous . . . which is just what the office calls for . . . Her husband, Bill, is stationed in California and Mary Lou is looking forward to a vacation so she can buzz down there and see him . . . This column has again made the grade . . . someone complained about their name being used in it . . . isn't that wonderful . . . it just goes to show that it is being read . . . which is a shot in the arm to any writer . . . no matter how corny?

Edward Bernstein, foreman, who recently was commissioned as an ensign in the Naval Reserve, left for active duty June 1. All wish him the very best of luck in his new undertaking. A group of friends and fellow employees gathered May 24 for a surprise farewell party for him. Everyone enjoyed a chicken dinner, and seemed to have a good time.

Group 8 is proud of its machinist foreman, James C. Gordon, who was given the Merit Award citation for three mechanical devices, which have created an improvement in production, and a saving in manpower and labor costs.

Frank Zupancic, timekeeper, has been transferred to Group 5, and Art Couch is taking his place. The new black powder foreman, here is Harry Chatterton.

Bill Birtwistle just can't forget that bicycle trip he wants to take this Summer. Bill wants to go bicycling through the Rockies.

Group 3-A will sponsor another party and dance at the Recreation Building, Saturday evening, June 12. A contest with a cash prize was held among the employees to find a name suitable for the big event. After the judges, Supt J. J. Fitzpatrick, Flossie Marshall, Margi Morris and Jack Carroll, carefully sorted approximately 500 entries, —"Waltzing to Victory with Block Busters' Festival," submitted by Mary Vranesic, Bldg. 12, was chosen.

Committee have been appointed to take care of several details such, as tickets, refreshments transportation, decorations and booths.

Mr. Fitzpatrick said that several high class novelty acts will be featured for entertainment. Plans to make this party the best ever are now in full swing. The EOP Orchestra has been dated up from 9 until 2, giving plenty of time for workers on the third shift to get in on the fun.

Juliette Noel has received notice from the War Department that her son, Donald, a sailor, was killed in action somewhere in the Pacific.

Forelady Della Norman attended her daughter's graduation exercises at Mahomet, Illinois.

Viola Triebe and Dana Ivec, matrons in the girls' Change House, were presented with gifts on their birthdays, both of which were observed last week.

Stewart Law was about to give a news item to the inquiring reporter when he remembered that, in his own words, "Last time I put something in about somebody, the guy was mad at me for six months."

That cleverly executed bit of carving in the shape of a man's shoe, which graces Mr. Fitzpatrick's desk, as a paper weight, is a product of the knife of Joe Alamo.

SON of John Woodard, Electric Shop foreman, is Pfc. John Woodard, Jr., who is now overseas. He was an EOP employee before joining the armed forces.

Col. Gerber Tells of Shell Loading

25th Anniversary of Procurement Division Recalled by Speaker

At a luncheon in Chicago on May 19, attended by members of the Inland Daily Press Association, Col. T. C. Gerber stated:

"It is always a pleasure for me to meet with representatives of newspapers. Today's meeting brings back many pleasant and, to me, constructive press contacts I have had in the last three years, at four different ammunition plants in this area and, on my present assignment as field director of Ammunition Plants with headquarters in St. Louis. It is also a pleasure to see among your association some of my friends who have helped me and offered me all possible assistance on public relations problems.

The Ordnance Department, headed by Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell, Jr., who is known to many of you personally, has the job of designing, manufacturing, supplying, and maintaining practically all of the fighting equipment and ammunition used by our army.

The views which I may express here today are my personal ones and do not necessarily reflect the views of the War Department.

During my talk today, when I refer to ammuntion, I shall mean all of the items of the Ordnance Department containing explosives and the raw materials therefor, but I do not refer to our Ordnance small arms ammunition which is the ammunition fired by weapons having a bore diameter one-half inch or less.

Most all of these ordnance items are purchased through Ordnance Procurement Districts but the procurement of smokeless powder, explosives, and other raw materials is done largely through Government-owned privately-operated facilities. Yesterday, May 18, was the 25th birthday of the Ordnance Procurement District system. For generations the Ordnance Department has been furthering a closer relationship between Industry and Ordnance. The Ordnance Districts have accelerated this collaboration in the twenty-five years of their existence. The Ordnance Department is proud to be a part of the Industry-Ordnance team which has made the Ordnance program so highly successful during this war. These Ordnance Procurement Districts, of which there are thirteen, cover the United States and have boundaries which include the various industrial areas of the country. We are today assembled in the heart of the Chicago Ordnance District.

Industrial establishments, through contact with these Ordnance Districts, were able to select items of war time usage, which they could produce, and have been able to convert their plants from the manufacture of peace-time items to the manufacture of war needs. This has lead to retooling and has accomplished diversity on the part of manufacturers which will, no doubt, permit all of them to operate in a wider field during peace time. A great deal of this retooling has been in the direction of greater utilization of general purpose machinery which, of course, adds more flexibility to any shop.

Many of you come from areas near the great river valleys. These valleys contain many young industrial enterprises, and can be likened now to New England in the early days of the Republic. Here, in this great area, Industry has developed ingenious and talented artisans of the same type that were responsible for industrial leadership in this country a century ago. This area is also within the limits of territory we may consider strategically safe from enemy attack. Within the boundaries of all of the states representated here are located plants manufacturing something in our ammunition program, either metal parts, raw materials, or explosives. They also contain the huge Government-owned privately-operated facilities.

Yes, even in Canada, our good neighbors there are in business with us, through exchange of ideas and talents, and in the exchange of materials under Lend-Lease arrangements. The roll call of the states which you represent, and the ammunition items they produce, would read as follows, and yet cover but a fraction of the many products connected with ammunition produced therein:

Colorado—Artillery Projectiles; Kansas — Small Arms Ammunition, 20mm Ammunition, Ammonia and Loading Plant Products; Illinois—Shell, Explosives, Loading Plant Products. In fact practically all items; Missouri—Parachute flares, bombs, ammonia, and Explosives; Nebraska—Nose Fuzes and Loading Plant Products; South Dakota — Adapter Boosters, and Machine Tools; Iowa —Artillery Projectiles and Products of Small Arms Ammunition Plants and Loading Plants; North Dakota — Boosters and Machine Tools; Indiana—Smokeless Powder and Loading Plant Products; Minnesota—Small Arms Ammunition and Smokeless Powder; Wisconsin—Bombs, Explosives, and Smokeless Powder.

The Government-owned privately-operated Ordnance facilities, to which I have referred, are unique when viewed from the standpoint of cooperation between Government and Industry. Since this country did not possess a munitions industry, and since public funds were not available to the Ordnance Department to build these facilities in time of peace, it was necessary for us, in those times, to have our plans in shape so when the clouds of war did gather and funds became available to us, we could convert these plans into actualities. In nearly every war, one of the most important factors to the Generals, planning their campaigns, has been the amount of ammunition available. In fact, in World War I, a great many battles were started, simply because the side starting the push, had accumulated enough ammunition to begin the action. Such being the case, it is difficult to imagine having too much ammunition, or having "too-much too-soon."

These Government-owned Contractor-operated facilities have been successfully and efficiently operated, and I can assure you that because of their ability to produce, our troops will not be short of ammunition.

To give you an idea of the size of this new ammunition industry, the buildings, and equipment alone have cost in the neighborhood of two billion two hundred million dollars, and the operating cost is estimated at one billion seven hundred million annually. We feel that this enormous industry, which has no peace time counter-part, is typical of the miracles that American Industry can perform. It also indicates the adaptability of the American workmen. There are about a quarter of a million persons who have been trained in jobs which have no peace time similarity. Of course these figures do not include the metal-working plants, of private industry, of which there are thousands, and which vary in size from one and two-man shops up to large plants employing thousands of persons.

These new Government-owned ammunition facilities manufacture propellant powders, such as smokeless powder for all the various weapons; they manufacture the various types of explosives for shell fillers, bomb fillers, depth-charge fillers, etc. They also produce some of the important raw materials for these explosives, to augment the supply of raw materials available from peace-time sources. In addition to these explosives - and - raw - materials - producing-plants, which are essentially chemical plants, we have a great number of assembly plants, which we refer to as loading plants, and which the Canadians refer to as filling plants. Here the various explosives and metal parts are gathered together from all parts of the nation, and are made into items of ammunition, finished-up ready for delivery to troops.

Examples of some of this ammunition are the popular 1000-lb. bomb, which had such a vital part in the destruction of an entire Jap convoy, and the 4000-lb. bombs which are blasting Europe day and night.

These Government-owned contractor-operated ammunition facilities are supervised, from the Government administrative standpoint, by our Ordnance Department Ammunition Sub-Office in St. Louis. St. Louis was chosen because of its location with respect to the geographical distribution of these plants. This transfer from Washington to St. Louis was directed in 1942 by Gen. Campbell in accordance with his decentralization policy.

In order to conserve manpower, the managements have continuously worked toward the greater utilization of women. I have in mind one particular bomb-loading line that, at the beginning of the war, was manned by 100 per cent men, that is now operated by approximately 90 per cent women. Some of the women in every bomb-loading-plant are gold star mothers and you can rest assured that both quantity and quality of product are being obtained.

As the majority of our plants are located in the area covered by the circulation of your papers, I am sure that many of you are familiar with one or more of our plants. We want you to become familiar with more of them. We want our American public to know that these plants are giving a good account of themselves.

At the same time, the public should know that war is, by its very nature, a changing and ruthless state, because, in war, a man and his nation are fighting for existence.

We, as well as our enemies, are engaged in the design of munitions, in a constant effort to put into the hands of our troops, ammunition of the greatest destructive quality.

When our armies in the field tell Ordnance to deliver a different kind of a tank, a different bomb, a different gun, or a different projectile, we as servants of the fighting men, immediately translate their wishes into action. So, when contracts are terminated, or schedules are revised upward or downward, or items changed, and dislocation of employment results, it is but a reflection of the changing demands brought about by changing needs on our far-flung battle fronts. The American public can understand these things if the facts are presented to them.

A free press is the best medium of informing the people of those facts which affect them locally and nationally.

So we want you to become better acquainted with our problems and, through our plant officials, want to make available to you such information as you know has reader interest.

As to the bombs, themselves, each of these bombs is equipped with two fuzes, a tail fuze and a nose fuze, to insure proper action, when contacting the target. Each fuze contains approximately fifty parts. Each bomb contains from four to six different explosives, with each explosive having its own technical job to do in the train of operations that occur in that infinitesimal period between contact and explosion.

In terms of war bonds, every time a 4000-lb. block buster is dropped a thousand dollar war bond is needed to finance it. Every time a 500-lb. bomb is dropped, $150 in War Bonds is needed to finance it.

Displayed before you is an empty 500-lb. bomb, courtesy of Elwood Ordnance Plant, equipped with empty fuzes. A part not visible from the outside is a stem-like part called a booster. The booster contains a charge of explosive that is more sensitive and has a higher rate of detonation than the filler. The filler is generally TNT. The booster gives the detonation a good and more certain start. Our reports from the fighting fronts are to the effect that our bombardiers and observers have never seen a failure in any of our bombs.

The nose fuze, depending upon the type used, has from 10 to 50 parts and three different kinds of explosives. If the nose-fuze should fail, the tail fuze would detonate the bomb. The probability of both failing, is very remote. The arming wire prevents the fuzes from functioning until the wire is removed. It is removed by keeping the wire in the ship when the bomb leaves. If it is necessary to unload the bomb in friendly territory, the arming wire is left with the bomb, so that it will not detonate when it reaches the ground.

Naturally we need safeguards in making these items, in transporting them, and in handling them in their journeys from loading plants to troops, hence the care taken to select the series of parts and explosives that will do all of these things, and still produce the most destruction at the proper time. Imagine firing a watch down through the bore of a gun, have the firing start the watch ticking, and have the watch with an alarm-clock-arrangement start the explosion of the shell. Yet that is exactly what we do in anti-aircraft projectiles, with split-second timing.

Our American ingenuity, and American workmanship, under American industrial leadership have produced the finest Ordnance in the World, and we propose to maintain this high standard.

In conclusion I would like to express again, the pleasure and privilege it has been, to give you this brief sketch, of one of the activities of the Ordnance Department and look forward to meeting you again."

TWENTY-ONE first prizes in swimming meets have been won by Garry Curtis, son of Fireman C. J. Curtis, Group 60. He is 12 years old and was graduated from Washington School this month. He has a total of 34 awards gained at the YMCA, the Joliet Country Club and the Will County tourneys.

of the Committee's transactions will be transmitted to the Management for permanent file.

When the sponsor of a contribution is a member of the Merit Award Committee he will sign the contribution as sponsor only and not as a member of the Committee.

A contribution insofar as possible, will be considered and passed upon at the first meeting succeeding the meeting at which it is presented.

Action on recommendations for Merit Award after open discussion will be initiated by a motion from one of the members of the Committee and will be seconded by another member. A voice vote will then be entertained by the Chairman. In the event of a tie the Chairman will cast the deciding vote.

The Secretary will acknowledge all contributions by letter.

Contributors who are given the EOP Award and are recommended for the Ordnance Citation will be so informed by the Secretary.

All contributions recommended to the Office, Chief of Ordnance for Ordnance Department Citation will be automatically given the EOP Award.

A contributor shall receive no more than one EOP Certificate of Merit. Subsequent contributions will be appropriately acknowledged.

DETAILS OF JOB are explained by John J. Cole (right), newly appointed assistant general manager, to his successor as comptroller, Louis J. Kessel, who returned to EOP from the Sanderson & Porter construction project at Pine Bluff, Ark.

JOE MOTTA
Correspondent

In a man's mind there are occasions he will treasure for the rest of his life; I shall treasure the memories of my twelve months as correspondent for Group 61. I regret only one thing; I do not have space enough, in this edition, to mention each and every one of you individually, my co-workers and friends, for all the good things you have contributed toward making our Group one of the best of its kind. Therefore, I would like to dedicate this final column to everyone connected with the Nitrate Area, and while you are going over the lines, read them as though they were written especially for you . . .—Joe Motta.

James Morey is now working in Seneca.

A victim of a severe misfortune is H. O. Cadwell; the lad accidentally pulled out the one remaining hair that was left in his head. The "61" boys are very much upset; now they can't call him "Curly."

James Decker, Bob Hinz, John Auberry, Seward Brown, attended, what they termed, a lawn social at the home of Harvey Steffes.

Popular John McElvain resigned to accept another position closer to his home.

Traveling to Lexington, on a business deal, was Percy Boulware.

To Group 1 went Victor Nelson; many of the other boys from here went there, also.

Bill Kilbride, who is connected with the famous "Kilbride Bus Line," has the bad habit of teasing girls at Group 4. Rumors have it that Mr. Kilbride is "breeding a scab on his nose" by doing this—especially when he calls them "Joe."

The words of Allen Mayes, "it was with regret that the remaining few had to shake hands goodbye to the loyal men who were departing from Group 61. The group seemed to have a spirit of friendliness, everyone pulling to help the other. It is believed that this great spirit was built around our superintendent, P. L. Deylitz, who seemed to find time to greet every employee with a smile."

You will always remember . . . when James Glade wrote the first four editorials in The Bomb-Shell . . . Larry Lahrman and his well known cartoons . . . the day when Lawrence Holz came over as key timekeeper . . . that for a long time, Steve Juricic was angry at your correspondent for something he had printed . . . that Guard Clarence Scott was very popular here . . . when the draft board first notified Jess Shelby to report for his physical examination . . . when C. "Duke" O'Connor threw a party to celebrate his wedding . . . when for several weeks Marion Carter wore combination vest-pants . . . the memorable day when Lawrence Baudino and Mr. Hinz joined the Group as machinists . . . how William Johnston hurt his leg . . . the day after the night before that Ed Hasse went boat riding . . . the time Ed Schellhorn dialed the cigar lighter instead of the telephone . . . the nicknames "The Chief", "I", "Curly", "Seal Beam," "Coal Pile Kelly", "King", "Col. Kidney", "Pep", "Simon", . . . the expressions, "Who Killed Cadwell", "Berlin Bound", "Yanks Delight", "you know how it is", "I will do it this way", etc. . . . the ever-popular Bill Dooley . . . when Myrna Faris assumed duties as women's recreational director . . . how thrilled the fellows were when Betty Ross first stepped into the area . . . James "Scooter" Sinkular . . . Charles K. Wagoner joined the ranks . . . Whitney C. Miller, Mr. Cadwell, and Carl R. Carlson . . . at some time or other, foremen and former associates . . . that words can't express how wonderful a superintendent Mr. Deylitz has been . . . last but not least, Group 61.

Inspection

Correspondent

Many wonder if the flowers arriving in Group 27 could be for Robert Clark in Building 22.

Since the track walk has been established, John Vidano, Group 27, doesn't have anything to do.

Anyone having a good cure for sore feet, please contact Charles Luther at Group 27. The boys would also like to find out why he sold all his sheep.

The last report is that Cecil Young, Group 27, has been on the straight and narrow since his wife arrived to take over the home fires. The boys extend their welcome to the EOP family.

Harry Tanner, Group 27, is seriously considering an extended course in law. He has been getting so many complicated cases, he needs more schooling.

Ross Miller, Group 27, still contends there are more horses than there used to be.

The boys would like to find out if the south 40 on Ted Hintz's farm has been flooded. Last report had it that the corn crop was a failure.

Frank Feeney must be going to build a new home by the interest he takes in building houses out of fuze blocks.

The office of the Inspection Dept. is glad to see Harold Troupe, gage technician, back after a two-week illness.

Everyone is wondering why Stella Witten, Group 8, always answers questions with, "I won't tell!"

Lorraine Nelson, former inspector from Group 8, is stationed at Ft. Oglethorpe, Georgia, with the WAACS.

After a week's loneliness Ralph Pratt, senior inspector of Group 8, is smiling again. His wife has returned from a week's vacation.

LaVerne Gomora, Group 8, spent a few days with her folks at Carlinville, Ill.

Paul Mosteller, Group 62-S., decided to dispose of his Oldsmobile and use his thumb until Uncle Sam provides transportation—maybe not via Olds—but nevertheless transportation.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Thompkins spent the weekend in Chicago.

Alex Stein, Group 62-S., spent a vacation with his parents in Phoenix, Arizona.

Gaylen Ford, senior inspector of Group 9, is the proud father of a bouncing boy.

Fern Valiente is going in for horseback riding in a big way.

Many wonder why Agnes Scott and Reba Dodson insist on riding on Highway 66 between Gardner and Dwight. It's like riding in a jeep.

Albert Jones, Group 27, is back after a week's vacation spent in New Orleans. He claims no rain for some time in the southern state.

There must be something of interest in Group 27, Building 17, to keep Bill Hexter and Cecil Young so occupied.

Fred Daubek is late clocking out recently. It may be the egg deals he has with farmer Frank Feeny, or maybe he just doesn't like to leave Group 27.

Senator George Shaw has been officially designated as councilor-at-law for Group 27.

Several want to know what happened to the flower box planted by Steve Mentis and Micky Mauss, both of Group 27.

Thomas Virgil Mooty, Group 27, is reputed to be an authority on the weather.

Ben Wollan, Group 64, has returned from a vacation.

Mike Kelly, Group 64, was off a week with a touch of the flu. All are glad to see him back, and also will be glad to see Victor Skropa, Group 64, return from his sickbed.

The Government must have found it pretty expensive for Homer Peters, Group 73, to drive ME 17, the oil burner, as he hasn't been driving it lately.

Lawrence Myers, Group 73, was finally convinced he should leave his raincoat at home instead of cluttering the office with it . . . and it did stop raining.

Bob Rolence, Group 73, has a new car, probably as a result of all the nominal fees he has been requesting around the office.

Harold Rouff has returned from a vacation spent with his parents at Endicott, N. Y.

Flags were flying and everyone was in a gay mood on May 26 in Group 63. The big reason? None other than the birthdays of genial Supervisor, John Paul Edward Hall, Jr., (for further information concerning the title, consult Irving Bovee) and rotund, baby-faced, smiling Inspector, Ray Pfeifer. As Ray's big day was May 25 and Paul's May 26, it was one big occasion. The decoration committee, Ray Offerman, Tony Togliatti and Ed Suffern, received many compliments upon their originality. Unique garlands were draped from the "chandelier" to the windows and many bouquets of mustard flowers were placed throughout the office. Ice cream, pop and birthday cake were served.

Free hair cuts, any style: Crew, "G.I.," victory specials or otherwise, are now offered at Group 63. For further information see or call John "Shorty" Kezerle, George Mackey, Roy Erdmann, Leo "Farmer" Steffes, or any member of the Black Powder gang.

Recently Mr. Offerman did a little extra "work" aside from his regular duties as material checker and did he pay for it! A pair of extra long crutches made by Fred Taylor (Taylor - made) really helped for the next few days and it looks now as though he may recover if complications don't set in.

Stanley "Moustachio" Tworek says something should be done about him having to pick up all the TNT boxes on the bottom rows. That's good exercise for a waistline.

Donald F. "Tiger" Long, material checker for sometime at Group 63, has new worlds to conquer since his transfer to Group 62-S.

Robert J. "Rudy, Jr." Eyman traveled to Chicago June 2 for his induction examination and all know that his line and general presence (?), believe it or not, will be missed around here and that's for sure.

Group 66-A

When Charles Picco, better known as "Brain's" is inducted, the Army will have a man who will really tell them how to run things. Maybe!

Word has been received from Lloyd "Slim" Walsh, a former "Dead End Kid," now stationed at Great Lakes. He's worrying about a furlough already.

It is good to see Chester "Dad" Tucker back to work after his long illness.

Lost: One black dog answering to the name of Blackie. Whoever found him, please return him as the cat, Tommy, is lonesome.

'Tis said that St. Elmo "Kansas" Stewart doesn't need a phone when speaking to the boys in the field. He could just open the window and they would be able to hear him.

Group 66-A claims to have the cleanest clockhouse in the area. That's really a challenge for someone.

Group 68

By Elmer Zost

Charles Doyelle, Everett Cutsinger and Harry Anes, Jr., left to don the Navy blue and Henry Williams the khaki.

Jimmy Call sent a cheery hello to the gang and reported he is working for his Sergeant stripes in the cooking school at Ft. Warren, Wyoming.

Thanks go to one and all who made the dance at the Ivy Way Gardens such a wonderful success. Everyone had a grand and glorious time.

Inert Storage

One year of progress is marked by this issue of The Bomb-Shell. Your correspondents appreciate the newsy items sent in by the department employees and look for a bigger and better year to come. They wish to thank the editor and the readers of The Bomb-Shell for putting up with the offerings in the Inert Storage column.

In this issue is presented the many sided Stanley "Beercheck" Wiencek, foreman at South Inert. He has been travelling to work from Chicago each day for two years. All Fuze and Booster components come into his sphere. He can usually be found underneath a group of truck drivers, inventory clerks, and inspectors digging out a box of rejects dating back to Lot 1. He sits among the excesses and rejects directing the movements of elusive centrifugal plunger pin springs, delay element washers, rotor lock pin locks and other common everyday self-explanatory items. He says it's enough to drive a man to the horses and with the high price of oats on top of his other problems he can often be heard "fuzing" under his breath that a little booster would have made him a sure winner.

Vacations are getting under way, started by Richard Ashworth, George Newton and Andrew Cherrie.

The fishiest fish story of the season comes from Group 27, where Gordon "Gordo" Venturo and Horace Clark have no use for their red ration stamps. Each says that the other claims to catch enough fish each year to supply his family and neighbors.

Candidate for the unusual events title is North Inert's truck driver who, in a moment of excitement, sicked his pet bulldog on a very virulent kitten. It turned out to be a polecat and all three were quarantined.

Inert Storage was honored by visits from Uncle Sam's men formerly of EOP, Sgt. Joseph Ferguson, who was in the Material Stores Department; Corp. Ernie Storm, who was a squad leader at North Inert, and Pvt. Earl Potter, the man-sized inspector formerly of South Inert.

All feel a bit on the blue side as Matthew Reay, who grew up in Inert Storage goes to the Army. He leaves with a record that will stand as a guide for those who have been left behind to carry on.

On the Side

My recent expose of the life and habits of "Scorchy's" fire gutted personality has caused a new pilot house to be installed at the Burning Pit—that is real action.

Now that we have smoked him out of his "Front" he is really on the run. My sympathies are extended to the employees of the Burning Pit on the loss of your comfortable abode—you should not have allowed your most useful group to be used as a smoke screen for a chameleon.—Charles Mann.

With the decision to discontinue operations in Group 2 line as of May 31, 1943, it is with regret that your correspondents bid "au revoir" to each member of this group's personnel.

Many have watched the growth of Group 2 from the time construction began until the commencement of operations June 21, 1941. As you know, this was the first line to go into operation, and the splendid record established in meeting production schedules was due to untiring efforts.

From a sports viewpoint you will recall the championship won by Murphy's Boys in the West Park Division of the Gold Medal League in 1942. Many of the players left since to join Uncle Sam's armed services. The pennant, emblematic of the West Park Division championship, and the gold trophy, awarded for second place in the play-offs, will be retained by Supt. James J. Murphy.

To the three assistant superintendents and to every one who assisted in helping to make this column more enjoyable, your correspondents say, "thanks from the bottom of our hearts."

It would be a most flagrant case of ingratitude not to express appreciation to Gen. Supt. A. M. Lockwood and all Shop Area superintendents for their co-operation and loyalty in helping to meet the various operational problems.

Thanks are due also to Gen. Supt. E. J. Walsh, the Timekeeping, Transportation, Personnel, Inert Storage, High Explosives, Engineering, Safety, Production Planning, Recreation, Plant Protection and other departments for their splendid assistance.

To the staff of The Bomb-Shell, who have done a magnificent job of editing the finest ordnance plant paper in the country, 'tis said, "thanks for everything."

Well, vacation talk is again in the air and what a hub-bub it is causing with the girls trying to make their vacations line up with the boy-friends' furloughs. Dorothy Maxwell is the only one who knows anything definite as to when her boy-friend, Bitz Brown, will be home. Isn't she lucky? He has been in Officers Training School for the Navy at Northwestern.

Mary O'Connor has once again come back to the fold after taking an early vacation. Her constant companion was a hot water bottle. It seems she paid a visit to her dentist to have a tooth taken out, but when all was finished, Mary had five stitches in her gum, thus the reason for the early vacation.

Everyone is duly concerned about Myrtle Cooper, who was deserted by her mother who up and left for Florida where Myrt's brother is stationed with the Army Air Corps. Myrt seems to be thriving on her own cooking.

The reason for Ray Bankers dancing into the office May 17, was a telephone call from her boy, Paul, who has been with the Merchant Marine for 14 months—eight of those months being spent in Russia. He will spend two weeks at home before he is again sent out to sea.

Farewells once again were said to Fred Mastin. This time it is the Marines who are lucky in gaining a former Planning Department member. In his place is Knute Ashamy recently of the Army.

Phylis Clair was reported fighting with a window on the bus one night. It was one of those rare occasions when it was nice out, so fresh air seemed to be the order. The only trouble was that once she had her fill, nothing could be done about it as the window refused to be closed. From all reports her coat made a nice window shade.

Betti Welch reported to work tired but happy May 17. From the account of the wonderful time she had in Chicago, lack of sleep was a small price to pay.

Jerry Weir's husband is now in training at Great Lakes Training Station. Jerry and Helen Hausser went skating with Helen's husband, who was home on furlough, and the poor guy had to hold them both up.

Chris Dare is contemplating a trip to Texas to see the one and only.

J. P. Filips had heard of "Pennies from Heaven," but never expected to be in the center of the shower he found himself in May 15. He had five girls with him who weren't regular passengers, so when they descended at Jefferson and Chicago Streets, he was showered with pennies, much to his protest.

Farewells go to Dorothy Bollig who left the Department.

It is reported Eveline Mikucc is taking a day off in June. Sounds like some one is coming home.

By the way, has anyone noticed that gleam in Rowena Robert's eyes. Well, it is all because her boy-friend won't have to report for induction for a few weeks.

George Sangmeister, Mayor of Frankfort, has decided not to go to Joliet before 5 any night—the reason is he does not like to go before the police magistrate and hear him say, "Sorry, George, $1—over parking." Mr. Sangmeister had a very large celebration in Frankfort Memorial Day, the unveiling of an outdoor honor roll for the men in service. It is a very beautiful tablet with 32 names enrolled on it.

Group 2

Pete Conroy was telling Les Wilson where he got a nice supply of some rhubarb so they decided to get some more, but Pete was surprised when Jake Debri informed him that if he was eating that he was eating burdock.

Tom "Pants" Nugent is back and Frank Weston is again at it with a lot of reserve power.

Andy Vail of the Salvage yard stopped in to see how his article went over with Elva Thomas.

Helen Hausser looked somewhat down hearted for her husband's furlough ended May 25 and no telling when the next one will come.

Fred Legris wants all to believe it rains only in Will County every day. The sun is always shining when he leaves and returns home to Kankakee County.

Jim Murphy likes a little card game on a very rainy night.

The prom is over—who got the corsage from Johnny Williamson—well, to tell the truth, she's a timekeeper, works in Group 1, lives in Wilmington, and is connected with the ice business. It is Shirley Van Duyne. From what the other clerks can figure out, she must be quite a knock-out as Johnny has been walking on the clouds for the last week or two.

Group 3

Corp. Leonard Gilmore, former Group 3 progress clerk, visited the Production Planning Office and later came to Group 3.

Wayne Munyon, Group 3 chief progress clerk, is leaving for another job, one he is most proud of—working for Uncle Sam.

With rain, rain and more rain, Edna Strohm needed a row boat to come to work.

Naomi Jett, little southern girl, is beginning to like the North more and more as she is seen visiting various towns more and more.

PRESIDING AS TOASTMASTER at the luncheon given for members of the Illinois State Legislature when they visited EOP May 20, Senator Richard J. Barr is shown here in a photograph made at the Mess Hall.

Ed Kluza's harem is weeping. He was accepted by Uncle Sam. Frances Olroyd is his successor.

Kay "Rhumba" Ochs is now at Group 4.

It seems that Saveta Dorsey was slightly mixed up on her corners one night recently. Many wonder how long the party waited to meet her?

Lucille Olson can really handle a hammer. Just take a saunter to Group 4 and see for yourself.

Group 5

Margaret Laverty appeared on the job recently with a bruised nose. There should be a law against changing hotel furniture around.

Marcella "Mink" Morton has moved to Group 5 where she has a new location to collect for her "hobby".

Something new has been added. A department on "Problems in Physiology and High Finance" was opened recently. For expert advice on such problems apply to E. J. Nemanich.

Many want to know if Marion "Scotty" Westcott is still the "Belle" of the Government inspectors here.

Inspectors come and go, but Lea "Jigger" Dalton still holds the fort at Group 9 with competence and charm.

Group 1

Many are wondering . . . where Theresa Bolek and Frances Rutkiewicz are going to spend their vacations—Joliet or Lemont . . . why Frances Rutkiewicz is so interested in Group 2 . . . what makes the evenings so delightful for Emil Bruni and Al Ehringer, or are their stories exaggerated?

"Goodbye" is one of the hardest words in the English language to say, but it is required for Nellie Lemke, who is transferring to Decatur; Palma Weston, a grand sport; Jean Erickson, who will be Mrs. Michael Sheridan in the near future, and Caroline Cleaver and Norma Purcell whose pleasing personalities will be missed by all.

The nurse finally declared W. P. Cody's finger all right. It seems the week's treatment was quite a secret, cause no one ever saw his finger bandaged.

Group 2

Ensign Arthur Friedberg, formerly of Group 2, is now stationed at the University of Chicago where he is studying meteorology.

Many wonder if Tony "One Dozen Roses" Posluszny treated the G-girls to another box of candy when he left.

Q. Didn't you slip up recently in giving the rates of pay for noncoms in the WAAC? You said a first leader gets $864 per year; a leader, $720; and a junior leader, $648. Aren't the WAACs now on the same pay basis as the regular Army?

A. Yes, we slipped up—and badly. 'Way back in October, 1942, the new WAAC pay bill was signed. First leader is now paid $1656; a leader, $936; and a junior leader, $792. Sorry!

Guards

GENE RYAN

A new service flag, presented by Chief M. C. Baughman, is displayed in the corridor of the Guardhouse. Inserted in the star is the number "101" indicative of the number of former guards now serving their country throughout the world.

Guard Louis Alberts bid the boys goodbye recently, after completing two years of fine service as a member of the Plant Protection Department. Uncle Sam has beckoned Alberts, and it can be justifiably said that he has another good man in his service.

After many futile attempts to locate a poet, it was thought possible that this column could perform the task. The poet in question wrote a very interesting verse on a small pad form reminiscing about days back at the Forsythe Farm. This poem has been accepted gratefully, but unfortunately it cannot be published without identification. Let it be said, now, that anyone submitting material should affix their name.

Boots! Boots! Raincoats! Raincoats! That was the cry in recent weeks about the Guardhouse as dismal wet weather continued from day to day. There also were many new versions of the song, "Just a little ray of sunshine."

Events which may never be seen . . .

Chief Baughman drawing plans without a ruler . . . Lt. William Bantner shaking hands with "Believe it or not" Ripley . . . Dispatcher Paul Stacel with a rotund figure (about 250 pounds) . . . Sgt. Earl Goodknecht losing his hearty laugh . . . Guard Herman Cassing making a lot of noise . . . Lt. Clarence White down to around 125 pounds . . . Guard Vernia Boatright with a moustache . . . Guard Robert Franklin telling a long story . . . Guard Joseph Verbic with a parlay winner (two long shots) . . . Sgt. Clare Cosgrove, Lt. John Sullivan and Guard Arthur Hansen, engaged in a story-telling contest . . . And last, but not least, Lt. Richard "Curly" Boylan getting a haircut with his hat on.

REPAIRING FUNNELS used in pouring TNT into shells at Group 1 is one assignment of Frank Wickman (right) and Frank Higgins. Their expert work has eliminated replacements and has saved critical material for other war purposes.

Laundry Notes
By Lucille Morrissette

The results of food rationing hit a new high recently at the Laundry when the entire shift was observed eating plain mustard sandwiches.

The busiest girl in the Laundry nowadays, finishing uniforms at 200 plus an hour, is Edna Hyatt, who counts and packs them.

Lela Frye is planning to leave EOP and keep house for her husband who is being discharged from the Army.

A rival for Varga was recently unearthed at the Laundry in George Kinard. George's painting looked enough like one published recently in Esquire to be drawn by Varga himself.

Champion horseshoe pitchers of the Laundry are George Slaughter and Joe Smeets who seem to be able to win against any handicap.

The gang all welcome Fred Styck and Foxy Lenzie who are replacing Joe Setina and Merle Workman. Joe has gone back to the Motor Pool and Merle to driving buses.

Paint Shop Patter
By Blackie Blackburn

Three cheers for the EOP Ball Club after the fine showing of Len Hoffman and Pete Wagner at Stateville May 23. The boys are doing swell, having only a little lunch hour practice and one practice game. Give them a little grandstand support, go out and see them win.

Bus Transportation
By Margie Stevens

Three of the boys home on furlough recently were James D. O'Connor of the Marines, Robert Hayes of the Navy and Howard Cardwell of the Army.

Eunice Mantia makes good potato salad, but not enough of it.

Henry O'Reilly will be missed by all his friends at Gate 19 since going to the Marines. Henry is stationed at San Diego, Calif.

Victory garden enthusiasts of the Bus Transportation Division are Paul Boucher, Roy Lockwood, Robert Ehrsam, William Babish, Raymond Potter, Seveno Leggero, George McComb, Irwin Hongas, Ira Gensler, Steve Policandriodes. Bert Day, Robert Gunderson, Charles Harris, James Doran, William Crook, Leo Scoggin, Wallace Johnson, Lawrence Anderson and Glenn Hunter.

Transferred to the night shift, and missed by the day shift, are Mike Debolt and James Dorn.

Sheet Metal Scraps
By Jess Thomas

The latest member of the Tin-shop Gang to join Uncle Sam's forces is William Helland.

Roy Metzha's theme song is "River Stay Away From My Door"; Charlie Webb's, "California Here We Come"; Karl Triebel's, "They Always, Always Pick on Me."

John Gaffney is working on a new safety curtain roller with padded ends.

Louis Luberacki is now stationed at Patterson Field, Fairfield, O.

Building Maintenance
By John Bottary

The S. S. Cuspidor, built by Jack Shiner, was launched last Tuesday in Prairie Creek. The next morning Bob Walker and his Salvage Crew were called out, as all that was visible of the Cuspidor was the top of the mast. The divers' report showed that Jack in his anxiety forgot to put the scuttle plug in.

Frank Roemer's Victory garden was last seen floating down the Mississippi River.

George Abel wants all the ladies to know that he has opened a ladies' ready-to-wear shop in Kankakee.

Telephone Tid-Bits
By Elaine Christman

Martha Herrity, chief operator, is vacationing in Miami Beach, Fla. Gertrude Crowley is acting chief operator in Miss Herrity's absence.

Velma Whitmore is also vacationing from her duties in the Telephone Building.

Missed around the building is Joe Wyne, Guard, recently transferred.

Pipe Shop News
By Mary Wynne

Joe Prisk, Orville Burkhardt, Al Chisamore, Gerald Heavens, Weldon Dyer and Johnny Bilesio have been giving the Carpenter Shop some stiff competition at bowling.

Cal Ashline and Roy Benson are two ardent Victory garden enthusiasts.

The Pipe Shop is lucky to have two heavyweight pipefitters on the payroll. It seemed that the overhang of pipe on the truck kept the front wheels off the ground; however, when Bill Sexton and Barney O'Connor were placed in the front seat, pipe plus men balanced almost perfectly.

On the first clear day in weeks, Joseph Mills was heard to remark, "What we need is a little rain". He was only joking.

Service Garage Spares
By Jean Ann Evans

Preparations for fishing vacations are being made by some of the more ardent anglers of the garage. This brings to mind the Biblical statement made by Carl Adams that "Faith is that quality which enables us to believe what we know to be untrue." However, most fishermen always live in hopes of making a good catch some day. Ask Stan "Kelly" Kukulski!

Richard Miller, the master farmer from down "Ioway," tried to tell Boots Shepherd that Irish Bull is a Male Cow. Just cornfield propaganda.

Joe Szwaja and Milford Green, are still razzing Glen Bitterman and Bill Booker in their terrible disappointment at not being able to drive the Governor around the area on his recently scheduled EOP appearance, which did not mature.

June Wood loves to spend an occasional weekend on a friend's resort-farm where "the chicken is born fried," believe it or not.

Eleanor O'Keefe says that a grass widow is the wife of a vegetarian. A little more detailed explanation will have to be given to John Enrietta concerning this.

Bill Briddick is having ration trouble again.

Richards Farm Garage will soon be just a memory as all activities in the future will be performed at the Service Garage in Group 70. The entire personnel is being transferred to Group 70 under the supervision of C. I. Wilson.

Machine Shop Messages
By Marie Studer

Helen Mandzuk is back at her desk after being confined to her home with a slight case of ptomaine poisoning.

William Geddes has enlisted in the "Seabees." The gang sends him best wishes for lots of luck.

There have been some very longing and envious glances cast upon these four brand new white side-wall tires which adorn the wheels of Paul Becker's car, known as the "Jeep." They are the reward of a very long, but not patient, wait.

Motor Pool Memos
By Lucille McCabe

Dick Roeder is back at work after a siege with the flu.

Jean Swanson has proved she can use the fire extinguishers which are in the cars. She is a good prospect for the Fire Department.

Eula Snell has returned from a trip to her home in Kentucky. Her southern talk seems even "thicker" now.

Who has the heart to tell Ray Tucker there are not thirty-two days in a month?

Noticeable hobbies and habits of the Motor Pool personnel: Vivian Ward, reading; Frank Kern, poker; Olive MacDonald, dancing; Lucky Davis, singing "Zoom, Zoom;" John Fisher, cigarette holders; Shirley Van Gampler, checkers; Doris Brackett, horseback riding.

Stateville Nine Beats EOP 3-2

In its second game of the season Sunday, May 23, the EOP baseball team was defeated by the Stateville prison nine 3 to 2. Fast pitching for the prison team struck out nine men while giving up but 5 hits. Stateville scored the winning run in the last of the eighth inning on three walks and a wild pitch. Lew Hoffman held the prison nine to eight hits. At the end of the eighth inning the game was called on account of rain.

In addition to the team, A. E. Frosch, V. M. Dagenais, F. M. Smith, V. L. Knudson, H. E. Barclay, James J. Grady and C. C. Malmsten made a tour of the prison before the game.

PLOWING his back yard at Wilmington for a Victory garden keeps Robert Sohan, Group 2 foreman, busy.

Fire

STUART MOLONEY

FRANK J. SKOFF
Correspondents

The boys and girls of the EOP Fire Department are all busy planning vacations. Because all want one at the same time, it is requested that all employees kindly refrain from playing with matches, cigarette lighters and fire for the next two weeks or so in order that shop may be closed and the gang can go to the mountains.

George Learned, Tony Doman, Don Barnett and Ralph Batty plan to spend vacations at the Kankakee Kurl-Klipping Kollege—at the request of Joe "Goldilocks" Drazy.

Frankie Marek spends a vacation sitting in a garage at Wilmington—his car is getting overhauled and he hasn't any gasoline, anyway!

Fred Johnson is vacationing with Donnie "Lovah" Jones. Fred thinks he can learn a lot by just going along and watching from the back seat.

Ralph Blake, Frank DuPuis and Gerhard Noyd spent vacations washing baby clothes.

Charlie Davis is going hunting—for elephant; Cliff Weiss is going hunting—for muskrats; Bill Reichert is going hunting—for Frank Scoma; Walt Lueder is going hunting—for trouble.

Dayle Pratt, Tom Downey, Willie Hayes, Orv Milton, Jim Kerwin and Syl Hubert are working their backs to the bone by beautifying the lawn at Central Station. They are under the expert (heh) supervision of Mr. Reichert, Mr. Weiss and Edwin "Junior" Randolph, Len Jessen and his hoe recall a sprightly wood-nymph (with wand). If Tony Stukel and Fred Hanfeld's wives could see them they would be in for plenty of digs about a Victory garden at home.

Those gracious gremlins of the garden at Station 3, Earl Fitzgerald, George Philip, Mike Olson, Henry Stege, Hopper Combs, Marion Murawski, Eddie Roth and Lloyd Rector are scattering their hearts and souls over their lawn.

Tennis Club to Be Organized June 7

All tennis players are invited to meet in the Recreation Building at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon June 7, to organize an EOP Tennis Club.

There are many outstanding tennis players here and through a club everyone will have the advantage of receiving pointers on how to improve their game. E. L. Walkup, director of Recreation, has arranged for mimeographed material which will be of great help to new players as well as those who are proficient in the game.

The game of tennis, from a modest beginning, has risen to a leading position among sports. More persons participate in tennis than in any other outdoor game, and each year enrolls new thousands of devotees. Regular play develops coordination of eye, mind and muscle, and improves general health and stamina. No one in good physical condition is too young or too old to play.

The EOP Tennis Club will not only foster meets and tournaments, but will also have a social side that should appeal to all players. Each meeting will feature some special activity, such as movies of outstanding players so that their strokes and court positions may be studied.

With apologies to Pat O'Donnell, Mike Ryan, Jim McGinnis, George Hayes and Vern McKimson (sounds like roll call at the barracks of the Irish Republican Army), there is no report from Station 2.

The baseball team had its first practice session a few days ago. Everybody went home nursing and cursing sore backs (which suggests a name for the team—"The Liniment Leaguers"). The grapevine says Ed Stricklin is trying hopelessly to beat Joe Catalani for the first base position.

Willie Davis bet that he would bowl two 300 games on a certain night or he would publicly apologize before all the fire inspectors on his knees. As expected, Willie failed even to approach his fantastic dreams of perfect bowling. Then came the climax. With every inspector waiting for him to show up, with a newspaper spread on the floor for a knee cushion, Willie failed to go through with his promise, too mortified to even speak let alone kneel.

Congratulations go to Bud Ochs for winning first prize for the highest bowling average of the season.

The gestapo reports that Bill Dust is back in 1-A; and that with him are Lynn Boman and Cy Ochs.

Charley Kammermann has been flashing a cigar and mustache lately. Confidential reports have it that only the cigar is genuine.

Chief Roy W. Mortenson recently attended a Fire Department conference in St. Louis. This is not to be confused with the previous jaunt made by the chief, when he was chaperoned by Mert Baughman and E. O. Huey. However, it seems that Mr. Mortenson's conduct on the first trip was excellent (no snoring or kicking about the price of Coca-Cola). So — the chief's next trip was a solo flight, and he went gaily upon his way, with no one to heckle him whenever he deemed it necessary to stop for refreshments.

Walter Lueder, assistant chief, while looking up at the tall buildings in Chicago the other day, suddenly became very happy when he realized that no pigeons are permitted to man the gunsights of those Jap Zero planes.

The entire Department mourns the untimely demise of one of the oldest and best loved members. Nick Cleary's death is deeply regretted by all members of the Department, as well as by the many friends and acquaintances he made during the time he worked as a guard and a fireman.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

Q. Does the debt moratorium for servicemen also cover members of the WAACs?

A. Yes. Members of the WAAC receive all the benefits provided by the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act.

Bombardiers Show EOP Products in Use

BOMB LOADERS at EOP will be interested in this series of pictures made by the Signal Corps of the Army to show what happens to their products after they leave their hands. In this particular picture, a bomb is being dropped from a plane at an altitude of several thousand feet. As seen, it is equipped with fin assembly, with which most EOP workers are unfamiliar, as the bombs are shipped from here without fin assembly or tail guide.

SITTING in bomb rack, this cadet hails farewell to ground crew.

CHECKING over number of bombs plane can carry is job of bombardier.

LOADED into their bays, bombs look like this before being dropped.

ORDNANCE inspectors check all bombs before they are loaded into planes.

DETAILS of bombs are studied carefully by men who will use them.

SMACK for good luck is portrayed by this bombardier on eve of sweep.

Plans for Home Dehydrator Are Available Here

Fruits and Vegetables Can Be Dried With Inexpensive Gadget

Home drying of fruits and vegetables is especially important this year because many of the materials commonly used in home canning such as tin cans, metal jar closures, rubber jar rings and sugar "have gone to war." Every item of food from the orchard or garden must be conserved. Most of the commercial preserved fruits and vegetables will be requisitioned for the armed forces and lease-lend purposes.

The Tennessee Valley Authority has developed an inexpensive dehydrator which can be built by anyone who is at all handy with tools. Permission has been given to the Recreation Department of EOP to use these plans in any way desired. Now that salvaged lumber has been made available to employees without charge the only expense to building a dehydrator will be a small 8 inch electric fan, a few electric light bulbs and a thermometer. These plans, complete with instructions for selection, preparation, packing and storing as well as refreshening for use, may be had from the Recreation Department without charge.

Early maturing cabbage should be made into sauerkraut or dehydrated. Late maturing cabbage, potatoes, turnips, carrots and parsnips should be stored in cool cellars or outdoor pits.

Drying is an old method of saving foods in the home. The preservation of fresh corn and vegetables has been practiced since early Colonial days. Drying in the sun is the oldest method and is still practiced in many sections of the country. Other common methods are drying in the oven, over the stove, or in the attic until dry for storage.

The method of drying fresh fruits and vegetables in a specially designed, tight-fitting box, under controlled temperature, humidity and air flow, is called dehydration. Dehydrated vegetables and fruits are of superior quality to those dried by other methods. In many instances dehydrated foods such as corn, carrots, green beans, peas, apples and peaches equal or approach the quality of food preserved by other methods.

Officers Here Get Double Assignments

Lt. Colonel Byron Rife, commanding officer, has announced a revision in his staff organization at EOP and KNK. At EOP the following officers are assigned exclusively: Maj. George A. Grant, executive officer, and Capt. J. A. Hardy, Operations Transportation.

At the Kankakee Ordnance Works the following officers are assigned exclusively: Maj. Jack Snyder, executive officer; Capt. William R. Bowman, Army inspector of Ordnance; and Lt. Jos. T. Heffron, assistant adjutant.

The following officers have been assigned to both plants: Capt. Ralph E. Pinnick, chief Safety & Security; Capt. Paul Cooper, public relations officer, and Lt. C. R. Crandell, adjutant.

EOP Bombs Readied for European Raids

BLOCKBUSTERS FROM EOP are shown here being finned and primed preparatory to being loaded into giant American-made "Liberator" bombers at a U. S. Army Air Corps Station in England. Not long after this photograph was made, the "Katy Bug" dropped these death-dealing eggs over Europe . . . action made possible by the loyal men and women of EOP. (Additional photos on Page 3)

Merit Award Group Asks for Ideas

A Merit Award Committee has been established at EOP to receive and judge ideas and suggestions that may help in the war effort.

Suggestions for possible improvement of operations or procedure which will assist EOP in the better performance of its task will be welcomed. Suggestions or ideas should be submitted in complete detail with explanatory sketches to the office of the group chief department head.

All suggestions will be given careful consideration by a reviewing committee composed of members of the Group or Department in which the suggestion originates. If the idea is considered practical the committee will recommend that it be tried out. If the trial of the idea or modification thereof is successful and the idea consequently adopted, it should be written up and submitted through the group superintendent or department head to the Merit Award Committee for consideration for the award of the Ordnance Department and Merit Certificate.

To be eligible for the Ordnance Department Award, the idea should result in the elimination or reduction of critical materials or machines.

Tunstall is Promoted to Major and Adjutant

Word has been received here of the promotion of Capt. D. P. Tunstall to the rank of major, according to Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer. Major Tunstall served here from January 6, 1941, to March 16, 1943, as public relations and military intelligence officer. He was transferred to the Office of the Field Director of Ammunition Plants March 16, where he is serving in a similar capacity and in addition has become the adjutant.

You are required to fill out, sign and return the "Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate" under the current tax payment act of 1943. Failure to do so may cost you money. Read details on Page 4.

New Attendance Record Is Scored By Murray Crew

Highest Figure Set In Contest of Inert Storage Department

The Inert Storage Department's "Contest to Reduce Work Losses" reached a new high in attendance percentage figures with the completion of the third quarter period. This leg of the contest was won by John Murray of Group 27, it was announced by Supt. A. P. Balston. The men of his squad who helped to earn this honor are Morgan Moberly, William Moberly, Frank Hafner, Michael Mauss, Anton Loda, John Jacklich, Grover Williams, Leonard Spooner, and Robert Jones.

The winning of this leg puts Murray on the roll of honor with David Lardi and Ray Morris, who held the highest percentages in the two previous periods.

The standing for the leading squads from March 1 through May 29 follows:

Squad	Group	Hosp. Man Hours	Absences Man Hours	Percent Present
Murray	27	11	18	99.4
Lardi	62S	5	48	99.0
Argyle	62S	....	80	98.7
Bull	62N	....	64½	98.5
Harrop	62S	....	80½	98.4
Holt	62N	....	110½	98.4
W. Peterson	27	14	64¼	98.3
Alderman	62N	10¾	76¼	98.2
Tatro	62N	....	88	98.2

The rate of attendance is highly commendable. It shows the keen interest and the determined attitude of these EOP employees to do their best in the way of attendance and work in order to aid the war effort to the best of their ability.

Along with the attendance contest there are regular meetings held under the direction of Charles H. Mann, assistant superintendent. These meetings are conducted with the co-operation of Mr. Balston and the Safety Department, for the assistant superintendents in charge of labor and for the squad leaders. The problems and snags of operation are discussed and many definite improvements have resulted from suggestions contributed by the men at these meetings. This program is another aid to the harmonious and efficient operation of the Inert Storage Department.

R. T. Bassett Named EOP Service Manager

Richard T. Bassett, formerly assistant comptroller, has been named service manager of EOP, it was announced by W. E. Canniff, general manager. Although Mr. Bassett's duties are not changed appreciably under the new set-up, he will exercise more authority and supervision and will report directly to the general management, Mr. Canniff said.

It will be Mr. Bassett's assignment to co-ordinate and supervise all "service" activities, including personnel, medical, recreational, office management, housing and cafeteria, and to serve as liasion between the Purchasing Department and operating groups.

Mr. Bassett has been with EOP since the start of the project and previous to that time was for a long period associated with the New York offices of Sanderson & Porter.

What They Want

Men in the armed services would rather read about what their families are doing, in the letters they get from home, than any other kind of news, the Office of War Information said today after a survey among men in the service at home and overseas in cooperation with the Special Service Division of the Army Service Forces.

Men back from fighting fronts in Africa and the Southwest Pacific reported how mail from home—the right kind of mail—is one of the most vital factors in building and sustaining morale.

At one station overseas, 111 men, representative of enlisted men in the station, were asked "What kind of things do you like to read about in your letters from home?" An examination of answers showed:

(A) Soldiers like to receive letters about their families, including information concerning the following:

1. How the family is getting along economically.
2. That the family is doing everything possible to aid the war effort.
3. That the family is anxious for the boy's return.
4. That the family is "okay and busy."

(B) Soldiers like to hear news about their friends, especially those in the service. Information in this category includes:

1. Girls he knows (if they are single).
2. News about friends at home.
3. Changes in social relations (who is marrying whom).
4. Past events, places he used to go, and the community's "night life."

(C) Soldiers like to hear news about the home town such as:

1. General happenings.
2. General gossip.
3. Sports (especially the home teams).
4. Present conditions (effect the war is having on the home town, rationing, business, etc.)

Servicemen themselves are not remiss in writing home when they have the opportunity.

In the study, made by Headquarters of the Army Service Forces, of 4,296 men in eight different camps in the United States so selected as to be representative of enlisted men, 69 per cent of the men said they were off duty on a typical night. Of these, 62 per cent said they wrote letters while off duty; 61 per cent indicated that they wrote more than one letter.

In a study of 1,834 men in 15 different stations, constituting a representative cross-section of enlisted men stationed in England, 49 per cent of the men off duty on a typical night said they wrote letters. Of these, 43 per cent wrote one letter; 36 per cent wrote two letters, 14 per cent wrote three, and seven per cent wrote four or more.

Food and mail have the most important effect upon the morale of troops.

"In most cases, the soldier reads his letters first, then he eats," Brig. Gen. Clayton S. Adams, chief of the Army Postal Service, reported after a 35,000-mile inspection tour of Army post offices in the African and Asiatic war theaters.

"Letters sometimes seem more important than ammunition," Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commanding general of the American Forces in the Middle East, said in a broadcast from New Delhi.

"So what . . . you're a lady cop . . . but what if I have to work 16 hours someday—and you have a flat tire!"

News and Notes from EOP Safety Engineers

"One of the oddest first aid cases experienced in Group 2," said Safety Engineer B. R. Bowden, "was one occurring to Paul Riley, subforeman in Building 4. In donning his uniform one morning, he was worked on by some insect. Result—a good arm swelling and a trip to first aid."

Another peculiar and painful accident was experienced by another subforeman in a change house. He thought that he was sitting down on the end of a seat. Instead he landed in a garbage bucket.

Fred Habing is substituting for C. Schindel on Shift 3 at Group 3 while the latter is enjoying a vacation.

Mr. Bowden and Donald Grove have transferred their activities from Group 2 to Group 3 on the second and third shifts respectively. To Safety Engineer Bowden the transfer was a homecoming as he was formerly located for several months in this group.

Tom Todd, inspector, gave first aid treatment in an accident to Forrest McGowan at Building 10 and aided in taking him to first aid station. The value of the first aid course was clearly demonstrated in this accident.

Leo Wagner, subforeman in Building 4, has proven his ability as a fire fighter in the group and is now looking for new fields to conquer. He has not had much chance to use his first aid skill and is anxiously awaiting a victim on whom he can use his newly acquired talents.

Jerry Knowles, well-known store-keeper in Group 1, and Carl Sterlin, change house foreman, have worked out a clever salvage depot idea. They had a large wooden platform built in a central location to which each building brings its salvage material, then Jerry and Carl take turns sorting the material as to future destination and possible restoration. The only draw-back is that Jerry and Carl are still arguing about taking their turns—but they're doing a swell job of it anyway.

The safety engineers in Group 1 welcome the new men to the group. One of these men, when asked how he liked the group, remarked, "Everywhere you look they're people." Among the new men is Abraham Lincoln.

There's no use of E. M. Akeman, safety engineer, packing his delicious lunches. A few days ago he packed his lunch, with rhubarb pie for dessert, and proceeded to the plant. During the course of the journey, he shifted his position in the car, and, when he arose, found his lunch looking like a Mexican tortilla. Being rather ashamed to take it into the group with him, he deposited it at Guard Headquarters for future use. However, when later he decided to "slip" out a sandwich from the lunch, he found that the guards (who came on at the change of shift) had "filed" his once delectable lunch in the garbage can.

A lot of credit goes to Emil Zaychick, painting foreman of Group 3-A, for his prompt work in patching the floor in Bldg. 13.

William A. Buck, superintendent of communications, has operated his department 18 months without a single minor injury. "Good work," said Rollin T. Read, safety director, "and I hope you and your employees continue this fine record."

Mr. Read visited the Kansas Ordnance Plant, Parsons, Kan., during the week of June 5 and reported his trip was interesting and instructive.

A. M. Lockwood, general superintendent of utilities, deserves orchids because his department has had no lost time accidents in 15 months. Considering the number of personnel and potential hazards this is a real accomplishment according to Karl J. Ulrich, assistant safety director.

I have written . . . a poem!

Scorchy—The Dope

Scorchy, since the age of two,
Has been a problem child.
He worried all the neighbors;
Nearly drove his parents wild.

He started in at grammar school,
But never did go far;
His teachers soon discovered
That he was short of par.

He found his way to EOP
Intent to do his bit;
Here he found his Shangri-La
The ramshackled Burning-Pit.

He started writing stories,
But little did he know
That he would meet a Mann
Who'd cause him so much woe.

He'd write and write each chance he had
And in his work he'd strut.
His stories always seemed too bad
He was really in a rut.

He chided here, and chided there,
At this, he was his best;
But in the feud he was no good
He had struck a hornet's nest.

Scorchy is scorched, it's rumored 'round
From way down low to 'way up there,
But he's recovering slowly
With the Editor's loving care.

There's a great deal of secrecy
Surrounding his case
The facts are not given
And he can't show his face.

I'm convinced he can't take it,
Or he'd come out of his house,
But they'd get out the Flit can,
Then there'd be a dead louse.

Whew, I'm exhausted,
It's the end of my rope!
I've spent all this time
On Scorchy, the dope!

I might have done better
With a subject to write,
But I guess I'm like Scorchy
I'm not very bright!

—Mrs. I. M. Scorchfree.

Our Boss

When the Boss will never notice
Just how hard you've tried to win,
But will pick out all your minor faults
Then make believe you've sinned.

Is the Boss who's not respected
And is always on the fence,
And finds it hard to get work done
Without your confidence.

But the Boss who's always wide awake
And will never miss a cue
To tell you he appreciates
The things you try to do.

Is the Boss who's well respected
And he has your confidence
And he never has to worry
About the consequence.

Now that's the Boss whom we have here
He made it very plain to you
At The Bomb-Shell birthday dinner,
Being host to all the crew.

Material Warehouse.

Morale

The day is dark and dreary;
The skies are sullen and gray;
The office is strangely silent;
The workers have nothing to say.

The tap of feet in the hall-way,
A flash of color and then—
Just notice the office;
What's come over the men?

No rustle of wings marks her coming;
No halo of light crowns this pearl;
No, she isn't an angel,
Just a fine American girl.

They raise their heads to greet her
With a welcoming smile;
For she is sweet and dainty,
And dressed in very good style.

She quickly transacts her business,
Unconscious of admiring stares
Then patters away to her office,
And leaves us alone with our cares.

She cheers our lives with her coming,
She leaves us bereft when she's gone,
She is the wine of existence,
God's best gift to Man.

Causes and Cures Of Lost-Time Accidents

Charles Brewer, Group 2, suffered a fractured right leg May 16. He used the fire-escape as an exit from the third floor of Bldg 4 and turned his ankle as he landed in the sand pit at the bottom of the chute.

Both the chute and the pit seem to have been in good order and there is no evidence of any deliberately unsafe act on the part of the injured. The mishap should, nevertheless, serve as a warning that even a two or three-foot jump requires care as to the proper landing posture.

George Grenshaw, Group 27, suffered a severely sprained back May 19, when he slipped on a wet runway as he was pulling a hand truck. He lost four days work.

The very fact that trucks must, at times, be pulled over wet, slippery surfaces imposes a special responsibility on workmen. They must accommodate the length of their stride and alter their gait to meet the conditions. If that is done, and full alertness to this hazard maintained, there will be fewer accidents of this nature.

While pushing a bomb rack from the cleaning sump, James Scheidt came in sharp contact with a piece of wire which had been substituted for the lock pin ordinarily used on the racks June 6. The wire pierced the flesh between the right index and middle fingers. The injured applied mercurochrome to the wound and continued with his work. Several hours later there were signs of infection and the man was hospitalized Monday morning. He will probably require treatment for two or three weeks.

The makeshift pin caused the accident and failure to report for prompt and adequate medical treatment brought about the serious consequences.

Forrest McGowan of Group 3 suffered the laceration of the middle and index fingers of his left hand June 9, when a skilsaw which he was operating jammed in a 4 x 4 and jumped out of control. The tip of the index finger had to be amputated.

This is the second serious accident in the last few months due to using a light power saw on heavy lumber without securely clamping the material being worked on.

SECOND son of John Woodard, Electric Shop foreman, is Pvt. William A. Woodard, who is stationed at Indiantown Gap, Penn.

Munitions Workers Efforts Are Lauded by Wounded Officer

Editor's Note: All EOP workers, particularly those who assemble and load shells and their components, will be interested in this article by a Field Artillery officer who served with the Ninth Infantry Division through some of the hottest fighting in North Africa. Wounded in action, he returned recently to the United States.

By Lt. Frank Lippincott

What happens when artillery and tanks meet at point-blank range and slug it out? If any military strategists want to know the answer to that question, I can give it to them. I was in on just such a battle of titans and I didn't have any bleacher seat either. I was right in the ring getting in some punches of my own. One reason I am still around to talk about it is that our side had a lot of sturdy seconds a long way from the ringside, who didn't let us down. I mean you men and women back in the States who made our equipment and did such a bang-up job that we blasted the best the Nazis could muster clear out of Africa.

It happened at Thala in the hills of central Tunisia where the Germans made one of their strongest attacks of the entire campaign. American and British artillery, unsupported by infantry or air power, took on two of Rommel's crack Panzer divisions. Took them on, beat them and drove them back toward the sea. A Nazi breakthrough might have altered the whole trend of the campaign, might have delayed our victory for months, but they didn't break through.

I was a forward observer for a battery of 105 mm. howitzers. Normally, of course, these would have been in the rear providing a barrage cover for our tanks or infantry, but this time there was no front line. Just the artillery. We had two battalions of 105's, one battalion of 155's and a regiment of British 25 pounders. We had a single regiment of infantry, too, but it was cut to pieces at the start. When the Nazi 10th and 21st Panzer divisions attacked, it was just us—the artillery—against two veteran German armored divisions.

We fought them for three days and three nights running. On the third night they crashed through our forward positions, and big 60-ton Tiger tanks charged head on into us. But we kept our guns firing. We blasted at them through open sights at 300 yards, and still they came. Talk about waiting until you see the whites of their eyes. I saw a British sergeant stick to his 25-pounder until a towering 60-ton Panzer was ten yards away. Then he blew it to pieces with a single shot.

The next day the Nazis came back for more. They got enough to start them back-tracking toward Berlin, but I wasn't around to see much of the punishment we gave them from then on. They say you never hear the shell that gets you, and I certainly never heard this one. They told me later it was an 88 mm. high explosive and it burst just two yards away. Shell fragments sprayed all over me. They tore through my left arm, legs, chest, stomach and back. That ended the fighting for me, but I saw enough to make me eternally grateful to the men and women who gave us the guns and ammunition we used at Thala.

The 105 mm. howitzer with which I had most direct contact is the finest weapon I've ever fired. It packs a terrific wallop and it can take it as well as dish it out. We fired our 105's so fast over a period of hours that the Nazi couldn't believe we were reloading by hand after ever shot. The prisoners we took kept asking to see them in the belief that they were some new miracle weapon that worked automatically. Near the Kasserine Pass I watched our 105's and 155's hurl shells at the enemy as rapidly as they could be loaded. The gun crews were throwing buckets of water on the guns to keep the barrels from getting red hot, and the guns never balked. To my mind, a large share of the credit for our crushing of the Axis in Tunisia belongs to the artillery—and that goes for everything from 37's to 105's. All are topnotch.

I can think of no higher tribute to our ammunition than to say it is worthy of our guns. Our 105 shells have such a shattering effect when they hit that the enemy mistook them for 155's. Our armor piercing high explosive shells are the best in the world, and the time fuses American workers are turning out are A-1 in my book. All along the line, our guns and ammunition top anything the Nazis can pit against them.

It is a wonderful thing to be able to go into battle with equipment you can trust. If you know that your gun is good and your ammunition is good, you have the confidence it takes to win. Just keep on sending us the kind of stuff we had in Tunisia, and we'll pound the Nazi to pieces wherever we find them.

THE "EAGER BEAVER" CALMLY AWAITS its load of EOP blockbusters as Yanks in Britain put the final touches of finning and priming the eggs for deadly hatching over the Axis territory in Europe. EOP employees now know that the bombs made here are being dropped on Germany by American-made bombers flown by Americans . . . they know they're in the war.

Hospital

EVELYN RICHARDS
Correspondent

Some of the Hospital girls have turned to tennis as a noon pastime. How good are they? Reach your own conclusion. An elderly patient, propped on crutches, was observing a match from the front window. "Gosh," he said, "if I could get rid of just one of these crutches, I'd challenge that pair."

June Hull is on a trip to the East coast to visit her husband's folks.

Dr. G. B. Geil took his usual little jaunt home . . . way down in Indiana where the tall corn grows.

Curly top Margaret "Peg" Gergovich was all fussed when she couldn't get the frame off of her tennis racket.

There's a new baby back of the hospital. Yep—a baby Plymouth. This shiny eyeful belongs to Dr. Nathan Atovsky.

Wallace Koepp is relaxing on vacation. Blonde Eleanor Kartschoke is pinch hitting for him.

Helen Mueller is spending several days in Chicago — with friends. Beatrice Merrick is again visiting her husband.

Dr. Andrew Bustin has left EOP to go East. The saying is "Go West, young man go West." Somehow he got his directions mixed. Before leaving for Clarksburg, W. Va., he willed his Victory garden to Bertha Perush and Elizabeth Russell. They are having trouble getting to it to plant onion sets. The mystery was solved as to why a simple brown paper bag was sprouting green tops.

Dark-haired Lorene Motta is now an orphan—yep, her mom and dad left for Texas—now she can go out with the boys or finish several books from the library.

Mary Philbin is an old hand at —horseback riding—She has been doing it for years—five years to be exact and this is all without "end" results. Leslie Ross, her boss, is on vacation and she is left to work by herself.

John Dixon, ambulance driver, has passed his Army examination and is waiting for the well-known call.

Peter Busanelli's buttons were poppin' off his collar every time he (no, not breathed) thought of his brand new daughter, Bette Ann.

Mary Kulpa recently left Group 3 for the Army.

Marjorie Hartong had to do a little replanting in her Victory garden. Due to the rain part of the spuds washed away and what was left grew all to tops.

Due to a hole in his pocket, pieces of silver began to jingle and jangle to the floor—a few moments later a cry for needle and thread was sounded and eyes fell upon Dr. George Luke, threading a large four-inch needle to remedy the situation.

Grandpappy, Dr. N. L. Cohler is just like the rest of the grandparents—he is spoiling his six-months-old grandson. Quote, "Why shouldn't I? They're babies only once."

Flash! Flash! R. R. Sidell was seen sporting a flashy light tan, red spoke-wheeled flivver. Anyway it had more attachments than a vacuum cleaner—next thing you know he'll be wearing wings, as he is saving up to buy a helicopter.

Weak yet from being ill herself, Myrtle Burrus had to act as nurse for hubby who had the flu. Evelyn Doran is a victim of extra sun rays. They certainly were extra by the looks of her, for she can be seen scratching, peeling and working at the same time. This occurs in her inner sanctum —the laboratory.

Can you imagine Edna Rimmer turning down a homemade cookie —yes, she did; she says she has the will power to stay on her diet.

Dorothy Schoop wore a frown for several days. You can understand the reason, as her darling daughter, Marian, was due for an operation. However, it has changed to a smile as Marian is convalescing.

R. R. Sidell is responsible for the lovely bouquets of "lye-lacks" and "two-lips" in the laboratory

Avery Emerson, Virginia Martin, Thelma Keppin, Vera Doty, Clarence Tammens and Charles Brewer were bed patients at the Hospital during the last two weeks.

Dr. I. W. Madura has to turn Chinese each time he enters his apartment in order to appreciate the indigo blue walls. Quote, "They jump at you when you open the door." However, a new coat of paint was added recently and he can now enjoy the lovely light blue ones.

Dorothy Busse and Miss Johnson have something in common; both are home ill.

A black feline, named "Dr. Pepper," is the new addition to the Hospital. "Emogene" has a strong dislike for her companion.

Margaret Gergovich has been hospitalized for several days.

July 15 Checks Will Have 20% Tax Deduction

Withholding of Correct Amount Will Depend on Prompt Return of Form

For the clearest understanding of the "Current Tax Payment Act of 1943," it is recommended that you read this story in full before referring to any of the accompanying tables. These deduction schedules do not apply to War Department employees.—Editor.

First payroll deductions under the "Current Tax Payment Act of 1943" for Elwood Ordnance Plant employees will be made for the week ending July 10 on checks distributed July 15. For those employees who are separated from the payroll before July 15, but who have some earnings due for all or part of the week ending July 10, there will be proportionate deductions from their checks.

This deduction is made by the employer who has been ordered by the Government to deduct and withhold from each employee's wages a tax of 20 per cent of each payment of such wages over the family status withholding exemption allowable under the law.

The tax does not amount to exactly 20 per cent of earnings, because of the exemptions depending upon family status allowed by the Government.

In this connection, the first step to be taken by every employee is of extreme importance and so necessary that, if it is not done, the amount of tax withheld will be greater than would ordinarily be withheld. THIS FIRST IMPORTANT STEP IS THE PREPARATION AND RETURN OF THE "EMPLOYEE'S WITHHOLDING EXEMPTION CERTIFICATE."

You either have received or will receive from your timekeeper a copy of this certificate. A copy is reproduced in the lower left corner of this page. If you have not received one, ASK YOUR TIMEKEEPER FOR ONE NOW.

It is your responsibility to fill in this certificate and to indicate your family status in the same manner and with the same completeness as you will show that information when you file your 1943 Income Tax return in March of 1944. If you need help in fill-

I. Check the box in the line below which applies to you on the date this form is filled in:
- Married person living with husband or wife but claiming none of the personal exemption.... (1) ☐
- Married person living with husband or wife but claiming half of the personal exemption.... (2) ☐
- Single person (not head of a family) or married person not living with husband or wife (not head of a family)..... (3) ☐
- Married person living with husband or wife and claiming all of the personal exemption (spouse claiming none of the exemption)..... (4) ☐
- Head of a family (a single person or married person not living with husband or wife who exercises family control and supports closely connected dependent relative(s) in one household)..... (5) ☐

II. Number of dependents receiving chief support from you who are either under 18 years of age or incapable of self support because mentally or physically defective.....

I declare that the entries made herein are a true and complete statement as of the date indicated, pursuant to the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations issued under authority thereof.

Date....., 194..... 16—34596-1 (Signature).....

The personal exemption for withholding is an amount of wages on which no tax is withheld. The exemption is larger for married persons living together and for heads of families than for single persons who are not heads of families or married persons not living together and not heads of families. If a husband and wife living together both receive wages, they may divide the exemption equally, or one may take all and the other none, as they agree. An additional exemption for certain dependents is allowable to the person furnishing the chief support of such dependents.

An Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate shall be filled in by the employee and furnished immediately to each employer. In case of a change in marital or dependency status, a new exemption certificate shall be filled in and furnished to the employer not later than 10 days after such change occurs. Upon commencement or change of employment, an exemption certificate shall be furnished the new employer on or before the date of such employment.

If no exemption certificate is filed by the employee with the employer, no withholding exemption is allowable.

Severe penalties are imposed for willfully supplying false or fraudulent information or for willful failure to supply information which would reduce the withholding exemption.

July 15 Checks Will Have 20% Tax Cut

ing in your certificate, ask your timekeeper for assistance, or call the office of Paymaster John F. Dolan, Line 3127.

The information furnished by each worker on this certificate will form the basis for the so-called "20 per cent withholding tax," but, that tax is on only that part of the wages which is in excess of the taxpayer's exemptions as claimed on the certificate. Therefore, it is easy to see that the information required in the certificate must be carefully prepared.

Now, look for a moment at the copy of the "Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate" in the lower left corner of page 4. You will see that under Section I you will come under one of five classifications. After you have determined your classification, look on that page for the table which refers to your classification. They are numbered one to five, as well as bearing proper identification titles.

Now, look again at the "Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate." Under Section II, you are required to furnish the number of your dependents. With your classification and number of dependents determined, it is easy to refer to your wage range in your particular table and see what your payroll deduction will be.

For additional convenience, definitions of the terms used in the tables and in the exemption form are given as follows:

Single Person—In addition to a single person, this title also applies to one who is married and not living with husband or wife, and is not the head of a family.

Married Person Claiming ALL of Personal Exemption for Withholding—means a married person who claims all of the personal exemption for the purposes of this tax, and whose spouse is claiming none of the personal exemption.

Married Person Claiming HALF of Personal Exemption for Withholding—means a married person who claims half of the personal exemption and his spouse is claiming not more than half of such exemption.

Married Person Claiming NONE of the Personal Exemption for Withholding — means a married person making no claim with respect to their personal exemption.

Head of Family—means one who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or by adoption, and has the right to exercise family control based upon some moral or legal obligation. However, if by force of circumstances, the family cannot be maintained in one home (for example, the father in the Army, or dependent temporarily away from home) you may still claim head of family status.

Dependent—is a person dependent upon and receiving his chief support from the employee, either under 18 years of age, or incapable of self support because mentally or physically defective.

Sgt. Roy Fox, who was transferred to Group 64, is handling his new job very capably and making new friends.

Free Buckley is now sporting a new Frank Buck hat. He said he can use it for a dual purpose; for protection from the sun when working days, and as a head-light while riding a scooter at night.

Take notice of Charles Gardner's brass of late. It is a shining example of the result of daily inspections. However, he advises the rest of the boys in his group that he shines his own belt and no others.

Frank Govednick seems to take to a Scooter like a duck does to water.

Corp. Pete Scaggiari and Elbert Russell are enjoying vacations. During this time, they will plant Victory gardens and supply the boys with fresh vegetables. If the gardens don't produce, they will dig them up somewhere.

James Ferguson says "No scooter for me, it acts too much like the bronc I once tried to ride."

Roy Wiseman says it looks like winter all summer long. He is going to take off the long-handled ones July 4.

It is reported from Group 64 that John Spesia, who is on vacation, spends the mornings in bed, the afternoons at Hawthorne Park and the evenings at Baraboo.

Lt. Joseph Trecker is wearing a pair of expensive new oxfords.

When Ferrel Chew returned from vacation all the boys wanted to know what disposition was made of his polo ponies.

Clifford Carls is now more energetic than ever since his wife is now employed in Group 3-A.

Cpl. William Crosman and Charles Fullerton decided to go to their home town to see the flood waters, but whether they saw them is a mystery.

Duane Lake is now known to his fellow officers as "Veronica" —you know, the one-eyed actress.

The guards on Sgt. Tom Cerre's shift responded 100 per cent in the ticket sales for the Group 3-A dance June 12.

When asked at which gate he preferred to work, Fred Haake quickly responded, "Gate 6, Group 3-A."

Carl Kornmeyer, dispatcher, has been beckoned by Uncle Sam. He reported to the Navy in Chicago June 10. Carl will be greatly missed as he is a very capable and efficient man.

Sgt. Cerre was greatly missed during a recent illness. It is reported that his fellow workers were anxious for his return.

Cpl. Byron Campbell and Lawrence Weber enjoy having lemon-meringue pie together.

William Anderson takes pride in working his Victory garden in his nice new white shorts.

Eugene Rickert has taken a fancy to chickens, while Dallas Cunningham is trying to convince him that turkeys are said to be much better.

TRANSFERRED TO KANSAS ORDNANCE PLANT, Maj. Kenneth M. Haber has gone to Parsons, Kan., to become commanding officer of that unit. Succeeded here by Lt. Col. Byron Rife, Major Haber was tendered a farewell party by his staff before his departure from EOP, where he was commanding officer from October, 1942 until May, 1943.

With the Women
By Lt. Ruth Chidsey

Capt. Gladys Armstrong spent an enjoyable week-end at her home in Virginia, Ill.

Lorraine Guenette has returned home from St. Mary's Hospital, Kankakee, where she underwent a major operation. All look forward to the time she is able to report for duty.

Lt. Eve Anna Castle is spending a vacation with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. V. Gowdy, Quincy, Ill.

The folks at Madison, Ind. were pleasantly surprised when Sgt. Billie Taff returned home, accompanied by Lt. John Sullivan. The managements of the local Eagle's and Country Clubs did more than their share to make their visit a happy one.

The girls on the "C Shift" have christened Ruby Lantz "Superwoman." While the other girls were lamenting the fact that the "midnight trick" came all too soon, Ruby took advantage of the situation and worked all morning in her garden. She not only accomplished a great deal of work, but acquired a suntan.

Josephine Finch has been walking on air since she heard that her husband is to receive his furlough. He is in the Sea-bees and is stationed at Davisville, R. I.

Edward Kien, who loves publicity dearly, was heart-broken because he couldn't find his name in The Bomb-Shell. Ed's a swell guy and a swell line foreman. He really gets things done in a hurry!

Jerry Knowles, storekeeper, has started his spring cleaning in the storeroom. Jerry was hoping that spring would be late this year so he could wait awhile and he almost got his wish.

Charles "Shorty" Rolando is the joker of the Group I pipe shop. He keeps the rest of the fellows jumping to get out of his way and there isn't another pipefitter in the outfit who isn't almost twice as big as Shorty. They agreed unanimously that since they're afraid of Shorty their only possible revenge would be publicity—of which Shorty has great fear.

Alva Phillips, truck driver, better known as "Phil," is a professional wrestler after working hours. Phil never gets in any arguments at work. All he does is to raise an arm and every man within arm's length falls all over himself getting away. Phil is waiting for his call to the Marines.

Pat Fitzgerald, formerly of Bldg. 15, who joined the WAACS, writes that she really likes Fort Oglethorpe and that her friends would never recognize her with her suntan. Pat's probably just trying to make them jealous.

Much to the delight of little blonde Shirley Olsen, Bldg. 4, Bill Kelly, her big heart murmur, is back in the group after a short stay at Group 61.

According to Mid Slack, group inspector, one can now buy postholes which simplify greatly the problem of putting up a fence. Mid, who has gone in for farming in a big way, was coaching Supt. Joseph E. Salmon in the rudiments of modern gardening and finally sold him some tomato plants for twice the price he paid. Rumor has it that Mr. Salmon still doesn't know that he's been rooked.

Walter Lipchart, machinist, who suffered a broken leg almost a year ago, has returned to the group and is on the graveyard shift. His buddies are glad to see him back.

Sylvia Hamper, formerly of Group 1 First Aid Station, is overseas now helping the boys finish this war right on the front lines. There are a lot of women who would like to be "over there" with Sylvia and their men, but since it isn't possible, they're backing their men right here at EOP and sending their hopes with Sylvia.

Bob Hartley, former machinist foreman, was back in Group 1 for a visit and the boys were really glad to see him.

Betty Banko, Bldg. 4, and Hazel Hobbs, Bldg. 4, recently received diamonds—and very lovely ones, too. Betty is engaged to Jimmy Aagesen, who is farming right now, and Hazel's lucky man is Sgt. Le Roy Rardin, with the Air Corps in Africa.

The Memorial Day week-end was opportune for the following women guards to visit their homes: Edna Lytle, Pearl, Ill.; Pearl Halberg, Minonk, Ill.; Kay Koncor, Streator, Ill.; Frances Dempsey, Chicago; Villa Eggleston, Crystal Lake, Ill., and Zelma Kinard, Cedar Lake, Ind.

Mary E. Smith would like to obtain a copy of the poem "When Pa Plays Baseball." Anyone able to furnish the said data will receive a hearty thank you.

Women guards enjoying vacations are Gladys Koerner, veteran of the graveyard shift; Verla Chism Fisher, who is in Paris, Tenn.; Irene Thomas, who is attending her daughter's graduation ceremonies at St. Francis' College.

Mable Peterson had her daughter, Mable Ann, as a guest for a week-end.

BOMBARDIER'S NEST is the name of this post in the nose of a giant bomber. From this advantageous position, he is in constant communication with the pilot, and when the target is reached he becomes "Captain" of the mission until after the bombs are dropped.

There is no doubt that EOP has the best dressed car checker of many an ordnance plant, namely, John "Bunny" Arthur who has added a new straw hat to his flashy attire.

Double congratulations are in order for Switchman and Mrs. Paul Hatcher on the arrival of twin sons.

There should be no worry as to food shortage in this plant with such capable farm owners as Matt Ludig, Ernie Wendt and many others in the Railroad Division. With any luck in the weather, these men may become truck-gardners.

Telephone Tid-Bits

Merle Eberhart's happy countenance is missed around the Radio Division. Merle is now with the Army and all wish him luck.

Al Johnson—(poor boy)—once again finds himself on the split shift. He eats his supper at breakfast time, isn't hungry at dinner, and goes to bed when everyone else is getting up. Al has a long list of disadvantages for anyone who would care to hear about them.

Clarence Coope is expected to raid his Victory garden of carrots any time. Coope is on the night shift once more, but please don't remind him. He's trying so hard to forget.

The six little puppies which are the property of the Radio Division draw a great deal of attention and that's for sure. It could definitely be said that they are "watched" dogs.

Gust Hahn apparently is the only one around who isn't frettin' about his income tax. He must be the only one who has the money to pay it, while others keep on singing "Oh where, oh where has my money gone?

Frank Wilkinson of the Bond Department will spend the week of June 12 in Champaign.

Evelyn Blaydes, Payroll, left Saturday, June 5, for her former home in Kentucky.

Joe Stark's friends in the Engineering Department were glad to hear that he is doing well in his new position at the Illinois Water Treatment Company at Rockford. Mr. Stark resigned recently as superintendent of the Water Department here.

Frederick Poplausky soon will be strolling down the sidewalks of New York, and you can't deny that "Pop" won't have fun on vacation.

Kem Peterson of the Consolidated Aircraft Company, Fort Worth, Tex., was a visitor here June 9. His father is that jovial gentleman, W. E. Peterson of the Engineering Department.

C. L. Huggins, formerly of the Expediting Department, is now with an aircraft plant in Chicago.

Sue Jubera, Rose Haley, Mary Rozich, Ann Muren and Helen Tusek had a memorable Memorial Day picnicking at Highland Park.

Jean Hine's husband came home on furlough June 12.

Jack Breitfuss has returned to Chicago.

Those interested in unusual jewelry might like to see the new ruby ring Jean Oliver is wearing.

Howard McCorkle is on the sick list.

Vince Cantarella is back in little old New York planning to enter the Navy.

Harold Johnson of Camp Livingston, Louisiana, former timekeeper in the Fuze & Booster Area, was a visitor in the Administration Building.

The Payroll Department is sponsoring a picnic at Hammel Woods Sunday, June 27. Everybody is invited. Bring your own lunch and come early. A good time is expected.

Margaret Ott, Mail Room, left for Fort Benning, Georgia, June 12 on vacation. They say her heart throb is down there. His name is Pvt. Howard Kroening, former Government inspector in Group 63.

Jackie Binzen is vacationing because Tech. Sgt. Theodore Barnville of California is home on furlough.

Bette Fedderson and Margaret Adams visited Jefferson Barracks, Missouri. Bette went to see Bob Stewart, formerly of the Mail Room.

Barbara Machias, 10-year-old daughter of John Machias, Payroll, underwent an operation May 14 at St. Joseph Hospital, Joliet. She is recuperating and wants her friends at Washington School to know that she is thinking of them.

Cpl. Lloyd Smith is home in Joliet on furlough. "Smitty" was formerly a chauffeur here and was expected for a visit.

Beautiful flowers in the offices of the Administration Building are due to W. B. "Farmer" Manchester.

Rita Dwyer spent the week-end in St. Louis.

Stanley Nyren, "bundle o' smiles," Purchasing Department, is on vacation.

Geraldine Almon, Evelyn Vilt, Helen Boling, Hazel Gleason and Marilyn Rhodes planned to spend the night of June 17 in a cottage on Kankakee River near Wilmington.

Marian Shelley, Purchasing Department, is in California visiting her brother, Frank "Zeke" Shelley, at Camp Roberts. The "worry wart" worried for three weeks whether she would be able to get train connections, so all were happy when a card said that she had arrived.

Bob Bailey's time is taken up between his new boat and his new daughter born recently. The boat is 17 feet long, and the baby just a little thing. Maybe she will grow up to be a WAVE—she is a wave of sunshine now.

Al and Emily Voegtle were visitors here Friday, June 4. He is in the armed services at Camp McCain, Mississippi. Emily was formerly employed in the Purchasing Department, and everyone was glad to see "Little Bug."

Dawn Schultz is now working at the new Post Office Building in Chicago.

Miss Boling's heart is all aflutter—Staff Sgt. Walt Wheeler of El Paso, Tex., will be home June 21 on furlough.

The only member of the Expediting Department to enlist in the armed forces is PFC. R. F. Raycraft of Miami Beach, Fla.

N. S. Gustafson, former expediter, is employed at the Dodge Plant, Chicago.

Otto Wehr has returned from a vacation and Joe Bebej left for one. Both are chauffeurs at the Administration Building.

Barbara Melin, former secretary to G. B. Pumphrey, is having the time of her life being a little housewife at Batavia.

Billie Nicholson, secretary to W. E. Canniff, is vacationing in San Francisco and Sacramento.

Ever see a carnival performer dive from a high tower into a tub of water?

What a thriller!

But you wouldn't try it. Too risky, you'd say.

Yet when you dive into unfamiliar water you're taking a greater risk.

Don't be foolish around water. If seven thousand Americans who drowned last year had known and obeyed a few simple rules they would be alive today.

Don't dive into water you don't know. It may be dangerously shallow or hide rocks or stumps that could break your neck.

The National Safety Council recommends that you wait two hours after eating before going in swimming. Remember, too, that swimming requires good general physical condition.

Stay out of the water if you're overheated from exercise or the sun. Wait until you cool off, then go in, but never alone.

Whenever possible, swim where a life guard is on duty. But no matter how many people are around, do not swim far from shore, unless you are accompanied by a boat.

If you suffer cramps in the water, don't lose your head. Try to float while signaling for assistance.

Keep yourself safe by taking no chances. Learn rescue methods and artificial respiration so you can save others.

Native Hollander Now Greases Blockbusters Here

"I hope every bomb I grease finds its proper target," said Martin Baker, native Hollander, now employed as service man to blockbusters in Group 3-A.

Mr. Baker was born in Friesland, Holland, in 1878. He came to the United States from Amsterdam in 1912. Still in Amsterdam are four of his children, two brothers and two sisters, from whom he has heard nothing since Germany invaded The Netherlands. One of the brothers has been on the Amsterdam police force for 25 years.

A son, Jake, 26 years old, is a lieutenant in the U. S. Army Air Corps, and a daughter, Grace, 23, is a WAVE. Mr. Baker has been a carpenter for 35 years and was transferred from carpenter work for EOP to operations recently.

EOP WAAC Speaks

A few words on life among the WAACS were spoken by Betty Foster, former forelady, June 12, in Fuze & Booster, at the Treasury Center program in the Public Service building, Joliet. She is now stationed at Fort Riley, Kan.

News from the front. . . . Got a V-mail letter from Jimmy Walker . . . you remember him from Stores and Transportation . . . he's somewhere in England and having himself a heck of a time . . . says he enjoys the English brew . . . but has a "devil of a time" with the King's English. . . . Bet they can't understand that Missouri drawl of his either.

Harold Kapsch, formerly of Timekeeping, is keeping things moving up Camp McCoy way . . . guess from all reports he has dropped some of his excess weight. . . . His brother Bernie, is in the Navy stationed in California.

A group of the guys and gals went to Kankakee to give the glad mitt to the new Mrs. Tommy Haigh. . . . From all and sundry reports, a good time was had by all. . . . By the way . . . have you noticed how settled Tommy is now?

Bea Peterson of Auditing is vacationing . . . spose she'll be back with a swell coat of tan and lord it over us pale faces. . . . See Lois Dix is still on the upgrade after her operation . . . slow going but successful . . . glad she has those nice rosy cheeks again.

Say, don't know whether you readers were advised or not . . . but Phil Keller formerly of Payroll, is a papa and a proud one, too. . . . Mama is the former Evelyn Gleason.

Margaret Jesberger is looking in furniture windows . . . so the good word goes . . . wonder if it is the good looking furniture or the star dust of romance that inspires such looks?

Lee Sopher of Personnel was seen on the streets of Streator (cute phrase, no?) t'other day looking like a page from "Charm" . . . seems as though she has a new outfit that she hasn't sprung on her EOP friends yet.

Marie Maren (cutie pie) of Mail and Record has a sad look these days . . . guess that mail man hasn't been able to get those letters from Jimmy Veatch out from camp in time to suit Marie. They're engaged you know—and his so-o-o far away—Yep, he's somewhere in Australia.

Heard from Bill Turndahl down Tennessee way and says he expects to be in the Air Corps soon . . . transferring from his present branch of service . . . He's married now . . . but still likes to hear the dirt from good old EOP . . . Gosh, that's one thing about this place . . . sorta like graduating from school . . . ya know, Alma Mater and that stuff . . . no matter where the kids roam they always want to know where Johnny is or what Sallie is doing now . . . Would be fun to have a reunion one of these days, wouldn't it?

Claire Donoghue Yeoman was visiting here last week . . . You remember her from Capt. K. D. De Young's office and her hubby . . . Lt. Dale Yeoman . . . they are now billeted in Baltimore while Dale is at Aberdeen . . . she looks wonderful and says they like Baltimore.

Helen Harmon has been pretty quiet about the Army lately . . . wonder if she has traded the land lubbers for sea hawks.

Ann Kulpa's secret is just about to break . . . she will dish it out herself about press time . . . Molly Baker, teletyper, and her eminent colleague have a jam session every once in a while . . . the colleague is none other than pretty Ann Melovic.

Speaking of Mail and Records . . . if you see a big black wreath hanging on the door . . . don't be alarmed . . . it's just their way of telling the world that they are in mourning . . . their last male has been inducted into Uncle Sam's army . . . Mel Huston, the teletype kid . . . Jo Kush, chief of the Section, will have to change the name to Fe (mail) and Records . . . The gang from this office had a picnic for him at Nowell Park in Joliet and everyone had a hilarious time munching hot dogs and mustard and all the trimmings . . . Lt. C. R. Crandell and the missus looked like they had a good time.

Orchids or a medal are in order for Ann Lipsar of Operations and Transportation . . . she has been taking subjects at night school and has attended twice a week for six months . . . nary a day or night AWOL.

Does anyone know what that pet phrase Jo Vilt . . . blonde queen in Maj. G. A. Grant's office . . . uses when she requests a file???? Word is out that H. H. "Red" Bowler looks like a million dollars in his Ensign uniform . . . with that hair and those Navy blues. Some time ago Lieutenant Crandell had a "cocktail" party for the Administrative Section at his home . . . the guests had such a swell time that they are reciprocating by having the Crandells as guests at a dinner this week . . . sorta nice, don't you think????? . . . Proves the theory that if you all try a little to get along with each other that you can make working fun and not just "another pay day."

Some of the nicest news heard during the week was that of it being MAJOR David P. Tunstall . . . he was promoted from captain . . . sure deserved it and everyone is very happy . . . he's down St. Louis way now, you know.

Haven't heard much from the Payroll kids lately, don't suppose Danny Considine is working them too hard, do you????? . . . Customer's Contribution: Wonder what William J. Leeland is studying train schedules for???? . . . Vacation????? . . . Betty Wilhelmi of Personnel has gone to see her heart throb . . . Bob Kennedy . . . he's out East with the Armed Forces . . . probably come back as Mrs.

MOTOR torpedo boat duty at Portsmouth, N. H., is now the assignment of Ensign Orin Long, former Government inspector in Group 3-A.

From the Timekeepers

Best wishes and that sort of thing go with Betty Lou Page . . . She's now in the Payroll Audit Department in the Administration Building.

Lorreto Franke has a swell California Tan . . . Sure . . . she just returned from spending some time with husband, Bill . . . He's one of Uncle Sam's boys, too . . . Get her to tell you of the "sightseeing" trips she took . . . were swell.

Summer is officially here . . the sport shirt has made its debut along with the gals "bottle stockings" . . . Course all the gang misses Eddie Reichert's butterfly bow ties, and John Kolb's and Frank Bravato's bright colored cravats . . . too bad they had to dispense with them . . . kinda brightened things up around the old place.

EYES OF THE AIR are the powerful cameras carried by each bomber. Here is shown a bombardier photographer as he appears when recording the results of the bombardier's efforts to place his "eggs" smack on the target.

Ordnance Inspection

CATHERINE TOMLIANOVICH
Correspondent

Journalistic endeavors have never been the ambition of this writer. I am the means to an end. The contributions and co-operation of the personnel of this Department and the toil of my predecessors, Gerry Ward and Helen Wissert, have made this column. Let's carry on!—"Tommy."

Office

W. F. Douville's hurried trip to Washington, D. C., June 3 must have been successful. He was all smiles on his return. . . . What happened to that upswept coiffure Lois Martin was sporting not too long ago? Could it be that Esther Noffke's blond tresses were competition? These two got together on the ball diamond June 10, but the Group 8 team was victorious by a score of 14 to 4. Bernice Shroba's recent visit to the trailer home of Linnetta Parry left her all agog. Her entire views on trailers were squashed. The conveniences and particularly the porch light intrigued this lassie. More trips to Wilmington are indicated. Wouldn't it be novel to know that Linnetta could get safely to EOP from Joliet? . . . Betty Ross, auburn-haired mail girl, has had some difficulty collecting the going-away gifts of this Department's males. Suggestions will be appreciated. . . . Ethel Campbell is talking about a trip to Indiana. . . . Who's in favor of having Delores "Penny" Dagon do her hula dancing in the corridors? . . . What happened to Stanley Eisler's sunburn? It came and went—but fast.

Group 3

W. K. Hillenbrand, line inspector, feels quite lonely with the loss of Alfred Dietz to the armed forces. . . . The inspectors on Shift 2 sympathize with Mr. Hillenbrand. He is very tidy about his car. He went out of his way the other day to pull out of a parking place so his passengers could step into the car from the roadway when one deliberately walked through a mud puddle and stepped into his car. The results were worse than a TNT explosion. Not enough, when he picked up this same passenger next morning, the fellow had the audacity to squat himself squarely on his lunch. . . . "Who rides with who?" was the subject of debate between Marion Carter and Francis Taylor.. 'Tis said the matter was settled out of court and perhaps this is the last of it—until the next time. . . . If you know a joke, tell it to Paul Roesener who really enjoys them. . . . It has been suggested that the Ordnance Inspection Department have a picnic. This could be accomplished by each pooling a few ration stamps. No doubt, the result would be pleasant for all. Contact Mr. Hillenbrand for further information.

Group 4

Additions to the Government personnel in Group 4 are Marian "Scottie" Westcott, Fred Stade and Margaret Olszta. . . . Many wonder if it was permanent when Elizabeth Heim told about being taken over to Salvage. . . . The Government Inspectors would like to know what Frances Olroyd was doing when her chair toppled over. Or was it the fault of the chair? . . . Saveta Dorsey is at home ill. All hope she will soon be well again to carry on her inspection.

Group 7

This group's Government gang really misses Robert "Bob" Cretcher who is now in Group 6. Most of the "wimmin'" are trotting around with long faces. . . . All feel sorry for Audrey Evenson, recent bride, who is all too soon to lose her husband, Roald "Bud" Evenson. He will be inducted June 23. . . . Helen Biernat, alias the "Promoter," is viewing the Group 7 Government office with wild ideas concerning redecorating —wicker furniture in a second story for the girls to spend their rest periods. . . . Pilcher Park experienced more than rain last Sunday. Miss Biernat, Ruth Phillips and Catherine "Cathy" Cyphers did the inevitable Spring picnic and as a result looked like something the "cat dragged in" the following morning. The food was alright, they agreed, but the bugs and the rain—there's nothing like your own backyard for a picnic. . . . For anyone interested, let it be known, the diet marathon at 7 still is raging. Steam baths have entered into the picture, but so far plain starvation seems to work wonders. When the boys come back, they'll probably be unable to recognize sweethearts, etc. —meaning wives.

Group 9

E. J. Nemanich has a new problem—to be or not to be a soldier. . . . Group 9 bade farewell to two inspectors. . . . Many wonder what the sudden attraction is here. All the inspectors are making themselves beautiful with their new fuzzy permanents. . . . The personnel of Group 9 wishes a speedy recovery for their former co-worker, Dorothy Magolan, who has been ill.

The lads at Central Fire Station gave out June 6 with a "Harvesters' Special" that reminded many of those ex-barefoot boys of the old fashioned threshing parties. Tony Schnelton prepared the chicken, and John McGee made marvelous magic in the lemon cream pie department. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lueder, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Day, "Tate" Ehman, Bob Tures, Arch James, Frank Rutkowski, Dave Current, Al Renn and Walt Van Winkle. The office was well represented by Chief Roy W. Mortenson, Ellen Dill and Kay Noonan.

It is rumored that after dessert a contest was held to see who could reach the bunks upstairs first. The prize (a left-over wishbone) was won by the speedy chief, who negotiated the gruelling distance (two flights of stairs) in the incredibly fast time of two hours and thirteen minutes. Of course, Mr. Mortenson had the edge on the rest of the gang because a few days previously, he got the nod over some of the Grab and Gulp champs of Station 2. The occasion was a farewell feed for Grover C. Alexander, and "Chiefie" had to outeat such champs as Chuck Jiskra, Ed Carter, Lon Seaton, Jim McGinnis, Tom Bretto and Vern Martin.

Speaking of Station 2—it's on the grape that an expedition is being formed to investigate certain housing conditions in the suburbs of Wilmington. Pat O'Donnell and George Hayes have offered to act as guides and Al Newman, Walt Williamson, Jake Schuck, Frank Dupuis, Verne McKimson and Larry Bade are going along, just for a ride.

They say it's a woman's right to change her mind—and as far as Frank Scoma is concerned, the gals can keep it. When the "Rockford Rascal" tried to change his mind about his vacation, he started a tiff that made the battle of Stalingrad look like the annual meeting of the Peony Chapter of the Flower Fanciers Fraternity. Among the would-be assassins pulled off the Scoma frame the following were identified: Ed Powell, George Learned, Joe Drazy, Tony Doman, Fred Johnson, Don Barnett, Wiley Bell, Jim Bolton and Dayle Pratt.

Loris "Candy" Hart finally made the grade and is now officially in the Army. He left for training June 18 . . . all hope he'll be able to get the furloughs he wants and wish him the best of luck.

Rumor has it that Joe Catalani no longer stays over on his "short changes."

Frank George now full realizes the importance of making telephone calls after the 3:30 shift.

Clyde Townsend suddenly stopped bringing flowers to the station, thereby creating a mystery.

There's something about the wee morning hours that attracts Walt Panian, but it's hard on the neighbors.

Rumors are flying about (from reliable sources) that George Collins is going on a diet.

Rumors are also flying about (from sources whose integrity is not doubted) that Willie Davis is taking piano lessons from George Zelke.

Harry Nielsen is going to get eight hours sleep every day.

Charles Tyler is going to tell the truth—once.

Warren Colby isn't going to "blow his top" anymore.

Johnny Connelly has quit calling up people at 3 in the morning.

George Bexson is a whirlwind at cribbage.

George Bereolos has given up smoking cigars.

John Smith has thrown over his harmonica for an ocarina.

Martin Hanson has given up snuff.

Ed Stricklin is going to turn over new leaf number 6438.

Marty Knowles, now of the Seabees, visited the department and received a royal welcome.

Foreladies Flossie Marshall and Della Norman received lovely gifts from the girls on their shift in honor of their birthdays.

Zelma Shaffer was called home by the death of her husband's mother. Group 3-A extends sympathy.

Darline Maass left bomb-loading at 3-A for the west coast in favor of matrimony.

Thelma Keppen, who was injured by a fall several weeks ago, returned to work June 7.

Bob Walsh is sporting a wonderful shiner. Must have been a wide door.

Sympathy goes to Gladys Pierce whose sister and brother-in-law were killed in an accident recently.

Juliette Noel wishes to thank her friends on the line for their expressions of sympathy in her recent loss.

Orbie Lauderdale wondered what kind of meat he had in a sandwich the other noon. Investigation proved it to be raw hamburger, awaiting the pan and onions.

In a letter received recently by Gerald Hall, Edward Rossi, former employee, told of winning his lieutenant's commission and the hand of a fair lady in Morris. Congratulations on both scores are extended.

Anna Jancuska has returned to work after a week's absence due to an injury. Next time she will know better than to move a piano and a stove by herself.

Josephine Purdy is a surgical patient at Silver Cross Hospital in Joliet. She can now receive visitors.

Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick received a letter from former clerk Edward Peterson giving "Pete's" address as "Sgt. Ed. J. Peterson, Lowry Field, Colorado."

An authentic source reports that certain government inspectors went home laden with bouquets of peonies the other evening. Roy Halliban and Kermit Long hoped to win consent to "visit a sick friend."

A card from former Asst. Supt. George Costello said that he is "in the pink" at Camp Peary.

Condolences are sent to Joe Petko because of the death of his mother.

Bill Baer was pleasantly surprised with a pot-luck supper and a gift by the girls on his shift to celebrate his birthday and fifth anniversary.

IMPRESSED by her charm and her ability as a chauffeur, representatives of Chicago newspapers sent Kathryn "Dixie" Dixon an official WOW bandanna following their recent visit here.

Lawrence Myers is back from a vacation with his bright and cheery smile. While gone Ted Hintz had the pleasure of traveling all around the plant hearing everyone's heartaches.

Steve Mentis is enjoying a well earned vacation.

Virgil Mooty eats his meals in a restaurant so he can turn his ration points over to Micky Mauss.

George Erdei spent a vacation by taking a truck ride with his brother-in-law.

If anyone wants to know the last minute details about fishing, get in touch with Cecil Young.

Every time Mr. Erdei sees Bob Clark and Harry L. Tanner talking he thinks they have him on the pan.

Charles Luther has been transferred to field duty.

If anyone wants the history of Carbon Hill, get in contact with John Vidano.

The Inspection Department, as well as the other departments here at South Inert, extend sympathy to Alex Stein, whose father died suddenly at Phoenix, Ariz. Alex had arrived there only a few hours before to spend a vacation with his parents.

Berry Carlson's ability to grow peonies is undisputed since he brought a gorgeous bouquet to the office. Berry said he had more difficulty in bringing them than growing them, since all whom he met along the way to work wanted one.

Ann Murnick has taken a vacation. Willard Vail chose New York City for a vacation.

The inspectors will be glad when Marie Brosset gets back. She and her family went to visit her brother in Salina, Kan.

Roller Skating Sport Of "Youthful" Pals

It is said that the season of Spring casts its magic spell upon the hearts of lovers, but less frequently does it turn back the pages of time and cast an urge to roller skate upon "boys" past the 50-milestone of life.

Nevertheless, it has happened to Frank Wickman, Group 1, and Nelson Wood, Kankakee Ordnance Works. They are two jovial pals who find time heavy on their hands after the evening meal. Therefore, the roller skating rink is now on their evening list of indoor sports.

Vacations have taken over the spotlight and among the first to enjoy them are Laverne Hahn, James McHugh, Clarence Peet, Connie Howard, Al West and Alice Petke.

Group 70 clockhouse is having new improvements added, including the installation of two more clock alleys to take care of the increase in personnel. Material checkers who formerly occupied the space have moved into new offices.

Eddy Swanson, Bill Seely and John Mandzuk have been inducted into the service.

Many wonder why Zona Bond has been so quiet lately. Bill Beaman spends lots of time in the Legion Hall in Joliet. Bob Griffin is having his tonsils removed and any day is expected to take a change for the nurse. Competition is keen at Group 1 as to whose smile is the heartiest, Shirley Van Dyne's or Helen Otis'. Many swear that both can be heard.

Arch LaBorence is talking to himself since his crew deserted him, has even started a new hobby, collecting bugs and beetles. Jules Ruppert Bunge and Mel Roach went to Group 3. Gridley Wheeler and Dale Aman have found no permanent home but are on the loose. Helen Kelly returned to Group 4 while Maurice Goodspeed went to Group 70.

Bernice Hagen will be "middle-aisling" it about July 2. Eula Weaver is tearing the town apart with boy friend home on furlough. Irene Blaha, 17 jewel timekeeper at Group 7, has a good many bows on her string.

Sylvia Drysanski has had to increase her vitamins since Artie Couch replaced Frank Zupancic as key timekeeper of Group 8. Says she has to do more work now.

Ray Bryant has moved into Joliet to be closer to his work. Barney McShane was first in the department to sport a new straw. Clyde Mulligan and Ray Lunkusky are two pals who really stick up for each other. Ray has replaced Herbie Drummond at Group 64 since Herb's induction. Milton Treitel is planning his vacation to New York already, although it is still several weeks away. Gerry "Cindy" Parthun loves to go out with sailors . . . for patriotic reasons, she says.

Harold Johnson was home on furlough. Helen Kelly, spinster, was giving advice to Mr. Roach, bachelor, on the happiness and advantages of married life. Mel's proposed vacation trip to California is probably what brought up the subject.

The nicknames, "Lovey-Dovey" and "Dagwood" have been hung on two prominent timekeepers constantly seen with each other. Lawrence Holz replaced Bill Prindle at Group 6 while Bill was on vacation.

Charles Swanberg committed the unpardonable sin of all keymen timekeepers by forgetting to clock his card.

Flower boxes have been hung beneath the windows at the North Inert office to augment the effect created with picket fences. Various contributions of seeds and flowers were planted. John Ney contributed a true shamrock plant and some four-leaf clovers which he obtained while on vacation at home in Wisconsin. He brought back all the fish that he caught in an eye dropper.

Frank "Storage" Zupancic and Fred Ford are leaving for vacations. On the return list are Richard Ashworth, George Newton, and Andy Cherrie. Richard and George found home life and local outings the best on the bill for wartime vacations. Andy claims he is caught up on his needle work. Walter Mork is spending one week with his daughter in Decatur, Ill. "Wilhe," the mascot cat, also had a vacation over Decoration Day without food or fiber . . . the last supper lasted, however.

Edward Sheridan of Group 27 receives a posy for his desk each morning from some of his admirers. There is some controversy as to who should bring the posy each day. Eddy has developed into quite a wrestler. He took on an opponent who was too good for him and Larry Lazier was so interested in watching the match that he missed his bus.

PFC Thomas Delockery a former timekeeper at South Inert is now serving in an engineering and aviation unit in the Army.

Several cases of web feet are reported to have developed at Group 27. They say its from wading around in the mud, but it might be from "ducking" the foreman.

There is a person high up in the Traffice Department who, by his own devices, obtained some "red stem" tomato plants. These special plants in due time produce huge blossoms as large as three inches in diameter. At that rate if they develop into tomatoes he will need one of his box cars to haul them to market, but if wet weather continues, he can just "Wade" in after them and float them out.

Ann Baldwin of Group 27 spent the week-end in Carlinville visiting her parents. Mary Berg also of 27 has a new place to carry her boots . . . in her pocketbook.

Al Gierich, pilot of Group 27, is spending a few days' vacation with his son who is being inducted into the Navy.

Robert Clark, inspector at Group 27, has seen so many cans that he does not care if they ration cans or not.

Mr. Ford of South Inert was pacing the floor waiting for word of his offspring . . . a boy or girl . . . the phone just rang—it's an eight pound son.

On the Side—The friendly satire directed at Scorchy has had an adverse effect on his personality . . . instead of spurring him on to bigger and better writings it has changed him from a belligerent two-fisted, egotistic man about the plant into a weary apologetic writer as evidenced in his article on Vitamins in Vol. 1—No. 26. In Vol. II, No. 1, he failed to contribute his column entirely. This is a regrettable state of affairs and if his feelings are so easily hurt, perhaps all could get together on a booster campaign to raise his withered spirits and re-inflate his ego back to the pre-feud era.—C.H.M.

Allies of World War I Work Together Here

Calvin A. Kemper, Group 27, reports the most interesting episode of his two years at Elwood Ordnance Plant; a saga of ammunition and war connecting EOP and Africa with World War II and World War I. James E. Hall, now a watchman at Group 27, at last figured out where he had previously seen Sperios K. Chellios, gang leader at Group 27.

Hall had to recall Chellios with a mustache and in an officer's uniform. He had to travel back in memory to May, 1916, when he was a veterinarian on a vessel carrying mules from the United States to Italy. The ship was torpedoed and had to put in at a port in Algeria for repairs. There Mr. Hall encountered Mr. Chellios who was then a lieutenant in the French Foreign Legion.

The next time they met was 26 years later at Elwood Ordnance Plant where they now reminisce about mules and camels, as compared with armored cars and tanks which are now being used in the same spot. Mr. Chellios does not feel that the mud of Group 27 reminds him of the sand of the African desert, so he has with him a small photograph showing him attired in his Foreign Legion dress uniform of 1916.

The material checkers' staff has a new addition in the person of Lawrence K. "Whitey" Brownfield of Mason City, Ill. The "Whitey" part of his moniker is the "something new that's been added" since he joined the "63" gang.

A further step toward progress has been made with the delivery of a "moto-scoot." It fills a very practical need for quick trips into the area for rush orders, track lists and check-ups and for jaunts over to "Hall Siding" or 63-00 as it is also known. Paul Hall and Floyd Borah are two who will attest to its usefulness.

Ed LaRocque, senior material checker, is enjoying a well-deserved (?) vacation. High spot of his time off will be the furlough of his son after a two-year service in the Navy, most of which was spent as an ensign aboard the destroyer "McDonough" in the Pacific and at Pearl Harbor.

The sympathy of the group and of the entire plant is offered to Rudy Schramm, whose wife died. He sends thanks to everyone for their condolences and help during his bereavement.

John Austin, former employee in 68 and now stationed in Massachusetts, surprised the fellows with a visit June 7.

In spite of all lectures delivered by co-workers to Earl C. Mayes, he insisted that he would be married. The date—June 12. The place—Methodist Church in Clifton. The lucky girl—Frieda Vogt of Kankakee.

The only eligible bachelor in "68" now is William A. Reilly. But don't rush, girls, he has just received his 1-A classification.

Jim Halpin, night foreman, is spending a vacation working on his new home near Kankakee.

Robert Swinford is really worried about the marital status of Matt Rotkovich.

Frank Perino probably will return from his fishing trip with lengthy stories of how this one and that one got away.

Question of the week? How can Leo Stickler wander around with four and five checks in his pocket?

POSING interestedly, Nancy Evelyn Lanoue, daughter of Wilfred Lanoue, guard in Group 1, was one year old when this photo was made.

Group 3-A Captures Inter-League Title

The championship of the bowling teams which have been bowling in leagues in near-by communities was decided on the EOP alleys June 9, and the scores showed that the "maples" really had to take it.

Group 3 A, with a total of 2778 pins, was high. Wilfred Spiers had high game for the team, 240, and the average was 186 pins a player.

The teams finished in this order; Group 3 A—2778; Engineering—2688; Carpenter Shop—2656; Bus Drivers—2627; Guards—2612; Administration—2437; Investigators—2410; and Machine Shop—2340.

One of the highlights of the meet was the 996-game rolled by the Engineers. Charles Griffin bowled high game of 246. High series was made by Spiers, 613. Second high series was Colby Erikson, 601, also from 3-A. Al Nelson of the Engineers was third with a score of 564 pins.

Ed Doyle and Bud Warriner say Leo Wagner should learn to paddle his own canoe before he takes anyone for a boat ride hereafter.

The girls on the Kankakee bus call Harry Hilgert, "Dimples." He is trying to induce Bill Billings to part with some of his real estate.

Bob Bolte may go in for dog racing now that he is the proud owner of a real hound. He says it is scheduled for some blue ribbons.

George Weber wants to know why the kid in the drugstore tried to sell him some fish hooks.

According to Hayden "Bunny" Hardy there is no meat shortage at the Hardy home (plenty of rabbits).

Mike Zola says he doesn't mind the meat rationing because he is shy his teeth.

All were sorry to see Sammy Morgan leave and wished him good luck in his new position.

All the boys who ride with Herschel McLaughlin have bought spurs so they can jingle, jangle, jingle.

Edward "Farmer" Copp put his spuds in just before the last big rain.

Everett Denover and Marion "Butch" Bertolet got some bargains in Chicago June 6. If Butch had not been along, Everett no doubt would have paid $40 for that two-pants suit on Maxwell Street.

Leo Lamping, guard, was seen changing a tire for two persons of the fairer sex. This happened on Chicago Road but he claims it is all in the line of duty.

Willie McKnight certainly likes the cool weather.

George "Tarzan" Biddle misses Chuck Gorman and his grapes. George can furnish more details.

THE FOUR FREEDOMS are graphically illustrated in a series of posters by the celebrated artist, Norman Rockwell, in a display arranged in one of the bays in Group 3-A. Foreman Colby Erickson and Safety Engineers Emory Akeman and Don Crowther did the arranging.

John Bradecich, material checker, is planning on a trip across Lake Michigan to one of the Michigan summer resorts for a vacation. All hope Johnnie will carry a life preserver in case the boat is torpedoed by a sea gull or a catfish. If Johnnie wants to go into seclusion for the vacation period he can join the House of David at Benton Harbor, grow a beard and save a barber bill.

When meat rationing started, Kenneth Pratt figured out one way to beat it, so he trapped a baby turtle and hid it in his desk and waited for it to grow large enough to prepare a pot of turtle soup. The turtle grew so large he couldn't open the drawer and he had to call the carpenters to help him get it. No soup, yet!

Chester "Pops" Melville is on vacation and intends to stay close to home. He may attend a few ball games, go fishing or visit the local race track.

Q. Can you give me a description of the new overseas ribbon that soldiers will wear who see service in Africa?

A. It's a green ribbon, 1⅜ inches long and ⅜ inch wide. In the center are red, white and blue vertical stripes. In addition to the U. S. colors, the green, white and red of Italy are at its left end and the black and white of Germany at its right end—the colors of the enemies against whom the holders are fighting. The ribbon also signifies service in Europe or the Middle East.

A cordial welcome is extended to Betty Grady from Kankakee.

Phylis Clair, who left on vacation June 9, was heard to offer to let Margaret Bruce type a certain report so Margaret would get some practice in typing it before Phylis left.

Ray Banker was happier than most last week when son, Paul, finally arrived home after a 14-month absence. She says instead of one wedding in June, she is having two, as both son, Paul, and daughter, Eleanor, are taking that final step and its not a double wedding either. This is the way she is spending a vacation.

Harry Brown and Frank Folwell have been trying to figure out just whose bank Betty Welch robbed in order to get the 25 pennies she displayed. Frank insists it was baby sister's, while Harry says it was baby brother's.

Those enjoying vacations are Joan Schwartz of Group 4-9 progress clerks; Don Nelson, inventory clerk; Jim Murphy, property. Those on vacation last week were Argyle Dalziel and Jim Thompson, inventory clerks, and Paul Sommerville, Group 3, who went home to Iowa to visit.

June Kuglich, who was visiting her husband in California, thought for awhile she wouldn't get home as she couldn't get a reservation. But after a few days delay, June arrived home none the worse for her experiences which included the train hitting a cow.

Johnny Williamson, formerly in charge of the progress clerks in Group 2, is now filling a similar assignment in Group 3.

Orville Rasmussen and George Hayward have been transferred to taking inventories and are now titled inventory clerks instead of progress clerks. Donald Starr left to take another job and all wish him the best of luck.

Fred Legris was absent two days treating a bad cold. Doctor's orders are to move to a colder climate. It's too dry and hot here.

Mayor George Sangmeister says it will be too bad for members of the Joliet Police Department if they are caught violating any of Frankfort's ordinances or overparking.

Helen Hausser is wearing a very charming locket received from her husband when on furlough.

Elva Thomas wore out a pair of shoes trying to spend her No. 17 stamp. So she was begging for another stamp.

Jake Debri returned from a vacation spent in Iowa. Frank Weston is now vacationing and Pete Conroy will be next to go.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS were extended by this delegation from Group 63 May 26 to Ray Pfeiffer and John Paul Edward Hall, Jr. (second and third men respectively from left in front row). There were decorations and refreshments at lunch period.

Group 4
By Marcella Hebert

Group 4 wishes John Kinney the best of luck. John left recently for the Navy Air Corps and is stationed at the Lewis School of Aeronautics at Lockport.

Mary Jane Fulton is going back to pigtails. Reason: She finally met the right boy and he's kinda young.

It seems as though Sue Vehrenkamp is going in for midgets. That trip to St. Louis brought her in contact with Johnny of the Philip Morris.

Could the lonesome look on Bing Engers face be fore a certain young ensign who is among the absent?

After lifting a few shells Jed "Jeddo" Mees's famous last words were "The name is Simpson not Sampson"!

Group 4 wished Bob Welch lots of luck in his new assignment in Group 1.

Minnie Haywood thought she saw somebody down in LaSalle one Saturday night. She doesn't know it—but she did!!

Scene in Group 4: Julie Schayer tearing into the assembly building to see Lil Clyne about skids.

Julius Schayer is mighty proud of his new sun porch in the South end of his shipping room.

There is good reason to believe that a designer is here. It's Mary Baue and she specializes in hats.

Marion Matrella, forelady, has returned from a two weeks' visit at her home in Bissemer, Mich.

Lola Henry's thoughts just can't keep from straying over Missouri way.

T. Sgt. Robert "Red" Jones, formerly of Group 4, recently enjoyed a fourteen-day furlough. Red is stationed at Camp Maxy, Texas, in the medical corps.

Betty Johnson always had the idea that birds have fur instead of feathers!

Everybody is wondering who this Bill is that Lois Schultz is singing about?

Group 5
By Cora Kay

Back to childhood days—Dalton Daly with the measles.

Art Couch, timekeeper, was transferred to Group 8. Welcome to Frank Zupancic, new timekeeper, is extended.

Julienne Hughes is spending ten days in Wisconsin.

Eva May Espy journeyed to her home town, Centerville, Ia., to march down the aisle to the strains of the wedding march. Her new name is Mrs. Chester Paul Fiedler.

Ginger Bendrick is showing off a beautiful new diamond and 'tis rumored that she is engaged to Bill Burk, former foreman in Group 9.

Welcome is extended to Waldo Baldon who is now in Group 5 coming from Group 6.

Dell Milliken, foreman, came from Group 9 to Group 5.

Group 7

Trannie Jefferson, change-house maid, is ill at St. Joseph's Hospital in Joliet.

Catherine Simpson and Margaret Ghigo are sporting the very latest in pierced ears.

Kenneth Eimen, foreman, is on vacation.

Larry Patton, assistant superintendent in Group 7, is on vacation. He will spend it visiting his mother in Atlantic City, N. J.

Della Cashen was greatly missed while on a trip to Camp Hood, Texas. She said goodbye to her son, Bob, who is leaving for active duty. Believe it or not our Della has a son 20 years old.

Lou Ruark is leaving to go to Gregg Business College in Chicago.

Catherine Simpson returned to work after a week's trip to Richmond, Va.

Joan Schauland and Ann Grobarcik enjoyed the pot-luck dinner given by the girls, especially the potato salad.

Everyone would like to know why Martha Hall, one of the powder girls, always sighs and then says "Good old California."

Theresa Maynard spent the week-end in Virginia, Ill.

Anyone living in Morris can ride with Howard Sampson. He has only seven passengers now, but he wouldn't mind another. Maybe he could use a station wagon.

Hyke Weather sure walks around the Assembly Room with a sparkle in her eyes since her husband was home on furlough.

Every one welcomes Joe Smith, assistant superintendent, back to Group 7.

Group 8

Group 8 celebrated home-coming week when George Elum returned to the fold. A ball-game between Groups 8 and 9 was the major event. The teams really put on a show. Group 9 ran off with, (No!—slipped up on)—a prize score of 19 runs against Group 8's 15 runs.

While speaking of baseball, don't forget the Group 8 Girls team! They have won the two games played, first with Groups 4 and 5, and second with Group 60. In the first game, Group 8 won by a score of 17-13. Batteries were Theresa Seno and Betty Stalzer for Group 8.

In the second game of the season, Group 8 won over Group 60 by a score of 13-4. Batteries for Group 8 were Seno and Stalzer. Highest batting averages for these games so far this season go to Eileen Woodcock, Group 8;—M. Haulse, Group 45; Seno, Group 8; Olga Prebish, Group 8, and Kay Cusick, Group 60.

Group 9

Group 9 welcomes a new Superintendent, John H. Walker, also Foreman Bill Lipsey and Foreladies Ruby Armbrust and Lillian Carlsoh.

Good wishes for the best of luck go with Supt. W. D. Whaley, Jr., and John Neeley, assistant superintendent, who have gone to Group 4 and 5.

Wedding bells will soon be ringing for forelady Clara Favaro.

Seems nice to have Dorothy Murphy back in Group 9.

Chemical Laboratory
By Clarice Petrelli

Bob Wessels says he is not interested in girls, yet he is seen quite often with two or three girls —safety in numbers.

Sammy Koons would like every group to know that he is going to spend his vacation fishing.

The laboratory staff was pleased to see Ensign John Kinney—He really looked fine in his uniform.

William Wheeler received the important letter he has been awaiting—he is now an ensign. Though he is very modest, he seemed quite interested in the colors of the uniforms.

Group 4's loss was the Chemical Laboratory's gain—Denny Elliott is back home again.

The laboratory staff was happy to receive a phone call from Eddie Merriman, seaman, former employee of the laboratory.

Group 45
By William Blouske

Many wonder why Alice Jones, truck driver, is always receiving flowers.

Summer is here! Christine Franklin was seen wading in the mud trying to get a truck out.

Alice Hanlon is all smiles; could be her husband, PFC. Jerry Hanlon, will be home on furlough soon.

Tillie Watson has an addition to her family—no—a puppy.

The gang at group 45 are sorry about Mary "Red" Lampman's broken toe.

Marcella Barchark is buying furniture. Could be wedding bells!

Dorothy Hallett, truck driver, is happy now. Her Marine boy friend is home for a few days.

Ruth Schaubel is willing to give anybody pointers on climbing fences.

Shirley Hoeller looks cute with her new permanent.

The girls of group 45 are pleased to have the office girl, Ruby Frederick, Bill Blonske, Emmy Bishop, change house matron, and Jennie Murdie time keeper.

All wish Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blonske a pleasant vacation. They left for New Jersey June 6.

E. L. WALKUP
Director

Practice sessions for the EOP baseball team so far this season have been confined to the games played with the Illinois State Penitentiary and the inmates furnish fast competition. The EOP baseballers got started on their regular schedule by winning from the Kankakee Browns.

The Softballers have more than a month's postponed games to make up, but both leagues did get started last week. Look 'em over if you don't think the girls can hit. The same can be said of the men, especially John Kusinski and Lt. C. R. Crandell.

The Victory gardeners have been getting in some extra licks the last few evenings. Ted Auer said he was going to forget his garden until he could actually do some good. When he looked it over he found a lot of vegetables had to be harvested, in addition to a nice crop of weeds.

There are really some nice looking gardens in Group 60. The Chicago papers are recommending that much of the garden produce be dehydrated. The Recreation Department has plans which are easy to follow, so those who are interested can build a small dehydrator for home use, also instructions for storing and using dehydrated foods.

If you are a tennis player, beginner or not, be sure and register at the Recreation office. If you are a beginner you will find many of the better players are willing to help you with your game. If you are a good player you can improve your game by meeting others who have skill. The four courts are in perfect shape and have been used frequently recently.

The Department will build horse shoe courts in Group 8 and at Richards Farm for the boys there to get in shape for tournament play. The new courts in Group 60 should be in use by the time this is published.

Myrna Faris says Mary Vranesic submitted the winning title in the dance-naming contest sponsored by the dance committee of Group 3-A.

Don't be too alarmed by the creaks and groans heard around the Administration Area, because it's only the aftermath of the girls' first softball game this season.

Georgia Hulse, manager and catcher of Group 4-5 softball team, says "There just ain't no justice" when it comes to getting hit in the face by a ball! (her mask was lying beside her). And her boy friend was home on furlough, too.

Angie Lucas, Sadie Atkinson and Marge Glover, of the War Department, have been spending their luncheon period bowling. Finally they invited their boss over to bowl with them (loser to pay for the games) and what a trimming they gave him.

RETURNING for a visit, Sgt. Bob Bryant, formerly of Personnel and Group 1, stopped seeing friends long enough to pose for this picture.

Group 8 Captures Girls' League Opener

The girls soft-ball league got under way June 3 on the Administration diamond. The heavy hitting of Ilene Woodcock, centerfielder for Group 8, put them at the top for the game. Some pretty fast pitching on the part of Theresa Seno also helped Group 8 win over Groups 4 and 5 by a score of 17 to 12. For the losers Mickey Sampson, pitcher, was the star.

EOP Nine Takes Kankakee to Camp

It finally quit raining so it was time for the EOP baseball team to have a change of pace, too. This was done Thursday evening, June 10, at Kankakee when the Kankakee Browns were defeated 4 to 3.

This was the first of a series of twilight games to be played by the EOP team to give the folks that live in the nearby communities an opportunity to see their team in action.

Highlighting the game was Eddie Murphy's theft of a run by stealing home in the sixth. The box score follows:

EOP Nine Loses To Joliet Old Prison

The EOP baseball team lost a close and exciting game to the strong team of the old State Prison Sunday, June 6, by a score of 6 to 5. Although the EOP boys were outhit, they played heads up ball and scored their six runs on that many hits.

Tall, dark and good, is the best description for "Pitch" Davis, the colored boy who pitched for the Joliet nine, for although he allowed four hits and walked one man in the second inning, which accounted for four of the EOP runs, he settled down and pitched great ball for the rest of the game, allowing but two more hits and striking out six additional men. The box score follows:

EOP	AB	R	H

Personnel

DARA PREW
Correspondent

Irene Mulligan has made it her business to disprove one of the accepted adages. When someone remarked about her squeaking shoes, she immediately replied. "But they're paid for."

An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth is the rule in the Onsen household in Gardner. Discovering that her sister had taken her suitcase with her when she travelled to Texas, Marge Onsen searched through the sister's bureau until she found something that she could use and came away with an attractive summer purse which she is carrying while her sister is absent.

From the Corsicana Air Base, Corsicana, Tex., comes word of Willis "Bill" Schubert, the former mail boy with the beautiful red hair who took everyone by storm. He is a flying cadet and writes that he is proud to be a student in the Air Corps of the United States and the "set-up suits him fine."

Do you know that the Personnel Department attaches some sort of a rubber band (and with the present shortage, too) to those who have been closely associated with it or worked in it that bounces them back? Those that leave always come back to visit at the first opportunity. Most recent of this category was Francis J. Peck who drove up to the building to see for himself that everything was under control. Cpl. Jack Moilan, former photography man and now in the Army Air Corps, was greeted happily when he dropped in during his furlough. That Texas sun has tanned him until his blond hair is a startling contrast. One of the biggest surprises was a visit from Robert "Bob" Bryant who worked here for a year before he went over to Group 1. Bob is a good looking sergeant in the Air Corps Ordnance Division, at the Orlando Flying Base, Fla.

SCORCHY? Could be . . . but definitely it is known this is an early photograph of John E. Ryan, famous railroader of the Utilities Department.

Rose LeBeau is rapidly becoming the demonstration girl of the building. In attempting to become a beauty operator, she went to work on her face one night at home with a wash cloth, soap and hot water, with almost disastrous results. The next morning her complexion looked as if a road grader had been present to help in the operation. Days later scales appeared if she powdered her face carelessly, but the ravages have disappeared and "Rosie" is now back to normal with the "skin you love to touch." Some persons in the building have watched her gardening, too, and tell that she looks quite different in blue jeans and the gloves which her mother bought to protect her hands. She admits willingly that she's giving "her all" for that Victory garden.

Mustn't forget the other gardeners in the building, namely: Helen McGinnis and Marge Forrest. Marge comes to work at least once a week showing the blisters on her hands from using the hoe around the potatoes and tomatoes. But when anyone hints that the word of gardens is to be tossed about, that's where Helen Shines. She doesn't have a garden but a whole truck farm. There's well over 100 tomato plants. If the rest of the ground in potatoes, onions, peas, beans and egg plant is planted in proportion, more than one person has suggested that he would participate in a plan for a moonlight raid. If Helen were followed to ascertain the location, such a scheme might be feasible.

This getting married is hard work and very tiring; if you don't believe it, consult Audrey Deiss. "Deissie's" sister was married recently and she is just about to collapse. She swears that when she takes the final step no one is going to know about it. Oh yes, she'll let the other person in the match know, but none of the reception and shower "stuff" for her.

Byron Mills is setting an example for the younger men in the department. He appeared on one of the first hot days in a natty new blue summer suit topped with a panama hat looking as if he had just stepped out of a tailor shop.

Among the men's summer clothing devotees is Russell Watt. One distinguishing feature of his apparel is the summer ties which he chooses wildly. There's one which the girls say is orange and he insists that it is yellow. Since it's his tie, perhaps he should be given preference in the matter. There have been several suggestions made by Betty Benedict that he change and wear a conservative green one for a change. She maintains that it would look just as well with his light brown suit.

Can you imagine being embarrassed in front of your mother? Well, Marge Bittles claims that she was when her mother woke her the other morning and then laughed in her face. The reason, Marge, whom everyone deemed a young lady by now, was sucking her thumb. Dame Rumor, that nasty woman, is abroad again to say that Dolores Courtney has the same habit. If that tale bearer is wrong it won't be the first time and no one can catch her to make her suffer for the misinformation that she peddles.

As a result of shoe rationing, Evelyn Melby has started burning her shoes. Yes, everyone can soon figure out that this is exactly the opposite to the usual reaction to a new restriction. Digging out a pair of linen sandals that she wore last summer, "Evvie" set to work to clean them so that she could wear them again. She scrubbed and scoured with soap and a brush, and then she placed them on the open oven door to dry. The guilty party will be made to pay and pay, when discovered, but no one will admit performing the heinous crime of closing the oven door. Early the next morning, her mother arose and turned on the stove as it was chilly in the kitchen. It was only after a queer odor pervaded the house that Evvie thought of the shoes and opened that door. There they were—french fried. Being the most comfortable shoes she owned, they will never be satisfactorily replaced.

Six feet two inches of manhood stepped in the building in the form of Vernon Peak and now he's one of the staff. In case you want a better description of him, he has dark curly hair and is a very pleasant person with whom to work.

FINGERPRINTER to flyer is the goal of Kenneth Paul Mott, formerly of Personnel Department, now with the Air Corps in Missouri.

Bernice "Barney" Keenan was having a difficult time, but to everyone else it was mirth provoking. A regular gale was blowing in off the parking lot and Barney was wearing a dress with an extremely full skirt. As she approached the time clock with her skirt folded neatly around her a gust of wind came in the door and she couldn't decide whether to punch the card and at the same time lose her hold on the folded wings or just to pass up the whole matter. After a general laugh and teasing, Clinton Matteson came to her aid.

The compliment of the week is tendered Marge Turner with her new philosophy of life. She is ignoring everything and everyone unpleasant. As she works along all day she refuses to complain about anything. You'd be surprised what a great percentage of the time she is smiling.

Marie Stark and Grace Stilley spent the week-end with their families in Indiana and St. Louis, respectively.

Several want to know if anyone has seen William "Telephone" Buck tearing his hair out since Guards Joseph Wyne and Herbert Reeves left him.

Q. Can anyone, except a serviceman, make application to receive an allowance under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act of 1942?

A. If the serviceman does not make the application, his dependents may make it, or persons acting in behalf of the dependents.

ACTIVE duty in the Pacific is now the assignment of John Hanson, a former iron worker in Group 70 and a brother to Sgt. Martin Hanson, Fire Inspectors.

EOP Illustrates Development of Army Ordnance

131st Anniversary Of Branch Recalls Many Accomplishments

Army Ordnance celebrated its 131st anniversary June 11. During the period of its existence it has formulated remarkable plans, performed numerous and interesting experiments, resulting in not only conservation of critical materials, but in finding new and astounding uses for materials classified in the less critical category.

Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer of the Elwood Ordnance Plant, said that the transition of the Ordnance Department is very evident at the plant, as it was not long ago that this section of Will County was a peaceful, fertile farm country. Now it has become a military reservation, powerful, yet kind in its treatment to this locality—an important cog in the wheel of production.

At the time construction of EOP was scheduled to start, citizens were concerned as to just what reaction operation of the plant would have on the community at large.

The site of the plant was chosen by the Ordnance Department due to proximity to the big metropolitan areas, man power supply from surrounding territories, transportation facilities and the availability of electric and water power.

In 1940, when construction actually began, the prospects of this site becoming the metropolitan area it is at the present time, was certainly a remote one. Today, there are permanent roads, such as one finds only in large

General Aurand Lauds EOP Guards in Parade

High praise was won by the Elwood Ordnance Plant guards who participated in the Army Salute parade in Joliet June 20. Among those who extended congratulations on the unit's appearance were Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, Chicago, and Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer at EOP.

The following letter was sent to Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, by Colonel Rife:

"Last Sunday I was privileged to review the parade which was part of the Salute to Agriculture, Industry and Labor in Joliet along with Major General H. S. Aurand. General Aurand commented only once on the parade. That was when the third division passed with your men marching. He turned to me and said, 'I have never seen a finer group of men.'

"That statement, coming from a soldier like the General, struck me as being tremendous and I knew you would like to hear of it.

"I should like to pay tribute to the men of Elwood who drilled on their own time and participated voluntarily in the parade out of sheer pride in their outfit. They have that thing called esprit which has won many battles against great odds.

"I hope that you will convey to them my sincere thanks for their part in making the Salute the success that it was."

When First Shell Was Loaded at EOP

FIRST OF MILLIONS OF SHELLS was loaded at EOP two years ago July 12 by Col. T. C. Gerber, then commanding officer here, now Field Director of Ammunition Plants with headquarters in St. Louis. Colonel Gerber is shown pouring TNT into first shell, watched by W. E. Canniff, general manager (center), and Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter.

Washington Told of Loading First Shell

The following telegram was sent by Sanderson & Porter two years ago July 12 to Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell, Jr., Chief of Ordnance, Washington:

"Elwood Ordnance Plant Group 2 line is the first new defense shell loading plant to go into operation. Started loading 155 mm. shells today, seven months 25 days after beginning construction November 18, 1940. Our sincere thanks to the Ordnance Quartermaster and all other Government Departments for the wholehearted co-operation we have received making this performance possible."

Tell Personnel Dept. Of Draft Status Change

Emphasis is placed by R. T. Bassett, service manager, on the necessity for all employees who receive notice from their local draft boards of a change in their draft status to get in touch with the Personnel Department immediately upon receipt of the notice.

Fan Caution Emphasized By Loss of Finger

Loss of a finger by an EOP employee while working on a moving fan emphasizes the need for caution around electric fans both at work and at home, according to Rollin T. Read, safety director.

Claude Blessman, a welder, suffered the amputation of a part of one finger and the laceration of another while working on a welding machine in Group 70 June 23. Blessman attempted to make an adjustment on the governor of the machine without first shutting off the motor. As he reached around the fan for the adjustment screw his fingers came in contact with the whirling blades.

"Warnings against cleaning, oiling or repairing machinery while in motion are not posted as wall decorations," said Mr. Read. "They are based on common sense and cannot be ignored without serious risk to the violator."

Ex-Employee Decorated For Aerial Exploits

S/Sgt. Henry J. Kwasnieski, Jr., formerly a carpenter's helper here, now a turret gunner in a Flying Fortress, has been decorated for exploits over Europe during the last several months.

Final Warning About Tax Exemption Forms

Employees who fail to return their "Withholding Exemption Certificate" by the time the payroll is made up for the week ending July 10 will have 20 per cent of their wages withheld under the current tax payment act of 1943, according to Comptroller L. J. Kessel. Workers deserve commendation for the prompt return of their certificates, said Mr. Kessel, but some few have failed to turn them into their timekeepers because of absence.

July 12 Second Anniversary of 1st EOP Shell

Millions of Units Loaded During Two Years of Operation

July 12 is an important anniversary in the annals of Elwood Ordnance Plant and in the defense program of the United States.

Two years ago, July 12, 1941, the first EOP shell was loaded in Group 2. It was the first shell loaded under the defense program inaugurated by the War Department as EOP was the first of the defense plants, now called war plants, to be placed in operation, just seven months and 25 days after construction was started and two months ahead of the contract schedule.

That was a great day at EOP as is evidenced by the accompanying photograph showing Col. T. C. Gerber pouring the first shell as commanding officer in the presence of Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, and W. E. Canniff, general manager.

Many of the men who made the feat possible are still here today, others have gone. Still here are A. M. Lockwood, now general superintendent of utilities, but then assistant general construction superintendent under A. W. Malone, now in charge of the design and construction, for Sanderson & Porter, of a plant for Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., at Huntington, W. Va.; James J. Murphy, superintendent of Group 2; Claude Sayre,

Drivers Must Carry At Least Three Riders

Conservation of gasoline and rubber is stressed in a stepped-up program outlined to the EOP Transportation Committee by W. J. Murdock, chairman of the Transportation Committee of the Will County Area Council of Defense, and George Petersen, chairman of the War Price and Rationing Board. The program applies to holders of A, B or C Gasoline book holders and is as follows:

All car owners must carry three or more passengers to work if they expect to secure tire replacements.

No supplemental or preferred gasoline will be issued cars unless they observe this tire rule or meet the requirements of the next item.

If impossible to secure three passengers your application will be denied for tires and gasoline until you secure a certificate from both your transportation committee and Civilian Defense Council to show why it is impossible to have the necessary number of riders.

All applications for tires and gasoline first must be approved by your company's transportation committee on a special form prior to inspection of tires.

To aid in the conservation of rubber, you are first requested to use the public means of transportation where physically possible.

By pooling transportation workers together in cars you are helping the war effort in the conservation of rubber which is critically short at this time.

All workers where public transportation is impractical must be assured of transportation to and from work. Therefore, it is necessary to adopt this plan to keep the wheels of industry turning.

Officials Hail Independence Day

To the Workers of America:

"Today, the first Fourth of July since the United Nations took the offensive in the European theater of war, we have something to celebrate as well as something to remember. No less praise can be given the heroes of the battlefield than the tribute we pay to the heroes of the past.

"But in paying such tribute it is well to remember the heroes of the production line. Those men, yes, and those women, by their loyalty and faithfulness to their jobs in the plants, on the machine tools and assembly lines, in the stock-rooms and offices of the nation, have shown the world that a free people can, and have and will out-work, out-produce and out-fight any combination of forces that can be brought against us by Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy or the 'new order' of Japan.

"Today the world knows we are winning the battle of production. And the world also knows how much of this battle has been won by the free American worker. As Chairman of the War Production Board I want to express to you the gratitude of your government; but I must emphasize that while the job is being done, it is not finished. We cannot relax and must not for a moment—not even on the Fourth of July—until the job is done, and our enemies have given the unconditional surrender our Commander-in-Chief demanded!"

With sincere thanks,
Donald M. Nelson,
—Chairman, War Production Board.

Statement by Under Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal:

"This year July Fourth cannot be the traditional holiday, with fireworks and teeming highways. Instead, we are on the job as usual. Many of us are separated from those we love. For our inspiration, we must look back to our first Independence Day.

"Then our forefathers fought to gain the right to live under the freedoms which today are as natural and necessary to us as breathing. Now, fighting to preserve those freedoms, we must prove ourselves worthy of the name 'American.'

"I do not mean to talk down to you men and women who have proved by your achievements in production that you realize the desperate urgency of our national crisis. You are just as anxious to win this war as anybody. But I say to you, with gratitude for what you have already done, do your best—on this extra day of work and every day—because the lives of very gallant men depend upon the added effort which all of us can put into our jobs if we really try.

"Now, as in the past, a nation which would enjoy freedom must work for it."

Statement by Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson:

"America stands free on Independence Day, 1943, because brave men on the firing line have used with skill and daring against the enemy the weapons and materials provided by the men and women of the production line. To maintain our freedom, the courage of our fighting men must be matched in the year ahead by the spirit and industry of American workers. The Army is confident American workers will measure up to that high standard."

"If it's your Monday morning stummick again, Mike Grogan, I'm a better man than you are!"

The Burning Pit

By Scorchy

This is to certify that your much maligned scribe has had his vacation and is now back at work with a vim, a vigor and a vitality that will dazzle his immediate superior and other onlookers for several fortnights into the future.

Before his departure from the shell-loaders paradise there were great expectations as to the fun and good times to be had on this, the first vacation in three years. The return to the old happy hunting grounds, talks with old friends, visits to familiar places, reminiscences here and there on events of other years would be the revitalizing agent that a sadly worn carcass direly needed.

Folks, take the advice of one who has just come back. The old places are not the same, what with war and all its displacements. The old gang is gone, most of them into the armed service, and the rest to other locations to meet the demands of war production on the home front.

Little did I think that I would return to good old EOP in a preaching mood because ordinarily I am not in favor of preaching. But my recent interlude in other parts of these united states (and it is still gratifying that the dictionary meaning of the last two words is still a statement of fact without the use of capital letters) has led to the conviction that we have all got to work about twice as hard to settle the current international argument.

Pursuing this nascent idea, I developed a few resolutions for the future conduct of certain fellow workers in our midst. It is true that these intrusions into the workday routine of those who will be mentioned later herein constitute unlawful, unauthorized and otherwise unapproved violations of the Bill of Rights, but there is reason to believe that the residual sense of humor still within the boundary fence may be an adequate catalyst to promote the desired reaction.

First of all, Charlie Mann will pipe down and go back to his empty shells and bombs; Stuart Boloney will continue his wholesome silence of the past several weeks; our new assistant general manager, John J. Cole, will "come up and see us some time"—reports have it that he is out in the area quite a lot these days; it is hoped that John O'Connell will make a survey of his new headgear—there is already an underground movement to collect contributions for a new hat for him; "Pop" James is hereby requested to tell more of his friends about his Sunday afternoon "blowouts"; Hugh S. Robb will be given a commission in the salvation army (capital letters are appropriately omitted here), and Milton Ruick, our genial bus driver, will henceforth be known as the "Spirit of 66."

All of these suggestions are written down not so much for their literal meaning, but more for the general idea that each and every one of you can pick them up and chew on them to the limit of your own appetite. Some wise person many years back said, with a deftness for meaty brevity, "If the shoe fits put it on." I cannot improve on that one, can you?

then superintendent of excavation; J. L. James, superintendent of railroad construction; Walter White, then assistant, but now electrical superintendent; E. G. McAloon, master mechanic; W. M. Dale, Pipe Shop superintendent; M. M. Ryan, sheet metal superintendent; J. A. Cocker, Machine Shop superintendent, and T. M. Singer, Paint Shop superintendent.

C. J. Kemery, who was superintendent of carpenters, and C. L. Utley, who was electrical superintendent, have since died. S. G. Joseph, who was superintendent of concrete, is now employed by Sanderson & Porter at Kansas City.

I have written . . . a poem!

Invincible You

There's nothing to fear—you're as Good as the best,
As strong as the mightiest, too.
  You can win in every battle or test;
For there's no one just like you.
  There's only one You in the world today:
So nobody else, you see,
  Can do your work in as fine a way:
You're the only You there'll ever be.
  So face the world, and all life is your's
To conquer and love and live;
  And you'll find the happiness that endures
In just the measure you give.
  There's nothing too good for you to possess,
Nor heights where you cannot go;
  Your power is more than belief or guess
It's something you have to know.
  There's nothing to fear—You can and you will;
For you're the invincible You.
  So set your foot on the highest hill
There's nothing you cannot do.

—Frank Scoma,
Fire Department.

Safety Graduates Are Guests at Banquet

A graduation banquet was held Thursday evening, June 24, at the Hotel Kankakee for members of Karl Ulrich's class in Safety Engineering, sponsored by the University of Illinois in its Engineering, Science and Management War Training Program.

The affair, under the chairmanship of Mr. Ulrich, assistant safety director at EOP, had as its distinguished guests and speakers F. R. Henrekin, president of the Kankakee Chamber of Commerce; Rollin T. Read, EOP safety director; Thomas Fennessy, safety engineer, Safety and Security Branch, Office of the Chief of Ordnance, War Department, Chicago; E. O. Huey, chief Plant Protection Department at EOP; Vernon Snyder, safety director, Kankakee Ordnance Works; J. J. Lichty, field representative, University of Illinois, Extension Division, and Dr. D. Moore, assistant dean, School of Liberal Arts, University of Illinois.

Certificates were awarded to the following EOP employees for completing the standard course in Safety Engineering: Lorin O. Cain, J. Lynn Catlett, Ivan G. DeMoss, Clarence T. Eide, Ralph Waldo Emmerson, Sharon C. Eriksen, Frank Grey, Herbert E. Hafele, Charles C. Hoss, Charles W. Juskra, William Klegman, Ralph S. Lord, Roy E. Morris, Juliette Noel, Elmer Pilcher, Winfred Prickett, William L. Siefert, Karl E. Son, Jr., Medill Trovillion and Guy Woolens.

The course consisted of three-hour classes each Monday and Thursday for 16 weeks.

communities, sewage disposal systems, bridges made of reinforced concrete water distribution system and numerous sanitation facilities.

A radio communication net, similar in design to those of large cities, is in operation within the plant. Teletype and telegraph systems provide means of communication with all parts of the world. Switchboards, capable of handling thousands of calls daily, are serviced by skilled operators.

A modern fire department and guard system is maintained for the safety, not only of the plant property, but also for the protection of its inhabitants, the employees themselves. A central heating plant is another feature.

Electric lights, when lighted, surround the plant with a blanket of daylight. Diesel-engined locomotives travel hundreds of miles daily through the area. Landscapers and groundskeepers keep an orderly appearance about the plant property at all times.

The overall picture is one of a cosmopolitan city mushrooming from a sleepy farmland. The occupants come and go at regular intervals. Their needs are of paramount importance and everything possible for their comfort and convenience has been provided. Well-lighted and ventilated buildings, good working conditions, hospitals, nurses, first aid courses, recreational activities, all these are at the disposal of the employees. It is within the reach of each worker, regardless of his position, to satisfy any desire he may have. He or she can plant and care for a Victory garden or dance to the strains of a well organized orchestra, composed entirely of employees, all within the confines of the plant.

THRILLING tales of two months of fighting Japs on Guadalcanal are being told to his former associates in the Personnel Department by Pfc. Robert Hamlin, Marine Corps. Three months after enlisting last July, Robert was in New Zealand training for action on Guadalcanal. Two months later he was in the thick of it and stayed there for two months. Returning to New Zealand, he was sent to the United States to recover from malaria. Furloughed home to Joliet, he will return to his base in San Diego July 13. He is shown here at his old desk in the Personnel Building.

Boys Overseas Ask No Let-Up In Production

Former Employees in England, India, Africa, South Seas Send Letters

"Don't slack up one minute or, should I say, it wouldn't be so good," is the admonition sent to his former associates at Elwood Ordnance Plant in a V-mail letter to The Bomb-Shell from Southern England by T/Sgt. James H. Brougham, formerly of Group 3.

"I worked for the company since the first day they came to Illinois," wrote Sgt. Brougham. "I worked under Chester Tucker up until the time I entered Group 3 as an operator under Eddie Copp. I enlisted January 23, 1942. Right now I am stationed in Southern England and, from my point of view, things are progressing very nicely."

"I have been overseas for quite a while," said Willard Cobble, formerly a guard in Group 2, who is now serving aboard the U.S.S. Salem, "and I want you to know your products were used to good advantage. It wouldn't surprise me very much that I helped make some of them. I'm glad to know the plant is doing such splendid work toward the war effort and I'll try my best to use your goods where they will do the most good." He asked that former associates write to him.

In a V-mail letter to The Bomb-Shell, Pvt. John R. Vidmar wrote interestingly of his overseas experiences. "I am not in the Paratroop Corps at Fort Benning Georgia," he said. "I was medically disqualified as a parachutist. I was reading The Bomb-Shell and saw that Walter W. Plumb, a parachutist, is a prisoner in Italy. I wish I was with him when he jumped out of the plane behind the German lines.

Rifle Is Best Friend

"I am now a jungle soldier, hoping to knock at Tojo's door. Well, we have a fine time here, but jittery all the time. Have visited the battle ground and it was a picnic ground. There are things I would like to state, but cannot write them. We had loads of air raids and bombing here most of the time. Getting over it now.

"We live in the jungle, but get a kick out of it. The only friend here is the jungle moon, sun and stars. The best girl friend here is my rifle. In our time off, we write letters and wait for answers to come. When duty calls, night or day, we are ready to go with fire in our eyes."

"Keep up the good work and keep the shells rolling," urged Pfc. Vernon Doran from somewhere in North Africa. "I have been receiving The Bomb-Shell regularly and always look at the Group 1 column first, as that is where I used to work. Of course, I read the rest afterwards. I surely enjoy the fact that the plant is getting so many compliments and that each and every person is doing his part."

From somewhere in India, Sgt. David Gianuzzi, a former production clerk in Group 1, wrote that he is in "the land of my dreams." Continuing his letter, he said: "I would like to tell you much about the people and the places that I've seen, but circumstances prevent me from doing so. However, from the few observations that I have made, I can say that India is a very strange and interesting place. The women do all of the work and the men work sometimes. Everything is carried on the head or hauled in carts. The customs of the people are also interesting to watch. Because of the caste system here, there are different levels of society.

"They all dress and act differently. Housing and clothing do not present problems to these people, for a grass or a mud shack provides a home and a single cloth provides their clothes, if they have a cloth. Native labor is very cheap. We have our house boys who do our washing, shine our shoes, and bring us tea in the morning and in the afternoon—an old English custom, you know."

"Everything over here is O.K.," wrote Pfc. R. C. Gagnier, formerly of Group 3-A, from somewhere in New Guinea, "and I hope to hear the same from the home front. I saw some products of the plant last night and will see to it personally that the right people get them. This is the garden spot of the world, or I might say the Garden of Eden, if it wasn't for the snakes (yellow ones). I received a package from home and it had just what we needed in it . . . a pair of dice and a deck of cards . . . and payday is just around the corner. I hope the boys leave me with enough for a pot of beer when we get back to civilization."

Pfc. Jack Knutson, now a Marine overseas, but formerly of the Motor Pool, wrote that he is kept busy on maneuvers. He asked about his former associates and commented that Frank "Daddy" Kern is probably happy teaching his feminine drivers a few "tricks."

Pvt. Raymond H. Myers, formerly of Group 5, wrote to say that he is now in the Hawaiian Islands and that he would like for his former co-workers to write to him.

Pvt. Ervin Bretzman said he is in a Military Police unit at Miami Beach, Fla., training for overseas duty. He expects to be keeping order and bringing prisoners back from the front lines before long. With one brother in Egypt, another in California and a third joining this month, he said he guessed "the Army it is for us all."

Guards Jap Prisoners

Lee E. Webster, an aviation cadet at Cochran Field, Georgia, said he would be busy for the next two months flying basic training planes. He completed his primary training at Avon Park, Fla.

Sgt. Delbert G. Tolle, a former dispatcher in the Guard Department here, is now located at Camp Shelby, Mississippi. He sent congratulations on the Army-Navy "E" award to EOP employees. "I am handling some of the eggs you folks are putting out at EOP," wrote Edward L. Kurth, Will Rogers Field, Oklahoma, who was recently promoted to corporal in the Air Corps. He sent special greetings to the boys, if any, remaining in Bldg. 4, Group 1.

Pvt. Clayton M. Raber explained that he is now assigned to the Internment Camp for Japanese prisoners at Camp Livingston, Louisiana. S/Sgt. James R. Mennie is training recruits in the Engineers at Camp Swift, Texas, and sent a hello to Shorty Fleming.

EOP VISITED BY ARMY in person of this contingent of 60 men from the regiment which conducted the "Army Salute" in Joliet June 20. They were divided into three groups and escorted through the loading lines of Groups 1, 3 and 3-A. Workers were as impressed with their visit as the soldiers were by what they saw here.

Robert R. Weir, a former inspector in Groups 1, 87, 66, 63 and 64, is taking boot training at Great Lakes, Ill., according to a letter. His wife, Geraldine Weir, works in the Production Planning Department.

Lucille Ambrose, a petty officer in the SPARS, stationed in Washington, D. C., said in a letter, "though we are in Washington, we like it . . . if it's good enough for Tyrone Power, it's good enough for us." She said her slogan is, "To bolster morale, send me The Bomb-Shell."

Mrs. Maude Adams, Cerro Gordo, Ill., mother of Pvt. Francis L. Adams, former EOP employee, wrote that she has contributed further to the war effort by going to work at the Oak Ordnance Plant at Illiopolis, Ill., where she is helping to make shells. Her son is stationed near Honolulu, she said.

"Sanderson & Porter is to be commended for taking the trouble to send all former employees now in the service each issue of The Bomb-Shell," said T. F. Costello, Jr., aviation cadet, Hutchinson, Kan. "I'm sure that every one of us appreciates it more than we can tell you."

"I'm going to school to be a B-24 Liberator Bomber mechanic and will graduate September 5," said a letter from Pfc. Charles "Chuck" Maly, Jr., Keesler Field, Mississippi. "After that only God knows what's in store for me. I surely miss working on the production line in Group 1, but we live for something new every day."

Taking advanced infantry training at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, Pvt. S. M. Vercellotti wrote that he had studied the laying of anti-tank mines, which recalled memories of Group 7 to him. He said that at his previous station in Arkansas, he met several girls from the Pine Bluff Arsenal, built by Sanderson & Porter, and that according to their reports Sanderson & Porter did as fine a job there as at EOP.

Writes From Foxhole

"Upon receipt of each issue of The Bomb-Shell, I find myself in simulated conversation with the employees I know," said Pfc. David L. Fornell, Camp Rucker, Alabama. "I am back in my old sphere . . . finance," he continued. "I have charge of the officers' pay section and find it most interesting. Could use a couple of horses from EOP Payroll Department."

Pvt. Robert E. Dillon, Manchester, Conn., sent congratulations on the "E" award and said he knows that "the plant has what it takes to reach any goal." In a letter written in a foxhole while on maneuvers near Nashville, Tenn., T/Sgt. Arthur Menning, formerly of Group 6, said he was seeing action.

"In the seven months I've been in the Air Service Command, I've been stationed in Texas, Florida, California and now Texas again," said Pfc. Robert Guess, Kelly Field, Texas. "Next stop . . . Berlin . . . I hope. This is our last base in the States.

"Since Kelly Field and Duncan Field have been merged they form the largest repair depot in the world. Oh, well, I'm used to working at big places. After all, EOP is The Ordnance Plant of them all. It really seems funny to read in The Bomb-Shell of all the girls working in Bldgs. 10 and 13 in Group 1. When I left, the only women were in Bldg. 14 and some in the fuze bay of 13. But, alas, judging from the names appearing in the paper, I wonder if there are any men left. It's something like that here, too.

"I'm really lucky as far as jobs go. I'm an instrument technician, but all I work on are automatic pilots. Sometimes I work in the shops or out on the line or making some check flights. It's always different. Well, thanks for The Bomb-Shell and keep adding stars to that 'E' flag."

Letters and cards were received also from Cpl. Louis Rajala, Fort Riley, Kansas, who has finished maneuvers in Louisiana and Texas; Pvt. Elson E. Anderson, Eglin Field, Florida; Cpl. Ray Kelly, Army Air Base, Ephrata, Wash., formerly of Group 3, where he worked under Foreman John Boucher; Pfc. Ken Solma, Tyndall Field, Florida; John J. Nicholson, a Seabee at Port Hueneme, California; Pfc. Dale Richard Hish, Sheppard Field, Texas; Pfc. William Hoegsted, Keesler Field, Mississippi; Pvt. William Marx, Peterson Field, Colorado Springs, Colo., former Government inspector in Groups 1 and 3; Don Macmillan, aviation cadet, Coral Gables, Fla.; Mrs. Ira Fears, Toluca, Ill,, in behalf of her son, Pvt. Lester H. Fears, San Diego, Calif.; Cpl. Donald D. DeWitt, Fort McClellan, Alabama; Elmer Grendheim, Joliet, in behalf of his brother, Sgt. Richard Grendheim, Camp Young, California; Pfc. Clarence P. Rexroth, Cherry Point, N. C.; Pvt. Walter Skroko, Aberdeen, Md.; Stanford E. Workman, S2/c, Great Lakes, Ill.; Pvt. James H. Lyons, Boston, Mass.; Pvt. Robert F. Clark, San Diego, Calif.; Sgt. Edward A. Mitchell, Jr., Fort Sill, Oklahoma; Pfc. Robert Melson, Camp Stewart, Georgia; Pfc. Donald J. McCauley, Tampa, Fla.; Pvt. Richard Clanahan, Camp Swift, Texas; Edwin L. Bentson, A/S, Northfield, Minn., and Mrs. Clifford Goss, Joliet, in behalf of her son, Richard Goss, F1/c, New York.

What'll it take here to get things started? A match? A lighted cigaret? The forgotten pilot light of the stove? A spark generated merely by rubbing the clothes? Any one of these would turn the trick.

The National Safety Council says one in every six accidental deaths in America is caused by burns, explosions and conflagrations. Last year more than 6,000 men, women and children died from these causes. This was an increase of ten per cent over 1941.

Principal danger in home dry cleaning is, of course, explosion with subsequent fire. But explosions and fires aren't the only dangers. Poisoning by toxic fumes is another.

No responsible organization or impartial student has ever made any statement approving dry cleaning at home. The best advice is: Don't do it. If you insist on home dry cleaning, however, the Council recommends the following procedure:

Use a non-flammable fluid, even if you're just taking spots out of a garment. (Products advertised as non-explosive may still be flammable.) When possible keep your hands out of the solvent by using a hand type suction washer.

Do the cleaning outside the house on a day when there is enough wind to carry the vapors away. Dry the garments outside the house. Keep children and pets away.

The importance of care in dry cleaning cannot be overemphasized. Don't arrive for your date with St. Peter ahead of time.

Activity Committee Names New Officers

At a regular meeting of the Employees' Activity Committee held in the Mess Hall June 22, election of officers for the next three months was held.

Colby Eriksen, Group 3-A, was elected chairman for the next three months; George Becker, Group 60, vice chairman, and Arlene Schoendorf, Group 60, secretary. An executive committee to consist of the officers and Lt. H. E. Dowden, Guards; Robert Wilhelmi, Inspection Department, and Dorothy Lehman, Group 8, was named.

The Employees Activity Committee works with E. L. Walkup and Myrna Faris of the Recreation Department in planning and promoting a recreational program for all employees.

EOP Throws Browns For 9 to 0 Loss

The EOP baseball team won its second twilight game at Kankakee June 16, defeating the Kankakee Browns 9 to 0 behind the air tight pitching of Elmer Emanuelson who gave up one hit in the six innings he worked. Harvey Battrel, who finished, also allowed but one hit.

The batting stars for the Shell Loaders were Eddie Murphy and Gus Juricic, each with two hits. Murphy drove a long home run and was robbed of another only by a sensational one-handed catch by Gianotti, the Browns' right fielder. Gianotti also was the offensive star for the home team, by getting the only two hits for his club. The EOP team made only seven hits off the pitching of Ace Brown but six bases on balls combined with hitting in the pinches proved his downfall. The box score follows:

Army Ordnance 'Flaming Bomb' Means Courage

Adoption of Insignia Prompted by Fire from Shells of 1812

The colorful, yet dignified "flaming bomb" worn by the officers and personnel of the Army Ordnance Department is the oldest Army Insignia in the world consistently applicable to ordnance, weapons and munitions of all types.

Back in the days of the grenadiers, when a uniform regulation and a distinctive insignia was adopted, the Ordnance bomb was selected as the symbol of the courage and perseverance for a selected group of these warriors, chosen for their prowess.

In the United States during the war of 1812, which period also saw the birth of the Ordnance Department, the only type of artillery fire used by the U.S. Army was the "shot and shell" type. The "shell" was a round cannon ball, filled with black powder and had a very crude fuze attached to it. This fuze was ignited by the flame of discharge from the cannon itself. This type of ammunition is far removed from the efficient and deadly type being used in the present day conflict.

As the cannon ball was projected through the air, a streamer of flame issuing from the fuzed portion was visible and it was this particular characteristic that prompted the adoption of the "flaming bomb" as the official insignia of Army Ordnance.

The wearers of this insignia have the responsibility of being the servants of the Army Fighting Forces. It is their primary duty to alleviate the Fighting Forces' burden of battle. To them falls the task of designing, producing, inspecting, supplying and maintaining the fighting equipment so necessary to the successful culmination of a battle.

As a representative of the United States Government at a government-owned, contractor-operated plant, it is the duty of the Ordnance Department to assure the Army's fighting forces the supply by manufacture of ammunition assigned for procurement in such quantities and at such times as required to meet the Army's supply program.

An official representative of the U.S. Army is designated as the commanding officer and assigned a tour of duty at these various plants. It is his obligation to administer the contract under which these plants operate for the War Department, to maintain direct supervision over all War Department employees at the plant, and to establish close liaison with civic bodies in the area influenced by the plant. Lt. Col. Byron Rife is occupying such a position as commanding officer of the Elwood Ordnance Plant.

TANKS now claim the attention of Sgt. Richard Grendheim at Camp Young, Indio, Calif., but it used to be trucks when he was a truck driver here before leaving October 9.

The group welcomes again to its fold the honorable mayor of Troy, Walter F. Schwartz.

Horticultural beautification of this group is the result of the untiring efforts of John D. Vidano, Sr.

All are sorry to hear of the recent death of Virgil Mooty and Frank Feeney.

Steve Mentis went a driving, upon his merry way. The OPA they stopped him — What? — No "A" coupons today?

Nomination for No. 1 Beau Brummel of Group 27, George Erdei.

While out seeing the night life of Will County June 19, the party of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hintz, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Young and Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Tanner were entertained by Bob Clark in his hilarious skit, "Mama Grigginheimer Taking a Saturday Night Bath."

Owen Ralston has returned from a vacation and has purchased a lot in Coal City, which will keep him occupied from now on.

An attempt was made to suppress a few of the boys who began to laugh when wild Bill Denver ran out of the office to persuade a man with a power mower to cut the weeds in his garden. All jokes aside, he can raise radishes in the shade and flowers in a box.

Perhaps Bob Heuser will not squeeze those nickels so hard the next time he needs gas for the jalopy. Maybe it was a shortage of stamps.

Ben Suca would like to know if there are any readers, mechanically inclined and interested in perpetual motion, who would like to collaborate with him. He has one little problem to solve and will be glad to split any profits with some one who will come forward with the solution. Many offered their services, but he declined, and said he wants a graduate engineer. In the meantime he is selling little gadgets, on the side, to defer expenses.

In behalf of the people who use Central Road, West, thanks are sent to those responsible for repairs made recently. It is a comfort to drive over this road to work again.

A recent tragedy at this group occurred when Joseph Birsa, looking for a disputed lot number, 'tis said, fell out of a car head first.

Group 3

Variety is the spice of life. John Jeffrey went on vacation, then was married, and ended the week by being sick in bed!

James "Smokey" Moore will show anybody that the hand is quicker than the eye. Christie Pucek would like it a lot better if "Smokey" could take a vacation more often.

Irvin Heck believes Elden Kistler could use a new pair of glasses, even though Kistler claims his eyes are 20/20. Anyone who has a need for nickels for the candy machines, should contact Kistler,—especially if you should have pennies to trade.

Mel Canaday is on vacation. No doubt, fishing will be his main pastime.

William Baker comes to work with a new hat practically every week. Perhaps he struck it rich.

"Captain Midnight" Elmer Henning finds it pretty hard to navigate around during the daytime.

Group 5

"Group 2 was never like this" according to Robert Schmitz, senior inspector, but the girl inspectors aren't complaining.

Gladys Seaton is smiling these days because the mailman brought her a bank-night purse.

Many wonder what progress Ward Edwards, group inspector, has made on that Victory garden.

Can anyone advise LeDean Cheatham how to lose a few pounds for that certain white outfit; she has a very important date late this month.

All were sorry to see Ethel "Scotty" Partridge leave, but you know how it is, with hubby stationed at an Army Air Base in Santa Anna, Calif. She plans to visit her home town, Portland, Ore., before joining her husband.

Cute LaVerne Dite picks up a ruler every time a certain young man enters the room.

The West has lured another inspector. Dorothy Kinder is now part of the California scenery.

Ann Dedinsky starved herself so she could get into a certain white dress June 26.

Pierced ears are the latest in this group. Marge Ghigo and Delphine Vota survived the operation.

Josephine Kein was seen "tripping the light fantastic" in Marseilles last week.

Mary McGuire left to marry her soldier friend.

Group 8

Wanted—A ride for Inspector Caralyn Bazaar with anyone who can leave Joliet at 7:28 and be at the EOP time clock by 7:30. Sa-a-y, where's Superman!

Ruth Price has something to smile about. She's the proud grandmother of twin sons born to her daughter a few weeks ago.

Janet Bailey, Shipping Room inspector, is keeping the first aid nurse busy with scratches. She says she gets them from boxes in the Shipping Room. Sounds logical, but—

Are you having love trouble? Jean Nelson and Shirley Magosky seem to have been helped by the advice given them by Lucille Dobak. Lucille is well informed on such matters, but she would like to know more about the women of India—her boy friend is stationed there.

When Ray Banker returned from her vacation, several persons were heard to remark to her "Boy, are we glad to see you back." Sounds as though she was really missed. Ask Frances Mores and Loretta Scott; they'll tell just how very, very much.

Phyllis Clair is seriously ill at her home and everyone hopes she will be well soon.

A most welcome visitor June 19 was Pfc. Florian Ebben. Dick is at present stationed at Truax Field, Wisconsin, and everyone remembers him as the person you could always count on to help out in case you had an excess amount of work.

The vacation list this week includes Dorothy Maxwell, Charlotte Matheny and Mary Strobel.

It is reported that the Transportation Department had a "whooping" good time out at Frank "Gramps" Folwell's home in Forrest, Ill., June 19.

Shirley Wessles, first EOP girl to join the Marines, is stationed at the Naval Training School, Hunter College, Bronx, N. Y.

Miss Scott just simply has to lose 15 lbs. All suggestions as to diets will be welcomed.

Louis Piano is the newest addition to the Production Planning crew.

Harry Brown has devised a novel way of holding his suspenders together. At first he tried scotch tape, but that was soon abandoned. He thought awhile and then went looking for a stapler. That did the trick.

Dorothy Mielic certainly had an off day June 22. First she had need for a laundry, or laundress, and secondly, it was necessary to call in first aid. A bottle of ink was accidently upset on her dress, which had to be sent to the laundry to be washed and after that episode had passed, she cut her finger. Mother said that there would be days like this, and she must be right.

Chris Dare was thrilled when her boyfriend made a flying trip home over the weekend to see her. Airplanes wonderful things.

It sure was good to see J. P. Filips back in harness again after a week's vacation of "taking it easy."

So-o-o, it was found out why on some mornings Bert Klausing doesn't wear her glasses. Really she is trying to kid the folks.

June Kuglich is now working in the Industrial Service Section and is doing a swell job of it. Eleanor Goss and Nina Horrie seem to be doing a good job of co-working.

Traffic Audit

Leslie Wilson has returned from a vacation, while Pete Conroy is now enjoying one.

Fred Legris has three of his four sons serving in the Army.

John Donahue, Government auditor, is sharing the office during his stay here.

Clayton Craig and Louie Miner like to play pool together.

Jim Murphy, back from vacationing, said that all the odd jobs around here have been finished off without his help.

Helen Hausser left to join her soldier husband in Louisiana.

Elva Thomas has four tomato plants and is taking orders for a bumper crop. It is rumored that she is also taking orders for country butter and buttermilk . . . to be delivered at some future date.

Argyle Dalziel, inventory clerk, is now serving Uncle Sam at Camp Grant.

Group 3

Paul Sommerville was welcomed back from a vacation. Johnny Williamson danced to Blue Barrons' music recently and enjoyed seeing and hearing the famous orchestra very much.

The beautiful summer days are just what the doctor ordered, said Cliff Fisher. He plays tennis, likes it and does very well.

Group 3-A

Neoma Jett has returned from a vacation spent at her home in the sunny South. She reports a good time with lots of fun.

Edna Strohm, who is leaving soon on vacation, expects to visit her former home in Kansas.

Did you know that Lorraine Nichols is walking around Joliet tantalizing the girls in the stores? "Lor" wanted to wash her hair and went into a drug store for shampoo and hair pins. The man who was showing her the shampoo was so struck by her personality (he said it was her beautiful black hair) that he answered affirmatively when she asked for "bobby" pins. Now, the girls who worked in the store had told her they didn't have any, but he contradicted them by saying that he had a few packages. They tried to follow him, but he said that they were his secret. He thought that hair as beautiful as Lor's should have special attention and be properly "coiffed." (Well, that's what he said.)

Carmen Oldani is back with a beautiful tan that's the envy of all the girls in the department as her legs are the exact shade of stockings. Not only that, but she has a new way of fixing her hair which is very becoming and she designed it herself. Carmen received a letter one morning and was on the train in Chicago the next morning at 8 o'clock. The department formally nominates her for the title of the quickest "planner, packer and traveller."

You never can tell who has the best sense of humor until it bounces at you. One of the girls was skipping down the hall in front of quiet Byron Mills one morning as he entered the building. Hearing an unusual sound, she turned quickly to discover that he was skipping, too, and his knees were flying higher and faster than hers.

There ought to be a law against it, or at least some way to keep from being jealous, but Jane Schnepper has been given four pairs of the best looking shoes during the past week. With the present rationing, you wouldn't think that such favors would be passed around, but Jane knows how to captivate the jungle beasts. The shoes had been broken in nicely and fit her exactly. After all the kidding, it was explained a woman gave them to Jane because she said that she'd never wear them as the heels were too high for her and she thought someone should use them.

Word has been received that Lt. Lynn McCoskey, of Camp Cooke, California, was married to a girl from Detroit, Mich., April 30. Lynn was an interviewer in the Personnel Department before entering the armed services and is now assistant personnel adjutant at Camp Cooke.

Obligingly, Dorothy Kaldem took the $5 bill that Guard Frank "Mickey" Green was handing her to try to find change for him on her trips up and down the hall. It wasn't until Margaret "Peg" Collins had her purse to make the change that Dorothy took a second look at the bill she held. Then she wheeled around and out of the room in a hurry. The picture of Lincoln was not a poor facsimile, it wasn't even there. The whole piece of paper was from a game that Mickey's children have.

Helen Bardi came to work one morning in an awful state. She came rushing into the rest room just before work with the saddest expression. Someone asked her what was the matter and she started to babble, "If my mother doesn't come home soon, the house will fall down." Her mother had left on Saturday for a two-week vacation and that was Monday morning.

If you're figuring out how to cut down on that luncheon bill, just take a tip from Harold Dean's experience. He did a very good job one noon and paid a much lower price for his lunch, but by the time he got into town that night, he was so hungry that he ate two complete dinners.

Mary Kleeberger made a few quick moves the other day and ended in Minnesota, where she met her husband, Ed Kleeberger, machinist's mate first class. He wired her from Seattle, Wash., that he was back in the United States for a 15-day leave after 20 months of active flying duty in Alaska. She and their four-year-old daughter, Karen Lou, met him in Minneapolis the next night. Mary will accompany him back to Seattle and wait until he catches his plane before she returns to her home in Plainfield.

Re-fingerprinting has Gilbert "Andy" Anderson in a daze. He was taking the prints of a man who insisted on putting out his right hand all the time instead of alternating. By the time Andy finished all three cards, he was so muddled that he had to ask the man to wait so that he could check the prints with the glass to be sure that he had the correct combination of one right and one left hand on all cards.

Some day they're going to tease Betty Diehl so much that she'll actually stop before she says the first thing that she thinks. It was after much pondering over an application on which she was writing reference letters that she suddenly asked, "Where is Pipercity? I never heard of it." When she drawled it out with the account on the second syllable as pi-per'-ci-ty, no one recognized the town as Piper City, which an applicant had printed so that it ran together, until they looked at the word.

At last there is a celebrity in the building. Fred Cadwallader observed his 36th wedding anniversary June 19, with a formal celebration the next day.

Did you know that there is a little leeway below the bottom drawer in most desks? In searching for something she had lost, Margaret "Dolly" Lundquist discovered this and suggested that everyone try the same scheme. Marge Turner found a blouse that she'd forgotten that she had, while other inconsequential articles appeared.

Rita "Rusty" Cushing was the subject wearing Miss Bardi's jacket one noon hour while Evelyn Melby acted as the sales girl. Of course the jacket fit little Rusty like a gunny sack as Helen tops her by about seven or eight inches. However, Evelyn was using all the time-honored tricks of honey dialect and firmly grasping the back of the jacket. If it hadn't been time to go to work it would have made a good little skit.

Vacationing this week are Maurice Evans, Bernadine "Bing" Keenan, Helen DeLach and Guard Green. Colletta Wright has been ill for a while and everyone hopes that she will be back on the job soon.

The men in the department are trying to out-strip each other as chefs. First Mr. Evans brought fresh shrimp and bragged about his own recipe for a special sauce that he used with them. This was too much for Florence Dunterman. When he had finished listing ingredients, he noticed that longing look and offered some to her and Miss Keenan. They each had one and reported that it was excellent. Just a few days later Chastine Mason brought out some shrimp salad with crackers.

Ordnance Saves Valuable Steel on Bomb Crates

Redesign of Package for Tail Fins Leaves Metal for "Busters"

The next million 500-pound bombs that go crashing on Hitler or Hirohito will not only bring fear of what's to come, but will leave behind them in America 5,790,000 pounds of unused steel to be made into more bombs to add to their consternation. The Army Ordnance, Army Service Forces, has redesigned the crate in which the tail fins for these bombs are packaged, by using smaller and thinner cross bands on the crates, ribbing others together and discovering a new way to hold together the top and bottom plates of the crate, resulting in the saving of sufficient steel to make 413 half-track armored cars.

TRAINING now at Fort McClellan, Alabama, Cpl. Donald D. DeWitt was a material checker in the Carpenter Shop here before leaving for the Army.

According to Lt. Col. Byron Rife, Commanding Officer at Elwood Ordnance Plant, this is typical of the highly successful conversion and conservation program that is being achieved not only at this plant but in every Army Ordnance establishment throughout the country.

One of the greatest surprises to come out of the present war is the successful use of paper as a substitute for steel. Shipping bands around the body of bombs, making it possible to grip, transport and store them, are now made of paper. These paper bands are used on all bombs up to the thousand-pounders and through this substitution of paper for steel, approximately eight million pounds of steel a month is being saved.

Material Warehouse

PAUL ROY
Correspondent

Among those who have had vacations and are ready to return to work are Buell Owdom and James Eib, material checkers from the Hub; John Bradecich, Chester Melville, Louis Parys and Oscar Horn of the Material Warehouse. All say they had an enjoyable time.

James Ryan, Harry Tilden, Norman Hammerschmidt, Herman Guard, Clinton Jones and Cyril Lazier are among those now having their turn at "the pause that refreshes."

News has been received from Pvt. Matthew Reay, formerly of Group 62-S, who is now attending an Ordnance Training School at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland. Matt said he likes it very well and is kept quite busy. He is receiving his thirteen weeks' training in four, which sort of crowds his schedule.

Edward La Roche, material checker of Group 63, spent a vacation at home with his son, Lt. Eugene La Roche of the Navy. Ed said this is his son's first visit home in two years. Lt. La Roche is with the Pacific Fleet Gunnery Office.

Kenneth Pratt seems to have trouble getting both himself and his badge to work the same day.

Pvt. Joseph Serena, who joined the Army March 6, was a visitor at the warehouse June 18. Joe, formerly a truck helper, is now stationed at Camp Roberts, California, with the Field Artillery. He has seen overseas duty and proudly wears a marksmanship medal. Joe has fired shells stenciled EOP and says they are the real thing.

Another unexpected visitor was Lloyd Riordan of the Navy, former timekeeper in Group 70.

Ray Offerman, material checker in Group 63, is looking for an assistant on his farm, at least someone who can keep a tractor between the two fences.

Early Sunday morning, or was it late Saturday night, according to Ray's own story, the tractor became very unruly, and ripped away by actual count 38 perfectly good fence posts. Fred Nelson suggests that until Ray learns to drive a tractor, he should rely on a team of mules.

Pinnick Transferred To Fort Belvoir, Virginia

Capt. Ralph E. Pinnick has been transferred to the Corps of Engineers for duty at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. He served as Safety and Plant Protection officer at EOP since March, 1942, and recently acquired the same title at Kankakee Ordnance Works as well. Formerly an infantry officer, Captain Pinnick is a graduate of Indiana University with a Bachelor of Arts degree and of Purdue University with a Bachelor of Science degree in civil engineering.

ANTI-TANK MINES accompany a thousand-pound bomb on this EOP float which appeared with others in the Army Day parades in Kankakee and Joliet.

ELECTRICAL CONSTRUCTION occupies the time of this group of workers from the EOP Electric Shop in Group 70. J. P. Snedden and M. L. Lamphier are the foremen.

Esther Noffke's new profile will be on display in the next few weeks. News from her reveals that the initial operation on her "snozzle" was highly successful, but the inactivity at Billings Hospital, for a spirited lass, is boring. Her return and a rousing soft ball game should cure her ennui.

Roy Sherer, formerly employed in the Government gage laboratory, made a surprise but most welcome appearance June 18.

The S. L. Eislers visited Lt. and Mrs. Sol J. Jacobs in Dixon the weekend of June 12.

The many friends who have been wondering at his silence will welcome this news from Carl L. Anker. "Many interesting things and unexpectedly, too, happen here. (Aberdeen Proving Ground). First off, Molly (Mrs. A.) came out to visit maybe a week. Well, the next thing you know the Red Cross offers her a job in Field Headquarters which she accepts. It turns out later that her office is in the building next to my classroom. Then we have a wonderful place in Havre De Grace to live. I go home often in the evenings and we take off on weekends to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York itself. What a deal! Sachs, (Lt. Ronald Sachs, of the U. S. Air Corps and former government inspector at EOP), comes down often to visit, that is, he used to come. His outfit has now been alerted for overseas which means he can't get farther away than ten minutes from the field. Paxton (Park Paxton of Group 8) got into cadre and is just across the parade grounds from me. He's in Ammunition Technical, too, so we see each other daily. Georgia (Mrs. Paxton) was here last weekend visiting, but I didn't get to see her because our class was out on a field problem." From the foregoing, it is gathered that Carl is very happy surrounded by his wife and friends and likes his work very much.

Chemistry Laboratory

Vacation dreams come and go. The ever pleasant topic "Where are you going for yours?" is in the air. Circulars from the Chambers of Commerce of various states, snapshots of former years and much reminiscing are on all sides. Some will visit the far hills of Colorado and some will just buy new bathing suits and set off for Lake Michigan. Some will visit Army camps for the sake of "morale" and if they are lucky, some will go fishing. For what is a summer passed without some new fish stories to tell?

Group 4

Marian "Scotty" Westcott is debating whether to take that final leap to Texas. . . . Since Margaret Olszta has been here her new nickname and theme song is "Hammer Packin' Mamma" . . . It is believed Frances "Frannie" Olroyd forgets her badge mornings just so she can kiss her hubby goodbye the second time. . . . Suggestions received are that Lucille Olson, when displaying her two-piece short outfit, minus the skirt, to the government girls, should look first to see if there are any foremen around looking in windows. She has the sniffles these days. The nights have been nice and moonlight, but oh the dew.

Elizabeth Heim had a very good time one evening a while back. Seems her girl friends are leaving to join Uncle Sam. Why is she making a trip to Detroit over the Fourth of July? To visit the Ford Plant?

Saveta Dorsey has been ill for three weeks. All miss her and hope she'll be back soon. . . . Kay Ochs has a stiff neck. She says she wrenched it while dancing. Keeping up the morale of the Army is difficult sometimes. Many wonder why she wears a tailored suit, jacket and all on hot days.

The government inspection office has been moved to the peace and quiet of Bldg. 13. A traveling laundry service has been instituted by Harriet Nadelhoffer and Marie Plankar. . . . Lucille Olson and Miss Heim are trying to learn who writes the news for this column from Group 4.

Group 5

Margaret Laverty's plans are not complete but it is hoped that she makes up her mind before she sends in her next leave slip for a vacation. At 2 p. m., June 20, she fell for the Army, but she received only a bruised knee. . . . Ann Chorak is patiently waiting to see her boy friend who is in the Navy and stationed at Great Lakes. . . . Why doesn't Lillian Gunderson make up her mind as to whether she should go to work or to bed as she always has her shoes untied? . . . The cheerful smile that Nellie Hazzard has is because she acquired a new son-in-law. . . . Good news is that Dorothy "Dottie" Magolan is on the road to recovery and will soon be back.

Group 6

Best wishes go with Edward Ritter, former Government inspector, who has joined the Army Air Corps. . . . Robert Cretcher, from Group 7, is welcomed as a new inspector. . . . Edna Sickert is spending a vacation at her home in Sparta, Wis. It is rumored that the riding stables at Pilcher Park are very popular with some of the government inspectors. Could it be the riding or is it reducing exersises? Betty Smith and Ruth Thompson probably can answer. . . . Have you written to that soldier boy? Don't forget he loves to hear from home and friends. . . . Mary Meaux has a new hair-do and, as usual, it is very becoming and looks cool.

Group 7

Everything has been seen now. Talk about people walking around with holes in their heads! There's an epidemic at Group 7. So far, Catherine "Cathy" Cyphers and Matilda "Tilly" DelRose are the only inspectors who have joined the ranks with their ears pierced.

Helen Biernat baked a cake for the inspectors one Tuesday. It took three of them to carry it into the lunch room and the following day, there were four inspectors short of the usual number. All kidding aside, the cake was lovely, air holes and all.

Blame it on the weather if the girls at Group 7 look pale and anemic. Most of them haunted the drug stores June 19 until they were well armed with sun-tan lotion, and Sunday, the day of all days, it rained. . . . William "Bill" Proudley, who, ironically enough, spends a good deal of the time out of doors, has a lovely reddish brown glow. . . . The walls of the Government office look as though the Battle of Trafalgar was fought on them. A closer look reveals smashed mosquitoes. It's them or inspectors—not only are the latter anemic, but lumpy as well.

Ruth Phillips trotted into the office one day with a hugh chartreuse bug on her hand. She spent about 15 minutes trying to decide how she could pickle him with material on hand in order that she could make a pin of the bug. (Times are really hard.) The bug, tiring of the discussion, turned out to be a beetle and flew away.

John W. Atkinson of Material Cost Accounting has been ill at his home in Joliet for four weeks, but is reported improving.

Ed Hassey, former chief clerk in Group 61, is on vacation and, upon his return, will be transferred to Stores and Supplies Department in the Administration Building.

Al Scheer, Electrical Engineering, is on vacation, but changed his mind so often as to what he would do that it is safer to report he is recreationing.

Marilyn Morsch, Bond Department, returned from a patriotic vacation—she roller-skated, rode bicycles and went horse-back riding—but did enjoy herself at River View.

Jim Koerner wrote from Jacksonville, Fla., that he was thrilled when he had a ride in an airplane with Wayne Morris of the movies. He reports Mr. Morris as a regular fellow and a skilled flyer.

Evelyn Greenwood, Engineering, is vacationing at San Diego, Calif. She is more interested in a certain Marine there than the California climate.

Beatrice Peterson, Accounting, spent the week-end at Edgewater Beach Sigma Kappa Pi Sorority Convention—got sea-sick yachting, but didn't miss a thing, including the Marine Dining Room and the Beachwalk. Saw "The Doughgirls" June 19. Marguerite Mackley of Kankakee is her sorority sister.

I. E. Jackson, left July 1 for a vacation at Temple, Tex., his home town.

V. L. Knudson, head of Stores and Supplies, is going to think of "Stories and Surprises" when he learns that it is known why he isn't wearing that good looking ring. It seems that when little boys play games and hurt their fingers they should never wear jewelry.

Geraldine "Gerry" Almon left for Washington, D. C., and from there to Richmond, Va., to visit her husband in camp.

Wally Nielson is visiting at Houghton, Mich. This is the wrong time for hunting, but maybe Wally is hunting the right spot for this fall.

E. V. Sperling was a very proud man June 21 when he introduced Lt. Ruth E. Sperling, Army nurse, located at Camp Wolters, Texas, to the gang here. Ah! what a beautiful sister!

Bob "Wimpy" Forst, Engineering, expects induction papers soon. Did you ever hear about the time Bob went to the opera and was talking to his party about how risky it was to leave a dummy standing in the lobby with such an expensive fur coat on when suddenly the dummy turned around and gave Bob an icy stare—she was very much alive.

Frances Rager, Accounting, spent a vacation in Joliet.

Evelyn Murphy plans her vacation with her soldier husband in Little Rock, Ark., if Uncle Sam doesn't send him on a hiking trip.

R. L. Voss leaves on vacation July 5 and will spend it at home in Joliet.

A. Allison, Engineering, will be general superintendent of construction while on vacation. Not only will be he superintendent, but he will hold all jobs down to that of laborer on the project . . . he is going to build a chicken house. All hope the concrete lays smooth and the hens lay many eggs.

Stanley Stafford, Stores and Supplies, is on a brief vacation.

Frank Smith, Stores and Supplies, and his wife, Mary E. Smith, a guard, will leave July 6 on vacation to Bedford, Ind., her former home. Smitty says this town is known as the "Stone City" . . . and many think he selected the most beautiful diamond there.

Charlotte Hammond, Office Management, left on vacation June 21. She expected to spend some time in Chicago and La Fayette, Ind.

Bob Holmes, Heating and Ventilating, is vacationing along the river. He will visit Kenosha, Wis., his former home, for a few days before returning.

A good second-hand pair of sliding pants is wanted for Mr. Knudson. It seems that Knute does not "slide, Kelly, slide" very gracefully.

Joe Dunda, Material Cost Accounting, spent a very patriotic vacation at home in Joliet.

Ann Baird has returned from vacation. Katherine Glynn pinch-hitted in the Stock Room while she was away.

Irene Keenan, secretary to Harrison Smith, returned to her work after two weeks' illness. Irene feels keen—now.

Blonde Ann Gubbins, Accounting, is vacationing in St. Louis with her sister, Alice Slad of Chicago.

Irving Steindler, auditor of the Mess Hall, is on vacation. His place is taken by Ralph Piper during his absence.

Mary Clow, Purchasing Department, is expected to vacation at home while she entertains nieces and cousins by the dozens.

Bob Bailey, Purchasing Department, is vacationing and, according to reports, his 17-foot boat is causing him more trouble than that new baby girl. The motor refused to make a noise—the baby obliges though.

Marjorie Lawhead, the pretty gal in Gas Rationing, is expecting her boy friend, former Inspector Jerome K. Hancock of Fort Bragg, North Carolina. When he arrives here, Dolores Courtney, Personnel, and Marjorie expect to visit him at his home in Carrier Mills, Ill.

Anita Scott, secretary to R. T. Bassett, vacationed in Memphis, Tenn. Dickie Rhodes took her place while Anita proudly shows that beautiful little boy to relatives.

Pfc. Chester L. Voss, San Diego, Calif., has been spending 11 months schooling in airplane mechanics with the Marines. He was a visitor to EOP and his father, Mr. Voss, was very proud of him.

Mr. Bassett, newly-appointed service manager, has changed his office from Room 39 to Room 34.

Catherine Lynch, Payroll, will spend a two-week vacation at home in Joliet.

Charlotte Klockenbusch, Payroll, is spending part of a vacation at Great Lakes visiting her boy friend, Wilbur Chandler, who is hospitalized at Naval Hospital. The vacation of Ann Lucas, Payroll, will be spent at home.

Arlene Thorson, blonde beauty of Purchasing, left June 30. She went to Tennessee to visit her boy friend, Wayne Sebby, formerly of the Mailing Room, and then will spend some time at her home in Joliet.

Miss Glynn, Office Management, will spend her vacation starting July 6 in New York City. Her sister, Dorothy, Marge Fox (both of Joliet), and Mary Wynne, EOP Pipe Shop, will accompany Katherine.

Emma Herndon, matron, resigned June 24.

Pfc. Frank P. Branger, of Love Field, Texas, was a visitor at EOP June 23. Frank was former Government Stock Room clerk. He is stationed at Dallas, Tex., and his wife is with him.

Harold Kapsch, of the sunny smile, now stationed at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, was an EOP visitor..

Wedding bells may ring for Veronica Hanson and her heart-throb, Lt. Johnny Johnson of the Lewis School of Aeronautics, Joliet, before he leaves for New Orleans.

Joe Elledge is located at Sioux Falls, S. D., taking radio training in the Army Air Forces. He wishes to be remembered to everyone.

Elmer Pratto is now a corporal at Camp Claibourne, Louisiana.

Independence Day to Be Observed Here July 5

Independence Day (Fourth of July) will be observed as a holiday at Elwood Ordnance Plant, Monday, July 5. Load lines, operating departments and offices will be closed for the day. All maintenance and repair forces will be kept to an absolute minimum over this holiday week end and only such plant protection forces will work as are needed for the protection and preservation of plant property.

—W. E. Canniff,
General Manager.

James Hatz of the service station has replaced Johnny Dixon, who was inducted into the armed forces, as ambulance driver.

Doris McCullum is looking forward to a joyous vacation which will start shortly before press time.

The so-called greenback was giving Elizabeth Russell a wee bit of trouble,—when everyone ordering lunch extended a crisp lettuce leaf for payment and she was caught without silver change.

Questions have been flung to Dr. George Luke as to whether his fishing tackle was up for auction again. It seems he is discouraged after not being able to catch anything, but mosquito bites.

The northern timbers will see Ann Johnson and her hubby tramping through them on their vacation in the near future.

Edna Rimmer and Dr. Jim Madura celebrated their birthdays together. The table was covered with a beautiful Irish linen cloth and a graceful floral centerpiece flanked by long white tapers. (What a fantasy!)—A call was sounded, come and get it! There was a mad rush to the kitchen and within a few seconds—cake, ice cream and pop were doing a disappearing act.

Esther Anderson, nurse at Group 1, is on vacation. Rumors are that Dorothy Schoop, Bertha Perush and Mary Philbin are out prospecting for a cottage along the Kankakee River.

Leslie Ross came back from vacation. He spent most of his time making repairs on his home, but must have slipped away long enough to purchase that new straw hat he's wearing.

How to get to work was the question that had June Hull worried for several days. But old faithful George, her hubby, straightened the matter out—snap—just like that.

Can you imagine Elsie Roberts sending her dad on Father's Day five candy lolly pops, enclosing an appropriate verse and signing it—"The Brat." Yep, she dood it.

Charles Bruner is the proud father of another son.

Dr. G. B. Geil's tonsorial artist gave him a new coiffure—you know the patchy number—he took out a patch here and then necessarily had to take a patch out there, too.

Vance Cook, Ozoro Blanchard and Tom Moore, ambulance drivers, all sprouted out in casual sport clothes as the temperature rose.

A most unusual experience is reported by Evelyn Doran who had her first permament. It was killing to hear her explain what the beauty operator did, thus: "I spent three and one-half hours there . . . and had to sleep with my chin on the pillow all night . . . now I can't move, I have so many kinks." For her first trip to a beauty shop—she did alright and got all the feminine trimmings. You must admit she's a WOW now.

A well known department head had the misfortune to find out the hard way what those little red dots are that help guide people over highways . . . yep . . . when he got home . . . lo and behold . . . stuck right there in the tire was a red square of paper held nicely together with . . . ya might know it . . . a nail. . . . Words fail to express what this charming man said.

Folks are asking Catherine Stortz of Mail and Records, what she was doing in the back seat of the car one evening on the way to Streator . . . seems they were going home and saw a forlorn soldier by the wayside . . . being kind hearted they stopped to find out where he was going and if they could help him along . . . but he was going too far so they said they couldn't take him . . . however, looking in the back seat where pretty brunette Catherine was parked he ups with "Gee, I'd sure like to ride."

Mary Lou Schwartz, Adjutant's Office, has departed for the wild and wooly West . . . and furthermore . . . she ain't acomin' back . . . her boss man is stationed there with Uncle Sam's best and so she's going to be with him . . . the gang will miss her . . . especially sister Gerry Stephen of Engineering. Katherine Reubart is holding down the office by herself.

Jim George has been on vacation and is having the time of his life . . . so the story goes . . . heard he took the kids to the circus the other day . . . but if the truth is known . . . he likes them himself.

Capt. R. E. Pinnick has gone from the EOP portals . . . sure will be missed by everyone as he was one swell officer . . . understand that Capt. John A. Hardy is leaving, too . . . he will always be remembered for the good work he did with the Guards . . . sure set them through their paces.

Heard via the grape vine that Mavis Emerson has a secret admirer in the Fuze and Booster area . . . should he be named—or would that make her mad, too???? . . . She gets peeved very easily . . . specially when her name is mentioned in this column.

Jeanne Baskerville, now acting as housewife for her lieutenant husband, wrote from North Carolina telling all her pals hello . . . says she gets kinda lonesome and wishes the kids would write her.

John Gravelot was having a very hearty laugh about one of his eminent colleagues.

Bill Poole, formerly of Payroll, was a recent visitor . . . he has two hash marks now and is mighty proud of 'em . . . he is an instructor on carburetors at Lincoln Air Field, Lincoln, Nebr. Another soldier, Dick Dean, is finishing his training at Oklahoma A & M . . . he's an aviation cadet and likes it fine.

Dara Prew took herself out to California to see her soldier boyfriend. . . . Marion Yeager was certainly annoyed with the heat last week . . . says that she wishes there was a swimming pool here instead of tennis courts.

Ray Sayers, formerly in the Executive Office, is in the armed forces now . . . haven't heard where he is stationed . . . but Ray promised to write.

Danny Considine and his brood have moved into new quarters . . . they have a delightfully cool and charming office . . . course it was always charming . . . what with Dan's personality and all the glamor gals. . . . The joint is without some of the gals though, . . . Pat Haley, Juanita Kliegl and Elaine Levanduski are now elsewhere. . . . An addition is cutie pie Dot Herbst, formerly of Mail and Records. . . . Danny doesn't do so badly.

All the secrecy about Ann Kulpa has come to a head at last . . . sh-sh-sh—don't tell a soul, but it was really a gag . . . sort of a test case to see how far a thing like that would go . . . and what do you know . . . four telephone calls convinced your correspondent that she better let down her hair and tell all that it was all in fun.

Timekeeping

NICHOLAS BELLUSO
Correspondent

Sheriff James Hynes, formerly a timekeeper here, has been seeing a lot of action lately. Timekeepers who possibly might depend on good spirits for good times are cautioned to stay away from Putnam County.

The Timekeeping Department was saddened by the news of the death shortly after birth of the child of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Christiansen. Sympathies are extended and all hope that Mrs. Christiansen will recover rapidly.

Plans are being completed for another grand picnic to be held in the near future.

What makes radishes hot? If you have a true and scientific answer to this query, send your answer to John O'Connell, Bernard McShane or Milton Treitel who have been arguing continuously over the answer.

It was funny watching Ben Sloan, equipped with a nipple and bottle, gingerly forcing milk down the throat of an innocent young raccoon which he has adopted. Incidentally, Ben, while working with Ray Lunkisky at Group 64 one Sunday, actually made the field check.

The spic and span quarters of Group 70 timekeepers are credited to the energetic and spirited work of Paul Pavelitich, more affectionately known as "Pop."

Ray Levenger arrived to work before Frank Skole recently. He came to work at 7 o'clock in the morning for the afternoon shift. It might have been he misread the schedule?

Joe Smajd is seeking the pension job at Group 68 as soon as Clyde Mulligan goes to the army.

Vacations are being enjoyed by Mr. Treitel, Robert Beamen, Eula Weaver, Berniece Hagen, Robert Stalker, El Matteson, Alma Salzman, Pauline Vismara, Gridley Wheeler, Jennie Murdie, John Donahue, Robert Griffin, Emily Kexel, Kenneth Brooks, James Murphy, Ray Lee and Otmar Senn.

Seaman Lloyd Raridon, now stationed at Farragut, Idaho, visited his old stomping grounds while home on furlough. All were glad to see him.

The most ardent letter writer in the area probably is Mary Biernat of Group 6, whose husband is stationed somewhere in Africa.

"A statistician may be able to juggle figures and make black appear white, but," says John J. Fitzpatrick, Superintendent of Group 3-A, "anyone who knows the four fundamentals of mathematics will agree that accidents subtract from your pleasure add to your discomfort, divide your income and multiply your worries. So any way you look at it, the individual is the chief loser in every accident resulting in personal injury. Let's all work for a no-loss accident record!"

OPERATION AND UPKEEP of EOP's vast electric system is the responsibility of Walter E. White, electrical superintendent, shown here in his office at Richards Farm.

Group 4
By Marcella Hebert

John Neely, assistant superintendent, purchased a new bicycle while on vacation.

Dorothy Guarneri is flashing a sparkler.

By the time this is out, Francis Regnier's teeth will be, too.

The girls on the clean-up gang had a hard time trying to find their foreman the other day when he went without his hat!

If those eighth-place Cubs would only sign Slugger Foster maybe they could climb out of the cellar.

Good luck is wished for Walter O'Hearn in his knot house.

For certain reasons Lois Schultz is no longer saving herself for Bill.

Girls who might have some clamps are asked to lend them to Don Leonard.

The three musketeers, Delores Wruk, Josephine Kaiser, and Verona Lambert, always dress alike. Surely is a cute idea.

Johnny Woods' most embarrasing moment was when all of Group 4 sang birthday congratulations—while he blushed modestly in the center of the room.

Peggy Phillips drives a tractor to call on her friends.

Myrtle Fordyce is pretty flashy when it comes to painting in red shorts.

Lorraine "Gum-Slinging" Papach has hit new heights!

If anyone wants some sewing done, just see Jim Tyler.

Dorothy Struve would like to know the name of Buck Jones' horse.

One has to be a linquist to understand the conversation on Miss Fordyce's line . . . with ten little Polish girls there.

It is rumored that Mary Manicor can see in the dark as well as in the light.

Ann Nicholson, Helen Cusik and Mary Plut are visiting fortune tellers to learn what is in store for them.

Vivian Kramer and Anna Esser left for Group 45 where they are going into the "dry cleaning business."

Virginia Andreasen is taking up lip reading, possibly for a good purpose.

Little Vera Mains, popular inspector, left June 21 and will be missed by all.

Lola Henry will be leaving soon for Missouri and the girls hope she will have time to send them a greeting.

There's a big attraction in Carbon Hill — for information ask Helen Butler.

Group 6
By Mary Ricardi

A farewell dinner party was held in honor of Harold Starr, Willard Vail and Edward Ritter, who will soon enter the Army Air Corps. Each was presented with a wallet, a gift from their co-workers.

Eddie Liebelt and Ivan Olson vacationed in New Jersey and New York City. Anyone needing a guide, especially when it comes to taking a ferry-boat, can be sure of able assistance from those two boys from "Flatbush."

Pfc. Anthony Bajt, former employee of 6-6, wrote that he is in training at Ordnance Automotive School, Fort Crook, Nebraska.

Helen Mathisen is certainly proud of her two brothers in the Army. One is stationed in Oklahoma and the other in Virginia. Those cookies Helen bakes and sends to them are really good.

Summertime is really proving itself here . . . sunburns, suntans and freckles are coming out for the season. Chuck Hickok came to work with a beautiful suntan . . . a flattering bronze shade!

It's nice to have Betty Wicks back at work again, after a short stay in a hospital recuperating from an auto accident. Tet Cantu and Lucille Englert will be back at work soon, and Agnes Jisa will be a patient at the hospital for a longer time. All of these girls were injured in the same accident.

Buck Weese is sort of a question-and-answer man these days. He watches the thermometer and makes out weather and temperature reports for Group 8—now people are always asking him "how hot is it, Buck?"

The Group 8 girls softball team will be "classy" in the new uniforms they plan to buy.

Group 9
By Betty Boldon

Lois Motta, forelady in 9-21, has returned from a two-week vacation through the West and southern states.

The girls on the Group 9 ball team are all steamed up and ready to challenge any group.

Joe Lamberta is wearing a good suntan, resulting from working on the hill.

John Clark is vacationing in Columbus, Ohio.

Congratulations are sent to Eddie Burns because of his six and a half pound son, Terence Michael. Thanks are also tendered to "Uncle" Bill Lipsey for walking the floor with "Papa" Burns.

Clara Favaro was married June 27. Congratulations are extended by all to the newlyweds.

Katherine Ruffati is recovering from a recent accident.

Terry Fogarty seems to be very happy lately. A lieutenant is home on furlough.

Someone in 9-15 is constantly aware that there is a "total war" on.

Velda Clemmons has recovered from a case of poison oak.

Dolly Matia has been seen riding on a motorcycle lately and there is some sort of attraction that rides on the front.

Everybody likes Mitzie Evetz's new feather edge haircut.

Millie Ashley is now in the Testing Building, 9-17.

Group 45
By Ruby Frederick

Mary V. Byron, truck driver, now does her laundry before coming to work.

Group 45 welcomes as newcomers Esther "Butch" Bucciaralli, truck helper; Gertrude Stevens, Vivian Kramer and Anna Esser who are sorting and cleaning gloves.

Bill Blonske has returned from a vacation with a fine sun tan. Jennie Murdie, timekeeper, and Walter Goebel, inspector, began vacations June 28.

Louie Provance takes a lot of time to clean 45-4 lately.

Bea McQuerry expects to leave on vacation July 1.

William Pinnick is wearing a large smile . . . he is a daddy again.

Walt Dillard has been nicknamed "Walter Winchell." He gets all news from Braidwood and South Wilmington.

W. W. White has a new name, "Lucky." Most know why.

Bob Morris is wondering why he doesn't receive any mail from Washington.

The gang is wondering why Frank Carter doesn't "get around much any more."

Joe Bellom, machinist, is happy to have his son, Joe Jr., home for a short time on furlough. Joe Jr. was formerly employed here as timekeeper during construction and later in Groups 7 and 8.

Guards

GENE RYAN
Correspondent

Paul Schauble is now amongst Uncle Sam's fighting men. Paul was with the department about two years and made many friends with his quiet, easy-going, efficient manner.

A very pleasant surprise at Guard Headquarters last week was the visit of two former members of the Department. Ray Harper, a former captain, was back on furlough and is now a corporal in the Military Police Service stationed in Washington, D. C. James McMillan also paid a visit. He is a machinist first class in the Navy stationed at Glenview, Ill.

Roy Dickson is sure to believe that rationing of tires and gasoline is in effect now. He walked and ran half-way to Guard Headquarters from Gate 6, Group 1, one Thursday morning. It was a nice day to get left at the Group, pay day and all.

Road maintenance man to guard at Gate 5, Group 1: "Can I have a drink?" Guard Eugene Rickert: "Sure, there is a jug of water over there." Man proceeds to bubbler and takes himself a drink. After the man left, Rickert spoke to the sergeant, "Can you imagine a man taking a drink out of a fire extinguisher?"

Whitlo Prather looks healthier and wealthier since returning from a vacation spent at Dongola, Ill., with relatives.

Many fine compliments have been received in reference to the well-trained guard unit which marched in the Army Day parade in Joliet June 20.

Langdon Shipp would have qualified on the pistol range if a couple of the bullets had gone astray and hit the bullseye.

Albert Grandpre did not do so well on the range. His alibi was that he changed guns and someone else changed the targets.

Edwin Legg said the long-awaited time is here. Next week he will be eating fried spring chicken.

With the days getting hotter and hotter, Walter Corn has resolved to go on a diet so he can get a pair of summer trousers.

This may be a fish story, but Charles Cogswell says it is true. While on his vacation in Galesburg he went fishing and caught not only his limit, but none was smaller than nine inches. In fact, two were so large they wouldn't fit in the fish-pail.

Robert Clavenna spent a vacation in a worth-while manner. He relieved his wife of many duties, such as taking care of the baby. In between times, he repaired his garage.

Sgt. Louis Hedstrom was justly proud of the appearance of his men, namely, Russell Olson, Otto Stallman, John Maxim and Herbert Jones, in the Army Parade at Joliet.

William Hartley, Herbert Jones and Eli Milakovich are very much at home in Group 3-A, as they formerly guarded Group 2.

Earl Mulhall, Oscar Johnson and Thomas "Coca-Cola" Brady have returned from vacations and have to take turns describing their experiences. With the information they have, any future vacationers should consult them on how to spend a pleasant period. Free consultation, free estimates and no repairs.

EAGER to see his dad, Roy B. Hallihan, Government inspector in Group 3-A, Richard Allen waits like this for him to come home each evening.

James Barker, like a well-known brand of cigarettes, has had something new added . . . and they look very well.

Clyde Jones insists he can better his score on the pistol range if they would allow him to use his slingshot.

Two more good guards answered Uncle Sam's call last week, Herbert Jones from Group 3-A and Charles Skeen from Group 2.

Anyone with a good liniment, oil, or even alcohol, can make a fortune these days around Guard Headquarters. The old men are trying to play ball; in fact, they defeated the fire-fighters. The men are really in a bad predicament—they need practice, yet they can't afford to practice as they have to conserve their energy for the regular games.

With the Women

Out of a clear sky someone suggested that the office personnel get weighed. After a few heartbreaking moments and the realization that too many pounds had been gained the strenuous diet began. Each girl seems quite pleased to report a little weight lost. The mystery is Sgt. Billie Taff. Billie refused to diet, in fact, she tantalized the girls by eating ham sandwiches in their presence and has lost more than anyone else. Billie says it is sympathy.

Victoria Matteson is a woman guard who values her work above all things. Not so long ago, "Torrie" awoke and prepared to go to work. Imagine her dismay when she realized that she had left her nice soft bed at 2 a.m. when she could have slept until 4.

Dan Cupid has been working overtime and giving his undivided attention to the women guards. Frances Dempsey became the bride of Capt. Al Young, U. S. Army, June 8. She left this department to reside in North Carolina. Although the Army's gain was EOP's loss, it's a pleasure to know that she is happy.

It's beautiful — have you seen it . . . Mabel Peterson's ring! "Petie" is thrilled. Dame rumor has it that she will be listening to a wedding tune with Sgt. Al Frankovitch early in August.

Lucile Raub has resigned because of ill health.

Peggy Ann Stinespring left the department to work in Kankakee.

Jane Johnston is spending a vacation at Lincoln, Ill.

By this time everyone knows what a successful party the Group had June 12. The largest crowd ever to turn out for a party here was on hand and everyone had a good time. The committee takes this means of thanking the various workers whose skillful hands and faithful work made this grand party possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ludeman "waltzed to victory" over the other contestants for the dance prize. Otto Schreib had the lucky number for the door prize.

If this column isn't up to par, it is because correspondent Fred Tamblyn is on his vacation. All are glad Fred is having a nice time, but it will be nicer when he returns and "takes over" again!

Speaking of vacations, Doug Oram and Ollie Ehrsam sent word they are at a fine fishing spot in Wisconsin. And Irma Lieberthal says that her July 4 week-end is going to be spent "just resting" in a quiet place in Chicago.

Wayne Frederickson is the proud parent of a new daughter.

Best wishes go to Fred Koenig, who joined the Navy.

Arthur Thompson is giving up the "chicken raising" idea completely and is focusing his attention on rabbits and garden.

Forelady Flossie Marshall and Ned Bilesio of the Power House gang had a good time at the festival operating the root beer fountain and donut counter.

There are several black eyes along the line lately. Gladys Pierce is adorned with a honey. She claims that something fell off a closet shelf.

Group 3-A received a visit June 19 from a group of soldiers and non-commissioned officers from Camp Skokie. They were here for the Army Show in Joliet.

Carl Kemp, inspector, is ill at his home in Decatur.

The handsome young soldier who went through the line June 19 was Pvt. Joseph Serena of Camp Robinson, California, son of Joe Serena of Bldg. 3. Private Serena has just returned from the Aleutian Islands and Alaska. He was decorated with multi-colored ribbons for conduct and foreign service. He also is a former employee of EOP.

The members of the Fire Department hereby resolve to lead cleaner and better lives. This decision was made when someone suggested that the present sarong and sandal weather was just a forerunner of that state of existence referred to by the clergy as life after death for sinners. It's funny what a heat wave will do. . . . Chief Roy Mortenson weakly gasps "yes" to all of Frank Scoma's suggestions. . . . Frank Nolan, supervising officer, smiles tenderly at John D. Smith's reports, and Willie Hayes, Dayle Pratt and Len Jessen haven't had an argument since the last cooling rain storm.

Vacation time continues — Marion Murawski, Carl Richards, Dave Current, George Learned, Tom Billadeau, Hopper Combs, Bill Keating, Joe Walsh and Bob Graham are some of the lads who got away from it all and came back safely.

Frank Skoff is vacationing, which makes it very tough on the guy who went with him to the last dinner for The Bomb-Shell staff.

William "Champ" Kerwin, Virg Fear, Howard Arnold, George Bercolos, Ed Carter and Norm Heath are others who will have their War Bonds mailed to them at the summer resorts.

Steve Forgacs, his wife and debutante daughter are visiting the folks down on the farm. It is rumored that Steve threatened his ladies with a visit to the poor farm if they didn't stop making such gigantic preparations for this little pleasure jaunt.

Molly Mahoney ain't Mahoney any more. The wedding bells rang June 19.

Ask and ye shall receive—that's why Al Newman wound up getting his feet washed in one of Wilmington's leading tonsorial parlors.

Norm Lubs spent a vacation breaking his arm and watching it heal.

Mac Dill's idea of heaven on earth is the 11:30 to 7:30 shift. When Marie Cline, Erma Palmer, Helen Gahagen, Henrietta McBride and Cay Noonan find out about this there will probably be a stampede toward the schedule maker.

Lt. Gene Ryan of the guards was recently spotted using a jug of water in the early morning hours. Ryan's riders claim this was used to cool off a racing motor.

It was reported recently that Francis Burden, a former fire inspector, was elevated to corporal. Now word comes that Fran is now a staff sergeant at Hill Field, Ogden, Utah.

"In again—out again" Johnny Connelly, they calls him, because it's the tooth, the whole tooth, and nothing but the tooth. . . . He could see C. J. Taylor, Group 70, who's a darb of a welder.

At first it seemed to be a new form of arm calisthenics being demonstrated recently . . . but, alas, 'twas the old gesticulation of the big one that got away. Tate Ehman was the performer.

The following fire inspectors left for military service: Steve Jarvis, Ogle Garrett and Loris Hart.

One of the "constantest" readers of The Bomb-Shell is Pfc. William Scanlon, a former fire inspector, who writes swell letters to his former pals in the Fire Department.

William Reichert, assistant chief, is now referred to as "Honey Boy the King Bee."

A. M. Lockwood, general superintendent of utilities, might like to know those Sweet Caporals were everything he said they were. What he said they do to worms also applies to June bugs, fireflies, Fire Department clerks and other night crawlers.

Len Jessen's Army training taught him to salute when receiving a command, but not the way he does when taking an order from Cliff Weiss, assistant chief.

And then there's Jim Bolton's classic remark made after putting a rookie through the ladder drills, "His mother must have been frightened by a tumble-weed!"

Sgt. Martin Hanson, his wife and 20 cases of snuff are spending vacations together in Minnesota.

Charles Davis, assistant chief, thanks all his friends in the Department for assisting him in cleaning up his trailer. It is rumored that Chief Mortenson had to drive Mrs. Davis around the block at least 20 times so that she could return from her vacation pleasantly surprised at her husband's housekeeping habits.

Lt. George Philip was seen in the harness department of one of Joliet's leading stores one day. When asked about the reason for this, he replied, "George Rogina, Kenny Brooke and I are buying Frankie Nolan a pair of blinkers—for Father's Day." Not long after, Frankie was seen in the lingerie department of another store. When asked to explain, he replied, "Me, myself and I are buying a trio of amateur 'Raffles' some silk gloves for their new profession."

Machine Shop Messages
By Marie Studer

Two additional machinists have joined the armed forces. Frank DeMarco went into the Navy and Raymond Peter has enlisted in the Seabees. The gang at the shop wishes both all the luck in the world. Up until the time came for farewells, everyone seemed to be having a very enjoyable time at Frank's going-away party.

The weather seemed unusually warm one evening last week while watching the ball game between Group 70 and the Chemical Lab at the Recreation Field. Ask Helen Manduk and Marie Studer—they will tell you it was down right sweltering. But it was worth the discomfort for the victory was Group 70's—17 to 2.

Ed Bick must have been forewarned about the warm days to come. He had his hair cut in that closely cropped style. Tom Riordan helped matters along by taking scissors in hand and clipping a little here and a little there. Now all Ed can do is wait patiently for time for his next visit to the barber.

SCORCHY . . . 'tis possible, but anyway this is W. D. Whaley, superintendent of Groups 4 and 5, Fuze & Booster Area, as he was at a much more tender age than now.

Motor Pool Memos
By Lucille McCabe

Three baby skunks found at Group 63 have been adopted by Jean Swanson.

Katherine Dixon is planning to leave the EOP family to join her husband in Texas.

A farewell party was given for Dorothy Bick by the Pool members. Dorothy plans to spend the summer at a lake in Wisconsin.

Congratulations were extended to Frank Kern on his recent birthday.

A movie camera could have been used to great advantage as Marian Grey tore down the road toward her Victory garden having heard W. B. Manchester had plowed it under. Luckily (for the glorified farmer) it was the lot next door which had been plowed.

When Marie Armstrong delivers the mail she gets a hot meal . . . at one of the groups.

Chester Voss, Marine, while home on furlough, made a visit to the Motor Pool. Robert Cleghorn is also home on leave and it is hoped that he too makes a visit to EOP.

Pipe Shop News
By Mary Wynne

Orville Burkhardt brought a chicken to work for Ruth Sanderson, but when he went to the car that night he discovered that the chicken was dead. Orville says that some chickens must have an awfully short life.

Ed Washburn was teased one day recently about his third honeymoon. The occasion was his third wedding anniversary.

Lucille Hassel likes to eat sugary doughnuts, but wishes that someone would invent a way of eating them without the sugar getting all over the desk.

Service Garage Spares

Bill Briddick has a Florida tan from working in his Victory garden.

Russell Benway thinks a goblet is a male turkey.

John Enrietta wants to know if Robin Hood is a word like boyhood or girlhood, and if it makes one feel like a robin.

This week's noted visitor was Seaman Cleghorn of the Navy.

From the report received on S. J. "Kelly" Kukulski, he will be glad when fish are rationed.

Carl Adams' only reason for going to Brookfield Zoo is because his children enjoy it so much . . . could be!

Jean Ann Evans thinks the only difference between a president and a king is that a king has no vice.

Lt. Earl Goodknecht has another asset beside his laugh . . . his new, very becoming gold bars.

Telephone Tid-Bits
By Elaine Christman

The worries of the Navy are over as Loretta Bradshaw's son, Bud, was inducted into that branch of the service.

The aquatic phenomena experienced here not too long ago was not, as first believed, a cloudburst, but merely some of the telephone operators from EOP out for a dip.

Marguerite Weaver left June 25 and a great deal of vim, vigor and vitality, along with a lot of personality, leaves this department. Good luck, Marguerite.

Edna Beach, vacationing from her duties, promises to do nothing but eat and sleep during the entire time.

Velma Whitmore has returned from a restful two-week vacation and says she is ready for another year's work.

SCATTERED FIELD WORK throughout the EOP area takes up most of the time of this group of employees of the Line Department, shown here in front of their storeroom and headquarters adjoining the Electric Shop in Group 70. A. T. Smith is foreman.

Building Maintenance
By John Bottary

Bob Walker and John Giacomi spent a Sunday recently fishing in the Fox River, but all they got for their trouble were mosquito bites and poison oak.

George Kushner, iron worker, left for the Seabees June 25.

The latest catch from Taylor Lake was a crow by Harvey Senesac.

Paint Shop Patter
By Blackie Blackburn

The painters hope for a quick recovery of their supervisor, Tom M. Singer, who has been recuperating in Hot Springs, Ark.

Ralph Thompson, painter at Group 1, sure got a surprise in the mail. He'll have more friends than money—ask him about it.

W. C. Stumeier was right at home while placing a new coat of paint on the radio tower at Richards Farm.

Lloyd Davis, painter at Group 1, has acquired the nickname of "Squintie." He has a good explanation.

Line Department Lines
By Ray E. Curtis

James L. Boyd, general foreman for the Line Division, and Dewey Kennington, lineman, are joining the Seabees in July.

Missed around the Line Shop these days is Ray E. Curtis, who is at home ill.

Preparing to join Uncle Sam's Army soon is William Tusek.

Robert Saieg is thinking of joining the Camel Brigade in the Sahara Desert.

Sheet Metal Scraps
By Jess Thomas

Charles Boudreau has gone to Mayo Brothers Clinic for a physical check-up.

Cpl. Paul Ryan, who was home on furlough from New Mexico, was in to see his many friends.

The new clerk in the office is Francis Feeney, replacing Jess Thomas who has been transferred to the shop.

Charles Webb, formerly with the Sheet Metal Shop, has moved to California. He is greatly missed by his pal, Karl Triebel.

Laundry Letters
By Lucille Morrissette

The Laundry gang wish to welcome Louise Doberzyk, Eileen Pierre, Gladys Lazier, Kathleen Quigley, Margaret Maguire, Blanche Decker, Nora Sweazy, Bernice Langellier, Lydia Combs, Mary Bell, Anna Saxton, Claribel Reichman, Helen Stewart, Lucy Gladish, Ida Campbell and Willa Mitchell.

Lucille Morrissette makes many week-end trips to Chicago . . . could be love!

Veronica Curry seems to be walking on air since her two children are back with her again after spending the winter with relatives in Iowa.

Harry Lehner is back on the job after a recent illness.

Edna Hyatt's tip to Supervisor Francis Walsh: He had better be working in his garden instead of pitching horseshoes. That iron is going to be hard to chew this winter, especially if frozen.

GROUP 1

BEVERLY GARING

Correspondent

So many workers have left the Group for the army recently that your correspondent has lost count of them, but a lot of them have been reporting by mail. Eddie Grant, formerly of Bldg. 13, writes that he is getting along fine and sends his address so his friends can write. Freddie Copp, oiler, who is in California, doing special duty for the Navy, keeps the Group posted on the wonderful weather and the huge quantities of food his gang is enjoying. Eddie Farrell, who is now at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, really likes the Ordnance work there.

The Group 1 softball team is making a name for itself under the management of Jack Burdette, playing some swell games this season. The boys are having the time of their lives and claim they would enjoy the exercise even if they didn't win. They haven't had a chance to prove it yet. . . . The girls are doing equally well. Lola Harnack, between planting corn and coaching her girls to victory, doesn't have any spare time any more.

John Mackender, electrician foreman, finally finished building his house in Symerton and the boys really warmed it for him. For a house warming, the job was well done. Jim Barrowman acted as master of ceremonies and he didn't get a chance to help himself all week-end. All he had was three cups of coffee.

Ersella Williams, new clerk in the Superintendent's Office, is down-hearted because Eldon Clark, Group truckdriver, thought she was at least 35 years old. The rest of the office force had a tough job consoling her. She's just 24, and Clark is a poor judge of ages.

Bob Griffin, Group 1 timekeeper, has been convalescing from a tonsilectomy for some time. His mother reports that he's beginning to enjoy himself now that he can talk and drink something besides a teaspoonful of water now and then. The timekeeping gang will be glad to see Griff back. His current love life was always a good conversation topic during lulls.

Sympathy is extended to Loren Cain, safety engineer, whose wife died last week.

Bus Transportation
By Margie Stevens

The Bus Drivers lost their second game of the season to the Fire Guards June 15 by a score of 17-5. Bert Day and Charlie Harris were the pitchers.

The Girls Soft Ball League is getting underway. 'Tis rumored that Lee Schonert and Margie Stevens are spending their evenings practicing, since being scheduled to play the Bus Drivers later in the season.

Lloyd Reese is welcomed to the Bus Transportation Division.

AN ALL-DAY CONFERENCE on employment problems so as to knit closer the objectives of Government agencies and EOP management was held here June 23. Participants in the conference, shown here left to right, are: First row, Harrison Smith, S. & P. resident partner; E. C. Claflin, manager, U. S. Employment Service, Joliet; Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer; O. W. Dibble, area director, War Manpower Commission, Aurora; Donald J. Pieri, assistant director, U. S. Employment Service, War Manpower Commission, Chicago, and W. E. Canniff, general manager; second row, George F. Bent, personnel director; R. T. Bassett, service manager; John J. Cole, assistant general manager, and Maj. George A. Grant, executive officer.

GROUP 3

NORBERT McLUCKIE
Correspondent

The days of vacation are here and the boys in Group 3 are sure accepting them with gratitude. Jim Fagan is starting out with a bang the fourth of July. Phillip Wright and Norbert McLuckie spent most of their time figuring how far their next A ration stamp would propel them down the highway.

George Weber is getting his vacation one day at a time. Last Sunday he spent too much time out in the bright sunshine and his shoulders and back were sunbaked, making them look like a rare T-bone.

Charlie Robbins is still out after those big ones. After every fishing trip he is seen comparing notes with the boys in the power-house, especially Harry Melby, who has longer arms and, therefore, catches larger fish.

All were sorry to see the departure of Tony Helling. Wherever he goes he will put out the same high quality of work he did here for such a long time.

The personnel of Group 3 extends its most sincere and heartfelt sympathies to the family of James Ray, Jr. His memory will surely live long in the minds of the boys on John "Red" Boucher's shift.

The camel and horse-traders have nothing on Bob Bolte and Vern Worden. Bob is trying to get a new gun from Vern, but Vern, a veteran of many such deals, has up to this time kept ahead of Bob.

Louis Evans was seen hurrying down to the storeroom recently. When asked about his big rush, he said there was a new storekeeper so he thought after six months of trying he might be able to get some leather gloves for his men. The new storekeeper's name is Ross Stone.

A story is told about Elmer Emanuelson changing a tire and after putting on the spare and putting the tools away he discovered the spare was also flat. That should cost Harry Beasley at least a buck and a half, said Elmer.

Most have heard that tune, "Who Broke the Lock on the Hen House Door?" There is a new version of that same tune at Bldg. 3. It is, "Who Left the Hoist in the Box-Car Door?"

Block Busters' Party Called Huge Success

The dance at Elwood Ordnance Plant Saturday night, June 12, appropriately entitled "Waltzing to Victory with Block Busters," was declared one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever held here by E. L. Walkup, director of recreation.

The floor was filled with dancers, waltzing to the strains of George Zelke's all-EOP Dance Band. A waltz contest, judged by Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer; John J. Cole, assistant general manager, and Mayor Arthur O. Janke, Joliet, was won by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Ludeman of Joliet. Mary Vraesik received a prize for selecting the winning name for the dance. The door prize, a large Panda, was won by O. Shried.

EOP extended a hand of welcome to fellow munitions workers at Kankakee Ordnance Works and many familiar faces from across the road were seen, both on the dance floor and at the carnival on the main floor.

E. L. WALKUP
Director

Some things which won't be forgotten about that big Group 3-A dance . . . baldish William Buck, telephone superintendent, with a tight grip on that comb and brush set he won (some one probably will get a present). . . . Phil Hahn and Frank Kadlac heatedly checking the Soda Room. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Buck in the waltz contest . . . Bill's heels never touched the floor once—but it was a long grind . . . bet that couple have won many prizes for waltzing. . . . The luck of Lt. and Mrs. C. R. Crandell, both hitting "Bingo" at the same time . . . the punishment the stuffed cats took in the ball throwing game . . . most winners were throwing slow balls, however.

Colby Eriksen, popular right hand man to Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick for the dance, was just every place, seeing that everything was moving smoothly. The superintendent himself was a real host and greeter.

Victory gardeners will be glad to know that there is now a "community" hand cultivator in Group 60. It should make weeding easier. Please remember to return it to the tool house as soon as you have finished using it.

From the number of calls for plans for the small dehydrator many EOP employees expect to cut down on their blue stamps next winter. More of these plans are on hand if you want them.

The EOP baseball nine is trying to forget about a place called Stateville and its baseball team.

Softball really has a start now and much interest is being shown by spectators as well as players. Every one seems anxious to scout for their respective group team on this first round.

Myrna Faris Says

Advance information received from Lola Harnack, manager of Group 1 girls' softball team, revealed that the team's red uniforms were at the dry cleaners—hence, the green ones worn at their games! Or is someone color blind?

Seems that Betty Ford, Group 1 pitcher, had quite a time keeping her slacks from falling during one of those crucial moments of the Group 8-Group 1 game. Lorene Iverson (or was it Shirley Stafford—they are such "look alikes" that they can hardly be told apart) suggested she forget about the slacks and give the spectators a treat! Despite this disturbing factor Betty pitched a swell game of ball—which was really a treat!! Gerry Preboy, Group 8, has quite a time with the umpires at the games. She is firmly convinced that even umpires make mistakes—but, of course, she doesn't mean that in a disparaging way.

Gertrude Freeman called the Recreation office recently and said that "you ain't seen nuthin' yet" until the softball team representing the Fuze & Booster Area goes into action. This team is made up of girls from Groups 4, 5, 6 and 7 and promises plenty of competition.

Helen Kammerman of Group 4 is a new member of the Employees' Activities Committee, so you gals talk with her concerning any recreational activities in which you are interested.

Posies are deserved by Flossie Marshall, Patsy Jo Hawkins and Amy Losby, who helped make the Group 3-A dance a grand success.

Softball League Active After Delay

Rain caused postponement of so many games that the EOP men's softball league is now just one month behind schedule. The delay, however, seems to have whipped up even greater interest and E. L. Walkup, recreation director, predicts some strenuous competition between the groups during the remainder of the summer.

The schedule for the next two weeks follows:

July 6
- Group 1 at Guards
- Bus Drivers at Fuze-Booster
- Group 3 at Army
- Group 3-A at Group 70

July 9
- Guards at Bus Drivers
- Fire Guards at Group 3
- Fuze-Booster at Group 3-A
- Army at Group 70

July 13
- Bus Drivers at Group 1
- Guards at Group 3-A
- Fire Guards at Group 70
- Fuze-Booster at Army

July 20
- Group 1 at Group 3
- Group 3-A at Bus Drivers
- Army at Guards
- Fuze-Booster at Fire Guards

Song by Lee Davis Praised in Washington

"Zoom, Zoom, Zoom," a song written by Lee "Lucky" Davis, a driver for the EOP Motor Pool, has received praise from Col. L. A. Codd, executive assistant in the Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Washington, in a letter written by order of the Chief of Ordnance.

"This song is certainly a reflection of the morale and will to win of the Ordnance workers at Elwood," said Colonel Codd's letter. "Please extend to the two authors the congratulations of the Chief of Ordnance for thus patriotically expressing the spirit of their fellow workers."

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

Roy Pfeifer, inspector, has really been walking on air and with good reason (at least he says so). The reason is that Roy is taking the fatal step into matrimony. The ceremony was Saturday evening, June 19. Congratulations and best wishes are extended by the group.

Besides being an expert in the art of applying a stencil and stencil brush, Walter Thompson of Coal City, can really give out on a musical saw. When he entertains with his noon-day program of "jive, sweet swing, Bach, barrel-house, boogie-woogie and the blues," his music-loving audience almost forgets to eat lunch.

S. P. "Pete" Matuszewski left June 25 for the armed forces. "Pete" may not be a big strapper like Roy "Slim" Erdmann, Joe "Big Stoop" Cullen or Jimmy Lisdero, but he will really "pour it on" any enemy he meets.

Joe "Little Joe" Umphrey, genial carpenter foreman, celebrated his ?th birthday June 22. If he had revealed it sooner the gang would have had a real "pow-wow" of a party.

General Coupland Praises Workers For Help in Capturing Pantelleria

The following telegram was received June 18 by Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer, Elwood Ordnance Plant:

To the Men and Women of Elwood Ordnance Plant:

The island of Pantelleria surrendered June 11 following an intense aerial bombardment. This attack was begun June 1 with approximately 100 tons of bombs. The intensity was increased until a total of 3,500 tons had been dropped by June 11. The destructive effect of the explosives contained in these bombs so reduced the defenses and morale of the island garrison that surrender was inevitable. The Army Air Forces recognize the excellence of the explosives produced through your efforts and send commendation herewith to the men and women whose faithful work made possible this devastating vertical attack and helped to bring about so significant a victory.

Brig. Gen. R. C. Coupland,
U. S. Army Air Ordnance Officer.

Group One Girls Set Opening Pace

Group 1's outstanding girls' team of 1942 started out strong this season with two shut-outs credited to the pitching of Betty Ford. In the first game this well-coached team won from Group 4 by 20 to 0 and the following week from Group 8 by 11 to 0.

All girls' games are played on Mondays and Thursdays. Delays due to rain have caused a revamping of schedules. The Group 1 vs. Group 8 box score follows:

ELWOOD ON PARADE

BONDING ACCESSORIES for safety installations where high explosives are handled are inspected here by Russell H. Sweeney, general foreman of maintenance (left) and George W. Johnson, foreman of bonding section.

MOTOR ASSEMBLING is a task calling for great skill and experience. This is one of the jobs done in the Electric Shop in Group 70 and Charles W. Jansen is shown here at such an assignment for one of the loading groups.

WINDING a motor is the job being done by Carlos Richards.

PORTABLE HAND LAMPS are called upon for frequent service at EOP. They are stored and serviced at the Electric Shop. Here Harold Antonio is shown watering wet cell hand lamps, while big beam lamps are being charged at the left.

VACUUM hoses are grounded with wire by John Hanuski.

TAKING motor out of electric drying oven is Clarence Mascal.

STATIC electricity in belts is checked by Richard L. Sweeney.

TIME CLOCKS used throughout the EOP area are cleaned and adjusted at regular intervals by Leopold L. Skokan. There are 80 in use.

MOTOR PINION is gauged, a painstaking operation, by Norman Keck (left) and Ivan Sippel on one of the busy work benches in the Electric Shop.

PORTABLE GENERATING plants receive regular overhauling to be certain they will operate when needed. Joseph E. Farrell is shown with four.

General Hardy Long Identified With Ordnance

Is Now Chief of Ammunition Branch, Industrial Division

Brigadier General Rosswell Eric Hardy was born at Troy, New York, December 18, 1893. He was graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in 1914 with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering. On August 15, 1917, General Hardy was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Infantry Reserve.

He was commissioned a second lieutenant of Infantry in the Regular Army on October 26, 1917, and promoted to first lieutenant (temporary) the same date; to first lieutenant (permanent) October 16, 1918; to captain (temporary) to date from September 18, 1918; to captain (permanent) on July 1, 1920; to major on August 1, 1935; to lieutenant colonel on August 18, 1940; to colonel (temporary) on December 24, 1941; and to brigadier general (temporary) on May 24, 1942.

General Hardy was assigned to the 44th Infantry at Camp Lewis, Washington, after being commissioned and served with that regiment and with the 76th Infantry at Camp Lewis until January, 1919, when he went to Fort Benning, Georgia, to enter the Infantry School of Arms. He completed the course there in September, 1919, and was enrolled at the Ordnance School of Technology at Watertown Arsenal, Massachusetts. Upon graduation there in July, 1920, he entered the Ordnance School of Application at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, and was graduated in June, 1921.

General Hardy was then assigned to Watervliet Arsenal, New York, and in February, 1923, he went to New York City for duty in the Ordnance District there. He was transferred from Infantry to the Ordnance Department on February 26, 1923. In August, 1923, he became Assistant District Chief of the Buffalo Ordnance District at Watervliet Arsenal with additional duties with the Organized Reserves of the Second Corps Area.

In March, 1928, General Hardy was assigned to duty with the Organized Reserves of the Third Corps Area with headquarters at Baltimore, Md. He moved to the Office of Chief of Ordnance in May, 1929, and in August, 1932, entered the School of Business Administration at Harvard University. He was awarded the degree of Master of Business Administration in 1934, and in August, 1934, he went to the University of Michigan as Professor of Military Science and Tactics.

General Hardy entered the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., in September, 1938, and was graduated in May, 1939, remaining at the school as an instructor until July, 1939. He was then assigned to the Indiana Arsenal at Charlestown, Ind. In July, 1940, he became Constructing Quartermaster of the Indiana Ordnance Works at Charlestown and in September, 1940, became Commanding Officer of that plant. In November, 1940, he became also Commanding Officer and Constructing Quartermaster of the Hoosier Ordnance Plant in Charlestown, Ind.

In December, 1941, General Hardy became Deputy District Chief of the St. Louis, Mo., Ordnance District. In June, 1942, General Hardy was assigned to the Office of Chief of Ordnance in Washington, as Chief of the Ammunition Branch, Industrial Division.

EOP'S Millions Will Speed Victory

BRIGADIER GENERAL ROSSWELL ERIC HARDY

"HEARTIEST congratulations to the men and women of Elwood Ordnance Plant on the second anniversary of the operation of your first loading line. The tremendous performance at Elwood has surpassed the promise which was given by the speedy construction of that first line in seven months and twenty-five days. The hundred million units you have already loaded and those you will load in the future will speed the day of victory over the Axis."

—Brig. General R. E. Hardy.

Army Leaders Send Anniversary Tributes

Second anniversary of the first shell loaded at EOP was observed here by an exchange of telegrams between Major General L. H. Campbell, Jr., Chief of Ordnance; Brigadier General R. E. Hardy, Chief of Ammunitions Branch, Industrial Division; Col. T. C. Gerber, Field Director of Ammunition Plants, St. Louis, and Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter.

"On behalf of all associates of Army Ordnance," wired General Campbell, "I send congratulations to you and all employees at Elwood Ordnance Plant upon the completion of the second year of operation. Elwood is contributing greatly to the success of Ordnance in bringing victory."

"We of Elwood Ordnance Plant," said Mr. Smith's response, "are deeply moved by your kindly recognition of our two years of effort for Ordnance and victory. We pledge to you our great Chief of Ordnance a continuance of these efforts as you may direct."

General Hardy's statement is published underneath his picture on this page. Colonel Gerber's statement follows:

"On the eve of the second anniversary of the commencement of operations at the Elwood Ordnance Plant, the entire personnel of this office joins me in congratulating you and the men and women of the Elwood Ordnance Plant on the splendid contribution to the war effort accomplished by your plant since its inception."

Haber Is Promoted To Lieutenant Colonel

Promotion of Major Kenneth M. Haber, former commanding officer here, to be a lieutenant colonel has been announced. Colonel Haber is now commanding officer of the Kansas Ordnance Plant at Parsons, Kan.

General Aurand is Visitor to Plant

(Picture on Page 8)

High ranking Army officers were guests of Sanderson & Porter executives at a luncheon in the Cafeteria June 29 when a visit of Major General H. S. Aurand, commanding general of the Sixth Service Command, Chicago, coincided with the trips of other Army leaders.

General Aurand was accompanied by his aide, Major W. M. Dewey, and they made a general inspection of the plant.

Also here for conferences with various departments were Col. F. H. Miles, Jr., and Col. Thomas F. Brown, of the Safety & Security Branch, Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Chicago, and Don M. Compton, special representative of the Chief of Ordnance.

EOP executives attending the luncheon were Lt. Colonel Byron Rife, Major George A. Grant, Harrison Smith, W. E. Canniff, A. E. Frosch, E. J. Walsh and T. M. Burns.

EOP Needs Men, Women Workers Now

Applicants Asked To See Nearest U. S. Employment Office

Information released by Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer, regarding employment at Elwood Ordnance Plant, is of interest to all persons of working age in the area surrounding the plant.

"There is a shortage of production workers," Colonel Rife said. "The need for additional workers is being brought about by loss of men to the armed forces, by men and women returning to the farms and by migrating to new industrial plants in this territory. Work in the munitions plant affords an opportunity for many able-bodied persons, regardless of age, color, sex or creed, to perform a patriotic duty by getting into war production vitally needed by the men who are to serve in the front lines."

According to George F. Bent, EOP personnel director, Elwood will lose approximately 800 men to the armed forces in the next six months. Many of these men will be replaced by women, and, based on past experience, the majority of them will be housewives.

Percentage of Women Grows

Already slightly less than 50 per cent of the total number of employees at Elwood Ordnance Plant are women. In the coming months this percentage will be largely increased. Working conditions at Elwood are considered to be ideal for women. Sanitation and lighting conditions are excellent. The type of work to be performed by women is quite varied, and all of it is interesting. Much of the work in the Fuze and Booster assembly lines is light and can be performed without great physical exertion. Labor-saving devices in the shell and bomb lines have so simplified the work that women are finding no difficulty whatever in performing it.

For work at the plant new applicants are urged to apply to their nearest United States Employment Service Office. Persons who formerly worked here may also apply to their United States Employment Service Office or to the plant employment office direct.

Present "A" Books Expire July 21

Applications for renewal of "A" gasoline books should be sent to the applicants' local rationing boards as soon as possible as the present "A" books expire July 21. After the form for renewal is properly filled out, it should be returned together with the back cover of the present book, showing applicant's signature and tire inspection record, to the local rationing board. Motorists should keep the front cover of the present books for identification purposes.

"Withholding" Simply a New Way

The "pay-as-you-go" withholding tax, being deducted from wages beginning with paychecks for the first period in July, is not an additional tax but a new way of paying taxes. The amount withheld is not 20 per cent of the total wage, but approximately 20 per cent of the portion in excess of exemptions. Workers who understand this will know that they can continue or increase their war bond purchases under the payroll savings plan.

Only the way the tax is paid is new, not the tax. It is the old annual income tax plus the Victory tax, and is not in addition to these. Instead of being paid in a lump sum or in four quarterly installments on earnings of the previous year, the tax is withheld from income as it is earned in the same way payments are made for social security.

The exemption for single persons is $624 a year. For married persons it is $1,248, and $312 for each dependent. On a weekly basis, this is $12 for a single person, $24 for a married person, and $6 for each dependent. These amounts are subtracted from the wage, and it is 20 per cent of the remainder that is withheld. In some cases the amount deducted may be as low as one per cent of the total wage.

For example, a married man with two children who makes $30 a week will be taxed at the source about 70 cents, less than the cost of five packs of cigarettes. His total Federal income tax may average less than three per cent of his wages.

For some people the amount withheld from the pay envelope will be slightly more than enough to pay the tax due. In these cases arrangements are made for a credit later. Some higher-paid employees will owe a few dollars more than the amount withheld, and they will pay the difference later. Also, under the new tax law a tag-end of the old "1942" income tax is left—an amount equal to one-eighth of it will be due in 1944 and another one-eighth in 1945.

"Oh, John, we got a raise of 5 cents an hour!"

The Burning Pit

By Scorchy

In the course of my deeper thinking during recent weeks, there has come to the fore the possibility of establishing good old EOP as a civic community with all the governmental appurtenances that attach to other thriving population centers in this neck of the woods. Many other villages have far fewer qualifications, and some respond only feebly to the obligations imposed on the citizenry in the interests of better government, and less of it.

Your scribe recognizes his idea is a bit visionary what with all the War Department regulations and all that kind of stuff, but you can't blame him for thinking, can you?

Now to get down to some real brass tacks (priority, please) here we have in our midst a lot of people possessing the usual divergence of opinion on almost any subject. They are all individually sure that their way of doing things is far superior to all others, and in many other ways can qualify for citizenship in the average American community.

Now suppose we transform the group into an incorporated village and proceed to establish among our midst some formal, not to mention popular, government. Both sides will concede the formalities of election with all the campaigning, speeches, and other politically effective persuasion. And now let's imagine the shouting is all over, the populace has marched to the polls to exercise that great American privilege of the ballot, and as the smoke of battle subsides, we awake to reckon with the roster of government officials within our imaginary municipality as it shall prevail until the next time each and every one of us marches to the voting booth, etc., etc.

As I scan the roster, I find Donald Watchorn, head of the Sewer Department, has been elected Keeper of Privy Seal; down further one finds the name of John O'Connell as Town Jailer—elected, we presume, because he has done time before—(it's a downright McShame that gags like that are permitted to be aired in public). Andrew Balston is Mayor because of his independence—every time anyone propositions him, he checks back with "Inerts to you, Big Boy"—That's the kind of heman we want running our show around here.

A. M. Lockwood was elected Commissioner of Public Safety because, with him in that office, law-breakers would realize the (f)utility of trying to get away with anything. Bill Buck, of the Telephone Department, being a man of your word, is henceforth Recording Secretary. Don't give your right name.

Well, from the above, you get the general idea. Now all we need is a new city hall, a jail, a nice municipal insane asylum (this can be an annex to the Administration Building), and a home for aged and indigent newspaper reporters.

Myself

I have to live with myself, and so
I want to be fit for myself to know
I want to be able, as days go by
Always to look myself straight in the eye;
I don't want to stand, with the setting sun,
And hate myself for the things I've done;
I want to go with my head erect,
I want to deserve all men's respect;
For here in the struggle for fame and pelf
I want to be able to like myself,
I don't want to look at myself and know
That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.
I never can hide myself from me,
I see what others may never see,
I know what others may never know,
I never can fool myself and so
Whatever happens, I want to be Self-respecting and conscious free.

—Ida Moers, Group 5.

I have written . . . a poem!

To Be or Not to Be

I think that I shall never see
A typewriter on which I can hit each key
The very way it should be tapped,
Myself I just cannot adapt.
I'm out of school nigh on eight year
And then my lessons, ah yes, were clear;
But now I seem to visualize
That I was camouflaging a disguise.

If my typing teacher could only see
The touch type method that she taught me
I'm sure she'd look at me and say,
"Just another half hour after school today
And each day, dear, for another week
If the business world you choose to seek."
"Get a firm and even touch," she said
As out of the rule book to me she read.
Over and over she did stress
That very sentence—to me impress,
And oh, I learned it and knew I was best
Of all the kids that took the test.

I loved my typewriter, I loved each key,
It really meant the world to me;
I liked that test with the a, s, d's,
I liked to sit and tap the keys.
I did then and I like to yet
But the touch type method I did forget.

A typist is a girl like me
With a peculiar individuality,
But this doesn't cause me great alarm;
'Though I still can't recover that touch type charm.
Typists are mostly girls like me,
Experts are either to be or not to be.

Our Precious Freedom

This freedom, our forefathers purchased so dearly,
We value more highly than money or fame.
Shall we who have tasted the glory of freedom
Submit to be chattels of despots in shame?

We pledge, for the sake of the people who love us,
We will never be chattels of despots at all.
With the help from the powers in Heaven above us,
We will stand by our colors and watch despots fall.

We pity the nations that gave up in terror.
They were swept by the purge and their people made slaves.
Their daughters were helpless with desperate captors.
Their sons danced the goose step and dug their own graves.

There is room on this planet to give each one comfort,
But none for the tyrant with covetous greed.
The crimes of nations, their wars and their slaughters
Come only when people take more than they need.

While millions now suffer and die for our freedom
They depend on the lifeline far over the seas.
We have pledged them our all; we have backed up their efforts.
Shall we who are home think of comfort and ease?

There are enemies here who would slow up production,
They could not stab harder as traitor or spy,
We give them due warning, whenever discovered,
"Go back to your people, and fight there and die!"

Vacation Days

I'm tired of bucking the bitter winds,
I'm weary of rain and cold,
I hate to get out for my daily bout
With the rest of you fellows so bold.
I want to awake at the crack of dawn
Beneath a fragrant pine,
To bathe in a stream that's all a-gleam
To feel a trout on my line.

There's no other song like that of a reel,
No thrill like the one you get
When a fightin' trout is put to rout,
And you bring him to gaff or net.
But first there's a war I must support
So I'll take it out in wishin',
I'll keep inspectin' from day to day
'Til vacation let's me go fishin'.

Shells from EOP

We are on duty tonight, here at EOP,
Making shells and bombs for our boys at sea.
So don't worry, my pals, we will get them there
So you will have plenty to muss up their hair.

Don't use them sparingly, we have more,
Bombs, mines and shells galore.
Take them up and drop them down
On Tojo's head and each Jap town.

On land, in the air, on our ships at sea,
We'll send you shells from EOP.
We're working here night and day,
To bring peace and liberty to the world some day.

—Russell Nash, Guard.

Interlude

The sun beat down from the sky above,
The air was thick with shot and shell,
In a foxhole deep in Africa
Sat a soldier alone in a desert hell.

But wait—he's not alone—he has company,
Though the newcomer's face is white,
And his uniform's different—faded and worn,
Yes, he's a soldier all right!

"Say, who are you, Bud?" the soldier asked,
"I ain't seen your outfit before,"
A quiet voice answered, "I guess not son,
I'm the unknown soldier of the first World War."

"I rest in many a hallowed grave,
A composite of millions of men.
We gave our lives that you might live
That all cursed wars might end."

"We thought we had done the job up right,
But I guess we fought in vain,
Else why are you here in this hellish hole
Fighting for freedom again?"

"That's O.K. Buddy," the soldier replied.
"You did your part alright,
But a couple of bums want to rule the world
With their phony power and might."

"We're only finishing the job you began,
What you did was swell, yes sir-ee,
But we ain't quitting till we've got 'em licked,
You know—a grade A Victory!"

The white face showed a shadowy smile,
A shell screamed high over head,
The quiet words came like the voice of God,
"You'll win this time, Son," he said.

Production Planning

MARY McGOVERN

Dorothy Maxwell returned to work with the lovliest sun-tan ever. Dorothy spent a vacation at Cedar Lake, Mich., and at home.

Those now vacationing are Dorothy Mihelic, Margaret Bruce, who is spending the time in Chicago; Lucille Brown, who is going to stay at home and like it; Mae Norem, who is treating her little brother to a trip East to Boston—while there she plans to contact a former Production Planner, Irene Blatnik; Frances Mores, who says she has planned nothing definite as yet, and Frank Folwell, who planned a boat trip around Chicago and Michigan.

Evelyn Dix enjoyed a one-day vacation trying to crowd a good time in before she had a tonsil operation.

Charlotte Matheny is leaving to join her husband who has been attending Officer's Training School.

Roland Oertel, former Group 3-A production progress clerk, is now stationed at the University of Georgia.

Geraldine Weir has received news that her husband will graduate soon from Great Lakes Training School.

Clayton Craig and his four brothers made up a fairly good basket-ball team.

Fred Legris is coaching Elva Thomas on how to care for her tomato plants, which have increased from four to six.

Jake Debri spent July 4 fishing, while Frank Weston went to Decatur where his wife is now employed.

Pete Conroy has returned greatly rested from a very nice vacation.

Leslie Wilson a short time ago lost his way from Coal City to Joliet while driving for some friends.

George Sangmiester will introduce Capt. Paul D. Cooper, public relations officer, to the Frankfort Lions Club the evening of July 20.

Tom Nugent is suffering from hayfever.

Lou Miner has John Donahue bending over the pool table now.

Paul Somerville, progress clerk, Group 3, has been transferred elsewhere and all wish him the best of luck. John Williamson has joined the ranks of the inventory clerks, while Clifford Fisher is now working in the Administration Building.

Frances O'Keefe and Mary Bertino are enjoying vacations at the present time.

Q. How much does it cost to train a soldier 12 months?

A. The War Department estimates the cost for 12 months of full-time training for a soldier in the U. S. Army is between $1,500 and $2,000—the difference in cost is largely the difference between training a foot soldier and a mechanized soldier, the latter being costlier.

Officer Changes At EOP and KNK Are Announced

Capt. Hardy Moved To Field Director's Office in St. Louis

Announcement of changes in the staffs of officers at EOP and KNK made today by Lt. Colonel Byron Rife, Commanding Officer.

Maj. Wallace G. Anderson, formerly Public Relations and Military Intelligence Officer at Kankakee Ordnance Works has been assigned to duty with the Air Service Command at Brookley Field, Mobile, Ala. Major Anderson, whose home is in Milwaukee, Wis., received his education at George Washington University and Yale University, graduating from Yale in 1929 with a Ph. D. Degree. A Field Artillery Officer, he was transferred to Military Intelligence in 1938. Before coming to Kankakee Ordnance Works in December, 1941, he served at Savanna Ordnance Depot and in Intelligence with the Chief, Chemical Warfare Service, in Washington.

His duties at Kankakee Ordnance Works have been assumed by Capt. Paul D. Cooper, Public Relations and Intelligence Officer at Elwood Ordnance Plant, who will henceforth handle both plants.

Capt. Woodrow T. Trotter, Corps of Engineers, has been named as Executive Assistant to Maj. Clifford J. Kohler, Area Engineer of Kankakee Ordnance Works, to fill the vacancy by the departure of Lt. Donald W. Mewhinney, who was recently transferred to the Chicago Aircraft Assembly Plant. Captain Trotter, a resident of Gary, Indiana, occupies a similar post at the Gary Armor Plate Plant. He will divide his duties between the two facilities.

A graduate in 1941 of Boston University with a Bachelor of Science Degree in business administration, the Captain has also had assignments at Elwood Ordnance Plant and at the District Office of the Corps of Engineers in Chicago. His original assignment was at Fort Adams in Newport, Rhode Island. In civil life Captain Trotter was associated with the Scovill Manufacturing Company, a brass concern. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and was elected to membership of the Scabbard and Blade, honorary military society, while at Boston University.

Capt. J. A. Hardy, Chief of Operations and Transportation at Elwood Ordnance Plant, has been transferred to the Office of the Field Director of Ammunition Plants in St. Louis, Missouri. A graduate of Dartmouth with a B.Sc. Degree, the Captain also attended Thayer School of Civil Engineering and Columbia School of Mines. In civil life he served as an executive engineer in hydro-electric power plants and worked on paper mill engineering projects. He served at Elwood Ordnance Plant since July 22, 1942.

Morale of EOP Workers Praised By War Leaders

Employees Committees, Recreational Activities Cited as Co-operation

Major General L. H. Campbell, Jr., Chief of Ordnance, Army Service Forces, recently praised worker morale in Ordnance arsenals, plants, depots and training centers as the most noteworthy feature of the Ordnance Department's 131st anniversary year.

Special greetings were received by Lt. Colonel Byron Rife, Commanding Officer of the Elwood Ordnance Plant and the Kankakee Ordnance Works.

Natural reactions to the war contribute one of the greatest factors in keeping morale high. Workers in a war plant such as these have a direct contact with the man at the front. They are the ones that supply him with fighting equipment. The worker's willingness to participate actively in winning this war is motivated by the self-satisfaction received when they have done their job well.

Colonel Rife stated that the cardinal point in keeping morale high is to maintain agreeable and pleasant working conditions for the worker, and the management of the Elwood Ordnance Plant and the Kankakee Ordnance Works are constantly concerning themselves with these problems.

Recreational activities such as bowling, athletic contests of all types, Victory gardens, dances and picnics are all part of the morale building program instituted by these plants. Employees' committees are in close liaison with managing executives to assure the worker complete cooperation.

Plans such as these are in direct accord with General Campbell's stratagem to be used by the Ordnance Department during the present global war.

Without the willingness-to-work-and-win attitude of the Ordnance Workers, the Army Ordnance could never have succeeded in becoming what it is today—a modern, hard hitting, streamlined organization that gets things done quickly, efficiently and without accent on red tape.

"Nothing in this world," General Campbell said, "has ever been accomplished that is truly great without enthusiasm — without morale, without the will to win."

To the Ordnance workers at the Elwood Ordnance Plant and the Kankakee Ordnance Works General Campbell expressed his deep appreciation of "your help, your loyalty and assistance."

Colonel Rife announced that Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson also commented on the excellence of the Ordnance Works morale, stating that "in no single instance was there any basic fault in the weapons that our troops used in North Africa."

Mr. Patterson asserted that when he first became well acquainted with the Ordnance Department in 1940, at which time rearmament began, and there was such an urgent need for weapons and equipment—the Ordnance Department was found ready. Army Ordnance knew what it wanted and there was no indecision as to what type of weapons would be best.

Ordnance workers also received a message from Lt. General Brehon Somervell, Chief of Army Service Forces. He was equally complimentary anent Ordnance military and civilian morale.

"The Industry-Ordnance team," General Somervell said, "has accomplished miracles in this war. You have a right to be proud of that record. You have not only produced the weapons that the Army is using, but you are servicing them all over the globe."

Colonel Rife indicated that men and women living in the communities surrounding war plants still have an opportunity to participate in producing these vital weapons so necessary for the successful operation of the Armed Forces.

The Elwood Ordnance Plant and the Kankakee Ordnance Works are constantly approving employment of qualified workers to assist in consummating this most essential task.

A training school for women recently organized at the Elwood Ordnance Plant, affords women an opportunity to acquaint themselves better with the particular job at hand and gives them a greater perspective as to the accomplishments of Ordnance workers in the war effort.

Any person, not actively engaged in essential war work, should avail himself of the opportunity offered by these plants and become an integral part of this great Industry-Ordnance Team.

"Only last week I had the privilege of going through one of your unit training centers," General Somervell said, "and I was struck by the completeness and thoroughness with which the Ordnance training was carried on. It is a great organization and you are doing a fine job."

Another message of particular timeliness to Army Ordnance workers was received from Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, Chief of the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance.

Praising the past record of Ordnance workers, Admiral Blandy expressed the conviction that "we will go forward together, doing a better job than ever before, to provide the ordnance that will win, in the hands of our fighting forces, the greatest victory our nation has ever sought."

Q. My girl asked me to send her one of my shoulder patches; she plans to wear it on a sweater. Is that okay?

A. She can't wear it. Army Regulations prohibit the wearing of Army insignia or their replicas by unauthorized persons. They're restricted to Army personnel only.

OFFICE STAFF of the combined Sheet Metal and Blacksmith Shop consist of (right to left) Francis Feeney, Theodore Carson, John Gaffney and Supt. William M. Ryan.

Groups 4-9

Fuze-Booster-Primer and Detonator Lines

JUANITA HARTER
Correspondent

Group 4

William Whaley is back from a vacation, which he spent catching a boat full of fish.

Group 4 mourns the loss of Harry O'Connor, power-house fireman, who died suddenly July 6. He will be missed by all who knew him. Sympathy is extended to Mrs. O'Connor.

Jeddo Mees graduated from foremen's school and is very proud of himself.

A humorous incident is Lil Clyne trying to get a ride for Julie Schayer.

Paul Laird gave up teaching school to do his bit in war work and, boy, is he doing it!

Mert "Pack 'Em In" Fordyce is still looking for riders. Anyone interested just see Mert.

John Neely has been very generous and is buying milk for the boys lately.

Ann Knezevic enjoyed herself at the USO dance for the soldiers in Joliet.

Rex Brickley has decided not to go back to teaching school.

Many ask to what Kay Kelliher attributes those bruises on her legs?

Paint Shop—Group 5

Del Millican, foreman, has returned from a vacation trip up North.

Louise Wendt, forelady since the group started painting dividers, is doing alright.

The gold brick twins are Elva "Red" Beaumont and Orvetta "Barnie" Vogel.

Beatrice Henderson is the shop's "Miss America."

Bettie Bedore, pretty songstress, entertains regularly with songs and dancing.

Fern Anderson is the "no hurry" girl, but she always get there on time.

Marie Matthews is the newest member. Her giggle is most infectious and can be heard even when she is over by the fountain.

Janet Woodruff says she has heart trouble, and it probably comes from somewhere in the Pacific and not from the paint.

Irma Baker, "the lady of the Paint Shop," has a new granddaughter.

Mary Horn, little and dark haired, is recuperating from a tonsil operation.

Lennie "Scottie" Gross has trouble keeping a partner, and her blanket apron is adorable.

Esther Miller has a handsome brother at Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

Alvera Metzke is finished with the dentist.

Josephine Metz is a crack mathematician.

Vonnie Green took time off to visit Kentucky.

Group 5
By Cora Kay

June "Butch" Clapper will be leaving for Virginia in August. While there the wedding bells will ring for her and Marvin Burns, a soldier at Camp Pickett.

The girls from the Paint Shop and the clean-up gang enjoyed the Italian spaghetti that Mary Densmore brought for the pot-luck dinner.

Geneva Ouellette and Lena Colafello enjoyed a "Black Cow" for lunch one day last week.

All are glad that Dolly Muehler is getting on so well with her diet. She has lost eight pounds in less than two weeks. Anyone interested in a Liquid diet, see Dolly. She advises not to drink too much prune juice.

The clean-up girls wish their forelady, Jo Kastelec, would receive a letter from her sailor soon. They would like to see her smiling again.

Marge Csepregi received a hula outfit from her fiance in Hawaii.

The girls are wondering what the attraction is at the Jockey Club. Every time you walk in you see Mary Pribish with a million dollar smile.

Happy birthday was wished for Elsie Taylor, "linen room girl," July 6.

The girls wonder where all the fish Grace Stevens caught in Aurora, are.

Jerry Forgarty is welcomed from Group 9.

Ed Riley, assistant superintendent and foremen Bob Otte and Bert Clark are on vacation.

Group No. 5 is glad that they didn't lose their singing G-man, Dwight Warren, to the Army.

Everyone was glad to see Marcella Morton back on the job after her automobile accident.

Good wishes accompany Bessie Cox, Marie Baity, Margaret Mitchell and Helen Washington to Groups 4, 6 and 7 respectively.

The Women's Change House of Group 5 welcomes Hester Cheatcham, Marian Stevensen, Frida Davis and Armintia Jordan.

La Verne Dite, inspector, pulled a fast one on the gang. She was married July 3 to Irvin Button in Missouri.

Marion Bennett is now singing, "There'll be some changes made."

One of Dalton Daley's favorite dishes is good homemade spaghetti and meat balls. He's still a bachelor, you know.

Group 6

Harold Starr, foreman in 6-6, left for the Army Air Corps July 3. All were sorry to see "Hank" go, but know he'll make good in his new chosen field.

Alyce and Edythe Krzich and Bunny Reichardt spent the week-end in Davenport, Ia. It seems since Bunny has come back, she just doesn't care about jitterbugging any more. She'd rather do the old fashioned square dance.

Marge Cernugel is all smiles since her boyfriend is home on furlough.

The bright light that sparkles in LaVelle Parker's eyes may be due to wedding bells that are going to ring very soon.

Betty Palmer, forelady 6-4, is spending a vacation in Fond-du-lac, Wis.

All are glad to see Marge Zugel back at 6-4 after her recent illness.

Irene Cummins spent a week-end visiting her folks in Towanda, Ill.

Emily Wight entertained at a dinner party July 3 for her brother who is home on furlough from the Navy.

Edythe Krzich and Ivan Olson did a Russian dance so well one night many are afraid they are going to Hollywood.

The girls from the booster line enjoyed a wiener roast on the Island in Wilmington last week.

Bill Saffell is vacationing at his home in Ohio.

Norine Opel is back after spending some time with her folks in Decatur.

Group 6 bids good-bye to Marian Hollmeyer who left for the WACS.

Dorothy Connors looks wide awake lately, probably catching up on much needed sleep.

A card was received by the electricians from Glen E. Lamphere requesting that all his friends write to him. He is stationed at Camp Peary, Williamsburg, Va.

Group 8

The day after the "Walkerettes" played Group 9 Bill Strobel, umpire, and Mike Molnar, cheering section, were accused of being all-out for the other team.

In Group 8's game with Group 1, the "Walkerettes" lost, by a score of 6-0. Batteries for the Group 8 team were: Gomora and Dot Seno on the mound, with Stalzer behind the plate. Two hits each were chalked up for LaVerne Gomora and Eileen Woodcock. . . . The "Walkerettes" played Group 9 and lost by a score of 10-8. Batteries were Virginia Abraham and Seno, with high batting averages going to Dorothy Lehman and Olga Prebish.

Lucille Englert is back at work again.

Jimmy Davidson always whistles a catchy tune during the noon-time quiet in the head assembly lines.

George Arseneau can't find anyone to play checkers with him anymore, because he always wins.

Juanita Fishbaugh is suffering from a bad sunburn, obtained on vacation.

Bernice Altenbrunn gets a letter from Honolulu, Hawaii, every week—and the name is Russell.

SERVING as secretary of the staff of The Bomb-Shell is keeping Evelyn Vilt, formerly of the Comptroller's Office, exceedingly busy these sweltering days. Miss Vilt, a resident of Coal City, was in the Personnel Division, War Department, before transferring to Sanderson & Porter. A sister, Josephine Vilt, is secretary to Maj. George A. Grant, executive officer.

Eddie Foley says he won't be needing his alarm clock much longer because his roosters will soon be old enough to wake him up in the morning.

Those two dozen beautiful roses sent to Mary Majcina by her husband, Cpl. Eddie Majcina, are something to smile about.

Lois Peterson says that the trains going somewhere, go awfully slow, but they always seem to want to get back, in a hurry! She can't understand it.

Group 9

Elizabeth Lyman and Eleanor Bortkewicz of the hard-working clean-up gang of Group 9 make the first aid station there a bright spot with their diligent cleaning.

Eddie Burns' three-week-old son, Terrance Michael, has a tooth already. He's really a super-baby.

Dolly Matia received a beautiful ring from Ernie Wilson.

Eleanor Hoagland has a sunburn that is a sunburn.

Mitzi Evetz spent her birthday with her boyfriend from Chanute Field.

Group 45
By Ruby Frederick

Mary Wright spent an enjoyable Fourth of July week-end in Elkhart, Ind., visiting relatives and friends.

Group 45 extends deepest sympathy to Alice Meadows whose mother died last week.

Tillie Watson has certainly been working under handicaps, with boils, sore throat and more boils.

Group 45 welcome Beatrice "Dode" Posner and Irene Mulligan, formerly of Group 7, to the salvage department.

Mary Lampman promises to be more careful crossing bridges hereafter.

There's no question about who is the luckiest girl at 45 as Alice Jones is way ahead of the rest.

Rilla Tallman doesn't appreciate her peach pie facial as given by Helen Fritz.

Mildred Doyle has a proud look on her face these days as her son, Frank, Jr., became a marine July 12.

B. McQuerry is spending a vacation in Excelsior Springs, Mo.

Joe Carter spent July 4 fishing, reporting nothing less than 12 inches.

Ben Gavin has returned to work after attending the funeral of his aunt.

George Peacher, better known as "Peaches," has new potatoes and ripe tomatoes in his Victory garden.

Earl Hays had a birthday this week.

Joe Belom is having a great time in his garden fighting potato bugs.

Bob Morris is thinking about taking a train for Washington.

Sun glasses are repaired by Bill Blonske.

High Explosives

MARJORIE HOWERTON
Correspondent

Bea Bovee took the place as correspondent of Marjorie Howerton, who is on vacation.

The crisis in the High Explosives office is past and usual activities have been resumed. The shortage of White Owl cigars threatened, for a time, it's smooth functioning but the situation was masterfully handled by such scouts as E. G. McAloon, I. Bovee, and Al Augustine.

Many fish tales have been emanating from Group 66—the evidence is hereby demanded and already fried.

The vacation of St. Elmo "Kansas" Stewart, superintendent of Group 66-A, was interrupted by an emergency operation at Silver Cross Hospital. Sympathy and best wishes for a quick recovery are sent by all.

Group 63
By Larry J. Dunda

La Verne Lyons of Channahon and Group 63 left July 10 as the group's latest contribution to the armed services.

An exciting tomato plant contest is on between two rival factions. One favors the use of sticks in supporting the plants and is headed by the two "countrymen," Charles "Chuck" Di Peso and Tony Toglitti, together with Sgt. Carl Tock. The opposing side, headed by such outstanding farm experts as Joe Umphrey, Ray "Luther Burbank" Offerman and Chris Ciluffo, is shaping up as quite an attraction at 63. The proving-ground for the experiment is the tomato patch near the well and the judges named, after due investigation of integrity and fair play, are Ed La Rocque, Rex Thomas, Frank Stevens and Tony Zuppa, with Mr. Bovee to cast the deciding vote in case of a tie. The tentative date for the judging is on or about August 1, if the plants come through by that time.

A triple birthday celebration was an added order of the day July 8 when Mr. Offerman's birthday (July 6), Mr. Thomas' and Bea Bovee's (on the same day, July 10) were observed at the noon-hour with cake, ice cream and soft drinks on the side. Decorations bordered on the gay side and everyone agreed it was a gala affair.

FOX hole maneuvers have been keeping T/Sgt. Arthur Menning, formerly of Group 6, busy near Nashville, Tenn.

Fulton "Foley" Edmonds claims the motor-scooter operated in the group still hasn't licked him, despite the bucking-bronco tactics of the scooter, when the front wheel reared up at a mud puddle the other day, bruised the rider's left shin, but still didn't throw him.

Group 68
By Elmer Zost

Group 68 has reached an all time high with 102 employees—this figure includes drivers, helpers and some of A. J. MacLellan's ace inspectors.

Morris Flynn and Robert Broch wrote from New York that they are enjoying a vacation very much trying to hit all the night spots in and around Times Square.

But while some are on vacation others are very busy, namely, Dick Sabastian and Raymond Luellen who are making notoriously poor weather predictions and excuses for the bad showing displayed by the White Sox.

Don't forget! Russ Morgan and his orchestra are being featured by Elmer Zost and Frank Perino at their Ivy Way Gardens in Marseilles, Ill., July 17th.

The fellows who really know say that Harvey Watkins is God's gift to the girls.

Maybe Jim Nolan should try Crosby's horses.

Olive Bisping seems to have an appetite these days. There's a rumor she ate three dinners one day.

Many wonder what Elaine Trudeau will do if both of her heart-throbs come home on furlough at the same time.

J. Claude Heap is leaving soon for California and other points west.

Harl Son, load line safety supervisor, has sworn not to return Stu Moloney's girdle until he finds out exactly what was in that free lunch Moloney prepared.

Wieber on Swing Shift

Bob Wieber, safety engineer in Group 2, took over a swing shift assignment June 1 to cover all lines on days off for safety engineers who have Sunday jobs in the groups.

SON of Ray Trimby, EOP sheet metal worker, Pfc. Benjamin L. Trimby, now an aircraft inspector with a Ferrying Squadron overseas, also used to work at the Sheet Metal Shop here.

BROTHER of Johnny R. Williamson, head progress clerk in Group 3, Pfc. William R. Williamson, now at Camp Irwin, California, also worked here on road maintenance. A sister, Olive M. Williamson, formerly worked in Group 4.

Max Wolfson's wife was recently rushed from Wilmington to Chicago for an emergency operation. All are happy to learn that she is convalescing at Henrotin Hospital.

Edward E. McKinney, formerly of the Hospital, writes that he is located at Great Lakes in the Navy.

A welcome sign should have been hanging in the Administration Building Timekeeping office when Margaret Fitzhugh returned from her illness.

Rita Dwyer, of Expediting, is vacationing in St. Louis.

Edward Fitzer's son, Ray D. Fitzer of the U. S. Army, announced his engagement recently to Berniece Green, of Joliet.

John Gott, of the owl shift in Tabulating, spent a vacation outdoors enjoying the country air on a farm—the result was an honest-to-goodness tanning.

The cute little Irish gals of Auditing, Vi Donlan and Shirley Gersich, plan to spend their vacation, starting July 19, out west.

Max Waldvogel, of Labor Cost Accounting, has returned from vacation.

Wedding bells rang out for Hugh Thompson while on vacation. Jean Vance, of Dwight, was the lucky gal.

Bill Lanterman says his badge shows him 54 pounds ago . . . country air must agree with Bill.

H. Rostron, of Engineering, is vacationing in Philadelphia.

No kiddin' . . . the big ones did get away from Harl E. Son, Jr. on his recent fishing at Houghton, Mich. Understand the biggest game on his line was the bait.

Tex Jackson writes that he is up where he has not heard of anyone having gas trouble . . . Montreal, Canada does not bother with gasoline coupons.

Betty Kovach, of Auditing, has a lovely tan. She's getting to be quite a swimmer.

Helen Tusek, Ann Carboni, Ruth Hitchcock and Margaret Kay did some recreationing at Lake Geneva over the week-end.

Hats off to George Buttel, Sr., who has an exceptional record of attendance at work. . . . Only a snowstorm remembered by all kept him from his desk.

L. J. Sullivan, James Ryan, Sophie Mores and Ralph Piper joined Charles Reilly's department recently and moved bag and baggage into Room 49.

Anita Lambert's boy friend, Eddie Farrell, was home on furlough recently from Aberdeen Proving Ground and upon his return was transferred to Roanoke, Va. He was formerly of Group I.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Oldani and some friends had a picnic at Vanhorn Woods. Bill says he was all wet . . . fell into the water with his clothes on.

Betty Fedderson is substituting for Marjorie Lawhead, who is on vacation.

Morris, Ill., gained while EOP lost. . . . Bill Bishop went home on vacation . . . but will return.

H. H. Clark, chief expediter, was seen paying off a bet in a nearby cornfield Saturday noon, July 3. Due to the rain and slow growing season this spring, Mr. Clark figured his tall dimpled knees would still hover over the tallest corn by July 4. It is reported by witnesses that Earl Carroll may be looking for just such a shapely limb.

Bob Bailey, Purchasing, fished in the lake . . . to get the motor of his boat . . . Now he has sold the boat.

William Sullivan, Tabulating, found something that was very unpatriotic . . . name unknown, she tromped his 150 tomato plants. Bill certainly gave that long-faced heifer a name . . (censored) . . since she broke out of the barn.

Leon "Sandy" Saniford, formerly of C. J. Coburn's Department and of the Pine Bluff Arsenal, died at Silver Cross Hospital in Joliet June 30.

On vacation . . . destination unknown . . . are Earl Moline of the Stock Room, Ethel Connor, of Accounting, Clarence Warning, of Expediting, and George Prince of the Bond Department.

A party of 30 from the Administration Building attended the Yanks-White Sox game in Chicago July 8.

Esther Stevens went home for her vacation . . . Springfield. Rosemary Kane plans a vacation in Ohio. B. F. Nell may go to Wisconsin, if the trains are still running. E. S. Craik desires a few of those little perch from Lake Michigan. . . . Marilyn Rhodes plans on swimming every day in Crystal Lake. . . . Glenn Eastburn is just sawing wood . . . in his sleep . . . on vacation.

MILITARY police duties at Washington, D. C., are the assignment of Pfc. Edward J. Early, a former guard here and brother of Lola Early, secretary to E. O. Huey.

George Altstadt, Accounting, left for the Navy July 6. The Department presented him with a gift and all were sincerely sorry to see him leave. He has been with Sanderson & Porter since December, 1940.

E. V. "Farmer" Sperling is "going to town" . . . he is sporting a pair of ice cream pants so he must be letting his Victory garden go to grass.

Harry J. Carlin, of Engineering, says he had a free Fifth of July . . . free ride, free lunch but no free breakfast. He figures that was one time he got even for being free to go to the Army. He leaves July 26 for Camp Grant Reception Center, Engineering Corps, and will leave there for Camp Claibourne, La. The entire department attended a going-away party for him at Naperville June 8.

PERSONNEL DEPARTMENT MEMBERS gathered at the Woodruff Hotel July 7 to pay tribute to Robert Hamlin, former associate of the department, recently returned from Guadalcanal and the other South Pacific Islands where he fought with the Marines for several months.

John Platz, of Auditing, certainly has a brood . . . ninety and nine little chicks and one is named Susie.

Sympathy goes to Frances Rager, of Auditing, whose father died recently.

Being a great outdoor man has certainly improved the color of John Machias . . . such a beautiful tan on a likeable man.

Many want to know what Karl Ulrich plans to do with 18 rows of sweet corn.

Dale Montgomery, of the Field Engineers, is on vacation in the southern part of the state.

Katherine Johnson leaves July 19 on vacation and plans to take in the races and to attend a few ball games. She needs some pointers on how to have her team win every time.

Marion Shelley, Shirley Grassle, Hazel Koller and Bernadine Klausing went to Chicago one evening to see "Junior Miss." By the way, Marion just heard from her brother, Frank Richard "Zeke" Shelley, that he is overseas.

W. N. Simonds is moving from Elwood to Chicago. A long ride back and forth to work will obtain the fresh air of the country.

W. Rockrohr is certainly proud of his Victory garden at Elwood. Nothing could outshine his asparagus, he says. Now the spuds are predicted to outsize anything in the field of gardening. He talks about soy beans and doesn't forget the crops from the fruit trees. Laying all jokes aside, all are proud of Rocky's success in gardening, but he shouldn't brag when "Farmer" Sperling is around.

When your father is an undertaker you become accustomed to caskets in the funeral home. There is a miniature casket on the desk of Margaret Lonyo of Dwight. An inscription on the top says, "Use It Wisely" . . . which is difficult to interpret.

Helen Carey, who worked in Office Management at one time, is the new employee at the Mess Hall . . . she is the gorgeous brunette handling the cash register.

Many wonder if F. E. Whitney did any "woofing" when he barked his shins recently.

A. E. Kinson is in the market for crib fasteners. It seems he can't keep the covers on these nights and is afraid a breeze might "flu" over him.

The Purchasing Department had a picnic at Rivals Lodge Saturday afternoon, June 26. Miss Shelley took pictures which were the only flop of the day. . . . Jeanette Larsen beat Mr. Craik at wrestling. . . . Miss Johnson's baseball team beat V. L. Knudson's. . . . Miss Grassle and Miss Shelley jitterbugged . . . and Marion and S. P. Nyren harmonized. Mr. Knudson, champion of the day, was the only one who could throw crabapples into a glass. It was not reported if a contest was held to see who could spit seeds the farthest when they had watermelon down by the river.

Hugh Henderson is parting a vacation . . . part in June and part in July.

Floyd Stuka, formerly of the Mail Room, was a visitor July 6. Bill Ostermeier, formerly of Multilith, is also stationed at Farragut, Ia., in the Navy with Floyd.

Art Birsa bought an $8 pair of shoes (brown) when he planned to go to Chicago to join the Army. Imagine trying to outargue an officer when he wrote down "Navy" back of Art's name. Art says the Navy is grand even if they throw you into the water and say "sink or swim." He is stationed at Farragut, Ia., and visited his former department head, V. M. Dagenais, July 6.

Paul L. Deylitz, formerly superintendent of Group 61, is now industrial engineer and is located in Room 217, Administration Building.

Episodes of the Auditing Department—Mr. Coburn has been taught by experience not to go driving on a country road, smoking a cigar with his new straw hat lying on the rear seat. . . . Irene Mellinger is working after a very restful vacation at home. . . . Delores Kane is at present wearing African Campaign stripes. . . . Annemarie Kinney has two bruised knees, result of a taxi ride in Milwaukee July 4. . . . Hugh Henderson was seen in the Officer's Club at Great Lakes Training Station the Fourth of July week-end.

Q. Will the veterans of World War II be permitted to carry their Government insurance after the war? If so, for how long?

A. National Service Life Insurance is issued upon the 5-year level premium term plan, with the privilege of conversion to policies of ordinary life, 20-payment or 30-payment life insurance. The act provides that all 5-year level term policies shall terminate at the expiration of the term period. It is possible that Congress will have for consideration the renewal of this type of insurance as it has in the case of World War I veterans. If the 5-year term insurance is changed to one of the above specified policies the insurance will remain in effect as long as the premiums are paid.

Q. Is it improper to wash the American flag?

A. Absolutely not. It is no disrespect to wash or dry-clean an American flag. It is also proper to mend the flag when torn, unless it is in such bad condition that it would be a discredit to the owner if displayed.

Q. Who originated the Purple Heart decoration?

A. The Purple Heart, awarded to officers and enlisted men for meritorious service against an armed enemy, was created by Gen. George Washington as a decoration for his Revolutionary soldiers. The decoration was discontinued after the Revolution out of respect for Revolutionary soldiers to make it exclusive, but was revived after World War I and bestowed upon officers and enlisted men, wounded or gassed.

Group 60 Loses to Fuze & Booster

In the start of the first round of play of the EOP Girls' Softball League the Group 1 team defeated Group 8 by a score of 6 to 0 June 28. Betty Ford and Mary Elkins led the winners with three hits each.

Group 60 and Fuze & Booster put on a great slugging match July 1 showing the fans what the bats are made for. Fuze & Booster came out on the long end of the 17 to 16 score, pounding out 24 hits while Group 60 found the range for 14 hits. Barbara Greenwood, Fuze & Booster third baseman, had four hits in five times at bat.

In the final game of the day Group 8 defeated Group 9, 10 to 8 in a well played contest. Dotty Lehman was the batting star with two hits in two times at bat. Dorothy Eglin of Group 9 pitched a good game and got two hits in three times at bat.

Many broke down and cried when Joe Drazy left for the Army. The Fire Department can ill afford to lose such a sterling character. Joe's sunny smile, willing manner, and all-around good fellowship will be remembered. George Learned, Tony Doman and Ralph Batty will never smile again until their partner returns from the wars be-decked with medals.

The foregoing statement was prepared by Mr. Drazy. There is a note found on pamphlets issued by some brokerage houses and market analysts and it is reproduced here: "This information does not necessarily reflect our views on the subject, but comes to us from a usually reliable source. We do not, however, vouch for its authenticity."

Lovers of the classics should not miss Lt. Edwin D. Selle's description of his recent Army physical in Chicago.

Before Mr. Doman left for the Navy, he was regaled with the usual unsolicited and unheeded advice when he checked the chatter with "To heck with this starting at the bottom and working up! Why can't I enlist as an admiral and grab off a lieutenant commander's job on the way down?"

Wiley Bell has a beautiful lady tattooed on his shoulders and back. After a sun bath which evidently lasted as long as the North African campaign, strange things happened to the gorgeous bit of artistry. A casual glance at the lady disclosed that she had sprouted water bags under her eyes and water blisters on the knees.

The "Never Say Die" club has risen again. After a disastrous experience in fox-farming, the Fire Department has secured two new mascots. Chief Roy Mortenson kept manipulating until he finally obtained two pet raccoons. Their names have yet to be selected, but the first one to bite this writer will receive a dandy one, you can betcha. Fred Johnson, Donnie Jones, Don Barnett, Eddie Powell, Ralph Blake, Willie Hayes, Orville Milton, Eddie Randolph and Jim Kerwin each grabbed a hairpin and some tooth-picks and before you could say Ichabod Ickelheimer, living quarters were provided for the pets. The above crew sounds like a lotta helpers, but bear in mind that the boys made a lotta cage, coop, kennel, coon-house, menagerie, roost or whatever it is they put around pets to keep them from roaming.

Frankie Nolan has re-christened George Philip, Frank Goldenstein, Frank Keeley, Cal Gordon, Bert Benson, George Rogina, Len Anderson, Ed Koren and the rest of the boys at Station 3. Francis lovingly refers to them as Mandrake the Magician, and his 40 sleeves. Whenever flower seeds or paint are mentioned, Mr. Nolan pales, purples, reddens, gasps, gurgles and jumps into the Burning Pit to cool off.

Things move fast around the Fire Stations. The lads leave for the Army, the sweet-things of the Department fall in love with one schedule after another, and many pets are lost. Recently a strange dog attached itself to the Central Fire Station and Frank Scoma's name. Now whenever Chief Mortenson gently murmurs to Frank to come into the office for a friendly chat (pole-axes at two paces) in bounds the hound and plants a kiss on his honor's whiskers. This practice is exquisitely distasteful to the Chief and Scoma.

And the boys at Station 3 mourn the departure of their little playmate, a St. Bernard dog named "Adler." Adler was just like one of the boys, he bit everyone.

Station 2 was ably represented in Joliet the other night by Michael Ryan, fresh from Calumet City. Mr. Ryan's charming personality and genuine appreciation of life's finer pleasantries have enshrined him in the hearts of Tom Bretto, Vern Martin, Gerry Noyd, Frank Popstein, Vern McKimson, and the other fine gentlemen who form the flame fighting fraternity for the Administration and Fuse and Booster Areas.

Walt Panian officially became a member of the Armed forces July 6. Bill Dust beat him to it by three days. Both men are now on the usual furlough.

Loris "Candy" Hart, now a private in Uncle Sam's Army, is getting his basic training with the Engineers in Georgia.

Johnny Connelly has been doing a lot of struggling lately, trying to force petunias and other posies to sprout where only grass grew before, but he's getting the grounds about Central Fire Station to look like a squire's manor. As long as he doesn't have to haul sod, he never gets stuck in his work. It is being rumored that Johnny is going to play the part of the gravedigger in "Hamlet," if any producer needs him.

Sgt. Frank George intends to do a lot of fishin' while on vacation if he can find all the parts to his rod and reel.—In some strange manner he lost a few very important parts and so far will have to confine his fishing to the markets instead of his favorite haunts along the DuPage, Fox, Kankakee and Swanee rivers.

Charlie Kammerman recently has been seen looking into a mirror frequently, watching for any appreciable signs of old age, and hoping time will go backward.

Clyde Townsend, extinguisher service man de luxe, has returned from vacation . . . all expect the office to be filled with flowers (or asparagus) any day now.

Inspector Orval Riggs, Group 3, is on his way to master the art of welding—in the event he does any welding, he can stand-by himself.

James "Call me Governor" Small, spends most of his time trying to figure how to make a fortune quickly and without effort—perhaps some day the cards will fall his way.

Guards

GENE RYAN

Correspondent

C. J. Klafta is pinch-hitting as correspondent for Lt. Eugene Ryan who is vacationing for two weeks. Gene will spend the vacation as follows: paint his house, attend a few ball games and a day at Washington Park race track.

Lt. Cecil Johnson, Sgt. Albert Frankovich and Cpl. Roy Jaggers played host to the guards of Group 3-A on Capt. Thomas Murphy's shift June 26 at a party at the Kuntz estate on the Kankakee river. An elaborate array of food and refreshments was provided for and enjoyed by the guests. Former guards Leo Schroeder and E. Pattengale of Peotone attended. The highlight of the party was a speech given by Frank Kuntz. During the festivities the door prize was mislaid. There appears varied speculation as to time things broke up, but after all had departed Kuntz and Harry Wood returned to look for the door prize. Their joint statement issued the next day was, "Sighted prize, consumed same."

Group 3 lost one of its best liked and most efficient guards when Porter Cassaday resigned. All the workers and guards who knew "Cass" wish him the best of luck wherever he goes.

Capt. Walter L. Bayer is vacationing. He should have some good fish stories to tell when he gets back.

Lt. W. S. "Pete" McClellan took his family to the circus a few weeks ago. Who wanted to go . . . the lieutenant or the kiddies?

Former Dispatcher Carl Kornmeyer is now working for Uncle Sam. He would enjoy hearing from his friends at the EOP.

Frank Greene, who was stationed at the Personnel Building, left to accept employment with the Navy in the state of Washington.

Joseph Wolf has been promoted to dispatcher. He has returned from vacation and is putting in his spare time peeling epidermis, the result of too much exposure to the sun.

Sgt. Earl Goodknecht, in charge of equipment, has been promoted to lieutenant.

It is a most embarrassing moment to stay at the Guard House and relate the next morning a dream you seem to have had of a beautiful lady and a man in uniform waking you up, only to be told that it actually happened.

A short short story complete in this issue follows:

For weeks the halls in the Guard House had echoed the dull monotonous click of the hammer falling on an empty cylinder. In a monotone there was a repetition of the "one thousand one, one thousand two, one thousand three," the time which elapses between the appearance and disappearance of the silhouette target. Each morning, faithfully, the first 10 minutes were spent in the stockroom with a watchman's clock suspended from the wrist while the tried and true Colt No. 160, was held unwaveringly on an imaginary bullseye. Thus did Dispatcher Klafta prepare for the supreme test of his career.

Came the dawn of July 5, the day set aside for the celebration of the Nation's greatest event. Another great event is to take place for Klafta is to meet the deadly Lt. Eylar Brunskill on the field of honor (with a side bet of $2). Through rapid, timed and slow fire they go with Klafta building up a slight lead, although Brunskill clings tenaciously at his heels. Then, into the stretch, or rather the silhouette, they breeze. Here is where the hero met his Waterloo, for the steady arm of Brunskill (who, by the way, was free from perspiration) directed the entire 15 shells to the mark. The strain was more than human nature could bear, and Klafta fell down with only 11 hits. Final score—Lt. Brunskill 88.33, Dispatcher Klafta 80.62. Chief M. C. Baughman presented the winner with a bouquet of roses and the loser received razzberries.

With the Women

Gladys Koerner has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant. She has been in charge of the midnight shift for several months.

Twice H. Jones and his fellow officers have greeted the women guards with a snappy salute as they entered Group 3-A. To all of them the girls say "thank you."

Everyone loves a surprise. Bea McInerney received one last week. Her husband came home on furlough from Newfoundland. He has been stationed there with the Seabees for a year. She couldn't be blamed for being excited when she learned he had returned so unexpectedly.

Verla Chism Fisher has discontinued her duties as a woman guard in lieu of those of a housewife. Verla was one of the pioneers here and wherever she goes she knows that best wishes go with her.

Among those enjoying vacations are Luella Lipschutz, Margaret Cavolt, Delores Helmick and Grace Day. Due to gas rationing, all long trips were cancelled, but everyone reported enjoying themselves immensely.

Sarah Van Slyke's son, Earl, left for Shepherd Field, Texas.

Margaret Egan and Ruby Lantz have returned from vacations. Both of them say that they had a nice rest, but are glad to be back.

The department sympathizes with Lt. Koerner whose father died recently.

Mayona Nelson is fishing in Wisconsin. She hopes to solve the problem of meat rationing by proving that she is a real fisherman.

Bette Walters left the department to join her husband at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin.

Polly Morrow, Kay Koncor and Esther Martin spent July 4 at Fox Lake, Ill. They really took in the sights, in fact, Polly says that there wasn't a thing that they missed.

Material Warehouse

PAUL ROY

Correspondent

The Warehouse staff welcomes back Cpl. Frank Walsh, who has returned from 11½ months in the Army. His return is due to the 38 years age limit. Frank, before his induction into the service, was a material checker at Group 63 and Group 66-A. In the service he was with the Troop Transport Division of the Air Corps and spent 9½ months overseas.

Farewells were said to Jay A. Fold. "Bert," as he was better known by his fellow employees, left his job as a checker here to work for the Illinois Steel Co. in Joliet. He was employed here 2½ years, 24 months of which were spent as a timekeeper.

Summer is not here as yet according to Fred Nelson and Joseph Horrell, who still insist on wearing their vests. Some say Fred would still be wearing his overcoat had not his wife disposed of it recently.

Dyer Vaillancourt claims he is the best chicken raiser in Group 70 . . . that is from the platter to his plate.

Since Oscar Horn has returned from his vacation he is better known as "Oscar the Painter." According to a report, Oscar started to paint his house from the top down as most painters do, but as Oscar reached half way down one side he was forced to put the paint away. He already had too much paint for one side from the drippings of the top half.

Alexander Kravitz, material checker, has been transferred from the Richards Farm Warehouse to Group 70.

Fisherman Stephen "Cat" Felix spent July 4 week-end setting on the river bank trying to outsmart some poor little innocent fish. According to his reports he did catch some.

Thomas Martin, Irene Croxen, Francis Grinrod, Louis Parys and Fred Nelson are on vacation.

Deacon Otto Heap, the venerable sage of Kendall County, recently returned to work after a two weeks' sojourn on his county estate. He reports many interesting experiments conducted in his laboratory. He is crossing crows, seagulls and turkeys. His claim is that the seagulls and turkey add weight, while the crow portion makes a bird which covers a wide area eating the neighbors' grain.

At the present time Otto is nurse maid for 200 ducks. Lester, his pet duck, recently swallowed Otto's badge. A close watch is being kept of the eggs. Anyone finding Otto's badge in an egg is asked to return it to Group 27 and receive a reward.

Take Salt Tablets

Salt tablet dispensers throughout the Area will be serviced by the group safety engineers this spring and summer, it was announced. Workers are advised to take the tablets daily to replace the salt lost through perspiration.

Ordnance

HELEN McGINNIS
Correspondent

Peace and quiet reign once again . . . the good ol' Fourth of July is a thing of the past . . . and believe it or not . . . an inventory reveals that everyone reported back with all ten fingers . . . wonderful, ain't it? . . . Kay Cusick had a heck of a time . . . and to top it all off . . . appears with an up-sweep hair-do . . . but she was not satisfied with just having herself all duded up she had all the gals go along . . . take a look at Mary Dagon, Hazel Koller, Imogene Burroughs, Anamarie Schroeder and Dottie Herbst . . . They're all in an up-to too . . . sort of epidemic like.

Personnel bid good bye to four gals . . . Lee Sopher, Edna Eaton, Emma Shea and Virginia Willard. . . . Lee has gone back to good old home town Streator. Edna and Em are esconsced at KNK and Ginnie is thinking about joining hubby who is a lieutenant in the Army.

Suppose ya know by now that Mollie Baker, the rascal of teletype fame, is now the bride of Lt. Kenneth Scott . . . Mollie will be back after the honeymoon and all will be there to give out the glad hand for congratulations.

Janet Chapman's better half is in the Armed Forces and is stationed at Texas . . . Janet says she knew he would be sent there as she has inhibitions regarding the Panhandle state . . . but she probably will hie herself down that way come vacation.

Kay Rosenbaum of Johnny Welch's office was chatting exuberantly to a member of Payroll in line at the Mess Hall last week . . . many wonder if she still gets those letters from the soldier overseas???? . . . Haven't heard much about that lately . . . guess the carpet sweeper will have to start rolling over that way soon.

Bernece Carlson's boyfriend zooms over Joliet every once in awhile . . . she wishes he could toss her a message instead of having to depend upon the mail . . . maybe she could put an X on the roof of her house so he could find it.

"Killer" Koller had quite a vacation . . . she went to California and from all sections reports come through that she is in a desperate mood . . . for further details consult the killer-diller.

Got news of Mary Lou Schwartz via her swell boss, Jo Kush . . . she is living in Washington while husband, Bill, is stationed at Fort Lewis . . . she is working in the Transportation Department there.

Kay Reubart couldn't decide whether to take her pride and joy to the circus or not . . . your reporter sure wishes she could have gone . . . there is nothing like a circus to raise your morale . . . sorta makes you feel like a kid again and if you don't remember how that feels . . . brother you're getting old.

Miss Dagon plans to give croquet lessons any day now . . . according to witnesses she is quite a whiz . . . Vera Gussman had to take a back seat the other day when Mary took the mallets in hand. . . . It takes her forever to get her aim . . . but when she does . . . the first nine rows have to move back.

Mavis Emerson created quite a sensation in Kankakee the other night showing the Tommy Haigh's around the town . . . by the way didja know that Mrs. Haigh is becoming proficient on the values of mousetraps and mousers . . . course she has had quite a lot of help from Carmen Oldani . . . Between the two of them . . . the Haigh's almost lost their happy home.

Anne Kakara spent the week end in Chicago, seeing the sights and visiting friends.

Helen Harmon is running close competition with the mail man . . . she has quite a string of service men writing her . . . but haven't heard Helen say which one she enjoys the best . . . so-o- must still be Bill.

Certainly glad to hear Evelyn Vilt's charming voice over the editor's phone . . . She's a swell gal and besides she's pretty, too . . . but then when you look at sister Josephine, it isn't hard to understand.

Wish the conversation of the Kankakee auto could be recorded . . . what with the Dix sisters, Lois and Evelyn, Charlotte Matheny, Miss Emerson and Bea Peterson . . . bet there would be plenty of material for a column now and then . . . to add to the general confusion they have permitted Mr. Haigh to join 'em.

Danny Considine was showing a picture of his son the other day . . . it is sure a dandy and when the family can spare it The Bomb-Shell readers will get a break and see it too. . . . He's in the armed forces and is in Alaska. . . . Can't blame pappy for being proud of that.

Lois Ressler is vacationing and is going to spend most of it around home . . . course the big city of Chicago will get a whirl for a few days.

Johnny Odchodnicky was having a lot of fun with the chef at the Mess Hall . . . seems like the portions were a little out of line . . . Johnny has such a keen sense of humor that he can get every one smiling without even trying too hard. . . . Many wonder how the contest on raising babies is coming . . . Johnny and Phil Hahn haven't been loud in their plaudits of their offspring lately . . . don't believe it . . . they still think theirs is the best.

Flashes of the week from the lads at war . . . Jerry J. Russ is in Tampa, Fla. . . . Ray Marquardt and Mel Huston are at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Aberdeen, Md. . . . they all send greetings and hope to hear from the gals and guys here right soon.

Hospital

EVELYN RICHARDS
Correspondent

While vacationing in Evanston, Dorothy Lundin is to be guest speaker at a missionary meeting.

Ye ol' swimming hole saw Veronica Kelly diving into it frequently after work during hot weather.

Departing for a new position recently, Myrtle Burrus was given a lovely pearl necklace for remembrance by the Hospital staff.

Pvt. Robert Anderson, former ambulance driver, visited the Hospital when home on furlough. He is stationed at Aberdeen, Md.

Much counting of the days till July 11 occupied the mind of pretty Lorene Motto while awaiting vacation time.

The cake goes to Tom Moore who said he clips his eyebrows, because they curl into his eyes and interfere with his glasses.

Maurice Bremer's son was given a promotion recently. He is now S/Sgt. Gordon Bremer, meterologist, somewhere in Africa.

Dr. H. L. Schultz is sporting a new pair of maroon seat covers for his car.

While golfing Wallace Koepp was burned . . . could be the sun or his score . . . anyway he said that his sunburn is a lot better than his golf game.

A surprise was in store for Margaret Gregovich when she returned home from work. Yep! When she arrived her husband was home on furlough from (clap, clap, clap) Texas. It is understandable why she is on vacation now.

Esther Anderson was so enthralled eating chicken at a Sunday School picnic that she was not aware of the ice cubes down her back.

Good-natured Nellie Lazio is going around with bangs these days. Yep, it's a new hair-do, she's trying—and a nifty one at that.

Elsie Robert's frequent trips to Chicago may be due to her interest in her interior decorating and gift shop.

COMFORTABLE LIVING ROOM is part of the residence of Mrs. Robert G. Jordan in the Federal Housing Project at Wilmington.

Marjorie Hartong's Victory garden is giving good results. She has harvested six pounds of luscious peas from it already. Lettuce was another successful crop.

June Hull is having difficulties arranging a picnic . . . the drawback is rain no matter where they go.

No slapping of Dorothy Schoop's back is permitted. The reason is plain and simple — rare back — caused by picking currants in a blistering sun.

Farmerette Elizabeth Russell reports her Victory garden has been ravished by bugs of all kinds —even the soil is disappearing.

Drawin' Ozoro Blanchard is an old hand at cooking southern fried potatoes.

Dr. Jim Madura, the magician, attempted to remove developer stains from a uniform. He put on one solution—nothing happened—the second solution was dabbed on cautiously. Immediately the material turned orange. A third solution was put on and it turned black. By this time the nurse was a bit disturbed by the procedure and then R. R. Sidell came to the rescue—with another bit of black magic and presto—it turned white again.

When bigger and better stories are told Melvin Dugan will tell 'em. He is relaxing at Hines Hospital while the poor medicos labor to reduce his waist line from a stylish-stout 42 to a fashionable 40. He admits the process will prove an asset. . . . Kermitt Long's natural suntan is the envy of the girls. He says Victory gardening is responsible, but nearly everyone knows fishing is a wonderful pastime.

William "Pete" Peterson's contribution to the "Laboratory Journal" is a timely message—"Get rid of those yellow devils and goose stepping rats double quick." . . . Paul Smith's inevitable Robert Burns "cigarillo" has been scenting Rooms 1, 2 and 3 of the Administration Building for quite a spell. The only person who could possibly enjoy the aroma is Linnetta Parry and she's lost her sense of smell. . . . An important appointment can keep any man waiting for any length of time, but how can Clara Brennan keep her husband waiting an hour and a half at Walgreen's corner? Smiling Lois Dix was welcomed in Room 1.

Palma Weston, a former inspector, is employed in a munitions plant in Decatur . . . happens to be at the same place Nellie Lemke departed for sometime ago to be with her hubby.

Have you seen Emil Bruni's new ensemble? Everyone has given their suggestions as to how his hat should be worn. Russell Cline insists that the brim should be turned up all the way around. Now all Emil has to do is turn up his trouser cuffs a bit, wear a long watch chain and he'll look like a typical jitterbug. . . . Harvey Barrett is suffering at home with a back injury. Although Mr. Barrett may have been a "broad jump" star in his school days, he's not as young as he used to be. Speedy recovery is wished by all.

It's been sad partings in Group 1 the last couple of weeks. Albert Ehringer, Stanford Maresh, Paul Talbott, Arden Allgaier, Roald Evenson and August Ash have departed for various branches of the armed forces. Al is now down in Pensacola, Fla. (his address is available to all girls who desire it). Al was sort of a disappointment to the girls when he didn't appear to show off his new ensign uniform — and well they might have been disappointed, for it was a sight well worth remembering. Stan is with the Seabees; Paul got in the Navy, but the whereabouts of Arden and Roald are not yet known. Chalmers Wooley left for the Army. August departed July 5.

Trixie Allen and Ann Radakovich have left EOP. Ann went to Michigan and Trixie has gone to join her husband.

Howard Fischer, Mae Murray, Joseph Lawlor and Lucretia Muldoon have returned to Group 2.

Catherine "Dreamy Eyes" Fitzmaurice was anything but dreamy-eyed the other day when she was shoved out of her pet position. . . . Mr. Cline had a sore tooth extracted the other day and he testifies that three roots were broken off in the ordeal. . . . Horace O'Kain recently returned from the Army and is now stationed at Group 3. During food rationing Horace is afraid his Army training is going to waste. He was a cook in the Quartermaster Corps.

All were under the impression that the Ordnance Department had a new inspector until his identity was revealed as Floyd Barber without his mustache. . . . Ethel McCann and Eleanor Czajkoski have been welcomed back to Group 3-A. . . . Jeanne Boris, formerly of Group 3-A, is now in Petersburg, Va. . . . Robert Potter is going to O.C.S. in North Carolina.

Inspectors noted at the recent Group 3-A dance were Roy Hallihan, Evan Lewis, Basil Steinhoff, Catherine Werner and Victoria Scuteri. It appears that Mr. Lewis has a new nickname—a far better one than "Louie." Now it's "Finnegan" and all because he's going on a big fishing trip.

Florence Farley is back again after an extended rest cure. To celebrate she wraps up her thumb and tells people she broke her toe. . . . No decision can be reached as to whether Mary "Minnie" Ohler has a twinkle in her eye because her husband is coming home soon or if it's a lonesome look because he's just gone. . . . It's reported that every time Naomi Apgar thought of July 4 she began to jump 'n' jive, sparkle 'n' sigh. . . . Everyone hated to see Anna Mae Harvey leave and really meant the good wishes extended to her. . . Frances Kraus has been on the sick list for some time and all wish her a speedy recovery. . . . Best of luck is wished for Mercella Morton, who was injured in an automobile accident.

E. J. Nemanich has adopted a "two cycle scooter" to go from group to group in the Fuze & Booster area. . . . Violet Cummings and Arah Lovel have returned from vacations. . . . Many wonder how Cecelia Temple can lie awake all night composing those humorous tales she relates and still look so fresh in the morning. . . . The contents of Margaret Cohil's letters are getting to be very interesting.

The Ordnance Inspection Department extends sincere sympathy to the family of Dorothy Magolan, who died July 3, after an illness of six weeks. Her absence will be felt keenly by her many friends here.

Ethel Campbell has returned after having spent two weeks in Indiana with Bob. . . . The S. L. Eisler's and your correspondent spent a delightful week-end in Peoria and Canton respectively. . . . It is noticed that Dolores Dagon returned from DuPage River Valley somewhat wealthier —she recommends that spot for mosquito bites and black eyes. . . . Clara Wehner spent the holiday in Room 3 by her lonesome. . . . Lois Martin isn't saying.

Q. I have an 18-year-old brother in the Navy. Will his age keep him from getting a petty officer's rating?

A. As we get it, a Third Class Petty Officer ordinarily must be 20 years old; Second Class, 23; First Class, 26; and Chief, 30. Certain exceptions, however, may be made. It's all up to your brother.

Q. In order for a serviceman to obtain an allowance for a wife and child under the Servicemen's Dependents Allowance Act, does he have to submit proof that they are financially dependent upon him for support?

A. No. It is not necessary to prove that they are dependent, but it is necessary to show relationship by submitting the proof.

ARMY OFFICERS ARE GUESTS of Sanderson & Porter officials when visits of Sixth Service Command executives and representatives of Chief of Ordnance arrive at EOP simultaneously. (See story on Page 1.)

Inspection

LORRAYNE OSTREM
Correspondent

Group 1
By Fred Harris

Paul Calligaris, inspector in this group for 17 months, bid farewell to his fellow workers June 17. Paul left for the Army the following Monday.

Joe Neiswender, inspector in Bldg. 10, has been advised the watchman at the Courthouse in Joliet has been given the "dope" about his exploits in the Courthouse yard. He was cautioned to stay away from the goldfish pond, even though it may mean some fishless Fridays.

Group 3
By Kenneth Meyer

Bill Burrel left July 12 to join Uncle Sam's forces.

Elden Kistler spent the remainder of a vacation in sunny Indiana.

Senior Inspector George Wetterhahn is in urgent need of help in reassembling his automobile.

Mel Canaday came back from a vacation with a few more hours of flying to his credit.

Hal Lantz is wearing a bright new smile.

Group 4

Bob Welch is back from a vacation wearing a new straw hat and a big smile.

Kate Flatt is now called "Apple Mary" instead of "Wilma."

Myrtle Pantaleone is nursing her nine little chickens.

Dorothy Nelson has been looping and tailspinning since her husband has taken up flying.

Kay Keliher is planning a trip to Missouri. Upon her return she will probably be wearing a sparkler on her finger to match the sparkle in her eye..

The inspectors of this group miss Gaylen Ford, who is spending a vacation working in his Victory garden.

Theresa Svitek is planning to be up flying, because of her interest in the Lewis School of Aeronautics.

All will be glad when Frances Regnier gets used to her new grinders, as they are getting tired of the baby talk.

Group 5

Congratulations go to Laverne Dite, who became Mrs. Irvin Button July 4.

All Beulah Dixon needed July 6 was a feather in her hair. The sun did an exceptionally fine job in changing her complexion.

Ward Edwards says he isn't exagerating a bit, but he caught his limit of fish every day on vacation.

All wish Martin Pecchinino, who is moving to Southern Illinois, the best of luck.

Robert Schmitz is enjoying a vacation in central Wisconsin.

Group 6
By Betty Johnson

Everyone in 6-6 misses Willard Vail, who left to go to his home town to await his induction into the Air Corps.

Two inspectors took their steps to the altar last week, Edna Smith and Blanche Ryslink.

Roger Anderson is welcomed back into the group.

Helen Kachelhoffer enjoyed the circus July 5 even if she isn't a child any more.

Group 8
By Laverne Gamora

Shirley Magosky is in the upper bracket now—her boy friend is a sergeant.

Janet Baily is singing the blues. She didn't hear from her boy friend for two days.

Maxine Burris has returned from a short visit to her home in Indiana.

Jean Nelson is all smiles again. Her soldier is home on furlough.

Joe Keefe, shift inspector, is missed as he has been in Group 45 for two weeks.

Group 62-N
By John Ney

Joe Birsa returned from vacation and tells he is joining the circus after the war. Many wondered why he dove out of a box car last week, and now he is practicing the swan dive from a motorcycle.

Leslie Cloyd really had some fireworks for the Fourth of July. It's a good thing some one else saw it and put it out, or he would have to walk to work for the duration.

Peter Klein says he will bet anyone he will have the first ripe tomato. His Victory garden is coming along perfectly.

Group 62-S
By Thomas F. Dillon

Alex Stein left July 1 for the Army. The well-wishes of the Inspection Department, which he so faithfully served, will follow him wherever he goes.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dillon spent a short vacation in Sheboygan, Wis.

Group 63

Ray Pfeifer took that long-to-be-remembered step June 26 in the Frankfort Church.

Group 27
By Harry Tanner-Robert Clark

Among those vacationing this week are Charles Luther, Virgil Mooty and John Videno.

Frank Feeney said he spent a vacation catching up on sleep.

Walter F. "Eggs" Schwartz likes eggs hard—like rocks.

Ted Hintz is cussin' because someone has been mussin' around his potato patch. He is just waiting to exercise his brawny hands on their neck.—(Don't be afraid, he really won't hurt you.)

Group 7
By Genevieve Karpel

Pierced ears are still going strong around here.

Jennie Ostafin is now a member of the hole-in-the-ear club.

The gremlins finally got Jim Nolan. Seems his chair wasn't there when he expected to sit on it. Result—Jim and the floor got together.

Emerald Peterson had a bangup time at Riverview July 4. The Army helped considerably.

GROUP 3

NORBERT McLUCKIE
Correspondent

The definition of goat is "a ruminating horned quadruped with long hair." Larry Holz reminded the group of this recently, of course, minus the quadruped, or in other words, with only two legs, but with plenty of goatee. However, suffering from a skin infection on his face, Mr. Holz was excused from shaving.

Heard bragging was W. Reed who said he was going to a place on vacation where fish were plentiful and easily caught. He likes to tell fish stories, but his old tales are put to shame by some of the new ones he is telling.

It is true, the women have invaded Art Hansen's happy workshop. The women were stationed in 20 B, so Art left for new quarters in Bldg. 8.

As usual Group 3 is on top in softball just as in everything else the boys enter. It is a rip-roaring team and the players look extra-special in their snazzy green and white uniforms.

By the time this goes to press, Al Mattson, timekeeper, will be back from vacation. His shoes were ably filled by Larry Holz, a former member of Group 3.

Men 70 years old are usually satisfied to sit in a rocking chair and smoke a pipe, but not John Hornberger. The able bodied fellow insists on coming out and doing a good day's work. Mr. Hornberger is a fine example for younger fellows to follow.

Tony Gomora was visited by his son, Billie, who was home on leave.

Sporting a brand new haircut is Don Starr. Mr. Starr lacks three-fourths of an inch of having one inch of hair on his head.

Stanley Kroger is so accustomed to getting in peoples hair that he went up to Benton Harbor, Mich., and got mixed up with the House of David men.

Leo Wagner says let someone else feed the horses from now on. He has purchased a flock of chickens and they have to be fed.

The fellows who ride with Charlie Horack of Bldg. 16 have some good ones to tell about him. There is the one about the 75 pounds of fish, he sent from Minnesota, that never reached their destination, but the best one goes like this. His passengers were wondering where he was one morning, so they went down to his house only to find him not completely clad chasing a woodpecker around the house with a gun. He evidently had been getting the bird all night and was pretty tired of losing so much sleep.

A coincidence is reported by Millard Ferguson concerning his son and himself. Millard entered the armed forces July 2, 1917, and his son entered July 2, 1943, just exactly 26 years later.

Should any farmers miss some choice hogs, Ervin Rovenhagen may be able to help them.

Bud Warriner and Bob Bolte are dickering over a pony. Bob said "no more dogs for me and besides I won't need an A card for a pony."

Ed Capp said he knows the Bldg. 4 picnic was a success because he was not invited.

Recreation

E. L. WALKUP
Director

A survey is being made of all Victory gardens, so all you farmers get busy and keep them free from bugs and weeds. There may be some prizes awarded.

There is a sample of the dehydrator all made up which can be seen in the Recreation office. It might help some, to be able to look it over before you build yours.

The archery targets have been erected on the new location in the Group 60 recreation area, and followers of Robin Hood put them right to use. If you want to learn how to handle a bow, drop around some day.

The EOP baseball team is certainly going to town now. Warm weather has brought out a lot of base hits. Watch your bulletin boards for their games on the area and get back of them and give them some encouragement. Their first game at home will be with the 327th Military Police from Camp Desplaines July 28. The team will play a game at Wilmington for the benefit of the USO, Wednesday, July 21. If you live in that area, don't miss that game.

Edward Johnson and Eddie Rickert are still battling in the table tennis tournament, both good players, and one of them should meet Guard Robert Crane for the championship.

Myrna Farris says:

Bob Greenwood of the Recreation Department says that William Tell was his great, great grandpappy and, from all reports, that could be true. Bob is quite an archer and will be glad to offer any suggestions to you archery enthusiasts. The range is located just west of the tennis courts and will be available for use from noon until 9 p. m. daily.

Kay Tuona and Lee Shonert, Bus Transportation, are welcome additions to the Administration girls' softball team. Better watch that team!

The Fuze & Booster girls' softball team will soon be wearing snazzy new uniforms. Gen. Supt. T. M. Burns and Supt. J. E. Truka were enthusiastic attendants at the Fuze & Booster—Group 60 ball game recently. With that kind of support how can a team do anything else but win?

Make 1943 Accident Free

Alice Pichon Now Commands WAC Troop

From EOP Cafeteria girl to commanding officer of a company of WACS has been the career of Alice Pichon, who left here but a few months ago as the first EOP girl to enter service. A card to The Bomb-Shell reported that Alice is now located at March Field, California.

Blue Print Reading Course Is Launched

A 13-week course in blue print reading was started at the Kankakee High School July 6, it was announced by Irving Munson, superintendent of schools. The class meets Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. The course is intended for those who did not have a course in mechanical drawing in high school and those who did not attend high school.

R. R. Sidell's Son Receives Citation

Philip A. Sidell, 28 years old, son of R. R. Sidell, supervisor of the laboratory at the EOP Hospital, has received a citation from the Chief of Ordnance for his outstanding contribution to the war effort in the development of a new type fan for use in tanks.

Philip is chief engineer for the American Machine Metals Co., East Moline, Ill. He was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1938.

The presentation was made July 1 and the citation pointed out that the new fan develops 33 per cent more efficiency and saves a great deal of critical material. The fan enabled American tanks to withstand the disadvantages of desert heat in the North African campaign and contributed much to the Allied victory.

WELCOME GREETINGS are extended to E. C. Fortmann, manager of the Federal Housing Project at Wilmington, by Mrs. Robert G. Jordan, one of the home users and an employee in his office.

Inert Storage

CHARLES MANN

WILLIAM DENVER
Correspondents

One of the Inert warehouses had a change in status last week; it became very much alive—with bees. The swarm settled inside on a rafter and then another swarm of warehousemen headed by Andrew Leadingham and Owen "Buck" Ralston, followed by Chester Holt, Michael Roach, Robert Henneberry, and Irving Olson, all under the remote supervision of John Wald, went in to capture the bees in a small box.

Mr. Leadingham, using the Kentucky method of alternately coaxing and coddling and then irrigating them by sprinkling with water, was saved by the bell after two hours of wrestling with the problem. The task was then taken over by the fearless John Ney. John, using the more direct Wisconsin method, knocked most of the bees into the box and took them out of the building amid the admiration and cheers of the gallery who earlier offered nothing but catcalls and kibitizing suggestions from a cowardly distance. The job was completed under the eyes of the inspectors, checkers, a representative of the Safety Department and an assistant superintendent—no one was stung and there was no accident, but there was a loss of time never-the-less.

Among the Girls at 27

Dorene "Tiny" Koerner has moved to Kankakee so she could catch up on her sleep. The noon hour sport among the ladies is amateur wrestling . . . from the progress they are making Heaven help the boyfriends and husbands. Mary Bigham visited with relatives over the weekend in Pickneyville, Ill. . . . she's still griping over the $8.28 she lost. Helen Witt had proper initiation into 27 . . . all types of work were included in that day. Marie Stark has moved to one of the Government houses in Wilmington . . . she hopes the housework won't get her down.

Vacations . . . In Michigan fishing Winfield Arthur . . . Joseph Birsa resting in Rockdale . . . Thomas Dillon on a bus trip . . . James Brooks home for a rest cure . . . Fred Ford getting acquainted with the newcomers at his home . . . Bill Denver traveling through the West.

Pvt. John F. Heavens, formerly a checker at South Inert, writes of his life in the Army Air Force. John is stationed in Miami, Fla. His address is available at the North Inert office.

A lone poppy was discovered growing in solid rock by Walter Mork and was transplanted to the flower bed after it was quarried.

On the Side

Well! Well! So "Scorchy" says that he has been on a vacation—you know he missed two issues in succession; that is at least a period of a month—some vacation! He probably means a mental vacation the same as he has been on for the other eleven months of the year. With his gift for imaginative creations, vacation trips and other excuses he should be renamed "Ali-bi-bi" and the forty dreams. —C. H. M.

News and Notes from EOP Safety Engineers

William "Bill" Baer, foreman of Bldg. 3, and Emil Jajacik, painter foreman, turned some uninteresting clean-up work into a bit of fun through friendly rivalry. It is difficult to get a thrill out of cleaning the paint house in Group 3-A, but by a good bit of foremanship Bill and Emil got the job done. Allen Ackerman, John Jilicik and Cecil Cullic participated in the venture and the results included a clean paint house, waxed floors and good feelings all around.

After his necktie became too intimate with an electric fan in the Superintendent's office at Group 3-A, Don Crowther, safety engineer, is in favor of a fine screen guard for the cooler.

Emory Akeman, Group 3-A, spends even his day off within sight of the Group where he works. The reason, according to Ivan DeMoss, is because he has a Victory garden South of Group 3-A.

Don H. Grove, Group 3, reports that "Joe turned out to be Dona Ann." Don said the little ray of sunshine arrived at 7:30 a. m. the first day of summer, weighing six pounds and 11 ounces. Mother and daughter are doing well.

Lorin Cain, Group 1, is reported to be seeking the services of a first class wood splinter picker, who can furnish references and his own tools. Lorin was riding in the back of a truck and attempted to jump directly from the truck to the ground without aid or assistance. The wooden floor of the truck was filled with splinters and now Lorin is.

Charlie Harrison, Group 3, has returned from a vacation on his Oklahoma ranch where he spent his time helping with the wheat and oats crops and listening to drill bits chew through dry earth instead of oil.

Winfred "Win" Prickett and family enjoyed a fishing trip in the North woods while on vacation.

T. E. Fennessy, safety auditor from the Safety and Security Branch, Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Chicago, has been at EOP for three weeks making an audit. He has made a number of friends during his stay here, according to Harl E. Son, Jr.

CONVENIENT KITCHEN permits Mrs. Robert G. Jordan to have tasty dishes awaiting her husband, an EOP foreman in Group 7, when he returns in the evening to their home in the Federal Housing Project at Wilmington.

BATHROOM FACILITIES are utilized by Mrs. Lucile M. Jordan in her Federal Housing Project home in Wilmington. Her residence consists of living room, kitchenette, two bedrooms, bath and a large pantry.

GROUP 1

BEVERLY GARING
Correspondent

The Group 1 girls softball team and the fellows' baseball team are still unbeaten, and they're really enjoying their glory.

Pam Champoux, Bldg. 14, has taken the fatal step. Best wishes go to Pam who left for Texas July 2 and was married July 4. Pam was celebrating the affair in Joliet the evening before she left with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sloss, and she almost created a riot when she decided to kiss all friends and acquaintances good-by. Some of the jealous girl friends were ready to gang up on Pam but decided she was really the lucky one after all.

Mary Taylor, supervisor of women, and Ursula Williams, clerk in Supt. Joseph E. Salmon's office, went to a wedding last week-end and are still talking about it. Ursula has about decided to give up school-teaching and look for a rich man, but the prospects aren't so good. There just aren't any men left.

Irene Giles, expediter's office, is pinch hitting in Group 2 temporarily. John Pate, component juggler, really misses Irene. He doesn't have anyone to sing with now. They were getting so good in their harmonizing that she called him Nelson (Eddy) and he called her Jeannette (MacDonald).

George Gibson, assistant superintendent, is so witty at 7:30 in the morning that no one else can catch up with him. When he makes a crack at 7:30, it's 8:00 before anyone else catches on. That goes on all day, too.

Marie McNamara, Bldg. 13, looked swell the other evening in Joliet. Marie has huge blue eyes and blond hair and wears pink beautifully.

Joe Myatt, seen the same evening, looked nice, too. When next seen, the next morning, Joe could have used a couple of toothpicks to prop his eyelids open.

George Galvin, formerly of the Group 1 component office, was back in Joliet on furlough from the Air Corps last week. George was really in the pink, and looked as though the Army agrees with him.

Johnny Policondriotes, Bldg. 13, took a vacation, then was forced to take sick leave (he looks as though he might have had pneumonia) and then found he had four days more vacation. Johnny thinks he hit the jackpot this season. Everyone else in the Group would like to take a try at that jackpot.

Opal Just, women's supervisor, Bldg. 13, took a trip to Florida last week, and from all appearances, she enjoyed it thoroughly. She is now the envy of the Group.

Alva Phillips, truck driver, went fishing one night and got so many mosquito bites that anyone but a nurse would swear he has smallpox. Phil hardly had time to drag in the fish, with them biting on one end and the mosquitoes biting on the other.

Timekeeping

NICHOLAS BELLUSO
Correspondent

Vacations are being enjoyed by Bert Rydman, Robert Brimm, Ben Sloan, Frank Skole, James Brooks, Zona Bond, Alma Salzman, John Hohisel and Joe Smajd.

Clifford Northrup, friendly and well-liked poster, claimed another tax exemption when his wife presented him with a six and one-half-pound daughter. The new exemption will be called Lynne Diane.

On a recent visit to Riverview Park, Sylvia Drysanski, Helen Kelly, Gerry Parthuns, Pauline Vismara, Virginia Harsha, Irene Blaha, Mary Bossum, Treva Kane and Virginia Novak had their ups and downs, followed by their stomachs whenever possible, as they enjoyed all the perilous rides and thrills that the park offered.

Dorothy Allison is the newest addition to the filing division. She is as efficient as she is pretty.

While many employes work straight days and complain about the occasional swing shift, pity the plight of the Richards Farm night men who work the swing and graveyard shifts, week in and week out. The boss on the swing shift is Ralph Carmichael, a swell fellow and easy to get along with. Working with Ralph is Clifford Day, poetic, intelligent, neat appearing; James Brooks, young and curly headed, girls can't resist him; Bert Pierson, Victory haircut his specialty, always has a cheery hello for everyone; Paul Speaker, looks like and is as silent as an Indian; Claude Carlson, co-operative, favorite hobby is driving his automobile, has two sons in service; Nick Earthy, favorite story teller, easily overcomes all obstacles; Turner Albright, cornet player, rides the field, friendly; Al West, gets things done, he will top any story. On the midnight shift is Mr. Brimm, who rides the field and is one of the oldest employees in the department; Clarence Peet and James McGowan, posters, who prove one can overcome handicaps and become successful and Leroy Seeley, foreman of the night posters.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?

Personnel

DARA PREW
Correspondent

The following report was written by Carmen Oldani in the absence of Dara Prew on vacation.

Hello, oh hello Jennie, no I wasn't busy, just finished breakfast. What's new—but first let me tell you — Did you know Bob Withey is a paw—yep June 29, her name is Marilyn Kay—cute eh—oh yeh her pop sez she's the spittin' image of him—Bob sure let us in on the ground floor. Marilyn made her debut at 1:30 and at 1:40 Personnel knew about it.

Wait a minute I forgot to turn off the gas under the coffee pot. Hello-Hello—did you hear about Hugo Brauer's super service — well, we were riding to work one morning and Hugo spied a man standing on the corner of Chicago and McDonough—sez Hugo—"gee whiz (you know how that sounds ala harelip) that fellow said he would come to the office today to be hired"—so he—Hugo stopped the car and asked the fellow—"Aren't you coming out to the plant today?" and the fellow, he said—"Yeah, but I missed the bus"—well we all moved over and Hugo brought him to work, hired him, and that's really Personnel Service.

Madam, will you please stop clicking that receiver? . . . That's Mrs. Zilch, she's always on the phone and when I get a chance to have a few words with my friends she butts in. Aren't some people inconsiderate? Hold the phone, Jennie—the doorbell's ringing—Hello, hello—it was the mailman—postcard from Irene Mulligan who's visiting her brother in Florida. The boys who left Personnel often write back—one of the most faithful is Clem Lambert—yes—he's the one with the Seabees—seems to write someone of us a letter each week—by the way did you hear about Charlotte Doxsee's accident? She cut her hand so badly she'll be out a while. They say her right hand is so bandaged it looks like a boxing glove—(but the lucky man slipped the band on her left hand—Ed.) Ollie Pearce has a garden of his own and he fell heir to Rose Le Beau's—so he's almost a rancher now. Yes several of the old crowd are gone, Rose, Jeanne Hershey, Selma Brown, Alpha Engelhardt and Henry Bale—yeh we miss them, but you know what the War Manpower Commission or something sez—if you don't need a worker release him to a plant that does—gee whiz—no use being dog-in-the-manger about it.

Oh dear—door bell again—well, what do you know! It was a Fuller brush woman wanting to know if I had any old brushes I'd sell back. . . . Where was I? Mrs. Zelch please get off this line—isn't she awful. Now what was I saying—Oh, Jenny, you should come out, just to see the new up-dos'—every gal has her own style, and they really look cool. Colletta Wright, Marge Forrest, Helen De Lach, Betty Benedict, Helen Pikush, Jane Schnepper, Evelyn Melby, Helen Bardi—well just about all of the gals are wearing 'em. Say Jennie, heard about the best leg tan—uh huh—Creole cream—just fill a tub with it and then wade in—you'd be surprised at the wonderful art work out in our building—such neat paint jobs—but wait till next winter—guess the favorite shade will be—BLUE—BRR.

By the way another old Personnel worker stopped in—Jack Hogan—yep—Jack graduated from Missouri University this year, and is going places.

Mrs. Zilch, we have not been talking 35 minutes, but of course if all you have to do is set at your phone and hold a stop watch—no wonder your Willie is always at the neighbor's eating—and another thing — hello, hello — the chief operator—a long distance call—Oh yes mam, right away—Goodbye Jennie, call me back this afternoon, you must have lots to tell me about your vacation—but after all there's a war on, and never let it be said that me, a war worker, on my day off ever did anything to—to what do they say — impede the war effort — Yes, yes, operator, we are getting off the line—Goodbye Jennie—Don't forget to phone me.

FORMERLY in the Group 1 boiler room, Peter P. Lombardi is now a first class petty officer of Merchant Marines.

Utilities

Utility Stores
By Ed Keenan

It is with a great deal of pleasure that your reporter renews his association with The Bomb-Shell after being co-correspondent with Bill Galbraith at Group 2.

To begin with a most appropriate subject, take Lester "Pat" Patterson, able and efficient supervisor of Utility Stores Department. His main ambition is to do some deep sea fishing off the coast of Florida.

John Bottary and Frank Rupnow, who would rather see a good baseball game than eat a free turkey dinner at Ciro's.

To continue the roll call, there are Joe "Pooch" Potch, Sherman Hedrick and Joe Mills, all worthy members of the department.

All hope Charles Brennan and Art Lamping are enjoying vacations.

The latest on Jim Miller is that he has turned nursemaid. For more details, just ask Jim how he does it.

Truck Driver Harry Minkus is booming Paul "One World" Meyer for the next senatorial election. Paul, they say, is an ardent Wilkie man.

The employees of the Telephone Department who found it possible to attend the picnic at Nowell Park had a very enjoyable time.

Frank Kucchenmeister is shedding the cares and worries of the past year at Loon Lake, where he is spending a vacation.

Martha Herrity, who served as chief operator since the first days of EOP, resigned last week. All will certainly miss her and are sincere in wishing her the best of everything. She is now located in Florida.

Velma Whitmore has requested that an extension to her home phone be installed at the plant. It seems that on the morning of July 4 she left for work at 6:50 a. m. and at 6:51 a. m. a certain corporal, Ray Harper, called from Washington, D. C. Tragic, wasn't it?

Victory gardeners' attention: Matt Horn will be glad to furnish the name of his cigars to anyone interested. That aroma should be perfect for insect control.

Machine Shop Message
By Marie Studer

Tom Dooley admits that he is a tenderfoot when it comes to the great outdoors. Tom says that sunburn is really painful.

Employees enjoying vacations the last two weeks were Tom Riordan and Richard Malone.

Bill Dolan attended the wedding of his daughter in California recently. She is a WAVE.

Frank DeMarco, who recently joined the Navy, has been in sick bay ever since arriving in Great Lakes. He would appreciate hearing from all of the gang at the Machine Shop.

Ray Peter, stationed at Camp Peary, Virginia, with the Seabees, writes that he is working hard but is well and happy.

Transportation Tales
By George O'Reilly

If an award were offered to the employee having the neatest and finest Victory garden within or outside the plant, Ernie Wendt, switch-foreman, would win hands down.

Andy Walters has returned from a vacation spent along Fox Lake. He claims the fishing was swell, but many would like to see the evidence.

The train crews in general would like to know if Switch Foreman Bill Ellinger ever paid the yardmaster for that ham.

The Transportation Department wishes to welcome Bill Galbraith, formerly head expediter at Group 2.

Sheet Metal Scraps
By Francis Feeney

Sympathy is extended to Hans Wilder, whose wife died suddenly June 29.

Charles Boudreau is back at the Shop after a week's illness spent at Mayo Brothers Clinic. On the sick list now is Jess Thomas.

Carl Triebel has been missing his good friend, Charlie Webb, who moved to California. Before Charlie's departure, a farewell party was held for him at Joe Heiland's home in Lockport.

Bob Lewis is quite a horseman.

CHILDREN of Stevens Watson, assistant superintendent of Group 6, are Mary Jo and Steve Romus Watson.

He even educates his horse to ford a stream in nearby DuPage.

July 4 activities: George Schlegel spent the holiday in Wisconsin with his wife and child; Ed Berry at his home town of Bloomington; Bill Ryan spent a quiet day at home; Roy Metzka spent his time fishing, but had no luck; Ike Carlson picked this holiday to polish his car.

Good to have back in the funnel room these days is Frank Wickman.

Paint Shop Patter
By Blackie Blackburn

Ralph E. Sexton has enlisted in the Marine Corps. Ralph is a former "leatherneck," having served from 1935 to 1939.

Charles Butts (5 by 5 to his friends), will be five feet tall and six feet wide if he doesn't watch that waist line of his. Charlie is painter foreman at Group 2.

Earl "Diz" Whipple writes that "the Seabees toughen a fellow up in a hurry, but EOP gets the credit for the preliminaries."

Bus Transportation

Bernice Rodgers, conductor, and Bill Kegley, driver, are welcomed to the Bus Transportation Division.

Margie Stevens is enjoying a vacation in Pittsburgh with her father and sister.

At present this division employs a former barber, carpenter, ice-men, farmers, beauticians, gobs of orators, a would-be preacher, and a welder, but where is that butcher?

Motor Pool Memos
By Lucille McCabe

This month marks the first anniversary of the Motor Pool which is under the able supervision of genial Frank Kern.

A big welcome is extended to three new chauffeurs, Elizabeth Drennen, Beta Peak and Lillian Christofferson.

Screens and new fly sprays have done wonders for the comfort of pool workers. Also easy on the eyes (as the old saying goes) are freshly painted walls.

Georgia Habry has been on the sick list for two weeks.

Word has been received that Jean Swanson has returned home after a serious operation. All wish a speedy recovery for Jean.

Lucille McCabe spent a vacation in California witnessing the graduation of her son, Red, from Navy Pre-flight school.

Vivian Ward is spending a vacation nursing her brother after an operation.

Bill Clark claims it rained six out of the seven days of a vacation.

Building Maintenance
By John Bottary

Jack Shiner was seen holding a six-foot three-inch baby on a merry-go-round at a carnival recently.

Joe Kopski misplaced his car in Joliet and had to walk all the way back to Coal City, arriving home just in time to leave for work the next morning.

Chick Spesia is vacationing in Wisconsin.

Fred Gebhardt spent last weekend fishing — the catch — a nice sunburn!

Walter Long expects to be the next iron worker's steward.

Line Department Lines
By Ray E. Curtis

The Line Shop softball team has been going all out for victory, but the winning stride was broken when the Pipe Shop team showed them how a good softball pitcher works. The sigh of the wind escaping from deflated chests could be heard for blocks! Post-mortems and alibis are bad form, but the Line Shop pitcher, Speedy Reeves, was really not in his best condition. He promises to be in tip-top shape when next they meet the Pipe Dreamers.

Ernest Peterson recently passed out cigars and announced the birth of an eight-pound daughter.

The general foreman of the Line Department, James Boyd, and three other veteran members of the Shop, Dewey Kennington, Bob Kiser and Bill Kennedy left for the Armed Forces. A rousing farewell picnic was held on the banks of the Kankakee River July 4 and the usual good time was had by all. The boys will be missed, especially the boss, who was a swell fellow to work for and with. Best wishes are sent by all the gang.

Arthur M. McCarthy, with E. G. McAloon's office, entered the Edgewater Hospital in Chicago July 9 for an operation. The place won't be the same until his return.

Emergency Calls

To report a fire. . . . . Dial 17
To call police. . . . . Dial 2229
To call ambulance
(emergency only) . . Dial 4262

Report the nature of the emergency. Be prepared to answer all questions a doctor may ask. He has good reasons for asking these—in order that he may come prepared with the necessary equipment.

Happy Birthday to You!

This is a regular feature in which the birthday anniversary of as many EOP workers as possible will be listed for 2 weeks in advance. Watch for your own. Call your friends.

Correspondent

Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick is spending his vacation in the East. While there he expects to visit many of the boys in service who were formerly employed here. Of course, all know he'll say "Hello" to Broadway, too.

Congratulations are sent to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gagnier, who celebrated their 31st wedding anniversary July 14.

Amy Losby is vacationing with her family in Appleton, Wis.

Colby Eriksen and John Henshaw should have some "tall ones" to tell when they get back from a fishing trip in Wisconsin.

A letter was received from George Costello, former assistant superintendent. He says it is swell to be in the "Seabees" and he would like very much to hear from his friends. He is located at Camp Endicott, Rhode Island, and his address can be obtained from this office.

Many wonder if Della Norman's being acting change house matron, since her fishing escapade of July 4, is because she hasn't paid her dues to the "I Can Take It Club."

Inspector Carl Kemp is back on the job, after being absent because of an appendectomy.

Fred Lohrman was accepted by the Seabees and reports for duty August 1.

Rose Malek's pet caused so much confusion one day last week that Rose was absent from work.

Charles Zogus is reported to be on a second honeymoon, instead of a much needed vacation.

Ann Dowden's husband, Lt. Harry Dowden, of the Guards, leaves for the Army in a couple of weeks.

Best wishes are sent to Betty Horbath who was married last week.

Gertrude Marsh, matron, is spending a vacation with her mother in Missouri. She said she would enjoy canning blackberries.

Arthur Thompson is on vacation for a week.

All the girls in the Line surprised Dana Ivez, matron, with a lovely stork shower July 2. Dana takes this means of thanking each girl for the practical and lovely gifts received.

Hattie Biggerstaff and family spent the holiday in Elgin, Ill.

Sincere sympathy is extended by the Group to Meete Alberts and to the families of Jennie Stroh and John Feeley.

GROUP 6, Building 6, was the abode here of Pfc. Anthony Bajt, now stationed at Fort Crook, Nebraska.

Boosters Capture Holiday Game 7-6

Lou Hoffman of Elwood Ordnance Plant, and Al Toombs of the West Side Boosters, hooked up July 4 at Alpiners Park in Kankakee, in a pitchers battle for six innings until the heat began to tell and converted the game into a free scoring contest with the Boosters finally winning 7 to 6.

Toombs was removed from the game in the eighth inning when the Elwood nine scored three runs. Hoffman's three base hit, with three men on base, in the sixth featured for Elwood, while the hitting of Stanley Wieliczko for the Boosters was outstanding. The box score follows:

EOP Nine Defeats Cardinals 5 to 2

Manager Johnny Kusinski's EOP nine won from the Kankakee Cardinals 5 to 2 for the third victory of the season against Kankakee City League opposition. The Kankakee Browns have lost two games to the Bomb Loaders, while the State Hospital holds the lone victory. EOP garnered four runs in the first inning to make things easy for pitcher Harold "Pete" Wagner who allowed 10 scattered hits and fanned four.

Professor Jessie Honn, of Bradley, pitching for the Cardinals, allowed five hits but EOP bunched them together. Eddie Murphy got three hits out of four times at bat. Eddy Keenan and Bob Plese got the other two. The box score:

Vol. II, No. 5 | JOLIET, ILLINOIS, JULY 30, 1943 | FINAL EDITION

EOP Sets Pace For Building And Operation

Huge Plant Is Tribute To War Department, S. & P., 37,000 Workers

Built in record time and operated with record production, Elwood Ordnance Plant stands today in the forefront of America's great munitions establishments, a tribute to War Department planning, Sanderson & Porter designing, building and operation, and the hard work of 37,000 men and women employees.

Block-buster bombs and powerful artillery shells daily are rolling from the mile-long loading lines and have been since July 12, 1941 . . . months before this country was attacked by Japan at Pearl Harbor.

In the months since, the deadly destruction of this ammunition has been felt in North Africa, Sicily, the South Pacific, Europe and the Aleutians. Every man and woman now at EOP knows that he or she is at war . . . knows that he or she is supporting the fighting forces . . . contributing gloriously to eventual victory. For months purchases of War Bonds here exceeded 10 per cent of payrolls.

Recognition of the employees' realization of their responsibilities came February 12 when they were awarded the Army-Navy "E" flag for excellence in production. Colorful presentation ceremonies were held.

Elwood Ordnance Plant is the result of a contract signed by the War Department and Sanderson & Porter on September 19, 1940. It was one of the first steps in what was then called America's defense program.

Sanderson & Porter representatives arrived at the site September 27, 1940, and ground was broken for the first line November 18. The first artillery shell was loaded in Group 2 July 12, 1941, just seven months and 25 days after construction was started, two months ahead of the contract schedule, a record acclaimed by War Department leaders.

EOP was the first ammunition loading plant to be placed in operation, under the defense program, and the first EOP shell was Number 1 of a total that has reached millions.

By the time the Japs struck in December of 1941, not only Group 2, but Groups 1 and 3 were in operation. In that month, assembling and loading operations were started

Paper's Final Issue Features All Groups

Pictures of thousands of Elwood Ordnance Plant employees are featured in this final edition of The Bomb-Shell. Other pictures show the plant's official family and the members of committees appointed to make working conditions at the plant as convenient as possible for employees. Editorial features also stress employee accomplishments in the war program and employee service.

EOP's Familiar Administration Building

MORE THAN 50,000 visitors have traveled up this road to the EOP Administration Building to see it as it appears here, with Old Glory, the Army-Navy "E" Flag for excellence in production and the Treasury Department's "T" Flag for War Bond purchases floating from the flagpole.

Workers Give Time, Money to War Effort

Employees of Elwood Ordnance Plant contribute much more than their regular day's work to the war effort, a survey of workers' activities disclosed.

In a little more than 14 months, EOP personnel has bought $4,161,775 worth of War Bonds. In fact, 10.06 per cent of the weekly payroll has been invested in the bonds, with 92.56 per cent of the employees enrolled in the Payroll Savings Plan for buying bonds.

Workers have given $13,252 to the Red Cross, the largest contribution in this area. The United Service Organizations have received $10,605, likewise the largest donation in the area, and various Community Chests in the EOP territory have received $4,241.

Employees serve on various civic and defense committees in their respective communities, donate blood and time to the Red Cross and participate on their own time in patriotic parades and civic celebrations.

Families of employees, even those who came from other states, have become an integral part of their communities. They are doing voluntary work for the Red Cross and other agencies. The EOP-KNK Red Cross Chapter, composed of wives residing within the plant reservations, meets weekly.

Commanding Officer Congratulates Paper

"With this, the final issue of The Bomb-Shell, go my heartiest congratulations on a job well done. Your publication has become known as a leader throughout the entire Ordnance Department. It has reflected the attitude, the spirit and the morale of the workers of our great Ordnance establishment.

"With its passing, we have reached another milestone in the successful prosecution of this war. This discontinuance has taken place in the interest of economy, conservation of manpower and saving of newsprint and other paper stock.

"To you splendid workers at Elwood who have contributed to the success of The Bomb-Shell, I ask that you continue in the same spirit along the many alternate lines of endeavor open to you."

—Lt. Col. Byron Rife,
Commanding Officer.

New Telephone Book Will Be Ready Soon

Copies of the new semi-annual Telephone Directory of Elwood Ordnance Plant will be ready for distribution soon, it was said by William A. Buck, superintendent of telephone communications.

Elwood Builders Have Other War Projects

Sanderson & Porter, internationally recognized construction and management engineers, have taken an active part in America's war effort by undertaking a number of vast projects, the largest of which is Elwood Ordnance Plant. The engineering partnership, for which Harrison Smith is resident partner at EOP, designed and built EOP and operates it for the War Department.

Sanderson & Porter also built the huge Pine Bluff Arsenal at Pine Bluff, Ark., for the Chemical Warfare Service of the War Department. For the U. S. Rubber Company, they built the large Charlotte Ordnance Plant, a Navy ordnance loading plant at Charlotte, N. C.

Other direct war projects are an alcohol plant at Kansas City for the Defense Plant Corporation, and a magnesium plant at Lake Charles, La., for the Mathiesen Alkali Works, Inc.

Power from several hydro-electric projects, designed and constructed by S. & P., will be used by manufacturing plants directly engaged in the war effort.

Publishing of "Bomb-Shell" Discontinued

Plant Paper Ordered Folded as Economy, Conservation Measure

Publication of The Bomb-Shell will be discontinued after this edition to comply with an order by the War Department issued in Washington early this month.

The order, signed by Lt. Gen. Levin H. Campbell, Jr., Chief of Ordnance, directed that publication of papers by all Government-owned ordnance plants be suspended by July 31 because of the necessity for economy, conservation of Ordnance manpower and saving of paper.

Discontinuance of the EOP paper "will be a disappointment to all of our employees," said W. E. Canniff, general manager of Elwood Ordnance Plant, in a letter to Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer. Comments of Harrison Smith, resident partner for Sanderson & Porter, designers, builders and operators of EOP, are contained in the lead editorial on Page 2 of this edition. A statement by Colonel Rife is published elsewhere on this page.

"We believe that The Bomb-Shell, Elwood Ordnance Plant's paper, has done much to increase and maintain the morale of our employees by stimulating interest in the plant's manufacturing activities, and the part which it is playing in the war effort," said Mr. Canniff's letter. "It has afforded a medium by which employees could be informed on general matters relating to Ordnance, and the importance of Ordnance in the whole war program. Through The Bomb-Shell we are continually calling to the attention of our employees the necessity of following safe practices, and by example, the results of not doing so.

"Through The Bomb-Shell we are enabled to furnish employees with special information on bond subscriptions, the Victory Tax and the Withholding Tax. Employees look forward eagerly to each publication, and we believe a discontinuance of the publishing of The Bomb-Shell will be a disappointment to all of our employees.

"In view, however, of General Campbell's very definite statement as to the necessity for economy, and for conservation of Ordnance manpower, and saving of newsprint and other paper stock, we

Fellowship Meetings Will Be Resumed

Fellowship meetings for department heads and employees of EOP will be resumed in September, it was announced by A. E. Frosch and E. C. Carlson, co-chairmen. The same successful pattern of last spring, dinner at the Mess Hall followed by entertainment in the Recreation Building, will be observed, the chairman said. A meeting of the program planning committee will be held soon.

And Let Us Not Forget

For slightly over one year, Elwood Ordnance Plant workers have become accustomed to read The Bomb-Shell each two weeks. It has become a custom, but unlike many customs has not become commonplace.

The Bomb-Shell has been outstanding as a plant publication, both in appearance and substance. Through it we have become acquainted with high executives in the War Department—men who are doing outstanding jobs in their positions. Through it we have a better knowledge of the job Ordnance is doing in supplying implements of war to the armed forces. Most of us feel that we are a real part of Ordnance, and we are proud of its leaders, of our membership in the organization and the work which we are doing to fulfill our obligations.

We believe The Bomb-Shell has filled an important job at Elwood Ordnance Plant. It has made us better acquainted with our fellow workers, given us something of their viewpoint toward life, and enabled us to share with them some of their pleasures and problems. The ability and enthusiasm of our editor and of the fine men and women who have so faithfully and interestingly reported our activities have been most refreshing. To them we are indebted.

We have much to be thankful for in having had The Bomb-Shell and we are going to miss its appearance. The information which it has given us on varied matters relating to taxes and other government regulations, and on safety and health matters, including preventives which we should take, for our personal welfare and in the interest of Victory, will not be forgotten.

Although we shall miss The Bomb-Shell, we must remember that, while we are an important cog in the production wheel, it is a very big wheel. Economies and conservation measures taken at this plant will be multiplied in the many other war plants, and such measures are for our best interests.

Let us not forget that Elwood Ordnance Plant is a great facility, of which we may all be proud. By our work we have given it an outstanding reputation, but without our continued effort, regular attendance to our duties, safety in our work, co-operation with our associates and our supervisors, mutual understanding of each other's problems, and an attitude of helpfulness under all circumstances, this reputation will suffer.

—Harrison Smith.

Not Mine—Ours!

The gasoline I burn is not mine; it's ours. The tires I wear out are not mine; they belong to America. The money in my pockets is not mine; it's ours. The food I eat or the food I grow is not mine alone; it belongs to the nation. This is not my home, my land. I only have a lease on it even though I hold a deed in fee simple. The land was here before I was born, and it will be here when I am gone. My life, even, is not wholly my own. I was put here for a purpose and I can meet that purpose, that grand, infinite design only by living for and working with my fellows. This is not my country. It is our country, and the more I do for "our" country the greater the reward will be mine.—Winston-Salem Journal.

"Yeah, no kiddin', he told me he could drop 'em from 20,000 feet right into a wash tub, especially mine!"

Passes and Rejects

By Vernon C. Bailey

It is appropriate for this last issue to revive this column, which has appeared from time to time in The Bomb-Shell, so that the compliments which have been showered upon the paper may be placed publicly where they belong. One of the strongest features of the tabloid has been its excellent photographs of the EOP scene. These were the work of Loren D. Ross, chief photographer, and Irvin L. Moore, his assistant. Too much praise for them is an impossibility, for this work was done in addition to their regular duties in the Personnel Department.

Kudos for Correspondents

In many years of experience with employee publications, I have never seen the loyalty and enthusiasm of The Bomb-Shell staff of reporters equaled. Their support has been not only an inspiration to me, but a continuous marvel to Harrison Smith, who regarded each one of them as a very special asset to his respective department and to EOP.

The year saw changes in personnel because of conditions, but each succeeding correspondent tried to outdo his predecessor. Space limitations prohibit more than a mention of those now on the staff. They are: Arlene Schloendorf, General Offices; Helen McGinnis, Ordnance; Catherine Tomlianovich, Ordnance Inspection; Juanita Harter, Fuze & Booster; Beverly Garing, Group 1; Norbert McLuckie, Group 3; F. G. Tamblyn, Group 3-A; Charles H. Mann and William Denver, Inert Storage; Marjorie Howerton, High Explosives; Dara Prew, Personnel; Lorrayne Ostrem, Inspection; Paul Roy, Material Warehouse; Lt. Gene Ryan, Guards; Stuart Moloney and Frank Skoff, Fire Department; Mary McGovern, Production Planning; Nicholas Belluso, Timekeeping; Helen Shimek, Utilities; Evelyn Richards, Hospital; E. L. Walkup, Recreation; Karl Ulrich, Safety, and Andrew Vail, Salvage.

Three others who cannot be overlooked are Eddie Keenan and Wilbur Galbraith, formerly of Group 2, and Joe Motta, formerly of Group 61.

Credit for Circulation

Throughout the life of The Bomb-Shell, it was Victor M. Dagenais, Miss Schloendorf and Joseph Catton who saw to it that each employee received his or her copy. In more recent months, Chief M. C. Baughman threw his willing guards into the breach to hand out copies as the employees left their work. To all of these, I say thanks in behalf of the EOP family.

Message to Fighters

To all of you men and women in Uncle Sam's uniformed services, who once worked here, I express the appreciation of all employees for the interesting letters you wrote from your respective camps and posts. Please continue to write and your requests for news from EOP will be sent to the proper groups or individuals for response.

Splendid Printing Job

The attractive appearance of The Bomb-Shell has been due to the time and effort devoted to the job by The Cuneo Press of Chicago and its expert staff. Otto Forkert, typographer and designer, has been a well of inspiration. Without Dave Plews, Walter Wilson, Walter Bates, O. W. Rawlings and George Sefcik, The Bomb-Shell could not have been the paper so many have said it has been.

Scorchy Is Unmasked

Frequently throughout the year and more so during the last two weeks, the question "Who is Scorchy?" has been asked. "Are you going to expose him in the last issue?" queried more than one. The answer is "Yes." The mystery is a mystery no longer. His picture is in the lower right corner of Page 11. . . . Now, are you satisfied?

Welfare of EOP Workers Charge Of Committees

Various Groups Study Problems Involving Service to Employees

Betterment of working conditions and fitting them into the rigors of war time regulations are the principal aims of a number of committees set up by Sanderson & Porter within the Elwood Ordnance Plant.

The first group to be named was the Employees Service Committee (picture on Page 5). This group acts as a steering committee for problems relating to employee welfare. It not only initiates proposals, but studies those which come from other sources and makes recommendations about them to the management. Meetings are held every other week and on call of the chairman.

An Employees' Activities Committee (picture on Page 10) is composed of representatives of practically all working groups within the plant. It reflects workers' views concerning recreational and other features and fits in the aims of any one group into the best interests of all.

The Labor-Management Committee (picture on Page 4) was organized June 25, 1942. The committee was organized to handle problems arising from rationing of tires used on the cars of employees for transportation to and from their homes to work. At the time gasoline was rationed this committee assisted the employees in securing their "A" books and also certified employees requiring additional mileage so they could travel between their homes and this plant.

Since the committee was organized they have handled approximately 15,000 applications for supplemental mileage. At the present time the committee deals with 81 Office of Price Administration Boards to keep 3,300 car sharing groups carrying employees from approximately 300 communities.

An Employees Relations Committee (picture on Page 5) studies employment problems and the Merit Award Committee (picture on Page 4) provides means for recognizing outstanding contributions of employees to the war effort. Employees' suggestions are considered for submission to the Ordnance Department in Washington or for certificates of merit from Sanderson & Porter.

The Burning Pit

By Scorchy

Folks, I cannot say I am in a valedictory mood, what with the battle only half over and so much yet to be done. But the die is cast and we shall have to accept the "Hail and Farewell" with the firm admission that it is all for the good and in the interests of an earlier conclusion to certain military arguments now going on in various parts of this mundane sphere.

The association with all of you through the medium of the World's Greatest Printed Thing has been inspiring from many angles and aggravating from others. The desire to wring necks has been mutual — and not monopolized by you, as you had thought so long.

But now that the curfew has rung, let's get off to the side of the road for a little journalistic stock-taking. It is hoped that these columnar nightmares have provided a bit of amusement here and there, and perhaps even ground for more serious meditative thought on some of the pressing problems facing you and you and you and me every day, as we put our shoulders to the wheel headed toward that ultimate destination, called VICTORY.

As I recall, past installments of this "Word-to-the-Wise" department have dwelt on such weighty subjects as Gossip, Absenteeism, Speeding to Joliet, Victory Gardens, Chiggers, Belt Lines, Thrift, War Bonds, and others not susceptible of thumb-nail descriptions. The general purpose was constructive in intent, although not always accepted in that light, but it was thought helpful to add a bit of nonsense here and there to season the more profound ideas that burst into print under our aegis every so often. As far as this department can learn from its own intelligence division, the nonsense seemed to be much more appreciated than the serious stuff, but that's up to you, dear reader . . . take your fun where you find it.

As I look over the EOP scene today, I am not too sure that my little messages have accomplished all that they could have, and although it is distasteful to depart with a critical attitude, there is something that tells me that each and every one of you can do a better job in his own humble way, and by golly, I predict that you all will do that better job. Let's tell the cock-eyed world it "ain't seen nothing yet" and really go to town.

And now as to the future. Those of you who have heaved a sigh of relief at having gotten rid of that fiery proprietor of the Burning Pit, are in for disappointment. I'll still be with you, but in cosmic form. Henceforth, when you are tempted to shut off the alarm clock and roll over for another few hours sleep, that mysterious guy who taps you on the shoulder and tells you not to miss the day's work will be . . . Scorchy; when the right foot gets a little heavy on the accelerator and the speedometer shows bigger numbers, the correcting urge to slow down will come from . . . Scorchy; the fellow who will sell you that extra War Bond will be . . . Scorchy; the guy who makes a man out of Charlie Mann will be . . . Scorchy; yea, verily, the fellow who has already made Boloney out of Stu Moloney is . . . Scorchy; and so it goes.

Well, good burning now . . . I'll be searing you.

You've done your bit, now do your best!

2 Child Centers Maintained for Working Mothers

Daily Fee of 50 Cents Assures Care, Meals For Young Children

Two Children's Centers are maintained in Joliet by the Child Protection Committee, Joliet Office of Civilian Defense, for the use of mothers in war industries, according to Mrs. J. A. Nord, chairman.

The West Side Center is on the first floor of the St. Francis Preparatory School, corner of Center, Buell and Division Streets.

The East Side Center is at 601 Garnsey Avenue in the building previously occupied by the Slovac Culture Club. Both these sites have been remodeled, renovated and decorated and equipped with the latest type of nursery equipment and play material. Accommodations have been provided to care for children from two years of age up through school age. Three teachers are in charge of the children at each center and they are cared for from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

A Government grant has been received by the City School Board, which sponsors the project, to cover the cost of rent and teacher's salaries. A fee of 50 cents a day is charged the parents. This fee covers the cost of food and milk which is served the children.

A hot dinner is served at noon and mid-morning and mid-afternoon nourishment is given each child. Young children sleep in the afternoon on individual cots placed in quiet, attractive sleeping quarters.

Mothers who are working are urged to bring their children to the centers for day care and supervision. Mothers will do a better job where they are employed if they have peace of mind which results when they know their children are well cared for while they are away from them.

The Forest Park and Rockdale buses are convenient to the East Side Center and the Ruby Street bus goes by the door of the West Side Center. Parents driving may leave their children on their way to work and pick them up when they return.

Safety Department Serves Employees

Believing that satisfactory continuity of production of quality ammunition can be made possible only in plants where safety is first and foremost, Elwood Ordnance Plant has striven at all times to make efficient use of every opportunity to show employees the merit and rewards of safety.

The Bomb-Shell has been one of the instrumentalities used in this program. In the future, much of the safety program will be publicized by posters and bulletins.

The Safety Department now has a personnel of 28. Every attempt has been made to pick, train and place these men in the various groups where their influence would be most effective in furthering the war effort.

Much of the insistence on the use of proper protective equipment has often seemed to employees both arbitrary and unnecessary, but over a period of months results have definitely shown that in spite of the discomfort and restraint of some equipment the best interests of the workers are served.

Protective equipment is made for but one purpose, to protect the employee. True, the company benefits too, but the fact remains, every injury and every case of an occupational disease bears heaviest on the employee. By the same token the greatest protective benefit accrues in his favor.

Publishing of 'Bomb-Shell' Is Discontinued

are planning that the last issue of The Bomb-Shell will be as of July 30."

Publication of The Bomb-Shell "by and for employees of Elwood Ordnance Plant" was started June 5 of last year and it has appeared every other Friday since. This edition is the 31st.

It quickly became a pace-setter for those plant papers which preceded it and a model for those which came later. In January of this year, The Bomb-Shell received second award for employee publications of a tabloid type in the annual contest for 1942 of the Industrial Editors Association of Chicago.

Novel features were developed by the tabloid. Through Page 1 portraits and biographical sketches, it made its readers acquainted with the leaders of the Ordnance Department and the Services of Supply. It published in each issue the name and birthday date of each employee for two weeks in advance. Letters from former employees in the armed forces, here and overseas, appeared by the hundreds. Many of these came as the result of the policy of mailing the paper to these service men and women wherever they went. Approximately 2,000 were on this mailing list.

Names of employees were printed in bold-face type, easily distinguishable from the lighter body type. In the 31 issues of the paper, the names of employees appeared 39,133 times, an average of approximately 1,200 for each edition. There were 1,591 photographs, in which 8,494 persons were pictured. These are record figures for a publication of this kind.

Editorials and articles from The Bomb-Shell were quoted widely and many of its photographs were reprinted in other publications of national circulation, including The American Family, Northwestern Engineer and Cuneo Topics.

With the exception of engraving and printing, The Bomb-Shell was a 100 per cent EOP product from Page 1 to Page 12. Its photographs were the work of Loren Ross and Irvin Moore of the Personnel Department. Humorous cartoons by August Ash and Larry Lahrman were regular features. Editorials were written by Mr. Smith, Rollin T. Read, safety director; James Glade, Joe Motta and many others. Stories and articles came from the pens of top management and department heads.

The backbone of the paper was the bi-weekly report from each of 21 departments written by a splendid staff of voluntary correspondents. A tribute to these reporters appears in the editor's column "Passes and Rejects" on Page 2. So well did they do their work, they were recognized several times with dinners given in their honor by Mr. Smith in behalf of Sanderson & Porter.

Throughout its existence, The Bomb-Shell was printed by The Cuneo Press, Chicago, one of the largest printing houses in the world. Engravings were produced by the Boncraft Corporation, an affiliated organization.

Until recent months, each issue of The Bomb-Shell was mailed directly to the home of every employee. The paper proved as popular with the workers' families as with themselves. Distribution by guards at the exit gates as the employees left work was developed as an economy measure. Distribution, both by mail and by hand, was supervised by Victor M. Dagenais, supervisor of office management, and complaints concerning circulation were seldom heard.

The first issue of The Bomb-Shell, named so in a contest among employees, consisted of six pages. The second edition had eight pages; third and fourth had ten. Beginning with the fifth, each succeeding issue consisted of 12 pages.

Kathryn Reubart, War Department, and Vincent Cantarella, formerly of the Payroll Department, received duplicate prizes for suggesting The Bomb-Shell as the name for the tabloid, and Michael Gorman, a former guard, was awarded a consolation prize. Hundreds of contest entries were received.

EOP Sets Pace for Building and Operation

in Groups 4 and 7, the first two of the Fuze and Booster groups to get under way. In celebration of the event a monster barbecue was served to all employees by Sanderson & Porter.

Group 3-A, bomb loading line, a supplementary line, began operations April 9, 1942, completing the four loading and six assembling lines which make up Elwood Ordnance Plant. EOP's work in the gigantic war program was in full swing and has remained so to this day.

Bombs, shells, anti-tank mines and other components, totaling more than a hundred million units have been assembled and loaded in this immense plant, located in what was once a peaceful farming area.

Approximately 37,000 men and women, without regard to race, creed or color, have contributed to this accomplishment at one time or another. Peak employment was approximately 14,000. Nearly 3,500 men and women workers have gone into the uniformed services, and many of the construction workers have departed for other war projects in the making.

Although employment has fluctuated with changing conditions brought about by completion of construction and the needs of the fighting forces, there are thousands of workers who have been here since operations were started, and many since the beginning of construction. One notable change is observed, however, by the presence of thousands of women, employed at the plant, as the armed forces depleted the number of men available.

THOUSANDS OF GIRLS are employed in the seven groups which make up the Fuze and Booster Area, of which Thomas M. Burns is general superintendent. Girls like those shown here, assembled for a recent meeting, have found working conditions in these groups good. Shell and bomb components are assembled and loaded in Groups 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 45.

Timekeeping

NICHOLAS BELLUSO
Correspondent

This column was written by Milton "I." Treitel, assistant chief timekeeper, substituting for Nicholas Belluso.

I had the pleasure of writing the first column for the Timekeeping Department and it is with regret my substitution in this issue for Nick Belluso is to be the last. We of the Timekeeping Department want at this time to thank Nick for his fine work during the past year, and if The Bomb-Shell is ever resumed his services will surely be in demand.

The Timekeeping Department had its annual summer picnic, Thursday, July 15. It was honored to have as its guests Harrison Smith, Richard Bassett, G. B. Pumphrey and Frank J. Leiss. As usual, John O'Connell was in good voice . . . I sincerely believe he was vaccinated with a phonograph needle. The only way to keep him quiet is to put a "milk bottle" in his mouth. Talking about "milk bottles," Dick Bassett came in second in that contest. This was not very unusual for him because in all his handball contests with a certain would-be columnist, he always comes out second best! No snickers will be permitted from John Schmeh.

Our sincerest thanks go to Ed Walkup for his swell program of events. Music for the occasion was supplied by Frank Zupancic and Shirley Van Duyne on the accordion, and Turner Albright on the saxophone. Barney McShane, former chef of the Waldorf-Astoria, really did a swell job on the hot-dogs and hamburgers. Connie Howard must have gotten dizzy from spending his time in the Round House.

Scraps from the Dust Pan—Bob Griffin, timekeeper at Group 1, is waltzing around Chicago again. Many wonder why Belluso wants to sell his new car, especially since he has made fixing flat tires one of his pet hobbies! Did Elmer Dames catch all the fish he said he did or is it just another "fish" story? Ira Combs has been working in the "gold mine" at Sauenium during a vacation. Herbie Drummond, former timekeeper at Group 64 and now full fledged sailor in the Navy, visited his old friends in Timekeeping recently.

All extend sympathy to Allie Cryder, whose niece died last week.

What Mr. O'Connell meant by the "boogey-woogey man," when he introduced Mr. Pumphrey, is beyond me, I never knew George was a jitterbug. Maybe it has something to do with the monthly report he sweats over around the 15th of the month.

Best wishes go to Ruth Stites on her recent marriage. Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. Archie Laborence on the new addition to the family . . . it's a girl. Sincere sympathy is extended to Maria Darin, whose father died recently.

The Timekeeping Department extends a hearty welcome to its new members—Mabel Milby, Audrey Daily, Edwin Gordon, William Warren and Margaret Dodgin.

Timekeepers who will be vacationing in the near future are Leonard Bottomley, Zona Bond, Elizabeth Daniels, Joe Smajd, Lloyd Combs, Bernie Smego, Harold Champley, Turner Albright, Charles Gaby, Grant Stitt, Joseph Bandino, Paul Lauer and Mr. Belluso.

It is with sincere regret that I close this column with the ending of The Bomb-Shell and it is the hope of the entire department that in the very near future we will hear welcome news that The Bomb-Shell will once again be published.—Milton Treitel.

Fingerprints of 50,000 Persons Personnel Task

Department First Service Group Set Up By Plant's Builders

By George F. Bent
Personnel Director

The Personnel Department, which was the first service organization of Sanderson & Porter to be set up at EOP early in October, 1940, has in 33 months of operation, received more than 100,000 applications for employment. During that time, a working force has been maintained, varying in number from 8,000 to 14,000, according to the changing needs of construction and operation activity.

Aside from hiring the worker for the 31 various departments of the plant, scattered over a 22 square mile area, and including 1,000 steel and concrete structures, the department has dealt continuously with various trade and civic organizations, city, state and federal bureaus and numerous individuals.

As construction was completed in seven and one-half months and workers were employed for operations of the plant, a wave of new regulations, procedures and requirements were required until at the present time nearly 10,000 documents, letters and reports flow out of the Personnel Department every month.

The total number of persons who have been on the payroll is approximately 37,000. Because of the need for identification of workers, our Photograph Department has been required to make approximately 62,000 identification badges and prepare fingerprints for about 50,000 persons.

The Personnel Department is comprised of five chief divisions, namely: Interview and Placement, Reference, Division of Investigation, Military Intelligence Division and Division of Statistics and Records.

During construction 35 persons handled the employment problem. Later on, as the work became more complicated and involved, approximately 100 persons were employed on two shifts. At the present time there are 50 on the Personnel Department payroll.

Merit Award Group Seeks More Ideas

The Merit Award Committee has a number of contributions now under consideration. However, new contributions are not coming in as rapidly as the committee would like, according to A. M. Lockwood, chairman.

Anyone with an idea which he thinks will help the war effort here, should go to his foreman or superintendent with it. He is sure to receive consideration. If the idea has merit, in time it will reach the Merit Award Committee for consideration, Mr. Lockwood said.

Radio Ramblings

By Kay Richardson

Larry Jack has a lost look on his countenance. Larry is on all three shifts, 7:30, 3:30 and 11:30 and can't seem to decide whether to say "hello" or "goodbye" to his co-workers.

Arnold Johnson says that some of the "day boys" were at the corner in Joliet to wave goodbye to him the other night as he took off for EOP and they went on their merry way elsewhere. Barney didn't appreciate this little gesture at all.

Arnoldine Ballard is welcomed as a new member of the Radio Communications Division.

Merle Eberhart, who left for the Army, is now stationed at Camp Haan, California, and is happy to be doing radio work.

Kay Richardson has returned after a two weeks' vacation.

It is claimed that a block and tackle are needed to pull the carrots from Al Johnson's plot.

Q. To settle an argument, can you tell us whether the U. S. pays captured enemy officers?

A. It does. The U. S. follows the rule laid out in the Hague Convention of 1929 which set up international rules of war and was signed by all the major nations now fighting, to pay captured officers $25 a month.

Ever since the birth of The Bomb-Shell nearly 1¼ months ago, we have found ourselves waiting anxiously for each succeeding issue with its inspiring news of what a great "all out for Victory" job we here at EOP are doing. To the folks at home as well, each issue has been a treat and the final copy will prove itself a treasure.

Those introductions and resumes of past experience of many of our leading men in Ordnance have proven interesting and educational as well. We'll never forget those humorous anecdotes that "Scorchy" brought to us. That good photography which has been ever-present in each issue has added heaps to our scrap books to revive memories of friends and happenings at EOP.

Yes, it's been a splendid paper, but who said we would not have a paper unless it was the very best? Harrison Smith, of course! Congratulations to the editor!—Helen Shimek.

Everett "Andy" Andrew, genial lumber dispatcher, was asked how many strokes it took him to get out of the rough while playing a game of golf with Paul "One World" Meyer. Andy said a small snake attempted to eat his golf ball and the only weapon available was his No. 5 iron; thus the extra swings at the pellet.

Medical science advocates daily use of vitamins, but many would like Art Lamping's beefsteak tablets any day for that extra lift to keep one rolling.

John Bottary left for a vacation and all wish for him a most enjoyable time.

Rumor has it that Frank Rupnow is being considered for a major league scout's job by two or three teams. Frank is rated as one of the most capable judges of prospective talent in the business. It's been impossible to get any news about Joe Potch, Jim Miller, Sherman Hedrick, Joe Mills and Charley Brennan, as the boys are being very quiet.

Eunice Mantia, Kay Toune and Lee Schonert have joined the Group 60 baseball team.

Miss Schonert is vacationing in East Chicago with her family. Miss Toune has returned after a week's vacation.

Charlie Harris, dispatcher, has returned from vacation, but had the hard luck of spending five days of it in bed.

Harry Eaton has moved his family to Wilmington. Eddie Koerner, former dispatcher who joined the Navy sometime ago, was recently transferred from Florida to Norfolk, Virginia.

Congratulations are sent to Ray Pratt on his recent promotion to corporal. Ray is stationed at Camp White, Oregon.

Carpenters and Locksmiths
By Porter G. Olson

C. C. Hassel, Tim Thompson, Robert Brimm and their wives, attended a ball game at the White Sox Park recently.

Norman E. Keir left for the Army Air Corps July 23.

Vacations are being enjoyed by Mr. Hassel, superintendent of carpenters, and Robert Enger.

It's a boy at the John K. Sveinsson home.

Ribbons are deserved by H. F. "Doc" Craig for his untiring efforts in working for and with the Boy Scouts of Norris. Doc's latest accomplishment was building a camp for the boys.

Landis "Scotty" Morris enjoyed three flat tires, all in one evening!

Harry Hissong and Tim Thompson are mum about their proposed fishing expedition.

Laundry Letters
By Helen Pennington

We in the Laundry deeply regret the discontinuance of The Bomb-Shell. This paper has served to make us better acquainted with other operating departments. We offer our hearty congratulations to Vernon C. Bailey and his staff for their fine job on this splendid paper. Our families will miss it as much as we here on the job.—Helen Pennington.

Missed around the Laundry are Edna Hyatt, Pat Runyon, Lucille Morrissette, Edna Butinis and Marge Bologh.

Foreman Roy Frye is minus a good cook since Russell Webber was transferred to the Service Garage. Incidentally, Roy reports a nice vacation.

Ruth Ann Owens and Cyril Finn are welcome newcomers.

Mike Haller is doing a fine job of substituting for Orville Wolfe, who is on vacation.

The current gardening question is "Did or did not George Kinard plant that thistle in someone's tool box?"

The Laundry picnic is scheduled for August 1. A big turnout is expected and everyone is looking forward to a good time.

Groundskeeping

Marshall P. Oling, one of the original crew of groundskeepers, has been chosen to go to the Weapons School at Camp Hood, Texas. All his former pals know he will be a success as he "knows his onions" when it comes to machinery. Like all the rest of the boys, he wants to hear from his old friends here.

John S. Leitzell, tractor foreman, bought a farm in Indiana and expects to move there after the war is won.

Harlow Nicholson, assistant superintendent of grounds, who operates a farm near Manhattan in his spare moments, says that his corn and soy beans look better than he believed possible after such a late start.

Farmer W. B. Manchester wishes to compliment the girls of the Administration Area on their self-control in leaving the flower beds alone. (That ain't the way we heard it.) He hopes to be able to supply the girls with flowers at least twice a week.

In case you want to know who the tall, handsome gentleman is who runs the fairway lawnmower in the load line groups, it is Ben Stadick. Ben expects to be the landscape man at some big golf course some day.

Motor Pool Memos
By Lucille McCabe

Cheers are given for the Administration softball team. Doris Brackett and Olive MacDonald are two of the players.

Miss Brackett has returned from a vacation spent in North Carolina.

Ed Heath plans to take his family to Fox Lake for a week.

Dick Roeder is back after a week's stay on the golf course.

Ray Tucker left the EOP family to be at home with his invalid mother.

Here and There

Celia Kretz has returned to her duties in Gen. Supt. A. M. Lockwood's office after a pleasant vacation.

The pert little girl often seen driving around the area in a green pickup is none other than Carolyn Campbell, efficient messenger from the Utilities office.

After a two-week stay with his family in Long Island, N. Y., Ernest Raunser is back at his desk in the Railroad Transportation Division.

Competition to "Farmer" Manchester is Charles Jones, who has the grounds at Richards Farm looking beautiful.

Eugene Salisbury and Howard Rub, both with the Sheet Metal Shop, are expecting to leave to join the Seabees soon.

Line Department Lines

The entire personnel of the Line Department have always enjoyed and appreciated every issue of The Bomb-Shell. It always has been well written and edited and the news items, various educational and instructive articles and pictures have been an important factor in the creation and maintenance of good healthy morale throughout Elwood Ordnance plant. All sincerely hope to hear that the order in question has been rescinded.

A copy of Sea Lines, official publication of the Naval Construction Battalion in North Africa, was seen here recently. All were proud to read, prominently displayed on the front page, a copy of an official letter from the Seabees' commanding officer in that territory, commending very highly Chief Petty Officer John H. Wagner and his crew for a "dangerous and difficult construction job done in an extremely efficient manner." John was one of the oldest members of the Line Department in point of service and one of the first of its members to enter the service.

Photographers of AC. Dick McCabe and Mr. Wagner were passed around by their proud owners. They were handsome pictures, too, considering the subjects with which the photographers had to work.

Jim Boyd, former supervisor, wrote that he is stationed at an east coast Seabee Training Camp and has been given his G. I. haircut, which he says is a dandy.

Thanks to All

I would be lacking in gratitude and remiss in my responsibility did I not, in this last issue, express publicly my thanks to all of those representatives of the many divisions of the Utilities Department for their splendid help in preparing our column. They should know, too, that Mr. Lockwood is most appreciative for the publicity given to the divisions by these men and women. Space limitations prevent more than a listing of names, but they know what I mean. Thank you, one and all:

Kay Richardson, Radio; Marie Studer, Machine Shop; Elaine Christman, Telephone; Ben Webster, Electric Shop; Ray Curtis, Line Shop; Jess Thomas and Francis Feeney, Sheet Metal Shop; S. J. "Kelly" Kukulski, Eleanor O'Keefe, Russell E. Benway and Jean Ann Evans, Service Garage; Frank Kern and Lucille McCabe, Motor Pool; Mary Wynne, Pipe Shop; George O'Reilly, Railroad Transportation; John Bottary, Building Maintenance; Blackie Blackburn, Paint Shop; Beno Judge, Water; Jim Thompson, Round House; Tim Thompson, Arnoldine Ballard and Harry Craig, Locksmith Shop; Margie Stevens, Eddie Koerner and Sweeney Leggero, Bus Transportation; Helen Pennington and many others, Laundry; W. B. Manchester, Groundskeeping, and Eddie Keenan, Utility Stores.—Helen Shimek.

LOADING OF BOMBS has become as much a woman's job as a man's at Group 3-A. Aided by mechanical gadgets, girls handle the huge block-busters with ease and are happy that they are contributing so much to the war effort. More than half of the employees in this group are women and this picture of a representative number shows Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick in the center of the first row. F. G. Tamblyn, correspondent for this group, is shown at extreme right.

There's usually a silver (plated) lining in every dark cloud and, if the dreaded occurs, at least we won't have to look at the top picture that heads the Fire Department column, read poems from F. "Longfellow" Scoma, or feud with Scorchy. All this should prove restful to many nerves and eyes located throughout the area, but will probably soften us up to the extent that when we are called to the colors, we will be totally unprepared for the horrors of war.—Stu Moloney.

How would you girls and guys like to have seen Chief Roy W. Mortenson's picture at the age of 6 . . . read Bill Reichert's original story of the speedy deer hunter . . . read some of the original manuscripts that Wiley Bell, Bert Benson, Win Corcoran and Frankie Nolan used to pass on to be copied (said copying was discontinued when the clerkettes took over the typewriter and carbon copy department)?

Most doctors advocate an X-ray to locate many troubles, but Virgil Bell can tell what's wrong by just looking at a guy's shirt.

Len Jessen used to be one of the most loquacious sidewalk superintendents, but lately he has been as quiet as Group 61.

Dale (my ears tickle) Pratt has returned from a vacation. Dale was kept busy working at the car-wrecking business. Steve Forgacs has returned from a two weeks' rest — in his Victory garden. Frankie Doyle slipped quietly away on vacation.

Chief Mortenson has been spoiling the pet raccoons—feeds 'em fried chicken that he should be having for his own nourishment. George "Paddock" Collins has the biggest appetite in the department; never brings his lunch, yet puts on weight.

Willie "The Mouse" Davis is threatening to return to his old profession, tailoring, which he claims he has mastered as well as he plays the piano.

Orval Riggs is now only eight lessons from being an accomplished welder. After that he expects to make the sparks fly. Tommy Billadeau claims to be a master of the French language (really, he is beyond the "oui, oui" stage) and every day he practices his skill on unsuspecting friends. No one else here can speak French and so he has no difficulty in amazing all with his linguistic ability.

Sophie Mores left July 19 to visit her sister, Clara, who is attending school in Champaign. They will leave there together for Logansport, Ind., for a visit with relatives.

Jackie Dailey, Betty Kane and Dorothy Sonntag visited Harriet Wise, formerly of Tabulating, to see her baby, Penny—Penny Wise—cute, eh?

Jean Tyrrell left July 18 for Cleveland to visit relatives; later she will travel to Sioux City, Ia. Edward Fitzer is vacationing.

Mary F. Rozich's mother is seriously ill in St. Joseph's Hospital in Joliet.

Mary Gliha, of Timekeeping, is back again. George Becker left July 19 for a vacation in Milwaukee, Wis.

Margaret Fitzhugh, timekeeper, is up to par now since her siege with strep. Mary F. Bostjancic left Payroll July 16.

By now you have noticed the delightful new arrangement of V. M. Dagenais' office. The Multilith department, previously separated, is now one and the same—also now under the management of Mr. Dagenais.

Helen Bolling will leave for Des Moines, Ia., her home, July 31 for a vacation.

The Tabulating Room received a card from Wilhemina "Billie" Roeder from Indiana that her Corp. Don J. Davidson, is fine.

Frances Tomac has returned from vacation.

A newcomer to the Bond Department is Ray Griglioni of Coal City. Gale Starkey, of R. T. Bassett's office, was in Chicago July 21 for his physical.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mooney (formerly Doris Johnson) visited Payroll recently. Both are former employees.

Lucille Ambrose, formerly of G. B. Pumphrey's office, wrote that she would visit the plant between July 29 and August 13 when she has her furlough from the SPARS.

Lee Reynolds, assistant executive secretary, expects to be a proud father this fall.

Sarah Spencer went to Lake Ocondo with her family July 19.

Ernie Bell leaves Payroll August 3.

Arlene Schloendorf went to Clear Lake, Ia., and soon had her rod and reel out fishing for her friends. Results were excellent as Mr. Dagenais, Mr. Bassett and John Schmeh will attest. They already have had bass dinners.

Enroute from DesPlaines to work, Dr. I. N. Cohler was seen irrigating the streets of Joliet. It seems that the car radiator just wouldn't retain water.

Two aboriginal sisters were gliding thru the dense thickets along a stream in Sidell's Woods. They were yoo-hooing for their mates, who were fishing for the evening meal. Sighting each other, they shyly glided back deeper into the forest, only to learn later they were co-workers from the Hospital laboratory. Their names happen to be Evelyn Richards and June Hull.

P.S.—Their husbands thought it was only some glamorous milk maid calling the cows.

Walter Houdlett and Clare Woolens are patients in the hospital.

Thelma Talbott is spending a vacation at the home of her mother. Her husband recently enlisted in the Navy and is stationed at Great Lakes. Anne Johnson is back from a vacation.

Edna Rimmer plans to vacation with her favorite aunt and uncle in Battle Creek, Mich.

Pvt. Joe Chizmark, former ambulance driver, visited the Hospital while home on furlough.

The bulge in Margaret Gergovich's pocketbook is due to the stack of pictures she took of her daughter and husband, who was home on furlough.

Mary Philbin is substituting for Emily Noramczyk, secretary to R. T. Read, who is on vacation.

The ambulance drivers can well be called the—go getters—yep! Tom Moore gets the new pre-employees from the Personnel Building, while Ozro Blanchard and Vance Cook bring patients in for first aid.

Doug Marshment, steamfitter, is the proud papa of a daughter named Jo Ann Mae, born July 10.

Congratulations go to Lola Hernack, formerly supervisor of women in Bldg. 13, but now supervisor of all women on the 3:30 to 11:30 shift. Just before her appointment, Lola, who plays a swell game of softball with her Group 1 girls' team, got in the way of a ball and initiated her first night on her new job with the loveliest black eye that anyone has seen in years.

Russell Girot, commonly called "Hoolie," of Bldg. 4 is bragging again. It seems that he went to town to have a tooth fixed and the dentist charged him a dollar, so he rushed home and reported to his mother that he had been charged five dollars—so now he has four dollars to spend. Hoolie's too big a boy to be fooling his mother like that.

Shirley Olson forgot her badge the other day and from all reports caused a riot in the Guard force. These blonds always have a way with men.

The guys and gals in Group 1 want little Gerry Mandella, Bldg. 4, to know that they think she's one of the swellest girls in the Group. Gerry is one of those Personality girls in a quiet sort of way.

Eldon Clark, truck driver, is on the verge of collapse. For eight hours every day he waits for a phone call from home concerning his expected income tax exemption. He's going to have a nervous breakdown soon if he doesn't hear.

Herman Beringer, safety engineer, has returned from a vacation.

Orville Maish, clerk in Supt. J. E. Salmon's office on the 3:30-11:30 shift, took the fatal plunge last week and has gained weight already. He entertains all the other clerks with vivid descriptions of the wonderful meals his wife cooks with her own two lily-white hands and they're so jealous they are prepared to threaten Orville's life.

Leslie Schweisow and Arnold Rink, machinists, really look funny together. Leslie is every bit of 6 feet 3 inches tall and Rink is every bit of 6 feet 3 inches the other way. They wear the same size uniforms, but fill them in opposite directions.

CHANGING SHIFTS EARLY in the morning, this group of uniformed guards stopped long enough for this picture to be taken in front of Guard Headquarters. Their easy pose is due to the hours of drilling which are a part of their routine duties. Shown at front center is Chief M. C. Baughman. To the left is Capt. Walter Bayer and to the right is Capt. Joseph Killian, shift leaders. This department has been used as a pattern by many other war plants.

MEN AND WOMEN work side by side in Group 1, where powerful artillery shells are assembled, loaded and prepared for shipping to the war fronts. The first women shell loaders employed by EOP were put to work in this group. This photograph, arranged by Supt. Joseph E. Personnel

DARA PREW

Gorging themselves on courses consisting of red lead, fried sea gull, musket balls, spuds, a load of hay, frozen foam, jamok, chink or moo juice flavored with bible sand at the testimonial dinner for Robert Hamlin of the Marine Corps and formerly of the Personnel Department, some 52 members and former members of the Personnel force cleaned up the galley. Of course, most would say they enjoyed a good chicken dinner, but the Marines held sway as the souvenir menu indicated.

Leona Hagen started the formal program singing "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "My Hero" and "One Kiss." This was followed by a few piano selections by Helen Bardi, and Chastine Mason offered "I Love Life" and "Danny Boy." Asked to say a few words, Bob pulled himself to his lanky height and started to tell of his experiences overseas. At the end of two hours, during which he had given many eye-witness accounts and showed his souvenirs of the battles in the Pacific Islands, the crowd was still asking questions. With him he had a fine pair of binoculars, a tiny Japanese flag, two of the personal seals which Japanese carry, Japanese wallets, and Japanese money printed in English which they expected to use on the English speaking islands after capturing them.

Many former workers in the department returned to honor Bob and see all their friends. Among them were Harry Dean, Irene Comisky, Sophie Mores, Virginia Gallagher and Miss Hagen.

The group presented Bob with a pen and pencil set to replace the one which they gave him when he left the department to go into service.

Today he is a man. Popular James "Jimmy" Barrowman can officially claim the honor as he celebrated his 21st birthday last week.

In case you've been wondering about the girl climbing to the roof of the Administration Building, she's Mary Edwards, formerly of the Investigation Department. She isn't playing tag at all, but acting as assistant meteorologist under Guy Ward.

Charlotte Doxsee Ahlvin is missed by the whole department since she hied herself away to Indianapolis, Ind., to tie that sacred knot and then scooted off to Pensacola, Fla., with that same man, Alder Ahlvin.

Without a southern accent, but wearing a very becoming tan, Evelyn Melby returned to the force Monday after spending two weeks visiting her sister in Greensboro, N. C. "Evvie" also stayed in Wilmington, N. C., and went swimming in the Atlantic ocean while at Wrightsville Beach.

June Morgan welcomed the timekeeper today and then objected when he handed her two checks. June had actually forgotten to collect her check when she came back from her vacation.

Lorraine Nichols went a-vacationing and has promised that she'll go to the Red Cross at least once to work when she returns. Just one of the bathing beauties is Irvin L. "Jack" Moore on vacation. Before he left, he warned all that he was going to spend a good share of it on the beach.

Dolores Courtney's good looking brother, Pvt. Jerome K. Hancock, visited her enroute back to Fort Bragg, N. C. The important man in Marge Bittles letters has just returned to the same camp. By the way, Marge is having an awful time trying to keep track of her brother who has been in the army for a few weeks. They've been switching him from one camp to another in such a flurry that she can't keep the addresses straight.

Romance after ten years of married life is practiced by Al Dearth. Telling his wife he couldn't possibly get home to celebrate their 10th wedding anniversary, he said he would call her at their home in Bloomington at 6 p.m. Al sent her roses and drove down early so that he would be there in person at the time the telephone call was expected.

Audrey Deiss left July 24 for two weeks at Devil's Lake, Wis.

The sunshine of Betty Diehl's smiles have returned to the reference room. Betty's husband left Saturday for the "Sea-Bees" and letters simply did not arrive. Day by day her chin was lower until today when she and her family had two of these important epistles. No one had to ask her if she had any news from Camp Peary, Williamsburg, Va., as she was the epitome of that old phrase, "wreathed in smiles."

Former dispatcher John W. Barr has shown up in India. The news came on the grapevine from his new "dad," Stanley W. Kroger, foreman in Group 3.

You've heard about "Wrong-Way" Corrigan, but there is a new celebrity in the Personnel Department known as "Wrong-Bus" Collins. Knowing that she had just a few minutes to catch a bus, Margaret "Peg" Collins went scurrying down the street toward her bus stop. Just as she was about there a bus drove up and she ran to board it. It wasn't until she had ridden up Jefferson street and turned three blocks out of her way that she realized that she was on the Rockdale instead of the Ruby bus.

Soldiers and more soldiers but they all looked like William Bee to Dorothy Kaldem while she was waiting. She had meant to surprise Bill, her fiance, by meeting his train at 5:30 a.m. at the Chicago station when he returned on furlough from Camp Butner, N. C. Somehow they missed each other in the crowd and he beat her to Joliet. Lucille Venzara says that nothing like this will happen when her husband, Lt. Myles Venzara, arrives on Aug. 1.

William Matthews is becoming befuddled with this rapidly changing work. Walking into the door marked Identification Bureau, he found an empty room. He backed out, rechecked the number over the door and the sign and then started looking in the corners. A laughing spectator, Clint Matteson, informed him that the equipment had been moved into another room that morning and personally escorted him to the new location. A few minutes later "Bill" walked into Russell Watt's office, struck a match and then stopped dumbfounded. He was so upset that he'd lighted a match and brought it up to his mouth, before he realized that he didn't have a cigarette out. He said that it's working in the Division of Investigation that has done this to him.

GROUP 3

NORBERT McLUCKIE
Correspondent

Of course everyone here at Group 3 has learned, with deep regret, of the discontinuation of The Bomb-Shell. It would take more than one issue to voice the comments of employees concerning this action. These well known Group 3 personalities responded in this manner:

James Fagan—"I can't read but I sure enjoyed the pictures."

Fred Dvorak—"And I was just going to advertise the sale of new potatoes."

Ed Copp—"It always kept us informed of everything new and of great significance at Elwood Ordnance Plant."

Ted Pollack — "Gee, I hear The Bomb-Shell's being stopped. Gee! That's tough, ain't it, kid? Gee Whiz!"

Phillip Wright—"And they were just about up to my Happy Birthday date."

Thomas Olson—"Well, I hope they tell who 'Scorchy' is."

Martin Rosengren — "Maybe they will rescind the order, I hope."

Lou Evans—"I don't mind it so much but I think the boys in the Army should get something along the same line."

It wasn't possible to get on the right wave-length to catch Stanley Kroger broadcasting his thoughts, but all know he would have plenty to say.

Now as the present correspondent I say in a serious mood, The Bomb-Shell has enjoyed a very bright and eventful life. It is truly a great diary of the greatest plant on earth, Elwood Ordnance Plant. My association with the editor and the rest of his large staff has been of great inspiration and I am proud to have been correspondent for the paper.—Norbert McLuckie.

Two New Officers Assigned to EOP

Assignment of two new Ordnance officers to the Elwood Ordnance Plant was announced by Lt. Col. Byron Rife, commanding officer.

Capt. Robert W. Kurtz, who came to EOP from the Nebraska Ordnance Plant, Fremont, Neb., has been assigned as chief of safety and security, and Capt. Edwin R. Page, who came from the Office of the Field Director of Ammunition Plants at St. Louis, has been assigned as chief of Ordnance advisory.

Captain Kurtz, a graduate in architectural engineering in 1934 from the University of Minnesota, was prior to his call to active duty, engaged in air conditioning, mechanical and general construction work in Texas. He was transferred from the Coast Artillery to the Ordnance Department in June, 1941, and saw duty at Baytown Ordnance Works, Baytown, Tex., during the initial construction stages, as well as the later operational stages of the plant. In October, 1942, he was transferred to the Nebraska Ordnance Plant, eventually becoming the executive officer. He is married and will reside in Joliet with Mrs. Kurtz.

Captain Page, a graduate in electrical engineering from the University of Oklahoma, also received his master's degree at that institution in 1940. He was later employed by General Electric in Schenectady, N. Y. He was initially ordered to duty at Picatinny Arsenal in April, 1941, studying explosives, and was later transferred to the Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D. C.

NUMEROUS SERVICE FUNCTIONS are performed in behalf of employees by the Personnel Department, members of which are shown here in front of the Personnel Building, which is located outside of the area fence for the convenience of applicants. George F. Bent, assisted by F. C. Schauland and Loren D. Ross, direct the activities of this busy department. There are now 50 persons employed at this group and the services they render have their effect throughout the plant.

INSPECTION OF AMMUNITION is the responsibility of this key group, representative of hundreds of members of the Inspection Department. Included are division inspectors, senior inspectors and supervising shift inspectors. In the first row, fifth from left, is A. J. MacLellan, chief inspector, and next to him on the left is his assistant, R. C. Wilhelmi.

With the outlook not so bright for the continuance of our plant paper, it appears as though this trustworthy typewriter has felt the melancholy of its operator and refuses to function. However, every possible effort will be used to put forth a column capable of passing the keen eye of the editor. For a year we have tried to do this, but each time we find our literary observation is nil and our columnist ambitions are shattered. — Gene Ryan.

Chief M. C. Baughman has convinced everyone who has questioned his statements on astronomy that book knowledge is not as effective as common sense reasoning.

Dispatcher Jack Farber is believed to be awaiting his chance to play "big time" ball now that he has assumed the "clean-up" role on the Guard team. Of course, it is a hard ball and not a soft ball, in "big time."

Lt. Robert Bodley has no use for telephones, for two reasons: first, they bother him at the most inopportune moments and, secondly, he talks loud enough to be heard without a phone.

Lt. Harry Dowden leaves next week to join the Marines. An ex-marine, Harry will need little training to get in shape. He will be missed greatly in the Guard Department.

Lotis Parsons left the Guards, as he received a call from Uncle Sam.

James Conner, who spent six months working for Uncle Sam, is back. He was an MP on trains, and since his return he has received much kidding about being a "subway commando."

Darwin Matter has resigned because of ill health. He served the department faithfully for a long period.

Uncle Sam is continuing to beckon additional good men. Sgt. Arthur Patterson expects to don khaki in about two weeks, and Carl Anderson was called recently.

Sgts. Harry Murphy, Joe Kelly and George Wells, Front Gate, supervise their station wagon very diligently these days.

Harry Watts, congenial squad man, would be a handy man to have here now. He not only is a fine item writer, but gets around where items can be found.

Arlein Martin, who served two years in this department, left to make his home in New Mexico.

A bosom pal, the angel-face of the Fire Department, a human dynamo with recording machine attachments, Stuart "Pasqualas" Moloney is the subject of this item. This effervescent gentleman has all the attributes awarded human nature, uses them to the best of his ability, is a first-class musician, but alas, there is a startling weakness in his abilities. When he attempted to masquerade as an athlete in a softball game, still wearing that grin of confidence, he was actually "speechless" and unable to explain his opponents' prowess.

Word has been received that Sgt. Clare Cosgrove, Administration Building, is enjoying a vacation to the utmost; thanks to the kind consideration of Casimir Klafta. Dispatcher Klafta is also on vacation and it is possible that he may find Cosgrove and show him how to catch those big fish. Lt. Will Kreuger also is on vacation.

With the Women

Sarah Vam Slyke has gone to Texas to spend a vacation with her son, Earl.

Lt. Gladys Koerner was pleasantly surprised when the girls from the "G and E" shifts lined up in the office and did the "lazy Jitterbug" for her benefit, after they had finished working the afternoon shift.

Margaret Cavolt has been called to Oklahoma. Her mother is seriously ill.

Mary E. Smith is on vacation. Bea McInerney is in Boston. Her husband is stationed there temporarily. Bea had her first plane ride on the trip. Opal Wright and Geneva Puckett have returned from vacations.

Fern Valiente is going to do a little aisle walking soon, and already is saving her quarters.

It is reported that Olive Bisping has difficulty taking sun baths. The overlooking YMCA building is just a short distance from her home in Joliet.

Helen Feeney experienced life's darkest moment when she lost her point ration books.

Elaine Trudeau, champion debater, was finally stopped for words! It happened when Mary Brown mentioned that Elaine was leaving work to get married. At any rate Elaine blushes like a bride and best wishes are extended to her.

George Wetterhahn took the remaining days of his vacation—still has work to do on his car.

Take Salt Tablets

Salt tablet dispensers throughout the Area are serviced by the group safety engineers this summer, it was announced. Workers are advised to take the tablets daily to replace the salt lost through perspiration.

Material Warehouse

Among those who have returned from vacations are Fred Nelson, Tom Martin, Phil Parks, LaVelle Grindrod and Pat Croxen.

The warehouse gang welcomed Leo Gaffey, Gail Starkey, John Vollmer, Carlyle Ammon and Al Heffron, who were here taking inventory.

Oscar Horn thinks if you have any money you'd better hold on to it while John Braderich is around. Oscar claims Johnny makes half dollars disappear too rapidly.

Among those who are now having their turn at fun in the sun or the pause that refreshes are Paul Koy, Felix Senesac, Frank McCormick and Al Krovitz.

All are wondering where Fred Nelson got that beautiful sun tan. He certainly couldn't have gone to the Hawaiian Islands and back in two weeks.

Herman Guard added a few pounds to his waistline while Freddy was on a vacation. It could have been because Herman had to eat all of the extra food he brought for the gang in the office.

A card from Pvt. Joe Serena said he is now stationed in Pennsylvania and is feeling fine.

The well dressed man around the warehouse on Monday morning is the one who wears a white shirt which he wore the day before.

Supt. Charles Herbig has gone to New York on vacation.

High Explosives

Coming August 4, 1943—Lawrence Welk and his Champagne Music—to the Ivy Way Gardens in Marseilles. Ray Offerman was so enthralled by Russ Morgan and his band last week that he was late getting home for the morning chores.

George Cramer made 100 per cent profit on an old puddle jumper he bought in Chicago.

Lewis Campo leaves soon for the Army.

A delicious chicken dinner was enjoyed July 20 by members of the High Explosives Department at Rivals Lodge. Those who attended were: Irving Bovee, Supt. P. J. Stazel, Clyde Wade, Superintendent of Transportation; Claude Sayre, Assistant General Superintendent of Utilities; Albert Augustine, Rex Thomas, Claude Heap and Mr. Offerman from Group 63; John Richards, E. P. Redmon and Edward Berens from Group 66; Chester Tucker and James Tormey from Group 66-A; Joe Studyvin and Thomas Harrop from Group 65; Earl Gresham and Frank Perino from Group 68.

I wish to thank those in the various groups of our Department who have so faithfully and generously contributed to my column in The Bomb-Shell.—Marjorie Howerton.

George Soteropulos, formerly of South Inert, spent a few hours with his old pals in the warehouses . . . George is stationed at Jefferson Barracks in Missouri. Matt Reay is receiving an extra long letter from the Inert men with tidbits from each man's pen.

Supt. A. P. Balston finds his duties too important for a lengthy vacation and is taking it a half day a week. Charles H. Mann, assistant superintendent, and his EOP bride, the former Margaret Hayden, are seeing Illinois wonderland at Starved Rock and Illinois River Valley.

Bill Denver returned from the West. He visited Kansas, Missouri, Colorado and New Mexico.

Winfield Arthur returned from a trip to Michigan with an over supply of fish . . . anyone wanting red ration coupons should get in touch with him.

Charles Berro spent a Sunday viewing a double header White Sox vs. Detroit game and came home a little let down over the results.

Among the Girls at 27

Ann Baldwin visited over the week-end with relatives in Carlinville. . . . Amelia "Midge" Mayo and family visited with parents in Canton, Illinois. . . . Estelle Glasshagel and family spent July 4 at Starved Rock. . . . Mary Berg bid fond farewell to Group 27 last week and the gang sure hated to see Mary go. . . . Helen Witts new nickname is "Olive Oil." . . . Grace Tibbin was ill for several days, but is back in her stride again. . . . Mary Bigham hasn't recovered from the July 4th holiday yet. . . . You must not forget to view the barefoot girls at Group 27 with feet so brown and colored toenails.

A revelation in gardening has been inaugurated by John Ney which he claims is the California method . . . high towers are provided for the plants to climb and the entire garden can be watered from one point following a ridge to each and every plant.

Richard Ashworth received a vacation gift of Indian moccasins for the newcomer in his family.

PRESENT ENGINEERING FORCE is much smaller than it used to be during construction days. This important group of office and field workers is quartered in the Administration Building. The time has come for all good things to end . . . as everyone knows, this is the last issue of this homey sheet . . . seems sort of too bad but then who knows what might be born of this? . . . anyway, it has been fun and even if we did gripe once in a while about getting the darn thing out . . . still when some one would comment about it, whether good or bad . . . all the effort put forth in "putting it to bed" should be rewarded.—Helen McGinnis.

Reminiscing a little, it seems so much water has gone over the dam . . . Col. T. C. Gerber, Lt. Col. Don M. Hoffman and Lt. Col. Kenneth Haber . . . former commanding officers, now gone on to other plants and positions . . . Maj. Curtis Nelson, Capt. Kenneth D. De Young of the Area Engineers and Maj. David P. Tunstall, Capt. John Hardy, Capt. Ralph Pinnick, Lt. Fielder G. Kuether and many others have gone either on troop duty or assumed supervisory capacities in other war industries.

Many of the faces so familiar among the civilian populace of EOP are now serving in the armed forces . . . all pitching to the best of their ability and with a heart full of hope for the future.

Remember . . . the first thrill of seeing the American Flag raised in front of the Administration Building, the "E" Award, signaling to the world that EOP had done its share in giving the lads at the front the stuff they needed. When this war is over and the boys come marching home again . . . don't forget that you and you and you had a part in this and only hope that you can be as proud of your efforts as they will be of theirs.

Bill Leeland's daughter is going to strut down that middle aisle with the soldier boy . . . Dad is quite disturbed about losing his only cheeild.

Speaking about the Public Relations office . . . there are bets going the rounds that if and when Bernece Carlson takes the vacation trip to California that she will return as a Mrs. . . . the odds are 20 to 1 as of this date.

Do you suppose that the cares of the day are getting too much for Lt. C. R. Crandell? . . . Everyone has noticed that he has such a troubled look and a long face these days.

Life can be beautiful . . . ask Bernie Jones of Payroll . . . she claims that she wouldn't trade her hubby, Bill, for all the guys in the world . . . and that's a lot of men. . . . Marion Yeager of the same department has been taking the horse for a gallop . . . she has been ably helped by Ann Kulpa and Kay Reubart . . . 'course that probably accounts for her sort of taking the telephone calls from a standing position the last few days.

Danny Considine's "jolly circus," yep, the kids from Payroll, got together Sunday, July 18 . . . could be they were invading the big city . . . saw Kay Cusick, Dottie Herbst, Pat Haley, Juanita Kliegl.

That cutie pie, Marge Glover, takes many trips to Springfield these days . . . has something to do with the Army . . . has two legs and is of the male species.

Charlotte Matheny's husband is being transferred to Fort Sheridan and little Char has gone to be with him . . . everyone misses her.

The Dix family must have priorities on hospitals: first Lois Dix had to have an operation and then little Evelyn Dix had to have her tonsils out.

Josephine Vilt, the executive officer's efficient sec, has now assumed more responsibility. She is supplementing the mail and record section and is helping Jo Kush no end.

Welcome to two new officers . . . Capt. Edwin Page and Capt. Robert Kurtz, both nice guys. . . . The welcome mat would surely be out for Marge Jesberger and J. Thomas Haigh , , , their nicknames are "Hamburger" and "T-Bone."

All will be happy to know he has returned. . . . The welcome mat was also extended for William Cody, of Group 3.

All are patiently waiting for Frances Kraus to finish that lovely little cottage so there can be a real old-fashioned house warming. . . . One of Cecelia Temple's favorite topics is "food" cooked southern style.

No wonder Arah Lovel has that contented smile. Besides doing her bit for the duration, she has one daughter in training for a nurse and another a WAC. . . . During the boss's absence, Lea Dalton kept up her smooth routine as usual.

An informal supper was given at the home of Mary Meaux by the Ordnance Inspection Department, Group 6, in honor of Marie Donahue, who is leaving the service. Those attending besides the honored guest were Lorraine Barger, Margaret Carter, Kathryn Eberhart, Elizabeth Button, Edna Siekert, Gertrude Collins, Edythe Krzich, Robert Cretcher and Miss Meaux.

Dorothy Haag is back at work following a pleasant vacation with the folks back home. . . . Edna Siekert attended a baseball game at the Sox Park July 18. Mrs. Eberhart's son, Merle, was called to the colors and is stationed at Camp Haan, California, where he is attending school for radio communications in the Anti-Aircraft Artillery.

Vacations are 'in the news.' Supt. J. J. Fitzpatrick returned full of pep and reminiscences. Howard Gueller and Gilber Simmons are away. "Howie" went up into Wisconsin. "Slim" took his wife to Alton to stay for a visit, so he is "on the loose." Bill Baer says he 'did nothing, but rest and eat.' He did, however, admit to a trip to Chicago.

Best wishes go to Della Hinshaw who was married while on leave of absence.

Otis Wasson, former guard here, left for the Sea-Bees. He is a mechanics mate, first-class. His wife, Geneva Wasson, who is a matron at 20-A, has had a short vacation in order to spend the last few days of Otis' furlough with him.

Group 3-A had as a visitor Lt. Ormond K. Siron, son of William Siron of this group. Lt. Siron has received his wings as a bombardier pilot and is stationed at Salt Lake City with the Army Air Corps.

Another visitor who arrived just as this went to press is T/Sgt. William A. Fitzpatrick, son of John Fitzpatrick of this line. Sgt. Fitzpatrick is back from nine months in New Guinea with the 90th Bomb Group of the 5th Air Force. He is a tail gunner.

Doug Oram and Ollie Ehrsam play golf by moonlight.. They say it is easier to find lost positions, since the white golf ball shows up better.

During the absence of Mr. Gueller, Dan Palmer is acting as assistant superintendent.

Some of the girls surprised Amy Losby with a pot-luck lunch in honor of her birthday. The cake had 12 candles (unlit), but some think there should have been only 10!

In the "Dreams for After the War" Department comes Mary Rigoni's desire to spend about a year traveling abroad, visiting relatives she hasn't seen for years and years.

Steve Faletti is back from vacation. His visit at home and three squares a day of home-cooking put Steve "in the pink."

Congratulations are sent to the Emmett Slaters on the arrival of their new baby. The little tyke is going to be well supplied with vitamins, because Emmett is canning beans from his Victory garden by the bushel.

CIVILIAN DEPARTMENT HEADS of the War Department at EOP are shown here left to right: First row, Frederick G. Robinson, chief safety engineer; Helen J. Harmon, payroll chief; William F. Douville, chief inspector; Joseph P. Zagade, field auditor; Beatrice M. Berge, personnel chief; William R. Wright, advisory; second row: Stanley L. Eisler, chief of inspection statistics; Harry C. Gunchin, chief of procurements, invoices and material receiving; James Pavel, transportation auditor; Josephine Kush, chief of mail and records; Lewis S. Miner, chief of property; John F. Welch, assistant field auditor, and Daniel J. Considine, chief of payroll and time auditing. Frank L. Kadlec, fiscal chief, and W. J. Leeland, chief investigator, were not present.

E. L. WALKUP

Tennis players are requested to register at the Recreation Office for the tennis tournament. The tennis courts have been getting a heavy work-out during the last month. Whether you are considered a good player, or not, you should get into the tournament, it will improve your game and give you an opportunity to meet other players.

New horseshoe pitching courts are springing up around the plant, showing that this is getting to be a major sport. The latest spots developed are at Group 8, Group 9, Bus Transportation at Gate 19, and Group 1. Watch your bulletin boards for announcements regarding a tournament.

Another service of the Recreation Department is to assist you with plans for picnics. If you want to have a program of novelty races and events, or just want to borrow equipment, such as bats and balls, horseshoes, etc.; whether it is a large or small picnic, use this service.

Gardeners are reaping quite a harvest in the many Victory gardens right now. It has been learned that there are many real farmers who know how to make their gardens produce. Winners of the Victory garden contest cannot be announced yet, but some are going to find that their gardens produce more than vegetables within a few days.

Dorothy Williamson, Ruby Armbrusch, Mary Jane Fulton and Eleanor Peronciak of the Fuze & Booster area are regular visitors in the Recreation Department. Tuesday evenings finds the girls bowling, and tennis and archery are the major interests Thursday evenings.

Jo Donna, the champ of the women's ping pong tournament, was in to bid adieu before leaving for northern Wisconsin for a two-weeks vacation.

Group 1 Leads Girls' Softball League

Completion of the first round of the Girls' Softball League ended with Group 1 leading as undefeated victors with the Fuze & Booster team in second place.

Standings after the first round follow:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Group 1	4	0	1.000
Fuze & Booster	3	1	.750
Group 8	2	2	.500
Group 60	1	3	.250
Group 9	0	4	.000

In the first game of the second round of play, the Fuze & Booster girls came back strong after a 17 to 0 defeat from Group 1 and won from the Group 60 girls 12 to 9. The victors scored nine runs in the fourth inning to come from behind to win. Barbara Greenwood and Gertrude Freeman led the winners with two hits each.

Group 3 Wins First Softball League Round

Group 3 won the first round of the Men's Softball League by defeating Group 60, 6 to 5 in a thrilling game which was not decided until the last inning when Bob Hankes made a spectacular catch of Harold Troupe's line drive with men on second and third with two outs. The fielding of both teams was outstanding.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	R.	H.
Group 3	0	0	2	1	0	3	0	6	7
Group 60	0	0	1	1	2	0	1	5	5

Batteries: Group 60—Sheridan and Kusinski; Group 3—Cunningham and Juricic.

The Guards got off to a good start in the second round by defeating Group 60, 9 to 8. Group 3 defeated Fuze & Booster 14 to 5 in the first game of the second round and Group 70 was the winner over Group 1 by a score of 8 to 4.

Negro Workers Fill Important Places at EOP

Burns, Walsh Praise Efforts of Men and Women Employees

By Chastine C. Mason
Interviewer, Personnel Dept.

Since construction began, back in 1940, Negro workers have played an important part in the building and operational activities of the Elwood Ordnance Plant.

From the removal of the first shovel of dirt, to the driving of the last nail; from the digging of the first post hole to the stretching of the last length of wire; from the grading of the first railroad level to the driving of the last spike; from mid-December and its frigid winds to mid-August and its scorching sun, Negro workers toiled, labored, laughed and sang, conscious of the fact that a miracle in speedy construction was being performed—nobody grumbled, nobody complained. White men, black men, side by side working together, harmoniously with a spirit of retribution soon to be hurled across the seas at the common foe.

Thus EOP was born. Sanderson & Porter had broken all records for speedy construction and consistency of purpose.

Many Opportunities Offered

Elwood Ordnance Plant has offered many opportunities to Negro workers, both during construction and operations. Various types of jobs are daily performed in different sections of the plant—male laborers, explosives operators, truckers, storage men, janitors, window washers and clean-up men—female laborers, explosives operators, laundry workers, machine operators, janitresses and change-house matrons.

A vast sewing project is operated in connection with the Laundry Department where more than 75 per cent of the power machine operators are women and girls of the Negro race. Negro floorladies assist in supervising the work.

"Our power sewing machines are being successfully and skillfully handled by these efficient operators," said F. P. Walsh, superintendent of the Laundry Department. Thousands of work-uniforms utilized throughout the plant are kept in repair by these Negro girls. Said one machine operator to another, "I may never get the chance to shoot a bullet at Hitler, but I can sew h—l out of him."

Renovation Work Progresses

Renovation of inert fuze and booster components is being carried on in Group 45 by a staff of Negro workers under the direct supervision of Supt. William Blonske and Bea McQuarry, operational foreman. Frank Carter and Howard Owings are the assistant foremen of the group.

"Actual machine operations, cleaning, recutting and renovating of these inert parts are expertly carried on by this efficient group of Negro workers and splendid results are shown in this reclamation project at a surprisingly low cost," said T. M. Burns, general superintendent of Fuze & Booster area. "One year ago," added Mr. Burns, "these colored boys had no knowledge of machine operations and the use of precision instruments whatsoever. Today they are turning out a fine class of work that anyone would be proud of."

Other groups of Negro workers are employed throughout the plant, including Inert Storage Groups 62, 63, 64, 68 and 27. Workers on the loading lines are found in Groups 1 and 3. Representatives of the Negro race are also found in the Material Warehouse division with J. T. Baldon, who has been employed by Sanderson & Porter since the beginning of construction, acting as warehouse supervisor.

EOP has always enjoyed a friendly spirit of racial tolerance between race groups throughout the plant. Frictions of magnitude are unknown and the embryo has never been tolerated. All public facilities of the plant including canteens, cafeterias, change houses, rest-rooms, etc., are open to all employees, regardless of race, color or creed.

Red Cross Organizes Class for EOP Swimmers

Swimmers who would like to take the Red Cross lifesaving and water safety tests are asked to get in touch with the Recreation Department at once.

Wilomene Hammel of the Joliet Red Cross is organizing a class for EOP employees to start August 2 and end August 11. Any man or girl who is in good physical condition, able to swim 220 yards, float, tread water 1 minute, may enter, and at the completion of the course will be given a certificate and a badge.

All classes will start at 6 in the evening and the pool will be given over to this group alone. Nowell Park pool will be used, and you may register at the pool or with the Recreation Department.

Workers Are Urged To Attend Song Service

Employees of EOP are invited to attend a weekly religious song service and meeting, sponsored by the YMCA, at the Joliet "Y" Building at 8 o'clock each Wednesday evening. An inspirational program of music and fellowship talks is arranged, according to C. E. Taylor, chairman of the Joliet Gospel Team.

Emergency Calls

To report a fire . . . . . Dial 17
To call police . . . . . Dial 2229
To call ambulance
(emergency only) . . Dial 4262

Report the nature of the emergency. Be prepared to answer all questions a doctor may ask. He has good reasons for asking these—in order that he may come prepared with the necessary equipment.

NEGRO WORKERS CONTRIBUTE their share to the war effort in various EOP departments. This scene shows some of them at important tasks in Group 45, Fuze & Booster Area. Pictured left to right are: Front row: Robert Morris, George Peacher, Ben Gavin and Inspector Walter Gable; back row: Martin Wilkerson; Walter Dillard, Howard Owings, William Pinnick, Joe Carter, Benjamin Carter, William Blonske, superintendent, Group 45, and Bea McQuarrey, foreman.

CHILDREN OF EOP WORKERS are shown here as they assembled after a session of the Vacation Church School conducted by the Wilmington Presbyterian Church, the Rev. L. H. Knight, pastor. Three head teachers were employed by the denomination in New York to conduct the school, which includes handicraft projects, and they are assisted by 20 local teachers. J. Frederick Speer, shown at extreme right, was employed to serve the war workers of this area in this and similar undertakings.
